NEAR BLIZZARD HAS SWOOPED DOWN UPON THE CENTRAL STATES

Chicago Gets Heavy Snow and Driving Wind From the West.

Iowa and Nebraska Traffic Suffers Severely—Storm Moving East.

Chicago, March 15.—A snowstorm amounting almost to a blizzard raged here throughout last night and still continues with the prediction from the weather bureau that it will last throughout the day with falling temperature.

The snow came in with a driving west wind yesterday at noon and street car companies since have had sweepers running on their lines with intervals of about twenty minutes. Early today it was impossible for one to see more than 100 yards ahead in the street.

Street, steam and elevated railways were compelled to move their traffic with especial care during the rush hours of the morning. No serious accidents were reported during the early hours.

Telegraph companies became distressed. It was reported by them that the worst condition of the winter prevailed.

The snow was wet and heavy, making conditions underfoot miserable.

STEAMER INDIANA CAUGHT IN ICE

Is Caught 1,000 Feet Southeast of Racine Breakwater.

Racine, Wis., March 15.—The steamer Indiana, which was lodged fast in a huge windrow of ice in the lake yesterday afternoon, remains fast in the floe today. The boat lies about 1,000 feet southeast of the harbor breakwater. Capt. Wilson of the steamer stated today that the boat is in no immediate danger, and that she will be forced to await a change in the wind before she can release herself. There are no passengers aboard.

SETTER PUPS STUDENTS AT KANSAS UNIVERSITY.

Lawrence, Kan., March 15.—Three setter pups are enrolled as students at the University of Kansas. They took their place in a class with a maltese cat and a bulldog. Prof. E. C. Dockeray will try to prove in the class whether the animals can learn and think. He will conduct experiments, covering several weeks.

GET AWAY IN HEAVY SNOW

Convicts Who Murdered Nebraska Prison Officers Not Found.

Militia Is Put on Guard Duty in the Penitentiary.

Lincoln, Neb., March 15.—The three state prison convicts who murdered Warden Delahunty, Deputy Warden Wagner and Usher Hielman yesterday afternoon still are at large. Since the time they plunged into a whirling snow storm after shooting down the men who stood between them and liberty, the only clew obtained as to their whereabouts was a report that they had been seen entering a haystack southeast of the city.

A posse led by Sheriff Hyers and City Detective Schmitt hurried to the spot and surrounded the stack. Knowing the men were armed, they crept slowly upon the place and finally rushed it, only to find no one there.

Horses had given out in the race through snow which came up to their bodies, and were left with neighboring the men were armed, they crept the snow to the railroad a mile away, and exhausted by their exertions, waited for the arrival of a special engine which brought them back to the city.

Posse Is Waiting.

Since that time a posse has been kept on hand at the sheriff's office, but not a word has been reported as to the whereabouts of the escaped criminals.

Strict orders have been given to

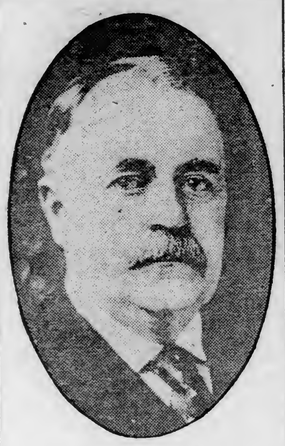
SUGAR MAGNATE IS HELPING PROSECUTION



THOMAS B. HARNED
Of Philadelphia.

VOTES TO ABOLISH COMMERCE COURT.

Washington, March 15.—The house committee on interstate commerce decided today to report favorably the Sims bill, which would abolish the court of commerce. The vote in committee was 11 to 8.

FREE SUGAR VOTE NEAR

House Takes Up Final Consideration Under Five Minute Rule.

Long Speeches Are Forbidden But Will Appear in the Record.

Washington, March 15.—Final consideration of the free sugar bill began in the house today, Chairman Underwood of the ways and means committee having determined to hold the session until the bill is placed upon its passage.

Though many of the Democrats opposed to free sugar, who had planned to make long speeches against the bill, have been cut off from delivering them, all have been granted the privilege to extend their remarks in the records. Under the five minutes' rule in vogue today all will get a chance to introduce their remarks and a long session is expected. Many attempts to amend the bill will be made and a vote will not be reached until after nightfall.

GRACE ASKS TO SEE THE PAPERS

Wounded Man Does Not Worry Over Prospect of Non-Recovery.

Atlanta, Ga., March 15.—Eugene H. Grace, said to be dying from a wound caused by a bullet he declares his wife fired, refused to make much ado about his condition. After physicians declared yesterday afternoon that there was no hope for recovery, Grace emerged from a stupor, asked to be moved about in bed and then called for the newspapers which declared he was "on the grave's brink."

Mrs. Daisy Obie Grace, who was the widow of Webster Obie, a wealthy man of Philadelphia, remains in jail. While exhibiting extreme concern over her husband's condition, she declares she is innocent. It is doubtful whether she will be allowed to see him again unless he recovers.

GRAIN MEN TALK BEFORE SENATORS

Washington, March 15.—Grain dealers of Chicago, Baltimore, Minneapolis, Toledo and other cities today appeared before the senate interstate commerce committee in behalf of legislation to make railroads liable on bills of lading.

Robert McDougall, representing himself and the Chicago board of trade, said that about a year ago his firm advanced $212,000 on grain bills of lading which had no grain behind them. He urged this as an illustration of the need of legislation.

TESTIFIES FOR STATE

Sugar Magnate Becomes Star Witness for the Prosecution.

Harned May Reveal Points Covered By Missing Documents.

New York, March 15.—Many points covered by missing documents in the government's suit against four former officers, directors and agents of the American Sugar Refining company for alleged violation of the criminal clause of the anti-trust law are expected to be written into the record through the testimony of Thomas B. Harned, who was scheduled to take the witness stand again today.

Mr. Harned's sudden transition from a defendant to a star witness for the district attorney followed the revelation that many of the papers sought by the government had disappeared.

It was expected that counsel for the defense would make strenuous efforts for a continuance of the examination of Mr. Harned.

On motion of District Attorney Wise, Judge Hand yesterday afternoon quashed the indictment against Harned, who was on trial with John E. Parsons and others. The government had the indictment quashed so that Mr. Harned could be called as a witness.

TELLS OF ATTACK BY THE CHINESE

Wife of Missionary Reaches San Francisco With Party of Refugees.

San Francisco, Cal., March 15.—Four families of missionaries who arrived from the Orient yesterday on the liner Chi Yo Maru today described additional details of disorder and rioting in the interior of China.

Mrs. Frederick Mendenhall told of having been attacked by a mob as she was being carried into a village called Yuen Hsien in a sedan chair.

"The chair was surrounded by Chinese, who howled like fiends," she said. "My coolies had jogged on ahead of the party and I was defenseless. I held off the rioters until help came.

"At one stage of our flight to the coast the party was attacked by rebels and fired upon several times. They thought that Tuan Fang, an imperialist leader, was in the party in disguise.

Other missionaries returning on the Chi Yo Maru were James Neaves, wife and five children; Mrs. H. G. Waters and two children and Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Grossbeck and two children.

NOTED GERMAN AVIATOR KILLED.

Berlin, March 15.—Herr Witte, who took a prominent part in the last Berlin aviation meet at Johannisthal, was killed today while making a flight in the vicinity of the suburb of Teltow. His biplane collapsed and fell, killing him instantly.

TARIFF BOARD REPORT ON COTTON FINISHED.

Washington, March 15.—A summary of the tariff board's investigation of the cotton schedule was laid before President Taft today. It is possible the president will begin writing his message on cotton at once. It may be sent to congress next week.

Will Work to Get Federal Health Bureau—No Explanation Given.

Washington, March 15.—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief of the United States bureau of chemistry, today handed his resignation to Secretary of Agriculture Wilson and announced that he would devote the rest of his life to urging the creation of a national health department, entirely separate from any other branch of the government service. The resignation became effective today.

Dr. Wiley said he had a number of offers under consideration. One is from a lecture bureau and others are of an editorial and commercial nature. He declared positively that he would not enter business. Already he has agreed to deliver a series of lectures in Kansas and Colorado and at various points in the East.

Has Had Enough of Office.

Asked whether he would be a candidate for head of the proposed federal health department for which he announced he was going to work, he declared that he would not be, that he had held all the government positions he cared to fill.

President Taft today sent telegrams broadcast to the heads of universities and colleges throughout the country asking them to recommend a successor to Dr. Wiley. The president said he hoped in this way to get a concensus of opinion as to the best and most available chemist.

Dr. Wiley's resignation came as a dramatic climax to a long conference he had wtih Secretary Wilson in the latter's private office today.

The secretary would make no statement of the case other than that Dr. Wiley had handed in his resignation. No reasons were given, he said, nor

GETS $250,000 FOR BEING KIND

California Woman Bequeathed Whole Estate of Wisconsin Man.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 15.—Mrs. Charles Thomas of Los Angeles was notified formally today that her uncle, P. J. Barnet of Bloomington, Wis., had died and willed his entire estate, valued at $250,000, to her because she had been kind to him.

Mrs. Thomas said she heard several years ago that her uncle was ill, and that because of family differences he was receiving but little care. She said she went to Bloomington, paying her own expenses, and nursed Barnet back to health.

CEMENT USERS HEAR SIMS OF WORTHINGTON.

Kansas City, Mo., March 15.—Gustave Kaufman, a Brooklyn, N. Y., engineer, was scheduled to make the principal address at today's session of the convention of the National Association of Cement Users, which will close a week's meeting here tomorrow. Other speakers on the program were A. Marsten, dean of the school of engineering in the Iowa State college at Ames; Charles T. Sims of Worthington, Minn., and Duff A. Abrams, an assistant professor in the University of Illinois.

FEELING IN MICHIGAN

Abbot Finds Little Real Roosevelt Sentiment Among People.

Expressions of Regret That He Should Run at This Time.

(By Willis J. Abbot.)

Washington, March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Political sentiment at the capital veers quickly. In fact it is the most untrustworthy, though the most interesting sentiment in the country. For example, you can hear more about Roosevelt and his nomination in the corridors of either of the political hotels, the Willard or Congress hall, than you can in any place where people gather in Chicago. And the same proposition applies to the leading candidate of the moment on the Democratic side—Champ Clark.

During the recent hurried trip through Michigan I was amazed to find how little real Roosevelt sentiment was expressed by people who talked politics. The "average man," if you can average him, seemed to me emphatically against the colonel. Politicians who are among the "outs" talked for him. In places where one

La Crosse, Wis., March 15.—Frank Gallup, oldest teacher in Wisconsin in point of service, died at Galesville, Wis., Thursday. He was teaching his seventy-fifth term when stricken.

MURDERERS NOT TRACED

Virginia Gang That Shot Up Court Has Not Been Captured.

Hillsville, Va., March 15.—Little or no headway had been made early today towards the capture of the mountaineer desperadoes who yesterday "shot up" the Carroll county circuit court, killing Judge Massie, Commonwealth's Attorney Foster and Sheriff "Lew" Webb.

A semblance of order followed the arrival this morning of twenty private detectives all heavily armed and under temporary command as state officers.

One of their first acts was to take into custody Floyd Allen, who was wounded in the court room fighting yesterday and left behind by his brothers. As he was being locked up Allen attempted suicide by cutting his throat with a pocket knife. He was disarmed before he could accomplish his purpose.

It was the sentencing of Floyd Allen to one year in jail by Judge Massie yesterday that started the fusilade of his avenging clan. He had been found guilty of assisting a county prisoner to escape.

Wait For Reinforcements.

No attempt at an organized search for Sidney and Jack Allen and their associates had been undertaken up to noon today, the detectives here waiting for reinforcements to arrive.

It was reported here that the Allen brothers and their followers had crossed the North Carolina line to Mount Airy, where they are said to

SENATE.

In session, 2 p. m.

Vice President Schwerin of Pacific Mail Steamship company opposed before interstate commerce committee the Bristow bill to prohibit railroads from having any interest in steamship companies.

HOUSE.

Met at noon.

Debate on free sugar bill resumed.

Representative Sabath introduced another workmen's compensation bill and attacked bill recommended by employers' liability commission.

Committee on interstate commerce decided to favor Sims bill to abolish commerce court.

Another Deadlock Is Reached in Effort to Settle British Trouble.

Troops Are Being Sent to Cut Down Forests for Fuel Supply.

New York, March 15.—"All negotiations with the anthracite coal operators are off," declared John P. White, president of the United Mine Workers of America, at the adjournment of this afternoon's meeting between the miners and operators in which the miners declined the operators' counter-proposition.

"I look for a general suspension of work on April 1," he added.

The committee of anthracite mine workers this morning made final inspection of the completed answer to the reply of the anthracite coal operators refusing their demands for an increase in wages, recognition of the union and other conditions, and declared its readiness for submission at the joint meeting of operators and miners this afternoon.

The answer contained no counter-proposition to the operators, but took up point by point the already refused demands and gives the detailed reasons for making them.

Meanwhile the bituminous operators

ROW OVER DOLLAR LEADS TO MURDER

Chicago Man Kicks Another to Death and Leaves Body in Snow.

Chicago, March 15.—A dispute over a debt of $1 led to the slaying of Paul Palkowski, 28 years old, by Joseph Kolimago, alias Smith, in a West side boarding house early today.

They became involved in a fight over the money and Palkowski was knocked down and kicked about the head and face until he was unconscious. The slayer then dragged his victim out of the house and threw him on top of a pile of snow, where the body was later found. Kolimago was arrested.

DYED RATS THE LATEST MUNICIPAL EXPERIMENT.

Seattle, Wash., March 15.—Seeing blue, red or green rats is no longer to be a sign of inebriation in Seattle. The city health department yesterday liberated twenty-five dyed rats and put a $2 price on the head of every one of them. The experiment is made to trace the course of the annual spring migrations of rodents in the city.

OKLAHOMA FOR TEDDY

One Delegate Dies of Excitement—Clark Wins in Kansas.

Guthrie, Okla., March 15.—At the end of an all-night session, the Republican state convention of Oklahoma voted to send a solid delegation of ten men instructed for Theodore Roosevelt to the Chicago convention.

Taft workers employed every tactic to get in a commanding voice in the proceedings. Outnumbered almost two to one, they failed.

Just at the close of the arduous work, one delegate dropped dead. He was S. S. Denison of Lexington. Excitement resulted in apoplexy.

Priestley on Committee.

The national committeemanship went to George C. Priestley of Bartlesville, Okla., a Roosevelt man. State Chairman James A. Harris, a Taft leader, although he failed to win as national committeeman, retained his seat as state chairman.

Charles Hunter, whose resignation from the office of federal district clerk was requested Wednesday by United States Judge John H. Cotteral, held the convention stage early today, declaring that if his advocacy of Roosevelt "cost him his job," he would willingly sacrifice his position.

TEACHERS SPEND MORNING INSPECTING CITY SCHOOLS

Work of School Physician Demonstrated to the Delegates.

First General Session of Convention Held at Central High School.

The many teachers in the city for the purpose of attending the meetings of the Educational Association of Northeastern Minnesota were scattered about the city this morning visiting the different schools.

The teachers visited the schools at which they found the particular branch of work in which they were most interested.

A large number of Superior teachers availed themselves of the opportunity to visit the Duluth schools and at each one of the buildings there was a large delegation eager to watch the Duluth system of instruction in operation.

The feature of the morning which drew the largest attendance, was the practical demonstration of medical inspection conducted by Dr. Weum at the Washington school.

Dr. Weum is one of the inspecting physicians employed by the school board, and he explained by practical demonstrations the different diseases, their causes, results, and the method of treating each.

A number of pupils from the grade school were brought into the office and as each child presented some different symptom, the physician was able to show and tell what should be done in each case.

large tonsils, adenoids, defective vision, defective teeth, signs of tuberculosis, signs of heart trouble and signs of lung trouble were demonstrated and the teachers were told what should be done for children suffering different ailments.

Dentist is Needed.

Dr. Weum emphasized the need of a dentist for work among the school children. He stated that many people are negligent in the matter of having the teeth of their children attended to. He said that it seemed like an unimportant matter but that the suffering is sometimes great for the child and he is retarded in his work as a result.

The doctor explained that when a first tooth is very loose, the examining physician sometimes takes it out by a gentle pressure and thus relieves the child of his suffering and gives the new tooth a chance to come in straight.

"From 50 to 80 per cent of the children have defective teeth," said Dr. Weum, "and the need of a dentist to work with the examining physicians is evidenced every day."

Some time ago it was stated that at a meeting of the local dental society, the matter was brought up and the dentists offered to help out with no charge if the board would furnish a chair. Nothing definite was decided upon by the board, but it is very likely that a dentist will be employed next year.

Dr. Weum's demonstration this morning was largely along the lines of defective vision, throat trouble, and demonstrating simple ways of making examinations.

In cases where it is suspected that the child has tuberculosis, he is given a thorough test. This is also done for lung and heart trouble. Unless signs of these diseases are apparent, the child is subjected only to an examination of the throat, eyes and teeth.

Doctors Schroeder, Weston and Weum comprise the board of examining physicians. Three nurses are also employed. Dr. Schroeder conducted a demonstration at the Jackson school along the same lines as that conducted by Dr. Weum.

Many Parents Object.

Dr. Weum stated that in some cases the parents of the children object to the examination of their child and the recommendations that are made to the parents for the care of the pupil, but he stated that the great majority seemed to appreciate the interest that is being taken by the school authorities and are grateful for having had the matter called to their attention.

In some of the charity cases the Associated Charities furnishes glasses for those who cannot afford to purchase them. The demonstration seemed to be very interesting to the teachers who interrupted at times to ask questions as to what course to take in different cases.

Dr. Weum showed how the record of each case is kept and how improvement or other conditions are noted. The system is thorough and many of the teachers remarked on the fact that Duluth seems to be ahead of other cities in the matter of medical inspection for school children.

Cases with which the doctor was acquainted were brought in for demonstration purposes and by the pupils was shown cases of nose, throat, ear and other common troubles.

First General Session.

This afternoon the teachers gathered at the assembly hall of the high school for the first general session of the conference.

C. W. Thompson of the University of Minnesota spoke on "Health, Growth and Guidance." Miss Isabel Lawrence of the St. Cloud normal spoke on "The Spirit of the Montessori Method." "The Public School as a Social Center," was the subject taken by Edward J. Ward of the University of Wisconsin.

Following the session there was an athletic conference of which H. E. Flynn was chairman.

At the beginning of the afternoon session a delightful program was rendered by the high school orchestra, which is under the direction of D. W. Hiestand.

The children of the Jefferson and Endion schools rendered several delightful little songs at the musical program which preceded the meeting of the teachers this afternoon.

This evening a session will be held at the high school assembly hall at which C. P. Colgrove of the Iowa State Teachers' college will speak on "The Educational Equation." Miss Maude E. Mattson will sing.

There are, as was expected, fully 1,000 teachers here for the meetings.

Sectional meetings will be held in the Central high school tomorrow morning and the convention will close with a general session at 10:30. Edward C. Elliott of the University of Wisconsin will speak on "The Measure of Teaching Efficiency."

WEATHER—Generally cloudy tonight and Saturday; lowest temperature about 10 above; warmer Saturday.

County Treasurer Reports Heavy Collection of Personal Property Taxes.

May 30 Last Day for Paying Half of Real Estate Taxes.

St. Louis county's delinquent personal property tax list will probably not be as large this year as last, according to County Treasurer Holgate. Up to date, current taxes to the amount of $534,766.47 on personal property and real estate and $20,873.93 on "money and credits" have been received by the county treasurer.

Last year there was no item of "money and credits." Such assets as these were then taxable as personal property and it was by an enactment of a law recently passed by the state legislature that a special classification of the item was made. The rate is 3 mills and has been uniformly established throughout the state.

The current taxes for 1910 which had been collected at this time last year amounted to $509,608.49. Adding to the 1911 figure the item of "money and credits," a total of $565,630.40 is reached. This makes an increase of $56,021.91 in the amount of money collected as taxes by the county treasurer in 1912 over 1911.

Money and Credits Assessed.

The "money and credits" item for St. Louis county is based on valuation of $11,196,055, which is the amount of money and open accounts of individuals and firms assessed in this county for 1911. Under the uniform rate of 3 mills, the total levy for "money and credits" is $33,588.20. Of this amount all but $2,714.27 has been collected.

Of the amount of $534,766.47 collected in taxes, exclusive of "money and credit," the major portion is on personal property tax assessments. The last day for the payment of personal property taxes was Feb. 29. The large bulk of the assessments were paid before that time.

Between now and May 30 one-half of the real estate taxes for 1911 may be paid without penalty. The date ofr the payment of the other half without an added penalty is Oct. 31. Most of the taxes are paid under this system, and taxpayers have fallen into the habit of waiting until May before payingn the first half of their real estate tax and until October before paying the balance.

The delinquent personal property tax list will be turned over to J. P. Johnson, clerk of the district court, about April 1, and as soon afterwards as possible warrants will be issued authorizing the sheriff to make a collection of the taxes. After the sheriff's returns are in, the rest of the delinquent list will be turned over to the county commissioners. The county commissioners will go over the list and judgments will be entered against those who have not paid the tax.

DELIVERY TO BE PROMPT

Better Mail Service Between Duluth and Winnipeg Is Secured.

Many months of effort on the part of the traffic commission of the Duluth Commercial club has resulted in success in obtaining improved mail service between Duluth and Winnipeg.

Traffic Commissioner G. Roy Hall this morning received a notice from the superintendent of the railway mail service that beginning Sunday evening, March 17, direct mail service between Duluth and Winnipeg will be instituted over the Canadian Northern railroad.

The previous service has been very unsatisfactory to Duluth business men. There is a large volume of mail business between Duluth and the Canadian city and great inconvenience resulted from the fact that letters often required two days for transmission from Winnipeg to Duluth. The traffic commission took the matter up some time ago but encountered many obstacles in its efforts to have a through service inaugurated. Persistence won.

Mail leaving Duluth at 7:10 in the evening, will arrive in Winnipeg in the morning and be delivered that day. Heretofore at least one day has intervened between mailing and delivery.

ADDITION TO HOLLAND HOTEL IS COMPLETED.

Yesterday the contract of construction on the new Holland hotel was completed and the carpenters and other workmen taken off the job. The eighth floor of the hotel was last night opened to patrons and it is announced that the two remaining floors of the building will be ready for the use of guests within less than a month. The work of furnishing the two remaining floors of the hotel began today.

EXPECT 80,000 IMMIGRANTS

"Western Canada will receive in the neighborhood of 80,000 immigrants this season," said Mr. Tenny. "This will be the biggest year ever known in the history of Western Canada, and we have known some wonderful records to be made up there.

"We are not growing by decades, as most other states, cities or even countries figure their population. Our growth is from month to month, or year to year. There is no country in the world growing like Western Canade. Winnipeg is a large city that is assuming metropolitan airs, but within a few years there will be a string of large cities dotting the Western Canadian prairies.

"Calgary is today a city of some 65,000 people, Edmonton is rapidly becoming a large and prosperous city. Lethbridge, Moose Jaw and Regina are growing so fast that it will not be very long before they are in the class of real cities. You people down here do not realize how fast the country is growing, and with the immensity of growth the large towns are maturing into cities.

"With all this growth and development of the past, the real growth of Western Canada has just really started. Western Canada is in the infancy of its development and the next decade, judging by the conditions of the present, will show a growth that is going to open the eyes of the United States."

All visitors to the Northeastern Minnesota Educational Association's Convention are cordially invited to make this store their headquarters during their stay in the city.

W. C. WINTON DIES IN WEST

Well Known Duluth Lumberman Passes Away in Los Angeles.

Victim of Typhoid-Pneumonia —Funeral Here Next Wednesday.

W. C. Winton, 44 years of age, one of the most prominent lumbermen and dealers in timber lands in Duluth, died yesterday at Los Angeles, Cal., of typhoid pneumonia, after an illness of about two weeks. Mrs. Winton, who is a daughter of S. G. Knox, was with him at the time of his death, having left for Los Angeles about ten days ago upon receiving word of her husband's serious illness.

Until eleven years ago Mr. Winton was actively engaged in the lumbering business in this section of the country, being associated with Mr. Knox in the Knox Lumber company. They operated on a large scale at Winton, on Fall lake on the Vermilion range, the village being named for Mr. Winton. They sold out eleven years ago to the St. Croix Lumber company, which was controlled by Stillwater people and which was absorbed by the Hines interests about two years ago.

Since that time Mr. Winton has been interested in timber lands in the South, together with other Northern capitalists who have invested in the Southern field. He has been making his home in Duluth at 1511 East First street and maintained an office in the Palladio building with Mr. Knox.

Mr. Winton was born at Addison, N. Y., where his father, the late David Winton, was a well known banker. His mother and sister, Mrs. McVitty, are now at Salem, Mass. Three brothers, Charles, David, and Maynard Winton are residing at Minneapolis. Mr Winton also leaves his widow and three children, Knox, Frances and Mary Winton.

During his residence here Mr. Winton took an active interest in the Y. M. C. A. He was a leading member of the First Presbyterian church and a prominent Mason.

The body will be brought to Duluth and it is thought that it will reach here next Wednesday, accompanied by Mrs. Winton. The funeral arrangements will be announced at that time

The storm is due to reach the eastern seaboard tonight.

SPORTS

Through the day the railroads fought to keep their trains running. Eastern roads declared they had comparatively little trouble. West of the Mississippi schedules practically were lost sight of.

Snow All West of Missouri.

The condition of the roads was indicated in a statement made by officials of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad.

"East of the Missouri," said the statement, "conditions are not so bad as west. The snow is not so deep, nor is it as cold. All west of the Missouri is snow.

"We expect to have trains running from St. Joseph to Denver and from Omaha to Denver by noon.

"All Denver to Chicago trains will be delayed from three to twenty-four hours. The Denver limited, due last night, will not arrive much before midnight tonight.

"Trains on the Kansas City line are about three and a half hours late and Omaha trains nearly as late. Trains from St. Paul practically are on time."

The weather bureau announced that the storm was centering over Ohio in the morning and traveling east.

Iowa Trains Late.

Des Moines, Ia., March 15.—Incoming trains from the West were several hours behind schedule early today as a result of the blizzard which swept Iowa and Nebraska last night.

Two fast trains on the Rock Island from Denver were held up several hours near Council Bluffs and two westbound trains were unable to leave Des Moines.

A strong wind piled the snow in huge drifts. Railroad officials say conditions are somewhat improved and hope to be able to return to schedule time within a few hours.

Fifty Trains Tied Up.

Omaha, Neb., March 15.—About fifty passenger trains were tied up last night in Nebraska, Kansas and Colorado by the worst storm which for years has visited the prairie country. The Northwestern is the worst hit road. Not a wheel was turning west of the Missouri on that road. The Deadwood train has been in a drift near Fremont, Neb., since Wednesday.

The Rock Island is completely tied up near Belleville, Kan., and no trains can pass either way.

The Burlington is almost in as bad shape, six through trains being blockaded near Akron, Colo.

Record Snowfall.

In Sioux City, Des Moines, Lincoln and other surrounding cities, the storm was worse. Mails were badly delayed because of trains arriving late. The Union Pacific was the only line whose trains from the West arrived near their scheduled time.

The snowfall here during the last month has broken all records of the weather bureau. The fall has exceeded seventeen inches in the past week.

Snowslide Kills Four.

Telluride, Colo., March 15.—Four men are dead, several are missing and one man was seriously injured as the result of a snowslide that swept down at noon yesterday on the Black Bear mine near here. The slide carried away the mine buildings and four miners were caught in the ruins.

ALL NEGOTIATIONS IN MINERS' DISPUTE ARE OFF, SAYS WHITE

Deadlock in Britain.

London, March 15.—Another deadlock has been reached in the negotiations for a settlement of the strike that is paralyzing industry throughout the United Kingdom, but Premier Asquith strenuously is endeavoring to bring the parties together.

Representatives of the miners and mine owners were at the foreign office in the afternoon but did not meet in conference. Premier Asquith and several of his cabinet colleagues consulted with the miners, but at the luncheon hour nothing had been accomplished.

Sir Hugh Bell, a leading colliery owner and iron master, said at noon: "We are not getting on at all."

The unemployed, who number more than 2,000,000 men, are receiving daily additions to their ranks. In many instances their families are without resources, while others are limited to the small amount of strike pay allotted by the trade unions.

Men Are Discontented.

There can be no question that a feeling of discontent is growing among the miners. From many districts come evidences of the growing desire of the miners to return to work, more particularly among the non-unionists who are not receiving strike pay.

Further extensive restrictions of the railroad service were put in force today and the London and Northwestern and the Great Eastern railroad companies are having their locomotives fitted for the burning of oil.

In many places the street lamps no longer are lighted. Even in the city of Birmingham the municipality was obliged to cut off 7,000 street lamps last night.

The shortage of coal is such that the military authorities have started the troops to fell trees in Woolmer forest to provide fuel for the military camp at Bordon in Hampshire.

NILES CASE MAY BE DISMISSED

Attorney Complains of Long Delay in Trial of Case.

De Coursey F. Niles, charged with embezzlement by an indictment of the November grand jury, may not be tried and the action against him may be thrown out of court.

County Attorney John H. Norton was yesterday afternoon served by Attorney B. M. Goldberg with an order signed by Judge Ensign which requires the state of Minnesota to show cause why the action brought against Niles should not be dismissed for the reason that two terms have elapsed since the finding of the indictments and without any trial.

The order requires the county attorney to appear in court Saturday morning, when a hearing will be held before Judge Ensign on the motion to dismiss.

Niles is in the county jail. He has not been able to secure new bondsmen, one of his first bondsmen withdrawing a few days ago.

train crews to keep a sharp lookout for suspects. Burlington trains are carrying armed detectives. The men are thought to have taken to the railroad tracks, probably following the Nebraska City branch of the Burlington, which leads towards Kansas City, the place for which the men are believed to be headed.

They cannot make much headway except on the tracks, as the roads are waist deep in unbroken drifts of snow. The men were scantily clothed and must have suffered severely from the cold after their exertions in breaking through the snow. It is thought they sought shelter in some barn during the night, as it was impossible for them to have made much headway through the drifts.

Will Shoot on Sight.

Orders have been sent to the sheriffs in surrounding counties and all the constables of the various townships to keep on the watch. The orders are to shoot on sight, as the men are known to be desperate and it is certain they will not be captured alive. A murderous fight is expected if the men are run down.

At the prison this morning conditions are quiet. Gen. Phelps, head of the state national guard, is in command, with fifty guardsmen under arms with him.

The guardsmen walk guard both within and outside the walls. The prisoners were fed in their cells last night and this morning. It was announced that work in the shops would be commenced this afternoon.

The men who worked in shops "A" and west "A," from which the three fugitives escaped, are in a sullen mood. When they were taken to their cells yesterday afternoon they manifested their pleasure at the escape of their comrades by whooping and yelling. It was necessary to place several of them in the "solitary."

Careful watch is being given particularly to Convicts Forbes and Evans, who were in the same crowd with the escaped men, but who were unable to make their way from the workshops yesterday.

The killing was done by Convicts Morley, Taylor and Dowd, all of whom were sentenced for bank robbery. Morley had previously served in Missouri for murder.

The murderers, after blowing off the lock of the first steel door which leads into the house entrance of the prison, rushed the turnkey at the point of a gun, forced him to unlock another door, took his keys and let themselves out into the main corridor. Before the men let themselves out they had shot Warden Delahunty and Usher Heilman by shooting through the barred doors at the two men, who rushed out of their offices into the main corridor when the first shots were heard.

It is not known where the convicts got the guns with which they committed the murders, but it is believed they were smuggled in from the outside by former prisoners.

The outbreak is believed to be the outcome of a spirit of unrest that has been prevalent among the convicts for over a month.

The convention indorsed the preferential primary plan.

Two for Taft.

Creston, Iowa, March 15.—Eighth district delegates to the Republican national convention are A. B. Turner, Jr., Corning, Iowa; E. E. Bamford, Centerville, Iowa. Instructed for Taft.

Clark Wins in Kansas.

Hutchinson, Kan., March 15.—Kansas Democrats have joined hands with those of their sister state, Missouri, in support of the candidacy of Champ Clark for the Democratic nomination for president. The Democratic state convention, after rejecting by a vote of 310 to 283 a plank introduced by the supporters of Governor Woodrow Wilson declaring for an uninstructed delegation, unanimously adopted a resolution instructing the Kansas delegation to the national convention at Baltimore to cast the twenty voes of the state for Clark. If it becomes evident that Clark cannot be nominated, the delegates will cast their votes for Governor Wilson as second choice.

Statement by McKinley.

Washington, March 15.—As a result of general inquiries by Director McKinley, the Taft headquarters has given out nearly a score of reports to show growing Taft sentiment throughout hotly contested states.

Senator Dixon, manager of the Roosevelt campaign, engineered for the newspaper men a personal interview with Governor Glasscock of West Virginia; Governor Glasscock gave out a statement that Mr. Dixon had written, conveying Governor Glasscock's opinion that "in his political experience he has never yet seen a more determined uprising of the rank and file of the Republican party than is the present situation for Roosevelt."

Gifford Pinchot, Representative Wilson of Illinois, Governor Glasscock and O. K. Davis, the new assistant manager of the Roosevelt campaign, offered emphatic expressions of their confidence in the increasing tide of Roosevelt sentiment.

Both Publish Charges.

The telegram of Governor Stubbs to President Taft, charging federal officeholders in Kansas with political activity, was reproduced for general circulation by the Roosevelt mimeographs, while Representative Anthony's telegram making a counter-charge against the activities of Governor Stubbs' state office-holders was circulated by the Taft headquarters and was made public at the White House.

A telegram from Harry S. New of Indianapolis, chairman of the Republican national committee, made public by the Taft campaign committee, said that the "Roosevelt sentiment is palpably on the wane in Indiana" and that President Taft would probably secure the four delegates-at-large there, as well as most of the district delegates.

A counter statement from the Roosevelt managers charged that the "Taft machine" in Indiana, "bossed now by 'Ex-Senator Hemenway,' is trying by early conventions "to throttle any expression of sentiment by Republican voters of Indiana, and to thwart their desire to participate in the selection of their presidential candidate."

have raided a hardware store and obtained a new supply of arms and ammunition. There is little thought that the outlaws will be taken alive, and it may be days before a well-directed force is on their trail.

The assassins of yesterday wiped out all the law officers of the county seat and left matters in confusion. Outside help did not reach Hillsville until early today, the mountain roads leading from the nearest railroad station, ten miles away, being well nigh impassable on account of the spring rains.

State Officers in Charge.

State Attorney General Williams and Corporation Judge W. R. Staples of Roanoke, ordered here by Governor Mann, are expected to arrive some time during the day. They will endeavor to restore order.

The citizens of the county, lacking a leader, were able to do little toward organizing a systematic hunt for the men. The Allens long have been known as desperate and it was realized that only through well organized and well directed efforts could they be confronted successfully in the mountain fastnesses.

The place is awkwardly situated for such an emergency as this. It is the seat of Carroll county and lies in the Beaver Dam valley, four miles from the top of the Blue mountains. The country is rough, the roads are bad and at this time of year, with spring thaws, nearly impassable. Illicit stills are said to be many.

Floyd Allen lives on one side of the town and his two brothers on the other. All the men of the family are wealthy, have been known as stern characters and were feared by many in the county. The deputy sheriff who would serve a warrant or a summons on one of them was accounted a brave man. Floyd Allen's familiar boast was that he had thirteen bullet holes in his body and that five of them had been put there by his brother.

did Dr. Wiley outline his plans for the future.

Despite the fact that rumors had been current for several weeks that the government's pure food expert was about to leave the service, the actual news of his resignation came as a big surprise to official Washington.

May Turn Editor.

The latest report has been that Dr. Wiley would lay down the important work he had been doing for the department of agriculture to become associate editor of a housekeeping magazine. He has received many flattering offers from interests in other lines of business.

It is known that Wiley for a long time had been unhappy in his connection with the department of agriculture. He has claimed he has been hampered in the administration of his office and harassed by the other officials. The recent Wiley-Wilson-McCabe controversy was but an outcropping of the friction that long had existed. A house committee that recently investigated affairs of the department complimented Dr. Wiley in the highest terms and scored his "enemies" in the department.

Served Since 1883.

He entered the service of the government as chief chemist in 1883, serving in that capacity continuously until now.

Because of alleged technical irregularities in the employment of Dr. H. H. Rusby, New York consulting chemist, Dr. Wiley some time ago was recommended for dismissal by Secretary Wilson and Attorney General Wickersham. President Taft set these recommendations aside.

One rumor recently was that Dr. Wiley would enter political life and might become a candidate for vice president on the Democratic ticket. Dr. Wiley denied this with a laugh.

Dr. Wiley recently was quoted as saying:

"I have for a long time been working to bring about peace in the department. This, however, cannot exist, so long as there are such incongruous elements in the department as now are to be found there. I am hoping a solution for the difficulties may be found.

"If I determine to withdraw I shall issue a statement which there will be no difficulty in understanding."

Dr. Wiley at that time was asked whether he had expressed his views to Secretary Wilson. He replied that he had done so long ago.

"I have told him what kind of people could get along together in the department and what kind could not."

At the cabinet meeting today President Taft was informed of Dr. Wiley's resignation by Secretary Wilson. To the newspaper men, after the cabinet meeting, Secretary Wilson said:

"The relations between me and Dr. Wiley always have been pleasant personally."

He would say nothing more.

Interstate Commission Determined to Have Lower Express Charges.

Vigorous Protests Against Abolition of Court of Commerce.

Washington, March 15.—(Special to The Herald.) — Notwithstanding the fact that the committee on postoffices and post roads proposes to afford the public a measure of relief from the exorbitant rates charged by the express companies by the enactment of a parcels post law, the interstate commerce commission is determined that the express companies shall promulgate an entire revision of their rates and that there shall be no question that the revision is downward. The inquiry carried on by the commission has demonstrated beyond question that the express companies have been paid several times the value of their services; that they earned enormous dividends and have piled up colossal surpluses upon insignificent capital, and further that millions of dollars have been collected dishonestly by the double charge method. Until within the past three years it was the exception rather than the rule for one of these companies to refund payment collected at both ends of the line, and the repayment of an overcharge is not recorded anywhere. The commission is determined that the rates shall fall and that the fall shall be great enough to be perceptible. Further plans are on foot to compel the companies to adopt methods of marking paid packages in such manner that double collections will be the exception rather than the rule.

The Court of Commerce.

There are members of the house who object to some of the decisions of the court of commerce and threats have been made to abolish the tribunal. It is realized, however, that it will be impossible to do this by direct methods, as the president would certainly not sign any such bill. The other way to accomplish the same result, in the opinion of members opposed to the court, is to refuse to make the necessary appropriations for the payment of the salaries of the judges and officials and the other expenses. There is no doubt that this plan will be tried, but already loud and vigorous protests have arisen against such a course from all sections of the country. The organic act creating the tribunal provides that it shall have jurisdiction in all cases appealed from the interstate commerce commission. There are already a great many such cases on the docket of the commerce court and the litigants fear that if the threat of those members opposing the court is carried out they will be deprived of a remedy at law for what they consider errors of the commerce commission. Before any drastic action is taken, therefore, it is likely that those interested, not in any way connected with the court or the the commission, will be given an opportunity to be heard.

Who Pays the Bills?

Much comment has been created in the press of the country because of the fact that Representative Hobson secured the publication in the Congressional Record of his lecture on the evils of alcohol. No one seems to know the exact purpose actuating the "Hero of the Merrimac" in his desire to spread over the country his views on the question of temperance, but he certainly must be controlled by some powerful sense of duty or else an unusual love for his fellowmen. For the past few weeks upwards of a score of a girls have been engaged in addressing envelopes which contain copies of the lecture. So great is the task that these addressers fill the rooms of several of Mr. Hobson's colleagues, as well as his own room. Every evening the employes of the house postoffice cart away scores of sacks filled with franked envelopes containing these "extracts from the Congressional Record" addressed to young men in every state of the Union. It is said that nearly two million copies have been printed and naturally there is much curiosity to learn who is paying the bills which must run up into the thousands for printing, envelopes and the wages of the girls.

COLOMBIA ASKS FOR ARBITRATION

Denies Deal With Germany and Makes New Appeal Regarding Panama.

Washington, March 15.—Colombia, notwithstanding her difficulties with the United States over the partition of Panama, is desirous of upholding the spirit of the Monroe doctrine.

Formally authorized by the Colombian government, Senor Roberto McDouall, charge d'affaires of the legation here, has issued a statement denying the published report that Colombia is negotiating a transfer of harbors to Germany. Incidentally Senor McDouall outlined his country's interpretation of the Monroe doctrine to include the preservation of the sovereignty of American nations over their own territories. This is in line with the reiterated contention of Colombia that the United States violated its guaranty of its sovereignty of Colombia in recognizing the independence of Panama, once a portion of Colombia.

Appeal for Arbitration.

Senor McDouall also makes another appeal for the arbitration of Colombia's claims, holding that while the United States is encouraging all nations to settle their controversies by arbitration, it refuses to allow Colombia, "a weak sister republic, that privilege."

Dismissing the story that Germany was after Colombia's harbors with the remark that lobbyists seeking to enlarge the American navy prompted the report, Senor McDouall says in part in his statement:

"The reported statement that Secretary Knox expected to meet some agent of Colombia and settle her claim in 'some quiet spot' cannot be admitted, as it is most unjust to Secretary Knox. Neither my government nor the congress, nor the patriotic people of Colombia would tolerate such an unworthy proceeding, that I am sure never has entered Secretary Knox's mind. A proceeding of this kind would be rejected without any delay."

CLOSE CONTESTS UP FOR DECISION

Attorney General Appealed to Regarding Votes on License.

St. Paul, Minn., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The exact status of saloons in a number of towns throughout the state since the election of last Tuesday is not definitely settled in the minds of many, and appeals to the attorney general for decisions are being made.

At Hector, in Renville county, for instance, 183 ballots were cast on election day. Eighty-nine of these were for licensing saloons, 91 against, while three expressed no choice on the question. Attorney General Smith was asked to state his opinion as to the standing. Replying, he said that as only 89 ballots out of 183 were for saloons, the town must go dry.

Renville, the principal town in the same county, also faced a close situation. There 245 votes were cast, 121 for license and 120 against. Renville is operating under a home rule charter. Attorney General Smith ruled that Renville must join in the procession of prohibition.

At Northfield the charge is made that college students whose homes are in that city were prevented from voting in one of the wards, and that as a result a certain councilman got enough votes to elect him, but he would have been defeated if students entitled to vote had been allowed their suffrage. This matter was also referred to the attorney general, but he refused to take up this case on the grounds that it was the duty of the city attorney of Northfield. Likewise Mr. Smith refused to take any action in the alleged "lid tilting" in North St. Paul election day, because it is the duty of local authorities there to start such investigation.

CHICAGO MAN IS HELD AS MODERN "FAGIN."

Chicago, March 15.—David Baranov, a pawnbroker and alleged "Fagin and fence" for stolen property, was held to the grand jury under bonds of $3,200 by Municipal Judge Cotterell on a charge of receiving stolen property. The police say Baranov has received thousands of dollars' worth of stolen goods. Edward Poncin, 18 years old, testified at the hearing that he and four other boys stole clothes from department stores regularly and disposed of them to Baranov.

WILL BRING RITTER BACK.

Alleged Swindler Is to Be Returned From Baltimore.

St. Paul, Minn., March 15.—A new phase of the alleged swindling scheme in which several St. Paul and Minneapolis merchants are said to have lost goods, and for which C. A. Ritter, formerly of Appleton and Benson, Minn., is under arrest at Baltimore, developed when it was learned that during his short stay in Appleton he married Miss Nettie McKinny, daughter of a retired farmer there. Miss McKinny had been teaching at Appleton.

It is believed at Appleton that she is with her husband in Baltimore. Shortly after Ritter left Appleton his wife went away, her parents saying she had gone to Omaha to visit relatives. They refuse to answer any inquiries concerning their daughter.

Word was received here from Baltimore that Ritter is willing to return to Minnesota without extradition papers. A member of the law firm which is prosecuting the case against him will leave for Baltimore with an officer from Appleton to get the accused man.

would have expected noisy advocacy of the Roosevelt cause I found only expressions of regret that he should run at this time. A most significant matter in the Wolverine state was the complete collapse of the effort of Governor Chase Osborn to force through a direct primaries bill at the special session. This was part of the Roosevelt program. Governor Osborn was one of the seven governors who summoned Roosevelt to the fray. But the legislature turned down the Osborn program and Michigan Republicans now declare that the governor cannot be renominated—which is the more unfortunate for that he is a good citizen, an amiable man and an admirable chief executive.

Deplore His Candidacy.

Seemingly Col. Roosevelt has lost none of the admiration of his followers, but all with whom I have talked deplore the need of following him, as Henry Watterson said in 1892 of Cleveland, "Through a slaughter house to an open grave."

Now, of course, that quotation, if I were trying to prove a case against Col. Roosevelt, would be very maladroit. For the Democrats, notwithstanding the Watterson warning, followed Cleveland through the slaughter house of their foes to victory. It would not be difficult for Marse Henry to say that the open grave of his metaphor meant the grave of later Democratic hopes. It was certainly the grave of many Democratic ambitions.

Returning to the Taft-Roosevelt fight, however, it is more and more apparent that the president will repeat history and renominate himself. It is perfectly easy. He holds all the election machinery in the South and can have every Southern delegation if he wants it—and he does. President Taft can compel his own renomination, precisely as Theodore Roosevelt compelled Taft's first nomination—by the vigorous and unblushing use of political patronage. Just at the moment political methods of this sort are most offensive to Mr. Roosevelt and he does not hesitate to say so—always choosing the Monday morning newspapers when news is dull and the chance for first page space is good.

Gives Joy to Democrats.

It is a pretty fight, giving much joy to the Democrats. Most of them are earnestly praying that Col. Roosevelt may be nominated. They are figuring, of course, on victory and on nothing else. They hold that the third term issue, the apparent treachery to Taft and the famous Columbus speech, demanding the recall of judical decisions, will put Mr. Roosevelt out of the running. And most of them would rather beat Roosevelt than Taft. For notwithstanding the noisy outcry of the Roosevelt forces about their getting Democratic votes the fact is much different. The states for which the Democrats will fight this year—New England, New York, Ohio and Illinois—are the states in which the Roosevelt strength is almost negligible.

There are now four Democratic presidential headquarters open in Washington—those of Wilson, Harmon, Clark and Underwood. All are running "full blast"—at least the gentlemen who are running them would so assure you. And yet such are the vicissitudes of politics that it seems that the noisiest bureau makes the least headway. For example I receive twice a week from the Wilson headquarters a full newspaper page of clippings from papers scattered all over the country eulogizing the New Jersey governor. Most of it is excellent reading, but bad copy for the Washington correspondent seeking for something not printed weeks ago in, let us say, an Asheville paper. The Champ Clark headquarters are devoting their energies to popularizing the 'Houn' dawg' song and putting the speaker into moving pictures. The Harmon headquarters people rather frown on the vaudeville features of a campaign for nomination and are plodding away with systematic cataloguing of friends in every state and furnishing brief notices of the progress of the Harmon campaign.

It may however interest a reader of this letter to know that if he desires literature concerning any one of these candidates he has but to write to the headquarters, Washington, D. C., filling in that blank with the name of the candidate in whom he is interested and he will be flooded with stuff.

SALARIES PAID AT UNIVERSITIES

President of University of California Gets the Highest Sum.

Washington, March 15.—The range of salaries for the heads and faculties of state-aided institutions of higher learning in this country is given in a bulletin just issued for free distribution by the United States bureau of education. According to the bulletin the highest paid head of any institution of this class is the president of the University of California, who receives $12,000 a year and house. The presidents of Illinois university and Cornell university each receive $10,000 a year and house, while the president of the University of Minnesota gets $10,000 without house. From these figures, the presidents' salaries run down as low as $2,400.

The salaries of the faculty members range from $50 a year for the least-paid tutor to $6,000 a year for the best-paid full professor, both extremes being touched at Cornell.

The bureau of education's bulletin shows that the United States now contains exactly 100 universities and other institutions of higher education which depend in considerable measure on the state or federal government for their support. Of these sixteen are agricultural and mechanical colleges for negroes. Four of these state-aided institutions have more than 400 members on their faculties; namely, the University of California, with a faculty of 421; the University of Illinois, with 530; Cornell university, with 652; and the University of Wisconsin, with 486.

The biggest gifts reported by the colleges considered for the period under discussion, namely, the college year ended last June 30, came to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, which benefits to the extent of $1,410,000 from the generosity of three donors. The University of Illinois reports that the state legislature has appropriated $3,513,300 for its support for the next two years, and has also made provision for the future of the institution by levying a 1-mill tax, which two years hence should allow it about $2,250,000 a year. Cornell has construction work in hand which will cost $1,052,000.

Tough Exiled From St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., March 15.—James May, a young man who has had several encounters with the police of this city, was exiled from St. Paul and Minnesota for two years yesterday by Police Judge Hugo Hanft. Judge Hanft declared he was convinced May could not make a man of himself. Three hundred and ten days in the workhouse is the penalty if May returns to Minnesota.

MAINTAIN LAKE LEVELS

That Is the Stand Taken By the Duluth Business Men.

Say Chicago's Drainage Canal Plan Is the Opening Wedge.

If the application of Chicago for 10,000 feet of water per second for the drainage canal is granted, an opening wedge will be given for other projects that will ultimately reduce the lake levels to a point at which great improvements already made will be rendered valueless and other improvements entailing the expenditure of many millions will have to be made.

That is the opinion expressed by many Duluth business men who have been looking into the subject and opposition will be stirred up here against any project tending to reduce the lake levels. Duluth was represented at a recent hearing before the secretary of war and opposed the granting of the application for additional water for the drainage canal.

Lake Superior would be hit harder by lake level reductions than any of the lower lakes and the effect on Duluth would be crippling to commerce and industry. The government reports show that lake levels have been gradually going down through natural developments. Two dry seasons found the levels last year lower than for many years. The effect was very noticeable in the harbor of Duluth especially in parts that had not been dredged to great depth.

Men interested in business depending on lake shipping recall the condition existing prior to the building of the new lock at the Soo about fifteen years ago. The big carriers could not load as heavily for Lake Superior business as they could when running between Lake Erie and Lake Michigan. The result was much higher rates on grain, ore and coal between Lake Superior and Lake Erie than between Lake Michigan and Lake Erie, although the difference in running time was comparatively slight.

Opponents of the Chicago drainage canal application say that the lowering of the lake levels, which would inevitably result, would nullify the effect of the heavy expenditures at the Soo and would put Duluth, Port Arthur, Fort William and other Lake Superior ports at a serious commercial disadvantage.

"We are just engaged in a fight for our commercial rights and when we are in a fair way to win we are confronted by a condition infinitely worse than the other," said a Duluth business man this morning. "Our docks are built for certain levels, our rates are dependent on certain levels and all dredging and channel improvements have been made on the basis of the levels now existing. The lowering of lake levels would have an effect that would set Duluth back many years.

"The Chicago drainage canal project is only an opening wedge for the Lakes to the Gulf waterway, a dream without any practical foundation, but with great possibilities for damage to lake ports other than Chicago. I am unable to figure how Chicago could get any advantage out of it. Chicago couldn't make a success of sending boats direct from Chicago to Europe when it was tried. The sending of boats to the Atlantic seaboard through the lakes and the St. Lawrence river has no commercial advantage over the route via the lakes to Buffalo and then by rail to the seaboard. I cannot see where Chicago would gain anything by having a Lakes to the Gulf waterway. The amount of commerce through it would be infinitesimal compared to the damage occasioned by the depletion of the water supply of the lakes.

"The lakes are now much lower than they were many years ago. We have ample evidence of that. It is stated on good authority that the spot where Duluth stands was once under water. That was ages ago, of course, but we can come down to more recent times and see wherein the lowering of lake levels has changed conditions. We may exercise conservation in that as in other things and we may prevent ruthless overriding of our rights.

FAMILY COW A LUXURY

High Price of Feed Makes "Bossy" a Very Expensive Animal.

Bran and Shorts Break Records of Recent Years.

Never before in the memory of Duluth feed dealers were bran and shorts and all kinds of feed so high priced as they are today.

Bran is worth $25 to $26 a ton in large quantities; red dog is worth $27 to $28; flour middlings, $26 to $27; standard middlings, $24.50 to $25; and rye middlings, $25 to $25.50. Oats of high grade in large quantities are bringing 51 cents; rye, 90 cents a bu; corn, 68 to 70 cents, and barley, 70 cents to $1.25 a bu. Many Duluthians who keep cows are feeling the extra cost of feed.

"This condition," said a Duluth feed dealer today, "is partly due to the fact that last fall Germany, being very short of cattle feed, bought up all the surplus bran and shorts that were available on the American market. Furthermore, last summer there was quite a drouth through Wisconsin, Indiana, Illinois, Ohio and other states of that belt, and as a result there was a great shortage of hay and other feed. Another factor is the poor sales of flour. Mills of the West are not grinding the flour they should, because there is very little demand for it. Consequently the bran and shorts and other by-products have been very scarce. If all the mills through this Western country should be run at full capacity for thirty days, I have no doubt that bran and shorts would drop $4 or $5 a ton. Some people think these by-products will be cheaper after navigation opens and the East begins to buy flour from the West. It may be so, but perhaps they will be disappointed."

Shirt Waist Sale.

We are going to close out fifty dozen lingerie waists tomorrow night at less than half price. $2.50 to $5 waists at, choice, $1.48. Friedman's, 7 West Superior street.

News and Views of Minnesota Politics

Wind-Up in North Dakota.

With Senator La Follette personally on the job in North Dakota, the wind-up of the presidential primary campaign is most interesting. The La Follette men evidently considered the situation serious when they called on the senator for assistance. Roosevelt sentiment has been growing and La Follette has an uphill fight. His time is short, but whatever he may be accused of, none has ever said that he was not a good campaigner. He threw a few bombs in his opening fight, and others may be expected. The North Dakota campaign has not been tranquil since Roosevelt entered the race, and the climax bids fair to be a stirring one.

In an interview given out in Minneapolis while on his way to North Dakota, Senator La Follette said that he would make no compromise with any man—that he is in the fight until the convention at Chicago reaches its decision. Observers on teh outside consider, however, that Senator La Follette's campaign can no longer be taken seriously if he loses North Dakota. His chances are slim, even if he should carry the Flickertail state, but if he loses out there next Tuesday the end will be immediately at hand.

In view of the long start La Follette had in North Dakota the dangerous condition that developed for him in that state immediately on Roosevelt entering the lists is an indication of the great popularity of the colonel. Roosevelt's defeat in North Dakota would be more of a surprise than would a victory. Where the people have a say in the choice of delegates Roosevelt is far and away the favorite.

Interesting Straw Votes.

The great popularity of Roosevelt in the farming districts of Minnesota is indicated by the result of straw votes taken in connection with the village elections Tuesday.

In some of the counties ballots were distributed at the polling places in every village holding an election and the results were compiled. They are very flattering to the chances of Roosevelt in Minnesota, if nearly the same proportionate sentiment is represented by those who attend the caucuses.

Taft's vote was ridiculously small in some villages. One, two or three votes out of a total of over fifty were cast for the president in many cases. In Wheaton, Roosevelt had 96, La Follette 42 and Taft 6. In Morgan, Roosevelt had 55, Taft 3 and La Follette 3.

One of the most interesting results reported was that in Chisago county, where a straw vote was taken at all villages holding elections except two. The compilation of the result follows: Roosevelt, 705; La Follette, 229; Taft, 99; Bryan, 41; Wilson, 39; Harmon, 2; Clark, 1; Debs, 79. The result in that county is typical.

Clark and Kansas.

While the loss of the Kansas delegation to Champ Clark will be a disappointment to the Wilson men, it is no surprise. Clark's stronghold is in Missouri and the surrounding states. The influence of Missouri is felt strongly in Kansas and the instructions for Clark are a compliment to Missouri as well as to Clark.

After the Wilson men in the Kansas convention had failed to pass a vote leaving the delegation uninstructed, they joined with the Clark men in making the instructions unanimous and secured an indorsement of Wilson as second choice. The arrangement leaves Wilson in a good poistion if the nomination of Clark appears to be impossible.

The North Dakota situation is also very satisfactory to the supporters of the New Jersey governor. The name of John Burke is the only one on the Democratic ballot for the primary vote next Tuesday. Burke's indorsement by the Democratic state central committee in January carried with it a suggestion that the delegation vote for some Progressive in the event of Burke's nomination becoming impossible. Burke's nomination is extremely remote. The sentiment of North Dakota Democrats is for Wilson although they are anxious to pay their governor the compliment of a favorite son delegation. The chances of the North Dakota delegation going to Wilson after the favorite son votes are out of the way are extremely bright.

Congressional Contests.

The situation within Minnesota is taken up with the presidential contest. Candidates for other offices are holding back until after the delegates have been chosen. There is quiet work on behalf of announced candidates, but the crop of those mentioned for office has been falling off as the time for selecting delegates to the national conventions approaches.

The situation remains unchanged in the congressional districts. J. J. McCaughey is the only avowed opponent of Congressman Sydney Anderson in the First district. The prospective revival of the Ward-Ellsworth fight in the Second promises a warm campaign there, while Congressman Hammond will be in the race again unless he heads the Democratic state ticket, Davis may have opposition in his own party in the Third, while the Democrats have been casting around for a strong candidate. Stevens in the Fourth and Nye in the Fifth will have primary contests and Democratic opposition. Lindbergh appears to be free of opposition in the Sixth, but Volstead will likely not have the clear field he had two years ago in the Seventh. In the Eighth, Miller's candidacy is taken for granted, although he has made no announcement. No opposition candidate has appeared in his own party, but the Democrats will make a fight for the office. In the Ninth, trouble for Steenerson has loomed up in strong Socialist opposition and the probability that Ole Sageng will make the race again as an independent. Even if no new candidates appear in any district, there will be plenty of excitement in the primary contests and at the general election as well.

Tawney on the Job.

Former Congressman James A. Tawney has returned to Minnesota after a conference with the administration workers at Washington. Mr. Tawney disclaims being officially in charge of the Taft campaign in Minnesota, but he is counted upon to deliver delegates and appears not to be shirking the job. If the Minnesota delegation goes to Taft, the office of national committeeman would appear to lie between Tawney and Ed Smith.

MUST KEEP NEUTRALITY

Americans Warned to Keep Out of the Mexican Troubles.

Taft Signs Resolution Passed By Congress—Other Capital Doings.

Washington, March 15.—President Taft has signed the joint congressional resolution making it unlawful to export arms or munitions of war to any American country where domestic violence exists, and immediately afterward issued a proclamation declaring that since such domestic violence had been found to exist in Mexico, all federal law officers were enjoined to prevent violations of the resolution.

With the signing of the resolution and promulgation of the proclamation, violation of the neutrality laws becomes a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of $10,000 or imprisonment for two years, or both.

Although the president's proclamation specifically names Mexico, the joint resolution is so worded that government officials expect to make use of it in the future to prevent filibustering expeditions to any American country where a state of revolution exists.

The president's proclamation was issued after it had been carefully considered by Attorney General Wickersham, Acting Secretary of State Wilson and the president.

According to war department officials, the joint resolution gives to the president the power he has long needed to curb the sending of arms into Mexico from Texas towns. If fear of the law does not prove an effectual barrier to filibustering, more troops will be sent to the Texas border to see that the law is enforced. Some estimates have put the number o ftroops now on the border sufficient and it is not regarded as likely that the American force in Texas will be increased.

Nelson Bill Favored.

Senator Nelson's bill abolishing the penalty of imprisonment for desertion of seamen from vessels of the United States and also for refusal to join the vessel, was ordered favorably reported from the senate committee on commerce.

Oppose Eight-Hour Bill.

J. H. Howell of the Cramp Shipbuilding company of Philadelphia told the senate committee on education and labor that the bill which would limit government contract work to eight hours was too drastic, was unworkable and ultimately would ruin manufacturing establishments that depend largely on government work.

G. L. Markland of Philadelphia said it would put the entire country on an eight-hour working day basis, which labor interests could not afford. Others who opposed the bill were Arthur L. Waterfall of Detroit and J. H. Schwacke of Philadelphia, representing the National Founders' association; Donald L. Tullock of Westchester, Mass., representing the National Metal Trade association, and Oliver Crosby of St. Paul.

Underwood Machine Works.

Opponents of the Democratic "free sugar" tariff revision bill directed a heavy artillery fire against it in general debate in the house. The bombardment was brought to a sudden end late Thursday by Chairman Underwood of the ways and means committee, with debate against the measure to be resumed today under the rule limiting speeches to five minutes each.

When Mr. Underwood suggested, shortly after 6 o'clock, that a recess be taken until 7:30, Mr. Mann rave notice that he would insist that a quorum, not only of the house, but of the ways and means committee as well, be present throughout the continuance of the session.

"I withdraw my request," said Mr. Underwood promptly; "it is perfectly apparent that the maintenance of a quorum is impossible, and I move that we adjourn."

The house promptly adjourned. The action, however, aroused the ire of a number of Democrats from sugar states who had prepared lengthy addresses in opposition to the bill. There was much muttering and charges that "gag rule" had been invoked were made, but not openly. The Underwood machine had worked perfectly.

Representative Fordney of Michigan, Republican, spoke in condemnation of the bill.

Would Control Carriers' Stock.

A bill that would prohibit any railroad or other common carrier from owning stock in or controlling directly or indirectly a steamship line with which it competes, was introduced in the house by Representative Covington of Maryland, a member of the committee on commerce. The measure revives the issue to prohibit the use of the Panama canal for railroad-owned vessels. A second section of the Covington bill would provide that whenever a railroad operates a through rate in connection with a water transportation company, a similar rate should be accorded without partiality to other water transportation lines which might seek to make such a rate agreement with the common carrier.

In an effort to bring about competition between railroads and steamship lines, the Covington bill is most drastci in its provisions regarding direct and indirect control of stock and would absolutely prohibit any railroad from exerting control over any competing water line.

Tribute to Frye.

Tributes to the personality and public services of the late Senator Frye of Maine were paid in the senate yesterday. The speakers included Senators Johnson and Gardner of Maine; Lodge of Massachusetts; Bacon of Georgia; Bailey of Texas; Cullom of Illinois; Gallinger of New Hampshire; Martin of Virginia; Simmons of North Carolina; Nelson of Minnesota; Shiviey of Indiana and Perkins of California and Burton of Ohio.

Treaties Sent Back.

The arbitration treaties with Great Britain and France have been returned to the state department, accompanied by the senate resolution amending the text of the conventions.

It is expected that they will be laid before the cabinet for determination as to whether an effort shall be made to open the negotiations with a view to inducing Great Britain and France to accept the senate amendments or whether the president shall serve notice on Ambassadors Bryce and Jusserand that the treaties as amended do not meet his views and that he had decided to abandon further efforts to complete them.

Officer's Assailant Held.

Brainerd, Minn., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Winfred W. Rardin was examined in municipal court on the charge of assaulting Policeman J. P. Barney and held to the grand jury in $500 bonds. The policeman, whose collar bone had been broken in the fight, gave his testimony and said he had fired but one shot at the time of the trouble.

COST OF DINNERS TO BE INCREASED

London, March 15. — Not much longer are the members of the house of commons to remain in enjoyment of the cheapest meals in England. For some years they have been eating shilling (25-cent) dinners that would cost the less fortunate millions who never enter the portals of Westminster twice the sum. Now it has been discovered that the refreshment department of the house of commons has been dropping money at the rate of $17,000 a year and a new kitchen committee purposes to jump the price of the members' dinners to 30 or 35 cents.

Just why the members of parliament should be so advantageously placed that they are able to sit down in what has become known as "the finest club in the world" and eat of the best food the British Isles can produce at a tea shop, no one has ever been able to discover. But when the members who formerly worked without pay were recently granted $2,000 a year each in salary, everybody agreed that they could afford to pay a few pennies more for their food, especially as everything served at Westminster is of the best quality and the service is the same as is found in most fashionable London restaurants. An enormous business is done and during a session, from February to November, more than 185,000 meals are served. The restaurant enjoys a state subsidy of $10,000.

CAPTAIN JOSEPH WILSON OF EVELETH BADLY SHOT

Marinone Carmeno, Who Had Been Annoying Wilson for Work, Is Assailant.

Bullet Enters Just Above Heart—Assailant Is Lodged in Jail.

JOSEPH S. WILSON.

Eveleth, Minn., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph S. Wilson, captain of the Spruce mine and president of the city council, was shot at 1:30 p. m. today by Marinone Carmeno, an Italian. The ball, 32-caliber, entered the body just above the heart. He is now at the More hospital. The doctors have not determined yet whether the wound is fatal or not. His assailant was taken and was lodged in jail. Carmeno has been annoying Wilson, seeking work. The shooting was witnessed by John Tantlin, a teamster.

Annie Peterson had her husband, Randolph Peterson, who runs a restaurant in the West end, arrested a few days ago on a warrant charging him with threatening to assault her and asking that he be put under bonds to keep the peace.

The case was scheduled for trial yesterday afternoon, but it was not brought before the court. Asistant City Attorney Walter F. Dacey asked that it be dismissed and the motion was granted.

At the time the complaint was issued the authorities had heard but one side of the story. Before the action was heard yesterday the prosecutor learned some of the facts on the other side. After that he thought one was about as much to blame as the other and was satisfied that there was not nearly enough evidence to warrant the conviction of the defendant. As it has been one of Prosecutor Dacey's aims to prosecute and not persecute he did not feel justified in going on with the case, feeling that it might have gone far enough as it was.

From what came out yesterday it would seem that Mrs. Peterson might have been of more assistance to her husband than she has been.

The husband did not deny that he had spoken harshly to her on one occasion, but declared that all he had said was that her actions made him so mad that he had a good notion to choke her. He asserted that he had never laid a hand upon her in violence and she did not make that allegation against him.

After three attempts, John Makl and his wife stood convicted in police court yesterday afternoon of keeping an unlicensed drinking place at 125 Seventh avenue west. Twice before the police have secured evidence against them, but in some way they managed to escape. The police claim that they did so by getting the witnesses out of the city. The authorities reported that the two have been among the worst offenders in the illicit sale of beer in the city. When arraigned both pleaded guilty. Makl got a straight sentence of sixty days in the county jail and his wife got $100 or thirty days. She paid her fine. Before sentence was imposed the defendants pleaded for clemency. They said that they were poor and that they did not know how they were going to raise the rent, amounting to $30, which would be due in a couple of days. But it was only a short time after sentence had been imposed that the woman produced the $100 to pay the fine, while her husband told the jailor that he would like to have an opportunity to do the same. But he did not have any choice and was sent over the hill to spend the next two months.

Vere Shields did not take kindly to having Leslie Bennett "shine up" to the young woman to whom he had been paying some attention and showed his displeasure in a pronounced manner. Wednesday night he was at the girl's home when she and Bennett reached there. Without any preliminaries he struck his rival over the eye, knocking him down and inflicting a wound which required several stitches to close. Bennett claimed that Shields had used a pair of brass knuckles, but the court did not believe that to be the case. Shields admitted that he had struck Bennett, but claimed that he had done so because he had heard Bennett speak of him in uncomplimentary terms when Bennett reached the house with his girl. The court imposed a fine of $10 and costs, which he paid. The girl is employed at the West St. Paul resaurant.

Ed Frazee was convicted in police court this morning of having threatened to assault Joseph Cummings, former city electrician, with an ax. It also appeared that Frazee had overwhelmed him with a flood of impolite conversation. The trouble started when Cummings, acting as an agent for the owner, told Frazee that he would have to vacate the premises which he had been occupying. The court imposed a fine of $40 and costs, with the alternative of thirty days in the county jail.

The last of the Park Point trespass cases were disposed of in police court this morning when the actions against Mike and Alex Gallagher and Fred Charbonneau were dismissed. The young men were arrested following the complaint that they had been among those seen at the boat house of the naval militia. All the windows of the structure had been broken and some of the small boats stored inside had been damaged.

The fire department responded to three alarms last evening. Clothing carelessly thrown against a stovepipe caused a loss of about $25 at the home of Maggie Wiley, 601 West Fourth street. Sparks from a ch'mney damaged the roof of M. Melvin's residence at 707 South Twenty-fourth avenue east to the extent of about $75. The home of Ed Sayen at 1032 Cox avenue was damaged about $10 in the same manner.

Ernest Johnson was picked up by the police in an unconscious condition on the porch of a residence at Seventh avenue west and First street about 6:30 o'clock last evening. He was taken to St. Luke's hospital, where he received medical attention. He had recovered sufficiently to be discharged again this morning. He is a woodsman and claimed that he had taken only "a couple of drinks." The hospital authorities think that some knockout drops may have been administered to him by some one planning to get his money. He had about $80 and a slip bearing his name in his pocket. If such is the case Johnson must have felt himself getting sick and gotten away before the would-be robbers had a chance to roll him, being overcome in a place where it was taking too big a risk to go through his pockets.

Judge Dancer today filed an order with the clerk of the district court ordering a distribution of the proceeds secured as a result of the adjustment of an action brought by Oscar Laajala, administrator of the estate of Matt Laajala, against the Adriatic Mining company.

The suit was brought by Attorneys Culkin & Samuelson. Matt Laajala was killed in an accident while employed by the Adriatic Mining company in Nov. 1910. The case was brought to trial but was finally settled out of court for $750. Of this amount and $108 due for wages, Laajala's parents residing in Finland, will secure $429. The rest will go for attorney's fees and suit expenses.

Our Most Fashionable Corsets Give the Effect of the Corsetless Figure!

At the same time they mold and restrain any exuberance. The new models have an even lower bust line and the backs also—save those designed for full figures—are cut slightly lower.

The skirts of the corsets show no abatement of length. In many cases they are, if anything, even longer, but clever arrangements of cross gores and in-sets of strong elastic give ease of movement, comfort in sitting down and restraint in standing—in fact every advantage of the ordinary long-skirted models without their possible discomfort.

The woman who has an interest in her figure will do well to examine some of the latest productions. Our corset experts will be pleased to give their best advice.

We are now ready with new models in—

La Camille Lace Front Corsets.
Bon Ton Corsets, favorites of French dressmakers.
Warner's Rust Proof Corsets.
Reduso Corsets for reducing stout figures.
W. B. Corsets for average figures.
These lines range in price from $1.00 to $10.00.

SPECIAL TOMORROW MORNING ONLY!

While it is not customary for us to fit corsets on Saturday, our experts will do so tomorrow morning for the benefit of the teachers who are visiting in the city.

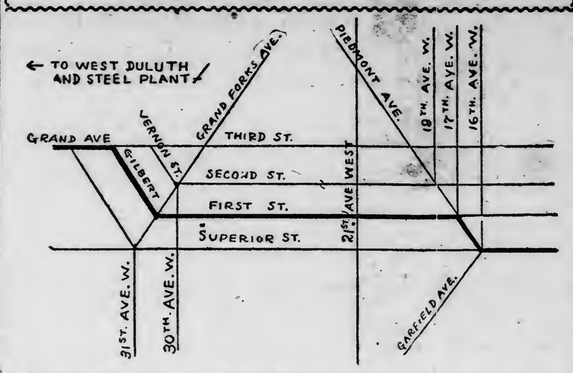
WEST END NEWS

HERALD BRANCH:
Herman Olson, Manager, 1823 West Superior Street.

PLANS FOR PART OF HIGHWAY ADVOCATED BY THE MAYOR



Following Mayor J. A. McCuen's message to the city council Tuesday evening in which he advocated an improved street from the center of the city to the steel plant, residents in the West end have again taken up the proposed paving of First street from Piedmont avenue to Gilbert street and thence to Grand avenue. The plan has been suggested before and with the mayor's approval to support it, a petition will be circulated among the property owners within a few days.

According to the present plan of property owners on First street, the street will be paved from Piedmont avenue to Gilbert street, near Thirty-first avenue west, then over to Grand avenue and from there to West Duluth. They believe that First street would make a better automobile road than Superior street. The plan would give autoists a clear street from the center of the city direct to West Duluth to connect with a proper road to finally be built to New Duluth.

Business men are also in favor of the proposed plan as it will tend to take heavy traffic off Superior street and divide it between the two streets. Many wagon drivers now complain about the poor streets after leaving Thirty-first avenue west, while the autoists have constantly been compelled to use the Grand avenue line in going to West Duluth. Grand avenue is already paved from Forty-seventh avenue west to Central avenue in West Duluth, leaving only the paving of Grand avenue from Gilbert street necessary to complete the road to West Duluth.

First street is fast becoming a business street. The new Woodmen hall is on First street and the Swanstrom Brothers are now negotiating with regard to a three-story structure opposite to the hall. The street is level and would prove an ideal automobile road.

Many other suggestions have been made in the past regarding paved streets to West Duluth, but First street has so far met with the most favor. Second street has also been suggested, but the residents on this street object to the plan of making this a business street and they have joined in the campaign for the paving of First street.

The city engineering department will be requested by the aldermen of the Seventh ward to make an estimate on the paving of the street. Should the petition secure sufficient signers, it is planned to start work on the paving early this coming summer.

TABERNACLE SOCIETY IS ENTERTAINED.

The ladies of the Tabernacle society of St. Clement's Catholic church, Twenty-first avenue west and Third street, were entertained in the church hall yesterday afternoon. The time was spent in music and refreshments were served during the afternoon to the following members of the society: Mesdames M. E. Chisholm, G. H. Evans, W. L. Garnger, M. E. Wright, C. A. There are now 500 members in the club who take an active part in the work and features conducted during the year. The committee in charge of the banquet comprised the following members.

G. Ovesen, Thedore Rud, Miss Helene Paulsen, Miss Elisebeth Hoberstad and Miss Julia Haugen. J. Oveson was toastmaster of the evening.

The officers of the club are: President, Jens Jacobsen; vice president, Sam Andersen; secretary, Thomas Fossen; financial secretary, John Tronnes; treasurer, Peter Skadberg; inside watch, Gust Nilsen; trustees, Stork Jocobsen, Theodore Rude and Iver Lund.

MUST LOWER THE GRADE OF STREET.

Provision must be made at once for the changing of the grade on the road and culvert at the corner of Fourteenth street and Piedmont avenue, according to the decision reached yesterday afternoon, following an inspection trip made by members of the board of public works and the West End Hillside Improvement club.

County Commissioner Joseph Cumming, County Engineer E. K. Coe and O. G. Olson and A. J. Meldahl of the board of public works, with several members of the Improvement club, made the trip to Fourteenth street and Piedmont avenue and inspected the site of the proposed culvert and road. It will be necessary to change the grade before any work can be done, and a petition to that effect will be introduced by the club at the council meeting Monday evening.

Fourteenth street at present has a fall of about fifteen feet at this point, and the plan is to make a cut so that the fall will only be about six or seven feet. The residents of this end of the city hope for the extension of the Piedmont avenue car line to Fourteenth street, and that the present high grade will make the extension an impossibility is the opinion of the county officials. The Piedmont line now runs to Twenty-first avenue west and Eleventh street.

Olson Funeral.

The body of Otto Olson, 40 years old, who died at Fergus Falls last Monday evening following a short illness of pneumonia, was brought to the Olson & Crawford undertaking rooms last evening. The deceased was a resident of the West end, having formerly lived at 3104 West First street, and he leaves a wife and one child, of whom all are living in the West end with relatives. The funeral arrangements will be made some time this afternoon following the arrival of relatives.

Series of Sermons.

Rev. E. Wulfsburg of St. Paul's Lutheran church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street, will preach the third of the special series of sermons on "What Shall I Do?" at the regular services Sunday evening. The subject Sunday will be "In Affliction" and will be fitting for the present Lenten season.

The Sunday evening services were inaugurated several weeks ago by Rev. Mr. Wulfsburg, who was formerly compelled to preach at several out-of-town churches besides the local church. He is now devoting all his time to the West end church and in the future English services will be held every second Sunday evening. The last in this series of sermons is "In Death" and will be delivered March 31.

The Young People's Society of Zion Norwegian Lutheran church will meet this evening.

COUSIN KILLS PAUL FOURNIER

Man Once Convicted of Slaying N. O. Dahl Is Shot Down.

Bemidji, Minn., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The grand jury which is in session here will look into the killing of Paul Fournier by his cousin, George Cyr, late yesterday at the Cyr place near Redby. Cyr walked to Redby, gave himself up and was brought here today. Cyr claims Fournier attacked his wife with a dirk and Cyr, grabbing a gun, shot Fournier to death.

Fournier enjoyed the distinction of having been convicted by one jury of first degree murder for killing N. O. Dahl near Quiring in the spring of 1907 and sent up for life, then getting a new trial and being acquitted. He was also tried on the charge of killing Aagot Dahl, the daughter of N. O. Dahl, but was also acquitted after a trial at Brainerd on that charge After his acquittal Fournier returned to the scene of his alleged crimes and had been living with his cousin, George Cyr, who yesterday put an end to a notorious career.

Were Cold-Blooded Crimes.

The killing of N. O. Dahl and his daughter Aagot was the most brutal and cold-blooded crime in the history of Beltrami county, and when Fournier and "Shorty" Wesley (now serving a life term in the Stillwater penitentiary) were tried therefor, sentiment ran high against both men and a verdict of guilty was speedily reached in each case.

Fournier and Wesley were sentenced to life imprisonment. Fournier was given a new trial on the ground of admission of improper evidence and alleged misconduct of the county attorney. Juries at Brainerd and Aitkin returned verdicts of "not guilty" against Fournier.

No effort was ever made to get a new trial for Wesley, although the pardon board now has an application for his parole.

Cyr, who killed Fournier, was once arrested in company with Fournier on the joint charge of having killed the Dahls, but was subsequently released, there being a lack of evidence connecting him directly with the murders.

WILL ATTACK PATENT RULING

Supreme Court Will Be Asked to Reopen Case---Decision in Demand.

Washington, March 15.—The defeated parties of the "patent monopoly" case have advised Attorney General Wickersham in response to his inquiry, that they intend asking the supreme court for a rehearing of the case. They will have the co-operation of the department of justice, which is intensely interested in the question because of its vital bearing on the administration of the Sherman anti-trust law.

Arthur Von Brieson of New York, representing Sidney Henry and others, whom the supreme court's four to three decision was directed, will confer with Attorney General Wickersham and Solicitor General Lehmann as to the legal procedure for the reopening of the issue.

Hundreds of applications for copies of the "patent monopoly" decision have reached the supreme court of the United States, and quickly exhausted the available supply of the printed copies of the opinion just from the press. Foremost among the requests were those from senators and members of the house who are bent on amending the law to avoid the consequences of allowing patentees to have the right to restrict the use of unpatented articles on their patented machines.

Many of the inquiries were directed toward ascertaining how far "cut rate" stores would be affected by the opinion. Justice Lurton expressly stated that there would be no collision between the rule under the patent law which he was laying down and the rule pronounced by Justice Hughes last year in Miles Medical company vs. Hark & Sons. In the latter case Justice Hughes pointed out that the sale restrictions upon articles, such at "patent" medicine, which really are not under the protection of the patent laws, were invalid as against public policy.

MAURICE D'AUTREMONT IS SAFE IN BISBEE.

Bisbee, Ariz., March 15. — C. M. D'Autremont, son of C. D'Autremont, a wealthy mining man of Duluth, Minn., arrived in Bisbee yesterday from the Yaqui river country, 100 miles north of Guatamas. The state department at Washington had been trying to locate him at the request of his father. He said there was no revolutionary trouble in the Yaqui country.

Relatives of young Mr. D'Autremont in Duluth have felt no anxiety regarding him, as they received a telegram from him last week, saying he was safe and on his way home.

Ten Years For Horse Thief.

New Richmond, Wis., March 15.—M. Niederschkie pleaded guilty yesterday to stealing a horse from D. H. Symes, near Glenwood, Wis., on Feb. 2, and firing the barn in an attempt to cover the crime. Nine horses were killed in the fire which caused a loss of $9,000. Niedershkie was sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary at Waupun.

S.S.S. PURIFIES BAD BLOOD

Bad blood is responsible for most of our ailments, and when from any cause it becomes infected with impurities, humors or poisons, trouble in some form is sure to follow. Muddy, sallow complexions, eruptions, pimples, etc., show that the blood is infected with unhealthy humors which have changed it from a pure, fresh stream to a sour, acrid fluid, which forces out its impurities through the pores and glands of the skin. A very common evidence of bad blood is sores and ulcers, which break out on the flesh, often from a very insignificant bruise, or even scratch or abrasion. If the blood was healthy the place would heal at once; but being infected with impurities which are discharged into the wound, irritation and inflammation are set up, the fibres and tissues are broken, and the sore continues until the blood is purified of the cause. S. S. S. is Nature's blood-purifier and tonic, made entirely from roots, herbs and barks. It goes down into the circulation and removes every particle of impurity, humor or poison, restores lost vitality, and steadily tones up the entire system. S. S. S. neutralizes any excess of acid in the blood, making it pure, fresh and healthy, and permaneatly cures Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Boils, and all other skin eruption or disease. Book on the blood and any medical advice free.

MONOPOLY INCREASING

Concentration of Control Over Water Powers Growing Rapidly.

Commissioner Smith Urges Title Be Preserved to Remaining Sites.

Washington, March 15. — Concentration of control over water powers by large interests in important localities is increasing so rapidly that Herbert Knox Smith, commissioner of corporations, has reported to President Taft that the government should preserve title to the remaining power sites and develop them to prevent a possible monopolization of public utility companies. A full report of the commissioner's investigation of water power development has been presented to the president.

Commissioner Smith directs particular attention to the increasing affiliation of water power concerns and public service agencies, such as street railway and lighting corporations, and oftentimes banks as well. The connection between such concerns he regards of serious public significance. The concentration of control over water powers, the commissioner declares, is exercised partly by direct ownership of stock, but mainly through interlocking directorates.

The rapidly increasing concentration of water power control about which the commissioner sounds a warning may become, he says, the nucleus for a monopoly of both water and steam power. If the water power cannot meet the entire demand of a given locality he points out that the owners can acquire auxiliary fuel plants and handle water and fuel power over the same distributing lines, and thus a complete commercial power monopoly might gradually be built up—in fact already exists in a number of communities.

Ten Inter-Related Groups.

Ten great groups of interests, with the General Electric company as the most powerful, are declared by Commissioner Smith to control or strongly influence about 60 per cent of the developed commercial water power of the United States. These ten groups themselves are more or less inter-related, with resultant growing community of interests. In this connection the commissioner's report says:

"In this maze of inter-relationships, ranging from practically joint control down to personal association in common directorates, is closely revealed the drift of water power and public utility corporations under the control of a few very powerful interests. These connections, some stronger and some weaker, suggest a favorable condition for a very small number of men to consolidate very large interests whenever they may decide it to their advantage to do so. This interlocking of interests through directors while not necessarily indicating a purpose of monopoly, certainly affords an incentive and a means of combination."

Mr. Smith, urging the immediate formulation of a definite policy of developing the remaining water power sites on the public domain, recommends, generally speaking, that the government retain the ultimate control of these sites. They should be developed at once, he declares, not only to conserve the fuel supply of the country, but because they are fast passing into private control. It is estimated that the water power now in use saves 33,000,000 tons of coal annually, and, Mr. Smith adds, the water power resource is not expended in its using.

Plan for Development.

The problem of development, the commissioner continues, cannot be solved by fixing by law the selling price of water power itself, which, in any event, will be controlled by the cost of fuel power. Recognizing that the most efficient use of water power requires a considerable degree of unified control, the commissioner makes this recommendation for the development of public water powers:

"The public can either develop and operate the sites, selling the energy at market rates, or the public may lease the sites at a rental fairly representing its natural value." The commissioner favors the rental system.

The water power of the country, developed and practically capable of development at this time probably does not exceed 25,000,000 horse-power, Mr. Smith says. The total developed water power today is about 6,000,000 horse power. The total stationary power used in the United States—steam, gas and water—is probably over 30,000,000 horse power.

The bureau of corporations, in its investigations, found concentration of water powers, according to the report, in three distinct phases. First, there was a centralization of control in each important locality; secondly, large interests influenced a number of these local concerns, and finally, there was found a growing relationship among the big interests.

"In California six great power corporations, of which the most important is the Pacific Gas and Electric company, (with 118,343-horse power), together control 375,000-horse power—over 80 per cent of all the developed water power in the state," Mr. Smith says in discussing local concentration.

"In Washington two companies control 210,000-horse power, or about 70 per cent of all developed water power.

"In South Carolina, the Southern Power company owns about 101,000 horsepower, or 75 per cent of the total commercially developed with 73,000-horse power undeveloped.

"In the Southern Peninsula of Michigan, the Commonwealth Power, Railway and Light company controls 52,000-horse power, or 73 per cent of the commercially developed, together with probably 71,000-horse power more undeveloped.

General Electric Control.

More important than this local centralization, the commissioner declares, are the operations of ten large groups of interests which possess control or influence over 1,821,000 developed horse power, about 60 per cent of the commercial water power in the United States, together with 1,449,000-horse power undeveloped.

The General Electric interests, the report declares, control or influence 829,000-horse power of developed water power in eighteen different states, and 640,000-horse power or undeveloped resources, a grand total of over a million and a half horse power. "Next are the Stone and Webster interests," the report continues, "which either own or strongly influence 278,000-horse power chiefly in connection with public service concerns. They exercise control, largely through management rather than ownership, over fifty-five or sixty companies. Eight have water power, the largest being on the Mississipi river and in the Puget Sound region.

"The other groups are the Hydraulic Power company of Niagara Falls, 144,000-horse power; the Pacific Gas & Electric company, with over 118,000-horse power developed and the dominating factor in a large portion of California, the group known as the Clarke-Foote-Hodenpyl-Walbridge interests, 164,000-horse power, largely dominating the water power situation in Michigan and also active in Maine and Oregon; the Southern Power company, 101,000-horse power, which owns the great bulk of the commercially developed power in South Carolina; the S. Morgan Smith interests (Georgia), 76,000-horse power; the Brady interests (Tennessee), 70,000-horse power; the United Missouri River Power company, 65,000-horse power, which, with the Butte Electric Power company (General Electric group), practically dominates the power situation in Montana; and the Tulleride Power company (Colorado, Idaho and Utah), 56,000-horse power. The last named nine interests also include under their influence 887,000-horse power undeveloped.

Groups Are Related.

Carrying the community of interest to a wider range, the report continues, these great groups show more or less relationship with each other. "The two greatest, the General Electric and the Stone and Webster groups, have directors in a number of the same corporations," it is added, "and the S. Morgan Smith, Westinghouse and Brady interests are similarly connected."

Discussing "an increasing affiliation of water power concerns and public service companies," the commissioner says:

"The companies in the General Electric group control street railways in sixteen towns, electric lighting plants in seventy-eight and gas plants in nineteen. Altogether, water power or allied companies own or control and operate street railways in 111 towns, electric lighting plants in 669 towns, and gas plants in 113 towns.

"The reasons for this are obvious. Control of the chief consumers of power both insures a market for power and excludes others. This connection between great power groups and the agencies that directly serve the public is of serious public significance."

Regarding interlocking directorates, Mr. Smith says:

"A more general relationship, of a sort not peculiar to water power, but nevertheless of broad public significance, is best illustrated by the General Electric company. Men who are officers or directors in that company, or of its three wholly controlled subsidiaries, are also officers and directors in many other corporations. These other companies, with their subsidiaries and with the General Electric and its subsidiaries, made a far-reaching group, thus interconnected by active personal and financial relationship.

"This one group of interrelationships controls or influences twenty-four corporations that operate hydroelectric plants; over fifty public service corporations, not counting as many minor subsidiaries; more than a dozen railroads; numerous industrial corporations; and finally over fifty banks and financial houses, many of them in the first rank of importance. About twenty General Electric men in all constitute most of this chain of connection, three of those being members of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., which is generally regarded as the dominant interest in the General Electric company. These connections in no sense always mean control by the General Electric company, or even identity of policy. They do, however, mean a striking degree of community of interest."

SCENE IN THE ROCK CUT.

Duluth's "Down and Out" club may solve the problem of the point of rocks. Workers at the city rock pile have pushed Superior street half way through the big rock cliff. About 15,000 cubic feet of rock still remains to be taken out before the big job is accomplished.

During the past two and a half months 1,072 cubic yards of stone have been removed, according to Secretary Courtenay Dinwiddie of the Associated Charities, who has had supervision of the work at the city rock pile.

The work has only progressed thirty feet ahead during this time, but the cut at its deepest point was thirty-six feet. In all a cut 216 feet long has been made. About 250 feet remains to be taken out. The workmen are now working in the heart of the big cliff.

FORAKER AGAINST DIRECT VOTING

Says Initiative and Referendum Would Increase Election Burdens.

Columbus, Ohio, March 15.—Delegates to Ohio's fourth constitutional convention interrupted their consideration of the initiative and referendum, one of the important proposals submitted, to listen to an address by Former United States Senator Joseph D. Foraker, in which he warned the convention against making the initiative and referendum a part of the organic law of the state.

"The initiative and referendum would increase the burden of election," he said.

Heralded as the chief objection was the claim by Mr. Foraker that it was the first step toward abandonment of representative government.

In place of a judicial recall, Mr. Foraker suggested a plan making it the duty of the attorney general to receive and examine charges against officials subject to impeachment and then report to the governor, who, if the charges are sufficient, shall summon a court, to be composed of from three to fifteen members, to hear the charges.

The Doctor's Answers On Health and Beauty Questions

By DR. LEWIS BAKER.

The questions answered below are general in character; the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply to any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice, free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Ellwood Sts., Dayton, Ohio, enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given but only initials or fictitious name will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

Elizabeth says: "I am troubled with a constant headache which also affects my eyes. My breath is awful, as I have a severe case of catarrh of the head and throat."

Answer: I receive daily hundreds of letters from people who have suffered as you do and who have been cured with the following prescription: Make a wash by mixing one-half teaspoonful of Vilane powder, which you can purchase from any druggist in 2 oz. packages, and add to this one pint of warm water, use this in the nostrils daily to thoroughly cleanse them. A catarrh balm should be used with this. This is made by mixing one teaspoonful of Vilane powder with one ounce of lard or vaseline and apply well up into the nostrils twice a day. If this is used daily your catarrh will soon vanish, it should, however, be used occasionally to prevent a return of the disease.

"C. G." writes: "If you know of anything that will cure dandruff, itching scalp and premature baldness, please let me know what it is."

Answer: For several years I have prescribed plain yellow minyol as superior to anything known for the treatment of diseased scalp. Get it in four-ounce jars with full directions. It quickly overcomes all diseases of hair and scalp and gives new vigor and intense natural color to the hair. Try it fairly and you will advocate its use for your friends.

"Mildred" writes: "I am constantly embarrassed because of the fact of my extreme thinness. I have absolutely no color in my face or lips and I am dull and lifeless most of the time. Please advise me what to do."

Answer: If you are so thin and pale and your lips and cheeks colorless it is because your blood is deficient in red corpuscles. This can be easily overcome by the use of three-grain hyponuclane tablets, which can be had from any druggist in sealed cartons with full directions for taking. When the blood is enriched by the use of these tablets your weight will increase, the color will come back into your face and lips, and it will improve your general system so that you will become strong and healthy.

"Edna" writes: "I suffer with rheumatism all the time and I shall be very glad if you can tell me something to relieve me."

Answer: I can give you a prescription which will not only relieve, but will cure your rheumatism. This is my favorite remedy and from the number of letters received from people who have used it proves its value in curing rheumatism. The following is made by mixing well, taking a teaspoonful at meal times and again before retiring: Comp. essence cardiol, 1 oz.; comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz.; syrup sarsaparilla comp., 5 ozs.; iodide of potassium, 2 drams; wine of colchicum, one-half ounce; sodium salicylate, 4 drams.

"Morris" asks: "I have suffered with a chronic cough for almost a year, and catch a fresh cold every few weeks. Nothing the doctor gives me helps, so I write you."

Answer: You need a thorough laxative cough syrup, one that not only relieves but surely drives it from the system. The following regularly used will cure any curable cough or cold promptly. Obtain a 2½ oz. bottle of essence mentho-laxene, mix it with a home-made sugar syrup or honey as per directions on bottle.

"Anxious B." writes: "I have in recent years been threatened with appendicitis, but would never consent to an operation. Indigestion, constipation and sedentary habits cause me much suffering. Kindly prescribe for dyspepsia something which you think will cure me and prevent appendicitis."

Answer: The most scientific and satisfactory treatment for your trouble is tablets triopeptine; packed pink, white and blue in sealed cartons with full directions. All stomach disorders can be conquered by regular treatment.

"Nervous M." writes: "Loss of sleep, nervousness, loss of appetite and overwork has made almost a complete wreck of me. I have to work, but can scarcely drag one foot after the other. Please advise."

Answer: The condition you prescribe is prevalent especially with brain workers. Use the following: Compound syrup of hypophosphites, 5 ozs., tincture cadomene, 1 oz. Mix, shake well and take a teaspoonful before meals.

"K. J." writes: "I have become so fat in the last two years that I am uncomfortable, unhappy and frequently embarrassed. Exercise and diet seem to not help. Please advise."

Answer: To avoid substitution get these two ingredients and mix in a bottle, shaking well before taking. Aromatic elixir, 5 oz.; glycol arbolene, 1 oz. Take a teaspoonful after each meal for the first three days. After that double the dose and continue for several weeks or months as your case requires. A reduction of a pound a day is usual after the first week or two.

"Sara C." writes: "I am constipated and have a greasy skin. Suffer from headache, indigestion and some kidney trouble. I wish you to recommend a remedy."

Answer: "The best remedy to relieve and cure chronic constination is called three-grain sulpherb tablets made from sulphur, cream of tartar and herb medicines. Taken regularly the blood is purified, the bowels and liver stimulated into healthy action, and a cure established. They are packed in sealed tubes with full directions. These tablets are splendid for children as they do not gripe or sicken.

"Mamma"—"I know of nothing better for bed-wetting than 1 dram of tincture cubebs, 2 drams of tincture rhus aromatic and 1 oz. comp. fluid balmwort. Mix. The dose is 10 to 15 drops in water one hour before meals.

PRIZE AMERICAN OPERA'S PREMIER

"Mona" Produced at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York.

New York, March 15.—"Mona," the $10,000 prize American opera written by Prof. Horatio Parker of Yale university to a libretto by Brian Hooker, a Yale graduate, had its premiere last night at the Metropolitan Opera house.

The opera, regarded as an initial period in the development of American composition, was enthusiastically received. Prof. Parker, Mr. Hooker and the artists of the company were tendered many curtain calls. The work was rendered in English.

"Mona," a story of the eternal woman question, is set in the Roman period in Britain 2,000 years ago, and the opinion was expressed that the work was designed to make its appeal largely to the intellect rather than to elemental emotions. To the singers fell difficult recitations. The composer has developed a new phase of orchestration other than the use of "motifs" by the allotting of certain tonalities to his characters.

BRIAN HOOKER.

Story Typically Druid.

The story is typically Druid. Mona, a British girl, is about to wed Gywnn, son of the Roman governor, who is only known to her as a bard. A rebellion develops and Mona is made leader. Gywnn swears allegiance to the conspirators and then tries to bring about peace between the Britons and the Romans. The Britons are defeated. Mona, believing Gywnn a traitor and then a liar, when he tells her he is the son of the Roman governor, kills him. As she is led away captive, she learns that her lover spoke the truth.

To Riccardio Martin, the tenor, whose home is in Kentucky, fell the part of Gwynn and he filled it creditably. Louise Homer sang the part of Mona and Putnam Griswold was the Roman governor. Alfred Hertz conducted the intricate score with authority and skill.

MORE ARRESTS IN OLD DETECTIVE FRAUD CASE.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 15.—Harry H. Perkins of a firm of local detectives and James McKane, an employe, were arrested for conspiracy here by officers from Erie, Pa. Almost simultaneously Mortimer Hall, a relative of Perkins, was arrested in Erie, Pa., on the same charge. The arrests were made in connection with the desecration of the mausoleum of the late Congressman W. L. Scott in Erie in February, 1911. The men furnished bail for $1,000 for a hearing at Erie March 23.

At the same time warrants were issued for Gilbert Perkins, father of Harry, who was head of the detective business, and Charles Franklin, former manager of the bureau's Philadelphia branch. The two latter men were convicted of blackmail in connection with some Black Hand letters sent to Mrs. Charles Strong of Erie during the investigation of the vandalism a year ago, and were taken to Leavenworth prison from this city last Tuesday.

The charges are said to have been the result of a conspiracy to cause the desecration of the tomb, that the detective agency might be employed to unravel the alleged mystery.

MUST PAY $105,000 FOR SINKING VESSEL.

New York, March 15.—Judge Holt of the United States district court has ordered the American Mail Steamship company, owner of the steamship Admiral Farragut, to pay into the court $105,000 to cover all claims resulting from the sinking of the steamship Merida of the New York & Cuba Mail Steamship line last May. The decree followed a motion to set a limitation of liability in the case. The aggregate claims amount to $1,800,000.

The Admiral Farragut sank the Merida off Cape Charles, Va., May 12 last. The 188 passengers and crew of 181 men were all saved.

BUTTER AND EGGS LOWER

Fresh Southern Vegetables Are More Plentiful and Cheaper.

Louisiana and Texas Strawberry Crop Good---Coming Early in April.

The changes that have taken place on the local produce market since a week ago are such as to indicate the approach of spring. Many foods are beginning to cheapen by reason of the passing of the wintry weather. Others, which have been kept from last fall's harvest, not coming into competition with any spring products, are still higher than they were in the winter, by reason of the steadily accumulating expense of storage.

No food has had its price more affected by the coming of milder weather than eggs. The wholesale price is now down to 20 cents. A week ago it was 22 cents and two weeks ago, 28 cents. Minnesota eggs are coming upon the market in large quantities. It is likely that the heavy influx will continue. Produce merchants seem to be expecting a further decline, for they are not buying eggs, even at the present comparatively low prices. They are buying "from hand to mouth," taking only what they need for the immediate demand of the trade. They do not wish to have large quantities of eggs on their hands, bought at the present price, after the price has gone still lower.

Butter also shows the effect of the coming of more balmy days. The finest creamery is now selling at wholesale at Duluth for 30 cents a pound. A week ago the price was 32 cents. Cream is no longer so scarce and hard to get as it was in very cold weather, when cows were not giving nearly so much milk.

Some the fresh vegetables, which come from Florida, are cheaper by reason of the advance of the season. Green beans have dropped from $6 to $5.50 per hamper and wax beans from $6.25 to $5.25 per bushel box.

Florida tomatoes are no cheaper, but they are much better, and are coming in large quantities. Hothouse cucumbers have dropped from $2.02 to $2 a dozen.

Florida strawberries, which a week ago were bringing 75 cents a quart are now selling for 65 cents a quart. They are coming in somewhat larger quantities, though they are still quite scarce, and there is little demand for them at so high a price. The time is not far distant, however, when Louisiana and Texas strawberries will be coming in. Word has been received from these states that the crops are looking well and it is expected that there will be a large yield of very fine berries. Shipping of strawberries in these states will begin about the first of April. The first carload to arrive in Duluth will probably be received about April 5.

Squashes are no longer to be seen on the Duluth markets. The supplies of Minnesota and Wisconsin squashes have been almost, if not entirely, consumed, and it is not likely that any more will be seen here before next fall.

Cabbages are higher, the price has risen from $3 to $4 per hundred pounds since a week ago. Southern cabbages are late. Moreover, there will probably be no Southern cabbages brought upon the local market, until the Minnesota and Wisconsin cabbages are entirely gone, as the Southern cabbages are considerably higher. After the Northern cabbages have completely disappeared, cabbages grown in California will appear on the Duluth market. This may be after about two weeks.

Potatoes are still high and they do not show any signs of cheapening. The Southern demand for Northern potatoes has been very strong.

Cranberries are still going up on account of the accumulating cost of storage. A box of fancy Jerseys that brought $3.50 a week ago now brings $3.75.

The apple market is strengthening from the same cause that has put up cranberries. The demand for them is still very good. More are being sold now than is usual at this season of the year.

Oranges are likely to go up, if the heavy rains in California continue. During the last week the weather in that state has been very rainy and has interfered with the picking and packing of oranges.

Grape fruit is high. The movement is rather slow.

The prices of poultry are a little stronger. Few fowls are yet coming upon the market from the country.

Sugar has gone down a little. Both cane and beet granulated are 10 cents per hundred weight lower than they were a week ago.

KANSAS WOODMEN DECIDE TO SECEDE.

Kansas City, Mo., March 15.—Representatives of all the 152 lodges of the Modern Woodmen of America in Kansas decided to secede from the parent organization and form an independent order at a meeting in Kansas City, Kan., yesterday. The recent increase in insurance rates by the parent body was the cause. An executive committee composed of one member from each congressional district will formulate the plans for the new organization.

Milady's Toilet Table

By Mme. D'MILLE

One great advantage of a dry shampoo is that it requires only a few minutes. It takes out all the dust, excess of oil and dandruff, and leaves the scalp clean, cool and refreshed. The best shampoo powder is a mixture of a cupful of cornmeal and a small original package of therox. Just sprinkle a little on the head and brush thoroughly through the hair.

A harmless, safe and sure way to remove superfluous hair is to apply a delatone paste. Mix enough powdered delatone with water to cover the hairs; leave on for two minutes, then wipe off, wash the skin and the hairs will be gone.

To keep the skin smooth and soft and make the complexion natural and attractive, rub over the face, neck and arms each morning a lotion made by dissolving a small original package of mayatone in a half pint of witch hazel. This is much better than powder, for it will not rub off and the complexion needs no retouching all day long.

There should be a jar of Mother's Salve in every home. It heals minor cuts, burns and scalds without leaving a scar. It is a splendid remedy for sores, skin eruptions, pimples, eczema and similar beauty destroyers.

SHORTAGE IN COAL SUPPLY

Demoralizes Shipping Business of Europe and Affects Trans-Atlantic Liners.

Zinc, Copper and Cotton Show Much Strength—Outlook Good.

New York, March 15.—The British coal strike has demoralized the steamship business of all Western Europe and is already affecting the trans-Atlantic liners.

Steamship service between such important points as Christiania, Bergen and Tromso, in Northern Europe, has been partially suspended, and all the French vessels plying the waters of the Mediterranean have received instructions to reduce speed in order to prolong their supplies of coal.

Coal here has advanced in price this week, and to complicate the situation come adjustments that may have to be made upon miners' wage scales in this country.

There is one line of business that if there comes no clash between the miners and the operators for the next twelve months will surpass all records in its production, in its sale, both in tonnage and in the values, and that is the trade in coal.

Coke ovens, smelters, forges and consumption of all kinds will be using greater quantities than ever before, and consumers, from the smallest to the largest users, have but small reserves, and from the orders being filed are anxious to buy, not only for immediate consumption, but in order to possess a reserve supply in a case of a strike in the mines.

Supply in America.

Whether the impression is correct or not the idea has taken strong hold upon our people of this Eastern section of the country that their fuel supply is certain to be interrupted during the present year by strikes at the mines, and they are preparing themselves for a time of scarcity of fuel.

This stands the coal companies well in hand at this time of the year, for they are now entering the season that usually is dull and associated with the lowest prices of the year.

The managers are not bothered now with a declining demand, but are able to make good profits for their investors, and the only fear is a difference in the arrangement of a new wage scale, which is to go into effect about April 1 next.

If there be no strike the entire working forces will have all they can do for the remainder of the year to meet the demands of the public.

Zinc has taken a rapid rise and 60 per cent grade is within $2.50 per ton of its highest recorded sale.

Copper, too, has been very strong, and the 15-cent-per-pound metal is almost at hand, and it is very likely the placing of two or three large orders for that metal would send the price above these figures.

The large metal producers do not wish the price to go much beyond 15 to 16 cents per pound.

Premiums on New Sources.

They regard higher prices to be but a premium upon the opening up of new sources of copper, and consequently dangerous to a healthy operation of the law of supply and demand.

It is the stock speculators, those who desire to produce excitement in the share markets, who are anxious for metal prices to be run up so they can show large profits to the investing public, and thus get big prices for the stocks.

The true metal producers are strongly opposed to the program of the speculators. They feel safer with their daily business of selling their metal steadily at a fair price than having the trade made uncertain through speculative prices surely to be followed by injurious depression.

Cotton was another commodity that displayed much strength, and advices from the various ports point to a total exportation of nearly 10,000,000 bales before the end of the last season's crop is reached.

This is the largest amount of cotton ever exported in one year, and if China had been at peace it is but reasonable to believe that fully one-half cent per pound more would have been received by the cotton planters for their crop.

The civil war in China has been cleverly used by European buyers and their agents in this country as a factor of price depression, and has kept down the price of all the cotton sent abroad since the beginning of the shipments last August.

The news from Pittsburg that from 82 to 90 per cent of the capacity of the Steel corporation was in active service, taken in connection with the reports of several large new orders being ready for filing, created a very strong sentiment among business generally that the opening up of spring was to place all our great industries in a state of activity far beyond the calculations of the majority of trade reviewers.

New Jersey Realty.

There has been a sudden expansion in realty transactions in all parts of the city, also in New Jersey, in the district north of Trenton to New York.

The dealings in realty of what may be termed the midtown district, or from Fourteenth street to Fifty-ninth, have been numerous and prices realized have shown good advances.

The greater part of the transactions, taking them as a whole, were along the avenues to the east and west of Broadway and indicate a widening of the active business district of the city.

The opinion of real estate men for the last ten years has been that Fifty-ninth street would mark for a long term of years the northern line of active business.

Now that it has been reached with such trade operations they reason that the business district will widen out and take in eventually the entire middle of Manhattan below the park line, which is really formed by Fifty-ninth street.

Accompanying this increase in realty transactions there has been a fine start made in new construction work in New Jersey and in the suburbs in New York state.

The demand for small houses, stores and dwellings is pressing, and there seems a general desire of the people to get away from the congested districts as the spring approaches.

There is no doubt that the invasion of business to the districts of former residences and tenements and the tearing down of so many of these to make way for storehouses, business blocks and skyscrapers for industries and offices is partly responsible for the exodus to the outlying sections, and has caused much of the demand for independent homes.

Every person in New Yorok feels that the change is for the better in every way and that the tearing down of so many of these human rookeries will be beneficial to the health, the morals, the comfort and the financial interests of the people that filled them, but that now are being scattered through the suburbs, where sunlight and fresh air are not novelties.

The summing up of the business of the week is all very encouraging and not for the past year has there been such an unanimity of opinion as to fine prospects of the immediate future nor such confidence in the results of the present year.

DEAD TRAIN ROBBER IS ESCAPED CONVICT.

San Antonio, Tex., March 15.—The robbers who attempted to hold up a Southern Pacific train near Sanderson and were killed have been identified as Ed Welch, an escaped convict, and a man named Kilpatrick, of whom little is known. A pack saddle with 800 rounds of ammunition, four revolvers and rifles were found on a pack-horse in the bandits' outfit.

AGED MINISTER DIES TRYING TO SAVE BOY.

Winnipeg, Man., March 15.—Word has been received here of the burning to death of Rev. David Cattanach, a superannuated Methodist minister, and Walter Blackburn, 4 years old, when fire destroyed a farmhouse near Dauphin, Man. Both bodies were found near a window, where the clergyman had sought in vain to save the boy. The window had stuck. The family was not at home.

MAKES PUNY CHILDREN ROBUST

Plenty of romping in the open air is undoubtedly an ideal way to harden a child, and yet all the playing it might do will not keep it perfectly well unless its little organs are working harmoniously. Chief of these organs are the stomach and bowels. They are the basis of all health, in childhood as well as in maturity. Clogged bowels result in poisons. The blood is vitiated, and nervousness, lassitude and other disorders result. Soon the child complains of feeling ill, or does not complain but acts it. The mother should be quick to notice it. Restless sleep and indifference to food are good evidences. It is easy, however, to correct the trouble, and the careful mother will always have a reliable remedy for the purpose at hand. The remedy needed, and which no family should be without, is a trustworthy, mild laxative that a child can take without nausea and yet effective enough for satisfactory results in a grown person. Such a laxative, filling all the requirements of an ideal family laxative is DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN. Few mothers have not heard of it, and fewer yet who do not keep it constantly in the house. Its use when a laxative is needed is sure to result in the good health of all the family, for all can use it. It has replaced in all intelligent homes the promiscuous use of salts, waters and cathartics generally—purgatives that are seldom needed, and especially not by children, women, old people and all others who require a gentle laxative only. The cost of keeping DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN in the house is trifling and the saving that results in doctors' bills, etc., is very important. Keeping the bowels open, at all periods of life, maintains good, robust health and prevents colds, fevers and the minor skin and blood disorders.

Dr. Caldwell:
I received the sample of Syrup Pepsin and it did me so much good that since then I've used two 50c bottles. I went to my druggist. I will do all I can to recommend it to my friends.
Edna H. Dickinson,
Verndale, Minn.

Dr. Caldwell:
I received the sample of Syrup Pepsin and also got a $1.00 bottle from my druggist and have used it and must say it is all you claim for it. It cured me of a bad cold and as a laxative it can't be beaten.
Wm. Rischette,
Tunnel City, Wis.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 405 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

GERTRUDE KATHRYN SMITH

Dr. Caldwell:
Will say I received your free sample of Syrup Pepsin. I have used a 60c bottle since then and like it fine. Our little girl was very sick with bowel trouble last winter and am using it for her and another little girl that had indigestion. Many thanks.
Mrs. A. W. Smith, Viola, Ill.

Dr. Caldwell:
I have tried your sample bottle that you sent me and it seemed to help so I went to the drug store and got a 50c bottle. I think it is the best thing in the world for constipation. I have been bothered with it for years and never got anything to cure before I used your Syrup Pepsin.

DUTY OF SCHOOLS TO DISCOURAGE SNOBBERY

More Than 400 Guests at Opening Banquet of Educators.

President George E. Vincent of the University of Minnesota in an address on "The New Duty of the School," delivered last evening at the banquet of the Educational Association of Minnesota at the Spalding, showed plainly that he was no friend of a social caste system. He declared that it was one of the duties of the school today to teach true democracy and counteract snobbish tendencies among the pupils.

The banquet was the opening event of the twelfth annual convention of the association, the program of which covers a period of three days. Superintendents, principals and teachers from this part of the state, together with a sprinkling of visitors, gathered at the banquet at which covers were laid for 400. Not one of the places that had been prepared was left unoccupied.

Immediately after the banquet, just before the speaking began, about 200 more guests, who had previously been unable to gain admission, filed into the hall. Many were accommodated by placing such seats as were handy in the aisles between the tables and the walls, and others managed to seat themselves on the shelves along the walls, from which the waiters had done serving.

PRESIDENT G. E. VINCENT.

The hall was beautifully and profusely decorated for the occasion with flags and pennants of various educational institutions.

All the available floor space was occupied with the tables. At one end sat the orchestra, composed of twelve picked members of the orchestra of the Duluth Central high school, whose membership includes forty. The students played various appropriate and well-known selections of both popular and classical music, giving the gathering entertainment both before, during, and after the banquet. After the speaking was over, and the banquet equipment was removed, the same orchestra furnished music for a long series of dances.

Welcomed by Denfeld.

J. P. Vaughan of Chisholm, president of the association, who was toastmaster for the evening, first introduced R. E. Denfeld, superintendent of schools of Duluth, who extended the hospitality of the city to its visitors. He spoke of the rich resources of this section of the state and said he was proud of the spirit of progressiveness in its inhabitants, a spirit that was amply reflected by the splendid gathering that was in attendance at the convention of the Educational Association of Northeastern Minnesota.

Edward M. Morgan, attorney, the next speaker, painted a highly realistic picture, at once humorous and pathetic, of the efforts that are usually made by college-bred men to improve social conditions of the communities in which they locate and the miserable failures that usually follow these attempts, by reason of indifference and opposition on the part of others. Yet he declared that in his opinion the principal mission of college men and college women was to see that salutary legislation was enacted, and that, after being enacted, was enforced.

In introducing the principal speaker of the evening, the toastmaster said he was at a loss to find some laudatory adjective, as the dictionary had been exhausted in that respect by others who had introduced President Vincent on other occasions, so he would merely speak of him as the head of a university which, in the opinion of the toastmaster, was destined to become one of the leading educational institutions of this country.

Vincent's Speech.

President Vincent, when he arose to speak, was greeted with prolonged applause. He said, in part:

"I was assigned to talk on 'The New Duty of the School,' but if I had not already given a copy of my speech to the newspapers, I would be strongly tempted to change my subject. I don't think you teachers care to have a college professor tell you what or what ont to do. That is continually dinned in your ears when at home. You have come here for a little relaxation and desire to forget your more serious duties for a day or two; but it is not to be. I must talk on this subject, and there on the wall is a reminder: 'School opens Monday.'

Changing Conditions.

"We are not responsible for the fact that conditions change, yet we must constantly keep pace with them. We no more than get accustomed to one method of teaching when it is thrown out as being obsolete and we are compelled to learn another.

"The teacher is in the community to raise the level of intelligence. He or she must be especially trained for the work, yet we must live just so and act just so. We dare not use slang phrases, even if they would fit the occasion. We must travel in a fixed orbit.

"For this reason you can tell a teacher on sight a mile away. It is our duty to change the system that prescribes our mode of living and limits our activities. It is the new duty of the schools.

Never Catch Up.

"Education is, in a sense, always 'behind the times.' Economic and social changes create problems and call attention to new duties. The school is forced too often reluctantly to change its time and methods to meet shifting social needs.

"The 'industrial revolution' which began in England in the eighteenth century has transformed modern society, and is still at work in contemporary American life. The factory system and steam transportation have profoundly modified the family by turning over many of its functions to social agencies. Economic classes, not sharply defined but clearly distinguished, are becoming increasingly conscious of themseves and of each other. Moreover the nation is being urbanized, not only are our great cities growing larger, but city customs, standards, and ideals are being widely distributed through rural regions.

"The school is not an independent power which descends from above to elevate the community. It is rather an organ of society in close relation to the common life. Boards of education represent usually the conventional ideas of the community. Teachers feel that they must conform to accepted standards of the profession and to the expectations of the countrysides, towns and cities which they serve. The influence of press, conversation, admired types, manners and customs is exerting a steady pressure upon the school as an institution.

"It follows that the problems of society force themselves into the school, and throw upon it additional tasks of instruction (as for example, manual training, domestic science, agriculture) but responsibility for training in manners, in social amenities, in the spirit of cooperation in moral deals, which used to be entrusted so largely to the family.

Class Distinctions.

"Class distinctions begin to creep into the school. These differences in the community manifest themselves in the sets and sliques of school children, in their dress, in their attitudes toward each other, in theid ideals and valuations. In high schools, fraternities and sororities—with a few exceptions—tend to foster snobbishness, jealousy, envy and arrogance. Standards of dress, entertaining, expenditures and conduct are more and more affected by vulgar ideas of ostentatious rivalry and material success. In these circumstances the school cannot shirk its responsibility. It must consciously become a socializing agency; it must preserve the democracy of the school community; it must exalt ideals of simplicity, sincerity, tolerance and good will.

"While large numbers of families maintain a normal life which provides social training for children, it is nevertheless true that in all communities, and seemingly in increasing numbers, families are not equipped with the property or the personalities to make them effective socializing agencies. The school, therefore, must become a social center with its entertainments, its parents' associations, its receptions for auduits, its many activities, which not only draw a community together, but give to pupils training in responsibility, co-operation, the spirit of hospitality, and in a sense of social service.

"It is impossible to prevent groupings among children; it is natural for them to form these juvenile societies. But these groupings need not be based upon artificial distinctions of wealth, family or social status. Secret or exclusive school societies organized upon such a basis undermine the discipline and destroy the democracy of the school community. The school must, therefore, consciously direct the social groupings and activities of its pupils. Athletics under wise and high-minded direction may be of great service; musical organizations are valuable; debating societies, dramatic clubs, and many other forms of organization may be turned to account. A true loyalty and school spirit may be wisely fostered.

Display in Dress.

"The school must, in co-operation with parents, discourage display in dress, extravagance and later hours in entertainments, cheap ideals of personal distinction, the essential insincerity of living beyond one's means. All this can be done not negatively, but positively by showing the possibility of good taste which expresses itself through inexpensive and appropriate materials, through worthy forms of social intercourse, through gentleness, courtesy and true comradeship.

"The school cannot rise above the level of its teachers. No mechanism can take the place of personality. The new duty of the school is really a personal obligation of the teaching profession. Only as teachers themselves achieve insight into the life about them, sympathy with the finest, noblest things, loyalty to high purposes, can they successfully discharge the new duty of the school. The teachers must frankly withstand the vulgarizing influences which sweep through community and nation. By the contagion of their own personalities they must communicate to their pupils real devotion to things of the mind and spirit, to democracy, simplicity, sincerity and good will."

FORMAL RE-OPENING

OF THE

HENRICKSEN'S RETAIL JEWELRY STORE

Plans Regarding the Future of This Well-Known and Reliable Jewelry Establishment.

The Henricksen Jewelry Co. has decided to retain and continue the retail jewelery business at 332 West Superior street, Providence Building. In view of the repeated announcements which we made during the summer and fall of 1911, that this retail store was to be closed out and disposed of by us, we feel it is due to our friends and loyal patrons and the public generally to make an explanation of the reasons why we find it necessary and desirable to make this change in our plans.

In the first place, let us state that our announcement that we would discontinue the retail jewelery business was bona fide. After twenty years of successful service to the people of Duluth and vicinity we found our wholesale jobbing and manufacturing department grown to such proportions as to demand our full time and attention, to the detriment of our retail stores. We therefore advertised our retail store, stock, fixtures, lease and good will for sale in the National Jewelers' journals.

We found a customer who agreed to take over the retail store, fixtures, lease and balance of stock left on hand. Our recent big sales were held for the purpose of reducing our $100,000 stock to the figure at which our prospective customer agreed to buy. When the time of transfer, Jan. 1, 1912, came, for reasons unknown to us, this party was unwilling or unable to close the deal as per original agreement, asking us to make unreasonable concessions which would compel a sacrifice on our part of what had taken twenty years to build up; the business which we have nursed from its infancy with pleasure and pride to ourselves and to all our friends. In the meantime we have negotiated with others with a view to effecting a satisfactory disposal of the retail store, but without results. We therefore beg to anounce that

In Addition to Our Wholesale Business at 201-2-3-4 Providence Building

With a complete New Stock throughout, confining ourselves to the exclusive high-grade jewelers' line, with repairing and manufacturing department fully equipped for all demands, with a view to offering the public at all times the best and choicest in jewelry and silverware that the market affords.

Everything is to be marked in plain figures. Strictly One Price to one and all. Correct representation guaranteed, and the best values consistent with right and just business methods.

We ask the continuance of the patronage of all people who appreciate value and artistic effect in Jewelry, Watches, Diamonds, Fine China, Cut Glass, Bric-a-Brac.

We hereby extend to every one a cordial invitation to visit our retail store on a tour of inspection, for genuine bargains, and particularly at the time of our formal reopening, announcement of which will appear in the daily papers.

With indulgence, we are yours truly,

SAYS TEACHERS SHOULDN'T MARRY

Kansas Superintendent Would Prohibit Marriage During School Year.

Topeka, Kan., March 15.—To prevent an epidemic of marriage among school teachers, Miss Rebecca D. Kiner, superintendent of schools for Brown county, advises school boards to insert a clause prohibiting matrimony during the life of the contract for which women teachers are employed.

Miss Kiner makes this recommendation in the interest of the parents who pay taxes to support the schools. Several teachers have married and given up their schools in Brown county since Jan. 1, making it necessary to fill their places with inexperienced persons.

Miss Kiner will urge all the 200 school district boards in Brown county to insert the anti-matrimony clause in the teachers' contracts for the new school year beginning on Sept. 1.

It is certain the reform started by Miss Kiner will extend to many other counties. There are forty-eight women holding positions of county superintendent in Kansas, and many of these have complained of the disorganization of rural or one-teacher schools by the marriage of the women teachers in the middle of the term.

In a few cases the district boards have insisted on the anti-marriage clause in the contract with teachers. These communities are well known to the women who teach school and only those who have abandoned hope of matrimony apply for positions there.

Young women in the county who are competent to teach, and who are engaged to be married, are prone to contract to teach a term of six or seven months, and in the middle of the term leave the school for the new relation.

To this is added another complaint from school authorities. A young woman teacher who is in love and whose thoughts and attention are bestowed upon the man of her choice cannot render efficient service in the schoolroom.

The forty-eight women county superintendents in Kansas who are devoted to their work and who are not in the marriageable list are the first to note the neglect of school work by women teachers who are receiving the attention of young men and who are making preparations for marriage. The superintendents make these discoveries during their visits to the schools.

WOODMEN'S BY-LAW KNOCKED OUT BY COURT.

Des Moines, Iowa, March 15.—The legality of a paragraph in the by-laws of the Modern Woodman of America was knocked out by the Iowa supreme court yesterday when that body ruled that the general organization is responsible for acts and omissions of a local camp agent.

The ruling was made in the appeal of Barbara M. Collver, whose husband met death while intoxicated. Collver held a Woodman policy and evidence tended to show that his local camp agent had accepted dues for two years, during which time he knew of Collver's excessive use of liquor.

Peddler Beats Wrong Boy.

Menominee, Mich., March 15. — (Special to The Herald.) — Nathan Wakaler, a peddler, was arrested and fined $5 for assaulting a boy named Chester De Voe. The man was struck on the head by a piece of ice thrown by small boys and thought De Voe was the culprit and beat him. It seems, however, that he chastised the wrong boy.

THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNORSHIP.

What is the matter with the lieutenant-governorship, anyway? No one seems to care enough about that position to make any active canvass for it.—St. Peter Free Press.

Yet that position will be filled, and it is in this very public indifference to it that the powers of greed and corruption find their opportunity.

For the office of lieutenant-governor is fully as important to special interests seeking to control legislative processes as the governorship. In some respects it is far more important.

Therefore it is highly important to the people that this office should be filled by the right kind of a man.

The lieutenant-governor presides over the senate, and in that capacity appoints the senate committees. He will frame those committees in accordance with his own individual bias, or in accordance with the will of those who put him in his place of power. It is possible, by a deft arrangement of committee appointments, to delay and often defeat the will of a majority of the senate.

The lieutenant-governor, as president of the senate, presides over its deliberations, and appoints the chairman of the committee of the whole. By his rulings the president of the senate and the chairman of the committee of the whole can delay and often defeat the will of the majority—especially when, as often happens, there are members of that majority who are very willing to be defeated so long as they need not go on record as helping in that defeat.

In the past the public has been careless, and the special interests careful, in this matter. That is why the president of the senate usually has framed committees entirely to the liking of the special interests. Until Sam Y. Gordon, a country editor, somchow broke through the ring, every important senate committee was made up as the special interest chiefly concerned in its work dictated.

This vital fact, which has a direct bearing on the reactionary condition of the legislative machinery of the state, was true in every detail when Adolph O. Eberhart was lieutenant-governor and president of the senate, and when Ed Smith was a senator from Minneapolis and bell wether for the special interests in the senate.

Which leads to another very strong reason why public neglect of this important office amounts to criminal carelessness:

WHEN THE GOVERNOR DIES OR RESIGNS OR OTHERWISE VACATES HIS OFFICE, THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR BECOMES GOVERNOR.

When the state elects a lieutenant-governor, it elects a man who has absolute power over the appointment of senate committees, and a man who may become governor of the state in the not impossible events of the death, resignation or impeachment of the elected executive.

This is no office that the people can afford to neglect and permit the special interests to fill unnoticed at their pleasure.

Each party should nominate for this office the best man it can get—a man who can be trusted to serve the people's interests in the use of the large powers the lieutenant-governor possesses over the actions of the senate, and a man whom the state will not blush for if he is made governor.

The people neglected this office in 1906 and 1908, and so Adolph O. Eberhart became lieutenant-governor. John A. Johnson died in 1909, and so Lieutenant-Governor Eberhart became governor.

That ought to be object lesson enough to make the people and the parties extremely careful in their selections of candidates for lieutenant-governor.

Mr. Groundhog's six weeks are up today. Maybe—that is, perhaps—anyway, we'll hope so.

WHY THIS SEVERITY?

According to a telegraph story in The Herald last evening a Pennsylvania woman, hired to take charge of a motherless babe, branded the child with a hot poker, crippling and disfiguring it. This merry occupation was interrupted by neighbors who heard the baby's screams, and the woman was arrested. A judge sentenced her to a whole year in the county jail.

Why this ferocity? Why not have had the lady slapped on the wrist and gently admonished?

If there really should be a coal strike—but what's the use of borrowing trouble? It would be a heap more sensible to borrow a few tons of anthracite.

MAN, THE GULLIBLE.

The average man of small means has no interest in six per cent, because it is possible and safe, and therefore prosaic and commonplace.

But sometimes it looks as though pretty nearly everybody could be caught on almost any harebrained kind of scheme promising profits of a hundred per cent, because they are only very remotely probable and therefore have an element of chance that gives them piquant attraction.

Says the Outlook Magazine: "Many events in recent years have gone a long way to shake the impression that Americans, though lacking in artistic impulse, are shrewd business people. It seems only to be necessary to hold out some alluring promise of impossible profits to secure a good living through the mails. Mining shafts which were never sunk, ore which was never brought to the surface, enormous plants which are purely imaginary, form an attraction which to many good, honest but dull-minded people seem irresistible. Any clever scoundrel who will promise 30 per cent in six months or 120 per cent in a year, has only to hire a small room, put in a desk and open his morning mail in order to live like a millionaire, with a limousine in the street waiting to take him to an expensive restaurant for a Roman feast."

The easiest thing in all ages, and the most certainly profitable—temporarily, at any rate—has been to live fatly by fraud on the savings of the poor and the gullible.

Says the Kansas City Star, commenting on the Outlook's reflections: "It would be interesting to know to what age the philosopher belonged who first discovered that 'a sucker is born every second.' For in every age since the discovery was made, swindlers have capitalized it to their gain, notwithstanding the warnings, examples, statutes and punishments prepared for the defense of the get-rich-quickers.

"Whether it was Montague Tigg and David Crimple and Jonas Chuzzlewit with their Anglo-Bengalee Disinterested Loan and Life Insurance company, or whether it was Mr. Merdle, with his great banking scheme to receive the dollars of the 'suckers,' the least difficult things known to the Get-Rich-Quick Wallingfords of every nation, every tongue and every clime has been to discover the way to get the money of the 'suckers.' That has been the easy task. And apparently the field is as fruitful in America today as ever before. The Easy Mark family is one at least that shows no shadow of a sign of race suicide."

And do you know the principle on which these crooks of all ages have usually fed? It is that the average man cares more for sudden and unearned wealth than he does for work and for the satisfaction there is in work for its own sake and in modest wealth honestly earned; and that among the "average" men there is a very liberal sprinkling of those who have no objection to "gouging" somebody else. The honest Reuben who buys "green goods," expecting to pass counterfeit money off on his neighbors; the man who bets on a race because of a tip that it has been "fixed," only to find that it had been "fixed" against him; the man who is caught on a "wire-tapping" scheme for beating the stock market: these victims are as dishonest as their plunderers, and the sharpers capitalize their dishonesty for their own dishonest profit.

Six per cent and safety is commonplace and prosaic; and those who content themselves with it get on. Those who squander their money on 100-per-cent sure things are the improvidents who never do get on, because they are always sitting with their mouths open waiting for the heavens to rain apples.

An army regiment is to maroh 112 miles as a test for some new shoes. That would be an interesting experiment for anybody with new shoes.

CLARK CARRIES KANSAS.

Champ Clark carried the Kansas Democratic convention by a narrow margin, and will get the Kansas vote in the Democratic national convention.

Which is about as significant as the Dutch carrying Holland, and by no means indicates that the Democratic party is going to be stupid enough to nominate Clark for president.

If Clark had strength anywhere, he should have it in Missouri, Oklahoma and Kansas. He got Missouri easily as its favorite son, but there were signs that if there had been a presidential primary it would not have been so easy a prize. Oklahoma he divided with Wilson, which was much less than he should have expected and much more than Wilson's friends hoped for. And now he gets Kansas by a squeeze. The second choice both in Kansas and Oklahoma is Wilson; which lessens the victory of the anti-Wilson forces very materially.

For Clark, this is doing the least that he hoped for, and that not easily.

For Wilson, this is showing strength with the people, even in territory pre-empted by another, which in conditions as they are elsewhere will result in delegation after delegation that will be for Wilson first, last and all the time.

Of course it isn't his fault that the name Mahlon Pitney sounds so much like "blamed pity."

CONCESSIONS.

The Lawrence mill workers are offered an increase of 7 per cent in their wages.

That's much better than nothing, and probably the striking miserables of polyglot Lawrence should take it and go back to work.

The mill-owners, though, would occupy a more admirable position if this concession of better pay had come from impulses of humanity and pity rather than impulses of fear.

But the increase still leaves something to be desired.

Seven per cent advance on $6 a week would make the new average wage $6.42 a week.

Even this increased wage will hardly tempt dealers in automobiles, diamonds, furs, champagne and steam yachts to solicit business among the woolen mill workers who are prospering so bountifully under the "protection" of Schedule K.

Perhaps that Hillsville, Va., affair is President Taft's idea of the operation of the recall of the judiciary.

LA FOLLETTE ATTACKS ROOSEVELT.

Senator La Follette, campaigning for the presidency in North Dakota, says that if Roosevelt had been what he claims to be he would have stopped the trust-forming orgy in the early years of his administration, when it was at its height.

One reason he didn't was that there were rich pickings in the trust-forming era, and that so many people hoped to participate in the picking that there wasn't much of any public sentiment in favor of enforcing the Sherman law.

But beyond any question, that was the time when something could have been accomplished by enforcing the Sherman law. Taft is locking the stable door now, but the horse is gone.

A Pennsylvania woman who deliberately burned a tiny baby with a hot poker has been sent to jail for a year. There, take that, you horrid thing!

IT MIGHT HAVE BEEN WORSE.

The Houston, Mo., Republican reports the bad luck of Mr. Gates Patterson: "He went to see his best girl one night last week, and while he was courting her some one took his saddle off his horse and led it out in an old field and killed it."

This was a very mean trick, and we can all join with the Houston Republican in extending sympathy to Mr. Patterson.

But it might have been worse. The miscreants might have killed the horse.

One of the leading Chinese brigands is named Luk, but if he's caught it's pretty certain the authorities will not wait to try their Luk. They're not doing things that way over there.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

TAKES GLOOMY VIEW OF FARM LIFE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Being one of those who have been unfortunate enough to be idle during the greater part of this winter and having a family to support, I have looked around for some other occupation that would be more remunerative, and having read and heard so much about farming and back to the land, I decided to look into the matter. The following figures are a result of my investigation and might be of some benefit to others who are thinking along the same lines. Having had some acquaintances in Carlton county I made my investigation there and the conditions there apply to most of the land that is fit for agricultural purposes tributary to the Head of the Lakes.

The first item that staggered me was the price asked for land, $22 per acre for land in the track of desolation, left after the lumbermen and fire; not a tree left for the settler to erect his buildings with, not even for firewood. It was absolutely non-producing with not even good roads, but having a crop of pine stumps averaging ninety to the acre and which would cost at least $50 per acre to remove and put the land in producing condition. Add to this the first cost, $22, makes $72 per acre that it would cost to put this land in producing condition. And now come the buildings and equipment for operating with, on the basis of an eighty-acre tract.

Pair of horses, wagon, sleighs, harness, chains, etc.	$ 600.00
Two cows	100.00
One dozen chickens	7.50
Two young pigs	10.00
House for a family of four	800.00
Stables for animals	200.00
Well, pump, etc	125.00
Insurance	10.00
Living for family of four for fourteen months	400.00
Living for animals until land is producing	375.00
Explosives and hired help to clear ten acres	250.00
Seed oats for ten acres	25.00
Timothy, clover seed for five acres	35.00
Seed potatoes for one acre	8.00
Implements for cultivating and seeding	60.00
Total	$3,005.50
Add to this the first cost of eighty acres of land at $22	$1,760.00
Making a total investment of	$4,765.50

And as this land does not produce anything until the second season the following is about the return on the investment at the end of the second season:

Returns from ten acres of oats, 300 bushels, at 50 cents	$150.00
Returns from one acre of potatoes, 100 bushels, at 50 cents.	50.00
Returns from cows	60.00
Other sources	18.00
Total returns	$278.00
Here we have a return of $278 on the original investment of	$4,765.00
Add to this the farmer's time for two seasons	1,000.00
A total of	$5,765.50

I might here say that the above figures were verified by two practical farmers residing in Carlton county as being about correct.

I realize that the farmer would have smoother sailing after the second season, but how many prospective farmers are there with capital enough to stand a siege of this kind? And it seems to me he would be a fool to do so. I question if he would ever realize 2 per cent on the capital invested.

I, for one, came to the conclusion that farming from an office on Superior street and from the standpoint of the actual settler are two entirely different propositions. As I see it, any man who pioneers under the above conditions should be paid a premium instead of being charged an exorbitant price for land, and then take off your hat to him when he comes to town, as the pioneers are the men who make cities grow.

ROBERTSON,

Duluth, March 13.

BELITTLES CLAIMS OF MILL WORKERS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I have been reading your paper and have followed up the strike question in Lawrence and I would like to give my ideas on the subject. Seventy per cent of the people who work in the Lawrence mills are all Greeks, Syrians, Slavs and Hungarians and about certain mill matters they know nothing. The work of the men consists of washing rooms, and carrying bobbins and keeping the mills clean and drying rooms where an English speaking person would not work unless paid half reasonably, but the foreigners have taken their places and by their own fault have cut the wages where they now stand and they have no one to blame but themselves. I will endeavor to give you as near as possible what the wages of people who have worked there and are working there are at the present time. The spinners receive about $7.50 a week, taking care of two sides of a spinning frame and it does not take a girl any more than two weeks to learn how to do that and their ages average from 14 to 38. Sometimes you will find one or two who are at the ages of 45 but not very often. The doffers remove the bobbins when they are filled with yarn and they receive $4.50 a week and their ages average from 12 to 16. From that they go to work on spinning and that is as far as the average ambition goes. The weaving which is done by mostly English, Irish and quite a few French people and you will find Hungarians and Slavs too but not many and these people all work piece work and they can make from $10 to $15 sometimes $16.50. It all depends how many looms they tend and how much cloth they weave a day. The loom fixers are a class all by themselves. They receive $15 a week repairing looms and they are mostly English, Irish and French. The card room I do not know very much about but the most of the help is of foreign birth and they receive anywhere from $5.80 to $10 a week, but when you consider the cost of living compared to this northern country there is a vast difference I assure you. You can rent five rooms in a good locality there for from $10 to $12 a month and you can get a very nice cottage for from $15 to $18 per month, when the same would cost you about $30 here. Take for instance board. You can go to any corporation boarding house and receive good board and room for $5.50 to $4 and you don't receive salt pork either. I do not believe in this grandstand play they have adopted because it is only done by what we call padrones or what I should call slave owners. They have a bunch of their fellow countrymen come from the old country and these padrones get them a position in the mills and they receive a certain amount of money off each and every one and if you were to go to Massachusetts to any of these mill cities I assure you it would surprise you very much to see the styles on Sundays and evenings. Furthermore you see very few bums there. They do not stay there because they have to work or get out. I've seen poorer people by far up in this part of the country than I ever seen in the cities of Lowell, Lawrence, Fall River and New Bedford. As far as I can see it is the ignorance of the foreign element headed by these so-called interpreters or foreign padrones.

I do not know whether you care to publish this or not but it will give the people a better idea of how things are done in the mill cities of the East. This is not hearsay but actual facts. I've been in the Lawrence mills and I know whereof I speak. Of course I will have to admit that the children are very young and are ofttimes under 12 years, but these people take a boy of 11 years and dress him up in long trousers and take him to the city hall and swear before God and man the child is 15, so of course what can you do? They were born in foreign countries and you cannot call them liars. I've seen in my own city of Lowell about 35 per cent of the Greeks, etc., minus fingers either one or more, by their own carelessness and ignorance.

BROTHER STIGGINS OFF THE WAGON.

From "The Pickwick Club," by Charles Dickens: "My friends," said Mr. Humm, holding up his hand in a deprecatory manner, to bespeak the silence of such of the stout old ladies as were yet a line or two behind; "my friends, a delegate from the Dorking branch of our society, Brother Stiggins, attends below."

Out came the pocket handkerchiefs again, in greater force than ever; for Mr. Stiggins was excessively popular among the female constituency of Brick Lane.

"He may approach, I think," said Mr. Humm, looking around with a fat smile. "Brother Tadger, let him come forth and greet us."

The little man in the drab shorts, who answered to the name of Brother Tadger, bustled down the ladder with great speed, and was immediately afterward heard tumbling up with the Rev. Mr. Stiggins.

"He's a-comin', Sammy," whispered Mr. Weller, purple in the countenance with suppressed laughter.

"Don't say nothin' to me," replied Sam, "for I can't bear it. He's close to the door. I hear him a-knockin' his head ag'in the lath and plaster now."

As Sam Weller spoke, the little door flew open and Brother Tadger appeared, closely followed by the Rev. Mr. Stiggins, who no sooner entered than there was a great clapping of hands and stamping of feet and flourishing of handkerchiefs; to all of which manifestations of delight Brother Stiggins returned no other acknowledgment than standing with a wild eye and a fixed smile at the extreme top of the wick of the candle on the table, swaying his body to and fro meanwhile, in a very unsteady and uncertain manner.

"Are you unwell, Brother Stiggins?" whispered Mr. Anthony Humm.

"I am all right, sir," replied Mr. Stiggins, in a tone in which ferocity was blended with an extreme thickness of utterance; "I am all right, sir."

"Oh, very well," rejoined Mr. Anthony Humm, retreating a few paces.

"I believe no man here has ventured to say that I am not all right, sir?" said Mr. Stiggins.

"Oh, certainly not," said Mr. Humm. "I should advise him not to, sir; I should advise him not," said Mr. Stiggins.

By this time the audience was perfectly silent and waited with some anxiety for the resumption of business.

"Will you address the meeting, Brother?" asked Mr. Humm, with a smile of invitation.

"No, sir," rejoined Mr. Stiggins; "no, sir, I will not, sir."

The meeting looked at each other with raised eyelids, and a murmur of astonishment ran through the room.

"It's my opinion, sir," said Mr. Stiggins, unbuttoning his coat, and speaking very loudly; "it's my opinion, sir, that this meeting is drunk, sir. Brother Tadger, sir!" said Mr. Stiggins, suddenly increasing in ferocity, and turning sharp round on the little man in drab shorts, "you are drunk, sir!" With this, Mr. Stiggins, entertaining a praiseworthy desire to promote the sobriety of the meeting and to exclude therefrom all improper characters, hit Brother Tadger on the summit of the nose with such unerring aim that the drab shorts disappeared like a flash of lightning. Brother Tadger had been knocked head first down the ladder.

Upon this, the women set up a loud and dismal screaming; and rushing in small parties before their favorite brothers, flung their arms around them to preserve them from danger—an instance of affection which had nearly proved fatal to Humm, who, being extremely popular, was all but suffocated by the crowd of female devotees that hung about his neck and heaped caresses upon him. The greater part of the lights were quickly put out, and nothing but noise and confusion resounded on all sides.

Bourbonism and Reform.

Springfield Republican: St. Louis is temperamentally easy-going. A solid, well-to-do, shabby, carefree city, it abhors strenuosity, puritanism, fussiness and nervous haste. It is not for nothing that the great German beverage, lager beer, first found a popular demand in the Missouri city, from which in these later days has come the melancholy drawl of the "boun' dawg song. Thoroughly characteristic is the onslaught of the St. Louis Times on Dr. Wiley for not being content to do one man's work:

"In the official family, as in any group of men—an office force, a class in law, a baseball nine, a hunting party, or a posse on the trail of a malefactor, the zealot is always a nuisance. The man who can keep his own desk in order; who can answer the questions put to him directly; who can beat the bush that lies in his path; who can hoe his own row—what a comfortable fellow he is to have around, after all! When all the men engaged in a given task or expedition are so disposed, what wonderful results are generally recorded! Gratuitosity is the one unbearable vice of human beings who are very young. Education consists, chiefly, in eradicating this vice. The adult who still possesses it is as nothing, though, he possess the voice of an angel and the might of a Hercules."

Oh, these trouble-makers! History is full of them, and what bother they give to the lovers of routine and the established order! But, on the other hand, what a dull world it would be without Moses, Luther, Savonarola, Loyola, Garrison, John Brown and the other zealots who make things awfully uncomfortable. As with great men in great things, so with lesser men and lesser things. When matters are going decently and easily, why stir them up? Our law courts may not be perfect, but they are better than those of Tnurkey, why agitate for reform? Rotten food and chemical preservatives may not be the best thing for the stomach, but the population none the less increases, so why disturb business?

There can be no doubt of it, the reformers are troublesome fellows, and to a certain point St. Louis is right. A community of reformers would be intolerable. It is right that the majority should be easy-going, narrow, given to minding their own affairs. A certain percentage of irrepressibles is needed to prevent stagnation and decay, but as with the chemicals against which Dr. Wiley wages war, anything more than a "trace" is dangerous.

The Salutation to the Dawn.

Listen to the exhortation of the Dawn!
Look to this day!
For it is life, the very life of life;
In its brief course lie all the realties
In its brief course lie all the realties
and verities of your existence;
The bliss of growth,
The glory of action,
The splendor of beauty;
For yesterday is but a dream;
And tomorrow is only a vision;
But today well lived makes every yesterday a dream of happiness,
And every tomorrow a vision of hope.
Look well, therefore, to this day!
Such is the Salutation of the Dawn!

—From the Sankrit.

•••Rev. H. Gates will leave in a few days for Kansas City, Mo., where he will make his headquarters as archdeacon of the diocese of Missouri.

•••A fine ore deposit has been discovered in section 14-57-18, in which Charles W. Little is interested.

•••Frank Defoe, a halfbreed of the Fond du Lac reservation, lost his life near Cloquest during the storm of last week. He was 50 years old and was a soldier during the civil war.

•••Daniel Cummings died yesterday from a complication of diseases following typhoid fever. He was a highly respected young man and had made many friends since his arrival in Duluth.

•••The articles of incorporation of Rouchleau Iron company have been filed. The capital is $5,000,000 and the incorporators are Louis Rouchleau, Frank W. Higgins, Giles Gilbert, George F. Piper, Charles E. Shannon, George W. Buck and Thomas B. Mills.

•••The Duluth city council last night confirmed appointments of John K. Shaw as assessor, Capt. Farrell as member of the board of public works and Dan Horgan as chief of police. There was so strong a protest against the committee's intention to report against Mr. Shaw's confirmation that it recommended that all the mayor's appointments be confirmed. President Truelsen of the board of public works, City Attorney Smith and Alderman Charles A. Long were chosen delegates to represent the city at the hearing at Detroit on March 21 on the question of bridging the ship canal.

•••Frank E. Wyman and C. Lofland will begin the publication of the Duluth Industrial Review, a general trade journal, in about two weeks.

•••At a special meeting yesterday afternoon the Board of Trade accepted the resignation of M. A. Hays as registrar of grain and appointed J. F. McLaren, Jr., to the vacancy.

•••Duluth City lodge No. 133, Order Britt-Abraham, gave an enjoyable ball at Central hall last evening to the music of Hoare's orchestra. The floor managers were Lewis Rose, Sam Levine, Max Levy and Dr. Silk.

MORE ECHOES OF HARMONY.

Great Opportunity.

Northfield News: Someone ought to place a dictograph in Ed Smith's office and find out what his business is anyway.

To Be Expected.

Kennedy Star: Governor A. O. Eberhart is quoted as saying that he doubted if Minnesota women would be progressive if they had the ballot. Which is just what we might expect from the governor, for as a Taft Republican he doesn't believe there are many progressives among those residents of the state who already have the ballot. Why, otherwise, should His Excellency be trying to snuggle up to Taft?

No Chance For Taft.

He is backing Taft in Minnesota.

With Roosevelt in the race Taft stands almost as much chance of carrying this state as an ant has of kicking down a telephone pole.

If Roosevelt took to the bushes that would be another story but even then it would be hard to figure how this indorsement of Taft is going to help the governor. It might be well for the administration to understand that it has a fight on and that to husband its powers wouldn't be a bad idea.

If Eberhart is to be nominated and elected he must receive the support of the farmers. No Taft man can hope at present to do this. If the governor had played around on the fence until after the national convention he would have been just as well off. Maybe better.

The Real Reason.

Holt Northern Light: Governor Eberhart has committed himself to Taft, and his friends try to convince the people that this is proof of his having "backbone." It is more of a proof that he is owned entirely by the machine.

"To Your Knees!"

Cass Lake Times: We have never thought a political campaign the occasion for prayerful consideration; nor can we visualize Mr. Lee with "dust on his knees"assuming the attiude of prayer—not yet, but along in June or thereabouts, exact date not yet given out—when the dust is good and deep, then, to your knees, Mr. Lee, to your knees.

Favors Appreciated.

Minnesota Mascot: It was kind of Governor Eberhart to issue the statement that the people of Minnesota had sense enough to decide the presidential question without his assistance. We always appreciate small favors like that—we had thought for some time that there was no question on which we could pass intelligent judgment without his assistance.

Would They Dare?

Bear River Journal: The St. Paul Dispatch is running a primary presidential poll. Why not try a gubernatorial poll, or is the Dispatch afraid the people will put its man of "destiny" in the shade before the date of the Republican state convention, and "big business" be compelled to hunt up another puppet to head that ticket?

Destiny Is Settled.

Motley Mercury: It looks as though the "man of destiny" was destined to retire to private life about Jan. 1, 1913.

The Value of Good Books.

James Freeman Clarke: When I consider what some books have done for the world, and what they are doing, how they keep up our hope, awaken new courage and faith, soothe pain, give an ideal life to those whose hours are cold and hard, bind together distant ages and foreign lands, create new worlds of beauty, bring down truth from heaven, I give eternal blessings for this gift and thank God for books.

Coffee.

Kansas City Star: Once there was a man in the White House who helped another man to four cups of coffee and then the one who had received the four cups of coffee got the belief that the first man was in honor bound to help him to four more cups.

And at that the man who got the coffee had spilled most of it on his shirt front.

The Succession.

Norfolk Times-Dispatch: The Roosevelt dynasty will continue, for he has arranged to choose his successor. At this writing, however, he has not stated which Democrat it will be.

The Ideal Ticket.

Emporia Gazette: One Emporia man admits that he favors Lorimer for president and Stephenson for vice president.

A Contradiction.

Chicago Daily Socialist: The Christian Science Monitor editorially discusses the Milwaukee Socialist government and concludes that either "the conditions are not ripe for Socialism or the Socialists of today are not qualified to interpret or administer their doctrine."

Many such editorials are appearing throughout the country. They are based upon false reports as to the actual conditions in Milwaukee.

The Monitor says: "The claim is that the Bureau of Efficiency of the municipality cost $20,000 last year and failed to establish the fact that it was itself efficient."

The Voters League of Milwaukee, which is composed of opponents of the Socialist party, has just issued a so-called report on the Socialist administration.

It is safe to assume that these opponents did not overlook any opportunity to criticize the Socialists, yet we find the report saying:

"The burden of economy and efficiency, inaugurated by the present administration, has, we believe, justified its establishment, and is deserving of commendaton."

The comment of the Monitor shows a sample of the misrepresentations about Milwaukee that are being spread. Milwaukee is making good and is doing all that can be done for the working people within the limitations of the power of that municipality, and it is systematizing and perfecting its municipal government so that it will become an efficient machine to serve the interests of the workers.

Every time I come to town
The boys keep kickin' my dawg aroun';
Makes no difference if he is a houn'.
They gotta quit kickin' my dawg aroun'.

VARIATION, AFTER TENNYSON.

Kick him no more—thy feet are iron heeled;
He strove against thy blow, but all in vain;
Leave him in peace upon the street called Main;
No more, dear love — one touch and wrath will yield—
Kick him no more!

AFTER THOMAS DUNN ENGLISH.

Oh, don't you remember my houn' dawg, Ben Bolt,
My houn' dawg whose hair was near-brown,
Who whined with delight when you gave him a bone
And howled in his fear at your frown?
Down the old Main street in the village, Ben Bolt,
In terror my houn' dawg has flown;
They have got to quit kickin' my dawg aroun'—

AFTER WHITMAN.

I celebrate my dog, and sing my dog,
And him I shall not kick, nor shall you kick,
For every dog belonging to me, as good belongs to you;
He loafs and invites your soule;
He sits and loafs at his ease, nor heeds
Your kick as you pass.

AFTER POE.

Helen, my hound dog has to me
A sweet Nisacan bark—his snore
Floats gently o'er Missouri's lea.
And he, on whom I set such store,
Shall be kicked no more!

AFTER EDWIN MARKHAM.

Bowed by the fleas of centuries, he stands
Upon his ear, and grovels on the ground,
The agony of ages in his face
And on his back the pests of all the world.
Who roused him, not to rapture but despair—
A thing that howleth, and that quickly lopes,
E'en though half stunned by brother to the ox,
Who loosened, and let drive that awful kick?
Whose was the foot that landed on my dog?
Whose toe did what it dassn't do again?

AFTER BRET HARTE.

"I kicked your dawg," the stranger said.
Said the old man, "Say no more,
And darken not my Ozark home,
Lest I hurl you to the floor.

"What did my dawg, my noble dawg,
That you should plant your boot
Against his side and send him off,
You measly old galoot?

"I was goin' to say," the stranger said,
"I kicked your dawggone gate
And busted it—and here's four bits;
Now let me go—I'm late!"

Amusement Notes.

One of the most important attractions at the Lyceum this season will be "The Red Rose," a musical comedy in three acts by Harry B. and Robert B. Smith, with music by Robert Hood Bowers, which is scheduled to appear here tonight, Saturday and matinee Saturday. The production is under the personal direction of John C. Fisher, the noted producer of "Florodora," "The Silver Slipper," "The Medal and the Maid," "San Toy" and many other of the biggest musical successes, which is, in itself, a guarantee that "The Red Rose" will be an entertainment of the highest class. Furthermore, Mr. Fisher claims more for this production than any of his former productions.

"The Red Rose" is one of the greatest musical successes in the past three seasons and bids fair to equal the wonderful record made by "Florodora." The New York company is now playing to capacity business at the Globe theater and arrangements have been made to keep it there another year. This organization is by no means a No. 2 "road" company, it is claimed, but is an exact duplicate of the New York production; the same number of people, same number of loads of scenery and the costumes made from the same material. Moreover, many members of the present New York company have been transferred to this company, making the cast fully as strong as the one now playing at the Globe theater.

In several cities where he has appeared, Seymour Felix, the youth who is appearing on the Orpheum bill this week, has had trouble with officials attempting to enforce the child labor law, in spite of the fact that the youth is 19 years of age.

Felix is so small and slight that he looks like a boy about 13 or 14 on the stage, but he has been earning his own living a very comfortable living, for several years, and will soon be 20 years of age. His partner, Amelia Caire, is one year younger than Felix but larger than the youth who does such strenuous dances. Miss Caire's mother travels with the act, and acts as chaperone and assistant for her daughter.

While both of the young people left school at an early age, they possess a surprisingly large store of information. They have made good use of their spare time while traveling about the country, and have studied faithfully, especially along musical lines. Felix has ambitions to become a legitimate actor, and his youthful partner hopes to be a comic opera prima donna some day.

"The New Boarder," a brilliant comedy playlet presented by the Gertrude Dion Magill company is one of the favorite attractions at the Empress this week. This playlet has for its plot a novel idea. It deals with a man whose wife is dissatisfied with the manner in which he neglects her to attend the ball games and who decides to break him of this habit by taking in roomers but the husband is too sharp for her and arranges with his chum to take a room at the house and to pretend to make love to his wife. His wife soon tires of the new order of things and gives in to her husband and everything ends happily. The playlet is one of rare possibilities and the members of the cast make the most of their opportunities. There is not a dull moment from start to finish and the piece is one of the favorites this week. Leo Kendall, German comedian, late of the Burgomaster company, is also popular this week. He introduces a line of talk which is a winner and in addition sings several clever parodies.

Inmate of County Institution Beats Lumber Company.

Rhinelander, Wis., March 15. — Herman Straighlow, who has been at a county poor farm because of his inability to work on account of injuries sustained in December, 1908, while building a new mill for the Schroeder Lumber company when a board fell on him, paralyzing him, can leave the poor house, as he won a $15,000 verdict against the lumber concern after a trial of several days here. He originally sued the company for $35,000, but Judge Hugby, who tried the case, threw it out of court. The supreme court sustained the ruling. Straighlow then began a new suit with the result stated.

Straighlow while fighting the case was obliged to break up his home, his wife going out to work and his children being distributed around while he went to the poor farm.

The verdict of $15,000 is one of the largest which has ever been given in a personal injury case in this part of the state.

HUSBAND WOULD FORGIVE.

Husband of One of Eloping Pair Would Take Wife Back.

Marinette, Mich., March 15. — (Special to The Herald.) — Mrs. Stella Schultz and Ward Pagette, who were arrested in Canada, and brought back to Marinette by Sheriff A. E. Schwittay, waived examination and were bound over for trial at the circuit court. Bail was fixed at $500 and furnished by local bondsmen.

The husband of the Schultz woman said that he was willing to forgive his wife and take her back. Pagette refuses to discuss the case. It is said that he gave his wife property valued at $4,700 before leaving for Canada with the Schultz woman. In eloping to Canada the pair deserted eleven children.

STORY OF ST. PATRICK

Many Legends Are Told of Ireland's Patron Saint.

What Is Really Known of Man All Irishmen Honor.

Duluth Irishmen and others who revere the memory of Ireland's patron saint will do honor to the name of St. Patrick Sunday, March 17. It is a day which is not only held dear by every true son of Erin's isle, but which also recalls a historical character who had few parallels as a Christian apostle.

St. Patrick is fabled to have driven all the vermin of the island of Ireland into the sea. Legends represent him as having been born at Kilpatrick, near Dumbarten in Scotland about the year 387 A. D. When a lad of 16, it is related, he was sold as a slave and taken to Ireland by some Irish pirates. He is credited with having later converted that country to Christianity.

From reasonably authentic sources, it has been learned that Patrick's grandfather was a pagan priest. His own father, it is said, was a Christian deacon and his mother also a Christian. Yet it was not until he came to be a young man that he gave himself over to the Christian faith.

Patrick, history says, spent his first six months in Ireland in servitude under a Druid priest in the County of Antrim. He finally escaped, walked 200 miles to the west coast, boarded a ship for Scotland and returned to his home. His stay was short, however, as three months later he was again taken captive.

His second escape from Irish servitude followed within a short time. On this occasion he went to Europe and for many years traveled over the continent associating himself with the recognized leaders of the Christian movement. First, he was with St. Martin of Tours at the island monastery of Serius, near Monte Carlo. Next he spent considerable time with St. Germain, bishop of Auxerre.

It is believed that in the year 410 A. D. that Patrick was ordained as a priest by the bishop of Auxerre. The bishop is reported with having taken him to England and later havnig sent him to Rome, where Pope Celestine I gave him the name of St. Patrick and sent him to convert Ireland. This was about 432 A. D.

Predecessor Failed.

Palladius, who preceded Patrick in Ireland, had failed. Patrick heard of his death before he had left the continent. Being more familiar with the language and customs of the Irish people than was Palladius, Patrick met with success in converting to Christianity the pagan Irish.

Popular ideas concerning St. Patrick are now said to be mere legends and without any historical foundation. Few people who have not read the histories of St. Patrick know anything of the miracles and conversions accredited to him in his work throughout the island. His character displays love, faith, sweetness, humility and self-sacrifice.

St. Patrick was not only a priest, apostle and missionary, but he also must be given a place among the contemporary writers of his day. Historians disagree as to the authenticity of some of the writings attributed to him, but agree that he was the author of "Confession," "Letters to Coroticus" and "Breastplate."

"Confession" is usually considered as the greatest of his works. It gives the reader a true interpretation of the writer's character and his many virtues. Many of his experiences are vividly presented. "Confession" tells but the story of his earlier life and does not touch upon his visit to Rome, his ordination as a priest and his consecration as a bishop.

Writing of his first visit to Ireland, he says:

"After I had come to Ireland every day I tended the herds, and during the day I prayed often. More and more the love and fear of God grew in me and my faith and zeal were increased, so that daily I said a hundred prayers, and nightly too. Even when I was in the forests and on the mountain I used to get up before daybreak to pray in snow and frost and rain. And I felt no discomfort, nor was there any sloth in me, as I found now, because the spirit was then strong in me. Then, during a certain night while sleeping, I heard a voice saying to me: 'You fast well; soon you shall go back to your native land.' Thus was he promised a return from Ireland to Scotland."

Love For Irish.

St. Patrick's love for the Irish people among whom he spent the major portion of his life is shown in his own writings. In his "confession" he says, "If I have ever done any good for the sake of my God, whom I love, I beg Him to grant me that I may shed my blood with these proselytes and captives for His sake, even though I should never receive burial, or each member of my body should be most horribly thrown to the dogs and wild beasts, or the birds of prey should feed upon it."

St. Patrick may in some measure be responsible for the Catholic church's stand on the divorce question. In one of the "canons" ascribed to St. Patrick the innocent party is forbidden to remarry while his adulterous wife lives. It says: "If any man's wife commit adultery with another man let him not take a second wife so long as his first wife lives. If perchance she be converted and do penance, let him take her back and treat her as a bondmaid and let her do penance according to regulation a whole year on bread and water and let them not live together as husband and wife."

THEFT OF $49,420 LAID TO OHIOAN

Timekeeper Who Lived Like Rich Man Is Under Arrest.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 15.—John C. Juergens, arrested in Chicago, was indicted here for embezzlement of funds of the Norcross company, a marble contracting concern, for which he was timekeeper at $60 a month. He was discharged about a month ago when it was charged long and systematic padding of the pay rolls was discovered.

The indictment charges the larceny of $49,420 during the last two years.

Jurgens is 24 years old. He maintained a luxurious bachelor establishment and entertained lavishly. He had extensive credit with merchants. News of Jurgens' downfall was spread when bankruptcy proceedings were launched against him. Simultaneously he disappeared and his whereabouts was a secret for three weeks. A week ago he was discovered in Chicago working for a small salary.

Officers left tonight for Columbus to get extradition papers for Jurgens.

TEDDY DOESN'T TAKE HIS WAGES

Has $37.80 Coming for Jury Duty But Fails to File Claim.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., March 15.—Col. Roosevelt earned $37.80 as a juror, but probably never will receive the money. After he had been excused from further duty at Mineola yesterday, a court officer advised him he could claim mileage at the rate of 8 cents a mile for the distance between Oyster Bay and the county seat. By rail the distance is fifteen miles, so that Col. Roosevelt is entitled to $1.20 for each of the nine days of his service as a juror.

"I haven't any mileage," he said. "I came by automobile."

He left the courthouse without putting in the claim or producing the subpoena which qualifies jurors to receive $3 a day, so that the $27 in fees and $1.80 mileage allowance which the colonel has earned probably will remain in the county treasury.

Col. Roosevelt did not conceal the fact that he was disappointed at not having served in at least one case.

He said he had always believed that men who are prominent in business should do their share of jury work, and it was largely because of his views on this subject that he did not avail himself of the immunity which he might have enjoyed at the outset.

When it became apparent that his services probably would not be needed, he decided it was useless to make any more trips to Mineola, and gladly availed himself of the suggestion of Judge Putnam that he be excused.

MINNESOTA LAKE FARMER STUNG

Fred Walser Loses $5,000 on Fake Race—Will Hunt Swindlers.

Spokane, Wash., March 16.—Fred Walser, a wealthy retired farmer of Minnesota Lake, Minn., told the police here that he lost $5,000 in betting on an alleged fake horse race. Two strangers he met while traveling induced him to make the wager.

Walser declared he was willing to spend his entire fortune in securing the arrest and conviction of the men.

HOLD-UP ARTIST TAKEN.

Captured at Norway, Mich., After Robbing Hospital Nurse.

Norway, Mich., 16.—Miss Adelle Lagern of Iron Mountain employed as a nurse at Columbia hospital here had an exciting experience a few nights ago when walking from the Northwestern depot, where she had arrived from home, to the hospital.

A man followed her from the bridge. On nearing the D. A. Stewart residence the man accosted her and made a request for money. Not having any money, the frightened young woman offered him her ring. Not satisfied with this the man knocked her down, scratched her face and, when she screamed for help, placed his fingers in her mouth and endeavored to choke her.

Boys who heard the screams ran to the scene and a thrilling chase took place, the posse capturing the man near the city hall. The fellow proved to be of Finnish nationality. He had but recently come from the woods where he had been working during the season. He has a sister in Norway.

PICKEREL SEIZED.

Found Back of Brainerd Hotel, But Boniface Disowns Them.

Brainerd, Minn., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Deputy Game Warden W. H. Onstine seized a lot of pickerel which it is alleged James Grasser of section 10, had back of the Rex hotel. The game warden also annexed some pickerel at the Earl hotel. The hotel proprietor, Mr. Anderson, told Mr. Onstine that the fish did not belong to the hotel but had been left there by a man from Mille Lacs lake. The deputy has the fish and it is not known if any further steps will be taken in the matter.

WOODSMAN KILLED.

Companion Badly Injured While Loading Ties in Wisconsin.

Glidden, Wis., March 15.—While two woodsmen were loading ties in freight car eighteen miles from here yesterday the car started down the track and bumped into another car the impact hurling the ties upon the men killing one and badly injuring the other.

Woman's Realm

The Woman's auxiliary of the St. Louis County Medical association will meet next Tuesday afternoon, March 19, at the home of Mrs. Robert Graham, 220 Third avenue west.

Courtenay Dinwiddie of the Associated Charities will be the speaker for the afternoon. The women have asked his advice as to what work they could carry on in connection with the Associated Charities and his talk will be along these lines.

Mrs. Hirschfield, president of the auxiliary, who has just returned from Minneapolis, attended a meeting of the Woman's auxiliary of the Hennepin County Medical association last Monday afternoon and she will speak on the work they are doing in that city. The organization in Minneapolis is just about one year old and their philanthropic work consists almost entirely in aiding the various institutions of the city. The city hospital there affords a good field of work and at present they are aiming to establish a free bed at the St. Thomas hospital.

Mrs. Hirschfield will speak of this and other matters of interest.

After the talks a social hour will follow.

LUNCHEON AT SPALDING.

Drama League Members to Entertain Mrs. Best.

Mrs. Starr Best, president of the National Drama League of America, will be the honor guest at a luncheon tomorrow at the Spalding, at which members of the Duluth Drama league and officers of the Superior Drama league will entertain. Mrs. Best will speak in Superior Saturday evening at the organization of a Drama league there, and Dr. Richard Burton, who spoke here at the organization of the Duluth league, will also speak at Superior. He will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Morgan, 1922 East Superior street while in Duluth.

Members of the Duluth Drama league are particularly interested in the formation of the branch in Superior, as with the combined efforts of the two cities the members feel that some of the finest attractions may be brought to the Head of the Lakes.

St. Patrick's Party.

Mrs. Robert Bruce Liggett, 1014 East Third street was hostess at the first of two St. Patrick's day parties this afternoon. Bridge was played by the guests at four tables. The rooms were effectively decorated with flowers a scheme of green and white being carried out throughout. White roses in fragrant clusters were attractive in the parlor and in the dining room white sweet peas were used.

Mrs. Liggett will entertain again tomorrow afternoon.

REMARKABLE RESULTS

"I am sending you by mail two pictures of my eleven months old son raised on Mellin's Food. The child is such a jolly, good-natured picture of splendid health and example of good and successful feeding that I cannot help but send you a picture of him, with our compliments. Allow me again to thank you for your courteous treatment and substantial kindness. I am prescribing Mellin's Food in my practice and only recently secured some remarkable results in a case. Your food and methods I find more practical in the average home than the complicated methods of modification of cow's milk."

THE EVENING STORY

LAST OPPORTUNITY

By W. Werner.

Caseby watched Levinson's automobile whizz by him with a little groan of his own impotence. Just so the victor had always passed him in the little, unfair game of life. He should have become used to coming in a bad second, he thought to himself half bitterly.

And yet he found it harder to relinquish this last chance than it had been to give up the first. So much depended on it. His wrinkled old hands trembled as he thought how much. But he did not urge the horse. The horse was old, too ,and life had used him little better than it had his master. Win or lose, the gait of the old horse should not be hastened. Not that it would have done much good even if Caseby had so desired. No one would have backed the old nag against the flying car.

It was almost symbolic, he thought, the other passing him on the way to keep the appointment upon which so much depended. He had allowed himself plenty of time to be there at the specified hour. He would still be there before time. And he knew that the irascible old judge would take it as a proof of the younger man's efficiency. He had ample leisure for musing over the situation. Things would be all right if he received the appointment. He knew that he was competent to do the work—competent and faithful. But what of that if he had no opportunity to prove it?

His wife—God bless her—believed in him. It would take more than a few time of failures to shake her simple faith. Why, only a few hours before she had said, with her cheek pressed against his own: "I know you'll win, David. Something seems to tell me so. But, win or lose, sink or swim, survive or perish, it's all one. It doesn't really make much difference, my David, as long as we're together." And her words had heartened him through all the first part of his journey. He tried to remember what he had answered her, but the words did not return to him clearly. They were only broken words, in which he had tried to make her understand how much her love and faith had meant to him.

He jogged along the dusty country road rather hurried before him. He didn't mind for himself. It was the thought of his wife that hurt—his wife so good, so cheerful and uncomplaining under all their deprivations. It would go hard with her if this last hope were removed. The pittance that he made now was not enough he thought to himself fiercely. They were going behind all the time. Living was so high. If he lost this one last chance he could see nothing but disaster ahead. They would go behind a little more, a little more still, and presently they would lose their home. After that—"

In his abstraction he brought the whip smartly down and the old horse broke into a mild gallop. "I didn't mean it, Joe, old fellow," he said, "but you'd better keep it up or we'll be too late. And I don't want to lose by my own fault."

The horse seemed to understand. He kept along at the goodly pace into which his master had startled him. David consulted his watch. They would be in time, but there was little time to spare. And just then his eager eyes spied a woman walking slowly on the dusty road just ahead of him. She seemed to walk dejectedly, and yes, she was lame he noticed. She did not look up as he passed. He went a block, two, blocks urging the horse a little now as the precious moments were so few. But the shabby little figure seemed ever just in front of him. He thought of his wife, of the need of hurry. But the need of the other woman intruded itself on him. At last he wheeled the horse sharply.

"I've never treated a woman like that," he said to himself, "and I reckon I'm too old to begin now."

The horse trotted cheerfully back on the return journey, with visions of his comfortable stable before him. But he had not gone far before his master pulled him up. The woman was sitting by a fence, her white old face dust streaked and lined with weariness. David jumped out and took off his hat.

"I beg your pardon," he said. "May I offer you a ride? The road is so hot and dusty." The relief in her face answered before she spoke, and she thanked him warmly. "I'm going to see my son," she said, "but there must have been a mistake. Nobody met me, and I ain't a good walker."

The horse dogged along comfortably at his olden gait. His hurry was over; the need of it nearly so. David's heart sickened as he thought how little there was to spare. The old woman watched him with keen eyes. Then she put a hand on his arm. "You're in trouble," she said; tell me."

The question did not seem instrusive, nor did it appear strange. In a moment he found himself pouring the burden of his troubles in a stranger's ear. She nodded from time to time. "And you in such a hurry," she said, as he finished. "Tell me why'd you turn back for me? There's them not so considerate."

"I'd rather lose than have won through your walking," he said simply.

"I pray you don't lose through me," she said. "I get off at the next lane and thank you kindly. I bless your undertaking. An old woman's blessing won't hurt you none." She would not hear of him taking her farther. "It's jest a little ways," she said, "and I'm rested." She waved her hand to him as he looked back. There was but half a mile more. But before he had traversed it the judge whizzed by him, even as Levinson had done.

"Not much use to go further," he thought. "I'll be late, and he'll not overlook it. But for Mary's sake I'll go and try."

He took a seat far back in the court room. Levinson was already there. The judge came in and Levinson hastened forward. Presently David heard the judge call his name. He went toward him, his knees trembling. The judge put out his hand.

"Mr. Caseby," he said, "inappointing you, at a lady's intercession, I must add my thanks to her own. There was a misunderstanding as to the time my mother would arrive, and she would have been entirely exhausted, except for your kindness. She asked a ride of another gentleman, and was refused." Levinson hung his head. "You were most kind," the judge went on, "I shall not forget it. If ever I can do you a favor I will."

And as the judge clasped his hand again, David knew that he was done with failure.

OLESEN RE-ELECTED BY CLOQUET BOARD

Head of Schools for Three Years Again Chosen Superintendent.

Cloquet, Minn., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The school board has re-elected Peter Olesen superintendent of public schools. Mr. Olesen is closing the third year of his service in Cloquet and is generally conceded to give the best satisfaction.

Under him the schools have attained a higher standard, better discipline has been secured and a new school interest has been awakened. Since he came to Cloquet the department of domestic science has been added to the school course, in which upwards of fifty girls have been trained yearly, and during this winter there has been a night class of twenty-five in this department for a term of twelve weeks. A very successful night school in other branches has been carried on. The study of agriculture has been made part of the course and the school owns and operates the only school greenhouse in the state, which at the present time is full of blooming plants, and has all winter supplied the public with lettuce. A part of the appropriation which Mr. Olesen in co-operation with the board secured last spring for the school has paid for the agricultural equipment. In three years the high school has increased fifty in number, showing that the interest of the students is held. Mr. Olesen came to Cloquet from Pine City, where he was superintendent of schools.

Cloquet schools are well represented at the Educational association meeting in Duluth. Supt. Olesen gives an address on "Extensive Versus Intensive Education," Miss Hawkins, principal of the new Garfield building, reads a paper on "Geography Equipment" and Mr. Johnson of the manual training department is also on the program. Mr. Blume of the high school faculty will render a vocal solo. Nearly all the teachers of the Cloquet schools are attending the meeting.

WANTS $20,750 FOR RIGHT EYE

For the loss of the sight of his right eye, John D. Brower, formerly employed as a locomotive fireman, wants $20,750 from the Northern Pacific railway and John P. Klovstad, the engineer, with whom he was working.

The action has been brought in district court and is now on trial before Judge Cant and a jury.

Brower claims that while working on a Northern Pacific locomotive in the Duluth terminal yards on Oct. 3, 1908, a glass guage exploded throwing a piece of glass into his eye. The optic nerve was impaired and he finally lost his sight. He asks $20,000 general and $750 special damages.

John Jenswold, Jr., is attorney for Brower and the defendants are represented in court by Washburn, Bailey & Mitchell.

CASES SETTLED OUT OF COURT

After a jury had been drawn to try the personal injury suits brought by Victor Laine and his wife, Edla Laine, against the Oliver Mining company, the attorneys arranged an adjustment and the cases were settled out of court. Both cases involved the same circumstances and were to have been tried before the same jury in Judge Dancer's court room.

Edla Laine wanted $2,500 damages from the Oliver Mining company for injuries which she claimed to have received in March, 1910, when she stepped into a crevice on Monroe street, Eveleth. The fissure in the street, she alleges, had been caused by blasting operations carried on by miners working nearby.

Victor Laine asked $1,000 for the loss of his wife's services. The terms of settlement were not given out. Culkin & Samuelson were attorneys for the Laines and Paul S. Welch represented the Oliver Mining company.

DEMAND FOR TAX REFORM

Ontario Interests Would Transfer Burden From Improvements to Land.

Premier Whitney Not in Favor of the Plan at Present.

Toronto, Ont., March 15.—Tax reform will become a live issue in Ontario or the tax reformers will know the reason why. The reformers are already busy. They have endeavored to interest Premier Whitney in their proposals, knowing that the help of Sir James is indispensable to the success of their undertaking, so long as he is at the head of the provincial government. As to just how much progress has been made in winning the premier over to the side of the tax reformers, there are larg doubts. Sir James has expressed the opinion that the public mind has not yet been made up on the question of tax reform, and he bases his conclusion on alleged differences among the tax reformers themselves.

Generally, the demand of the reformers is that such legislation be passed as will enable municipalities to readjust taxation on real estate. They want to lighten the burden of taxation on land improvements and put the heavier burden on the land itself. They point to the fact that some of the newer provinces in Western Canada have adopted the system and that it appears to be working well. They predict that unless the old province of Ontario follows suit, the industries of Ontario will be moving away to those provinces where they will be better off.

So far as Sir James Whitney is concerned, this recommendation is not a success. He is not disposed to sit at the feet of new western governments and learn the art from them. He says so. At the same time he sympathizes with the idea that the improvements of unimproved land should be encouraged if this can be brought about without unjustly depriving the landowner of what is fairly coming to him. The reformers are of the opinion that they have made some impression and they will make another attempt or series of attempts. As a preparation they will carry on a campaign in the cities and towns of Ontario whose people they propose to educate up to the point where a unanimous demand for the new scheme will be possible. Already the municipal chiefs are taking a lively interest in the project, the mayors of many of the larger cities having fallen into line.

In Danger of Eviction.

Sir John Gibson, lieutenant governor of Ontario, is in danger of eviction. He may wake up one of these days and find himself thrown upon the world, in the more immediate vicinity of Simcoe and King streets. The mornings, moreover, are not as mild as might be. The matter has been brought to the official attention of the Hon. Dr. Heaume, minister of public works for Ontario. The minister is of the opinion that any such calamity as that indicated above would be in the highest degree undesirable, tending not only to the serious discomfort of the lieutenant governor, but also to reflect somewhat upon the fair name of the province itself. It is generally held by members of the government that the homeless lieutenant governor might be the subject of comment among the neighbors. Visions of police interference, of charges of vagrancy, of the chief provincial executive spending a night on the steps of a church or sleeping on a bench in the park have floated before the minds of the members of the government. It is agreed that something must be done, and done quickly.

The present government house, as everybody knows, has been sold to the Canadian Pacific railway and a new government house is in course of construction in Chorley Park, in the northwestern part of the city. The new house will not be ready for another year. The other day the government got an unexpected notice from the Canadian Pacific railway that part of the government house property would be taken at once for the extension of the company's yards. That in itself will bring the shunting engines closer to the gubernatorial library and further inroads may be made by the railway at any time.

The minister of public works is accordingly causing a hasty search to be made for a temporary residence for the lieutenant governor so that the interval between the loss of the present building and the completion of the new will not be fraught with any of the hardships otherwise likely to confront the local representative of royalty. So far no temporary shelter has been found, but the minister of public works is not without hope that the difficulty will be overcome.

Government Commission.

The city of Toronto is showing additionay symptoms of fondness for the government-by-commission idea. Toronto led in the procession of Ontario cities establishing boards of control. It has now in addition a power commission which looks after the civic power and lighting system. It is now proposed to obtain from the provincial legislature authority to increase the size of his commission and to increase also its duties. The body would then be styled the public utilities commission and would have under its control all street railway matters, the city waterworks system and things of that sort.

The works department of Toronto has been for years a source of pain to the council, chiefly by reason of the administration of the waterworks system. Just at present the citizens are cherishing the belief that their drinking water is as good as the best, but this has not always been so, and even now there are doubts as to how long the present pleasing condition will continue. A public utilities board is being recommended as the cure for all the ills now complained of, and there seems to be every likelihood that the experiment will be made.

Five Mile Right of Way.

The Ontario government does not intend to lose any time in following up the advantage contained in the arrangement whereby the province is to have a five-mile right of way for the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario Railway through Manitoba territory to Port Nelson. The strip through which the railway is to run is to be selected within five years or Ontario loses the chance.

The Whitney government will not wait the five years or any appreciable part of it, but will, it is stated, send out exploration parties at once. These parties will go over the new boundary country from Hudson bay westward and will select the point at which the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario line will cross the dividing line on its way to Port Nelson, and will also look over the ten-mile strip of shore at Port Nelson which comes to Ontario for the location of terminals, docks, etc.

These parties will probably set out as soon as the necessary legislation has been passed. Their departure will help to dampen the enthusiasm of those skeptical people who are filling their sleeves with mirth over the suggestion that the Ontario government will ever build a railway to Hudson bay. The original idea, of course, was to extend the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario line to James bay, and the country immediately south of James bay has been explored to that end. Since the Port Nelson arrangement was announced news has arrived of the discovery of good harbor facilities on James bay.

FORTUNE FOR INMATE OF A SOLDIERS' HOME.

Sandusky, Ohio, March 15.—Walter Irvin, a Civil war veteran living at the soldiers' home at Sandusky, has been notified by attorneys of Dallas, Tex., that he has come into possession of $300,000 in cash, three fine business properties and a paid-up insurance policy for $100,000, besides a large amount of personal property. It is believed that his home is either in Chillicothe or Portsmouth.

The bequest comes as the result of the death of an uncle living at Dallas, who was a wealthy banker. The nephew met the attorneys at the Sloan house in Sandusky a few days ago, and after being thoroughly identified, was asked to come to Dallas to take active charge of his interests. He will leave for there next week to arrange for the proper disposition of his newly acquired estate.

ANGORA CAT, GIVEN AWAY, HIKES BACK FORTY MILES.

Lawrence, Kan., March 15.—Peter Pan, the cat, came back. Peter Pan is a blooded angora cat, 18 months old, that hiked from Kansas City to Lawrence, forty miles, because he didn't like the liver and the company of his Kansas City friends. Peter Pan had been given to Mrs. E. H. S. Bailey, wife of the head of the food analysis department at the state university.

When the Bailey family started for Europe Peter Pan was taken to Dr. William Bailey of Kansas City, a son of Prof. Bailey. That was on a Sunday. The following Tuesday the Baileys started for Europe and Peter Pan started back for Lawrence. He made the forty miles in four days and landed in Lawrence sadly bedraggled, tired, much in need of a bath but ready to eat.

He went directly to the Bailey residence and scratched at the back door for a handout. The neighbors are taking care of him now.

ADVERTISE RELIGION

Innovation for Which the Forward Movement Is Responsible.

New York, March 15. — It would be hard to tell which was the more surprised last week by the appearance of a huge sign at Twenty-third street and Broadway advertising the churches, the religious leaders whose offices are grouped in that neighborhood, or the non-religious class who haunt this particular section of Broadway after 10 o'clock at night. The sign, which is 13½ by 62 feet, bears the legend, in gigantic letters "Welcome for Everybody in the Chruches of New York." At each end is a cross, and the subsidiary statements, "Men for Religion," "Religion for Men," "Men and Religion Forward Movement." The amount of attention attracted is shown by the fact that on the following morning three of the New York dailies printed first page articles about the sign.

Other signs were opened later in the week, farther up Broadway, and more are to follow. Two at Twenty-seventh and Broadway, "The Church Wants Men in Her Work for Man," and "I am My Brother's Keeper." The first one, which is on the top of a Twenty-third street building overlooking Madison square, Broadway, Fifth avenue and Madison avenue, is in a commanding position. The downtown business men who travel to their offices in automobiles see it at the beginning of the day. Practically all of the strangers in New York visit Madison square to see the garden, the Metropolitan building and the Flatiron building. There are more national religious headquarters within shouting distance of this spot than anywhere else in the land. Hither come the ministers of New York and vicinity for their weekly meetings. None of these various people can escape seeing the big church sign.

Advertisement of Ability.

The new scheme, of which these signs are but the beginning, display space in the newspapers being the principal medium, is more than advertisement of religion. It is an advertisement of advertising and its uses in religious and philanthropic work. While the expenses are being paid by a large number of New York laymen, and while their men and religion city campaign which opens on April 14, will be immeasurably served by this publicity, the real purpose of the advertising campaign is national. It originated with and is being directed by the publicity commission of the Men and Religion congress, which meets in New York city on April 19-24.

This publicity commission is unique. It is made up of prominent newspaper men, with George W. Coleman, president of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America, as chairman. It is engaged in making a study of the relations that exist, or should exist, between the press and religion. Questionaires upon this topic have been sent to all newspapers in the country having more than 5,000 circulation. Other questionaires have gone to laymen and clergymen. A session of the congress will be devoted to the subject of the daily press, and the churches, the religious press and the uses of advertising will be considered.

A member of the commission is authority for the statement that it will probably be recommended that every church pay advertising rates for its notices in the local newspapers, and that occasional concerted use of display advertising be made. What is now being done in New York may be repeated in every other city in the land. The only way to get the attention of the non-churchgoing crowd is through the daily newspaper.

One of Nine Commissions.

Radical as are the methods and proposals of this publicity commission, it is only one out of nine commissions which have set out to ascertain the facts concerning the religious conditions of America. Doubtless, many radical recommendations will be made. The social service commission has the sometimes sensational experiences of the last winter's campaigning to draw upon. In most of the cities visited the social service survey has elicited startling facts. Rumor has it that the evangelistic commission also may hit hard at the itinerant evangelists so long in vogue.

Nobody can prophesy what may be the results of this statement of the facts of present-day religious conditions which will be made in the congress in April. The strongest laymen in the land will be present; and their mood is to follow the findings. Any sort of shake-up in religious organizations may be anticipated. The tendency is clearly toward new ways for the new days; and for a simplification of religious work, with the local churches as the permanent unit and agency.

Nothing in the short and effective life of the Men and Religion Forward Movement becomes it so well as its manner of quitting life. Japanese-fashion, it will commit hari-kari with honor. For the official statement has been made by the committee of ninety-seven, the national body of the movement, that when it makes its report to the congress in April it will pass out of existence, its work having been accomplished. Thus it will keep faith with the churches, having avowed itself a temporary movement and not a permanent institution.

Effective Testimony.

Of course, this is a tremendously effective way of bearing witness to the fact that there are too many general religious and philanthropic organizations in the land. All of these are in some sense a charge upon the churches and some of them, by continuing to live long after they should have died, are suspected of accomplishing little beside the support of their secretaries. By expiring in a blaze of glory the Men and Religion movement shows uncommon wisdom and, like Samson, it may accomplish as much at its death as during its life.

Now that it is known that the Men and Religion movement, despite its success and its prestige, means to fulfill its pledge to pass off the field, leaving its message and methods in the custody of the churches of America, there is considerable maneuvering going on among certain other organizations which are quite willing to inherit its mantle and mission. Gossip has indicated among these heirs-expectant the Federation of Churches, the International Young Men's Christian association and the Missionary Education movement. Some men are saying, though, that by this winter's work the Men and Religion Forward movement has not only succeeded in rendering itself unnecessary, but that it has also made unnecessary any other similar movement. The local churches and the denominations are the real residuary legatees of this self-eliminating force.

GIRLS' LEAP YEAR STUNT.

Meeker, Colo., March 15.—A leap year party, with all of the frills that should accompany such a function, for which the men were compelled not only to provide the baskets of "goodies" in return for the honor of being escorted to the scene of the festivities by the young ladies, but were compelled to do all of the cooking themselves, was held at the Angora schoolhouse, twenty miles from Meeker, and, it is said, the "eats" were fairly palatable.

As their share of the evening's entertainment, the young ladies paid all of the expenses, provided the conveyances, solicited the dances, and, it is whispered in several instances popped the—oh, well. What's the use of giving them away!

Beauty—real beauty—is more than skin deep. No cosmetic in the world can give the wholesome color, the bright eyes, the clear, transparent skin that is the natural result of pure blood, proper diet and hygienic habits of daily life.

It sounds easy and it is easy for a woman to have the beauty which health alone can give. A safe and efficient tonic if the blood is weak, thin or impure (Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are especially recommended), the avoidance of foods which will cause eruptions, and regular bathing of the skin. That is all and it is the only way. Most ladies, and especially young mothers, will be interested in the following statement:

"After my baby was born," says Mrs. Etta Estes of No. 333 South Lawndale street, Kansas City, Mo., "I did not gain in strength as I should have. I did not have any color and kept losing in flesh until I was almost a skeleton. I had severe headaches and pains in the side, arms and shoulders. I finally gave up the doctor's treatment in order to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They helped me immediately and I became stronger each day, soon I got a better color and am now in the best of health. I am convinced that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will do all that is claimed for them and advise any women who is suffering as I did to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at once and not wait another day."

Write to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Box 176, Schenectady, N. Y., for a free booklet, "Plain Talks to Women." It is an outspoken but perfectly proper little book and should be read by every woman and growing girl. A free sample of the new laxative "Pinklets" will also be sent you. Should you be unable to obtain Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People in your locality they will be sent postpaid on receipt of price, fifty cents per box, six boxes for $2.50.

MEXICO PROMISES TO BE SUGAR CANE COUNTRY.

City of Mexico, Mex., March 15.—Men who are well informed as to the possibilities of the sugar industry in Mexico claim that there is no good reason why this country should not within the next few years become a leading factor in the sugar markets of the world. Conditions for bringing this about could hardly be more favorable.

Millions of acres of land that are known to be well adapted for growing sugar cane only await the touch of the hand of development to make them highly revenue producing. While large areas of sugar-growing territory are at present not conveniently situated to railroad transportation, this drawback is being gradually overcome by the construction of lines of railway into the more remote localities. It is also noticeable that more attention is being given at this time to the development of the agricultural resources of the country than ever before. It is expected that under the industrial advancement which has been inaugurated this feature of the country's resources will rapidly increase in importance. The production of sugar in Mexico for the year ending on June 30, 1911, was approximately 160,000 tons. All of the figures are not yet in, but this estimate is believed to be nearly correct.

WOMAN PRISONER INSISTS ON SERVING FULL TERM.

Goldfield, Nev., March 15.—Mrs. Jennie Enright, who was sentenced to serve 100 days for assault and battery, has completed her time and has left the institution. She served eighty-two days in all, having been granted eighteen days for good behavior.

Mrs. Enright resisted every effort to secure a commutation of her sentence, saying that she desired to serve it out. Her friends took the matter up with Governor Oddie with a view to securing executive clemency, but Mrs. Enright, hearing of their efforts, addressed a personal letter to the governor saying that she would not accept interference on his part and requesting to be allowed to serve her sentence.

ON THE IRON RANGES

TYPHOID HAS BEEN HALTED

Spread of Dread Disease at Two Harbors Is Believed Checked.

Action Taken By Health Authorities Has Brought Good Results.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The present epidemic of typhoid fever here has about reached its height, and it is expected by the continued use of the precautionary measures now enforced very few, if any, more cases will develop. Since the epidemic began and warning notices were issued by the board of health a great many people have boiled water used for domestic purposes upon the supposition that the water supply was the source of the epidemic; while upon the same proposition, a number of others totally abstained from the use of water for drinking purposes. The precautions, together with the installation by the state experts of a hypochlorite plant at the water and light station seem to have accomplished these desired results.

Cases Successfully Treated.

Dr. E. P. Christenson of the Budd hospital staff stated that of the ninety cases being treated from that hospital about eight or nine of them might be considered serious, and that the balance were moderately light cases. In his opinion the number of cases will not increase materially and that possibly some few cases might yet develop, but their number would be small. Of the fifty cases or more being treated at the Knauff hospital, Dr. F. C. Wagner states while a few are very ill none are dangerously so, and that some few cases are being discovered the number is small and the epidemic is practically under control. He states that Dr. Knauff and he have vaccinated a number of people here and that experiments have proven that the subjects are practically immune.

The prompt action of the local doctors and the state board of health and the indefatigable labors of the local physicians have been of great value in checking the spread of the disease.

VERMILION RANGE LIKES NEW SYSTEM

Eight Hours for Underground Miners Gives Much Satisfaction.

Ely, Minn., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new eight-hour work-day of the Oliver Iron Mining company, which went into effect Monday is meeting with general approval. It applies only to men working underground at present. Even with this limitation it shortens the working day for about 1,000 men. Both the night and day shift begin work at 8 and stop at 5. It is estimated that this new rule will in no way decrease the amount of ore produced.

The last home game on the regular schedule of the basket ball team will be played in the gymnasium of the Lincoln school. Aurora and Ely will be the contesting teams. The girls' basket ball team has one more game to be played. They meet the Eveleth team next Friday evening at Eveleth. This season has been one of the most successful in the history of the game here. Both the boys' and girls' teams made a fine record.

EXPECT MEMBERS PERFORM DUTIES

Members of Virginia Charter Commission Given Prodding By President Fanning.

Virginia, Minn., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—M. E. Fanning, president of the charter commission, through Secretary Otto Poirier, has sent notices out to all members, informing them that if they do not want to take an active part in charter commission affairs, their resignations will be thankfully accepted and others who will take an interest and attend meetings will be appointed.

The committee appointed to prepare and draft amendments to the city charter is not ready to report and the meeting of the charter commission set for March 15 has been postponed one week or until March 22.

MINNESOTA LAND IN GREAT FAVOR

Prospective Purchaser of Canadian Land Stops on This Side and Buys.

Northome, Minn., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph J. Howe, Jr., of a land company of Minneapolis was here giving attention to business matters on Thursday. Mr. Howe stated that about 95 per cent of the land-seekers he encounters in the course of his travels have eyes only for Minnesota lands, and that all that is necessary is to get into communication with the prospective purchaser. Mr. Howe states that the state immigration office at Minneapolis is fairly swamped with inquiries for northern Minnesota farming acres. Mr. Howe says that the Canadian lands are not sc attractive as they were, and that many farmers are returning to the states, where climatic and other conditions are far better.

Defers Canadian Trip.

Napoleon Rousse, who has resided for some time in Wildwood township, concluded a deal on Wednesday whereby he became the owner of an eighty acre farm in Pinetop township. Mr. Rousse was on his way to Canada to take up a homestead when he fell in with Eugene Osborn of St. Paul, who had the Pinetop farm for sale and it did not take any argument to convince Mr. Rousse that Minnesota had it all over Canada, and he nailed the deal and is mighty glad of it, and so are his Koochiching county friends.

John Rose is just completing an ideal bungalow at his homestead claim at the north end of Island lake. The building is 26x26 feet and finished throughout in hardwood with hard finished walls. The building is heated with a furnace and has all modern conveniences.

HEALTH OFFICERS CLOSE THE PLACE

Put Ban on Hibbing Boarding House Run By a Consumptive.

Hibbing, Minn., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—To prevent the spread of the disease further the health officers today closed the boarding house that Ray Prlina has been running at 123 French location, because the head of the house is in the last stages of tuberculosis of the lungs. He has been keeping four boarders and beside has a family and the health authorities feared others might become infected.

They tried to persuade Prlina to go to the county hospital to keep his family from catching the dread disease, but he phlegmatically grunted, when told they might take the disease and die, "then let them die."

Drastic action may be taken if he does not agree to taking proper treatmetn forthwith.

WILL PRESENT COMEDY.

Local Talent of Warba Village to Present "The Schoolma'am."

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The people of Warba, the village fifteen miles east of here, are preparing to stage the home talent play entitled "The Schoolma'am" on March 23 at the Warba hall. The play is a comedy in which a neighborhood gets comically mixed up over a neighborhood school master. Following is the caste of characters: Kate Bell, the schoolma'am, Hazel Prescott; Mrs. Grump, the complaining parent, Mrs. H. Schutt; Mrs. Undertow, Mrs. E. Longmore; Marly Undertow, Mildred Mostoller; Minnie Trueblood, Irene McIntyre; Undertow, "a self-made man" director, E. Longmore; Cypher, a "friend of education" director, G. Rima; Trueblood, director, A. Rima; Milt Harmon, W. Schmitt; Johnnie Grump, "the little son," R. Longmore; Jamie McWhack, janitor, C. Schutt.

JUDGE HUGHES IS TO GIVE SUPERIOR ADDRESS.

Hibbing, Minn., March 15. — (Special to The Herald.) — Judge Martin Hughes will leave tomorrow for Superior where Saturday night he will speak at the Irish-American club at the program in connection with the St. Patrick's day observance. Judge Hughes will deliver the principal address at the St. Patrick's day celebration at Eveleth Tuesday night.

VIRGINIA SEEKS PUBLIC MEETINGS

Commercial Club in Campaign to Bring Gatherings to Range City.

Virginia, Minn., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Commercial club is getting ready to advertise the advantages of the city as a place for holding conventions. William J. Archer is obtaining information as to the Virginia delegates at conventions elsewhere this year and in every instance the Virginians who go away from home will make the effort to obtain the next convention for this city. The list is now quite extensive and will be greatly enlarged. At least three of the conventions which it is expected can be landed for Virginia, will bring from 500 to 1,000 delegates in addition to other visitors. The club proposes to have printed within a short time a souvenir book of Virginia, for the use of those who can make a distribution of it, at gatherings in other cities.

OLD SECTION MAN STRUCK BY TRAIN

Brought Unconscious to Two Harbors Hospital and May Die.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thomas Laysembly, 65 years of age, a section hand in the employ of the Duluth & Iron Range Railroad company during the past four years, was found seriously injured and in an unconscious condition lying between the northbound track and sidetrack lying parallel thereto at Fairbanks station at 6:45 a. m. last Wednesday. His scalp was severely cut, left forearm broken and right foot injured, and it is thought that he will not survive.

Just how the accident happened is not known, but it is thought that he was struck by some passing train. It is reported that he had spent the evening previous until about 11 o'clock at the hotel and saloon at Fairbanks and then left for the section house, and the people at the section house state that he did not reach there.

The injured man was brought to the Budd hospital in this city on the noon train Wednesday in an unconscious condition and at last reports had not regained consciousness.

WORK IN WOODS IS ABOUT ENDED

Lumber Camps in Vicinity of Chisholm Will Soon Be Breaking Up.

Chisholm, Minn., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The various logging and timber camps in the country north of Chishom are preparing to break camp, as their season's work is about completed.

The continued cold weather has permitted them to make a very successful season, the road remaining in fine condition all winter. There has not been a thaw since the first snow and cold weather set in last winter The ground was a little slow in freezing, where the snow covered it, until the severe weather set in, but the loggers say that it caused them no financial loss, as there was plenty of other work getting the camps prepared for the winter and getting everything in shape for the season's haul. The big steam log hauler which has been busy during the winter hauling logs to the Missabe track, near the Clark location, still has some logs to deliver, but the roads have shown no signs of thawing and will be able to complete the hauling of their full winter's cut. Last year this steam hauler was pulled off in February during the thaw and was not able to go back on the road again, as the road was never in condition after the thaw, and many logs were left in the woods.

Headquarters are here and the men, who are all paid from the Chisholm office, have about finished getting the logs to the railroad track, where they will be loaded and hauled by train for some time yet.

Over 1,000 Employed.

They have over 1,000 men in their camps and in the sub-camps who will be coming down within the next couple of weeks. The roundhouse and permanent camp at the end of the line will be continued during the entire year, and the train crew will be kept busy getting the line in shape for any extension work that will be necessary to reache farther into the timber for next year's cut. The present terminus of the north end of the line is in the Sturgeon lake country, making at present a haul of about twenty miles to deliver the logs at Chisholm. From here they are delivered to the Great Northern and taken to the Mississippi river and floated to their destination.

TWO HARBORS DEATH.

Typhoid-Meningitis Claims Adolph Hedin Aged Only 18.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.) — Adolph Hedin, aged about 18 years, died yesterday from typhoid meningitis. He had been sick a week and one day, and his case was bad from the start. The young man had been engaged as delivery clerk for Schreiner Bros. & Moulton for a couple of years. He leaves a mother, stepfather, four brothers and two sisters. The young man had a special nurse from Duluth and everything possible was done for him without avail.

TO RETAIN GREENING.

Eveleth School Board Expected to Increase His Salary.

Eveleth, Minn., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the meeting of the school board tonight when the teachers for next year will be engaged it is expected Supt. B. E. Greening will not only be retained but that his salary will be increased from $2,800. Bids will be received on April 1 for the construction of another grade school building estimated to cost $60,000. Bonds to that amount were recently sold to the state of Minnesota.

WILL BRING PLANS.

St. Louis Architect Coming Prepared for Hibbing Duties.

Hibbing, Minn., March 15. — (Special to The Herald.) — W. B. Ittner, the architect, who is preparing the plans for the new addition to the Lincoln school building, estimated to cost $100,000, will arrive in the city tomorrow night from his home at St. Louis. Mr. Ittner will bring with him completed plans for the Lincoln school and it is probale that at a special meeting of the board held Monday or Tuesday of next week, bids will be called for. It is expected to have the building ready for occupancy by the time the fall term starts. Mr. Ittner submitted to the board in January a tentative draft of the plans, which were ordered altered in minor details at a special meeting of the board.

DR. WEIRICK GETS CONGRATULATIONS

Hibbing, Minn., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. H. R. Weirick, who has just been elected to serve his sixth consecutive term as mayor, is receiving telegrams from all over the state congratulating him on his victory.

A score or more came from Duluth. One, signed by State Treasurer Smith, Odin Halden and Hal Mitchell, as "The Three Musketeers," informed the doctor that they had enjoyed a banquet in his honor at the Spalding, for which he would please kindly call and settle upon his first visit to the city.

A number came from St. Paul and Minneapolis and yesterday's batch contained messages from friends in California, Idaho and Arizona, who had requested to be informed of the result by wire.

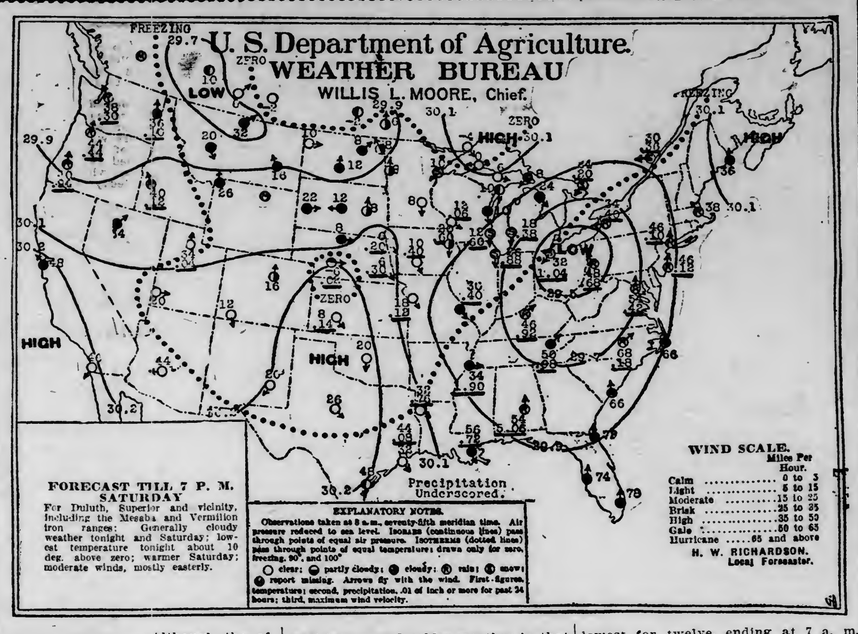
OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER



FORECAST TILL 7 P. M. SATURDAY

For Duluth, Superior and vicinity, including the Mesaba and Vermilion iron ranges: Generally cloudy weather tonight and Saturday; lowest temperature tonight about 10 deg. above zero; warmer Saturday; moderate winds, mostly easterly.

EXPLANATORY NOTES.

Observations taken at 8 a. m. seventy-fifth meridian time. Air pressure reduced to sea level. ISOBARS (continuous lines) pass through points of equal air pressure. ISOTHERMS (dotted lines) pass through points of equal temperature; drawn only for zero, freezing, 90°, and 100°.

○ clear; ◒ partly cloudy; ● cloudy; ⓡ rain; ⓢ snow; ⓜ report missing. Arrows fly with the wind. First figures, temperature; second, precipitation, .01 of inch or more for past 24 hours; third, maximum wind velocity.

CLOUDY

Although the official thermometer has not been over the freezing point, the sun has been getting in some good work this week in reducing the snow piles it shone upon. The weather today is somewhat raw, but higher temperatures are promised for tomorrow.

The mercury dropped to 7 deg. below zero and there was a heavy wind a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 6:21 and it will set at 6:13 this evening, giving eleven hours and fifty-two minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The disturbance centered over the Ohio valley has caused light to heavy snow or rain over the Mississippi and Ohio valleys, Southern Lake region and Atlantic and Southern states during the last twenty-four hours. The following heavy precipitation is reported: Toledo, Ohio, 1.04 inches; Memphis, Tenn., 1.90 inches; Montgomery, Ala., 5.06 inches. Light to copious rains also fell over Utah, Idaho, Oregon and Washington in connection with the low pressure over Alberta. Warmer weather prevails in Atlantic states, the Ohio valley and Northwestern districts. The high pressure in the Southwest has caused colder weather in that section, and line of freezing temperature including Central Texas, Northern Louisiana and all of New Mexico."

General Forecasts.

Upper Michigan—Generally fair tonight and Saturday; warmer Saturday.

Wisconsin—Generally fair tonight and Saturday; colder in east portion tonight; rising temperature Saturday.

Minnesota and North Dakota—Generally fair tonight and Saturday; rising temperature Saturday.

Iowa—Fair tonight and Saturday; colder in east portion tonight; rising temperature Saturday.

Montana—Generally fair in east, rain or snow in west portion tonight and Saturday; warmer in south portion tonight.

Shippers' forecast: Protect thirty-six-hour shipments of perishables against minimum temperatures 5 deg. to 15 deg. above zero in the Dakotas, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

"To Them That Hath"

A SHORT SERMON TO FAT FOLKS.

"To them that hath shall be given" is a sentence that applies to fat people very neatly. It is common knowledge that once a human being begins to fatten up, to what they have already is added more than they want until finally a stage is reached where reduction must be made or decided disadvantage results.

Then comes forward the ages-old query, "Reduce—but how?" To the uninformed nothing suggests itself but the (to them) twin evils—less eating—more activity. They contemplate a more or less lengthy siege of dieting and exercising. So it may be said safely that every man or woman in the land now undergoing the fattening-up process has his or her mental eye fixed dubiously on that not far distant day when he or she will have to don the "ashes and sackcloth of reduction."

This is not an enlivening prospect, and so it is with considerable satisfaction that we announce the emancipation of the fat. Nowadays one may reduce much or little, a pound a day if desided, or hold their fat in check, absolutely stationary, without doing a tap of exercise, missing a single meal, doing a particle of harm or causing a solitary wrinkle. All that's required, as hundreds testify, is the taking after meals and at bedtime of one Marmola Prescription Tablet, which tablets are sold by the Marmola Co., 491 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich., or any good druggist, at the uniform price of 75 cents, this sum being accepted for a case of tablets so well and generously filled that even one produces desirable results.

SAGE TEA WILL DARKEN THE HAIR

Restore Faded and Gray Hair to Natural Color—Dandruff Quickly Removed.

There is nothing new about the idea of using Sage for restoring the color of the hair. Our grandmothers kept their hair dark, glossy and abundant by the use of a simple "Sage Tea." Whenever their hair fell out or took on a dull, faded or streaked appearance, they made a brew of Sage leaves and applied it to their hair with wonderfully beneficial effect.

Nowadays we don't have to resort to the old-time tiresome methods of gathering the herbs and making the tea. This is done by skillful chemists better than we could do it ourselves; and all we have to do is to call for the ready-made product, Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, containing Sage in the proper strength, with the addition of Sulphur, another old-time scalp remedy.

This preparation gives youthful color and beauty to the hair, and is one of the best remedies you can use for dandruff, dry, feverish, itching scalp, and falling hair. Get a fifty-cent bottle from your druggist today, and you will be surprised at the quick results. All druggists sell it, under guarantee that the money will be refunded if the remedy is not exactly as represented. Special agent, Max Wirth, 13 West Superior street.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE

We submit the following as our ideas of the probabilities under Fulton's Renal Compound in Bright's and kidney disease:

Where patients are seriously weakened and crises may be expected in from ten to twenty days probably not more than ten per cent to twenty per cent respond. Where physicians aid by holding up the heart, increasing the eliminations, etc., the efficiency can be increased. In cases where patients have from thirty to sixty days of life we look for correspondingly better results.

Where patients do not wait until bedridden we believe three-fourths can be controlled and that in cases that take the treatment on the appearance of the disease that nearly nine out of ten will respond with final recovery or prolongation of life.

Albumen, casts and dropsy do not prevent recovery. The point is that the renal inflammation should be attacked before the heart and recuperative powers are too greatly weakened.

Fulton's Renal Compound is used both with and without physician's prescriptions. The motive of the Renal Compound being to relax the kidney (the Old School having nothing to reduce inflamed kidneys) it will be seen that the heart, eliminative and tonic treatment usually prescribed in Bright's and kidney disease do not conflict but are often required in extreme cases.

We desire patients not improving the third week to write us. Literature mailed free. John J. Fulton Company, 645 Battery, San Francisco, Cal. We invite correspondence with physicians who have obstinate cases.

A New Stomach

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Restore Lifeless Organs to Normal Condition.

A Trial Package Free.

Many a sufferer from Dyspepsia, Indigestion and kindred ailments of the digestive organs carries around an absolutely useless stomach — a dead load, and a cesspool for ever-increasing disorders. The muscles are seemingly worn out, the mucous lining has lost its secretive power and food taken into the stomach lies there and ferments, causing sour eructations, belchings, heartburn, dizziness and other distressing conditions. Many sufferers have given up in despair until they have been induced by some interested friends to try a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the dyspeptic's hope. They are a natural restorative of healthy action to the stomach and small intestines, because they supply the elements that the weak stomach lacks—pepsin, golden seal and other digestives.

If you are afflicted with any of the symptoms above described, be assured that your digestive organs are losing power,—they need help and there is no more sensible help to be given them than to supply elements which will do the work of digestion for them.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been found by test to have digestive powers, one grain of the active principle of these tablets being sufficient to digest 3,000 grains of ordinary food. It is plain that no matter what the conditon of your stomach, or how far your disease has progressed, one of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets taken at meal time will do the work—give your stomach an opportunity to regain its lost powers, the muscles will be strengthened, the glands invigorated, and you will be a new man.

It costs nothing to prove the effectiveness of this cure. Send for a free sample package today. F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

HAS GROWN VERY FAST

Voting to Create Pike Bay Township Shows How This Section Grows.

Territory Opened for Entry Only in 1909 to Vote March 21.

Cass Lake, Minn., March 15. — (Special to The Herald.) — On Thursday, March 21, an election will be held on the question of organization of Pike Bay township, township 145 north of range 31 west, the township in the center of which Cass Lake village is located.

Indicative of the newness of the country around Cass Lake village is the fact that the land, in this township, was opened to homestead entry only in 1909, with the exception of two or three sections. Some of it is still a part of the so-called "Ten Sections," in the Minnesota national forest, which "Ten Sections" are to remain as a perpetual forest covered with the original Norway and white pine and other timber. Only the ripe trees and down timber are expected ever to be taken from this land. The "Ten Sections" skirt the shores of Pike Bay and Cass Lake.

Already there are candidates mentioned for the various offices in the new township, where it is expected about seventy or eighty votes will be cast.

Some Candidates Mentioned.

The following persons have been mentioned thus far for the various offices: H. H. Martin, H. J. Seeley, Peter Bell, supervisors; Ole Halverson and James Nason, for clerk; Martin B. Anderson, treasurer; Lars Hjelmstad, assessor; Dan Neff and Phil Partridge, for justices of the peace; Dennis Cokeley and Joe Carpenter for constables; Ole Halverson, who was nominated for village clerk in Cass Lake on the Dupass ticket, and refused to consent to use his name in that connection because he did not claim to be a voter here, is a candidate for town clerk in the new town organization.

The following officers were elected in Hart Lake township in Hubbard county, a few miles southwest of here: Tom Jondahl, chairman supervisors; G. Pearson, clerk; C. Juenke, treasurer; J. B. Johnson, assessor; G. Pearson, H. Vance, justices; Hans Jondahl, Clark Moorhouse, constables. This election resulted in the election of practically an entirely new set over what it has been for several years past by majorities ranging from two to five votes.

BAUDETTE MAN PLEADS GUILTY

Admits to Judge He Fired Home in Which People Were Asleep.

Bemidji, Minn., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Oscar Baker of Baudette pleaded guilty yesterday, before Judge Wright in district court, to a charge of arson in the first degree. Baker's attorney wished him to plead not guilty, but Baker was facing an alleged confession said to have been made to Sam F. Fullerton, deputy state fire marshal, in which a pal of Baker's, Joe Le Fave, claimed he and Baker set fire to a building in Baudette in which were housed a woman and three small children, who were asleep at the time of the fire, which was subdued without much damage being done. Just what disposition will be made of Le Fave's case has not been announced.

R. M. LA FOLLETTE SCORES ROOSEVELT

Says Former President Failed to Take Steps to Curb Trust Formation.

Valley City, N. D., March 15.—United States Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, in one of two speeches delivered here last night on the eve of the state presidential preference primary charged Theodore Roosevelt with having passed by the greatest opportunity ever offered a president of the United States.

"This opportunity," said the senator, "was to have sent a strong, forceful message to congress, followed by an appeal to the people, if necessary, when combinations of capital in this country first became alarming. It is the office of the president to urge on congress such legislation as he believes the best public interest demands. I do not propose to assail any man on personal grounds, but great issues are pending. I do not deny the right for any man to be a candidate for any public office, but there is one great test to be applied to all candidates and that is the record they have made in the past. Not only present promises must be considered, but, how have they kept their promises in the past. And so it is fair that the record of every candidate be secured. They should be analyzed intelligently and carefully. You will search Mr. Roosevelt's messages in vain for a strong urgent note pointing out changes needed to afford relief to the people in changing of economic conditions that were nullifying the laws of supply and demand.

Neglected Opportunity.

"Oh, what an opportunity it was for a president, and when that president had the people of the country back of him, and who so appealed to their imaginations.

"Two or three, yes three or four times the subject was slightly touched on during those seven years. And then only on the eve of a change of a presidential election he brought it to the attention of congress. Then it was decided to pass it on to Mr. Taft."

In his second speech Senator La Follette made this declaration when speaking of Col. Roosevelt.

"I am not going to make any personal attack on any man, either on Mr. Roosevelt or President Taft, but this is a time when it is proper to judge them by their records.

"If I had been president when these great trusts were forming, when McKinley and Roosevelt were president, I would have called the United States district attorneys of the whole country to Washington and I would have handed each one a copy of the Sherman anti-trust law, and I would have said 'go home and commit that to memory and come back here at the same hour tomorrow.'

"Then, when they came back, I would have said to them 'now you know what this law means. Go out and do your duty as prosecutors. If you don't I will put you out and will put in men who will.' One slight touch of the firm hand of the government when these great combinations were forming, would have restrained them. Now the problem is more serious, more complicated, but we've got to meet it and solve it or hand it down to our children. We can solve it with the ballots, perhaps, they could not."

MENOMINEE LOSES "MARRYING JUSTICE"

Henry Nason, Pioneer Judge Who Made Wisconsin Couples Happy, Is Called.

Menominee, Mich., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Henry Nason, pioneer of Menominee and known for years as the "marrying justice," for eloping couples from Wisconsin, died here yesterday. He held the office of justice of the peace for forty years, all but four of which were continuous. He came to Menominee in 1855 and was the first manufacturer of shingles in the Menominee river region.

Judge Nason was 83 years old and one of the real pioneers of the upper peninsula, hearty, genial, rugged and active, he took a prominent part in the affairs of the community up to the time of his death. It was a common sight to see him spinning along on his bicycle in the summer time and skimming the ice in the winter in his ice boat. He was held in the highest respect and esteem by all the people and was elected to the offices of justice and coroner which he has held for the past forty years, without opposition.

In the early days, when Menominee was wild and wolly Mr. Nason saw strenuous times in his capacity of justice of the peace. He was always ready to do his duty unflinchingly and made himself a terror to evil-doers. The tragedies of the years in which he acted as coroner, tales of violence, of mystery and of death, would fill volumes, yet strange as it may seem the very first case he was called to act upon was in every way the most notable.

Menominee's Only Lynching.

It was no other than the inquest on the bodies of the McDonalds, who, after they had killed a prominent lumberman, were taken from the county jail and hanged by a mob, this being the only lynching in the history of Menominee county.

Mr. Nason was born in Orange county, Vermont, in 1828, and was educated in the schools of Grafton, N. H. He came to Menominee in 1855 and has resided here ever since. In partnership with his brother-in-law, J. G. Boswell, he operated the first saw mill on the shores of Green Bay. In 1854 Mr. Nason was married to Miss Mahala Place of Roscoe, Ill. He is survived by his wife, one son and two daughters.

TWO BROTHERS ARE MISSING

Move Onto Wisconsin Farm From North Dakota Then Drop From Sight.

Eau Claire, Wis., March 15.—The mysterious disappearance of two bachelor brothers, William and Richard Ottman, both in the neighborhood of 38 and 40 years, who lived on what is known as the Tygart place in the town of Drammen, some eight miles northwest of Eleva, has confounded the sheriff's office, which has been investigating it, and is mystifying the neighborhood.

Although the sheriff's office has been working on the case since March 4 and the disappearance occurred on the night of Feb. 28, probably, still no clues have been found which would tend to throw any light on the matter. The disappearance was so sudden and complete as though the earth had opened up and swallowed them. No one seems to have seen them as they left the house. There is nothing to indicate foul play as the house, barns and outbuildings, the woods for miles around and the neighborhood in general have been searched by the sheriff and searching parties assisting the county officials.

From North Dakota.

The two brothers moved onto the farm last November, coming from Maricourt, N. D., where they had a quarter section of land. With them came their 80-year-old mother, who lived with them for some time, but some time ago left for Auxvasse, Mo., where she is staying with her son, Herman.

On account of her age and the condition of her health she has not been advised of the disappearance of her two sons.

The two brothers were held in high esteem by the neighbors, for they were quiet, unassuming men and seemed to attend strictly to their own business. They seemed to have no trouble and were together most of the time. Their disappearance was discovered by a neighbor, Gilbert Isaacson, on Thursday, Feb. 29. Mr. Isaacson noticed two horses, owned by the Ottman brothers, wandering loose on his land and he drove them back to the Ottman barn. On his arrival there he found that all the stock on the place had been turned loose; the doors of the barn and other outbuildings having been left open so that the cow, the pigs, chickens and other stock could go out and in, enough hay and other provender having been left where they could reach it to last them for about two weeks.

Leave House Unlocked.

A further investigation revealed that the house had been left unlocked, but no trace of the two brothers was found. In one of the bedrooms of the house was found lying on the bed two keys, a nickel and some nails, which appeared to have been hurriedly dumped out of a pocket.

That one of the brothers had changed clothes in the bedroom was indicated by the fact that a man's underwear, overalls and other articles of clothing had been left just as taken off, lying in the middle of the room. That was all.

Freckle-Face

March Brings Out Unsightly Spots. How to Remove Easily.

Do you know how easy it is to remove those ugly spots so that no one will call you freckle-face?

Simply get an ounce of othine, double strength, from Boyce Drug Store, and one night's treatment will show you how easy it is to rid yourself of freckles and get a beautiful complexion. The sun and winds in March bring out freckles, and as a result more othine is sold this month, and the druggists sometimes find it difficult to get sufficient to supply all calls. Be sure to ask for the double strength othine, as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove the freckles.

FIRE PREVENTION MEET.

Will Be Held at Bemidji Thursday, March 21.

Bemidji, Minn., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Commercial club has arranged with the Minnesota State Fire Prevention association for a public meeting to be held here on Thursday, March 21. Experts will tell how the fire risk may be reduced and public discussion of the fire and insurance problem will follow.

Following this action at the club these officers were named by the newly elected board of directors: President, W. A. Gould; vice presidents, A. P. White and B. W. Lakin; treasurer, James L. George; secretary, H. C. Baer.

In naming the directors, members of the club wrote down fifteen names, the number of directors for the club, and those receiving the highest number of votes were declared elected, the ballots ranging from 35 for T. J. Burke, the retiring president, down to 16 for G. E. Carson and 13 each for B. W. Lakin and C. W. Bacon. The club has a membership of 105.

Louis L. Law, secretary of the Minnesota State Fire Prevention association, wrote the president of the Commercial club calling attention to the meeting of the Fire Prevention association in Bemidji March 21. The members of the association who are prominent in its workings will hold a meeting at Crookston on the 20th inst. and will come to Bemidji direct from Crookston.

TO EXAMINE CONCERN.

Minnesota Officials to Look Into Southern Corporation.

St. Paul, Minn., March 15.—Examiners from the Minnesota state department of banking left yesterday for Birmingham, Ala., to investigate the affairs of a corporation said to have swindled Minnesotans on loan deals.

Within the last few months numerous complaints have reached State Superintendent of Banks Chase and Secretary of State Schmahl from persons who claimed they had been swindled, and the sending of two examiners to look into the books of the concern is a result.

The company is incorporated under the laws of New Jersey, has head officer in Birmingham and operates in other states.

EXPIRES IN CHURCH.

Mill City Grain Commission Man Dies Very Suddenly.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 15.—Frank A. Pierce, a grain commission man, with offices in the Flour Exchange, dropped dead Wednesday night while talking with friends in the prayer meeting room of the First Baptist church, St. Paul. He was stricken with apoplexy. Mr. Pierce lived at 1935 Marshall avenue, Merriam Park.

Mr. Pierce had spoken at the prayer meeting and friends said that he did not show any signs of illness then. At the close of the services he stopped to discuss the services and was stricken while talking. He is survived by his wife, a son, Edwin, and two daughters, Harriet and Margaret.

Soo Brakeman Killed.

Auburndale, Wis., March 15.—Lee Moore, aged 29, a brakeman on the Soo railway, was instantly killed here while attempting to make a flying switch on an emigrant car bound for the Canadian Northwest. A fellow brakeman threw the switch under the car, which tipped over. Moore fell underneath and was crushed.

BRUCE'S COLUMN

COMMENT AND DIVERS DISCUSSION OF THE MERRY WORLD OF SPORT.

OTTO ARCO, a visitor in our midst, who is passing afternoons and evenings at the Orpheum, is one of the wanderlust band of athletes, roving over the European continent, peeping about the world and looking on at many of the big contests that you and I, brother, read of in the daily press. Little Otto is a mighty man, despite the fact that nature was stingy in casting his mould. Athletically, he has worked his way over the face of this old crust, dropping in at Paris, sojourning at Berlin, performing in Australia, and visiting other places of this strange earth.

"Wrestling," said little Otto yesterday afternoon in his dressing room, as he wash the grease paint from his face, "is one of the greatest of all physical developers. When I wrestled in Poland, Paris and other places on the other side of the water, I was bigger in some ways than I am at the present time. I was a middleweight and I have wrestled many places where Zbyszko, who is a countryman of mine, appeared in the big tournaments.

"Zbyszko is a wonderful wrestler. I don't say this because he happens to be of the same nationality as me; but he is a man of marvelous physique and most wonderful strength. I should say that Gama, the wonderful wrestler from East India, is one of the greatest athletes in the world.

"I was in London when he was training at one of the big gymnasiums and had the opportunity of seeing him work. You must remember that India has the greatest wrestlers in the world. Gama is the greatest of all the many wonderful wrestlers of that vast country. I think if the wonderful East Indian would come to this country he would make a wonderful impression.

"This Mahmout I think is one of the greatest wrestlers in the whole world. But if he beats Zbyszko he will have accomplished a wonderful feat, as there are few men in the world as strong as the Polish athlete."

Little Arco, like other professional strong men, is one who says Eugene Sandow was never one of the real strong men of the world. Like Sam Kramer, the strong man who was at the Orpheum earlier in the season, Arco says Sandow possessed a wonderful physique and a good manager. But when you mention the name of Arthur Saxon, he tells you that the German is perhaps the strongest man in the world.

"I got to know Hackenschmidt pretty well over in Australia," said the little man. "Lots of people may laugh, but there was a time when Hack was a wonderful wrestler and one of the greatest of all weight lifters. His time is past. Dissipation has dragged the once great athlete down. When I was in school I used to read of the feats of Hackenschmidt."

THERE is the story in the classics of Greek meeting Greek, which has been done over in the cheaper magazines, but when Yussiff Mahmout stacks up against Yussiff Hussane the present month, two of the greatest Turks, using the word in its literal meaning, will clash.

This Yussiff Hussane is the same tall and magnificently constructed chap who met Hackenschmidt at Dallas, Tex., some time before the Russian got his from Gotch, and it required the Russian something over two hours to dump the then unknown son of the sultan.

Gotch was so interested by the performance of the young Turk that he engaged him to assist in his training for the bout of last September. The result has been the making of one of the really good wrestlers before the public at the present time. But clever as he is, there is little doubt but that he will be beaten by the formidable Mahmout, the bear-cat.

SAY, by gosh, we are going to have at least one real athlete on the American team that sails for Sweden this summer, there to uphold the athletic honor of dear old Uncle on the cinder path. This exceedingly live youth is none other than John Paul Jones, who has some of the grit and determination of the J. P. Jones of that water fight which McGuffey's fifth reader has made so much of.

This John Paul Jones runs the half mile, the mile and any other distance that it is necessary for him to run, up to the five-mile mark. Some of the wise men of the East, maybe three of them, are of the belief that the Jones kid is the fair-haired youth who is going to breast the tape with the watches registering 1:50 for the half mile. Charley Kilpatrick, Mel Sheppard and Lunghi, the wonderful Italian, are the three men who have come anywhere near this mark. If Jonesy does it, he will be the greatest runner who ever drew on the spiked shoe over the high instep of the true runner.

We are proud of the men who represent the Stars and Stripes in the Olympic games. We have beaten the other nations at all the games but threading needles and some of the foolish games the Britons invented to be in the running. It is clean young chaps like John Paul Jones that make this nation the greatest athletic country in the world. More power to you, J. P. Jones.

IT'S funny how an old warrior never loses the fighting instinct. The other day Robert Fitzsimmons sent a telegram to his frowning frou, stating, thusly: "I met your sweetheart and handed him a wallop. Will hand you one later." Some thought that after the afternoon of nursery rhymes with Bill Lang, there in far off Australia, which ended in a lullaby for the sorrel one, that Fitz would say good-bye to this fighting business for ever. But there are lots of men, George, and you know it, who go home and beat up their wives when they are beaten away from the home preserve. How Fitz has fallen.

THERE was blessed old France, the country where the only fighting they did was with their feet, quite unlike the dancing of "Mariuch." Now the boxing game is the rage in the land with the shoulder movement and the French people are producing some of the really great boxers.

It was due to the American invasion that the padded pastime became so popular. Kid McCoy has done much to make boxing popular there, while Frank Erne was one of the pioneers in the movement to instruct the French people in the art of one of the best of all sports.

Sam McVey, the elephantine dinge, has found the capital of France a most profitable grazing ground and the negro has made a lot of money since he first stepped into the ring to do battle. With the decadence of the English fighters, for some unknown reason, there comes the development of some of the flossy French wielders of the gloves.

This George Carpentier is really one of the greatest of all fighters, if critics on the other side of the water are competent to judge, and he is but a youngster with his best ring years ahead of him. The French people are skillful and athletic and it is not at all out of the beaten path of possibility that some of the really great fighters of the future are to come from the cradle of La France, a nation whose record for feats of valor is long and brilliant.

JACKSON WANTS TO EQUAL OLD RECORD.

Joe Jackson hopes to take down an honor this year that has gone but once to a big league player. He wants to be the second man who has batted .400 in two consecutive seasons.

Jesse Burkett of the Cleveland National league club, back in 1895 and 1896, batted .423 and .410. Since that time no big leaguer has batted over .400 in two consecutive campaigns. As Jackson and Cobb were the only two to beat the .400 mark last year, they are the only ones who have a chance to tie Burkett's record this season.

Handbook Men in Stable.

Chicago, March 15. — Handbook men, driven out of the downtown district, appear to have taken to the home of the horse to carry on their operations. Police arrested thirteen alleged gamblers on the second floor of a stable. The floor was littered with racing forms, and in a corner of the room was a telephone.

CANDIDATES FOR BROOKLYN TEAM

A WINK AT WALLACE LOST GEORGE HIS JOB

St. Louis, March 15.—Lefty George, who crossfires with the left fin, winked himself out of a job with Manager Wallace of the Browns.

That's the whole, unadulterated truth, hot off the bat from Manager Wallace and sworn to and attested this the 15th day of March, by Doc Lawler, who ministers unto the sick and wounded in the Browns' camp.

George, everybody will remember, was recently traded to the Naps for George Stovall, ex-manager, who assays about 99 per cent pure as a first sacker. When this trade (sight-unseen) was pulled by Col. Hedges a howl went up from Kennebunk, Me., to 'Frisco, Cal.

"Cleveland gold-bricked again," shouted the calamity howlers.

Well, there are two persons who think that Cleveland got an even break in this deal. Those two are Manager Harry Davis and Owner Charles Somers of the Naps, the men who engineered the trade, aided and abetted by Col. Robert L. Hedges, who is foolish like a little red fox. Everybody else in this land figured that Cleveland crawled out the short end of the horn on that deal.

"How did you slip that over on Davis?" Wallace was asked Tuesday.

"I didn't slip anything over on Davis," snapped Wallace. "Why, do you know I still would have George if he hadn't been winking at me all season."

Somebody gave the manager the equine guffaw. Then Doc Lawler came to Wallace's rescue.

"What Wallace says is the gospel truth," quoth Lawler. "Lefty was the world's greatest winker. He could give the cutest, most knowing little wink with either lamp, and before the season was over we voted him first honors in the world's open winking tournament.

"I'll never forget a day in Boston," chirped Wallace, unwilling to let Lawler tell his story, "I sent George in to pitch, and told him for the love of his wife and child and his future in the profession to uncork a good game. He said he'd try. He went along swimmingly until the fifth inning. Then he inaugurated his famous 'walk' balk. He filled the bases on passes. I chased out on the diamond and Lefty stopped me with that wink—one of those long, deliberate, total eclipse winks. He had me hypnotized for a minute. Finally, he walked the fourth man, forcing home a run.

"I started out on the diamond again, and Lefty came through with another coy little wink—this time a quick, just-a-minute-Bob-I'll-get-him-this-time wink.

"I snatched the ball from him and told him to get into the bench and wink at Lawler. He did, and Lawler hasn't won a game of Kelley pool since; neither has Lefty pitched for the Browns.

"As a winker, Lefty has it on Christy Mathewson like Jack Johnson lays it over Kid Peppers! as a pitcher—well, he's with Cleveland now."

Bowlers Have Not Shown Unusual Class at Chicago Tournament.

Chicago, March 15.—Chicago sent some of its stars after honors in the minor events of the American Bowling congress tournament today. Milwaukee, Watertown and Green Bay, Wis., St. Paul, Detroit, Columbus and Indianapolis also had a number of bowlers competing in the doubles and singles.

Close followers of the game figured that none of the real winners have shown up to date in spite of the class of men who have shot and failed. Swanson and Sollander of Chicago have withstood a longer attack in the doubles than any two men ever before faced in a previous tournament. In the singles Larry Sutton's score of 679 is still leading but it is predicted that several counts of 700 will be registered before the close of the twelfth annual meet.

BRONSON LANDS TITLE CONTEST

Indianapolis Welter Will Meet Clarence English at Early Date.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 15.—As the first of a series of elimination bouts to settle the welterweight championship situation, Ray Bronson, claimant of the title, will meet Clarence English of Omaha, at St. Joseph, Mo., in a fifteen-round bout, April 2. The boxers are to weigh 142 pounds six hours before the fight, which Bronson maintains is the true weight in this class.

It is probable that the next man Bronson will take on will be "Wild Cat" Ferns of Kansas City. Ferns recently boxed a draw with English at St. Joseph. While English is one of the tough welters of the country, Bronson feels confident that he can beat the Omaha man in the fifteen-round distance. He recenty got the best of young Erne in a ten-round bout here.

ILLINI READY FOR SECESSION

Students Show Resentment Against Conference at Mass Meeting.

Champaign, Ill., March 15.—Twenty-five hundred University of Illinois students in a mass meeting presided over by President James, last night demanded evidence of the ability of the "big eight" conference to handle the problems that face it or the ultimate withdrawal of the institution from that organization. The sentiment, however, was that the school should resort to withdrawal only as a last resort.

"Legislation on summer baseball was a botch," said Coach George Hoff. "I'm satisfied neither of the opposing sides. The conference should quit if it cannot handle problems better than that."

President James in addressing the meeting urged that a new conference be formed, if it is decided to break up the present one. Intercollegiate athletics could not exist without some sort of a conference, he said.

RIVERS RULES MONEY CHOICE

Los Angeles, Cal., March 15.—The impression prevails in sporting circles that Joe Rivers will have his hands full when he stacks up against Jack White of Chicago tomorrow afternoon in their scheduled twenty-round fight at Vernon. So general has this feeling become that a number of local admirers of the Chicagoan have placed their money on him. White's fine appearance and showing in training bouts have won him many admirers, but still it is difficult to convince the average bettor here that the Mexican can be defeated by White, and he is held a strong favorite at 10 to 7.

DATE SET FOR OLYMPIC TRIALS

Chicago, March 15.—Try-outs for the Olympic games in the West will be held at Evanston, instead of on Marshall field, and the date will be June 8, instead of May 25, as originally scheduled. This double switch was made yesterday, when Everett C. Brown of the American Olympic executive committee received word from New York that the date had been changed by the committee at a meeting held Sunday.

The switch from Marshall field to Evanston was in line with a suggestion made some time ago that the Evanston track was much faster than the University of Chicago cinder path. It is the belief of athletic coaches that the track at Evanston will produce marks close to those of Eastern tracks.

With the change of dates all athletes who are working for a place on the team will have to compete in the Olympic try-outs instead of qualifying in both meets, which, as Brown believes, would cause much confusion. Any athlete failing to enter in the Olympic try-outs will have no chance to get on the team.

DAILY BASEBALL BULLETIN.

March 15.—Continued calm with a light sprinkle of pessimism. Baseball bears yesterday climbed the fence and chased the bulls out of the pasture. Chisholm and Tower are applicants for membership in the new league. Country towns persist in calling us a hoob baseball town. Charles Moll is reported to be a great admirer of Rip Van Winkle and also a man of mature deliberation. No pennants have been forecasted in the new league as yet. Kid Taylor and Dooley O'Brien are both playing sidelines for show and baseball for pince.

VARSITY QUINT HERE SATURDAY

Two Duluth Stars Will Play With Crack Minnesota Team.

With both teams in the very best of condition and both anticipating victory, the game tomorrow evening between the crack boat club basket ball team and the star quint from the university promises to be one of the big athletic events of the year.

On the university team are two of the greatest basket ball players ever produced by this city. "Morrey" Harris and "Husk" Waldron, former members of the Central high school basket ball and baseball teams, and two of the most popular boys who ever attended the pile of masonry on the hill, will be with the opposition and their playing will be watched with interest by the crowd.

Never before in the history of a basket ball contest has there been the interest shown that is being manifested in the approaching game. The game will be a social function as well as one of the distinct athletic features of the season. University and boat club colors will decorate the huge Y. M. C. A. gymnasium and prominent members of the boat club will act as ushers. Special seats are being reserved for the university students and graduates.

The Minnesota players will arrive tomorrow morning. Members of the reception committee will meet the skiu-mah boys at the train and escort them to their hotel. Later a ride around the city will be taken in a buzz wagon. The members of the entertainment committee also planning other forms of amusement.

Following is the line-up of the two teams:

U. of M.		D. B. C.
M. Harris	f	Johnson
McKeon	f	Boerner
Waldron	c	Paddock
Stevenson	g	Lathrop
Rosenwald	g	Solheim

DULUTH QUINT WINS FROM SUPERIOR FIVE.

The Shamrocks junior basket ball team of Superior was defeated last evening by the C. B. C. quint at the Catholic Athletic club gymnasium. The team work of the C. B. C. boys was superior to that shown by the visitors. The all-round work of the Duluth players was the feature of the game.

The line-up:

C. B. C.		Shamrocks.
C. Graves	f	Reed
P. Helewiski	f	Bradley
Barrett	c	Ennis
Nicholson	g	Fitzgerald
Turnville	g	Joyce

The summary—Helewiski, 6; Graves, 5; Walker, 2; Reed, 5; Joyce, 2; Ennis, 2.

CHARLEY MURPHY IS GAME'S BEST DRESSER

Charles Webb Murphy was born in Ohio, about forty years ago. Accused of being of several nationalities he is of Irish parentage. He was contemporary to Ban Johnson, as sporting editor in Cincinnati and the personal bitterness which has marked their baseball careers, began at that time.

Until 1903, Murphy "wrote baseball" in Cincinnati. In this capacity he met John T. Brush, owner of the Reds. When Brush acquired the Giants he took Murphy to New York as press agent.

A tip that the Chicago Cubs were for sale reaching him, Murphy secured an option and induced Charles P. Taft to buy the team.

Next year the Cubs won the National league pennant and found Murphy in control of the club. His career has been little short of marvelous. Of scrappy disposition, carrying a chip on his shoulder, he has made more enemies than friends in baseball, but has earned a rep for sagacity second to none. His rise has not been the smoothest climb imaginable. His chief diversion is fighting his arch-enemy, Ban Johnson.

Murphy has much money invested in mother earth. Last year he built a young mansion on a fashionable Chicago boulevard and instead of riding on the pay-as-you-enter, chases around in a limousine.

Neatness is Murphy's second nature. Short and tubby he forces this to the front, in the matter of clothes. Only one other in baseball spent more for clothes than does Murphy.

That man was Harry Clay Pulliam, league president at his death. He imported a bundle of glad-rags from his Lunon draper every month and changed his attire so often that he was known as Harry Clothes Pulliam.

Every since Pulliam's death, C. Webb's chubby form has been filling fabrics in an effort to live up to the reputation established by Pulliam. When not stirring up the league animals, Murphy may be found consulting his tailor.

The figure of the Cub boss isn't just the matinee idol type, and here Pulliam had an advantage, yet he is a brilliant example of the draper's art. If Berry Wall could see him all doiled up he'd whistle for sand.

Murphy's latest is a dome cover that makes anything Weber and Fields ever sported blush with envy. The same millinery upon a "Cocktail Chas." Fairbanks type would look better if carried, but on C. Webb it is a reverie. It is an odds-on favorite in the "Creation" stake.

Like everything that concerns him, the identity of Murphy's tailor is "secret." He is too busy designing effects for the chubby one to seek other accounts. It is the woe of this heWorth's existence that stripes are IN this spring. Transforming Murphy into a "slender, willowy figure" is like making an ocean greyhound out of a Mississippi flatboat.

Clothes don't make the man, but he can't get very far without them. But clothes is not Murphy's only claim to the reputation left by Harry Pulliam. Like that genial soul, he gets what he goes after, from coming baseball stars to Ban Johnson's goat, a model of which he is said to have on the wall of his office.

NEWS FROM THE TRAINING CAMPS

Cy Young Off to Boston.

Atlanta, Ga., March 15.—After spending several hours renewing acquaintances with the Highlanders, "Cy" Young left today for Augusta to go into training with the Boston Nationals. The veteran declared he had been greatly benefited by his stay at Hot Springs and predicted that he would last "a year or two yet."

Pirates to Hot Springs.

Double Dose for Tigers.

Monroe, La., March 15.—In an effort to make up for the time lost during the five consecutive days of bad weather here, Manager Jennings has ordered another double workout today. Hughie is trying to arrange a series of games with the St. Louis Cardinals, who are training at Jackson, Miss., a short distance from here.

Bronkie Stars at Third.

Mobile, Ala., March 15. — The 1912 strength of the Naps is now being brought out in daily practice sessions. fair weather having succeeded a week of rain. Herman Bronkie and Tuck-Turner both starred at third in Wednesday's game.

Athletics Rent Bronchos.

San Antonio, Tex., March 15. — Playing like unto their name, Connie Mack's world's champions showed their true colors when they won the third contest from the Bronchos by the score of 12 to 2. Hard and opportune hitting gave the Athletics an easy victory. Murphy, Barry and Lapp put the ball over the fence for home runs. Coombs pitched the first three innings, followed by Bender for the same number. Coombs was wild at the start. Eleven men faced Bender, one hitting safely. Both veterans used plenty of speed. Danforth pitched the last three innings. The teams will play again today. Weather conditions are ideal.

Cardinal Tennis Play.

Jackson, Miss., March 15.—A second game between the regulars and Yannigans will mark the work of the Cardinals today. The youngsters defeated Bresnahan's regulars by a score of 10 to 4, Wednesday. Hughey Jennings wired Bresnahan looking for a practice game for the Tigers here today but Mississippi does not permit the Sunday pastime and Jennings was turned down.

Pelicans Trim Cubs.

New Orleans, La., March 15.—It is believed batting practice will be in order for several days following the 5 to 1 defeat of the Cub squad Wednesday by the Pelicans. President C. Webb Murphy dropped in just in time to see his hopefuls trimmed.

Nationals Are Defeated.

Charlottesville, Va., March 15.—Two 5-inning practices were held today between the Yannigans and regulars of the Nationals, humbled Wednesday by a 6 to 1 defeat at the hands of the University of Virginia team. Capt. McBride was spiked. "Germany" Schaefer is switched to the outfield, ex-Pirate Jack Flynn being apparent fixture at first base. Another game will be played Saturday with Virginia.

CHICK HAYES MATCHED.

Little Hoosier Fighter to Take on Bobby Robidau.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 15.—Chick Hayes, Indiana's fastest bantamweight, will meet Bobby Robidau of St. Louis, at Memphis, Tenn., in an eight-round bout at 118 pounds, March 18. Hayes fights at 116 pounds six hours before the mill, but is willing to concede the two pounds to the St. Louis boxer. Hayes recently got the newspaper decisions over George Kitson and Monte Attell at 116 pounds. He has been offered another bout with Attell at Pittsburg on March 23 and may take him on again. The Hoosier bantam is one of the two or three boys who seems to be fairly well in line to give Johnny Coulon a hard battle for the bantam title.

Track Records Equaled.

Notre Dame, Ind., March 15.—Two world's indoor records were equaled in a dual track meet between Notre Dame and Ohio State last night Notre Dame won the meet easily by a score of 72½ to 23. To Capt. Fletcher of Notre Dame and to his teammate Fred Williams, belong the honor of equaling the world's records. Fletcher took first in the low hurdles in :05 flat and Williams jumped the high barriers in :50 2-5.

New Ball League.

Rock Island, Ill., March 15—A meeting will be held here some time next week for the purpose of organizing a new baseball league to include Moline, Ill, Waterloo, Cedar Rapids, Clinton and Iowa City, Iowa, and Rock Island. Rockford, Ill., will be represented, it is said, with a view to seeking a franchise in the league in 1913. The meeting originally was scheduled to take place at Moline yesterday, but was postponed.

WEST DULUTH'S NEW LIBRARY RAPIDLY NEARS COMPLETION

THE NEW LIBRARY.

That the new Carnegie library at the northwest corner of Central avenue and Elinor street will be finished by May 1, the contract time, is the opinion of the Jacobson Brothers, who are in charge of the construction work on the building. The four walls are practically finished and the workmen are now placing the large glass skylight over the entire building.

Work on the interior is expected to begin within a few days. The inside will be finished in oak and the floors will be of reinforced concrete. The basement will be fitted for the boiler room and a number of smaller rooms and one large assembly room, 50 by 29 feet in size. The second or main floor will be the library room. The building is constructed of red brick with Bedford white-stone trimmings. As can be seen by the photograph the entire front of the building, which will face Central avenue, will be almost entirely of glass. The building has a frontage of forty-four feet and runs back sixty-five feet on Elinor street.

NEW PASTOR IN DULUTH

Rev. W. L. Staub Arrives to Take Pastorate of Westminster Church.

Will Preach First Sermon to New Congregation Next Sunday.

Rev. W. L. Staub of Decatur, Ill., who has accepted the call to the pastorate of the Westminster Presbyterian church, Fifty-eighth avenue west and Ramsey street, arrived in the city this morning. He is at the Y. M. C. A., where he expects to reside for several weeks, until other arrangements are made. Rev. Mr. Staub will preach his initial sermon in the church Sunday morning.

Rev. Mr. Staub was given a call by the local church the latter part of January following his visit here early last November, when he preached at the church. He accepted the call several weeks ago. He has been in charge of the Presbyterian church at Decatur for the past three years, during which time the congregation grew from 65 to 225 members. His first charge was at Columbus, Ohio, where he served five years. The Westminster Presbyterian church has been without a pastor since Nov. 1, when Rev. John G. Leitch left to assume charge of a church at Nevada, Iowa.

Sioux Falls Taft Rally.

Sioux Falls, S. D., March 15.—Elaborate preparations are being made by the friends of President Taft for a Taft rally, which is to be held in Sioux Falls this evening. Senator Gamble will deliver an address in the interest of the president's candidacy for renomination.

HORSE THIEF GETS AWAY

Escapes While Prospective Buyer Was Telephoning to Owner of Animal.

Rents Horse From Superior Barn and Tries to Sell at Bargain.

West Duluth was visited by a horse thief yesterday afternoon, who attempted to sell a horse which he had obtained from the Bowser livery stables in Superior.

The man gave his name as Fred Brown and appeared at the Bowser livery stables, 1302 Banks avenue, Superior, about 9 o'clock yesterday morning for the purpose of renting a horse and buggy for one hour. The man said that he had just secured a position at St. Mary's hospital and that he wanted to go out and look for a house in the vicinity of the hospital. He said that he would return in an hour and would not stay longer than two hours at the longest. Up to 7 o'clock last evening the man had not appeared and the Superior and Duluth police were at once notified by Mr. Bowser.

In the meantime the man rode to West Duluth and placed the horse and buggy in the Gibbons sales stable, 302 North Fifty-fourth avenue west, for the afternoon. He then went to several of the local saloons and rounded up a number of prospective buyers. Several of the men became interested in the bargain and two paper hangers and painters agreed to purchase the horse, buggy and harness for $175. The papers were already made out and only the signatures remained to be signed, when one of the buyers suddenly became suspicious and asked Brown several questions. One of these was in regard to the former home of the horse, to which Brown replied that had kept the horse at the Bowser stables for several months and that he now owed a large bill for which reason he was so anxious to sell at a sacrifice. The man then called up the Bowser livery stables in Superior and learned that the horse had been rented for only an hour and not returned up to that time, which was 6 o'clock in the evening. The man was told to hold the horse and buggy for an hour, as the owner would be over as soon as possible.

When the man returned to the stables to surprise the salesman, as he thought, the man had disappeared and could not be found. The Superior owner came and took his horse and buggy back. The West Duluth police were notified, but the man had not been found up to a late hour this afternoon. Several West Duluth men have a good description of the man and it is probable that he will be located within the next few days.

The man appeared to be about 35 years old, and was about five feet seven inches in height. He is of dark complexion, of a thin build and his eyes are small and light blue. The man's hair is black and slightly curled. He wore a dark coat and small light cap. According to Mr. Bowser the horse, buggy and harness are worth about $250.

Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ramsey of 115 North Fifty-eighth avenue west entertained at five hundred last evening in honor of their second wedding anniversary. The first part of the evening was spent in cards, at which the prizes were won by Mrs. George Dunleavy and Dr. E. Judson and the consolation prizes by Mrs. E. Warner and William Kruse. The evening's entertainment closed with a dancing program, and supper was served.

ABSORBS OLD SKIN

(From The Feminine World)

The quickest and surest way to make a good complexion out of a bad one is to actually remove the thin veil of faded or discolored outer skin. This can be done easily, safely and privately by a process of gentle absorption.

Get an ounce of pure mercolized wax from your druggist and apply at night like cold cream, washing it off in the morning. In a few days the wax will have absorbed the disfiguring cuticle, revealing the fresh young skin underneath; you will have a beautiful, clear, natural complexion. The face will look brilliantly attractive and youthful. This also effectually removes freckles, moth patches, liver spots, pimples, etc. Every woman should keep a little mercolized wax on hand, as this simple, old-fashioned remedy is the best complexion beautifier and preserver known.

REGULAR TRAIN SERVICE RESUMED.

Regular train service has been resumed over the repaired Grassy Point bridge by the Northern Pacific railroad, and the service will be continued while the new bridge is under construction. The action on the part of the railroad officials followed a protest by West Duluth residents against the service of one train a day until the new bridge was finished. As a result the burned section of the old bridge has been repaired for train service until the new bridge is finished, next fall.

Supt. K. M. Nicoles of the Northern Pacific railroad said yesterday that the road had been considering the construction of a modern bridge at this point for several years, but that action was never found absolutely necessary until fire put the old bridge out of commission last fall. The new bridge is expected to cost about $500,000 when completed. A double crew of men is now working on the structure and it will be completed by fall.

The bridge will provide for a double track service between West Duluth and Superior, while at present the double track stops at the blast furnace on the Minnesota side and at the water's edge on the Wisconsin side. The elevation of the tracks will begin about 200 feet from each side of the draw. The new bridge will better provide for navigation than the old bridge. A space of 150 feet on each side will be provided for the passage of boats and the tracks will be seven feet higher than at present, which will then allow for the passage of small boats without opening the draw.

Funeral Is Held.

The funeral of Mrs. Elsie Darling, 38 years old, wife of William Darling, 1515 Polk street, who died yesterday morning after an illness of six months, was held from the residence at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The body will be taken to Gaylord, Mich., for burial.

With the Curlers.

Olson won from Clark last evening in the Burns event at the Western Curling rink by the score of 13 to 7. This evening Clark will play Judsoll in the Burns event for the squad honors. Tomorrow evening Clark and Brown will play in the semi-finals of the Hendrickson event.

Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Brown of St. Paul are the guests of West Duluth relatives this week. They will leave for Seattle, Wash., Sunday evening.

Nearly $75 was deposited with Mrs. Jensen of the First National bank by the school children of the Ely school yesterday afternoon. The total is now $500.

Watch repairing. Hurst, West Duluth.

NEW MEMBER AT BOARD MEETING

George D. Swift, the newly appointed member of the board of water and light commissioners, was a spectator at the regular meeting yesterday. Mr. Swift had not qualified to take his seat, but will probably be a member of the board by the meeting next Thursday. Mr. Swift will succeed L. B. Manley.

Eighty-five liens, securing guarantees on extensions, were released by the board yesterday, the receipts having attained the figure of the guarantee.

The board yesterday received the resignation of E. R. Harrington, who is now in charge of the orders and sales of the department. Mr. Harrington has been with the water and light department since the city took over the utilities. His resignation will become effective April 1 and he will leave shortly after that date for the West.

Let Us Sell You a Gas Range

We want to do you some good. We want you to have a better gas range than any of your neighbors have. Let us explain.

We have just cinched the agency for Buck's White Enamelled Cast Oven Gas Ranges—the finest and longest lasting gas ranges yet produced. THEY DON'T RUST.

Of course these ranges cost a little more than the common sheet iron or steel oven affairs. And they are worth it twice over.

Just why people will gladly pay $50.00 or more for a coal range, but most unwilling pay $20.00 or $25.00 for a gas range, we never could see.

We can show you that it will pay you to get a Buck's Rustless Enamelled Oven Range. It is easy to keep clean, doesn't rust, bakes more evenly and will last indefinitely.

The new line of Buck's Ranges will be here soon. Wait for further announcements.

UNION WILL BE STRENGTHENED

A. E. Scott of Winnipeg, one of the vice presidents of the painters' organization, will be in Duluth soon to help the local painters strengthen the local union.

The painters were hard hit by the "open shop" war four years ago and for some time they have been comparatively inactive.

Feeling the need of new enthusiasm, they asked some time ago for an organizer and the national association is sending Mr. Scott to Duluth to aid them in making their body strong again.

It is not known when Mr. Scott will arrive in the city, but he is expected within the next two weeks. When he comes there will be a vigorous campaign to line up every painter in the city for the union.

The members are now getting ready for the campaign to be waged and by the time Mr. Scott arrives they hope to be ready for a strenuous campaign to last until all the men have been induced to join.

Announcement

We wish to announce the arrival of our complete line of Spring and Summer Fabrics.

English and Scotch Suitings

We have made an extra effort to confine ourselves to a selection of the most exclusive of these, and now await your inspection.

SCHOOLBOYS USE SNUFF

School Physician Finds Several Victims Among Pupils in Grades.

Boys Addicted to Habit Are Backward in Their Studies.

The intellect of many Duluth school boys is being dulled by the use of snuff.

This statement was made this morning by Dr. W. T. Weum, one of the examining physicians employed by the board of education to examine school children as to their physical condition.

Dr. Weum states that in the very center of the city he has found several cases where boys 15 years old and under were confirmed users of snuff, and that the habit so tells upon the system that in each case the boy was in an ungraded room, a room kept in some of the buildings for backward pupils.

One boy but 15 years old, and in a grade far below what he should have been considering his age, admitted after a strenuous examination that he had used snuff for about four years.

In no case would the boy tell where or how he obtained the snuff. It is presumed that some corner shops sell it to the boys after swearing them to secrecy, and in other cases the younger boys get older boys to get it for them.

None of the boys would admit at first that they used snuff, but in making his examinations the doctor has found small particles of the stuff in their mouths. But few of the boys use it in the nose, the majority placing it between one lip and their teeth, where they keep it constantly, in school and out.

The habit requires no expectoration, and it is therefore easy for the boys to have it in their mouths at all times without any fear of the teacher catching them.

Victims Are Backward.

The fact that the boys found to be using the stuff are unable to keep up with their classes shows the result of the use of the snuff on their mentality.

The doctor has not made an analysis of the snuff found on some of the boys as yet, but he states that there is no doubt but that it is very harmful to the youths who use it.

The discovery was made but a few days ago. The doctor intends to continue his investigation in an effort to find out just how much of a hold the habit has on Duluth boys who are as yet in the grades.

The lads who were discovered were clever about hiding the fact that they used the snuff. It was only because they had no idea that they were to be called for a throat examination that the discovery was made.

Even after finding particles of the stuff in one of the boy's mouths, the lad firmly denied that he used it. He stated that it was two weeks since he had used it. When asked to empty his pockets he did so readily, emptying one after another in rapid succession. The handkerchief was the last article he took from his clothes and the doctor was puzzled until he shook out the handkerchief and found a box of snuff hidden in the folds of it.

The investigation will be continued, the parents communicated with and an effort made to find out how the boys are able to buy it.

OBITUARY

Henry Bacon, a prominent American artist, is dead at Cairo, Egypt. He was 73 years old. Mr. Bacon was best known for his water color work, although he painted many prize winning pictures in oils. The collections of J. P. Morgan and Harry Walters contain the best examples of his work.

Michael Dockery, former member of the Wisconsin assembly, and pioneer of Wisconsin, is dead at Askeaton, Wis., aged 9[illegible] years.

Mrs. James A. Bailey, widow of the famous circus man, is dead at her home at Hobe Sound, near Palm Beach, Fla. The body is to be sent to Mount Vernon, N. Y., for burial. Mrs. Bailey's health began to fail after the death of her husband and she spent much of her time on a houseboat on the Nile in Egypt. She became seriously ill in January. She sold her interests in the circus a few years after her husband's death.

William Pomeroy, one of the first tobacco growers in Wisconsin, is dead at Janesville, Wis. He was practically the father of the tobacco industry in Wisconsin.

George W. Stoner, with one exception the earlist settler in Madison, Wis., is dead, aged 81. He was registrar of deeds of Dane county for two terms. During one of his canvasses he visited every house in the county on foot.

Rear Admiral John M. Bowyer, retired, former superintendent of the Naval academy at Annapolis, died at Tampa, Fla., March 15.

PALMER HEAD OF THE GREEN BAY & WESTERN.

Green Bay, Wis., March 15.—The annual meeting of the Green Bay & Western railroad, the Kewaunee, Green Bay & Western, Ahnapee & Western and the Lola & Northern railroad was held here today. The directors elected the following officers: President, S. S. Palmer, New York; vice president, J. A. Jordan, Green Bay; secretary treasurer, Charles W. Cox, New York; general manager, F. B. Seymour, Green Bay; auditor and cashie, J. C. Thuman; general freight and passenger agent, J. B. Call.

The last year's business is said to have been the most satisfactory the road has experienced.

ENGINEERS ARGUE ON DEMAND FOR INCREASE

New York, March 15.—A second of a series of conferences between a committee of locomotive engineers and a committee representing forty-eight railroads in the Eastern territory, that will continue over a greater part of the month, was held today to consider the demands of the engine drivers for increased wages.

The demands are based on the increased responsibilities of the engineers because of faster train schedules.

They are detailed and complex in nature and the purpose of the conference today was to give opportunity for a presentation of the arguments of the engineers.

Hold Convention in Connection With Annual Meeting of Teachers.

The public librarians of the northern part of the state, together with the public school librarians, are holding meetings in Duluth in connection with the meetings of the Teachers' Association of Northeastern Minnesota.

A meeting was held yesterday at the local public library building and another one was held this morning. The subject for discussion this morning was "The Co-operation Between School and Public Libraries."

There were about twenty-five librarians present at each meeting. This noon they assembled at the Commercial club for luncheon.

Miss Baldwin, Miss Carey and Miss Wilson of the state library commission are present for the meetings.

LA FOLLETTE TO GO TO COAST

Will Campaign Nebraska, Oregon and Washington in April.

Jamestown, N. D., March 15.—United States Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin announced here today that he would campaign Nebraska, Oregon and Washington in April previous to the presidential preference primaries in those states.

He made this announcement after a conference with Walter L. Houser, his campaign manager, who has just returned from the Pacific coast.

Mr. Houser, immediately following his conference with Senator La Follette, issued a detailed statement of 1,000 words, in which he said that Gifford Pinchot personally knew that Col. Roosevelt had encouraged the candidacy of La Follette.

"Pinchot knows that Roosevelt not only encouraged, but was favorable to, La Follette's candidacy until it came to appear that it might succeed," the statement read.

BOY KILLS BROTHER.

Iron Mountain, Mich., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—James Joseph, aged 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Lutiel, living on the Florence road, near the city limits, was accidentally shot and killed Wednesday evening by a bullet fired from a pistol held by his 13-year-old brother, Thomas.

This is the third fatality within a few months in this locality resulting from children playing with firearms.

MANY FLEEING FROM MEXICO

Decisive Battle at Torreon Is Predicted By the People.

San Antonio, Tex., March 15.—In the belief that a decisive battle between rebels and federals is imminent and that it will be fought at Torreon, Mex., 3,000 refugees, mostly women and children, are en route north from that place. Most of them left on trains Wednesday. Two coaches were crowded with Chinamen, who fear a repetition of the massacres which marked the Madero revolution.

Repression Bearing Fruit.

Laredo, Tex., March 15.—Passengers arriving here today from interior Mexico declare they think the menace to foreigners growing out of the rebellion has been diminished by the federal campaign of repression. Of the 1,300 persons who have arrived at Saltillo, state of Coahuila, from interior points, only a few have proceeded. They assert the town is not menaced by insurrectos.

WILL URGE LADD TO SUCCEED WILEY

North Dakota's Pure Food Commissioner Proposed for Federal Job.

Fargo, N. D., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Pure Food Commissioner Ladd of North Dakota will be urged as successor to Dr. Wiley. He is thought to the best equipped man in the country for the position.

Dr. Ladd, in referring to Dr. Wiley's resignation, said: "It is a great blow against pure food laws and will no doubt mean that the drug and impure food people will now control the department and the national pure food law will not be properly enforced."

Dr. Ladd thinks Dr. Dunlap will be Dr. Wiley's successor.

HILL SYSTEM TO BAR LABOR UNIONS FROM ITS ENTIRE SYSTEM?

Crookston Blacklist Case May Be Beginning of Bitter Labor War.

State Labor Commissioner and Attorney General Drawn In.

Knebel and Smith Hearing Is Postponed Until Next Tuesday.

St. Paul, Minn., March 15.—(Special to the Herald.)—With two officials of the Great Northern railway under arrest charged with having refused employment to the members of the Carmen's union and with having passed out the word that members of that order hereafter would not be employed anywhere on the line, fear of a general labor disturbance on the Hill lines, in which an effort is to be made to eliminate union labor over the entire system, suddenly made its appearance today. The state labor commissioner had been appealed to, the attorney general drawn into the dispute, and apparently the way is being cleared for a bitter labor fight.

J. H. Walters of Billings, Mont., grand lodge deputy of the Carmen's union, arrived in St. Paul today and is preparing to push the case against the railroad company, using as a basis of action the discharge recently of several carmen at Crookston.

Supt. Knebel and Master Mechanic J. W. Smith at Crookston are the two officials charged with initiating the movement against the Carmen's union. Both were taken before Judge Gossman and pleaded not guilty to the charge of making withdrawal from the Carmen's union a condition of the men's remaining in the employ of the Great Northern. Placed on the witness stand, they refused to reply to the questions whether they had a "blacklist" on which were names of all the union carmen. On advice of counsel, they would make no statement whatever, on the ground that answering might tend to incriminate them.

Charles S. Allbright, deputy commissioner of labor, has related this situation to the labor commissioner, and today the attorney general was asked for an opinion as to whether they, as agents for the Great Northern, had the right to refuse to answer the questions pertaining to the alleged "blacklist" in their possession.

Cases to Come Up Tuesday.

Hearing of the cases against them has been postponed until March 19, pending the attorney general's decision. While no definite statement would be made, Assistant Attorney General Alexander Janes, who is investigating the matter, intimated today that the officials could not be forced to answer the questions. It will then be up to the attorneys for the union men to produce proof that a blacklist is being used, or, in all probability, their case will fail.

Mr. Walters, representing the carmen's union, was in conference with the labor commissioner today, and with the attorney general's department. It is understood that affidavits have been obtained from members of the union at Crookston that they were told to make up their minds immediately whether they wished to remain with the Great Northern or with the union, and that they had best go home and discuss the matter with their wives before taking the deciding step. To forestall further moves, Mr. Walters caused the arrest of the two Great Northern officials.

Invoke Blacklist Law.

Action against the railway officers was brought under the Minnesota statute prohibiting the discharge of men because they belong to an organized labor union, and on the ground that they were using a blacklist, prohibited by law. It is probable, however, that only the latter of these two charges will be pushed, as it is generally conceded that the first is unconstitutional. The United States supreme court in a decision written by Justice Harlan a short time prior to his death, held:

"While the rights of liberty and property guaranteed by the Constitution against deprivation without due process of law are subject to such reasonable restrictions as the common good or general welfare may require, it is not within the functions of the government—at least in the absence of contract—to compel any person in the course of his business and against his will, either to employ or be employed by another. And an employer has the same rights to prescribe the terms on which he will employ one to labor as an employe has to prescribe those on which he will sell his labor. And any legislation which disturbs this equality is an arbitrary and unjustifiable interference with liberty of contract."

Not Criminal Offense.

The court said further that laws could not be passed making it a criminal offense to discharge a laborer because of his membership in a labor organization. Numerous decisions of state supreme courts have been made along this line.

Consequently the use of the blacklist, which has been declared unlawful by inferior courts as well as by the United States supreme court, is the basis on which the charges against the Great Northern officials will be pushed.

"I don't care to discuss the situation," said W. F. Houk, state labor commissioner, this morning, "but I fear there is grave danger ahead."

He admitted that rumors had reached him that a general labor disturbance during the coming year was pending, and thought it possible that this action was the starting of it. The attorney general's department likewise was reluctant to discuss the situation, but admitted the appearance of a grave situation.

SCHEMES TO MAKE LIVING

Hard Times Bring Out Strange Industries in New York.

New York, March 15.—Spurred on by the high cost of living and the inability to get work, hundreds of residents of the East side have been forced to invent new ways of earning money. The strange ways employed are as numerous as the foreign tongues in that congested district.

Any time of the day or night one may see men and women pushing strange looking carts through the streets. From the top a smoking stovepipe extends and in the interior is a roaring oven where potatoes and apples are constantly baking. These delicacies are disposed of for 1 and 2 cents apiece. Recently a call was issued for the formation of a "baked potato peddlers' union." Three hundred responded and a working agreement was established whereby prices were to be maintained and the members ordered not to invade each other's routes.

More Fakers Than Ever.

Old time residents of New York say that never in the history of the city had there been so many street fakers at work. If cold weather is on tap, there are men on every street corner in the downtown district ready to supply you with mittens, or "ear bobs." If it is raining they have cheap umbrellas for sale.

Many men and boys earn their living by selling for a dime a little pamphlet to foreigners telling them how they may become American citizens.

On Division street, just off the Bowery, is the "curb market for old clothes," where dozens of saleswomen congregate. All kinds of wearing apparel, from babies shoes, with soles and toes badly worn, to fur coats that have seen better days, are on sale and thousands of families depend upon these venders for much of their clothing.

Sell Sparrows to Gun Club.

James McPhee, who was rendered unfit for manual labor by an accident for which he was not to blame but could not recover damages, for several years has supported a wife and three children by trapping sparrows which he sells to gun clubs for live targets. Another man catches wharf rats which he sells to the zoos and menageries as food for snakes.

One firm on the East side owns several hundred street pianos which it rents for a flat sum to strangers and on a commission basis to regular patrons. In the congested sections the street piano furnishes about the only melody to break the monotony of the polyglot babble that rises above the discord of metropolitan traffic.

Through It All They Dance.

Poverty and dancing seem to go hand in hand in that section. The little children of the slums can execute fancy dances that would put to shame many of those who have been reared in luxury. Wherever a street piano is heard, a large number of children will be found going through all sorts of graceful steps. It is largely from the ranks of these that the never ending supply of "broilers" is picked up by theatrical managers.

A Mulberry street Italian who failed to make a success out of regular candy making, conceived the idea of molding all kinds of table decorations out of glucose and sugar and his wares are in great demand for diner parties.

Another jobless man invested his savings in a miniature "merry-go-round," which he hauls around on a small wagon and runs with a gasoline engine. The children of the East side enjoy it as much as if it was one of the huge "razzle dazzles" at Coney Island.

ROOSEVELT MEN TO MEET

Gathering to Effect County Organization, in Duluth Next Wednesday.

Hundreds of Republicans Have Signed Call for Meeting.

The Roosevelt organization meeting for St. Louis county will be held in Duluth next Wednesday evening, probably at the council chamber of the city hall. The place has not been definitely determined.

Hundreds of Roosevelt supporters have signed the call for the meeting. The plan of organization followed in other parts of the state will be carried out. The men who have been most prominent in the movement have waited for the call to come from the people generally and the organization will be effected by the vote of those attending. Everybody in sympathy with the Roosevelt cause and anxious to further his candidacy in St. Louis county has been urged to attend.

State Senator James P. Boyle and Representative Cleon T. Knapp will be two of the speakers at the meeting next Wednesday. Other local speakers will also be heard.

SUPERIOR

AGED MOTHER YEARNS TO SEE LONG-LOST SON.

Mrs. Edward Threehouse, who is staying with her only daughter, Mrs. John Kelley, 1111 Eleventh street, is growing blind because of a cataract over her eyes and the woman's last appeal is to find her lost son, Louis, whom she has not seen for twelve years. The boy left home twelve years ago and his mother is now anxious to once more gaze upon him before total blindness will take away the last chance. The family at one time lived in Michigan and a year after Louis left home, he ceased to write.

Last Installment Paid.

The Superior city hall is now the property of the municipality. Yesterday afternoon City Comptroller Erickson, City Attorney Tipton and Mayor Crumpton tendered $1,500, the balance due on the structure, to P. G. Stratton, secretary of the Trades and Commerce Building company, which owned the building. Several of the officers of the company are now in Europe and it is probable that the deed will not be delivered until the latter part of April. The city hall is valued at $100,000 and was brought in 1903.

Explains Industrial Commission.

William M. Leiserson, head of the employment department of the state industrial commission, spoke to the normal school students yesterday on the functions of the commission. He characterized its organization as representing a big step in social legislation. The working class is now protected, he said, while the new compensation act is another step for the betterment of the laboring people.

THIRD DEATH WITHIN MONTH

Judge Alfred Jaques received word today of the death of Mrs. Jaques' sister, Miss Margaret Shaw of Geneseo, Ill. This marks the third death in the family since Feb. 19. On that date Geo. W. Shaw, father of Mrs. Jaques, died. About two weeks later Mrs. Shaw died, and today comes the death of the daughter, Mrs. Jaques' sister. Mrs. Jaques is at Geneseo at the present time.

REPRESENTED IN ASSEMBLY

Duluth Ministers Now Have Delegate in Labor Council.

Rev. J. A. McGaughey, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, now represents the Duluth Ministerial association in the Federated Trades and Labor assembly.

Mr. McGaughey was received by the assembly at its last meeting at the Kalamazoo hall as a fraternal delegate. He was appointed a member of the publication and lecture committee by President Peter Marandaw.

It is the first time in the history of the city, say union men, that the Ministerial association has had a representative in the central body.

Mr. McGaughey was elected as a delegate to the assembly at the last meeting of the ministers, and he was received at the assembly as a fraternal delegate at the meeting of the body held last Friday evening.

The ministers of the city are very much interested in the labor problems of the day and following a suggestion made by one of their number at the last meeting Mr. McGaughey was elected as a delegate to the assembly.

They desire to keep in as close touch as possible with labor conditions and the union men. They expect to work with the union men of the city in any way they can, it is stated.

REPRESENTED IN ASSEMBLY

Duluth Ministers Now Have Delegate in Labor Council.

Rev. J. A. McGaughey, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, now represents the Duluth Ministerial association in the Federated Trades and Labor assembly.

Mr. McGaughey was received by the assembly at its last meeting at the Kalamazoo hall as a fraternal delegate. He was appointed a member of the publication and lecture committee by President Peter Marandaw.

It is the first time in the history of the city, say union men, that the Ministerial association has had a representative in the central body.

Mr. McGaughey was elected as a delegate to the assembly at the last meeting of the ministers, and he was received at the assembly as a fraternal delegate at the meeting of the body held last Friday evening.

The ministers of the city are very much interested in the labor problems of the day and following a suggestion made by one of their number at the last meeting Mr. McGaughey was elected as a delegate to the assembly.

They desire to keep in as close touch as possible with labor conditions and the union men. They expect to work with the union men of the city in any way they can, it is stated.

SETTLERS ARE SLEEPING ON COTS

J. L. Morrissey, manager of the Lyceum theater staff, returned yesterday from Saskatoon and other western Canadian towns, with the information that travelers and men seeking land are sleeping two on a cot, so inadequate are the hotel accommodations because of the rush of settlers.

People are overcrowding the hotels and the private houses that will take them and sleeping on floors, billiard tables or any place where they can find a place to sleep. The rush of settlers and immigrants is the greatest ever known in western Canada, according to Mr Morrissey.

INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

WHEAT TAKES QUITE A DROP

Chicago Has the Lead in Slump on North American Markets.

Primary Wheat Receipts Still Heavy—Flaxseed Dull and Steady.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 15.—Continued large wheat receipts from the country, a dull demand and larger shipments from Argentina had the effect to producing a slump on the North American markets today, especially at Chicago, where May wheat lost 2c to 1⅞c. Duluth May closed at a loss of ⅞c. Duluth durum closed 1c off, oats ¼c and rye and barley unchanged. Cash wheat was ½c over the May price. There was no change in the March or May option of flaxseed, but July closed ½c higher.

There was quite a slump in wheat on the markets of North America today. This was due to many causes, the principal one of which was probably the continued large receipts of wheat from the country. American primary wheat receipts today were ahead of those of a week ago and also ahead of those of a year ago. A large increase was reported in the Argentine shipments. Chicago reported a very dull demand for wheat.

Duluth May wheat, which closed yesterday at $1.06¼ bid, opened today at $1.06¼ bid and at noon was selling at $1.05⅛-¼. There was a still greater decline in Chicago, where May wheat at noon today was 2 cents down. There were lower quotations also from Minneapolis and Winnipeg.

Foreign cables were mixed. Buenos Ayres wheat closed last night unchanged to ⅛c off and opened this morning ⅛c lower. There were larger Platte offers on the Liverpool market, and this, together with the reports of larger Angentine shipments, had some bearish effect on the market, but this influence was counteracted by the light supplies and decreasing stocks. Liverpool wheat today closed ¼d up to ⅜d lower.

Flaxseed Steady and Quiet.

The condition of the Duluth flaxseed market was about the same as it has been for quite a number of days, little flaxseed being offered, and scarcely any demand showing itself. The trading was almost entirely in the May and July options, both of which were unchanged at noon today. There were but two cars of flax on the track for inspection. Winnipeg May flaxseed at noon today was quoted at $1.84½ bid, being ½c down. Buenos Ayres March closed last night at $1.76⅞, or 1c lower than on the previous night. The Duluth market was so listless, however, that these items of news scarcely caused a flutter.

MARKET GOSSIP

Walter Moore of the New York ocean freight brokerage firm of Lunham & Moore was a visitor on the Duluth board of trade this morning, being on his way from Winnipeg to New York. Mr. Moore remarked that there was a great scarcity of ocean tonnage, due in large measure to the great demand for ships to carry Canadian grain to Europe. "The cost of tonnage is two or three times what it was a year ago," said Mr. Moore. "The demand for ships is something enormous, and has been so for a long time. The commerce of the world has drawn elsewhere ships that under ordinary conditions would be at the American ports to do the carrying trade. England is turning out ships for freight traffic as fast as they can be built. The export trade of the United States is very brisk, and it appears to me that it will continue so all through the present year."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Prices Are Smashed By Weight of Selling Orders.

Chicago, March 15. — Orders to sell wheat came today from all directions and smashed the market. There was a rout of the bulls who for months have been confident that scarcity at the end of the season would bring them riches. Instead, during a wild scramble to unload today, prices suddenly plunged headlong downward, scoring quick losses of as much 2½c on the May option.

Notwithstanding the meager stocks of wheat at Liverpool, prices there surprised the trade by showing no response to advance on this side. Increasing Argentine shipments and a forecast of larger world shipments this week other than from the United States woke up the dealers who had looked for a totally different state of affairs. Accordingly, there were few buyers here at the start.

Offerings on the other hand speedily increased and the market turned successively from weakness to a condition of semi-panic. Opening prices were the same as last night to ⅝@¾c down. May started at $1.02⅞ to $1.03, a decline of ⅛c to ¼c and dropped to $1.01, but later recovered to $1.01⅛@1.01¼.

Another wave of selling carried the market lower than before. The close, nevertheless, was comparatively steady with May at $1.01⅛@1.01¼, a net decline of 1⅞@2c.

Corn showed weakness from the outset. Stormy weather had been discounted, and there seemed to be no support for prices. May opened unchanged to ⅛c at 71c to 71⅛c, fell to 70½c, and rallied to 70¾c.

Bearish advices regarding the Argentine crop resulted in a further decline. The close was nervous at 70¾c for May, 1c under last night.

A leading house bought oats freely for a while and temporarily pushed up quotations, but the weakness of wheat and corn could not be withstood. May started ⅛c higher at 53⅝c, touched 53¾, and then sagged to 53⅛c.

An advance at the yards helped provisions at first. Later, however, the market gave way in sympathy with the bear sentiment in neighboring pits. Initial sales were at last night's level to 7½c higher with July options $16.37½ to $16.40 for pork, $9.62½ for lard and $9.07½ to $9.10 for ribs.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Prices Go Down on Liquidation in Chicago.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 15.—Liquidation in Chicago caused Minneapolis wheat to decline today. Trading was light and sentiment bearish. May closed ¾@⅞c lower than yesterday and July ⅛c lower. Local elevator stocks decreased 226,000 bu for the week: Carlot wheat: Minneapolis today, 232; week ago, 181; year ago, 212. Duluth today, 26; week ago, 6; year ago, 3. Winnipeg today, 498; week ago, 394; year ago, 214.

Cash wheat was steady again today. Demand fairly active, coming from both local and country flour mills. Bulk of No. 1 northern sold at 1c above the May contract.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,791 tons. Bran in excellent demand and only fair for other heavier feeds.

Wheat—May opened $1.06@1.06⅛; high, $1.06⅛; low, $1.05⅛; closed $1.05⅞@1.05½. July opened $1.07½; high, $1.07½; low, $1.07⅜; closed $1.06⅞. Closing cash: No. 1 hard, $1.07; No. 1 northern, $1.06½; to arrive, $1.06@1.06½; No. 2 northern, $1.04½; to arrive, $1.04@1.04½; No. 3 wheat, $1.02½; No. 3 yellow corn, 66@67c; No. 3 white oats, 51½@52c; No. 2 rye, 88@89c; brand in 100-lb sacks, $25.00@25.50.

Flour—The market was quoted steady. One of the larger companies reported good business and opened a mill which was idle for several weeks. Other mills said business slow and others were small and scattered. Shipping directions remained active. Shipments, 53,442 bbl. First patents, $5.00@5.30; second patents, $4.65@4.90; first clears, $3.40@3.75; second clears, $2.30@2.70.

Flax—Receipts, 15 cars; year ago, 11; shipments, 3. Flax was steady and demand fair to slow. Both spot and to arrive No. 1 seed were quoted at the even Duluth May price. Closing prices: Spot, $2.04; to arrive, $2.04.

Barley—Receipts, 29 cars; year ago, 42; shipments, 23. Barley quoted steady. Demand good for better grades, but slow for all others. Closing range, 70c@$1.25.

COPPER STOCKS ARE STEADY

Reports From London Metal Market Bullish, But New York Weakens.

Reports received on the Boston copper stock market today from the copper metal market of New York were encouraging. Spot copper closed at an advance of 5s and futures were 3s 3d up compared with the closing figures of yesterday. But this influence was counteracted by reports from the New York stock exchange. There was a considerable amount of activity on that market today, but the closing figures were rather bearish and had an influence over copper that counteracted the encouraging news from London. Amalgamated was an exception to the general copper stock list. That stock closed about 75c higher than yesterday and made a new high record for the year. Calumet & Arizona was slightly higher. North Butte and Keating were slightly down. Most of the coppers, however, did not show any change worth mentioning.

Gay & Sturgis received from Boston the following closing copper letter: "On Feb. 13, Amalgamated, the leading copper stock, sold at 461⅝. Since then local coppers have advanced on an average of 5 per cent in value, while Amalgamated has advanced 20 per cent. The advance in Amalgamated cannot by any chance be an accident. It could not have been accomplished except by the buying of many thousand shares and this buying must have been influenced by conditions and circumstances of the industry equally favorable to other copper shares as to Amalgamated. Even if it is true that the reason for Amalgamated's advance is approaching dissolution and division of its assets, this action could only be profitable on the basis of conviction of those bringing it about that Anaconda by virtue of the profitable future of the copper industry will be able to disburse greater dividends. In a few words, only insiders could make the advance possible. They are, no doubt, influenced by convictions concerning the copper business. They are more likely to be right than not. When conditions are ideal, stocks are a sale; certainly not at present with the worst behind us. We shall have a speculation of large proportions in coppers, which will make a good deal of money for many people. Fifty shares bought now are safer than 200 bought after its under way. This phase of the situation is worth consideration."

Paine, Webber & Co., today received the following wire from Foster at Boston: "Trading in the copper shares today was active with orders well distributed. The tone was firm although no great gains were made considering the strength in Amalgamated, which sold at $74¼ and closed at $73½ with indications of further advance. In view of the activity and strength in Amalgamated and Anaconda in the New York market, the action of the Boston market is very disappointing, and up to the present time does not seem to catch the step. It does not seem that this condition can continue much longer and our market should become more active and stronger from now on. We therefore believe that advantage should be taken to buy stocks of the producing companies at prevailing prices. The metal market is again firmer and better than 14⅝ cents has been secured for May delivery of electrolytic copper, with the American consumers still short of their requirements. The chances of a coal strike in the anthracite regions on April 1 appear to be very good."

THE MODERN MRS. O'LEARY.

Chicago Tribune: This is an "inside story" concerning the celebration of Chicago day, one of the features of the recent "automobile row" festivities in Michigan avenue. For the Chicago fire performance the management was anxious to have an elderly woman impersonate Mrs. O'Leary, the owner of the famous cow of tradition. So they selected an old woman who has made a business of peddling gum at a south side amusement park.

"How much is there in it?" was the first question she asked when she appeared at headquarters.

One of the officers of the show offered her $5.

"O, I couldn't think of doing it for less than $20," said the old woman with an imperious manner which surprised all.

"But listen, my good woman," said the officer rather pompously, "think of the publicity there will be for you. More than that"—he gave her a flattering look—"we will take you downtown and back home in an automobile."

The woman rose and lifted her chin. "You'll do nothing of the kind," she said. "If I come I intend to come in my own motor car.

ADVANCES WIPED OUT

Buying Movement Continues at Opening and Market Is Active.

Selling Pressure Causes Loss of Gains and Close Is Heavy.

New York, March 15.—Yesterday's late buying movement was resumed with some vigor at the opening today. United States Steel was the feature, with a block of 12,000 shares at 67 and 67⅛ as against yesterday's closing, 66¾. Canadian Pacific advanced 2. All the active stocks and most of the specialties registered material fractional advances, and the list as a whole displayed more than usual activity.

Trading continued in almost undiminished volume during the first hour. The buying embraced all the leading issues, as well as some speculative and low priced shares, and the movement as a whole indicated a strong undertone. Profit-taking arrested the advance, which did not exceed fractions save in Amalgamated Copper and Northern Pacific. Illinois Central showed a renewal of yesterday's heaviness and lost 1⅝.

Business fell off in marked manner during the second hour, but the list yielded little despite further realizing. The ease with which stocks were absorbed was the most impressive feature of the early session, particularly in United States Steel, where the selling on the bulge was heaviest. There was the usual talk of an increased demand, but inquiry indicated that selling by speculative interest probably exceeded purchases. On the exchange rumor created the Hill party with the movement in Erie. This report has served on previous occasions with frequent denials. Bonds were steady.

Prices fell off on a decreased volume of business, the sales representing mostly profits arising from the sustained advance in the market. Coal shares were dealing heavy with Reading falling ½ and Lehigh Valley a point below yesterday's closing on fears that the labor situation was becoming more strained.

The market closed heavy. Selling pressure increased and many stocks relapsed to below yesterday's closing. Reading gave way 2 points from the highest and recessions of a point were common elsewhere. The delay in the settlement of the English coal strike, fears that we may be involved in a similar difficulty here, profit-taking and some determined short selling contributed the market's heaviness.

Valentine Writes to Bracken Regarding Fight on Disease.

Denies White Earth Tribesmen Have Been Neglected By Government.

Says 80 Per Cent There Are Citizens—Hospital to Be Built.

St. Paul, Minn., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—A vigorous campaign to relieve Indians on the White Earth reservation from their sufferings from trachoma and tuberculosis will be started as soon as the appropriation from congress is available, according to a letter from Robert G. Valentine, commissioner of Indian affairs, which has reached Dr. H. M. Bracken, secretary of the Minnesota state board of health. The principal medical supervisor of the field service is now on the reservation, arranging the plan of campaign. Bids for a new hospital there are to be opened within a few weeks.

Commissioner Valentine resents the statement that the government has been lax in its methods of caring for the Indians. In his opinion, Lo must change his point of view if he expects to be relieved of trachoma and tuberculosis, and understand that the treatment offered him is not an affliction, but a remedy.

Indians Not Neglected.

Commissioner Valentine's letter said: "The Indians on the White Earth reservation have not been neglected to the extent which could be inferred from the numerous newspaper articles concerning the recent investigations in that section. In January, 1910, the superintendent of the White Earth reservation was instructed to employ two physicians in addition to the three physicians already regularly employed there. These physicians were directed to make a house to house inspection of the entire reservation, to learn the sanitary condition of each dwelling and premise, the number of cases of illness in each home, and to look generally after sanitary matters among the Indians. Five physicians were thus engaged in this work on the reservation.

No Worse Than Elsewhere.

"These reports showed that trachoma and tuberculosis were very prevalent among the White Earth Chippewas, but they did not indicate a worse condition than existed on many other reservations, and with the number of physicians employed health

BOYS CHARGED WITH MURDER

Des Moines Police Believe They Are Pair Arrested in the West.

Des Moines, Ia., March 16.—Warrants today were sworn out against Elmer and Roy Schneider of Omaha, charging them with the murder of Frank Ford, a street car conductor, when his car was held up on the night of March 4. Robbery is alleged to have been the motive, although it is said Ford's assailants were frightened away.

The local police claim that two street car bandits arrested in Los Angeles last night under the names of Ray Nettle and Willis Knowles, are the Schneider brothers.

Boy Bandits Confess.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 16.—Sixteen minutes after they had held up a street car yesterday, two young bandits were arrested, and twenty-four minutes later they had confessed. The pair, who gave their names as Ray Nettle and Willie Knowles, were identified by the car crew.

TORNADO SWEEPS ALABAMA TOWN

Forty Homes Demolished and Several Lives Lost at Headland.

Montgomery, Ala., March 16.—An appeal for aid came to Montgomery today from storm-stricken Headland, where yesterday, two-score homes were demolished and several lives lost in a tornado, which swept the town. The appeal was sent to Montgomery newspapers by William M. Mitchell, the mayor of Headland. It read:

"Aid us if you can. This town met with the most serious disaster in its history by a tornado in which several lives were lost and thirty to forty homes demolished. Many are homeless and penniless."

CONCRETE CRADLES, PIPES AND COFFINS.

Kansas City, Mo., March 16.—Among the articles for society's use which can be made from cement, as shown at the exhibition in convention hall in connection with the convention of the National Association of Cement Users, are: Cradles for babies, pipes for men, kitchen furniture for women, houses for all three, "excellent water proof coffins," and "everlasting tombstones."

The convention began its final session today.

ROBERT G. VALENTINE, Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

WILL PROBE WILEY CASE

Chairman of House Committee Says Some Explanations Are Needed.

A. S. Mitchell Called From St. Paul to Succeed the Chief Chemist.

Washington, March 16. — The investigation of conditions in the federal bureau of chemistry by the house has not ended with the resignation of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley. Chairman Moss announced today that his committee had not closed its inquiry, and that further investigation of the friction Dr. Wiley declared forced him to retire is probable.

"The complete lack of harmony and consequent lack of efficiency in the chemistry bureau," said Mr. Moss, "never has been satisfactorily explained to the committee. We have been unable to obtain a record of the abatement of Dr. Wiley's decision by the Remsen board and the board of food and drug inspection."

Chairman Moss said Secretary Wilson had been called upon for complete information.

Irreconcilable Differences.

Friction with his superiors and irreconcilable differences of opinion as to the enforcement of the pure food and drug acts were the reasons given by Dr. Wiley in handing his resigna-

PRIZE EGG LAID BY HEN IN WISCONSIN

Leghorn's Product Is 8½ By 6¼ Inches in Circumference.

Racine, Wis., March 16.—What is said to be a record size for eggs produced by White Leghorn hens in the United States is an egg held by Mrs. R. M. Boyd, a chicken fancier of this city. The egg, which was laid yesterday, measures 8½ by 6¼ inches in circumference and is said to be larger than any egg on record for this particular species of fowl.

AUGUSTA STREETS TURNED TO CANALS

Flood Has Done Great Damage But No Loss of Life Reported.

Augusta, Ga., March 16.—Floods that have been sweeping down the valley for the last two days and nights have covered many of Augusta's streets with three or more feet of water. Boat service has been instituted on some of the streets near the river.

At 9 o'clock the gauge showed 35.5 feet in the channel, A 36-foot mark is predicted before the crest passes the city.

Ordinarily there is not more than 150 yards of water at the wharf. Today it stretched a mile from the Georgia to the Carolina shore.

While property and livestock loss is expected to be considerable in the lowlands, there have been no losses of life so far reported. Many families have been forced to abandon their homes. Many stores are marooned and can be reached only in boats. Several Augusta car lines have suspended temporarily.

TWO REPUBLICS UNITE IN THE BURIAL OF THE MAINE AND FUNERAL OF HER CREW

AMERICANS TOLD TO GO

Consul at Tampico Says They Have Been Threatened in Letter.

All Are Well Armed and Serious Disorder There Is Feared.

Washington, March 16.—American Consul Miller at Tampico, Mex., informed the state department today that he had received an anonymous letter warning all Americans to leave that vicinity before 4 o'clock this afternoon. The local authorities were notified of the letter by Consul Miller, who was promised proper precautions would be taken.

A big battle is expected at Torreon, where federal troops have been concentrating. Withdrawal of the government troops from various localities for the Torreon movement is reported to be responsible for the scattered disorders in various parts of the country.

Americans Are Armed.

The American colony at Tampico is numerous and is said to be fairly well provided with firearms. It is feared there may be serious disorders there.

Advices received today at the embassy indicate a grave condition on the Pacific coast in the vicinity of Acapulco. Ometepec, on the coast some distance south of Acapulco, is reported to have been sacked by a powerful band of rebels who burned many buildings and killed a number of foreign residents.

MAN'S BODY IN WATER WHEEL

He Is Believed to Have Entered Wrong Door While Seeking Sleeping Place.

Marinette, Wis., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The remains of Joseph Cox, 29 years of age, were found lodged in the water wheel at the end of the flume at the Park mill of the Menominee & Marinette paper mill. The man had been in the habit of stealing into the mill to sleep, where it was warm, although frequently warned to keep away by the mill people. It is believed that in attempting to reach the room in which he usually slept, he opened the wrong door and walked into the flume. His father is said to have been at one time a prominent lumberman of Marinette.

Solemn Ceremonies Are Held in Havana as Men's Bodies Are Removed.

Havana, March 16.—Covered with barnacles, rust-eaten, twisted out of all semblance to the magnificent fighting craft which sailed into Havana harbor on a peace mission more than fourteen years ago, the hulk of the battleship Maine sank into unsounded depths of the Gulf of Mexico this afternoon, enshrouded by the smoke of booming guns aboard several United States and Cuban war vessels firing farewell salutes.

The seacocks on the Maine were opened, the escort backed away, the scintillating rays of the sun fell athwart the blackened mass of steel and iron, turning it to dull copper and old rose; the dancing whitecaps washed the deck of the once proud craft, the vessel careened, wabbled heiplessly, and sank into oblivion.

On the surface of the water above the wreck lay myriads of roses, their petals mingling with the glistening spume of the sea.

On board the cruisers North Carolina and Birmingham, standing by with colors dipped, the bugles sounded "taps." When the last thrilling note of the call had echoed over the waters, there was nothing visible of the former pride of the American navy.

Circling slowly about the spot where the remnant of the Maine went down, the funeral cortege headed north and

FORMER GOVERNOR JOHN F. HILL DEAD

Once Prominent Republican of Maine Ill Only Few Days.

Boston, Mass., March 16.—John F. Hill, former governor of Maine and acting chairman of the Republican national committee, died here today.

Mr. Hill was taken ill early in the week with an affection of the heart.

Mr. Hill belonged to one of the most illustrious families of Maine. He was twice married, his first wife being Lizzie G. Vickery, who died in 1893. Four years later Mr. Hill married a daughter of Norman J. Colman, secretary of agriculture in President Cleveland's first cabinet.

He was twice elected governor of Maine. During the 1908 campaign, Governor Hill was one of President Taft's strongest supporters in New England. When Frank H. Hitchcock gave up the chairmanship of the national committee to become a member of President Taft's cabinet, Governor Hill became acting chairman of the committee.

P. & O. Liner Run Down in English Channel—German Also Damaged.

Steamer Reported Wrecked Near Gibraltar—Wreck in Chesapeake Bay.

New Haven, Eng., March 16.—Four passengers and several sailors are believed to have been drowned today as a result of a collision between the Peninsular & Oriental liner Oceana and the German bark Pisagua off Beachy Head in the English channel.

The Oceana had on board nearly $5,000,000 in bullion. She is one of the oldest of the Peninsular & Oriental liners and this was to have been her last voyage. She had been running continuously since 1888.

For some time the lives of the liner's forty-one passengers and of the 280 men of her crew were placed in danger. The courage of the officers and the speedy arrival of assistance prevented a terrible catastrophe.

Pisagua Reaches Dover.

Dover, Eng., March 16.—The German bark Pisagua arrived here in a sinking condition, several tugs being in attendance.

Liner Is Wrecked.

Ceuta, Morocco, March 16.—A fishing boat reports that an Italian trans-Atlantic vessel has been wrecked off the coast of Almanza on the African side of the Straits of Gibraltar. The fishermen declare that a number of the steamer's boats which put off from the vessel capsized and that the occupants were drowned.

Four Lives Lost.

Baltimore, March 16.—Four members of the crew of the schooner Maxwell were drowned today when she was sunk after a collision with the steamer Gloucester of the Merchants & Miners' line from Boston for Baltimore, off Thomas' Point, Chesapeake Bay, today.

JOHN P. WHITE
Of Oskaloosa, Iowa, President of the United Mine Workers.

No Signs of Compromise Between Men and Operators Are Visible.

Employers Declare Advance in Wages Will Mean Higher Prices.

Thousands More Are Idle Owing to the Strike in Great Britain.

New York, March 16.—A suspension of work of 180,000 miners in the anthracite coal region on April 1 can only be prevented by compromise, but neither the coal operators nor the miners gave the slightest indication today of yielding from their positions.

The miners have declined to modify their demands for a 20 per cent increase in wages, an eight-hour working day, recognition of the union and other conditions, and the operators made no counter-proposal that might pave the way for a compromise.

Would Raise Prices.

Members of the anthracite miners' committee conferred today on a statement given out by the operators that it was impossible to advance wages unless they could in some manner realize from the sale of coal produced a sum equal to the increase in wages.

Should neither side retreat from its present position, the mine workers in the hard coal region will, on the expiration of the present working agreement on March 31, lay down their tools and suspend work until an agreement is reached. It is within the power of the policy committee at their meeting on March 25 in Cleveland to call a strike in both the hard and soft coal regions should the bituminous men and their employes fail to reach an agreement at the Cleveland conference next Wednesday.

More Idle in England.

London, March 16.—Within a few days hundreds of thousands more men and women will be added to the 2,000,000 forced into idleness by the coal

ARMED MEN HUNT ALLENS

Sixty Picked Detectives Are Scouring the Mountains for Gang.

Head of Clan Captured in Fight in Which Wife Is Killed.

Pulaski, Va., March 16.—A long distance telephone message from Hillsville, just received here, declares that reports of the arrest of Sidna Allen and the killing of his wife are erroneous and that the outlaw, with his brother Jack, and their clan, is still at large.

Hillsville, Va., March 16.—Organized pursuit of the fugitive Allen outlaws began early today. Sixty detectives, picked men from all over the state, most of them carrying rifles in addition to their revolvers, were marshaled for the perilous task of scouring mountain strongholds for the main body of the gang that wiped out the circuit court of Carroll county here Thursday.

Stories as to the strength of the desperadoes are conflicting, but it is believed that from a dozen to eighteen of them are together, probably hidden and entrenched in some out-of-the-way mountain hole just across the North Carolina line. With a price upon their heads, these men are expected to be shot to death when cornered, in spite of the fact that their real leaders, old Sidna Allen, head of the clan, and Floyd Allen, for whose sake the courthouse slaughter was planned, are prisoners, severely wounded, in the county jail.

Law and Order Restored.

Law and order, all semblance of which was swept away Thursday with the assassination of judge, sheriff and prosecuting attorney, reigns in Carroll again today. Judge Staples, designated by Gov. Mann to reorganize Judge Massie's court, at once summoned a grand jury, which sits today, to indict the murderers of Judge Massie, Commonwealth's Attorney Foster, Sheriff Webb and Elizabeth Ayres.

Still another murder may be laid at the door of the Allens before the jury is through with its work, for Juror Fowler is reported to be dying.

Bullion Taken In.

London, March 16.—Bullion amounting to 119,000 pounds was taken into the Bank of England on balance today.

Two Killed by Sentries.

Muelheim-am-Rhein, Germany, March 16.—Sentries at the fortifications here today surprised three men attempting to break into one of the forts. As the men tried to escape the sentries fired and killed two of them.

HAS MATERIAL FOR ROAD IN ALASKA

Government Could Use Equipment From the Panama Railroad.

Washington, March 16.—Secretary of the Interior Fisher, just back in Washington after an inspection of the Panama canal, told President Taft today that part of the equipment of the Panama railroad which would not be needed after the canal is finished could be turned to great advantage in Alaska.

Mr. Fisher wants the government to build a road from some Alaska port to the interior, and President Taft has recommended legislation by congress to authorize such a road.

McHARG TO BE AIDE TO DIXON

Roosevelt Leaders Continue Their Conference in New York City.

New York, March 16.—The conference of leaders in the Roosevelt movement which began last night was continued today. Col. Roosevelt was in consultation with Senator Joseph Dixon, his campaign manager; Alexander H. Revell of Chicago, chairman of the Roosevelt national committee, and Charles Duell, chairman of the New York city committee.

It was announced that Ormsby McHarg, who has been looking after the Roosevelt movement in the South, hereafter will be stationed at Washington as Senator Dixon's right-hand man.

"MILLIONAIRE KID" TO FIGHT CHARGES

Jurgens' Alleged Confession of Theft May Not Stand at Trial.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 16.—John O. Jurgens, known as the "Millionaire Kid," indicted by the grand jury on a charge of padding the payrolls of the Norcross company, a marble concern, by which he formerly was employed as clerk at $60 a month, to the extent of $49,420.35, was brought here today from Hammond, Ind., where he was arrested Thursday night.

Although the local papers have printed alleged confessions by Jurgens, it is expected he will fight the charge against him.

BROADER FIELD FOR THE TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION

New Constitution Provides for Many New Sectional Meetings.

Social Centers and the Montessori Method Are Discussed.

A new constitution which provides for additional meetings on new subjects at the annual conventions to be held in the future by the Northeastern Minnesota Educational association was adopted at the evening session yesterday by the delegates.

The new constitution creates a committee on legislation and provides for sectional meetings on kindergarten, primary, manual arts, drawing, domehtic science, music and night schools.

These subjects were not included in the old constitution, and as they are now firmly established as a part of the school work, it was found necessary to include them.

The departments mentioned are comparatively new as compared to some of the other school subjects, and the teachers of the different departments desired to get together for sectional meetings at the annual conference of the association.

Rules for Athletics.

The following rules were adopted at the conference on athletics held yesterday afternoon:

"No student shall be permitted to take part in any contest who has not been a student more than three weeks, taken at least three subjects and attained an average marking of at least 75 in all his studies.

"Three days before each athletic game or contest the schools represented shall send a list of entries to the other schools. If there is any objection to players it must be made before the game commences. No game shall be played without the permission of the superintendent, and no student shall participate who is over the age of 21 years.

"Any student who shall violate the rules or the statutory laws of the state relating to tobacco or liquors shall be barred from entry in any athletic contest. While on the field no official officiating at any game shall be permitted to use tobacco."

It was decided in relation to girls' athletics that hereafter they must follow the rules governing games played by them. This ruling was made on account of the fact that some of the girls' basket ball teams have played according to the rules made for the boys.

Afternoon Session.

Yesterday afternoon at the session held at the assembly hall, several delightful numbers were rendered by the local high school orchestra and song numbers were given by pupils from several of the grade schools.

Prof. C. W. Thompson, at the head of the extension department of the University of Minnesota, spoke on "Health, Growth and Guidance." He spoke of the difficulties of teachers and made recommendations concerning them.

"You teachers cannot afford to forget that every boy or girl with whom you have come in contact, has certain duties to perform and it is your duty to lend aid in their accomplishment," he said.

"In the old days it was thought that any help given the scholars tended to weaken them mentally. That was the wrong way. Since then you have learned that the way to keep the pupils interested in their work and make progress is to help and encourage them and to be in full sympathy with their intents and purposes. This is the way to guide them.

Develop the Pupils.

"Your aim should be to develop in your pupils these three things—foresight, thrift and honesty. To accomplish this their physical, mental and moral growth must be continually watched. Don't try to change them. Change the environment and then watch results."

In conclusion he advised his auditors to take a broad view of life and to make allowances for physical defects in the children.

"Every once in a while a cyclone sweeps over the country and the appearance of the earth is changed," said Miss Isabel Lawrence of the St. Cloud normal school. "The same thing can be said of educational methods. Every once in a while a new method springs up and conditions are revolutionized. Yet it remain the same old earth, and education still means the same thing to us.

Montessori Method.

"The spirit of the Montessori method is not to change conditions, but rather to improve them. The founder of this method advocated hygienic, industrial and agricultural training in the schools long before these departments were adopted. The old theory was that people were educated when they memorized the words in the text books. This is not true in the present age. When they have completed school they have not only commenced their education and the teaching of today should be to conserve the energies and utilize every atom of child power. Unless this is done through the energy of the child alone, nothing is accomplished."

Social Centers.

Prof. A. J. Ward of the University of Wisconsin delivered an address on "The Public School as a Social Center." He said:

"The basis of the public school social center is the use of the school building as a meeting place for citizens for deliberation upon public questions. Every other public body, the aldermen, the members of the state legislature, the congressmen, every other body excepting the citizens have a meeting place for deliberation before they have to decide issues and appointments. In order to have intelligent action there is always provided a forum for presentation and discussion along with the ballot box, except in the case of the real rulers in this democracy. The social center is, first of all, the use of the schoolhouse as a citizens' common council chamber, where in an orderly manner and by means of the organization of citizens into self-governing community associations who use the building as a headquarters, there may be developed that intelligence upon public matters which is the ultimate hope of American success in self-government.

"This beginning in the use of the schoolhouse as a neighborhood civic clubhouse may be made at very little expense for equipment, but for it there should be provided the service of a civic secretary.

Clubs for Young.

"The next step is the organization of the young people into clubs modeled on the adult community organizations. This system of young people's civic club organization is better in every way than Boy Scout organizations, for instance, for it aims directly toward training in citizenship, and it does not lose its grip upon young men and young women when they pass 17 or 18, as the Boy Scout movement does.

"Obviously for the use of schoolhouses as clubhouses for young men and young women, it is necessary to have trained supervision.

"Then comes the use of the schoolhouse for lectures and entertainments The reason for our lack of real progress is not in the fact that information and knowledge along every line have not been accumulated, but rather because the great stores of knowledge have not been carried to the people.

"Here again is the need of the service of an organizer. The superintendent of schools may be willing to take charge of this public service, but he already has his hands full.

Recreation Centers.

"Second in importance only to the civic use of the schoolhouse by the citizens in the evening is the use of this building as a wholesome recreation center wherein young men and young women may have the opportunity for physical training and for other forms of enjoyable activity under clean strengthening guidance. The moral health of the city depends more upon the evening leisure activities of the young men and women, the boys and girls, than upon the advice and precepts given them. You support a state university and at the state university you make provision for the physical training and the recreational and social life of these fortunate young people who can go to the university. Is it a square deal to deprive the young people who cannot go to the university of these opportunities for clean recreation and physical training which are necessary for the development of wholesome manhood and womanhood?

"In many school buildings there is not at present adequate equipment for gymnasium and recreational activities, but there is not a principal or teacher who does not recognize the need for the day school, and this provision for evening use meets both needs.

"But here again is the need of supervision and trained direction.

Libraries.

"Then comes the use of the schoolhouse as a branch public library. In Brooklyn there is no central library building, and the service through the school buildings is found both efficient and economical. The same is true in the city of Rochester, St. Louis, Grand Rapids and other cities are developing the use of the schoolhouses for this purpose. The librarian's desk serves also as a bureau of information and a branch municipal employment office.

"Obviously here also is the need of organization.

"Richmond, Ind., with its development of a neighborhood orchestra in each district and its great symphony orchestra using the high school for practice and concerts, has shown what may be done in the development of the schoolhouse as a music center. The same city has developed the use of the school buildings as art galleries.

"Indeed there is no limit to the wealth of civic, social and recreational resources which may be developed through the full use of the schoolhouses as community social centers. But in order to secure this development there must be the engagement of a social engineer as assistant to the superintendent to take charge of the organization of this most important field of the public service."

Prof. Colgrove's Address.

C. P. Colgrove of the Iowa State Teachers' college spoke at the evening session yesterday on "The Educational Equation."

Mr. Colgrove supported the theory that education is a matter of theory. He laid out his equation to represent the present conditions in education and then for his unknown quantity is offered the ultimate end that education would finally attain.

New fields must be explored, he said. New leaders would rise up and offer radically new ideas. Conservatives and progressives will have a war of words and ideas. He cited rigid discipline, physiological psychology, biology, hypnotic suggestion, social efficiency, industrial or vocational education as some of the problems that have confronted the educator in recent years.

"What of the rank and file while the leaders are engaged with a conflict of ideas?" asked Mr. Colgrove. "Suppose we believe, as many of us do, that out of this great conflict of educational ideals and theories shall come at last a rational and scientific system of education for the children of this American democracy? No man can tell now just what the future system will be. It is safe to say that it will omit some things that we think essential. But it is equally safe to say that it will not omit all of our present day theory and practice.'

Functions of the School.

The first function of the schools is to preserve and perpetuate the first element of civilization, ideals, said the speaker. The second is to advance civilization by pointing the way to progress.

Mr. Colgrove laid out his equation as "a" plus "b" plus "c" equals "x." He made "a" stand for the pupil's knowledge, "b" for his ability and "c" for his skill. he value of the unknown quantity, he said, depended upon, the length of service in school and the value of the system of education to him.

"The child, like the savage, is the slave of ignorance, of fear and of nature," he said in closing. "It is the purpose of teaching to set him free, to give to each child possession of the priceless heritage of the race, to free him from the bondage of ignorance and superstition, to give him power over brute matter and blind force, to deliver him from selfishness and willfulness and evil thoughts, and to bring him into such sympathy and union with his race that his soul shall reflect the divine purpose, and duty and conscience and service shall become the guiding principles of his life."

Not An Experiment

Paint Lick, Ky.—Mrs. Mary Freeman, of this place, says: "Before I commenced to take Cardui, I suffered so much from womanly trouble! I was so weak that I was down on my back nearly all the time. Cardui has done me more good than any medicine I ever took in my life. I can't possibly praise it too highly." You need not be afraid to take Cardui. It is no new experiment. For fifty years, it has been found to relieve headache, backache, and similar womanly troubles. Composed of gentle-acting, herb ingredients, Cardui builds up the strength, preventing much unnecessary pain. Try it for your troubles, today.

steamed away with floral wreaths floating in the vessels' foaming wake.

Followed in procession by the president of the Cuban republic and by all the other high dignitaries of Cuba, and amid a vast concourse of all classes of Cuban and American citizens, the dead of the Maine were borne on the shoulders of Cuban sailors and artillerymen through the streets of Havana.

Cuban infantry lined the sidewalks, on which a great multitude reverently uncovered as the bodies passed from the mortuary chamber in the palace to the side of the harbor.

There they were formally placed in the custody of officers of the United States navy, in the service of which the victims of the Maine disaster had given their lives.

Lay in Imposing Chamber.

The mortuary chapel, where the bodies lay until the arrival of the bearers, was a most imposing chamber. The walls were draped with black, and at the end a gilt altar was erected and covered with many lighted candles in silver stands. The caskets were arranger around the walls, covered with black and draped with Cuban and American flags. Until 10 o'clock this morning the bodies lay in state, and a continuous procession passed by to pay their last respects.

As the caskets were borne out a guard of honor saluted, and all along the line the salute was continuous, until the procession reached the harbor.

Hundreds of wreaths and crosses and other floral emblems were sent to be placed on the coffins.

At the harbor itself stood a guard of honor of Spanish-American war veterans, and facing these was another guard of honor of Cuban soldiers.

The day was clear and warm, with no wind blowing, and the population of Havana came out to witness the procession, almost to a man.

Lower Flags in New York.

New York, March 16.—Flags were half-masted on public and many private buildings today in commemoration of the burial at sea of the battleship Maine, which will be towed from Havana harbor out into the Atlantic and sunk in a final resting place in the sea this afternoon. Bells on Trinity church and its nine chapels will be tolled and the St. Patrick's day parade of 30,000 has planned to halt and stand at attention for five minutes with colors trailing, at the time set for the burial of the maine off the Cuban coast.

Plan Burial of Dead.

Washington, March 16. — Elaborate plans have been made for the funeral services for the Maine's dead here next Saturday afternoon, March 23. President Taft, the members of his cabinet and other high government officials will attend the open air services to be conducted from the south front of the state, war and navy department building, overlooking the White House park. All the government departments will dismiss their employes for the afternoon and business in the capital practically will be suspended.

The caskets containing the sixty-five dead will be placed on flag-decked army caissons and will be escorted to the scene of the funeral services by bluejackets, marines and soldiers. After the services the funeral procession will reform for the march to Arlington National cemetery, where already a large number of the Maine marines lie buried.

conditions on this reservation were, as far as practicable, given attention.

"You are right in your surmise that it is difficult, even when the Indians are wards of the federal government, to house them so as to have any effect on the spread of tuberculosis among them, but I do not agree with you that any great mistake has been made in not so caring for them as to have some control over trachoma. This, apparently, is a disease of recent wide extension. The Indian office first discovered it in the Southwest, where it had become prevalent to an alarming degree, and there the office placed its first experts in this disease. Nor should it be overlooked that very few regular practitioners among the whites had had any experience in this disease, nor did the physicians in the Indian service have any greater knowledge thereof. A competent Indian corps of experts had to be developed, and all this with a limited amount of money as well as limited time.

Only 20 Per Cent Wards.

"You are correctly informed that many of these Indians are not wards of the government; in fact, 80 per cent of the population of the White Earth reservation are citizens of your state and as much entitled to the care and attention of the states as they are to the care and attention of the federal government. In fact, the extensive spread of trachoma has begun since citizenship was conferred upon them.

"Notwithstanding the fact, however, that these Indians are citizens of your state, this office has endeavored, as far as its facilities permit it, with probably some mistakes, to do for the White Earth Indians what it has done for its wards elsewhere throughout the country. In view of their relationship both to the state and to the general government, I bespeak from you, on the part of the state authorities, the same hearty co-operation in the stamping out of this disease as I am willing to extend on behalf of the Indian department.

Trachoma Not "Permitted."

"I cannot agree with your statement that the federal government has permitted trachoma to multiply enormously among its wards, the Indians. That is has multiplied enormously, I know, but it was not with the permission of those handling Indian matters, but in spite of the earnest efforts that have been made to stamp it out with the funds which congress has appropriated for this purpose. Nor do I feel, as you have said, that you are speaking in a critical way to this bureau, but that you are merely pointing out the grave complications which will be thrust upon the state by the federal government when it relinquishes the responsibility over these Indians, a responsibility to which, I think, the state should have been a party since citizenship was conferred upon these Indians.

"Physicians and medical supplies, the organization of a special trachoma force, the establishment of hospitals, have been a part of the educational campaign against the further spread of trachoma, tuberculosis and kindred diseases. While some parts of the Indian country apparently were neglected, this condition was due to the fact that the funds available for this purpose were limited and there has not been time to build up a sufficiently large force of doctors to handle and cope with the situation at every place.

Hospital Small Factor.

"The Indian office, in its campaign, has encountered identically the same difficulties that you say the state must encounter when it undertakes to control trachoma, for the Indians have always been as widely scattered as at present and have always been just as hard to reach. I am sure that your knowledge of trachoma, the pain and discomfort associated with its treatment, of its persistence and the long time over which treatment must necessarily extend, enables you to understand that the construction of the hospital as suggested by you, would be only a small factor in the eradication of trachoma.

"New York city, with its hospital facilities and experts in the treatment of this disease, has never been able to rid its foreign quarters of trachoma, nor have the states of the Middle West, in which trachoma for years has been epidemic, had any better success in regulating or preventing its spread.

"This problem, therefore, is one of many and diverse aspects and not one of the simple rounding-up of those afflicted and subjecting them to treatment with no consideration of their desires. It is rather one which I believe can be approached only by changing the Indian's point of view to where he can appreciate the benefits accruing to him and his, by early and persistent treatment and by developing his moral courage to such an extent that he will yield himself and his family to this excessively painful treatment.

Educating the Indians.

"For the past two years, the Indian office, with funds available from its special appropriation for the purpose, has earnestly endeavored in its campaign of education throughout the country, to create a strong sentiment among the Indians in regard to trachoma and tuberculosis, a sentiment which, you probably know, is very difficult so far as the latter disease is concerned, to practically build up among the whites.

"The entire Southwest has been visited by the Indian office trachoma experts, who, during the fiscal year 1912, instituted treatment in 2,366 cases, upon 1,471 of which, the forceps operation of expression was performed. A physician and traveling nurse have this year been added to the force.

"Trachoma having first been reported from the Southwest, the situation there was most urgent and the whole force concentrated in that field. Since last fall, one of these experts has been operating in Dakota and Nebraska, on his way to the Northern reservations. The principal medical supervisor of the field service has, during the past winter, visited the schools of Wisconsin and Minnesota and at the present time is on the White Earth reservation, carefully studying trachoma and other health conditions.

Hospital Site Chosen.

Based upon his present investigation, a more vigorous campaign not only among the White Earth, but among the other Chippewa Indians in Minnesota, will be undertaken as soon as funds are available. The campaign also is to be extended to other states as rapidly as conditions will permit.

"A hospital for the White Earth reservation has been authorized, a site selected and it is expected that bids will be opened for its construction within the next few weeks.

"I appreciate the interest which you have shown in the health conditions among the White Earth Indians, and while, to a large extent, conditions have been exaggerated, they are, in all truth, sufficiently bad to justify both the state and federal authorities in doing everything practicable with the funds available for remedying unhealthy conditions. I shall appreciate your co-operation in the work, and shall extend to the work in hand the power of the federal government to the fullest extent which lawfully can be done."

tion to Secretary Wilson.

President Taft expressed regret at the resignation. Secretary Wilson said Dr. Wiley had been a "valuable man."

Dr. Wiley, in a statement, thanked Mr. Wilson for 'the personal kindness and regard shown him" and likewise expressed his gratefulness to President Taft for exonerating him last summer in connection with alleged irregularities in employing Dr. H. H. Rusby of New York. Dr. Wiley remarked, however, that though he was continued in his position after that incident, he naturally expected that "those who had made false charges" would be dismissed.

Dr. Wiley speaks in his statement of the "interests" which were found by him to be engaged in the manufacture of mis-branded or adulterated foods and drugs.

"Official Toleration."

"One by one," he says, "I found that the activities pertaining to the bureau of chemistry were restricted, and various forms of manipulated food products were withdrawn from its consideration and referred either to other bodies not contemplated by the law, or directly relieved from further control.

"The official toleration and validation of such practices have restricted the activities of the bureau of chemistry to a very narrow field, as a result of which I have been instructed to restrain from stating in any public way my opinion regarding the effect of these substances upon health. This restriction has interfered with my academic freedom of speech on matters relating directly to the public welfare.

"I naturally expected that those who had made false charges against me would no longer be continued in a position which would make a repetition of such action possible. The event, however, has not sustained my expectations in this matter. I was still left to come into daily contact with the men who secretly planned my destruction."

Dr. Wiley explained that while he did not determine to leave the government service until two days ago, for nearly six years there had been a growing feeling in his mind "that the differences between his superiors and himself were irreconcilable" and that he had been "conscious of an official environment which was essentially inhospitable."

Mitchell His Successor.

St. Paul, Minn., March 16.—A. S. Mitchell, chief of the United States food and dairy inspection bureau in this city, has been called to Washington to succeed Dr. H. W. Wiley as chief of the bureau, department of agriculture. Dr. Mitchell will leave for Washington tonight.

strike. Ten thousand skilled workmen were thrown out of employment today when the Great Western railway shut down its construction works at Swindon. The London & Northwestern railway has given notice that after Monday a large number of men will cease running, while many other railroad lines and factories have been compelled to give their men notice to leave.

The failure of the conferences between the strikers and the mine owners to reach a settlement of the coal strike has brought Great Britain to the realization of the serious position of other industries beside the one directly affected. In many places manufacturers have only kept their works going by extraordinary efforts. They will now no longer be able to do this.

May Close Sheffield Factories.

At Sheffield many of the works have only continued in operation during the last week by the most careful hoarding of coal, but even with this thriftiness over 25,000 men in that city have been discharged and on Monday it is feared that practically every factory in the town will be closed.

Not only has the passenger service of the railroads been cut down, but the freight trains have been reduced to such an extent that it is impossible almost to ship any goods at all.

A few small collieries still are working, and wagons from the neighboring towns form long lines over night awaiting the doling out of the scanty supply.

Outbreaks Are Feared.

Thus far the strike has been carried on with practically no disorder. The critical moment has now arrived, however, and precautions are being taken by the authorities to check any outbreaks that might be engendered by the return to work of non-unionist miners.

A case in point occurred today in Lanarkshire, Scotland, where 200 pon union men returned to work. When the men left home the trade unionists started to raid their houses. They came into conflict with the police, one of whom was seriously injured.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

The DE LAVAL CREAM SEPARATOR
—The Most Economical and the Best

No other Separator on the market will wear as long as the De Laval.

No other Separator will skim as clean and make as much butter from the same percentage of cream.

No other machine has the same simplicity of construction:—the De Laval has only three cog wheels in its entire mechanism!

The low speed of the De Laval reduces the wear, lengthens the life of the Separator, and makes it easy to run.

In addition, it keeps the fat-globules unbroken—in all other machines they are smashed and cut. THAT'S why the De Laval gives MORE butter and BETTER butter from the SAME quantity of cream.

The De Laval Company controlls the cream of the separator patents, and sells the most perfect machine on the market.

We sell satisfaction with every separator bearing the De Laval name! That's why we want you to come in and let us SHOW YOU before you decide on your separator.

We have the De Laval in all sizes, from 200 lbs. capacity to 1,750 lbs.

LOTS OF SOFT, WAVY, FLUFFY HAIR AND NO MORE DANDRUFF

Get a 25 cent bottle of Danderine and just try this—stops falling hair at once

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf.

There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast.

A little Danderine tonight—now—anytime—will surely save your hair. Ten minutes after applying all the dandruff will disappear, all itching will cease and there will be no more falling hair. Millions of men and women use Knowlton's Danderine and they never have dandruff, itchy scalp or falling hair—they know that it keeps the scalp clean and healthy and makes the hair grow heavy, long and beautiful.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application you will say it was the best investment you ever made. Your hair will immediately take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance; an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

NOTHING BUT PRAISE FOR COMMITTEE

To the Editor of The Herald:

It seems necessary to make an explanation of the circular letter sent out to the physicians relating to tuberculosis, because of some misunderstanding of its meaning. This letter, of course, was not intended for general circulation and I have no doubt those for whom it was intended have no difficulty in understanding it, but the general public which supplies the funds for the anti-tuberculosis committee, might think the health department does not appreciate the efforts of this committee. This of course would be a serious error.

The health department has nothing but good to say of them because it is in a position to see something of their achievements. We accuse them of nothing and in our letter neither do we insinuate anything. We simply say so and so has been reported to us, and without entering into the truth of the report, we wished to assure physicians we would do all we could to correct anything of this kind, if it exists. The anti-tuberculosis workers deserve well of the people of Duluth. They are doing a good and noble work and any activity along these lines which does not secure their co-operation and interest, would be a very great mistake. We hasten therefore to correct any impression to the effect that they have not our fullest confidence and good will. They are the prime movers in this branch of the modern humanitarianism in this city and may justly claim to have originated the city's activity. The health department recognizes their work as being of the greatest help to us and we are most anxious to add to its efficiency. The health department does not believe the members of the anti-tuberculosis committee did or would divert any patients from their original physicians to some favored ones.

LAKE SUPERIOR PIONEER IS DEAD

Marquette, Mich., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The death of Charles Thompson Harvey in New York city last Wednesday, aged 83, closed the career of one of the most prominent pioneers of the Lake Superior region, one who was Upper Michigan's greatest promoter and who as the builder of the first ship canal at the St. Mary's Rapids and the first blast furnace in the Northwest, had a notable place in the industrial history of the country.

Col. Harvey came to Marquette first in 1852 from his home in Connecticut.

Many Good People This Spring

"Cannot afford to be sick." Their earnings are so small they must be careful to keep their expenses down. They know by experience the great usefulness of Hood's Sarsaparilla in preventing disease by building up the system, and they show "common sense" in taking this great proprietary medicine for their run-down condition at this time.

Thousands find Hood's Sarsaparilla perfectly satisfactory in the treatment of impure blood, lack of strength, that tired feeling, loss of appetite, scrofula, eczema, rheumatism and catarrh.

Take Hood's Sarsaparilla this spring.

"My daughter was confined to her bed for seven or eight weeks with fever, and after the fever left her she was troubled with sores in her mouth and stomach, and a painful swelling on one of her limbs. She was also very weak. I concluded to give her Hood's Sarsaparilla, as I had done once before. She soon began to improve. The severe soreness and cramps in the stomach left her. I cheerfully recommend Hood's to build up the system." D. W. Seay, R. F. D. No. 5, Lebanon, Tenn.

"I had a severe attack of the grip which settled in my back. I soon became so weak I could hardly walk across the room. I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and after the use of a few bottles I began to get better, and am glad to say that in due time I was well as ever. More recently after my baby was born, I was again troubled with weakness, and my husband got me another bottle of Hood's. After taking it I was in good health again." CROSBY SCHOOL ELECTION.

First Election in Independent District Is Held.

Crosby, Minn., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first election of the Crosby Independent school district was held last evening. The polls were open from 8 to 9. There were several tickets in the field and considerable interest manifest, a total of 261 votes being cast. The following were the successful candidates: F. A. Lindberg and Noland Bixford, trustees for one year; Dr. J. E. McCoy and Albert Henry, for two years; Paul Sidlund and Ed Lovdahl, for three years.

Morbid people never see the bright side of life. God's sunshine never penetrates their hearts. They're out with the world and themselves; their liver acts bad; don't relish the food they eat. Stop, look, listen! Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea changes such people overnight. Never fails. 35c. Lyceum Drug Store.

Go East After Ritter.

St. Paul, Minn., March 16.—Representatives of the credit bureau, which is prosecuting the case against C. A. Ritter, charged with swindling St. Paul and Minneapolis merchants, armed with three warrants, have left for the East to get Ritter. The warrants specifically charge him with conspiracy and attempt to defraud, fraudulent use of the mails and grand larceny.

For Outdoor People

The exposure to the rigors of this climate, the exertion from work or play, all tend to wear out tissues, which must be replaced—Fitger's Beer is ideal as a tissue builder and invigorator.

For Indoor People

The strain of thought and worry bring nervous breakdowns. There is nothing so enjoyable to the tired man or woman with overworked brain as a cool glass of Fitger's Beer.

For Convalescents

The tonic and food qualities of Fitger's Beer, together with its very mild stimulation, make it the ideal beverage for convalescents, nursing mothers, or any one suffering from effects of sickness. It refreshes and at the same time satisfies in a way that no solid food can.

News and Views of Minnesota Politics

Roosevelt Men Active.

The Roosevelt men in St. Louis county have sprung into activity. Next Wednesday evening they will gather and organize. Speeches will be made and campaign plans laid. Headquarters will be opened primarily for St. Louis county, but generally for the Eighth district. The work of the state committee for this district will be conducted from Duluth.

The Roosevelt men here say that hundreds of good Republicans have signed the call for the meeting Wednesday evening. Not all of the petitions sent to the range have yet been returned, and the range is a Roosevelt stronghold.

Senator James P. Boyle and Representative Cleon T. Knapp will be the principal speakers Wednesday evening. Senator Boyle has been claimed by the Taft club as one of its speakers for the banquet to be held the latter part of this month, but evidently the Taft men were mistaken when they thought the young Demosthenes of the range had lost his progressiveness to the extent of supporting the president. Senator Boyle and Representative Knapp were among the most ardent Progressives in the legislature at the last session. They are both popular on the range and their support counts.

The campaign on the presidency in the Eighth district will be a lively one. The Eighth district is considered doubtful. President Taft is conceded to have more chance here than in some other districts of the state. St. Louis county is the most doubtful county in the Eighth district, wields the greatest influence in the district convention and will be the battle ground.

Eighth District Doubtful.

The Taft managers in the East count on six delegates from Minnesota. Evidently they are considering the Fourth, Fifth and Eighth districts safe. Their estimate is a conservative one, although the Roosevelt sentiment is sweeping the state. If the Taft men in Minnesota could count on the Fourth, Fifth and Eighth districts as safe for the president, they would have high hopes of getting enough delegates to control the state convention.

The Roosevelt men in the state concede nothing. They say they will carry every district, will elect the delegates at large and will send a solid Roosevelt delegation to Chicago.

The Eighth district is not safe for anybody. There is strong Roosevelt sentiment among the people, but it is hard to get the voters out to caucuses. There is strong Taft organization and organization counts. The Roosevelt men will build up an organization, but they have only about six weeks in which to do it, while the county organizations have been working for years and are considered for Taft.

The Roosevelt men have high hopes of St. Louis county. They must back up their hopes with organization. The sentiment is present and if they can crystalize it in the caucuses, their hopes will be realized.

Wheelock the Jester.

Ralph W. Wheelock is jester of the state administration. Every now and then Ralph opens his mouth and puts his foot between his teeth. If he is the spokesman of the administration, he ought to cultivate judgment and not give the country newspaper paragraphers, than whom there are no shrewder, a chance to get at him and the administration with which he is connected.

A short time ago Mr. Wheelock remarked in regard to a prospective candidate for lieutenant governor that the man had the necessary divinity to go with the office and also had a barrel of coin to go into the campaign, or words to that effect. The barrel of coin was superfluous. Ed Smith may talk about coin, behind closed doors, but Ralph shouldn't let the dear public know that coin figures in the choice of candidates at all—the coin of the candidates or others.

More recently Ralph said that he would give $500 to anyone who could show that the governor had influenced the state dairy and food department to favor the centralized creameries. Several well-disposed country papers promptly pointed out that the offer was a safe one, for nobody could prove that the governor has any influence with anyone anywhere. The Sauk Center Herald kindly suggested that Ralph might safely make an offer on that phase of the question.

The Pioneer Loses.

Senator Robert M. La Follette is showing the stuff of which he is made—the stuff that enabled him to reform the government of Wisconsin and to obtain the leadership of the Progressive branch of the Republican party in congress.

When the senator started on his campaign for the presidency last fall he took his fight to the people. He traveled around and made many speeches. He worked unceasingly and reaped the result—a serious illness. Roosevelt stepped in and took the leadership of the Progressive fight. La Follette's valued lieutenants deserted him and went to the ex-president. The cause of the Wisconsin senator appeared to be lost. He did not falter. He has an ideal. He believes Roosevelt is unsafe. He arose after his illness and went into North Dakota to fight for that ideal. He will come to Minnesota later. He will visit California and many other states. He will continue to fight until the convention is over or he can fight no longer.

There never has been compromise in La Follette. That is one of the arguments frequently used against him. He has ever been firm in his convictions and has not been amenable to argument. He hasn't a chance now of securing the nomination for himself, but he goes right on fighting. He believes he is right, and when Bob believes he is right he never stops fighting. It isn't always the best political plan, for there must be compromise on candidates, if not on principles in politics. La Follette believes that he is the logical leader of the Progressives; for Progressive Republicanism is based on his ideas. It is a sad fact that the pioneers in all great movements have seldom obtained the fruits of their labors.

Iverson Looks Ahead.

Sam Iverson is said to have given up the idea that he can be the nominee for governor this year and is now said to be laying the wires for 1914. Sam has always been looking ahead to his nomination for governor. It's a safe bet right now that Iverson has enough support lined up to step into the breach as the organization candidate if anything should make Eberhart's nomination impossible.

Indians for Steenerson.

A dispatch from Minneapolis says that Gus H. Beaulieu, leader of the mixed bloods of the White Earth reservation, predicts that many Indian speakers will take the stump for Halvor Steenerson in the Ninth district next fall. The Indians believe in Steenerson, according to Beaulieu and educated members of the tribe will go out and work for him. With the lone Populist of Minnesota and the Socialist from Ada, Steenerson will need the support of Indians and anybody else he can get, for the Ninth will see a merry little political war.

Opposed to Primary.

James A. Tawney gave out an interview in St. Paul yesterday opposing the primary under any considerations. Just such views as that reured Mr. Tawney from congress, via the primary route. Tawney denies that he will be a candidate for congress again this year.

Secretary of State Julius A. Schmahl also came out in regard to the presidential primary, in an interview yesterday. He did not commit himself personally, but said: "The only way that a presidential primary election can be held in Minnesota this year is by arrangement of the state central committee. Whether this will be done, or not, no one knows until the committee holds a meeting and that has not yet been called. Of course, it rests entirely with the Republican committee, and so far as I know the matter is not even being discussed among the leaders of the Democratic party or any other party."

"BUFFALO BILL" SELLS PROPERTY

Cody Block in West End Built By Famous Scout.

"Buffalo Bill," William F. Cody, the world renowned scout and Indian fighter, who at one time chose Duluth as a growing city by building the three-story Cody building at 1915 West Superior street, sold the structure this week to P. George Hanson & Son, real estate dealers at 1908 West Superior street. Negotiations were closed yesterday with Col. Cody himself and extensive repairs and changes are to be made on the structure within a few weeks.

"Buffalo Bill" built the structure nearly twenty years ago for his brother-in-law, Hugh Wetmore, and his sister, Helen Cody Wetmore, who operated the Duluth Press in the building for several years. The structure was then known as the Duluth Press building and today the inscription is still at the top of the building. Mr. and Mrs. Wetmore lived on Bayview Heights up to about six years ago, when Mrs. Wetmore secured a divorce from her husband and then moved to the West end, where she lived up to four years ago. She died last summer at Pasadena, Cal., where she had gone to regain her health.

Following the closing of the newspaper office, the building was used for a hotel, which was known for several years as the Cody hotel. From that time up to a few years ago, several hotels have occupied the building. The last hotel was the West, which closed about a year ago. At one time the Sundby Tea company occupied the first floor. The building, with the exception of the basement, which now houses a barber shop, has been vacant for the past year.

P. George Hanson & Son paid $8,500 for both the site and structure, although "Buffalo Bill" paid $12,000 for the building alone. Mr. Hanson expects to start repairs on the building in a very short time, and although the final plans have not been made, it is probable that the Hanson real estate company will occupy the main floor. The basement will be remodeled, as will the other floors, and a restaurant is expected to occupy the basement floor, while the two upper floors will be arranged for flats and apartments. A tile floor and steel ceiling will be put in the basement as one of the improvements.

The entire front of the building will be remodeled and the steps that now project on to the sidewalk, will be taken out and an entrance will be made direct into the building from the sidewalk. The steps will be placed in the corridor leading into the real estate offices. The stairs leading to the upper floors will also be placed in the corridor.

WOMEN WILL DISCUSS PROBLEMS OF RACE.

"Problems of Race," is the subject to be discussed by the members of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and First street, in the seventh meeting of the series to be held Saturday afternoon, March 30, in the church parlors. Mrs. J. D. McPhail will lead the discussions for the afternoon and the Mesdames Milton Fish and Mrs. H. D. Ehle will serve a luncheon following the meeting.

At the last meeting of the series, the members of the auxiliary discussed the immigration question and the various problems that daily confront the American government. The meeting March 30 is the seventh in the series and the following meetings have been announced up to June 1:

April 3—Ladies' aid; hostesses, Mrs. Bradley and Mrs. Schwartz.

April 17—Mission circle, subject, "The Church and the Social Question," leader, Mrs. Mentzer. hostesses, Mrs. J. D Campbell.

May 1—Ladies' aid; hostesses, Mrs. Gunther and Mrs. Ness.

May 29—Mother's meeting in the church; leader, Mrs. Churchill.

The officers of the auxiliary, who are in charge of all the organizations of the church and the various meetings held each month, are as follows: Mrs. George Jewell, president; Mrs. Fred Hanson, chairman of the ladies' aid society; Mrs J. D. McPhail, chairman of the Mission circle; Mrs. E. E. Churchill, chairman of the mothers' meetings; Mrs. Emma Hutchinson, recording secretary; Mrs. W. A. Berridge, corresponding secretary; and Mesdames Angus Campbell and A. Mentzer, treasurers.

HOME DESTROYED BY FLAMES

Starting from an overheated stove in the dining room, fire practically destroyed the home of Frank Poctol, corner Wicklow street and Atlantic avenue, at 11 o'clock last evening. The loss is estimated at $1,700, with only $1,100 insurance on the structure.

Mr. Poctol and his family were asleep on the second floor, when the firemen of Department No. 2 arrived. The house was already in flames and the firemen had some difficulty in getting the family out of the building. The members of the family were compelled to leave with what little clothing they could save and they were immediately taken in by the neighbors. Mr. Poctol, who was awakened by the smoke, groped to the window and seeing the firemen on the street quickly aroused the family and assisted in taking them out of the building.

The firemen were handicapped in fighting the flames as the nearest hydrant is about two blocks away. This distance was too long to enable the men to get an effective stream on the burning building.

"A Man's Mission."

Rev. J. A. McGaughey of the Second Presbyterian church, 1515 West Superior street, will preach on "A Man's Mission in the World" at the regular services tomorrow morning. The subject is a study of the Men and Religion Forward Movement, for which a number of meetings are to be held in the West end during next week. In the evening Rev. Mr. McGaughey will speak on "The Power of the Son of Man."

H. A. O'Brien, superintendent of the Sunday school, will conduct the regular class at noon and the Christian Endeavor society will meet at 7 o'clock in the evening. In the afternoon Rev. Mr. McGaughey will speak at the Hazelwood Presbyterian church.

Entertains Friends.

Miss Lou Knudson of 2323 West Eleventh street entertained at an informal card party and reception at her home last evening for a number of her West end friends. The prizes were won by Miss Esther Lundquist and Goodwin Haakons. A supper was served the latter part of the evening to the following guests: Misses Esther Lundquist, Elsie Tottchell, Anna Bergren, Martha Grenner. Maud Andrews, Emma Frederickson and the Messrs. Carl Wickstrom and Goodwin Haakons.

Olson Funeral.

The funeral of Otto Olson, 40 years old, who died Monday at Fergus Falls, Minn., following a short illness of pneumonia and whose body was brought here yesterday, was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the Olson & Crawford undertaking rooms, 2118 West First street. Interment was in the Park Hill cemetery.

West End Briefs.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers held its regular meeting yesterday afternoon at Sloan's hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Jensen of 2021 West Fourth street were pleasantly surprised at their home last evening in honor of their silver wedding anniversary.

Henry Appleby of Calumet, Mich., left for his home yesterday after spending the past week with relatives in the West end.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Frummen of Minneapolis are the guests this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Geleneau of West Sixth street.

The Young People's Society of the Zion Norwegian Lutheran church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street, held its regular meeting in the church parlors last evening.

The choir of St. Peter's Episcopal church, Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street, rehearsed the special Easter cantata at its regular meeting in the church last evening.

Misses Ellen and Josephine Anderson of West Fifth street left yesterday for Grand Rapids, Minn., where they will visit relatives for several weeks.

CHIPPEWAS MAKE APPEAL FOR AID

Gather at Leech Lake and Ask Uncle Sam to Grant Their Wishes.

Walker, Minn., March 16.—Delegations of Chippewa Indians from the Cass Lake White Earth and Leech Lake reservations gathered at Leech Lake this week to formulate an appeal to the commissioner of Indian affairs for an appropriation for an old Indians' home and hospital at the old agency. The appeal sets forth that although the Chippewas have a million to their credit they can get only $5.25 per head from the government annually, although the white man, having no credit with the government, can get anything.

What They Want.

The appeal asks for these things:

"For our old men and women and for the sick we want an Old Folks home and hospital. One hundred thousand dollars is none too much. We want this building at the old agency. This is a good place near the lake, as we do not like the prairies. The lakes give us fish and rice and we can travel around in our canoes, and the woods give us much game, fuel and lumber and good land for gardens.

"For our young men we want help in breaking our land, and we want teachers to work with us and show us the best way to raise the potato and other garden things the same as the white folks do. We want the seed so we can start farming and we will pay it back in full if you want us to. This is what we want and we will thank you when we get it."

A copy of the address was forwarded to Congressman Miller, along with a letter thanking him for the work he had done in behalf of the tribe, particularly for his bill appropriating $100,000 for an Indian hospital.

$2.50 FOR EACH "NEWSIE."

Butte Millionaire Gives Each Paper Seller Savings Nest Egg.

Butte, Mont., March 16.—Edward Hickey, millionaire mining man, one of the discoverers of the Anaconda mine, has announced that he would place on deposit the sum of $2.50 to the credit of every newsboy in Butte, and at the end of a year's time the boy having the biggest deposit would be given a prize of $20, the second $10 and the third $5. No restriction whatever is placed upon the deposit, and the "newsies" may draw it out tomorrow if they wish. Mr. Hickey is president of the State Savings bank and the president of the Tuolumne Mining company. There are nearly 400 newsboys in Butte. They are organized in what is called a county council, with a mayor and aldermen.

Williston Roosevelt Club.

Williston, N. D., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Williston Roosevelt supporters have organized a Roosevelt club with a membership of about 100, and it is one of the strongest clubs for the former president organized in the state. S. M. Hydle is president, and J. J. Blair is the secretary, and under their direction an active campaign for Roosevelt is being carried on in the county.

THREE MILLION NEAR STARVATION IN CHINA.

Chicago, March 16.—Dr. E. H. Hart, superintendent of the general hospital at Wu Hu, China, who has been in Chicago for several months, has received an appeal to return to his post at once because of the famine there. Te had been informed that 3,000,000 people were on the verge of starvation as the result of floods. He will return in the near future.

GLEANED ALONG THE POLICE RUN

Thursday afternoon Hilda Makl paid a fine of $100 for keeping an unlicensed drinking place at 125 Seventh avenue west. The same afternoon her husband, John Makl, got a straight sentence of sixty days in the county jail for the same offense.

Punishment and warning did not have the slightest effect upon Mrs. Makl, nor did the fact that her husband was behind the bars for two months appear to make any impression on her. Her actions justified the report of the police that she is one of the most persistent law violators in the city.

She had not been at liberty six hours when she started the "blind pig" running on a bigger scale than ever before, according to the authorities. The same night she went back to selling beer, doing business on an alleged wholesale basis. It is claimed that the way she dished out the amber fluid would have made some men in the business look like wooden Indians.

Not only that, but the police claim that she called in three women of doubtful character to furnish an additional attraction. What her receipts were, is unknown, further than that one man who spent most of the night at the place was shy $36 when he rubbed the cinders out of his lamps in the small hours of the morning.

This morning Mrs. Mako was arrested and two charges preferred against her, one for keeping a house of ill-fame and the other for selling liquor without a license. To both of them she entered pleas of not guilty and her trial was set for Monday afternoon.

When she was in court Thursday she pleaded for clemency as she didn't know where she was going to get $30 due for rent. But within an hour she had produced $100 with which to pay her fine. This morning bail in each case was fixed at $100, and it did not take her long to come across with the greenbacks.

So it is assumed that she did not have much trouble in settling with her landlord. It is also assumed that she assumed that the police would not bother her so soon after having been convicted. But that her assumption was wrong is evidenced by what happened this morning.

George Goselin was very impolite when a policeman told him last night that he should not block the sidewalk. He told the officer to seek warmer climes. The officer declined to do so, but sent George into headquarters on a charge of resisting an officer. George was brought in with the grist this morning, but his case was set over until Monday for disposition.

William Mattson has a system of high finance which is all his own, but after his experience last night and today he states that he will forego practicing it again.

Some time ago William was hard up for cash and he "soaked" a suit of clothes, his shoes and other pieces of apparel in a pawnshop on the Bowery. Yesterday he wanted to wear his "glad rags," but he lacked the wherewithal to extract them from "uncle." So he helped himself to a well-filled packsack belonging to Otto Haglund, his employer.

With it he walked into the pawnshop. "Uncle" protested, but in spite of him William took out his clothes and left the packsack for security. He was having a merry time when he was picked up by the police and booked on a charge of petty larceny. Otto claimed that he was drunk at the time he forcibly took away his clothes and his employer did not want to prosecute him. He was allowed to go.

Asked how he expected to redeem the pack sack, which the owner valued at $60, he said, "Why, I would just take the clothes back again and leave them for security for the pack sack."

Axel Johnson and Charlie Johnson were trying to injure each other's features when they were arrested last evening by Sergeant Al Weber. He sent them to headquarters on a charge of fighting on the street. They were having their fracas on the Bowery. Both pleaded guilty in police court this morning. Neither seemed to know what started the trouble, and as no one had been hurt they got off with the minimum.

Gust Docken, who runs the saloon at 707 West Superior street, was tried and acquitted in police court yesterday afternoon on a charge of keeping his saloon open after hours. Docken's excuse was that he and some friends stayed after 11 o'clock at night to clean up the place before going to a surprise party. It took them two and a quarter hours to "swab up" the place, as the doors weren't locked until 1:15 o'clock a. m. Docken claimed that they went to the surprise party after that time. The court held that although the place may have been open the evidence was not strong enough to warrant conviction.

Martin Hanson felt that he was disgraced beyond redemption when he was locked up at the police station last night on a charge of drunkenness. "Give me a rope, give me a rope, so I can hang myself," he cried as the big iron door slammed on his back. "My reputation is ruined and I don't want to live any longer." Hanson pleaded guilty to having been drunk when arraigned in police court. He was in bad shape and was given a sentence of seven days in the county jail.

John Renouf was arrested last night on a charge of having stolen fifteen pounds of pork loins from Otto Sandelin's restaurant on Sixth avenue west. He pleaded not guilty and was discharged after a trial. No one saw him steal the meat, although two men stated that they had seen him leaving the place with a sack over his shoulder. But they did not know what was in the sack.

• • •

Alex Melin pleaded not guilty in police court yesterday afternoon to a charge of assault preferred by his wife. He claimed that his son recently returned from Canada with a wife, and taking his bride to his home told him, his father, that he would have to feed them. Whereupon he says that he told the boy to get out and earn his own living. He asserted that this worried his wife and led to words, but never to blows. He will be tried Monday afternoon.

ROOSEVELT MEN NOT SO CERTAIN

Fargo, N. D., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senator La Follette and party were warmly welcomed here on their arrival from the West this morning. After speeches at the two local colleges the presidential candidate spoke twice at the opera house, once at noon to the laboring men and again at 2 o'clock, largely on agricultural subjects. While there were not a large number of outsiders in the city, both down town audiences filled the opera house to capacity as local people turned out in large numbers.

The La Follette men are enthusiastic over the reception rendered here and feel positive he will carry the state by a large majority. The Roosevelt committee continues to express confidence in the situation but the general rank and file of the Roosevelt supporters are less optimistic over the outlook and fear a landslide Tuesday for the Wisconsin man. With speeches by La Follette in the western part of the state Thursday and Friday and in Fargo and Grand Forks today, and at Minot and Devils Lake Monday, it looks favorable for the Badger statesman, unless there should prove to be expected strength in the "silent" vote. It is a certainty that he is getting all of the fireworks.

OBITUARY

Katherine C. Biddle, aged 96, a member of one of the oldest Philadelphia families, and noted for her charities is dead.

Walter Lafthouse Dean, aged 58, a marine artist with an international reputation, is dead at his home in East Gloucester, Mass. He has been ill since November. Several of his pictures were purchased by the federal government.

W. C. Stinson, aged 60, president and treasurer of a prominent grain company of the Northwest with headquarters in Minneapolis, died of heart trouble at his home in Minneapolis, Minn. His home formerly was at Green castle, Pa. A widow and three children survive him.

James Harris, head of the Janesville Barb Wire works, dropped dead of apoplexy at Janesville, Wis., March 16. His prominence in business circles was largely due to his refusal to sell his factory to the so-called "wire trust."

DULUTH MAN FATALLY SHOT

Victim of Bullet From Revolver of Marshal at Remer.

Physicians at St. Mary's hospital in Superior have given up hope for the recovery of Martin Dahl of 614 West Superior street, of this city, who was accidentally shot at 9 o'clock yesterday morning by Marshal Snell at Remer, Minn. Snell was trying to quell a disturbance between a number of drunken woodsmen and Dahl, who happened to be one of the bystanders, was shot when Snell attempted to frighten the men.

Dahl was immediately taken to the hospital in Superior where an operation disclosed that the bullet had perforated the bowels. The young man is 27 years old and as a result of the shooting is now suffering from an internal hemorrhage, from which the physicians do not believe he will recover.

As far as is known Dahl has no relatives in this country and very little is known of him except that he has roomed at 614 West Superior street for several months. He had been working as a laborer in the vicinity of Remer for some time.

OPPOSES WIFE'S PLEA FOR ALIMONY

Bert V. Koch, in an affidavit filed today in district court in opposition to a motion for alimony and suit money made by his wife, Marguerite Koch, in her divorce action, says that he believes that the grand jury which was recently in session refused to indict his wife and one William Hawkins for adultery because of the pending divorce action.

At the time of the arrest of Hawkins and Mrs. Koch on Feb. 13, when they were charged with adultery and bound over to the grand jury the divorce action had started. Mrs. Koch in her complaint charges cruelty. Koch filed no answer at the time, he says, waiting instead for the action of the grand jury.

In his affidavit, Koch states that Hawkins, a musician, came to the Koch home at 206 East Third street last October and rented a room and that he continued to live there until June 1 this year.

On Jan. 22, Mrs. Koch, it is claimed, left home and engaged a room at 316 East Second street, a place said to be owned by Madam Gahn. The next day, Koch claims Hawkins joined her. He claims that since that time they have been living together.

CARMEN IN APPEAL TO THE PUBLIC

TO THE PUBLIC.

We are fighting for the right to belong to any church or society or organization that our conscience may choose as right and resisting the interference with that right by the officials of the Great Northern railway; that is the only question involved; that and nothing else. And we do not believe that the good people of the Northwest will sit idly by and see us compelled to submit to such un-American practices. We will fight a manly, clean, straightforward fight, and if it so be that we must go down to defeat, we will not go alone. All our co-laborers sign their death warrant on the day we cease to exist.—J. H. Walters, Grand Lodge Deputy Brotherhood Railway Carmen of America.

St. Paul, Minn., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Placing upon the Great Northern railway the blame for the present labor trouble with the Brotherhood of Carmen, John H. Walters of Helena, Mont., who is in the Twin Cities laying plans which may result in a general strike on that line, this morning issued the foregoing statement, with its implied warning that if the strike is called, the carmen will not be alone. Explaining the situation as it exists today, Mr. Walters said:

"During the past six months the employes of the car department of the Great Northern railway have been reorganized at 90 per cent of the division points on that road in the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of America. In this reorganization work I used a letter written by George H. Emerson, now assistant general manager of the Great Northern railway, in which he said:

"'If the local officials are in any way discriminating against members of different organizations, I am certainly not aware of the fact, and it is not the policy of this company to take such action.'

Letter Used in Reorganizing.

"This letter was used by me to show the men that the announced policy of the Great Northern was different to that which some of them had been led to believe, and while it is not written to me personally, as some seem to have the impression, it happens that it was written in regard to similar trouble to that which we are now having, and by a strange coincidence, happens to have been written in regard to troubles at the same point that is now in the limelight, namely, Crookston, Minn.

"Upon the officials learning that the carmen had become well organized and were planning to meet in the city of Great Falls, Mont., soon, to form their system lodge, the men were called separately into the offices of the local officials and asked if they belonged to the carmen's union, referring to the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of America, and on answering 'yes,' they were informed that they must either withdraw from the organization or leave the company's service.

Says Action Was General.

"This action was general all over the Great Northern from Sioux City, Iowa, to Inter Bay, Wash. At Crookston, Minn., some of the men were given until the next morning and told to go home and talk the matter over with their wives. Some were asked to decide at once, and immediately were dismissed from the service when they asserted their rights to remain with the Brotherhood. Others were told they might work the day out, but need not come back in the morning."

Mr. Walters said he appealed to State Labor Commissioner Houk, E. G. Hall, president of the State Federation of Labor, and John D. Chubbuck of the American Federation of Labor, who met General Manager Gruber and Mr. Emerson, and who gained from the attitude of the officials, Mr. Wiers says, that the Great Northern plans crushing the labor organizations, one after another.

"Our organization was not seeking trouble," Mr. Walters continued, "nor had we asked anything whatsoever from the management. We did not want any strike, nor do we want any now, but in order that our position might become a matter of record, and to place the responsibility for the trouble where it rightly belonged, I appealed to the Hon. W. F. Houk."

Conferred With Jaynes.

Mr. Walters was in conference with Mr. Houk and Assistant Attorney General Jaynes today. He is preparing to push the trouble to a settlement of some sort, and will go to Crookston Tuesday, where the two Great Northern officials charged with working a blacklist on the carmen are to have a hearing in court. Conrad Jackson, who has the contract for loading and unloading ties on the road, and who is more or less implicated in the trouble, will be placed on the witness stand.

"KEROSENE CIRCUITS"

"One Night Stands" Will Benefit From Drama League Work.

"What we are working for particularly in this drama league work is the raising of the standard of the one-night stands," said Mrs. A. Starr Best, this morning in an interview. Mrs. Best is the national president of the Drama League of America and is the guest of Mrs. Robert Morris Seymour.

"The one-night stands," she said, "are growing worse and worse, the conditions surrounding them and the plays themselves and the companies which are sent out to play them. Really the main work of the league will be directed towards the betterment of this class of plays. The evil connected with them is the fact that the plays are getting so bad that the theater managers will have to close their houses for lack of support and then no good plays could be given. Besides this fact the companies which play these one-night stand circuits are so poor and the plays often so poor that they cannot survive and yet the people, especially in the smaller towns, can have no means of finding out before hand what they are like and have to take what is given.

"We are working in establishing these branches of the big national league to crowd out the poor plays by creating an audience for the good ones and thereby as some one has said, a vacuum for the poor ones. The idea uppermost in the league work is to co-operate with the managers of the theaters and help them by working up audiences for good productions.

"This league work," she continued, "originated with the club women of Chicago and has gradually grown until this big national league has been formed which has gained such a foothold throughout the entire country. I have just returned from an Eastern trip, where I visited several of the more important cities and branches are being formed in the cities and towns all through that part of the country.'

Mrs. Best outlined a plan along which the branches of the league are working. The league members, she said, would, before the opening of the season, get as many of the citizens as possible to pledge themselves to support a reasonable number of good plays during the season, and then with this nucleus of an audience to go to the manager of the theater and report to him that they have so many people who will support good plays, and work with him in picking out from his list of attractions plays which would be worth while. The manager, if he feels that his audience is assured, will be willing to work in this way. Even in the smaller towns where these leagues are formed, if an audience of even 300 people could be counted on in several towns along a line, say between two cities, the manager would be willing to send his company down this little circuit if he knew he would have an audience in each of these little places.

Mrs. Best was the guest of honor at a luncheon this noon at the Spalding hotel, at which sixty women of the Duluth branch of the league were seated. She gave an interesting talk to the women and answered many questions.

GOOD CORPS OF EXPERTS

The agricultural train which will be sent out through Northeastern Minnesota next month by the Commercial Club of Duluth, will carry a corps of experts that should command the attention of the farmers of the territory to be visited.

A. J. McGuire, superintendent of the state farm at Grand Rapids, will give the addresses on dairying. F. A. Gibbs of Minneapolis and J. V. Bailey of St. Paul will talk on cabbages, onions and potatoes. Prof. N. E. Chapman of the agricultural school will speak on poultry. A. B. Hostetter, superintendent of agriculture of the Duluth Commercial club, will have charge of the instruction on marketing and W. A. Dickinson, agricultural superintendent for the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, will be in charge of the train and will also dispense information to the crowd.

One baggage car will be given over to an exhibit of farm implements. Another car will carry an exhibit of seed potatoes, crates for shipping cabbages, potatoes, celery, lettuce, eggs and other farm products and samples of chicken houses, incubators, brooders and everything for raising poultry.

The announcement of the itinerary, which is being sent out to farmers all through the section to be traveled, has appended an invitation to the farmer, his wife and children to visit the train. The farmer is also invited to bring his seed potatoes for judging and if he has a supply of seed potatoes for sale to bring a peck of them in order that they may be shown at other points visited.

The train will leave Duluth April 1 and will return April 13. The institute for the farmers in the vicinity of Duluth will be held at the Commercial club Saturday, April 13.

MAN, ARE YOU
SUFFERING, WEAK, NERVOUS OR DISEASED?
STRENGTH AND VITALITY RESTORED!
Men, if you have violated the laws of health or been guilty of early indiscretions or excesses and conscious of a constant drain upon your system, do not permit your health and strength to be sapped away. Do not permit losses and drains to break down your constitution. Insanity, nervous prostration and physical suffering are in most cases due to neglect. Awake to your true condition and preserve your manhood and vital powers. If you are weak, gloomy, discouraged, have poor memory, lack of ambition, heart palpitation, trembling of the limbs, dizziness, etc., we will make you strong, vigorous and manly. We have cured thousands of weak and diseased men, and can cure you. Don't give up in despair because "medical companies" and "free prescriptions" have failed to cure you.
We have cured thousands of men of WEAKNESS, DRAINS and NERVO-VITAL ailments, we have built up BROKEN DOWN men to perfect manhood, why not you?
BLOOD POISON CURED.
"Dear Doctors: I am feeling very good and nothing of the former trouble bothers me, for I am cured, perfectly cured, and feel like I did before I ever contracted that frightful trouble. No man can have suffered more pain and mental anxiety than I did. You never told me, but I know that I had the worst of all diseases. You have done for me what scores of doctors failed to do. If it was not for you, I should never have recovered my youth again. I would not be the man I am today. When I stepped into your office two years ago, I expected you to say the same things as other doctors I consulted. Oh, but how I thank God that my steps were guided into your office at the darkest hour in my life! Everything is healed up and my face looks full of health and vigor. Oh, how I thank God today that there is a place where men can get cured, no matter how bad the condition; surely, worse than I, no one could have ever been! I feel that I am a new man.
"Doctor, I feel very satisfied the way you have treated my frightful disease. Oh, what a wreck it had made out of me when I think back of the days of that horrible condition! But God has blessed me from that hour I walked into your office and asked you for help, and I shall ever be.
"Your thankful R. C. W."
VARICOSE VEINS CURED.
"Heavy work, severe straining and other causes brought on Varicose veins. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was the only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists but soon found out that all they wanted was the money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He told me to go to the Progressive Medical association at No. 1 West Superior street. He had been cured himself by them and he knew they were square and knew men's diseases better than any other doctor in Duluth. They applied their Dissolving Method and at first my progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $12 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $21 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.
"E. H. C."
We restore your health by CLEAN BLOOD and promote increased NERVOUS ENERGY to weak organs by good circulation. We give a WRITTEN GUARANTEE FOR THE CURE OF Stomach Troubles, Varicocele, Hydrocele, Urethral Obstructions, Unnatural Discharges, Blood Poison, Sores, Ulcers, Prostatic Troubles, Painful and Distressing Symptoms that accompany Kidney, Bladder, Rheumatism, Skin Diseases, Sciatica, Tumors, Prostatic Affections, Piles, Pimple Eczema, and Urinary Diseases. Don't experiment with disease. Come at once. You want the best medical treatment obtainable.
We have cured thousands of patients for the last twenty years in Duluth. We stay right here and never move from city to city, like other so-called specialists. We have been for the last twenty years at No. 1 West Superior street.
Hours 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. daily. Sundays 10 to 1. Consultation and correspondence free and confidential.
PROGRESSIVE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

DULUTH PARISH INCORPORATED

St. Paul, Minn., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Articles of incorporation of the Roman Catholic diocese of Duluth were filed with the secretary of state this morning. Bishop James McGolrick authorized the action.

Bishop McGolrick stated this afternoon when questioned regarding the above dispatch, that the new corporation was for the purpose of holding the property of the cathedral parish. "It is a growing custom among the Catholic churches to incorporate," said Bishop McGolrick. "Up to this time most of the property here has been held in my name, and I will transfer it to the new corporation. It is a safeguard in case I should die suddenly."

WILL CALL SEVERAL BARBERS ON THE CARPET.

St. Paul, Minn., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—With some barbers accused and convicted of extortion, others charged with practicing without a license and still more apparently incompetent, the state board of examiners of barbers is preparing for a general revocation of licenses at its meeting in April, and the weeding out of undesirables. Arrangements are being made to hold a meeting in St. Paul April 12-13, at which at least fifteen barbers will be cited to appear to show cause why their permits to practice should not be revoked.

One barber in Duluth, convicted of extortion, may be included in the list of those whose licenses will be considered.

"We will hold a meeting in Duluth April 1," Mr. Becker said, "and at Staples, Minn., April 4. We will be at Mankato, April 8 and in Minneapolis April 9 and 10. From there we will adjourn to St Paul and take up the question of the revocation of licenses."

New Postmaster.

GLEANED ALONG THE POLICE RUN

Thursday afternoon Hilda Makl paid a fine of $100 for keeping an unlicensed drinking place at 125 Seventh avenue west. The same afternoon her husband, John Makl, got a straight sentence of sixty days in the county jail for the same offense.

Punishment and warning did not have the slightest effect upon Mrs. Makl, nor did the fact that her husband was behind the bars for two months appear to make any impression on her. Her actions justified the report of the police that she is one of the most persistent law violators in the city.

She had not been at liberty six hours when she started the "blind pig" running on a bigger scale than ever before, according to the authorities. The same night she went back to selling beer, doing business on an alleged wholesale basis. It is claimed that the way she dished out the amber fluid would have made some men in the business look like wooden Indians.

Not only that, but the police claim that she called in three women of doubtful character to furnish an additional attraction. What her receipts were, is unknown, further than that she made somewhat most of the night at the place was shy $36 when he rolled the cinders out of his lamps in the small hours of the morning.

This morning Mrs. Mako was arrested on the two charges preferred against her, one for keeping a house of ill-fame and the other for selling liquor without a license. To both of them she entered pleas of not guilty and her trial was set for Monday afternoon.

When she was in court Thursday she pleaded for clemency as she didn't know where she was going to get $30 due for rent. But within an hour she had produced $100 with which to pay her fine. This morning bail in each case was fixed at $100, and it did not take her long to come across with the greenbacks.

So it is assumed that she did not have much trouble in settling with her landlord. It is also assumed that she assumed that the police would not bother her so soon after having been convicted. But that her assumption was wrong is evidenced by what happened this morning.

George Goselin was very impolite when a policeman told him last night that he should not block the sidewalk. He told the officer to seek warmer climes. The officer declined to do so, but sent George into headquarters on a charge of resisting an officer. George was brought in with the grist this morning, but his case was set over until Monday for disposition.

William Mattson has a system of high finance which is all his own, but after his experience last night and today he states that he will forego practicing it again.

Some time ago William was hard up for cash and he "soaked" a suit of clothes, his shoes and other pieces of apparel in a pawnshop on the Bowery. Yesterday he wanted to wear his "glad rags," but he lacked the wherewithal to extract them from "uncle." So he helped himself to a well-filled packsack belonging to Otto Haglund, his employer.

With it he walked into the pawnshop. "Uncle" protested, but in spite of him William took out his clothes and left the packsack for security. He was having a merry time when he was picked up by the police and booked on a charge of petty larceny. Otto claimed that he was drunk at the time he forcibly took away his clothes and his employer did not want to prosecute him. He was allowed to go.

Asked how he expected to redeem the pack sack, which the owner valued at $60, he said, "Why, I would just take the clothes back again and leave them for security for the pack sack."

Axel Johnson and Charlie Johnson were trying to injure each other's features when they were arrested last evening by Sergeant Al Weber. He sent them to headquarters on a charge of fighting on the street. They were having their fracas on the Bowery. Both pleaded guilty in police court this morning. Neither seemed to know what started the trouble, and as no one had been hurt they got off with the minimum.

Gust Docken, who runs the saloon at 707 West Superior street, was tried and acquitted in police court yesterday afternoon on a charge of keeping his saloon open after hours. Docken's excuse was that he and some friends stayed after 11 o'clock at night to clean up the place before going to a surprise party. It took them but only a quarter hours to "swab out" the place, as the doors weren't locked until 1:15 o'clock a. m. Docken claimed that they went to the surprise party after that time. The court held that although the place may have been open the evidence was not strong enough to warrant conviction.

Martin Hanson felt that he was disgraced beyond redemption when he was locked up at the police station last night on a charge of drunkenness. "Give me a rope, give me a rope, I'll can hang myself," he cried as the big iron door slammed on his back. "My reputation is ruined and I don't want to live any longer." Hanson pleaded guilty to having been drunk when arraigned in police court. He was in bad shape and was given a sentence of seven days in the county jail.

John Renouf was arrested last night on a charge of having stolen fifteen pounds of pork loins from Otto Sandelin's restaurant on Sixth avenue west. He pleaded not guilty and was discharged after a trial. No one saw him steal the meat, although two men stated that they had seen him leaving the place with a sack over his shoulder. But they did not know what was in the sack.

Alex Melin pleaded not guilty in police court yesterday afternoon to a charge of assault preferred by his wife. He claimed that his son recently returned from Canada with a wife, and taking his bride to his home told him his father, that he would have to feed them. Whereupon he says that he told the boy to get out and earn his own living. He asserted that this worried his wife and led to words, but never to blows. He will be tried Monday afternoon.

The following young people left the college last week to accept the following positions: Sophie Solhelm, stenographer for Stewart-Thomson Co.; Miss Signia Dunn, stenographer for Remington Typewriter Co., Winnipeg; Dora Lacy, stenographer for superintendent of schools, St. Louis county; Irene Holden, stenographer for New York Life Insurance Co.; Lena Rocklin, stenographer and assistant bookkeeper for Bayha & Co.; Joseph Sall, bookkeeper for the Grand Union Tea Co.

New classes will be organized on Monday, March 18. The college will be in session all summer, no vacation.

MRS. SAWYER DIES.

News was received this morning from Silver City, N. M., of the death of Mrs. Celestia Haven Sawyer, the mother of Former Mayor Haven of Duluth.

Death occurred this morning, and was due to heart failure. Mrs. Sawyer was about 68 years of age, and left for the Southwest with Mr. Haven when he went there to reside last fall.

ENGINEER FROM DULUTH FIRED ON AT PILLAGER.

Brainerd, Minn., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—As Engineer A. Lawstrom of Duluth pulled his Northern Pacific freight train through Pillager, six miles west of Brainerd, last night, some miscreant fired a shot through the cab, nearly striking the engineer. The bullet imbedded itself in the wall of the cab. It is not known whether robbery or train wrecking was the motive of shooting.

ROOSEVELT MEN NOT SO CERTAIN

Fargo, N. D., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senator La Follette and party were warmly welcomed here on their arrival from the West this morning. After speeches at the two local colleges the presidential candidate spoke twice at the opera house, once at noon to the laboring men and again at 2 o'clock, largely on agricultural subjects. While there were not a large number of outsiders in the city, both down town audiences filled the opera house to capacity as local people turned out in large numbers.

The La Follette men are enthusiastic over the reception rendered here and feel positive he will carry the state by a large majority. The Roosevelt committee continues to express confidence in the situation but the general rank and file of the Roosevelt supporters are less optimistic over the outlook and fear a landslide Tuesday for the Wisconsin man. With speeches by La Follette in the western part of the state Thursday and Friday and in Fargo and Grand Forks today, and at Minot and Devils Lake Monday, it looks favorable for the Badger statesman, unless there should prove to be expected strength in the "silent" vote. It is a certainty that he is getting all of the fireworks.

Katherine C. Biddle, aged 96, a member of one of the oldest Philadelphia families, and noted for her charities is dead.

Walter Lafthouse Dean, aged 58, a marine artist with an international reputation, is dead at his home in East Gloucester, Mass. He has been ill since November. Several of his pictures were purchased by the federal government.

W. C. Stinson, aged 60, president and treasurer of a prominent grain company of the Northwest with headquarters in Minneapolis, died of heart trouble at his home in Minneapolis, Minn. His home formerly was at Green castle, Pa. A widow and three children survive him.

James Harris, head of the Janesville Barb Wire works, dropped dead of apoplexy at Janesville, Wis., March 16. His prominence in business circles was largely due to his refusal to sell his factory to the so-called "wire trust."

DULUTH MAN FATALLY SHOT

Physicians at St. Mary's hospital in Superior have given up hope for the recovery of Martin Dahl of 614 West Superior street, of this city, who was accidentally shot at 9 o'clock yesterday morning by Marshal Snell at Remer, Minn. Snell was trying to quell a disturbance between a number of drunken woodsmen and Dahl, who happened to be one of the bystanders, was shot when Snell attempted to frighten the men.

Dahl was immediately taken to the hospital in Superior where an operation disclosed that the bullet had perforated the bowels. The young man is 27 years old and as a result of the shooting is now suffering from an internal hemorrhage, from which the physicians do not believe he will recover.

As far as is known Dahl has no relatives in this country and very little is known of him except that he has roomed at 614 West Superior street for several months. He had been woring as a laborer in the vicinity of Remer for some time.

OPPOSES WIFE'S PLEA FOR ALIMONY

Bert V. Koch, in an affidavit filed today in district court in opposition to a motion for alimony and suit money made by his wife, Marguerite Koch, in her divorce action, says that he believes that the grand jury which was recently in session refused to indict his wife and one William Hawkins for adultery because of the pending divorce action.

At the time of the arrest of Hawkins and Mrs. Koch on Feb. 13, when they were charged with adultery and bound over to the grand jury the divorce action had been started. Mrs. Koch in her complaint charges cruelty. Koch filed no answer at the time, he says, waiting instead for the action of the grand jury.

In his affidavit, Koch states that Hawkins, a musician, came to the Koch home at 206 East Third street last October and rented a room and that he continued to live there until Jan. 23, this year.

On Jan. 22, Mrs. Koch, it is claimed, left home and engaged a room at 316 East Second street, a place said to be owned by Madam Gaun. The next day, Koch claims Hawkins joined her. He claims that since that time they have been living together.

CARMEN IN APPEAL TO THE PUBLIC

TO THE PUBLIC.

We are fighting for the right to belong to any church or society or organization that our conscience may choose as right and resisting the interference with that right by the officials of the Great Northern railway; that is the only question involved; that and nothing else. And we do not believe that the good people of the Northwest will sit idly by and see us compelled to submit to such un-American practices. We will fight a manly, clean, straightforward fight, and if it so be that we must go down to defeat, we will not go alone. All our co-laborers sign their death warrant on the day we cease to exist.—J. H. Walters, Grand Lodge Deputy Brotherhood Railway Carmen of America.

St. Paul, Minn., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Placing upon the Great Northern railway the blame for the present labor trouble with the Brotherhood of Carmen, John H. Walters of Helena, Mont., who is in the Twin Cities laying plans which may result in a general strike on that line, this morning issued the foregoing statement, with its implied warning that if the strike is called, the carmen will not be alone. Explaining the situation as it exists today, Mr. Walters said:

"During the past six months the employes of the car department of the Great Northern railway have been reorganized at 90 per cent of the division points on that road in the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of America. In this reorganization work I used a letter written by George H. Emerson, now assistant general manager of the Great Northern railway, in which he said:

"'If the local officials are in any way discriminating against members of different organizations, I am certainly not aware of the fact, and it is not the policy of this company to take such action.'

Letter Used in Reorganizing.

"This letter was used by me to show the men that the announced policy of the Great Northern was different to that which some of them had been led to believe, and while it is not written to me personally, as some seem to have the impression, it happens that it was written with regard to similar trouble to that which we are now having, and by a strange coincidence, happens to have been written in regard to troubles at the same point that is now in the limelight, at Crookston, Minn.

"Upon the officials learning that the carmen had become well organized and were planning to meet in the city of Great Falls, Mont., soon, to form their system lodge, the men were called separately into the offices of the local officials and asked if they belonged to the carmen's union, referring to the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of America, and on answering 'yes,' they were informed that they must either withdraw from the organization or leave the company's service.

Says Action Was General.

"This action was general all over the Great Northern from Sioux City, Iowa, to Inter Bay, Wash. At Crookston, Minn., some of the men were given until the next morning and told to go home and talk the matter over with their wives. Some were asked to decide at once, and immediately were dismissed from the service when they asserted their rights to remain with the Brotherhood. Others were told they might work the day out, but need not come back in the morning."

Mr. Walters said he appealed to State Labor Commissioner Houk, E. G. Hall, president of the State Federation of Labor, and John D. Chubbuck of the American Federation of Labor, who met General Manager Gruber and Mr. Emerson, and who gained from the attitude of the officials, Mr. Walters says, that the Great Northern plans crushing the labor organizations, one after another.

"Our organization was not seeking trouble," Mr. Walters continued, "nor had we asked anything whatsoever from the management. We did not want any strike, nor do we want any now, but in order that our position might become a matter of record, and to place the responsibility for the trouble where it rightly belonged, I appealed to the Hon. W. F. Houk."

Conferred With Jaynes.

Mr. Walters was in conference with Mr. Houk and Assistant Attorney General Jaynes today. He is preparing to push the trouble to a settlement of some sort, and will go to Crookston Tuesday, where the two Great Northern officials charged with working a blacklist on the carmen are to have a hearing in court. Conrad Jackson, who has the contract for loading and unloading ties on the road, and who is more or less implicated in the trouble, will be placed on the witness stand.

"KEROSENE CIRCUITS"

"One Night Stands" Will Benefit From Drama League Work.

"What we are working for particularly in this drama league work is the raising of the standard of the one-night stands," said Mrs. A. Starr Best, this morning in an interview. Mrs. Best is the national president of the Drama League of America and is the guest of Mrs. Robert Morris Seymour.

"The one-night stands," she said, "are growing worse and worse, the conditions surrounding them and the plays themselves and the companies which are sent out to play them. Really the main work of the league will be directed towards the betterment of this class of plays. The evil connected with them is the fact that the plays are getting so bad that the theater managers will have to close their houses for lack of support and then no good plays could be given. Besides this fact the companies which play these one-night stand circuits are so poor and the plays often so poor that they cannot survive and yet the people, especially in the smaller towns, can have no means of finding out before hand what they are like and have to take what is given.

"We are working in establishing these branches of the big national league to crowd out the poor plays by creating an audience for the good ones and thereby as some one has said, a vacuum for the poor ones. The idea uppermost in the league work is to co-operate with the managers of the theaters and help them by working up audiences for good productions.

"This league work," she continued, "originated with the club women of Chicago and has gradually grown until this big national league has been formed which has gained such a foothold throughout the entire country. I have just returned from an Eastern trip, where I visited several of the more important cities and branches are being formed in the cities and towns all through that part of the country."

Mrs. Best outlined a plan along which the branches of the league are working. The league members, she said, would, before the opening of the season, get as many of the citizens as possible to pledge themselves to support a reasonable number of good plays during the season, and then with this nucleus of an audience to go to the managers of the theater and report to him that they have so many people who will support good plays, and work with him in picking out from his list of attractions plays which would be worth while. Any manager, if he feels that his audience is assured, will be willing to work in this way. Even in the smaller towns where these leagues are formed, if an audience of even 300 people could be assured in several towns along a line, say between two cities, the manager would be willing to send his company down this little circuit if he knew he would have an audience in each of these little places.

Mrs. Best was the guest of honor at a luncheon this noon at the Spalding hotel, at which sixty women of the Duluth branch of the league were seated. She gave an interesting talk to the women and answered many questions.

MAN, ARE YOU
SUFFERING, WEAK, NERVOUS OR DISEASED?
STRENGTH AND VITALITY RESTORED!

Men, if you have violated the laws of health or been guilty of early indiscretions or excesses and conscious of a constant drain upon your system, do not permit your health and strength to be sapped away. Do not permit losses and drains to break down your constitution. Insanity, nervous prostration and physical suffering are in most cases due to neglect. Awake to your true condition and preserve your manhood and vital powers. If you are weak, gloomy, discouraged, have poor memory, lack of ambition, heart palpitation, trembling of the limbs, dizziness, etc., we will make you strong, vigorous and manly. We have cured thousands of weak and diseased men, and can cure you. Don't give up in despair because "medical companies" and "free prescriptions" have failed to cure you.

We have cured thousands of men of WEAKNESS, DRAINS and NERVO-VITAL ailments, we have built up BROKEN DOWN men to perfect manhood, why not you?

BLOOD POISON CURED.

"Dear Doctors: I am feeling very good and nothing of the former trouble bothers me, for I am cured, perfectly cured, and feel like I did before I ever contracted that frightful trouble. No man can have suffered more pain and mental anxiety than I did. You never told me, but I know that I had the worst of all diseases. You have done for me what scores of doctors failed to do. If it was not for you, I should never have recovered my youth again. I would not be the man I am today. When I stepped into your office two years ago, I expected you to say the same things as other doctors I consulted. Oh, but how I thank God that my steps were guided into your office at the darkest hour in my life! Everything is healed up and my face looks full of health and vigor. Oh, how I thank God today that there is a place where men can get cured, no matter how bad the condition; surely, worse than I, no one could have ever been! I feel that I am a new man.

"Doctor, I feel very satisfied the way you have treated my frightful disease. Oh, what a wreck it had made out of me when I think back of the days of that horrible condition! But God has blessed me from that hour I walked into your office and asked you for help, and I shall ever be.

VARICOSE VEINS CURED.

"Heavy work, severe straining and other causes brought on Varicose veins. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was the only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists but soon found out that all they wanted was the money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He told me to go to the Progressive Medical association at No. 1 West Superior street. He had been cured himself by them and he knew they were square and knew men's diseases better than any other doctor in Duluth. They applied their Dissolving Method and at first my progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $12 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $21 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.

"E. H. C."

We restore your health by CLEAN BLOOD and promote increased NERVOUS ENERGY to weak organs by good circulation. We give a WRITTEN GUARANTEE FOR THE CURE OF Stomach Troubles, Varicocele, Hydrocele, Urethral Obstructions, Unnatural Discharges, Blood Poison, Sores, Ulcers, Prostatic Troubles, Painful and Distressing Symptoms that accompany Kidney, Bladder, Rheumatism, Skin Diseases, Sciatica, Tumors, Prostatic Affections, Piles, Pimple Eczema, and Urinary Diseases. Don't experiment with disease. Come at once. You want the best medical treatment obtainable.

We have cured thousands of patients for the last twenty years in Duluth. We stay right here and never move from city to city, like other so-called specialists. We have been for the last twenty years at No. 1 West Superior street.

Hours 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. daily. Sundays 10 to 1. Consultation and correspondence free and confidential.

PROGRESSIVE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

GOOD CORPS OF EXPERTS

The agricultural train which will be sent out through Northeastern Minnesota next month by the Commercial Club of Duluth, will carry a corps of experts that should command the attention of the farmers of the territory to be visited.

A. J. McGuire, superintendent of the state farm at Grand Rapids, will give the addresses on dairying. F. A. Gibbs of Minneapolis and J. V. Bailey of St. Paul will talk on cabbages, onions and potatoes. Prof. N. E. Chapman of the agricultural school will speak on poultry. A. B. Hostetter, superintendent of agriculture of the Duluth Commercial club, will have charge of the instructions on marketing and W. A. Dickinson, agricultural superintendent for the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, will be in charge of the train and will also dispense information to the crowd.

One baggage car will be given over to an exhibit of farm implements. Another car will carry an exhibit of seed potatoes, crates for shipping cabbages, potatoes, celery, lettuce, eggs and other farm products and samples of chicken houses, incubators, brooders and everything for raising poultry.

The announcement of the itinerary, which is being sent out to farmers all through the section to be traveled, has appended an invitation to the farmer, his wife and children to visit the train. The farmer is also invited to bring his seed potatoes for judging and if he has a supply of seed potatoes for sale to bring a peck of them in order that they may be shown at other points visited.

The train will leave Duluth April 1 and will return April 13. The institute for the farmers in the vicinity of Duluth will be held at the Commercial club Saturday, April 13.

DULUTH PARISH INCORPORATED

St. Paul, Minn., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Articles of incorporation of the Roman Catholic diocese of Duluth were filed with the secretary of state this morning. Bishop James McGolrick authorized the action.

Bishop McGolrick stated this afternoon when questioned regarding the above dispatch, that the new corporation was for the purpose of holding the property of the cathedral parish.

"It is a growing custom among the Catholic churches to incorporate," said Bishop McGolrick. "Up to this time most of the property here has been held in my name, and I will transfer it to the new corporation. It is a safeguard in case I should die suddenly."

WILL CALL SEVERAL BARBERS ON THE CARPET.

St. Paul, Minn., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—With some barbers accused and convicted of extortion, others charged with practicing without a license and still more apparently incompetent, the state board of examiners of barbers is preparing for a general revocation of licenses at its meeting in April, and the weeding out of undesirables. Arrangements are being made to hold a meeting in St. Paul April 12-13, at which at least fifteen barbers will be cited to appear to show cause why their permits to practice should not be revoked.

One barber in Duluth, convicted of extortion, may be included in the list of those whose licenses will be considered.

Paul will talk on cabbages, onions and potatoes. Prof. N. E. Chapman of the agricultural school will speak on poultry. A. B. Hostetter, superintendent of agriculture of the Duluth Commercial club, will have charge of the instructions on marketing and W. A. Dickinson, agricultural superintendent for the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, will be in charge of the train and will also dispense information to the crowd.

"We will hold a meeting in Duluth April 1," Mr. Becker said, "and at Staples, Minn., April 4. We will be at Mankato, April 8 and in Minneapolis April 9 and 10. From there we will adjourn to St Paul and take up the question of the revocation of licenses."

New Postmaster.

WHEN you travel you are exposed not only to unusual temperatures, but to unusual variations of temperature.

In and out of trolley cars, in and out of railroad trains, in heated hotel bed rooms and draughty hotel corridors, the body constantly meets varing degrees of heat and cold that are responsible for slight chills and consequent heavy illness.

Duffy's

taken in moderate amounts immediately after a chill, and without immediate subsequent exposure, is invaluable in warding off ill effects.

Weigh the Cost!

of installing MAZDA-TUNGSTENS throughout NOW, against one-half of your lighting bill for say ONE year to come! The result will be enormously in favor of installing MAZDA-TUNGSTENS.

Remember, however, you cannot "eat your cake and have it"—You cannot replace every carbon-incandescent you now use with a Mazda-Tungsten, burn them all, and expect your lighting bill to be lower. It will be exactly the same, but you will be getting twice as much light for your money.

You can use ONE Mazda-Tungsten in place of TWO carbons and snip your lighting bill in half; OR you can use just as many Mazda-Tungstens as you have been using carbons and get Twice the light for the same price. In a word—The Mazda-Tungsten gives twice the light from the same amount of current!

RECEIVER FOR ARIZONA COMMERCIAL COPPER.

Phoenix, Ariz., March 16.—At the request of the American Trust company of Boston, Federal Judge Morrow appointed a receiver today for the Arizona Commercial Copper company, which owns mining and railroad property at Globe. Charles Baldwin was named receiver. The trust company brought action on behalf of holders of a bond issue of $1,000,000 issued by the copper company last June and on which it was asserted interest was defaulted.

KILLS EDITOR FOR REFUSING TO DRINK.

Belpre, Kan., March 16.—H. C. Bennett shot and killed H. C. Busenbark, editor of the Belpre Bulletin, because the latter refused to take a drink of whisky. He was arrested only after he had defied the officers all night. Bennett barricaded himself in the opera house, but the cold forced him to seek shelter.

COPPER COMPANY FUNDS STOLEN FROM MAILS.

El Paso, Tex., March 16.—Fifteen thousand dollars in currency was taken from the registered mail pouch on the Arizona & New Mexico railroad at Clifton, Ariz., Tuesday, according to information received here. The money was consigned from El Paso to the Detroit Copper company at Morenci, Ariz.

SICK HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, TORPID LIVER, CONSTIPATION—CASCARETS

Sick headaches! Always trace them to lazy liver, delayed, fermenting food in the bowels or a sick stomach. Poisonous matter, instead of being thrown out, is reabsorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, awful throbbing, sickening headache.

Cascarets remove the cause by stimulating the liver, making the poison move on and out and purifying the blood. The effect is almost instantaneous. Ladies whose sensitive organisms are especially prone to sick headaches, need not suffer, for they can be quickly cured by Cascarets. One taken tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box means a clear head and perfect health for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle, cleansing, too. Children gladly take Cascarets, because they taste good and never gripe or sicken.

WARNING TO SMALL CRAFT

Weather Bureau Will Inaugurate New Signal Service This Year.

Red Pennant Will Tell Boat Owners of Approaching Storm.

Small boats in the harbor will get storm signal service from the government the coming season. It will be simple and intended only for smaller craft, with no application to the big vessels.

The danger signal will be a large red pennant. It will be displayed upon receipt of a warning message from the weather bureau. Arrangements for this service have been made at the boat club properties, the main house, the Oatka branch and the Spirit Lake branch. Forecaster Richardson will also install the service at West Duluth and at Lond du Lac if suitable arrangements can be made.

The weather bureau has sent out the following circular relative to the small craft warnings:

"The small craft warning issued by the United States weather bureau indicates that moderately strong winds are expected that will interfere with the safe operation of small craft, such as those engaged in fishing, towing, motor boating, and yachting, but not of sufficient force to affect high-powered vessels.

"Small craft warnings will be sent to any responsible person desiring them, who will defray the expense, if any, of the messages, and who, without cost for service or equipment, will display the warnings promptly and satisfactorily from a suitable flagstaff, using a pennant of regulation size.

"The warning is displayed by means of a red pennant, the regulation size of which is 8 feet at hoist by 12 feet fly. Such a pennant may be obtained from any manufacturer of flags and will cost about $3.

"The warning will not, under any circumstances, be displayed except under orders issued by a weather bureau official.

"It will not be displayed from a staff on which any other flag or pennant is flying.

"It will be displayed during the day only and will be lowered at sunset.

"The responsibility of the weather bureau will end with the filing of the warning message."

OSBORN CALLS NEW SESSION

Michigan Legislature Fails to Do All He Demanded of It.

Lansing, Mich., March 16.—Governor Osborn has issued a call for a second special session of the legislature to convene March 20, immediately following adjournment of the present session. An immediate effect presidential preference primary bill will come up again at the next session.

While the governor has not announced his program for the next session, it is expected to include anti-brewery-saloon legislation, which he presented at this session, together with recommendations for the initiative, referendum and recall, woman suffrage and a statewide primary.

The presidential preference primary bill, which was passed by both houses and which provides for a primary on April 1, becomes a law, but because of its failure to secure the necessary two-thirds vote in the senate to give it immediate effect, no primary can be held this year.

The legislature quit work yesterday to meet on Wednesday next for final adjournment. Two hours later the new session is to begin.

KEEPS UP LEWIS FIGHT.

Wickersham Gets Letter About Negro Lawyer in Minneapolis.

Washington, March 16.—Interest in the case of William H. Lewis, expelled from membership in the American Bar association on account of his color, was renewed when Attorney General Wickersham again took up the matter with George W. Whitelock, secretary of the association. Lewis is an assistant attorney general and his chief is making a stormy fight against his expulsion because he holds it not only unjust, but illegal.

The attorney general is in receipt of a letter from a Minneapolis lawyer saying that an attorney of the Minnesota city who is nearly a full blooded negro and is a member of the bar association, elected to membership at the Boston meeting of the association last year. Mr. Whitelock asserted in a letter to Mr. Wickersham that no person of a race other than white had, previous to Mr. Lewis, held membership in the body.

Mr. Wickersham referred the Minneapolis letter to Mr. Whitelock with the statement that it seemed to have a direct bearing on the Lewis case, and asking for a confirmation or correction.

THEOSOPHICAL SOCIETY LOSES THURSTON WEALTH.

San Diego, Cal., March 16. — By a verdict of 10 to 2, the jury in the contest brought by George L. Patterson, a banker of Newcastle, Pa., to have set aside the will in which his mother, Mrs. Harriet P. Thurston, bequeathed to Miss Catherine Tingley, head of the Universal Brotherhood and Theosophical society, an estate valued at $247,000, found for the contestant.

Woodmen Insurgents Sue.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 16.—A suit to compel the camp officers of Hiawatha camp, No. 1931, Modern Woodmen of America, to pay over $235 collected in aid of the insurgents' fight against the insurance rates of the organization, has been begun in court here by E. W. McGill, "insurgent treasurer." It is claimed that the money was raised by the camp but that the officers of the camp are "regular" and have refused to surrender the money to the "insurgents."

HOUSING IS DISCUSSED

Baptist Brotherhood Hears Interesting Talks on Social Problems.

Secretary of Associated Charities Urges Need of Housing Ordinance.

The Baptist brotherhood, at a supper held last evening at the First Baptist church, discussed the housing conditions at Duluth and what might be done to improve them. The meeting was conducted by E. M. Morgan, president of the brotherhood.

Courtenay Dinwiddie, secretary of the Associated Charities, exhibited lantern slides, showing dwellings that were not erected in a manner calculated to benefit the health of the occupants and the surroundings of which were not sanitary. He advocated the passage of a city ordinance making certain requirements in the building of homes and providing for sanitary conditions within and without. He thought it should be some officer's duty to inspect dwellings and see if they were sanitary and to declare them untenable if they did not come up to the requirements of such an ordinance as he proposed.

Building Inspector Kielley, on being asked whether he thought an ordinance should be passed requiring every builder of a house to put in a stone or concrete foundation, replied that he hardly thought that was necessary in the case of a man building a small home.

Charles S. Mitchell said the brotherhood could do more effective work in its campaign for betterment of the housing conditions of Duluth if committees should be appointed to collect information and make recommendations, which might be presented in the name of the brotherhood to the city council. Civic betterment lectures were all right as far as they went, but what was heard at them would soon be forgotten if nothing further was done to help the cause along, he said.

Charles R. Hoar, president of the common council, said he did not favor the passage of an ordinance that would discourage a poor man in his efforts to get a home of his own. He should be encouraged in building his own home, and after he had it, he would improve it by reason of his pride in it without being compelled to do so, Mr. Hoar claimed.

Guy W. G. Ross advocated the single tax as one of the best methods of improving housing conditions. If owners of vacant property had to pay as heavy taxes on it as were paid on improved property, it would not be long before the holders of vacant lots would either build upon them or sell them.

AMUSEMENTS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—"The Red Rose."
ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.

ANOTHER WHIFF OF "THE RED ROSE"

This Time Its Odor Is Much Cleaner and More Pleasing.

Far cleaner and devoid of the many objectionable lines and features so apparent in its predecessor, "The Red Rose" as it appeared at the Lyceum last evening is a lively, entertaining musical comedy.

The costumes and scenery are just as bright and costly, and above all, Miss Zoe Barnett as Lola, the artists' model of the studio, is a real actress, who can sing, dance and act. Miss Barnett is really "the whole show" with her sprightly dancing, vivaciousness and effective sincerity in the various emotional scenes.

The costumes introduced by Miss Barnett during the performance were the envy of all the women in the audience last evening, while the men marveled at the numerous Parisienne creations. In the finale of the second act, in which Lola learns that she is not the real daughter of the baron, Miss Barnett proves herself a capable emotional actress and the short song which she sings before leaving her supposed home is a real hit.

The plot is the same as in the production viewed here several weeks ago, with the many obscene lines and features successfully removed. Judging by the reception accorded the performance last evening the audience was better pleased and entertained by the expurgated edition. The play deals with an American young man, the son of a millionaire broker, who is studying art in Paris. The young man falls in love with his model and refuses to leave Paris at the request of his father. The father then comes to Paris and tells his son he has arranged a marriage with the daugter of another Wall Street man, so that the matrimonial merger will strengthen the rubber market. The son refuses and after a number of humorous and pathetic incidents he and the young model finally marry.

Miss Barnett is very ably assisted by a strong cast of good actors and dancers. Special mention must be given to Walter L. Catlett as the German art dealer, who is one of the most pleasing entertainers and dancers seen here for a long time. He is different from the other comedians and his work is a real treat. Menotti Frascona as Andre, Marguerite De Von as Gyp, Sidney Broughton as the young American, Grace Ellsworth as Mme. Joyant and Edwin Burns as Silas Plant are among the principals worthy of mention. Miss De Von as Gyp plays the soubrette effectively and scored an immediate success in the various musical numbers in which she appeared.

The chorus is handsome and capable for a change. This company really has a bevy of beautiful chorus girls, who are dressed in the best and newest costumes and they made a pleasing appearance in the various numbers last evening. The song numbers, nearly all of which are of the whistling kind, include: "Come Along Ma Cherie," "The Old Ballet Days," "I'd Like to Go on a Honeymoon With You," "Buy, Buy, Baby," "Students' Glide," and "Men, Men, Men." The performance was repeated this afternoon and will be seen again this evening.

$600 AND GOLD WATCH FOR BANDIT SLAYER.

Houston, Tex., March 16.—David A. Trousdale, express messenger who killed two men when they attempted to rob Southern Pacific Passenger Train No. 9 near Sanderson, Tex., will be paid a reward of $600, and, in addition, will be presented a gold watch, suitably inscribed, if the recommendation of Supt. Taft of the Wells Fargo Express company is followed.

PUGET SOUND DEFENSE TAKEN BY THE "ENEMY."

Seattle, Wash., March 16.—Fort Worden, the strongest of the coast defense works which guard the entrance to Puget Sound, can be taken from the rear. This was demonstrated when the six artillery companies stationed at the fort engaged in a sham battle, five companies making the attack and one forming the defense. The battle lasted two hours and at the end the attacking party had won.

You can be the Envy and Admiration of Your Friends by the use of

Newbro's Herpicide

The Sanitary Hair Dressing.

No matter where she is, the girl with a nice head of hair is always an object of admiration and at the same time the envy and despair of her less fortunate sisters.

The intelligent use of a good hair-dressing makes all the difference. Hair that receives no attention but the daily combing and an occasional shampoo cannot be pretty. Dandruff forms on the scalp, the hair becomes dead, brittle, uneven and drops out. There is an absence of that life, luster and snap possessed by hair which is given proper care and intelligent applications of NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE.

HERPICIDE imparts gloss and beauty to the hair and to the user a sense of cleanliness, a feeling of satisfaction and assurance. Try it and see. Your friends will be surprised and remark on your improved appearance.

A REAL HELP--

Any man or woman who really desires to save money will find this bank of genuine assistance. In the majority of cases it is by saving small sums that wealth is attained. A Savings Account here can be started with a small sum (one dollar or over) and small sums can be added to it whenever you wish. When deposited in this bank your money is absolutely safe, and it promptly starts earning 3 per cent interest for you. The interest is credited to your account every six months, and immediately commences to earn more interest for you. There is far less temptation to spend money when it is in the bank than when it is in your pocket, and you can withdraw it any time should necessity arise. A Savings Account is the best kind of insurance against misfortune as well as a safe stepping stone to wealth.

BRUCE'S COLUMN

COMMENT AND DIVERS DISCUSSION OF THE MERRY WORLD OF SPORT.

HERE we are at that period of time's annual roll where sweet spring comes out from behind the hoary wall of winter and holds dimpled hands out in blue-eyed greeting. Indeed, 'tis a sweet thought. With the coming of spring comes bills for hats, grippe, threatened suits by the coal companies, the ash man, sulphur and molasses, the financial platform of friend tailor, and baseball. Spring means the shunting off the stage of the winter sports. Before they go we have something to say. We are wishing hopefully, Imogene, that those throne boys, Zbyszko and Mahmout, tangle before the season is curtained and the stage manager, the ablest of 'em all, time, calls another act. Gotch says to Herman to beat Mahmout, whom he characterizes as the greatest wrestler in the world, and then he adds that he will wrestle the Pole in the event of said win.

But at the same time the master of Humboldt says there is no danger that the Pole will turn the Bulgarian, for the champion says the son of the sultan has developed the art of leg wrestling as no man before him has succeeded in learning it.

Mahmout's disposal of Pedersen cleared the decks for this match. The long series of elimination has brought us down to three really great wrestlers. Gotch, Mahmout and Zbyszko are without a doubt the three best in the whole big world. Among the closest followers of the game there is a dispute as to which is the better of the two men anxious to annex the crown of the champion. The whole American public is crying for them to wrestle it out, for this is one match that would attract interest all over the world.

From present indications the two are going to get together in April. Klank and Gotch say the Turk will win and show the wrestling world that he is one of the most remarkable exponents at the catch-as-catch-can game that has ever stepped on to a mat. Jack Herman, the smooth and clever manager of the Pole, says Zbyszko will beat Mahmout and then go through with it to the end by beating the champion of the world.

Before sweet spring makes too many advances, sweetening the air with the song of the birds and robbing the grate and steam radiator of the affinity feeling, we hope that this big match will be wrestled and the question as to the greatness of the man Gotch says is the best wrestler of all time, will be tabbed and filed for future reference.

Persistent, tenacious, fighting his way up the wrestling ladder after his quick defeat at the hands of Gotch some three years ago, Mahmout stands today as the great mystery of the wrestling mat. The starved man of Europe has surely come into his own, and this, too, despite the declaration of certain men in the wrestling game that he would never wrestle a big match.

YOU can't guess who wants to come back. These come-backs are as persistent as some old bachelor stung by the matrimonial microbe. Some dilapidated dissipater gets the fight fever and announces to the world through the megaphone of his own self-conceit that he is as good as he ever was, and is going to re-enter the ring and whip all the fourflushers fooling the public. After his seconds have led the old war horse to his corner following the first three or four punches, he mumbles through battered lips that he isn't as young as he used to be.

Kid Lavigne, once the greatest of all little men, now a saloon keeper and a destroyer of liquor and a home provider for wandering glasses of beer, is one of the latest to express the deliterious desire to come back. The kid tried to come back something like a year ago and was beaten by some obscure chap in a battle strangely reminiscent of a cat kidding a little mouse. Al Welnig, the former bicycle rider and pugilist, also is a victim of the regained youth delusion. Years ago old Ponce de Leon started all this nonsense. Vain old men and kidding chorus girls have kept up the idea down through the years.

Poor Lavigne probably raves over the festive and highly explosive gin rickey and whisky highball, and thinks of the times that Father Time has flied away. He stands as much chance of coming back as the ostrich-plumed hat has of becoming popular with the honest working man. As for Al Welnig, lawsie, Aunt Mary, he never really got started.

SOME TIME ago the ragged rumor was making the rounds of the back doors, spreading the report that Packey McFarland had hit the grade. Ad Wolgast was the rogue who started the talk. Since the battle with Murphy, Packey has beaten "One Round" Hogan and Kid Burns so decisively that the result left no doubt of the ability of the brilliant boxer of the Upton Sinclair district, or the stockyards, if you will.

Last night's affair was a grudge scrap. This Kid Burns was the fresh thing who gave Packey a black eye. This was both rude and presumptuous upon the part of Burns. Packey is rather good looking, the matinee idol of the fighting class and he does not cherish the marks of battle. His marvellous cleverness has saved him from the badges of conflict.

But anyway this Burns had been telling what he was going to do to McFarland. Reading the reports of the mill you can figure out what he didn't do. McFarland made him look as disreputable and as generally useless as a homeless hobo at a business men's luncheon.

Matt Wells is coming over and the proper caper would be for McFarland to met this bucko and the winner of the scrap meet the champion of 'em all, Ad Wolgast. Even if these boys do weigh a couple of pounds more than the champion he should be willing to fight the winner of a meeting between the twain. You know that in the past the real good old boys did not balk at the hurdle of several pounds. If McFarland beats Wells, Wolgast can't very well get out of a meeting with the stockyards streak of lightning.

WINNIPEG is also a baseball orphan. The Western Canada league has split and the Western teams have drawn their skirts in haughty disdain from Winnipeg and Brandon. So it may happen that the Peg, in the days gone by one of the best baseball towns in the West, may find itself stranded as we are.

At that they are real sports up in Western Canada. The officials of the league at the last meeting came out and declared against any reduction of the salary limit, saying that the fans of Western Canada wanted good baseball or no baseball. The salary limit has been placed at $1,800, which should give the Canadian cousins some real classy article of baseball.

It is unfortunate when cities the size of Duluth and Winnipeg are facing the possibility, nay the probability, of not having baseball. When a city is left without league baseball that community is advertised throughout the country as a dead one. To be in a fast and up to date baseball league is one of the best advertisements that any city can have.

W. H. DOWNER, former manager of the Auditorium skating rink, has left the city, returning to his home in Pittsburg. Mr. Marshall has the active management of the big rink and as he is an enthusiastic lover of clean sport of all kinds it is very probable that some good athletic programs will be staged at the rink in the near future. Negotiations are already being carried on with Joe Munch and it is likely that the Milwaukee roller skating star will come here for a series of races with Frank Bryant, the little Duluth speed merchant. The new management is making many improvements in the way the rink is being run.

McALEER LANDS RED SOX PLAYER

New Boston Owner Says Speaker Is Great Hitting Star.

Boston, Mass., March 16.—One of the lads upon whom Jimmy McAleer is counting for valiant deeds this season, deeds which will go toward landing the American league gonfalon in Boston, is Tris Speaker. This lad is hardly more than a youngster and should have many long years of good service ahead of him. Last year was his third complete season in the Johnsonian circuit, and Boston fans swear by "Spoke."

"I think Speaker one of the greatest outfielders over in the game," Jimmy McAleer said. "He may not be as startling as Cobb, either in the field or with the bat, but for all that he is a dangerous hitter and a truly wonderful fielder. I've seen him make plays that only a star could make. Cobb is the greatest player ever seen, but Speaker comes close after him, in my opinion."

American league fans are going to watch this crack gardener of the Red Sox this season to see if he carries out all the prophecies of his new boss. They are going to compare Speaker with that other star, Joe Jackson.

Speaker's debut in the big show took place on Labor day, 1908, in Boston. He had been breaking fences all over the Southern league, and tales of his hard hitting and circus catches had been borne along the breezes before his arrival in the land of the baked bean. Never will any fan who saw that debut forget it.

Confident as a veteran, the rookie marched to the bat and promptly punched out a hit. The next time he walked. The third time he chopped a vicious liner down over second. So much for his hitting. In the field he ran to the center field bleachers—some run, too, by the way—and grabbed a drive ticketed for three sacks. He took that ball with one hand and never even stopped to see if the crowd had noticed it. That was in the morning game.

In the afternoon Speaker's game was worthy of headlines in the papers. His hitting had that savage ring that betokens the hard hitter, and his fielding brought back memories of "Chick" Stahl. Speaker's reputation in Boston was established that first day, to continue and increase in glory until now.

Speaker's most spectacular play is generally made on a low-hit ball in front of him. His speed is remarkable, fully as great as Cobb's, and he comes in like an express train, seldom failing to grab that ball just before it reaches the grass. He is quite as sure of pulling a homer down out of the blue skies behind him, shoving his gloved right hand up at just the proper moment to seize the flying pellet.

Jimmy McAleer is a favorite with Tris Speaker. Tris Speaker has always been greatly admired by Jimmy McAleer. With the one president of the club and the other the shining star of the outfit, their mutual admiration society of 1912 may be expected to result in a great record for the player and a high position in the race for the president.

Gibbons vs. Zanders.

St. Paul, Minn., March 16.—Mike Gibbons was matched by Manager Eddy Reddy last night to meet Ernie Zanders of Milwaukee in a 10-round bout at South Bend, Ind., on April 5. The weight is 145 pounds at 3 o'clock.

MINNESOTA MAN IS APPOINTED

George Atchison of Mankato Is Vice President of Trotting Association.

Chicago, March 16.—The appointment of George Atchison of Mankato, Minn., to be vice president of the American Trotting association was announced yesterday by President W. P. James. At the annual meeting of the association last February a change was made in the bylaws allowing the president to name vice presidents for each state.

CENTRAL IS THE WINNER

Duluth Basket Ball Team Wins From Superior By 21 to 17 Score.

Result of Game Gives Local Quint the Interscholastic Title.

At Superior last evening the crack Central high school basket ball team defeated the Superior high school quint by the score of 21 to 17. Duluth showed the better team work throughout the game, which was at times somewhat rough. Osman starred for Duluth and played a fine game throughout. "Burk" Harris also played a fine game for Duluth. Kemp was hurt and was replaced by Rill.

Osman was the star basket shooter for the Duluth boys, getting five baskets during the evening. St. Clair and Elder got one each and Harris got two. Kemp and Aubin were the stars for the Superior team, the former getting four and the latter three baskets.

The result of the game gives the undisputed interscholastic basket ball championship to Central. The Duluth boys have defeated all of the teams in this part of the state and the best teams of northern Wisconsin.

Between the halves of the big game the Duluth second team defeated the second team of Superior.

The lineup and summary:

Superior.		Duluth.
Holman	f	Harris

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 16.—The National baseball commission decided yesterday that the St. Joseph, Mo., club is not entitled to $500 which that club claimed was due it from the Chicago National club, as extra compensation when Player Roy W. FAIR SCORES BEING MADE

Bowlers Making But Few Marks That Could Be Called High.

Not Believed That Present Records Will Stand Through Tourney.

Chicago, March 16.—Bowlers in the American Bowling congress tournament entered into play on the last day of the second week of the meet confident they would shatter some of the leading marks. Although the present top scores are fair, none that might be called high has been made. The prediction is made that there are bowlers yet to appear on the alleys who will scatter more pins than any of the present holders of the record marks of the Chicago meet.

The leaders in the different events at the beginning of play today follows:

Individuals: Larry Sutton, Rochester, N. Y., 679.

Doubles: Swanson-Sallander, Chicago, 1,226.

Five-men teams: Terry's Mountains, Miuwaukee, 2,870.

All events: Al Sallander, Chicago, 1,838.

Many out-of-town players were scheduled to take the alleys today. Among the cities represented were South Bend and Mishawaka, Ind., Louisville, St. Louis, St. Paul, Omaha, Pittsburg, Milwaukee, Peoria, Grand Rapids, Mich., Rochester, Jamestown, N. Y., and Ambridge, Pa.

With a score of 1,207, Herman Heine and Emil Beilfuss of Chicago took high honors in the doubles at the American Bowling congress tournament. This puts them in fourth place. Beilfuss' work in the last game was largely responsible for the team's showing. He swept the alleys eight times. He then made two spares and finished with a strike, giving him a mark of 265.

Next to the leaders came Fred and Henry Rogman, also of Chicago, with 1,147 pins. At the end of the second game this team had 757 points, but fell to an even 400 in the last game. George Johnson and Phillip McGuire of Chicago were third with 1,142 pins.

While no exceptionally high scores were recorded, the fact that fourteen teams bowled over the 1,100 mark made the sport interesting.

Henry Lange of Watertown, Wis., captured first place in the singles by dropping 649 pins and tied "Pop" Brill for sixth place. Spares and buried strikes helped Lange to pile up his big score. C. Gray of Indianapolis took second place with 620 pins, and W. T. Soldman of Chicago was third with 608.

POOR OUTLOOK FOR BASEBALL

Duluth and Superior May Not Play in Organized League.

There is nothing new in the local baseball situation. On March 16 with nothing in sight the situation cannot be said to look encouraging. The large sized boys of the Minny league are to meet on Monday, continuing the foolishness that has extended over the past two months, during which time not a single stroke of business has been conducted. But no matter what the Minny does, and it won't do anything of great importance, the fact is that the local situation is not very promising.

Yesterday a third party came into the game. This man, whose name need not be made known a this time, may take a hand and something may grow out of his activity. It isn't the magnates' fault that the baseball situation is not progressing. The cards have been stacked against us, so it would seem, and if we do not want to go in with the rankest of the bushers it does look as if we may be forced to remain out of the kind of company we would like to travel with.

Negotiations with certain parties in certain large cities are being carried on at the present time, but no headway seems to have been made. There is no news to tell the public for the simple reason that there is no news. Both Duluth and Superior have their players and both of the managers are reported to be getting anxious.

Just what will be done the owners of the two franchises do not seem to know. It is getting late for the organization of a league and the passing of every day makes the baseball situation look somewhat doubtful.

BURNS TAKES A BAD BEATING

"Packey" McFarland Administers a Vicious Drubbing to New York Fighter.

Kenoska, Wis., March 16.—Hopelessly outclassed, "Kid" Burns of New York was saved from a knockout last night when seconds tossed the sponge into the ring in the eighth round of a scheduled 10-round bout with "Packy" McFarland of Chicago.

It was McFarland's fight from the start. He left the ring without a scratch, while both of the New Yorkers' eyes were battered shut and his face was fearfully marked.

McFarland was merciless in his attack. He backed the slow, plodding Burns to the ropes frequently in every round and shot vicious rights and lefts to the jaw without a return.

For the first five rounds Burns refused to stand up and box. He continually backed away and covered up, while the crowd hissed and demanded him to fight. The Chicagoan scored the only knockdown when Burns partially slipped and went to his knees from a punch to the head. He resumed fighting, however, immediately.

The men boxed at catch-weights, but it was announced that they both scaled at about 140 pounds.

BRUCE'S COLUMN

COMMENT AND DIVERS DISCUSSION OF THE MERRY WORLD OF SPORT.

HERE we are at that period of time's annual roll where sweet spring comes out from behind the hoary wall of winter and holds dimpled hands out in blue-eyed greeting. Indeed, 'tis a sweet thought. With the coming of spring comes bills for hats, grippe, threatened suits by the coal companies, the ash man, sulphur and molasses, the financial platform of friend tailor, and baseball. Spring means the shunting off the stage of the winter sports. Before they go we have something to say. We are wishing hopefully, Imogene, that those throne boys, Zbyszko and Mahmout, tangle before the season is curtained and the stage manager, the ablest of 'em all, time, calls another act. Gotch says to Herman to beat Mahmout, whom he characterizes as the greatest wrestler in the world, and then he adds that he will wrestle the Pole in the event of said win.

But at the same time the master of Humboldt says there is no danger that the Pole will turn the Bulgarian, for the champion says the son of the sultan has developed the art of leg wrestling as no man before him has succeeded in learning it.

Mahmout's disposal of Pedersen cleared the decks for this match. The long series of elimination has brought us down to three really great wrestlers. Gotch, Mahmout and Zbyszko are without a doubt the three best in the whole big world. Among the closest followers of the game there is a dispute as to which is the better of the two men anxious to annex the crown of the champion. The whole American public is crying for them to wrestle it out, for this is one match that would attract interest all over the world.

From present indications the two are going to get together in April. Klank and Gotch say the Turk will win and show the wrestling world that he is one of the most remarkable exponents at the catch-as-catch-can game that has ever stepped on to a mat. Jack Herman, the smooth and clever manager of the Pole, says Zbyszko will beat Mahmout and then go through with it to the end by beating the champion of the world.

Before sweet spring makes too many advances, sweetening the air with the song of the birds and robbing the grate and steam radiator of the affinity feeling, we hope that this big match will be wrestled and the question as to the greatness of the man Gotch says is the best wrestler of all time, will be tabbed and filed for future reference.

Persistent, tenacious, fighting his way up the wrestling ladder after his quick defeat at the hands of Gotch some three years ago, Mahmout stands today as the great mystery of the wrestling mat. The starved man of Europe has surely come into his own, and this, too, despite the declaration of certain men in the wrestling game that he would never wrestle a big match.

YOU can't guess who wants to come back. These come-backs are as persistent as some old bachelor stung by the matrimonial microbe. Some dilapidated dissipater gets the fight fever and announces to the world through the megaphone of his own self-conceit that he is as good as he ever was, and is going to re-enter the ring and with all the fourflushers fooling the public. After his seconds have led the old war horse to his corner following the first three or four punches, he mumbles through battered lips that he isn't as young as he used to be.

Kid Lavigne, once the greatest of all little men, now a saloon keeper and a destroyer of liquor and a home provider for wandering glasses of beer, is one of the latest to express the delirious desire to come back. The kid tried to come back something like a year ago and was beaten by some obscure chap in a battle strangely reminiscent of a cat kidding a little mouse. Al Weinig, the former bicycle rider and pugilist, also is a victim of the regained youth delusion. Years ago old Ponce de Leon started all this nonsense. Vain old men and kidding chorus girls have kept up the idea down through the years.

Poor Lavigne probably raves over the festive and highly explosive gin rickey and whisky highball, and thinks of the times that Father Time has flied away. He stands as much chance of coming back as the ostrich-plumed hat has of becoming popular with the honest working man. As for Al Weinig, lawsie, Aunt Mary, he never really got started.

SOME TIME ago the ragged rumor was making the rounds of the back doors, spreading the report that Packey McFarland had hit the grade. Ad Wolgast was the rogue who started the talk. Since the battle with Murphy, Packey has beaten "One Round" Hogan and Kid Burns so decisively that the result left no doubt of the ability of the brilliant boxer of the Upton Sinclair district, or the stockyards, if you will.

Last night's affair was a grudge scrap. This Kid Burns was the fresh thing who gave Packey a black eye. This was both rude and presumptuous upon the part of Burns. Packey is rather good looking, the matinee idol of the fighting class and he does not cherish the marks of battle. His marvelous cleverness has saved him from the badges of conflict.

But anyway this Burns had been telling what he was going to do to McFarland. Reading the reports of the mill you can figure out what he didn't do. McFarland made him look as disreputable and as generally useless as a homeless hobo at a business men's luncheon.

Matt Wells is coming over and the proper caper would be for McFarland to met this bucko and the winner of the scrap meet the champion of 'em all, Ad Wolgast. Even if these boys do weigh a couple of pounds more than the champion he should be willing to fight the winner of a meeting between the twain. You know that in the past the real good old boys did not balk at the hurdle of several pounds. If McFarland beats Wells, Wolgast can't very well get out of a meeting with the stockyards streak of lightning.

WINNIPEG is also a baseball orphan. The Western Canada league has split and the Western teams have drawn their skirts in haughty disdain from Winnipeg and Brandon. So it may happen that the Peg, in the days gone by one of the best baseball towns in the West, may find itself stranded as we are.

At that they are real sports up in Western Canada. The officials of the league at the last meeting came out and declared against any reduction of the salary limit, saying that the fans of Western Canada wanted good baseball or no baseball. The salary limit has been placed at $1,800, which should give the Canadian cousins some real classy article of baseball.

It is unfortunate when cities the size of Duluth and Winnipeg are facing the possibility, nay the probability, of not having baseball. When a city is left without league baseball that community is advertised throughout the country as a dead one. To be in a fast and up to date baseball league is one of the best advertisements that any city can have.

JOHNNY EVERS PAYS HIGH TRIBUTE TO COBB

(By John J. Evers.)

Loyalty to his own club and his own league should be a leading characteristic of every ball player, and I think I have always been loyal to mine. I would like to be able to say that a National league player, was the greatest in the game. I have said, and I still say, that Manager Frank Chance is one of the most phenomenal players America has ever known. In fact, I would go still further, and say that he has never had but one superior. But that one superior I am forced to admit in fairness is not a Chicago National player, nor in fact a National league player at all. His name is Ty Cobb, and his wonderful record on the Detroit American team ever since he broke into the game has been the sensation of the baseball world.

I am not alone in this high opinion of Ty Cobb's work. This view of mine, I believe is shared by practically every other member of the National league. There are good players there —many of them—some of extraordinary ability. It is natural they should have their friends and backers, and they do have them. But Cobb's career has been so extraordinary, so much above everything that was or could reasonably be expected, that his merits have aroused the attention of his fellow players, and now demand that recognition which they so richly deserve.

The day of the .400 hitter was supposed to have disappeared a decade ago. The introduction of the foul strike rule was designed as the death blow of this remarkable average. The tremendous slump in batting during the years that followed as compared with those which preceded was evidence of this new factor in baseball. But Cobb ever since he startled the baseball world by his meteoric rise to prominence, has steadily advanced toward that seemingly impossible goal of the batter, until during the season that has just passed, he finally attained his ambition, and reached the grand batting average of .420.

The new cork center ball has been held responsible for much of the good batting in the American league, but it should have had the same influence on batting in the National league, for the ball used by both organizations was practically the same. I cannot say the new ball was not livelier, or that it did not favor the batter, because competent judges everywhere admit that it did, and it was in fact designed for that purpose.

Star at Bunting.

However, it did not account for Cobb's remarkable average, nor do I believe it aided him materially in gaining that average. Cobb has always been a star at the bunting game. He has beat out many a bunt every season by his sheer speed, and in fact depends upon his skill in this direction for much of his effectiveness as a batsman. The new ball prevented him from shining in this department of the game, so that he bunted safely only two or three times during the entire season. He was compelled to resort to straight batting and depend on nothing but driving the ball beyond the reach of the fielders. The hits, which made up that remarkable average of .420, were safe hits, in every sense of the word, so it will readily appear that the new ball, while it favored Cobb in some ways, handicapped him in others, and was far from being so conspicuous a factor in his wonderful record as has been commonly believed.

Cobb's marvelous showing as a batter is alone enough to insure his reputation for all time. Add to this, however, his uncanny ability as a base runner—an ability in which he stands unequalled, his record-breaking feats as a run getter, his all-around brilliancy as a fielder, his quickness, dash and execution of daring feats almost instantaneously, and they place him a little above and beyond the rank of any other player in the game today.

Cobb is stil a young man. He has but reached the age when the average big league player is beginning to get a reputation. In the nature of things he should have several years of his best work still before him. What he will do in the future no one knows, but he should certainly not go back for several years to come. It seems hardly possible that he can better his last year's record, but for that matter it seemed hardly possible that he could better the record of the year before. Cobb's career has been a constant succession of shattered records and seemingly impossibe achievements.

Greatest Player.

But whether he improves or not in the next few seasons which are left him for active play, his career up to date clearly entitles him to the honor of being considered the greatest player in the world of baseball. I believe no fair-minded critic will deny this statement. The Chalmer commission, composed of leading critics of the game, gave Cobb their unanimous vote—an honor which could not have been granted to any other individual now on the diamond. Every section has its own particular star; every city its special favorite, but all sections and all cities, whether or not they agree on any other single topic in baseball, all agree in giving Cobb credit for standing without a peer. He is the universal comparison of the highest ability. It is the greatest praise which can be given a coming star to say that he is a second Ty Cobb. Cobb is the model, the perfect stamp of the truly great ball player.

In making the statement that he is the greatest player who ever lived, one is sure to come in contact with the patriotism of the old-timers—those fervent fans who remember baseball in its early days, and still cling to the memories of Delahanty, Radbourne, Pop Anson, and the rest. These fans will be slow to admit that Cobb, although he may be peerless today, would overshadow the stars of those past decades. I have too much respect for these old-time players, and too much respect for the opinions of those who still revere their memory to argue the question. But when all allowance has been made for the changes in the national game, and the different style of play, I am confident that Cobb would be almost universally considered unrivalled in past or present.

I know it may seem like exaggerated praise from a player of another club and league, I believe that the vast majority of players, critics and fans will agree that Cobb is the wizard of the diamond, whose like the game has never seen. But whether they do agree or not, my own opinion is fixed And that opinion, briefly stated, is that Ty Cobb of the Detroit Tigers is the greatest player baseball has ever known.

CRACK TEAMS WILL CLASH

Tonight the crack boat club basket ball team will go against the "Ineligibles" of the university at the big association gymnasium. The Duluth team is one of the best basket ball aggregations that has ever represented Duluth, and one of the best contests that has ever been played at the Head of the Lakes should result from the meeting with the Minnesota quint.

After the contest of this evening the boat club team will disband. During the present season the boat club boys have been defeated but twice, later winning from both the teams that administered the setback.

The Minnesota boys will arrive this evening and are in the best condition for the contest. Rosenwald, the star football player, is the star attraction of the visitors. It is expected that there will be a record-breaking crowd on hand to witness the game.

PROCTOR WINS TWO GAMES FROM LOCALS.

The Proctor basket ball regulars won last night from the Triple V team of this city by the score of 64 to 12, and the second team of Proctor won from the Cathedral high school team by the score of 22 to 14. The Proctor teams showed speed and team work.

The lineup:

STRATEGY PLAYS LARGE PART IN WINNING BASEBALL PENNANTS

(By Billy Evans.)

Strategy plays a prominent part in war. Strategy also holds down a leading role in the battles of the diamond. The successful general has to do a lot of maneuvering to bring about his end. The successful baseball manager has to do a lot of thinking and shifting to accomplish his purpose on the diamond. No war hero could hope to conquer with a bunch of quitters and boneheads to carry out his orders. No baseball leader,however wise he may be, can win pennants with a mediocre lot of ball players. The strategy of the leaders in baseball plays a big part, but it is impossible to make strategists out of men who cannot think quickly.

The managerial role looks rather soft from a seat in the grandstand. During the game you can scan the bench, and it looks to you as if all the manager had to do was to enjoy the game. The part, however, has none of the easy features as seen by the fan. To manage a ball team in these modern days, amateur, minor or big league, is far from being a snap. There are a thousand and one little things that must be done that the average fan never connects with the manager's duties. There is no rest for him. Just as soon as one engagement is decided he starts planning for the following battle. The manager gets credit for some things, but blamed for everything, says Billy Evans.

It is indeed a fine art to know when a pitcher has about gone his limit. A change that results in a victory causes the manager to draw much praise for his wisdom. A shift that results disastrously brings down much abuse on the head of the leader, even though the move was as proper as the one that caused him to be regarded as a brainy leader. It is also a nice thing to know just the opportune moment to send in your star pinch hitter. If he delivers you are all right, but if he fails, and the man who takes the place of the player deposed gets his bumps, then you are assailed for your lack of judgment.

Picking the spots for his pitching staff is one department in which a manager can display much strategy. Often you see a pitcher work a two or three-hit game and lose, 1 to 0. Perhaps the following day the team that lost will pile up seven runs, but lose, 9 to 7, because of poor pitching. You think to yourself, how easy it would have been to have won had the pitcher who allowed only three hits the previous day had been working. The generals of the diamond all have different systems of endeavoring to get the best results out of their pitching staffs. None, I believe has a more unique or better system than Connie Mack, the foxy leader of the Athletics.

Not In Turn.

There are many managers who believe the only proper way to get the best results out of the twirlers is to work them in turn. Connie Mack can't see such a system with a Lick telescope. He believes in working the men where he believes they have the best chance to win, regardless of their turn. Consequently Mack is the hardest man in the world to dope out when you try to figure on his pitching selection. Time after time he shifts at the very last minute to some twirler whom he had not even considered when the teams went on the field to practice. Mack keeps close tabs on the success pitchers have against certain clubs. He always knows the record of this or that pitcher against a certain club for a couple of years back, as well as his record for the present season. I once heard a pitcher walk up to the bench and cry to Mack: "I feel fine today, Connie, and would like to work. I believe I can beat these fellows." To which Mack replied: "I've been thinking that way for the last two years, but you have yet to show me you have anything on this club. I guess I'll let Chief work today; he always seems to be able to beat these fellows." That settled it.

When Philadelphia starts a western trip at Cleveland Cy Morgan is almost certain to open the engagement. He will also appear against the Naps on the last day of the series, whether it be a three or four-day engagement. During the Detroit stay, which is usually the next jump, Morgan is sent to the barn for a rest. Krause, Plank and Coombs generally do the honors at Detroit, with Bender doing the heaving every now and then. Although one of the greatest twirlers the game has ever known, Chief has always been rather unlucky against the Tigers, and Mack never tempts fate. In St. Louis Plank, Morgan and Bender do most of the heaving. Coombs finds St. Louis a tough club to beat, and does not work there as a rule, unless Comiskey is shy on twirlers. In Chicago Coombs, Bender and Plank, as a rule, shoulder the burden, with one of the trio appearing twice. Mack never for a minute thinks of the pitchers' turn. He sends them to the rubber when he believes they will show to best advantage. Often a pitcher will work twice in three days and then have a week pass before he is again asked to perform.

Pulls Off Clever Trick.

Strategic moves at crucial moments often save games that otherwise would go into the discard. Oftimes the fans has no idea of the little by-play that has happened on the diamond. I saw Jack Barry turn a little trick that went unnoticed last year, which saved a game for the Athletics. It was the first of the ninth, the score 2 to 1 in favor of the Athletics and one down. The second batter up for the opposition reached first on a single. He was a very fast man, and made up his mind to steal second if possible. The throw to Barry was a bad one and reached Barry just as the runner slid into him with terrific force. He really never got a good hold on the ball, and it sped unmolested to center field. In an instant Barry perceived the runner would surely make third on the play, and quick as a flash he said to me: "I would have had him. Bill, had I held the ball." The base runner thought, of course, the ball was at his feet. By the time the coachers made him realize the ball had got past Barry it was too late to try for third. The next batter followed with a long fly, on which he could have easily scored from third had not Barry by a few words to the umpire made him believe he would have retired the runner had he not dropped the ball. The next batter flied out and the game was over. Base runners are often doubled up because some fielder coached them into thinking two were down instead of one, and telling him to keep on running.

There With Game Saver.

The hidden ball trick is a mighty old one, but I saw Shortstop Olson of Cleveland pull it off in the most approved style in a game at Chicago last year. It came just when Gregg was wavering and saved the day for the Naps. With no one out and men on second and third and two runs needed to tie, Manager Duffy sunbstituted a youngster by the name of Chouinard to run for one of the veterans. Instantly Olson must have decided to try and get the kid on the hidden ball stunt. Gregg was wild and on the first ball pitched failed to get it near the plate. Olson walked up and must have unfolded the secret to Gregg. He returned to his position. Gregg fussed about for a bit, got on the rubber and pitched. It was another ball. Olson again walked in apparently to try and steady Gregg. Umpire Mullen was working the plate with me that day. He reprimanded Olson for delaying the game. Olson went back to his position. Gregg walked around the box, got on the rubber and delivered the ball. It was called ball number three by the umpire. Things certainly looked mighty bright for the White Sox. Olson rushed up to Gregg, but stayed only a moment, as Umpire Mullen, peeved at the way Olson was delaying the contest, started to admonish him. In the meantime, Gregg had slipped the ball to Olson, who concealed it under his arm while Gregg was walking around the box as usual. Chouinard took a big lead, only to be pounced upon by Olson when the latter got close enough. The trick of 1776 vintage had again been worked, but in a rather clever fashion. This seemed to steady Gregg, he got the next two over and made the batter pop up. Chicago scored a run, but did no further damage, and the Naps got away with the victory. Olson's bit of headwork had saved the day.

No One Warmed Up.

During a game last year one of the Washington pitchers, while going at top speed, suffered an injury in retiring the third man in an inning. No one was warmed up, of course. The first two Washington batters were retired on four balls. It was certain the cold pitchers would never be able to get away, unless he had more time to warm up. Washington had only a slight lead, and a delay meant much. The task was put up to Kid Elberfeld, the next hitter. He fouled off something like fifteen balls before drawing a pass. In the meantime, the relief pitcher was getting properly warmed up, so as to be able to take command of the situation when he entered the box. He was fit and held the opposition safely through the remainder of the game. The strategy of Elberfeld in fouling off those balls had really saved the day, although few gave the kid credit for the performance.

Baseball is full of opportunities for the quick-thinking chap. Many a game has been saved and won by some little strategic move that to the unitiated goes by unnoticed. It is not strange that ball players who can use brains are in such great demand.

FAMOUS SHIFTS THAT HAVE WON PENNANTS

Philadelphia, March 16. — "Let well enough alone" is an axiom that the successful big league managers must sometimes avoid. The secret of many pennant successes has been the direct result of a shrewd shift in the team's lineup without the club having to get any players from the outside.

It requires much thought and patience to know exactly what position a player fills best. One ball tosser may be mediocre in one position and a star in another. That is the reason the manager must keep alert and try to discover if by moving Jones to the outfield and sending Smith, a man on the bench, into the infield, he might buttress the team.

Some years ago Manager Frank Selee was dissatisfied with his club. It needed more life and youth. On first base he had Tom Tucker, once a great player, who was aging. Selee was soon convinced that first base had to be strengthened or Boston wouldn't figure in the race.

No Room for Stahl.

It was a perplexing problem, for Selee had no utility first baseman and didn't know where to get one. It happened that he had discovered a promising young outfielder by the name of Stahl. Stahl showed enough stuff to warrant his getting a trial, but the Boston outfield was in good hands and there was no room for Stahl.

Finally Selee had the rebus solved. He shifted Fred Tenney from right field to first base and put Stahl in Tenney's place. The fans and critics ridiculed Selee for making such a change, but in a few weeks they saw the wisdom of the move.

It was not long before Tenney was proclaimed the greatest first baseman in the history of baseball and Stahl the find of the year. This was in the season of 1897, and as a result of the shift, Boston started a pennant winning streak, which lasted two years.

Clarke's Lucky Shifts.

Probably the next greatest shift made by a big league manager took place in 1901, when Fred Clarke took Hans Wagner away from first base and sent him to short in place of Bones Ely. Then he dug up Kitty Bransfield and placed him on first.

This move was also attacked by the fans, who could not believe that such an awkward player like Wagner could fill a position requiring as much speed and alertness as shortstop.

It was a master move on the part of Clarke, who soon had the best shortstop in the National league, and today Hans is playing high-class ball. Moreover, it gave the team a good first baseman and helped the team on its pennant-winning career, which lasted from 1901 to 1903.

Later on, Clarke made another good move when he took Tommy Leach off third base and sent him to center field. Tommy is now on the decline, but for a number of years he covered more ground than any other center fielder in the country, barring possibly Fielder Jones.

Napoleon Lajoie was also involved in a change of base that strengthened his steam immensely although it didn't start any pennant triumphs.

Larry Best at Second.

When Lajoie first came to Philadelphia he was tried out in right field and first base before George Stallings discovered that he was one of the master second basemen of the game. Lajoie certainly was of more value to the Phils at second that at first or right field.

About the same time that Lajoie was shifted, Pat Tebeau, manager of Cleveland, then in the National league, blue-penciled his lineup, with astonishing results. One spring Chippy McGarr, his third baseman, reported with a lame wing.

Because there was no one else available, Tebeau ordered Rhody Wallace, one of his kid pitchers, to cover the position during Chippy's absence. Wallace, then virtually unknown, astonished the baseball world by giving a wonderful exhibition at the bag and playing it much better than McGarr did in his best days.

McGarr never played third for Cleveland after that and Tebeau had one of the best infielders in the country. Had it not been for McGarr's sore arm and Tebeau's astuteness in picking him from others for the place, Wallace might not have made good in baseball.

Subsequently, Wallace futher demonstrated his versatility by moving from third to short. He covered that position for St. Louis for a number of years and no other shortstop in the American league showed any superiority. He has lost much of his old-time speed, but is a competent performer today.

Locating Collins.

Next to the Tenney and Wagner shifts, the change from which the most benefit was derived was engineered by Connie Mack. It started him on the road to his two world's championships. In 1909 Connie looked around to find a place of abode for Eddie Collins. Eddie played short and right field previously, but didn't exactly fit in either place.

Mack put a great deal of thought on the matter and finally decided on the master stroke of putting Collins at second and shifting Murphy to right field, which had not been competently guarded since Seybold became passe. The transfer strengthened both positions and put the Athletics in the championship class.

Oldring's Shift Benefited.

This hasn't been the only shrewd move made by Mack. He found that Oldring would never do as an infielder, but owing to his heavy batting and dashing base running he had to find a place for Oldring. So he made a few mysterious passes over Rube's head and said: "Hereafter you are an outfielder." In the monarch's center field Rube has been schooled into a winner and is now one of the bulwarks of the team.

Last season the resourceful Mack made another coup when he stunned the fans by putting McInnis on first base. The fans realized that Davis would have to go, but the last person that anybody suspected would land the post was young McInnis, who looked good at short or third. But Mack saw possibilities in McInnis that others were blind to, and McInnis last season was rated as the only rival of Hal Chase

It is predicted that Mack will continue to make changes of this sort. Unless there are accidents there is no chance of Mack breaking up his infield for a number of years. On the sidelines Mack has a promising infielder in Claude Derrick. Barred from the infield, some of these days Derrick may find himself in the outfield if he happens to impress Mack that he would be equal to the change.

NEWS FROM THE TRAINING CAMPS

Davis a Cheerful Cuss.

Mobile, Ala., March 16.—Rain that for days kept the Naps indoors, has not disheartened Manager Harry Davis. "We will be in form if there is good weather from now on and we will not be far off the edge, even if it rains some more," said the Nap leader today. The first team will play here Saturday and Sunday, the second nine being in Montgomery. They will reunite Monday in New Orleans.

Two Reds Laid Up.

Columbus, Ga., March 16.—Two more were added to the Reds' hospital list when Dick Egan, suffering from a cold and Larry McLean, with indigestion, failed to report for practice today. Trainer Hoskins says Dick needed a rest. He expects Bob Bescher to be ready to resume training Monday.

Chance Had Wild Dream.

New Orleans, La., March 16.—Manager Frank Chance gave a whoop of joy and rushed across Pelican park until he halted in front of a tall, lanky player and inquired his name.

It happened to be Vean Gregg of Cleveland fame, and on being so informed, Chance left the park without as much as a good-bye to his players. Thursday night he said he thought Gregg was one of his staff of seveteen pitchers whom he has not had the habit of looking over. Gregg is waiting here for the Naps, and was limbering up on Chance's field.

Rain Delays Cardinals.

Jackson, Miss., March 16. — The ball park here is entirely out of commission today as a result of one of the heavist rains of the season. Manager Bresnahan has almost given up hopes of getting the Cardinals in good shape in time to return to St. Louis by March 23, when the spring series with the Browns is scheduled to start, and it is likely this series may be postponed a week.

Browns Forced to Rest.

Montgomery, Ala., March 16. — A steady downpour of rain has stopped all practice by the St. Louis Browns here and the team today spent the time nursing sore arms. Manager Wallace still hopes to be able to play the Birmingham team Saturday and Sunday. Unless reports are received that the ball park there has also been flooded the Brown squad will start for Birmingham tomorrow morning.

Hard Luck for Cub Rookies.

New Orleans, La., March 16. — With another day of enforced idleness on account of weather, the chances of many of the "rookies" on the Cub staff to develop into phenoms during the training season are fast going aglimmering. Saturday beings the active season for the veterans according to Manager Chance. From that time on the big chief will work with the regulars to get them in trim for the active campaign and the youngsters will have to take chances of showing something unusual whenever they are called upon or go back to the minors.

Peters Hit Freely.

Fort Worth, Tex., March 16. — The first division of the Chicago American league team won from the Fort Worth Texas league team, 12 to 5, yesterday. Walsh pitched for the major league club for five innings and allowed only two hits while Peters, who succeeded him, was hit freely. Fournier and Kuhn of Chicago hit for home runs, the former with the bases full.

Phillies Win.

San Antonio, Tex., March 16. — The Philadelphia Americans and the local team of the Texas league broke even on hits yesterday afternoon, but the major leaguers made theirs count for five runs to the locals' three. Eleven hits were credited to each team.

Dallas Defeats Sox.

Dallas, Tex., March 16. — The Dallas team of the Texas league won from team No. 2 of the Chicago Americans yesterday, 2 to 0.

Temple Gets Decision.

San Francisco, Cal., March 16.—Ray Temple of Milwaukee was given the decision over Tommy Dillon of Indianapolis after a fast four-round bout here last night.

Basket Ball.

Urbana, Ill., March 16.—The University of Wisconsin basket ball team won from the University of Illinois last night, 23 to 15.

AUTOMOBILES

IS TOO DEEP FOR TOURING

Heavy Snow on County Roads Keeps Autos in the City.

Last Year at This Time Minneapolis Tourists Had Motored Here.

The snow is still so deep on the country roads surrounding Duluth that those who own automobiles are contenting themselves with driving on the streets of the city.

In other years there has been considerable winter touring but the snow this year has prevented much of it being done.

At this time last year several parties from Minneapolis had made their first trip to Duluth and at least one man from Duluth had splashed his way through the mud to the Twin Cities.

It has been the custom of one Duluth man to send his car to Minneapolis every year for overhauling. The car was driven down and back during the winter months. The roads were impassable this year and the trip was not undertaken.

With the coming out of the warm spring sun and the melting of snow, scores of automobiles have been taken out of winter quarters during the week and again placed in use. With the exception of the limousines, most Duluth cars are laid up for the winter.

Some of the cars ordered for spring delivery are making their appearance on the streets. With their straight lines and shining bodies they are more simple in design and more pleasing to the eye than ever before.

The local garages are busy overhauling cars and from the interest in new cars and the gossip in automobile circles, there will be as much interest in motoring this year as there was last and last year was considered the heaviest year in history.

DEVELOPMENT OF COUNTY ROADS

County in Position to Make Great Strides in Highway Construction.

(By E. J. Filiatrault.)

The development of the agricultural resources of St. Louis county and a more systematic application of business methods to the construction of farm roads and highways, as covered by recommendations adopted at the enthusiastic taxpayers' meeting held in the assembly hall of the Commercial club on Jan. 25, will mean a great real towards causing a reduction in the cost of living in Duluth and every village and hamlet in St. Louis county and Northern Minnesota.

The county commissioners at their meeting on March 6 adopted a resolution which in the writer's opinion is a very good one. County Engineer Coe was retained for an additional year. This will mean a great deal to St. Louis county development in the future as Mr. Coe is considered a road expert.

The employment of competent superintending road overseers in each district is another question of vital importance, and should also mean a great deal in more efficient work being done. The employment of such superintending supervisors of work will also eliminate any possibility of criticism to the commissioners at the wind-up of each year's work.

The question of section men is also of vital importance in the maintenance of the main highways. This was clearly proven during the past season by the three section men employed on the North Shore, Howard Gnesen and Swan Lake roads. A close study of the economic situation in our county proves without a question of doubt that the various commissioners are only too anxious to co-operate to the fullest extent in any suggestions which may be offered to lessen their cares and worries, and to increase the efficiency of the operating forces in the various districts. The commissioners should be commended and supported to the fullest extent by each and every taxpayer who has the development of our resources at heart.

An expression from a representative body of taxpayers in our county from time to time as offered at the meeting of Jan. 25 at the Commercial club relative to the improvement of roads, and the advancements of the methods to be employed from year to year owing to the great developments being made and to meet the changed and changing conditions undoubtedly will result in a great deal of good.

It is furthermore to be hoped that the county commissioners are studying carefully and working out for the future development of St. Louis county a systematic system of highways which will do the greatest amount of good for the future development of St. Louis county as well as the present.

MUCH HOTEL ROOM NEEDED

About 100,000 People Will Visit Indiana Metropolis Next Decoration Day.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 16.—Thirty-four square miles of floor space in one hotel is what visitors to the second annual 500-mile International Sweepstakes race will find when they come to the Indianapolis Memorial day, May 30. The entire city is being formed into a monster hostelry to care for the 100,000 visitors expected here to witness the world's greatest motor contest, and thousands of the best private homes of the Hoosier capital are being merged into lodging houses for the motorists who will come from other parts of the country.

The speedway has organized a department known as the room bureau which is listing the rooms and arranging them in the same manner as a hotel keeps records of its accommodations and guests. Thousands of rooms have already been obtained for the nights of May 29 and May 30, and reservations are being made by spectators who will come from every state.

Indianapolis hotel keepers in a recent meeting arranged to co-operate with the speedway management and to provide every person with accommodations, whether in their hotels or in private homes. Every hotel office will be a branch of the speedway bureau and will have rooms assigned to it from the main office at speedway headquarters. It is estimated that the full 100,000 visitors can be accommodated easily in this manner.

Luverne Cars Popular.

Reports from the Twin City automobile shows indicate that the Luverne cars made a great hit. There is an originality in the design which appeals to the critical buyer, Luverne cars are rapidly achieving a wonderful reputation, both for stand-up qualities and classy design.

"PUGS" ENTER RACING GAME

Ray Bronson and Ad Wolgast Will Pilot Autos at Indianapolis.

Both Men Are Expert Drivers and Are Suffering Speed Mania.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 16.—Apparently the other man's game looks easier than their own to two of the most famous pugilists in the United States, for Ray Bronson, claimant of the welterweight championship, and Ad Wolgast, the world's champion lightweight, have come out simultaneously with the announcement that they are intending to enter the automobile racing game as professionals. Both are expert drivers at the present time, as both have machines of their own and have been infected with the speed mania for two or three years. Although the two boxers belong in entirely different divisions in the pugilistic game, they are planning to participate in a sport in which weight requirements, as far as men are concerned, do not count.

Wolgast will be seen at the wheel of one of the Case racing cars at Santa Monica early in May, and later will appear as relief driver to Harvey Herrick and Louis Disbrow, the two star pilots who are to drive in the second annual 500-mile international sweepstakes race to be held at the Indianapolis motor speedway next Memorial day.

Bronson has made tentative arrangements with Bob Burman, the world's speed king, to act as relief driver on the Cutting car which Burman will pilot through the long Indianapolis race. Bronson and Burman are great friends and during recent speed trials which the famous driver made at the speedway, Bronson acted as his mechanician and later took the wheel. His driving against time was almost equal to that of Burman who complimented him highly and offered him a place as relief driver in the race. Burman contemplates driving all but about fifty miles of the race and he is firm in the belief that the short relief period will entirely cure Bronson of his desire to participate in further speed events, although he seems fearless in the prize ring.

The greatest list of early entries which ever has been made for any contest is to be found in the speedway record of cars entered. The entries to date include two Stutz cars to be driven by Gil Anderson and Len Zengle, with Billy Knipper as relief driver; two National cars which will be driven by Howard Wilcox, Charley Merz and Don Herr; two Case cars with Louis Disbrow and Harvey Herrick as drivers, with Ad Wolgast as relief driver; two Mercedes cars with Ralph De Palma and Spencer Wishart up; a Lexington to be driven by Harry Knight; a Fiat with Teddy Tetzlaff nominated as driver and a Simplex to be driven by Bert Dingley. The others which are attracting attention now are Ralph Mulford in a Knox six, and a Cutting with Bob Burman to drive and Bronson as relief driver.

PRESERVING THE LIFE OF A CAR

An Automobile With Good Care Will Last Many Seasons.

The bugbear of depreciation looms large before wouldbe motor car owners. The idea seems to be that one should have a new car every year, or every other year at most, if any degree of pleasure is to be derived. That a car, like a servant, can be coaxed into giving faithful service for many seasons seems almost incredible even to the man who has had some experience with cars. Nevertheless, as all old hands at the business know, and as owners are gradually discovering, the life and general disposition of the motor car depend almost entirely upon its treatment.

It is quite as possible for a reckless driver to ruin the best car on the market in less than one season's run as it is for an intelligent, conscientious driver to handle a car for several seasons without serious mishap. That many of the taxis and the motor delivery wagons and the self-propelled motor trucks which meet approving attention almost every day on the busy city streets, are anywhere from three to ten years old, is perhaps the best proof of the verity of the above statement. It will be a surprising revelation to many to learn that these substantial looking vehicles, which are put to the severest service test every day, are no more nor less than former pleasure vehicles reconstructed and rejuvenated.

If dealers can prolong the life of a car to almost any reasonable age, the same results can be achieved by private owner if he will take the trouble to fathom the hundred and one secrets known generally only to dealers, second-hand men and the machinist in shops where the work of rejuvenating cars is done. An interesting bit of inforamtion for the prospective owner to have tucked up his sleeve is that a motor car which has been intelligently driven and cared for will render better service the second season of its career than the first. The reason is simple—the various parts of the running gear have smoothed out all their wrinkles and become synchronized, weaknesses will have made themselves known and been corrected or adjusted. If care has been taken that the engine has not been overheated, if the mechanism throughout has been kept perfectly clean and the driver generous with lubricating oil, there are few parts of the engine which will show appreciable wear the first eason. An ordinary overhauling will serve to put the motor into perfect trim for its second year.

SMALL TRUCKS ARE POPULAR

Decrease in Price Has Encouraged Smaller Dealers to Use Them.

Not so very long ago the big merchants were the only purchasers of small delivery wagons. Today even the smallest retailer is adopting motor delivery. One reason for this is the gradual reduction in price of an efficient motor wagon. As a matter of fact, a motor delivery wagon costs less than two horses with wagon equipment, and does about double the work in about half the time. Furthermore, the small wagon costs very little for maintenance and scarcely anything for tires, and there is less depreciation than is the case of a sound draft horse.

Butchers, grocers, laundrymen, florists and even undertakers are buying these wagons in and around New York. They enable the small merchant to give his customers rapid delivery service, besides adding prestige to his business. They are extremely simple in design, and for that reason do not need an expert to handle them. There have been cases where a totally inexperienced boy or man has learned to operate a motor vehicle in half an hour.

CALL MEETING EARLY IN APRIL

Good Roads Men Will Confer on National and Post Roads.

National participation in highways construction will have a hearing in Washington, D. C., early in April, when the good roads advocates will appear before the house rules committee, which is the repository of the resolution just introduced by Congressman Underwood calling for the appointment of a joint committee of house and senate to consider the building of national highways and post roads.

President Robert P. Hooper of the American Automobile association has had letters sent to all those bodies which co-operated in the recent federal aid convention in Washington, asking that they at once appoint sub-committees of three to serve on the general committee decided upon at that gathering for the purpose of securing country-wide good roads action. President Hooper, Chairman Diehl of the good roads board and Chairman Batchelder of the executive committee made several visits to the capital before advising the less complicated plan of action.

It is expected that the Underwood resolution will be adopted at the present session, since legislation emanating from the rules committee has precedence on the calendar.

Belief that the recent substantial accumulation of good roads sentiment is now so country-wide in its extent that congress is ready to give the subject serious thought, influenced by the A. A. A. action, which substituted the joint committee of house and senate resolution instead of furthering the proposed bill calling for the creation of a national highways commission.

FOREIGN CARS BECOMING RARE

But Few Automobiles Are Now Imported From the Other Side.

History repeats itself in these days of motoring, as in the days of cycling. Foreign automobiles are becoming as rare as did foreign bicycles become rare in the days of '93. Up to that year the bicycle built in Europe was supposed to be the superior of the American bicycle and found a ready sale.

Foreign bicycle riders for years proved the record-breakers and foreign riders coming to America took our riders into camp and annexed the American records, also. American riders developed and finally made a clean sweep, and the sale for European machines ceased suddenly, while American machines became a staple export to Europe.

In motoring it has been the same. Very few foreign made cars are now sold, while America is exporting to Europe practically more cars in number, although less in value, than were ever brought to this country from Europe.

American drivers of fast racing cars were for years unequal to the task of defeating the best that Europe offered, but today American drivers are as good or superior to the best that Europe offers. In fact, American stock models make records superior to those that are made by European makers with special racing juggernauts that cost small fortunes to construct and fortunes to maintain.

Loyalty to American manufacturing interests has become an issue and the scores of young millionaires who purchased foreign made automobiles and exploited them in America at enormous expense to themselves, now use American cars. And by the same token the men of wealth who made great ado about touring Europe every year, now study their own country from a motor car and find quite as much pleasure knocking about the American roads as they found in olden days sailing along over the ideal European highways. "See America first" is the slogan among motorists now.

Twenty years ago cycle riders of prominence abroad came to America to exploit foreign bicycles and remained to bring honors to American machines and become useful citizens, and in this case also history is repeating itself.

SEEM TO LIKE OWN CARS BEST

Foreigners Show Prejudice Against American-Made Automobiles.

The secretary of a large automobile company who has just returned to this country after a trip to Europe in the study of the foreign market for American automobiles, says the United States will be forced to fight the natural foreign prejudice against everything not made in the foreigner's own country in introducing American-made cars into European markets.

"Both on the continent and in England the people prefer cars of their own make and unless they can be shown that other cars are better," says the secretary. "The only way our manufacturers will gain a hold on the European market is to demonstrate to the buyer that ours are actually better cars.

"The automobiles that are meeting with the greatest success in Europe are low-powered and low-priced roadsters and touring cars. As I see the situation, the reasons for this are three:

"First, the excellent roads in England and on the continent make it possible to tour with a lower-powered car and the average owner is willing to shift into low gear for any slight elevation he may encounter, even though he be obliged, at times, to drive a long distance on some one of the intermediate gears.

"Second, the high cost of gasoline, for it seldom falls below 40 cents per gallon in England, makes it less costly to operate a low-powered car.

"Third, automobiles are taxed according to their horse power, which makes it cheaper to own a low-powered car."

MOTORCYCLE NOTES

Although the Alameda, Cal., Motorcycle club has been in existence only two weeks it already has fifty members.

• • •

J. F. Blair, O. O. Spell and Will Plandel of Canon City, Colo., recently made a motorcycle trip to Pueblo and return.

Forty riders at Lancaster, N. H., are preparing to organize a motorcycle club and affiliate with the Federation of American Motorcyclists.

• • •

The competition committee of the Federation of American Motorcyclists has granted sanction for a series of mptorcycle races on the state fair grounds at Montgomery, Ala., in March.

A motorcycle, an automobile, an aeroplane and a railway train of five coaches will race from Houston, Tex., to Galveston on March 24, according to plans arranged by several Houston business men.

John Merz, an Indianapolis motorcyclist, is marking twenty-one roads leading into Indianapolis with mile road markers. He is traveling ten miles out on each road and the motorcycle is his chief assistant.

Motorcycle shows have recently been held in Pittsburg, Atlanta, Baltimore, Columbus, Toronto, Binghamton, N. Y., and Des Moines.

Henry Campbell, city purchasing agent of Milwaukee, is planning to furnish each fire engine house in that city with one or more motorcycles equipped with chemical apparatus to be used in extinguishing small fires.

The police commission of Montgomery, Ala., is making arrangements for the addition of two motorcycle officers to the force.

A series of motorcycle races will be held in Dubuque, Iowa, on Decoration day, May 30, according to the plans of the motorcycle club in that city.

Chief of Police Henry C. Baker of Racine, Wis., is recommending the addition of another motorcycle policeman to the force. The first police officer to ride the two-wheeler covered 5,000 miles and made sixty-seven arrests.

Columbus, Ohio, recently concluded its first motorcycle show and the coming Federation of American Motorcyclists' 2,000-mile tour and convention city were the topics most discussed. Columbus motorcyclists are strong contenders for the national meeting of the federation next July and the advantages of the city were enthusiastically presented.

• • •

State Federation of American Motorcyclists Commissioner F. R. Jenkins of Des Moines, Iowa, a "boosting" member of the motorcycle club in that city, is assissting in planning country runs and race meets during the coming spring and summer.

Plans are being made to start racing on the Newark, N. J., motordrome by April 1. Road Captain Stevens of the club is expected to make a complete report on the route for the Decoration endurance run soon.

Cleveland, Ohio, motorcyclclists are making arrangements to build a saucer track at Luna park and have accommodations for 10,000 spectators. The fans expect to see 120 miles an hour made on the track, which will be four laps to the mile.

Motorcycles are to form a prominent part of the tent show of the Indianapolis Automobile Trade association.

• • •

Twelve motorcycles have just been aded to the equipment of the department of public safety at Pittsburg, Pa.

• • •

M. Theodore Lillie, the Swedish aviator who is in Florida making flights in his aeroplane, recently turned motorcyclist and made some "fast" miles on the track in Moncrief park.

FREE SUGAR BILL PASSED BY HOUSE ON SCHEDULE

Twenty-Four Republicans Vote "Yes" and Seven Democrats Vote "No."

Senate Talks About Pension Legislation—Other Washington Doings.

Washington, March 16.—The Democratic free sugar bill passed the house late yesterday 198 to 103. Its passage was helped by twenty-four Republican votes, although this was partly offset by the defection of seven Democratic votes against the bill by members from Louisiana and Colorado.

At the last moment Representative Martin, one of the Colorado members, blocked an attempt to fix plans for consideration of the excise tax bill, which through taxation of incomes is expected to make up the revenue lost by the free sugar measure.

Leader Underwood was at no time embarrassed by the tactics of the opposition. The bill went through as originally framed. A score of amendments were voted down as fast as they were put up.

The debate was marked by occasional flashes of extreme bitterness on both sides. The members from sugar-producing states accused their colleagues of working ruin to the sugar industry, while Republican Progressives seized the opportunity to give their tariff views.

Voted With Democrats.

The Republicans who supported the bill were: Representatives Anderson, Davis, Lindbergh, Miller, Nye, Steenerson and Volstead of Minnesota; Good, Kendall and Woods of Iowa; Murdock and Young of Kansas; Hanna and Helgeson of North Dakota; La Follette and Warburton of Washington; McKenzie and Prince of Illinois; Cary of Wisconsin; Dyer of Missouri; Howland of Ohio; Kent of California; Lafferty of Oregon; Norris of Nebraska, and Sells of Tennessee.

The Louisiana and Colorado members, all Democrats, voted against the measure.

The sugar bill out of the way, the house next will take up the excise measure, which provides a tax of 1 per cent on incomes of incorporations, firms or individuals which reach or exceed $5,000 a year. This tax is intended to offset the loss of revenue now derived from sugar. An understanding on the procedure may be reached and the measure pushed to a vote by Monday night.

Senate Talks of Pensions.

Pension legislation was before the senate and brought forth various suggestions for government economy that ought to be effected to give the war veterans more liberal allowances.

Senator McCumber criticized the Sherwood dollar-a-day bill of the house, contending that it was based on erroneous reports and would add $86,500,000 to the pension expenditures, while the Smoot measure of the senate would add only $33,000,000 a year.

Senator Pomerene of Ohio attacked the Sherwood measure and argued that the Smoot bill would grant every dollar that the government could afford to pay.

Senator Kenyon of Iowa suggested that the money for pension increases might be raised through his bill to reduce the mileage allowances of senators and representatives and abolish the senate barber shop and baths.

Senator Brown of Nebraska recalled that there was a measure to abolish the senate itself as a step in economy. "If we continue to pile up expenditures," Senator Pomerene replied, "the time may come when the senate will be abolished."

Grain Shippers Heard.

Western grain shippers joined New York commission merchants in urging the senate interstate commerce committee to recommend legislation to make railroads liable for bills of lading, whether agents who issue the bills receive the goods or not. The shippers claimed, because railroads were not now responsible in such instances, bankers were hesitating to deal in the bills.

Chairman Clapp indorsed a proposal to require a clean bill for shippers instead of a load and a count bill, and said he would favor a bill to make the railroads liable in all instances. Prof. Willston of Harvard, representing the American Bankers' association, protested against it.

Limit Use of Canal.

An amendment to the Panama canal government bill, which would bar from the canal all railroad-owned ships engaged in coastwise trade, was agreed upon by the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce. The committee had previously announced amagreement on the bill which would prohibit only such railroad-owned vessels using the canal as could be proved to be operating in restraint of trade or stifling competition.

The amendment urged by Representative Covington of Maryland would prohibit the use of the canal to any railroad or other common carrier owning or controlling, directly or indirectly, a steamship line with which it does, or might compete.

Another section of the amendment would prevent the use of the canal by railroads which absorb water lines.

Protect Alaska Fisheries.

Senator Jones of Washington introduced a bill to amend the law for the protection and regulation of the fisheries of Alaska, and on the Pacific coast. The bill would increase the taxes on the salmon output and also provide a tax of $100 per trap. Fishing by Asiatics would be prohibited, except for domestic purposes, an inhibition designed to benefit the Alaskan Indians and American fishermen.

Taft Orders House-Cleaning.

Under an executive order issued by President Taft, the government buildings of the capital are to be swept, dusted, fumigated and otherwise made hygienic and sanitary once each month, and all malefactors of good health are to be banished. The president has no jurisdiction over the capitol, but except for that building and the war and navy building, the order applies to every structure used by the United States in Washington. The surgeon general of the public health service will be ordered to make monthly inspections and to suggest to the heads of departments measures that will increase the healthfulness of subordinates.

Delay Everglades Hearing.

The investigation of the Everglades controversy in the agricultural department has gone over for another week. The Moss commission heard the cross-examination of Former Chief Drainage Engineer C. G. Elliott and adjourned to meet Wednesday. A number of witnesses have been summoned and will be heard before the committee makes its report.

Asks About Harvester Trust.

A resolution calling upon Attorney General Wickersham to supply the senate with all the correspondence relating to the proposed reorganization of the International Harvester company was introduced by Senator Lea of Tennessee, but immediate consideration was blocked by objection by Senator Gallinger. An anti-trust suit against the company has been prepared and negotiations for a friendly settlement are now on.

Criticized Roosevelt.

James H. Boyd, chairman of the employers' liability commission of Ohio, before the house judiciary committee, criticized Theodore Roosevelt's position on the employers' liability act of New York.

"Mr. Roosevelt's position is wrong," he said. "His criticism of the state supreme court which declared the act unconstitutional is an injury to the workmen. The supreme court was right in turning down that act, because under it employes were no better off than without it. Now the road is clear for a sound workmen's insurance law."

Mr. Boyd declared the bill drawn by the federal employers' liability commission was only a step in the right direction.

New Compensation Bill.

Representative Sabath of Illinois introduced a workmen's compensation bill, the eighth measure of that kind he has proposed in congress. He attacked the bill recommended by the federal commission, which is now before the senate judiciary committee. The Sabath bill would apply to every common carrier, and take in employes of telegraph, telephone, express, sleeping car companies, steamship lines and others, whether engaged in interstate commerce or otherwise, and all civil employes of the United States government. The compensation would be from $5,000 to $7,500 in case of death, 50 per cent of monthly wages during life for disability.

Oppose Bristow Bill.

Opposition to the Bristow bill to prohibit railroads from having any interest in steamship companies, was shown to the senate interstate commerce commission by Representative Schwerin, vice president of the Pacific Mail Steamship company. He said it would be a blow to his company to require the Southern Pacific railroad to withdraw its support of the steamship company. "Get me the money to pay back the Southern Pacific what it paid for the steamship stock, and I'll close the deal in ten minutes," Mr. Schwerin said.

Like National Board of Trade.

Chambers of commerce throughout the country have responded enthusiastically to Secretary Nagel of the department of commerce and labor that they would accept President Taft's invitation for a conference of commercial bodies here on April 15 to form a national board of trade. Some of the more important organizations have written the president their ideas of what such an association should include.

Tea Board Report Ready.

The new tea board has reported to Secretary MacVeagh that it has estimated standard samples to govern the importation of tea. These are designed to keep out of the country all artificially colored or faced tea. Chairman Perry and George M. Mitchell of the tea board personally explained the board's conclusion to treasury officials.

Want Oleo Tax Unchanged.

President G. L. Flandrau of the National Dairy union; Oliver Wilson, master of the National Grange; George L. McKay, secretary of the American Creamery Butter Makers' association, and a delegation of farmers from Massachusetts, Vermont, Pennsylvania and Ohio appeared before the house committee on agriculture in opposition to the Lever oleomargarine bill. This bill would remove the 10-cent tax from oleomargarine and impose a tax of 1 cent a pound on both colored and uncolored oleomargarine.

DOCTORS LOST FIVE THOUSAND

This Sum Was Offered by Wealthy Man to Doctors Who Would Restore Health.

Many Incurable Diseases Are Considered Curable Now With the Aid of Electricity, Radium and X-Ray.

Dec. 19th, 1911, Mayor Gaynor of New York was charged $26,000 for doctors' services, the bill, however, was reduced to $19,000. The mayor had been shot and several physicians had taken care of him. Mr. A. D. Larson of Winnipeg had offered five thousand dollars to the doctors who could cure him of Locomotor Ataxia and Bright's Disease. There were not many among the medical profession who tried to earn this money, as they knew there was not a thing in their armamatum which would cure these troubles, and Mr. Larson had to face that awful calamity which ends all troubles.

Accidentally he got a hold of a Duluth newspaper and his attention was attracted to a news item of MR. WILMAR SWANSON'S case of Bright's disease, Mr. Swanson lives at 4424 Halifax street in Duluth and had been suffering from Bright's disease, stomach trouble and bladder disease. He had tried several doctors who were not successful in his case, se he went to the Electro Medical Doctors where he got cured since. Mr. Larson wrote the Doctors from Winnipeg about his condition, and they asked him to come to Duluth at once, as they could not tell anything and would give him no promise unless they have examined him.

Mr. Larson has been here now for several weeks and has steadily improved. He says: "My ankles have been swollen and at times dropsy had set in the legs, my eyes were terribly puffed and my stomach had given out completely. In two months I had lost more than twenty pounds. I felt myself go down rapidly and no one of the doctors at home could give me any hope, no matter how much I offered to pay. I am only 40 years old, and there was no one in Winnipeg who could save me, so I went to Duluth in my despair. I have gained twelve pounds since I started to treat with the Electro Medical Doctors. At first they were not sure if a cure would be possible in my case, but I know now that it is, for I feel so very much better in every way that I am confident the Doctors will be successful in my cure. I have met several patients since, whose names have been in the papers. It is simply wonderful how the many troubles get well under these treatments." Mr. Larson will soon be in a position to return to his home and tend to the necessary business.

He did not have to pay the doctors in Duluth $5,000, in fact, their fee has been so small that they nearly lost Mr. Larson's confidence. They believe in living advertisements of which Mr. Larson is surely one of the best. The Electro Medical Doctors are sure that they will make a great success in Duluth, and that their plan of the sanitarium will be realized. The office is now a permanent institution, and is located at 24 West Superior street, where they will stay till the new sanitarium will be opened.

AT THE LYCEUM

In the northern part of Norway there is a stretch of railroad of about twenty-four miles which in skill of engineering and cost of construction rivals almost anything in the world. It has 184 tunnels and crosses twenty-four bridges. Three of these are built of masonry, one having a span of 150 feet in length with eight 70-foot spans. The dynamite used in excavation runs up to 1,800,000 pounds. The line cost $15,600,000. It runs through a wilder stretch of country than any other European railroad, where the winter lasts nine months in the year and where the snowfall is exceedingly heavy and the rain storms terrific.

These tunnels and bridges are among the many subjects shown on Friday, March 22, and Sunday, March 24, at the Lyceum theater, with a matinee at 3 p. m. The films are of recent manufacture and show the development of this wonderful country fully up to date and will be explained by J. Jansen Furh, the noted Norwegian writer and journalist.

Although George M. Cohan has for years asked the public not to take his stage productions seriously, but only as a means of amusement, his writing of such a comedy masterpiece as "Get Rich Quick Wallingford" has changed the playgoers' view of this popular author-actor-producer. For though "Wallingford" is one continuous laugh, it also sounds a serious note and bears a message of inspiration. It preaches that a good woman is the most potent factor for good in the world, and that a clever man is a fool for departing from the path of righteousness. The comedy has created the biggest sensation ever recorded, and will be seen at the Lyceum soon.

Following the policy adopted several seasons ago by Manager Sidney R. Ellis, when the well known and well liked German comedian, Al H. Wilson, visits this city, he will be seen in a new song-adorned comedy, entitled, "It Happened in Potsdam," described by the author as a laugh-provoking concoction of wit and humor with the scenes laid in Potsdam, the former home of Frederick the Great and the present summer residence of Kaiser Wilhelm. Following his usual custom when presenting a new play, Mr. Wilson has provided an entire change of songs.

"The Newlyweds and Their Baby" is primarily a comedy with musical settings; as a straight comedy it would have proven an unequivocal success and the addition of good music serves only to enhance the charm of a delightfully amusing farce.

It comes here with a record of six months in New York and five months in Chicago.

Lulu Glaser plays the role of a Scotch lassie in "Miss Dudelsack," her new vehicle, in which she is starring. Miss Glaser undertook the Scotch dialect, which the part calls for, in a businesslike way, engaged a Scotch teacher and learned to sing and speak the Highland dialect as nearly perfectly as an American can master the difficult speech. In addition, Miss Glaser learned to play the bagpipe and performs on that instrument with considerable effect.

AT THE ORPHEUM

Four or five bills have been presented at the Duluth Orpheum this season which stood out as exceptional offerings. These four or five bills have been above the ordinary Orpheum standard. These bills have either been the result of the Goddess of Chance, who presides over the booking offices, or of the decision to occasionally present a bill of exceptional merit in the way of a special treat for the regular Orpheum patrons.

The last of these exceptional bills was the one headlined by McIntyre and Heath, and it was generally conceded to have been the best bill of the season. For next week, however, a vaudeville program is scheduled which promises to eclipse it. Manager Billings gave an exclamation of pleasure when he saw the list of acts, and a noise of something like despair when he saw the salary list. It is the biggest and most expensive show of the season to date, there being twenty-six performers on the bill, in addition to the many extra maids, property men, and stage carpenters carried by the various acts.

Heading the bill will be the act which has proved one of the sensations of the circuit this season, Aida Overton Walker and her company of ten colored performers. Mrs. Walker is the widow of George Walker, the famous colored comedian of the team of Williams and Walker. She is conceded to be one of the cleverest dancers and most versatile comediennes in vaudeville. She has a company of eight dusky chorus girls and a colored comedian, and the ten performers present a little musical comedy sketch, the scene of which is placed in Porto Rico. For her closing number the star o fthe little troupe gives an imitation of her late husband, George Walker. The act is said to be clean, clever and uptodate, and it is preceded by some of the most favorable criticisms of any act that has played the Duluth theater.

One of the standard troupes in vaudeville is known as The Five Sullys. This season they have a rapid fire offering called "The Information Bureau," which is a combination of singing, dancing, talking and gymnastics. It will be the act of second importance next week. The scene is laid in a railroad terminal. Three of the Sullys are men, and two are women. The theme of the act is the mishaps that confront two young men who made engagements with young women they had never met before. Each leaves it to the boy at the information bureau to help find his particular young woman. What follows might be called an acrobatic farce, and it is said to be one of the big comedy hits of the circuit.

Another big act that has been classed as a headliner several times this season, is that presented by the Four Holloways, which will also be seen next week. They are acrobats and trick cyclists, one of their stunts being to ride a triplet bicycle on a tight wire. The act is a foreign importation of Martin Beck's, and it created something of a sensation abroad. There is said to be a liberal smattering of comedy, and in addition to their work on the wire, and their gymnastics, they are expert skaters.

Rosa Roma, the violinist, has been a popular Orpheum circuit feature for several seasons. She did not visit the Duluth theater last season, owing to the fact that she was booked before the Duluth theater was opened, and for a limited engagement. She was re-engaged for this season, and will be seen for the first time in Duluth next week. She is said to be a most beautiful woman, and one of the best violinists in vaudeville.

Only six weeks ago two young women from Moline, Ind., broke into vaudeville in Chicago, and were hailed as the "find" of the season. They were known in their home city in Indiana as the "Farber Girls," and they kept that name for vaudeville purposes. Their names are Constance and Irene Farber, one 19 years of age and the other 20. They opened their vaudeville tour at the Majestic theater in Chicago, and were hailed there as one of the most popular acts that had ever played the theater. They repeated their success in Lincoln, and Minneapolis, and Manager Billings of the Duluth theater received personal letters from the managers of both the Lincoln and Minneapolis theaters, stating that the Farber Girls were two of the cleverest comediennes ever seen in those cities. Youth and good looks were their assets when they planned a vaudeville career, but with these they have become one of the most talked of acts of the season in six weeks. They are just starting their tour of the Orpheum circuit, and Duluth will be one of the first cities visited.

Duluth hasn't had a roller skating act this season, and the engagement of Charles Jetter and Milton Rogers will therefore be something of a novelty. These two men are said to be not only expert roller skaters, but clever comedians as well. They have some fancy dancing steps and other skating feats along comedy lines.

Lawrence and Edwards will present the seventh act on the bill. They have an offering called "The Alderman," a little comedy sketch, which has fared exceptionaly well around the circuit, and is looked upon as one of the neatest and most entertaining "team acts" on the "time."

The kinodrome and the overture by the concert orchestra will complete the bill, which will continue all week with a daily matinee.

Theodore Roberts will make his vaudeville debut in a one act play "The Sheriff of Shasta," opening on the Orpheum circuit, March 17. Mr. Roberts is considered one of the best character actors on the American stage—his numerous successes have obtained for him that greatly coveted goal of stardom.

The company fo Scottish Players who will be seen on the Orpheum circuit in Graham Moffat's farcial playlet "The Concealed Bed," includes Helen MacDonald, Janet Gardner, Bessie MacDonald, Andrew Clyde and Stuart Black. The entire company previous to the present engagements were members of the permanent company at the National theater, Glasgow.

Charley Case is again to acquaint the Orpheum circuit with the idiosyncrasies of his father, Case's stories of his parents courage and daring, have long constituted one of the most delightful monologues in vaudeville.

• • •

May Tulley's medium for her Orpheum circuit engagements is called "The Battle Cry of Freedom." It is a satire on Reno divorces, written by herself in collaboration with Bozeman Bulger.

CONSTANCE FARBER,
With the Farber Girls at the Orpheum Next Week.

AT THE EMPRESS

The bill of vaudeville which will come to the Empress for a week's engagement commencing Sunday is said to be one of the strongest and most evenly balanced of the Sullivan & Considine road shows, and it is expected to make a decidedly favorable impression with the patrons of the Empress during its coming engagement.

Headlining the bill will be the wonderful Alpha troupe. The word "novelty" means something when it is applied to the Alpha troupe, hoop jugglers and rollers. Their act is claimed by long odds to be the best of its line that has struck vaudeville in many months, and everywhere they have been one of the hits of the bill. As the curtain rises, scores of brilliantly colored hoops are shown on the stage and the troupe gets down to its juggling without delay, passing from one brilliant feat to another with spirited action and they keep things humming all of the time. The tricks follow one another so rapidly that it is hard to pick out the best one and it is the speed with which the performers work that places them above the plane of the average hoop juggling attractions. The Alpha troupe features Eugene Adams, who claims the title, "Champion Hoop Juggler of America," and those who have seen this young man in action state that he justly merits the above appellation. The Milwaukee Sentinel said of the Alpha troupe in part: "Hoop rolling and juggling has frequently been seen at the Empress, but it has remained for the Alpha troupe to demonstrate the best there is in that skill. Hoop rolling acts are not, strictly speaking, a novelty, but this act has novelties in hoop rolling that have never been presented in Milwaukee. The Alpha troupe has found the secret of success for attractions of this kind and work with a celerity and accuracy that makes their act mighty interesting. Eugene Adams, especially, deserves credit for his excellent work and he is about the nittiest juggler seen at the Empress since its opening."

A brilliant comedy feature of this bill will be Roach & Crawford, graduates of the musical comdy, who will present a singing and talking specialty which is said to be very diverting. These boys have created an enviable reputation for themselves in musical comedy and since their entrance into vaudeville they have been rapidly forging to the front. They write all of their material, and in consequence they do not hand out a lot of time-worn gags, but their stuff is thoroughly new and up to the minute. Both possess excellent voices, which they use to advantage in rendition of several up-to-date songs and parodies. The St. Paul Pioneer Press said of them: "Roach & Crawford, comedians at the Empress this week, are somewhat different from the general run of comedians. Their patter is new and is put across in a fetching way, and their singing only makes one wish that there was more of it. It is seldom that such a pair of excellent comedians creep on to a bill, and they had the audience with them from start to finish last evening."

One of the greatest successes ever scored by John E. Rice and Sally Cohen was in the merry one-act piece, "The Kleptomaniacs," in which Frank Atchinson Ely and Mabel Florence will appear at the Empress next week. It is said to be a comedy of unquestioned excellence and has stood the test of time in the best vaudeville houses of England and America. When Rice & Cohen, considered two of the foremost farceurs on the American stage, selected "The Kleptomaniacs" as the best medium in which to demonstrate their talents, it is a matter of theatrical record that their selection was indorsed by popular favor for several seasons. The playlet is claimed to be a comedy masterpiece, and this is proven by the fact that never was it a bigger hit than it has been this season in the hands of Ely and Florence. The pleasing features of the comedy are too numerous to enumerate. It reveals a story of misunderstandings and is absorbing from beginning to end. The situations are unusually amusing, clever and very laughable, and the dialogue is replete with bright wit. Ely & Florence, who will present "The Kleptomaniacs," are a pair of well known legitimate stars, and in their hands "The Kleptomaniacs" is assured of an excellent presentation.

Lovers of real dancing will take delight in Floyd Mack, king of acrobatic dancers. Mr. Mack is brimful of originality and he has created several different styles of acrobatic dancing, among them the barn dance clog, and several others which have proven to be equally as popular. Mr. Mack has created an enviable reputation for himself in vaudeville and his name on the program is a guarantee of fifteen minutes of real diverifying amusement. Mr. Mack is the only acrobatic dancer on the vaudeville stage doing a back somersault in full clog wooden shoes, in buck time and in one beat.

Massey & Bolton, a pair of clever musical comedians, will offer for laughing purposes only their comedy creation, "The Village Band." This offering is said to be really funny and is said to offer Massey & Bolton ample opportunity to display their talents both as musicians and comedians. They are both artists on the standard brass instruments and in addition have had several years' experience with the leading minstrel organizations of the country. This attraction is expected to be one of the laughing hits of the show.

The motion pictures for the week will be up to their usual high standard and will include at least one good educational subject. A matinee is given daily at 2:45 and evening performances at 8 and 9:30. Seats may be reserved one week in advance by either telephone. Special attention is paid to the comfort and entertainment of ladies and children at all times.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

Frank Keenan's daughter, Sara, will be a member of his company.

• • •

W. J. Ferguson, the veteran actor, who has been ill in Albany, has recovered.

The dramatization of "Little Women" is making a big hit in Chicago.

Lew Dockstader denies that he is going to leave minstrelsy to enter vaudeville.

Reginald De Koven and Daniel V. Arthur are considering a plan to revive "Robin Hood." The revival will probably be in a syndicate theater. The only obstacle in the path of the "Robin Hood" revival is the difficulty of obtaining a formidable cast. An effort is being made to engage Maggie Teyte, the grand opera artist, for one of the principal roles. Miss Teyte has sailed for Europe to fulfill engagements, but messages from her indicate that she might be prevailed upon to return, providing satisfactory dates could be arranged. Other artists of equal distinction are being considered.

Eugene Walters has written a play called "Fine Feathers."

• • •

Mrs. Fiske appeared in New York last week in "Lady Patricia," a comedy by Rudolf Besier.

Douglas Fairbanks is to be one of the principal actors in the "Officer 666" company which is to open in Chicago.

Channing Pollock and Charles Hanson Towne have written a playlet called "The Impulse of the Moment."

When Clifton Crawford, who is the star of "The Quaker Girl," first came to this country he was a golf instructor near New York city.

The case against the Irish Players in Philadelphia has been discontinued and the bail required when they left that city has been returned.

Marc Klaw of Klaw & Erlanger has a French farce called "The Little Cafe," which will be made into a musical play like "The Pink Lady."

• • •

Mme. Simone is receiving much praise in New York for her acting in Rostand's "Lady of Dreams," translated into English by Louis N. Parker.

Dorothy Donnelly appeared in Concord, N. H., last week in H. Kellett Chambers' new play, "The Right to Be Happy." Frank Mills is her leading man.

Alfred Sutro's new play, "The Fire Screen," now presented in London by Arthur Bourchier and Violet Vanbrugh, has been secured by Charles Frohman for production in this country.

Victor Herbert will compose the music for Mlle. Emma Trentini's new comic opera, which will have its premiere, under the direction of Arthur Hammerstein, in October at Syracuse, N. Y.

Helen Royton, a prima donna in comic opera, left New York for Germany last week to study for grand opera under King Clark in Berlin and Jean de Reszke in Paris.

Marie Cahill in "The Opera Ball" is to be put into moving picture films, but only for her own amusement and that of her friends, for the films will be her own property.

Vaudeville will have several of A. H. Wood's plays in condensed form in the near future. The first will be "The Gambler of the West," which will be seen in New York this week.

Gertrude Elliott appeared in Pinero's comedy, "Preserving Mr. Panmure," in Scranton, Pa., last week, with a company including Isabel Irving. The play goes into New York this week for a run.

John Drew's season will end late in May. He will then go abroad to visit the various European capitals and deliver addresses on "The Stage." In Paris he will address the Society of French Authors.

• • •

In the revival of "Forty-five Minutes From Broadway," George M. Cohan will play the part originally played by Victor Moore. The role of Mary, created by Fay Templeton, will be played by Sallie Fisher.

• • •

After a year's absence from the stage Mabel Tallaferro will return for a few weeks in vaudeville, appearing on the Orpheum circuit. She has secured a one-act play by Edward Peple called "Taken on Credit," and opens her engagement in Chicago tomorrow night.

The latest wordless play, following "Sumurun," is "The Apple of Paris."

THE ALPHA TROUPE OF HOOP ROLLERS,
At the Empress Next Week.

"AL" SMITH,
Appearing as "Big Bill" in "The Squaw Man" Company, a Duluth Production Now Successfully Touring the West.

AT THE AUDITORIUM

That roller skating is taking on a new lease of life and that the smart set are leaders in this healthful exercise will be seen from the report that the magnificent ballroom designed by the well known Stanford White, known as the Newport, R. I. Casino, is to be turned into a roller rink for Newport society. The society women have just discovered that roller skating is a beauty maker and will lose no time in gathering in all the extra beauty that can be derived from roller skating.

This is not the first instance of the change from these beautiful dance halls to roller rinks, as many others in different parts of the country are following in the footsteps of Newport.

Roller skating gives to every muscle of the body more or less activity. There is no extraordinary strain upon any one particular part to strengthen it, but to every portion, strengthening the whole body. The Auditorium, with its modern conveniences, affords a rink to all those who wish to take up this pastime. The rink being under the personal management of the owners, all persons are assured that courteous treatment will be the rule.

In addition to skating, they also show the very latest and most interesting photo plays and moving pictures every evening at 9:45, except Saturday and Monday nights, which are devoted to photo plays exclusively

"THE DEVIL TAKE THE HINDMOST"

Rev. M. S. Rice Gives Lecture at Asbury M. E. Church.

Rev. M. S. Rice, of the First Methodist church, gave a lecture last evening at the Asbury Methodist Episcopal church, Sixtieth avenue west and Raleigh street, on "The Devil Take the Hindmost." The address was the last in a series of entertainments and lectures which the church has conducted the last few months.

"The people must overcome the devil and kep him at the hindmost," he said, "for each man must have an ideal and an end for which he should constantly work. He must not digress from the chosen path. Everyone should dedicate his life to the salvation of the weak man, so that he may be aided and placed on the proper path and in stronger surroundings.

"Men are the only things of value on earth and the world's chief supply should therefore be good strong men. Value depends on the supply and demand, but if everything was gold and silver, they would have no value. So it is in life and with the world's crop of men. They must work for an ideal and aim constantly for that, to be ever able to meet the supply. If every man would do what was right, then the devil would take the hindmost and remain there out of the sight of righteous and just. It is where he belongs and it is only at the wish of the man himself that the devil will come forward."

WILL WORK FOR EXTENSION

An extension of the street car line from Seventy-first avenue west and Grand, where it now ends, to New Duluth is the hope of the West Duluth Commercial club.

The matter was taken up at the regular meeting of the club last evening and J. J. Frey was appointed chairman of a committee to take the matter up with the city council Monday evening, with regard to securing an appropriation for the repairing of the road to the steel plant and the strengthening of the bridges and culverts between West Duluth and New Duluth. The other members of the committee are: David Sang, A. J. Meldahl, Charles Kauppl, E. J. Zauft and M. P. Carlson.

The members of the club believe that if the road was put in proper shape for a street car line that the company would consent to the extension.

Congressman Clarence B. Miller who is now in Washington, was appointed by the club as its representative to the meeting of the delegates of the Commercial clubs throughout the country, who are to meet at a national congress at Washington early next month. This special meeting was called by Secretary of Labor Nagel at the request of President Taft, who is anxious to form a national association of commercial clubs to study and suggest needed legislation and laws for the benefit of the working class.

The following committee was appointed to appear with the Fairmont park committee of the park board before the board of public works next Monday afternoon: L. A. Barnes, J. J. Frey, A. J. Kreidler, and J. Allyn Scott. The meeting Monday is for the purpose of condemning the property fronting on the bay, which is to be used for the Fairmont park extension.

NEW PASTOR OF WEST DULUTH CHURCH

REV. W. L. STAUB.

Rev. W. L. Staub of Decatur, Ill., who arrived here yesterday to take charge of the Westminster Presbyterian church, Fifty-eighth avenue west and Ramsey street, will preach his initial sermon to the congregation tomorrow morning. His subject for the morning is "The Ideal Church" and in the evening he will preach on "Growth in Grace."

Rev. Mr. Staub will make his home at the Y. M. C. A. temporarily and next week a number of receptions will be given in his honor by the members of the congregation.

"BLACK BELL MINSTRELS" DELIGHT LARGE AUDIENCE.

The women of the Merritt Memorial M. E. church, Forty-sixth avenue west and Halifax street, last evening presented the musical novelty, "The Black Bell Minstrels," in the church parlors before an exceptionally large audience. Special musical features and solos were presented during the evening and several novel features were also introduced by the members.

Several old-time plantation melodies were introduced during the evening. Among these were: "The Blackville Belles," "Nellie Darling," "Goblin Song," "Plantation Lullaby," "Doan' Yo' Cry Ma Honey," "Mammy's Angel Chile," "Ragtime Violin," "Alexander's Band," "Mocking Bird" (whistled).

Lamp Explodes.

The explosion of a small oil lamp at the home of Herman Mehland, Sixty-fourth avenue west and Greene street, caused a small fire at 8 o'clock last evening. Department No. 8 answered the alarm and easily checked the flames from spreading. The damage to the furniture and building was slight and is covered by insurance.

INJURIES WILL NOT BE FATAL

Oscar Krueger, the 16-year-old son of Alderman Otto Krueger of the Eighth ward, who was badly injured Wednesday morning at New Duluth when the sleigh which he was driving was hit by a Northern Pacific passenger train, is reported to be out of danger and is expected to leave the hospital soon. His condition was at first thought to be serious because of the long state of unconsciousness following the accident, but after a close examination it was learned that he had only received a severe scalp wound and several bruises on his right shoulder. It was at first feared that his skull was fractured.

The other two boys, David Crager and John McEachin, who were in the sleigh at the time of the accident, received only slight injuries. Young Krueger is at St. Mary's hospital where he was taken immediately after the accident.

Men and Religion.

Rev. W. E. Clark of the Plymouth Congregational church, Fifty-fourth avenue west and Bristol street, will preach on "Men and Religion," at the regular morning services tomorrow. In the afternoon Rev. Mr. Clark will speak on a similar subject at Fond du Lac and in the evening he will preach at New Duluth.

St. Patrick's Day Concert.

St. James' Catholic church, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Kinnear place, will present a special St. Patrick's day sacred concert and lecture in the church parlors tomorrow evening. Rev. H. A. Floyd will deliver the lecture.

With the Curlers.

Judson forfeited to Clark last evening in the Burns event at the Western Curling riak. This evening Olson will play Pollock for squad leadership in the Burns event and Brown will meet Clark in the semi-finals of the Hendrickson event.

West Duluth Briefs.

E. G. Kreidler at 405 Central avenue, loans you money on first mortgage security. His charges are reasonable.

WANT BIDS MADE PUBLIC

Duluth Contractors Not Convinced They Are Getting Square Deal.

Duluth contractors want the bids on the superstructure of the new building for the Duluth Telephone company opened in public. The bids will be opened in the general office of the Bell company at St. Paul Monday. Messages have been sent by contractors, the builders' exchange and the Commercial club, asking that the bids be opened publicly in order that the Duluth contractors may know that the contract is let to the lowest bidder.

The new building is being erected on the lower side of First street between Third and Fourth avenues west. The contract for the foundation was let to a St. Paul firm after the bids had been opened in secret in the offices of the company, Jan. 8. Duluth contractors say that they are not convinced that the contract was let to the lowest bidder. Some of them say they are morally certain that their bids were lower than that of the contractor who was given the work.

The bids on the steel skeleton were opened in St. Paul recently, also in secret session, and the contract was let to the same St. Paul firm. No bids on the steel skeleton were called for from Duluth contractors and they say that fact supports their contentions that they are not being given a fair deal. They say that the only way the telephone company can show its good faith is by having the bids on the superstructure, which is the most important contract, opened in public.

"PHI DELTS" AT BANQUET

Sixteen former college graduates, who comprise the Duluth Alumni club of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity celebrated "Founder's Day" with a dinner at the Spalding hotel last evening. The affair is an annual occasion.

Charles C. Teare was elected president of the Duluth Alumni club for the ensuing year and the other officers named were William P. Harrison, secretary and C. E. Adams, treasurer.

William P. Harrison was the speaker of the evening. Others gave informal talks. A delightful musical program was rendered by the Misses Brown, Heymar and Lawson.

Covers were laid for the following: E. P. Radford, Wisconsin university; E. F. Jones, Purdue university; W. B. Rosenberger, Pennsylvania university; E. S. Tillinghast, Pennsylvania university; C. C. Colton, Dartmouth college; A. C. Brown, Franklin university; C. L. Hornaday, Indiana university; Francis J. Webb, Northwestern university; Charles C. Teare, Illinois Wesleyan university; O. S. Andresen, Minnesota university; C. E. Admas, Minnesota university; W. E. Greene, Brown university; Bert Fesler, Indiana university; William P. Harrison, Missouri university; Elmer F. Blu, Northwestern university.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

M. A. Morse of Buhl Heads Northeastern Minnesota Teachers.

Speaker Tells Delegates the Value of a Smile.

M. A. Morse, superintendent of public schools at Buhl, Minn., was elected president of the Educational Association of Northeastern Minnesota at the noon business meeting which followed the general session in the assembly hall of the Central high school building this noon.

Miss Mary E. Murdock, a teacher in the Jefferson school, was elected secretary and N. A. Young, who had no opposition, was elected to succeed himself as treasurer.

Mr. Morse was opposed for the office of president by H. A. Gilruth of Nashwauk and Miss Murdock was opposed by Miss Edith Scoville of Duluth.

Mr. Morse succeeds J. P. Vaughan of Chisholm as president and Miss Murdock succeeds Miss Eleanor Thompson of Duluth as secretary.

The general session this morning was preceded by sectional meetings with the different departments of school work as the subjects.

At the general and closing session before final adjournment was taken, Edward C. Elliott of the University of Wisconsin spoke on "The Measurement of Teaching Efficiency."

He talked on the value of a winning voice, the sunny smile, self control, a sense of humor, sympathy, physical fitness, enthusiasm, tact, all of which he said were assets and could be considered stock in trade.

Angels or Devils.

The speaker told of the attitudes of the public toward teachers. "Some believe them to be angels wandering around loose on the earth," he said. "Others view them as necessary evils of the time to put the girls and boys through a certain and necessary process.

"Others tolerate them only because it has long been the custom to have them. Some are pessimistic in their attitude, believing that as a whole they are an incompetent lot.

"We should have some way of measuring the work and worth of a teacher. We measure things and conditions which seem to be impossible. Why not the work and worth of a teacher?

"We don't live long enough to see the results of our labor. In other lines people have a chance to see what they have really accomplished.

"I want to say that the teachers do not get close enough to their work and give the individuality to the students as they should. Why, do you know that it takes the average child but fourteen months to forget you altogether? It is a fact. You are forgotten that quickly.

Politics An Evil.

"Politics in the appointment of teachers is an evil that should be overcome. In some places a teacher must be a member of a certain church to get a position. What do you think of that in this day of unsectarian education? And yet this is more common than you may think.

"I think the day will be here shortly when what the teacher knows and how high he passes his examinations is not going to be the prime factor for his employment. Physical fitness, personality, ideals and other requirements will be taken more into consideration.

"I place a great deal of confidence in the value of a smile. A smile gets us over a good many rough places in this life and this early impressed on the child will do him no harm.

"A sense of humor is good and ought to be cultivated. The child should get natural teaching along with all the rest of the knowledge and as a part of it that we seem to lay so much stress upon at this time."

The meeting was the concluding one of the series and a large number of the teachers left this afternoon for their homes.

NILES MUST STAND TRIAL

De Coursey F. Niles must stand trial on the charge of embezzlement. Judge Dibell this morning refused to dismiss the case against him on the ground of delay.

B. M. Goldberg, attorney for Niles, asked the court to dismiss the case because Niles had not been brought to trial although two terms of court had elapsed since the grand jury had returned an indictment against him.

Warren E. Greene, assistant county attorney, stated to the court that the state was endeavoring to secure two material witnesses who were understood to be in Baltimore, Md. The motion to dismiss was denied.

Niles was released on his own recognizance. On his arraignment under the indictment last December, he pleaded not guilty and was released on bail. Later one of his bondsmen withdrew and Niles was obliged to go to jail.

WHO THREW THAT BRICK?

Commercial Club on Trail of Census Bureau Employe.

Officially Slammed Northeastern Minnesota as a Farming Community.

AN OFFENSIVE STATEMENT.

"The north central and northeastern portions of the state are occupied by sandy and gravelly out-washed soils which are not infrequently too porous to permit of the production of the staple crops and which are either timbered or brush-grown. These are interspersed with innumerable lakes, ponds and swamps and relieved by low stony ridges or by rocky elevations thinly covered with soil of any description."

The Duluth Commercial club has already sent a protest to Census Director Durand and other commercial bodies of this part of the state will probably take similar action in regard to a statement made in the Agricultural Bulletin on Minnesota, compiled from the facts gathered in the thirteenth annual census.

Advance copies of the bulletin have been received in Duluth and have aroused the ire of the agricultural experts. The statements in regard to Northeastern Minnesota are declared to be greatly overdrawn and to be far from the facts.

"Covered with soil of any description," is especially irritating to those interested in the agricultural development of Northeastern Minnesota. The census officials are generally credited with accuracy in the compilation of facts and prospective settlers may take the statement in regard to Northeastern Minnesota as a fact, whereas the soil in this section of the state is admirably adapted to agriculture and especially to the cultivation of staple vegetable products.

Congressman Clarence B. Miller has been asked to take the matter up with the census bureau. The bulletin will stand for ten years or more and the club is very anxious to have it corrected. The advance copies are drawn from the permanent plates, apparently, but unless the final bulletin has already been sent out, the club will request that the offending plate be corrected.

A simillar complaint has been filed by Northern Wisconsin. It is claimed that the statements made in regard to the northern part of that state are greatly overdrawn. Evidently the census bureau took the fact that land is overgrown with timber and brush as an indication that it is unsuitable for agriculture, whereas the contrary is actually the case.

ANGLERS TO FORM CLUB

New Organization Will Work to Better Fishing Conditions.

Anglers who are interested in the formation of a local club to further the propagation and protection of fish in and about Duluth will meet Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Commercial clubrooms.

At that time it is the intention to form an organization, select a name, elect officers, choose committees and take such other preliminary steps as may be deemed necessary.

As large an attendance as possible is desired and all who are interested in such a club in Duluth are invited and urged to attend. The larger the membership the more effective will such an organization become. It is believed that after the meeting plans will be made to begin an active campaign to add as many names to the rolls as possible.

Similar clubs have been organized in recent years in different parts of the state and they have been able to accomplish much in their respective districts. Acting through a central organization it has been possible to secure various kinds of fry for keeping the lakes and streams stocked. Other sections have been getting fry as well as those in which these clubs have been active, but those familiar with the situation state that better results have been secured in all directions where the clubs have been in evidence.

The primary purpose in the organization is to benefit the disciple of Isaak Walton, but it may be decided later to extend the club's operations to other branches of sport.

Claims Company Should Pay for Additional Width of Street.

Can the city legally tax the Duluth Street Railway company for cost of paving between its tracks?

This question is at issue in a test case which is being heard this afternoon before Judge Cant of the district court. The action involves an appeal taken by the street railway company from an assessment for the extra cost of paving East Fourth street between Twenty-third and Twenty-seventh avenues east.

The franchise under which the street railway company operates requires it to pay any cost of paving made extra by reason of the Duluth Street Railway company's occupation of the street. In addition, the city charter provides that the extra cost, if any, shall be assessed against the street car company.

The city claims that the cost of the entire paving between the rails in the East Fourth street case is the amount of the extra cost. The company contends that the cost of fitting the pavement around the ralls is the only part of the cost made extra.

It is also the claim of the city that if there were no street car tracks on East Fourth street between Twenty-third and Twenty-seventh avenues east that the width of the street would only have been thirty feet. The actual width of the street is however forty-two feet.

The city's assessment against the street railway company for the East Fourth street job is about $4,000. If the company wins its point, tho assessment would be reduced to about $1,000. The case is of considerable interest as it is in the nature of a test case and applicable to all city streets occupied by the street railway company.

Bert Fesler appeared in court today for the city and Thomas S. Wood and Henry F. Greene represented the street railway company. The case will probably be submitted this afternoon.

PRECIPITATION OF COPPER IN BUTTE IS PAYING WELL

Tuolumne and Pilot-Butte Companies Hold Annual Meetings.

Butte, Mont., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The precipitation of copper in this district in the past few years has turned out to be a great paying industry. By means of the water from the mines old tin cans and scrap iron, which less than quarter of a century ago were considered valueless, now bring quite a revenue from those who collect them from the back alleys and garbage dumps and have brought a good sized fortune to the persons who secured control of the waters. The discovery that tin cans and scrap iron, when brought into contact with this water, would turn into copper was first discovered by an old miner some thirty years ago when he observed that the tin and iron when thrown into the water soon disappeared, leaving a dark, red sediment in their place. He made an examination and decided to have an assay made of the sediment with the result that he learned that a large percentage of copper was found. Like in many other such cases the old miner did not live long enough to reap the benefit of his discovery. A friend took the matter up and dammed the water up into small ponds into which he placed tin cans and old iron. After the metal disappeared he drained the ponds and scraped up the precipitates. For a time he made some money, but others became jealous of him and so many endeavored to get into the same business that he quit in disgust. Twenty years ago a man with considerable experience secured a three-year lease of the waters from the Anaconda and St. Lawrence mines at a 25 per cent royalty and in that time cleared up at least $100,000. During the lease the copper water became so strong that in a short time it ate up the pipes through which it was pumped to the surface, whereupon the companies reduced the water by passing it over iron underground. This action resulted in a law suit, the lessee suing the Anaconda company for damages on the ground that he was to have the sole right of the precipitation. The result of this suit was a verdict for several thousand dollars' damages. The upshot of this was that the companies would not give any more leases and decided to conduct their own precipitation plants. After that the Amalgamated, which soon after came into existence, and the Boston & Montana and the Clark companies conducted their own precipitating plants.

Increased Production.

The production of the district during the month of February was in excess of January, as was expected. The Anaconda properties showed an increase over the 26,350,000 pounds in January, while the North Butte, East Butte and Tuolumne also showed an increase. This month the East Butte will run close to 1,500,000 pounds, and as soon as the smelter capacity is increased, which will be in the next four months, the production will be brought to somewhere in the vicinity of 2,000,000 pounds. Before that time the Tuolumne will be turning out somewhere about 1,000,000 pounds and the North Butte about 3,000,000 pounds a month. At the present rate of production the Anaconda company will probably produce about 30,000,000 pounds during the present month. More ore is being mined this month than last, and the number of men at several of the properties have been somewhat increased.

Tuolumne.

The stockholders and the directors of the Tuolumne Copper Mining company held meetings in Butte Monday. At the meeting of stockholders there was a large attendance, several representatives being present from St. Paul who were anxious to know about the condition of the mine and the prospects for a resumption of dividends. They went away well satisfied. President Hickey made the statement that the Tuolumne mine is at present at least a third better than at any time in its history, but could not state definitely when dividends would be resumed. The treasurer's report showed that the company has no indebtedness and has a good cash treasury. President Hickey said dividends would be resumed as soon as the output was increased and the treasury justified it. At present the company is shipping about 150 tons of ore per day. A raise is being made from the new 1,800 level to connect with the workings of the North Butte company, which will give the lower level good ventilation, when mining will be strted there and the output increased to probably 250 tons a day. In answer to an inquiring stockholder it was stated that only first-class ore is being taken out, as there was no profit in mining the concentrating ore until the economy can have its own concentrator, a project that will have to be considered sometime, as there are said to be a million tons or more of concentrating ore in sight in the mine now.

There is always a hope that some day a number of the smaller companies in Butte will unite in the erection of a large concentrator.

At the meeting of the stockholders the following directors were re-elected: Ed Hickey, Jere Clifford, Daniel Shields, R. J. McDonald, J. W. Pratt, N. J. Bielenberg and Thomas E. Murray of St. Paul. J. J. Harrington was re-elected secretary.

The directors re-elected Mr. Hickey president, R. J. McDonald treasurer and Mr. Bielenberg vice president.

Pilot-Butte.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Pilot-Butte Mining company was held Monday afternoon in the office of the company in the State Savings Bank building, and there were present, besides a number of the local stockholders, Thomas E. Murray of St. Paul, president; W. P. Jahn of Milwaukee, vice president; and J. M. Dickey, assistant United States district attorney of St. Paul, who is heavily interested.

The financial reports shows that a great amount of development work has been accomplished during the year at a minimum cost and that every dollar that has been spent has been spent judiciously. Manager Sheehan's report on the physical condition of the property was satisfactory and he was authorized to connect the shaft with the 1,300-foot level, after which it will be sunk deeper. The following directors and officers were elected: Ed Hickey, president; W. P. Jahn of Milwaukee, vice president; J. W. Pratt, treasurer; N. J. Bielenberg, Pat Sheehan, Charles R. Leonard, James A. Murray and Thomas E. Murray, St. Paul; Lawrence I. Casserly, St. Paul, directors. All of the above constitute the board of directors. J. J. Harrington was elected secretary.

OSCEOLA IN LITIGATION

New Fight Started for Ousting of the Present Management.

Ojibway's Development Work Is Disclosing Excellent Copper Values.

Houghton, Mich., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Osceola Consolidated Mining company is again in the throes of litigation. The new fight was started by Charles M. Turner of Lansing, and has for its purpose the ousting of the present management. A restraining order was asked for and granted prohibiting the holding of the annual meeting scheduled for last Thursday. An application praying for permanent injunction was also filed in a bill of complaint covering thirty-two pages. In the meantime the annual meeting of the shareholders stands adjourned indefinitely. The hearing will be held in the circuit court for Ingham county at Lansing, Mich.

Ojibway.

The Ojibway is centering activity in development work at depth in the No. 1 shaft and in exploratory work in the southerly No. 2 shaft. The work in No. 1 shaft discloses excellent copper values in the Kearsarge conglomerate bed on the 1,600-foot level, where a crosscut is driving to intersect the Kearsarge lode. A second crosscut is being driven on the 1,700-foot level in this shaft with a similar purpose. The shaft is sinking steadily below this depth. In the No. 2 shaft a crosscut is driving at an angle across the formation on the 1,000-foot level. This work is expected to disclose the same formations opened in the No. 1 shaft and also develop a considerable stretch of country lying beyond. This crosscut will reach the limits of the property at this point in about 1,800 feet. The work here has just started. Electric drills have displaced the old style steam and compressed air drill, and are giving entire satisfaction.

New Arcadian.

The New Arcadian has succeeded in locating promising copper ground on section 9 in the horizon of the Portage-Arcadian lode. The drill designated as No. 2 encountered a twelve-foot lode carrying between seven and eight feet of commercial copper at a depth of 1,000 feet. Following this disclosure the drill was removed and set up a short distance away for the purpose of drilling a second hole that is expected to show the dip and strike of this formation. Arrangements have been made to sink a shaft on this lode upon completion of the new drill hole. Surface equipment adequate for this purpose will be transferred from an old exploratory shaft sunk a few years ago in the southeastern limits of the property. The drill outfit operating along the shores of Portage lake on section 30 and distant about three miles, more recently encountered a mineral zone at a depth of 200 feet in the horizon lying between conglomerate beds Nos. 3 and 8, in which horizon occurs the big amygdaloid variously known as the Baltic, Superior or Mabbs lode. The work here is therefore in most interesting territory.

Winona.

The Winona company has reopened the No. 3 shaft preliminary to increasing the rock output which will be doubled. Development work in the King Philip shaft has been temporarily suspended. The stamp mill has received a thorough overhauling in which the wash department was left materially improved and a closer extraction is anticipated. The second unit will probably go into commission before the end of the present month, after which the mill will be easily capable of treating upwards of 1,000 tons of rock daily. There has been a slight improvement in the efficiency of the first unit in operation and the average yield of the rock treated has shown a corresponding betterment. The yield is now in the neighborhood of fourteen pounds fine copper per ton of rock milled.

Superior.

The Superior is developing ground of exceptional richness in a formation designated as Superior West lode. This showing is made on the twelfth and thirteenth levels in the No. 1 shaft. Drill borings made at greater depth on the fourteenth and fifteenth levels disclosed ground of equal richness. The No. 1 shaft is sinking below the seventeenth level. In the No. 2 shaft activity is centered in the drift north on the thirteenth level which has for its object underground connection with the No. 1 shaft workings. This work is progressing slowly and is thus far without important disclosures of copper ground.

TO BE SHORT AND ACTIVE

Prospect of Late Start of Lake Superior Iron Ore Season.

Stripping Operations on the Mesaba Range Now Being Resumed.

A short and active season is the prospect in the Lake Superior iron region. With all the Great Lakes icebound to a greater extent than in many years, it is certain that navigation will experience a late start. It is, indeed, the expectation of the mining country that the month of May will be well advanced before many boats are in commission. There are some who believe that it will be June 1 or even later before ore is moving with any freedom. Ordinarily shipments are started in April. This year there is a lack of the preparation usual at this season and in general the mining industry is marking time. The situation is viewed with equanimity, however. There is yet little definite information as to the probable demand for ore so far as the mines individually are concerned, and until it is known approximately what the requirements will be there will be no hurry about speeding up things.

It continues to be the expectation that shipments in the aggregate will exceed those of last year and may approximate 40,000,000 tons. A movement as great as this latter figure would be well within the capacity of the fleet, even with navigation opening late, and there thus is no apprehension that there will not be delivered to the lower lake ports all the ore the furnaces require. Short as will the season probably be, it promises to be more than usually remunerative to the vessel interests. Barring the possibility of strikes in the producing fields, the upbound shipments of coal are certain to be of record-breaking proportions. The stocks of the fuel are exceptionally low at all the upper lake ports, as well as at the mines. The long and exceptionally cold winter has resulted in an unexpectedly heavy drain on coal supplies and in various localities there exists an actual famine, alleviated in part latterly by railroad shipments direct from the Eastern colliery districts.

Mesaba Stripping.

Mesaba range stripping operations suspended for the winter are being resumed and by April 1 will be well in progress. Probably not as much overburden will be removed during the season as was stripped during each of the three last preceding years, since a number of large projects have been finished, or are nearly completed, but a vast amount of ground will be handled nevertheless. One important contract of this nature not far from completion is that of the Winston & Dear company at the Buffalo & Susquehanna company's mine at the east side of Hibbing. This stripping operation is the deepest ever carried on in the Lake Superior country, the overburden in the twenty-five acres averaging 147 feet. The work has been in progress two seasons and is about to be resumed with four shovels in service. Of the 8,000,000 cubic yards of material to be removed, in the neighborhood of 7,000,000 has already been excavated, all of which has been transported to dumping ground three miles distant. In most of the pits on the Mesaba, the glacial drift covering the ore deposits is compact and solid, due to the intermingling of clay with the sand, and it is necessary to drill the ground and to break it with heavy charges of black powder. Little trouble of this sort has been experienced at the Susquehanna, however. The sand and gravel have been loose enough to scoop out readily and except when an occasional granite boulder has been encountered blasting has not been required. The Susquehanna heretofore has been operated wholly as an underground proposition; this season the open pit will be in readiness to ship. The output will be handled in a new distributing yard southwest of town, built for the purpose by the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad.

One of a number of new mines to be opened on the Mesaba this season will be the Cotes property, adjacent to the Jones & Laughlin Steel company's Lincoln mine in the Virginia district. The deposit is small, containing approximately 500,000 tons. A shaft is now being sunk. The property is held by A. B. Coates, a well known Virginia mining man. An ore drying plant, the first of its kind on the range, has been installed at the M. A. Hanna company's Brunt mine near Mountain Iron. The process is in operation and is proving a success. The capacity is 300 tons a day. A similar plant is in service at the Hanna company's Holister mine, in the Crystal Falls district of the Menominee range. A gas light system about to be installed at the Hollister will be an innovation in Lake Superior ore mining. It will be put in by the Union Carbide company of Niagara and Sault Ste. Marie. The use of carbide at the mines is on the increase, particularly as an illuminant for the lamps carried by underground workers, and to better serve its patrons on the Menominee range one manufacturing concern—the Carbolite company of Duluth—is now establishing a central supply house at Crystal Falls.

Iron River District.

Electrical power gives promise of being an important factor in the operations in the Iron River district of the Menominee, as it already is on the Marquette range. The Peninsula Power company, which is developing a large water power at the Twin Falls on the Menominee river, near Iron Mountain, has already erected a substation at Iron River and is now building transmission lines. The Wickwire mine of the Wickwire Steel company and the Davidson mine of the New York State Steel company have contracted for the service and eventually, it is expected, most of the properties in the district will be similarly served. The Cleveland Cliffs Iron company's power plant on Carp river is now furnishing all of the electricity used by that corporation on the Marquette range and the steam turbines at the Maas mine and at Gwinn have gone out of commission. The plant is working satisfactorily. Electricity is furnished to the company's mines at Ishpeming, Gwinn and North Lake and to the Pioneer furnace at Marquette. A big electric hoist has been installed at the Negaunee mine, but it will not be put into operation until the fore part of April, when the new shaft will be ready for service. Eventually electricity will replace steam in practically every department at all of the mining properties, the turbines being held in reserve for use in cases of emergency.

As for some time past, the Republic Iron & Steel company is operating its Lake Superior mines on a reduced basis. In the neighborhood of 700 men are employed altogether. Forces will be materially increased, however, once ore starts moving down the lakes. The pumps at the company's Hartford mine at Negaunee, Marquette range, have been taken out of commission and the underground workings permitted to fill with water. The Hartford has been closed since last summer and its companion properties, the Lillie and the Cambria, are operated only with seventy underground men, these all on one shift. The Republic company is interested in the Traders mine at Iron Mountain, Menominee range, and with its associates in the operating concern—the Antoine Ore company—has authorized extensive development work at the property. The Traders is an open pit producer, wrought under the milling system. It is intended now to materially enlarge the excavation by stripping the ground east of the old Cornell mine, a distance of 900 feet. The ore formation is 150 to 200 feet in width and has been traced by exploration for the entire distance. The overburden varies in depth from eighteen to forty feet. The Republic Iron & Steel company's mining engineering department is now making out the specifications, and with these completed tenders for the stripping work will be invited.

Another New Company.

Still another mining company has entered the Iron River district of the Menominee. This is the Wisconsin Mining company, organized under the laws of Utah and capitalized at $100,000. It is largely a local concern, officered as follows: President, James Long; vice president, A. T. Wooster; secretary, J. B. Wiemer; treasurer, Frank Singler. The headquarters is at Iron River. The company has procured an option on the McFarland property, in section 13, 43-55, adjoining the Mineral Mining company's James mine, and is now diamond drilling there. Other tracts are similarly to be acquired and explored. What appears to be an important find of ore has been made in what are known as the Detroit, Mackinac & Marquette lands in section 4, 42-35, and section 33, 43-35, two miles west of the Hiawatha mine, in the Iron River district. The lands are bing explored by a syndicate, the membership of which includes W. H. James and G. Rollins of Iron River and James Blake of Escanaba, Mich. Nine drill holes have been put down to depths averaging 200 feet and it is understood that ore has been cut in nearly all of them, the mineral running as high as 58 per cent in metallic iron. The overburden is shallow, contrary to the usual condition in the district, averaging only twenty to forty feet. The drilling continues. The Jones & Laughlin Steel company is making excellent progress with the development of its new Forbes mine near Iron River, notwithstanding the overburden is of treacherous nature. The shaft is 10 by 12 feet in dimensions and is now down 130 feet.

ANOTHER STRIKE AT THE SHATTUCK

Bisbee, Ariz., March 16.—Last week there were heard reports of another strike by the Shattuck on the same level where the rich ore was ncountered a short time since. The new strike is being developd, but its extent and richness has not yet been determined, except that indications are that the assays will not run so phenomenally high as did the other ore encountered. The formation is very hard, and it takes two days of drilling between shots, so that no further report was possible until yesterday afternoon. Then the shots brought down some more good ore and opened up the body about five or six feet.

The last reported strike at the Shatteuk is on the same level as the former, and is also on the same fault. This is the Czar fault, that makes out of the southwest lode. The second strike is about 500 feet from the former, and is in crosscut No. 10. Should it prove as large as the other, it will be taken to demonstrate the continuance of the ore body for at least 800 feet, and will therefore be of the utmost importance.

Samples that have been brought up are remarkably fine ore, though there are not the big silver values that were contained in the 17-foot vein that was crosscut. Indications are that the copper will run as high, if not higher, however.

HUBBARD-ELLIOTT WANTS RAILROAD

Alaska Property Unable to Work Because of Bad Transportation.

Chicago, March 16.—The Hubbard-Elliott company announces that steps are under way for the re-financing of of the company. These negotiations, in fact, have advanced sufficiently for the corporation to postpone its annual meeting in order to proceed with the deal. The company, above all, needs better transportation facilities, and there is a possibility of the Copper River & Northwestern Railroad building a branch to the Hubbard-Elliott.

Last year a great deal of work was accomplished at the property, though it was all of an exploratory character and no material earnings from the sale of ore were obtained. The company is now face to face with the necessity of obtaining additional money to develop this ground, and the management is endeavoring to formulate a policy, which may call for a voluntary contribution on the part of the shareholders to the extent of 5 cents per share. There is still in the treasury 1,845,000 shares of stock.

Eastern shareholders hope that some definite announcement of this kind will soon be forthcoming, as the property has now been under development for so long a time that results should soon be demonstrated one way or the other.

CHICAGO GETS TOOELE REFINERY

Utah Lead Product to Be Shipped There for Treatment.

Salt Lake City, Utah, March 16.—General Manager E. P. Mathewson of the International Smelting & Refining company, on his arrival from the East announced that the company had purchased a tract of ground at East Chicago on which will be constructed the refining plant for the treatment of the product of the Tooele lead smelter.

Contracts for the buildings will be let within ten days as the plans are well in hand.

One blast furnace is operating at the lead smelter and the second will be going within a short time. Three reverberatory furnaces are operating at the copper smelter, the company handling an average of 800 tons of copper ore daily. This tonnage bids fair to be increased right along and Mr. Mathewson is optimistic over the prospects for the entire Tooele works.

KEWEENAW NOT GETTING COPPER

Explorations Last Year Disappointing—Better Results Are Expected.

The annual report of Keweenaw Copper company for 1911 shows $3,138 cash on hand and $54,007 accounts receivable. The Keweenaw Central railroad, which is owned by the company, was operated at a loss of $14,850, the gross receipts being $33,673. President T. F. Cole in his report says:

"Mining work during 1911 was confined to development of Kearsarge lode through No. 2 shaft and to exploring it with the diamond drill. The shaft was sunk from 623 feet to 1,355 feet, with such unfavorable results that it was decided to discontinue further development work. Only a small part of the company's extesnive land holdings of about 20,000 acres has been explored and as practically all of the lands are located on the mineral range, it is quite possible that better results will be obtained from future explorations.

"Before inaugurating any new development work, your directors resire the stockholders to consider the advisability of selling the timber on the lands of the company. A sale of this timber to people who would locate a sawmill at some point on the line of the Keweenaw Central railroad, the entire caiptal stock of which company is owned by the Keweenaw Copper company, would not only place considerable money in the treasury, but would supply the railroad with a lucrative business for many years."

JUST SUPPOSING.

Suppose, just as an interesting speculation, that a foreign power had owned the Lawrence woolen mills, had oppressed American labor as the Lawrence mills have oppressed it, and when labor had revolted this foreign power had sent over its imported minions, clad in hateful red instead of commonplace policeman's blue or militiamen's khaki, to quell the uprising.

Suppose, again, that it were a foreign power that imposed the tariff taxes which exploit the many for the enrichment of the few, which breed plutocracy and arrogant wealth at one end of the social scale and pauperism and festering poverty at the other.

Suppose, once more, that it were a foreign power which had corrupted our political parties and our lawmaking machinery, putting its paid agents in the executive chair, in the legislative halls and on the bench.

Suppose that it were a foreign power that had jobbed legislatures and city councils for franchises, rich gifts which have been handed out freely from the people's store by the people's representatives, and which have been used for the merciless exploitation of the people.

Suppose that it had been a foreign power which put ground cocoanut shells in our pepper, smell-killing drugs in rotten food products revamped by shameless manufacturers for human consumption, and innumerable adulterants in our foods, drugs and drinks.

Suppose that it had been a foreign power which oppressed our labor, forced it to work in wretched and deadly surroundings, ground its wage scale down to the level of mere brute existence, and then when it rose up against these abuses had sent its policemen and soldiers over the sea to quell the revolt.

Suppose it were a foreign power which snatched little children out of the schools and away from their playgrounds, and chained them to factory machines, robbing them of the joy of childhood and their birthright of a playtime to use their labor, for a pittance, to crowd out the labor of their fathers.

Suppose it were a foreign power that fought every step toward a popular rule that MUST come before these abuses can be corrected; that fought, openly and by stealth, trickery and corruption, direct popular nominations, direct popular control of legislation, direct popular selection of United States senators, and direct popular control of elected officials.

Suppose it had been a foreign power that had perpetrated these stupendous outrages upon the American people.

What would the American people do about it?

Fight? You are right they'd fight. It wouldn't take twenty-four hours to get out a new Declaration of Independence and to organize a new army of Continentals. It wouldn't take a month to drive the oppressor back beyond the sea. The American people would rise as one man to do it, and every man would fight to the last drop of his blood for his country, his home and his fireside.

But instead of being done by a foreign power, these things are done by some of our own people, are supported by many others of our own people, some of whom do not benefit by them, and are the fault of all our people for permitting them to persist.

So, having no foreign enemy upon whom to concentrate our resentment, we merely resent, and don't do very much about it—not much of anything at all, as yet.

Cy Young's name appears in type again. It must be the season is nearly here.

THE FOLLIES OF THE RICH.

A rich person in Cleveland owned a puppy which got some sort of throat trouble. The rich person liked the puppy, which was probably of a very expensive breed, so she arranged to have the dog sent to New York in a special Pullman palace car to undergo an operation.

This is of course a pleasant spectacle to the workingman whose child is wasting away with an illness which nourishing food, pure, fresh air and a month of country life would cure, and whose means will not permit him to provide any of these remedies.

Unless sick puppies are worth more to society than sick babies, your Socialist neighbor would say, society ought to redress the economic injustice which makes possible these two extremes.

And who shall say that he is wrong?

Was Dr. Wiley careful to sterilize his resignation?

THE MARVEL OF FIGURES.

You can do almost anything with figures. You can prove black is white, if your audience doesn't analyze your processes very closely.

A good example of that was furnished by a letter in the Open Court last evening, where a man proved that it is foolish to go farming in this neighborhood because it costs $4,765.50 to start, and you can only get back $278 the second year—nothing the first year.

Save that in almost every case his estimates of expense are far too high, and his estimates of returns far too low, his showing that you can't realize two per cent on your investment is overwhelming. But we shall be surprised if there are not hundreds who have started on far less capital, who have done far better on both sides of the ledger, and who wouldn't on a bet trade their farm homes for city jobs with a great deal to boot. We shall be surprised, too, if some of them don't answer this fellow in the Open Court.

Champ Clark has secured one qualification for the occupancy of the White House—he has got an animal to take the place of the Teddy Bear and the Billy Possum.

WILEY OUT, WILSON STAYS.

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, who has fought the good fight for pure food for the people, has given it up and resigned.

Pinchot, Glavis, Shaw and Price, faithful public servants all, went out of the public service for no greater fault than crying "Stop thief!" when the public domain was threatened. Ballinger outstayed them all.

While Wiley, who has fought for pure food, drugs and drinks in the people's interest, goes out of the public service, Wilson, McCabe and Dunlap, who have fought Wiley and the people through Wiley, remain in triumphant possession of the field.

It is a victory for crooked manufacturers of crooked food, drugs and drinks. It is a blow at the pure food law. It is another blot on the Taft administration. But Taft seems well content, and has promptly filled Wiley's place.

But what chance has a Missouri houn' against a New Jersey skeeter?

THE STRABISMUS OF SELF-INTEREST.

It's queer what tricks self-interest plays with the human mind.

Louisiana raises cane sugar. So Louisiana is now trying to raise something much hotter than sugar because the Democratic house proposes to put sugar on the free list.

Says the New Orleans Picayune: "The sugar duty is an ideal method of collecting revenue, because it is assessed equitably upon the entire population. Sound Democratic doctrine has always favored equitable taxation and not the taxation of a special class for the benefit of the balance of the people."

Those two sentences are marvels of clever but doubtless ingenuous sophistry. They sound almost like truths. Really they are as far from the truth as the South Pole is from the North.

The sugar duty is anything but an "ideal method of collecting revenue," because it is not assessed EQUITABLY, but EQUALLY, "upon the entire population."

Equal taxation is not equitable taxation, by a long shot. Under this "ideal method" of collecting revenue John Smith, ditch digger, pays precisely the same amount of taxes as Andrew Carnegie, multi-millionaire.

That is equal taxation. Equitable taxation is when John Smith, ditch digger, and Andrew Carnegie, multi-millionaire, PAY ACCORDING TO THEIR RESPECTIVE ABILITIES TO PAY. To pay his share of the taxes raised by the tariff tax on sugar, Mr. Carnegie would have to eat a ton of sugar a week.

This is anything but an ideal method. It is, in fact, the antipode of the ideal. The income tax, which does not distribute the tax burden EQUALLY, but does distribute it EQUITABLY, is the real ideal in taxation.

The second sentence is hardly less wonderful: "Sound Democratic doctrine has always favored equitable taxation and not the taxing of a special class for the benefit of the balance of the people." That sounds good enough to be true, but it is no truer than the sentence with which our engaging friend the New Orleans Picayune preceded it.

"Sound democratic doctrine," whether you spell it with a big "D" or a little "d", has, indeed, "always favored equitable taxation;" though it has produced, as yet, precious little of it. But the rest of the sentence is an inverted and perverted travesty of the real doctrine.

The real doctrine is that you must not tax all of the people for the benefit of a special class. That sounds a little like what the Picayune said, but it is very different. Very different, indeed.

But self-interest plays queer tricks with the human mind.

Perhaps Capt. Scott is going to wait until the campaign is over, so he'll stand a chance of getting more attention.

ON BEING BRILLIANT.

"I wish I were as brilliant as Soandso," we heard a young man say the other day.

An idle wish. If this young man is not so brilliant as the man he envied, he is not, and that's all there is to it. But there is comfort for this young man, and for any others who are sorry they are not brilliant.

Brilliancy is spectacular and showy, but there are other qualities far more enduring and therefore far more valuable.

If you are not brilliant, don't try to be. If you are not brilliant you can't be, and if you try it the only result is a dismal and pathetic failure.

But you can be intelligent, fair and earnest, and that's doing as well as anybody need do. With these qualities, you can let him who will be brilliant.

Brilliancy is for show. Intelligence and earnestness are for use. When a man states a great truth brilliantly, people don't say "How true that is!" but "How well he says it!" And that's what your brilliant man is after.

Brilliancy is seldom sincere. It concerns itself more with the manner than with the matter of its address. Indeed, having brilliancy, matter doesn't count. Your brilliant man can cloak commonplaces and even untruths in glittering phrases and make them go. Your earnest and intelligent man must state sound truths and state them lucidly and pointedly.

Brilliancy looks more for effects gratifying to its self-esteem—of which it has an abundance, as a rule—than it does for results, for the advancement of the cause for which it stands. Earnestness is thinking of principles and of results, and seldom of itself; so it is capable of carrying conviction as brilliancy seldom is.

Brilliancy isn't always honest. You can hire brilliancy to support an evil cause. You can't hire earnestness, because earnestness can't be imitated; and a pretense of earnestness in advocating an evil cause is a mere imitation that fools few.

Intelligent earnestness is more convincing than brilliancy. Brilliancy is a sound; earnestness is a substance. Brilliancy can make the multiplication table sound pleasing in the ears of its audience, but its arguments seldom can bear the test of cold reason. The arguments of earnest intelligence always can bear that test. Brilliancy pleases the ear, but earnestness reaches the heart.

Gelett Burgess, himself a "sulphite," divided humanity into "sulphites" and "bromides." Sulphites are these who say the unexpected things in an unexpected way. They are brilliant. Bromides say commonplace things in a commonplace way. They are distinctly not brilliant. In this hard and fast division only a few are to be classed as sulphites; most of us are bromides; and most of those who think themselves sulphites really are bromides. That's one of the rules that show you how to distinguish. Not all can be sulphites; thank heaven. The bromides are a large and comfortable company—and much more useful, on the whole, than the sulphites, who amuse and interest but seldom enlighten.

If you are not brilliant, don't despair; and above all don't try to be. Be earnest, be honest. Use your intelligence, and you can stay in the race with the most brilliant. Brilliancy is good for short spurts. Earnestness wins in the long run.

Will the administration try to get a few more national delegates by boasting about the elimination of Wiley?

HOW LIKE EBERHART!

The Michigan legislature having failed to do its duty at the regular session, Governor Osborne called an extra session.

The legislature failing to do its duty in the extra session, Governor Osborne has promptly called another extra session to follow immediately upon the adjournment of the present one.

How this reminds one of Governor Eberhart of Minnesota!

It is SO different!

Umbrellas, say the statisticians, have been known in the United States for 262 years. But probably their owners have not been known more than about half that time.

A MERRY GAME.

Germany has increased its naval program, and when the new program is carried out doubtless the Germans will feel secure—for the moment.

But all it means is that Germany's increase in its naval program makes it necessary for its neighbors to increase their naval programs, too, and to go Germany just a little better.

That done, it will be Germany's turn to increase its naval program again.

Then Germany's neighbors, perforce, must build more and bigger ships and cast more and bigger guns.

And so on, world without end.

And the Jingoes, not all of whom are dealers in war materials seeking profitable business, want this country to keep abreast in this contest.

It's a merry game!

Always more sturdy workers, in the best years of their lives, drawn out of the ranks of producers to become non-producing and destroying consumers; always a greater and ever greater expense for armament, and a heavier and ever heavier burden of taxation and poverty upon those who must foot the bills.

A dreadful game! A game in which billions of money, that would wipe out poverty, disease, suffering, misery and ignorance if they were wisely applied to social uses, are diverted to the worse than useless purposes of war.

Where will it—where can it—end?

A Cleveland, Ohio, man claims he knows two Italians named Pat Ryan and James O'Brien. And this so near the 17th, too!

"A SAFE INVESTMENT."

If you don't mind, we are going to repeat a story here. A story probably will be at least as popular as an intricate and dryasdust discussion of some abstract subject. We are sorry to have to admit, however, that this story has a moral—a moral that should prove of value to thousands of people. Maybe the fact that it has a valuable moral will detract from its interest, but we can't help that. The best we can do is to refrain from drawing the moral ourselves, and to let the reader do it—if he will.

The story, which we borrow from Harper's Magazine, is as follows:

> Bill Jones was a resident of Baltimore, who, notwithstanding an impediment in his speech, prospered in his business as a broker. He moved to New York city and prospered even more. A friend from Baltimore called on him one day, and, after some familiar conversation, remarked:
> "I say, Bill, it seems to me that you stutter worse here in New York than you did in Baltimore."
> "Y-y-very l-l-likely; it's a b-b-bigger city."
> "But I say, Bill, you have made a lot of money here, and I want your advice. I have sold almost everything I had in Baltimore and I have the cash in my pocket. I want you to tell me how to invest my money to the best advantage. I have even mortgaged my house and have the money here. What would you advise me to buy for a good, safe investment?"
> "B-b-buy the m-m-mortgage," replied Bill.

Have you read the story, Mr. Get-Rich-Quick?

Then read it again.

And then again.

And then cut it out and paste it inside your hat, and whenever you are tempted to invest your savings on a thousand-to-one chance which MAY, if you win, make a return of a thousand for one, take off your hat and read the story again.

But we're forgetting something. Why isn't Richard Achilles Ballinger out stumping for Taft?

SETTLING A STRIKE.

Pretty nearly everybody in New England has been very anxious to have the Lawrence mill strike settled, and no wonder. It has been in progress for nearly two months. The mill-owners of course have lost money by it. The workers certainly have suffered, because during the strike they have not had even the pitiful wages the prosperous mill-owners gave them before the strike. The public has suffered, too, particularly that part of it which sells goods to the mill-workers when they have any money to buy goods with.

So efforts toward settling the strike were well directed, and the energy and zeal exhibited by those working to that end are commendable.

But a little more zeal and energy outside of strike-times, directed toward settling the social ailments that produce strikes, would get us on faster.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

SHARING PROFITS WITH EMPLOYES.

To the Editor of The Herald:

That was a splendid editorial "Workers as Human Beings," which appeared in your paper Thursday, March 14, relative to the position the Rock Island Railway company takes with its employes.

I hope everyone in Duluth has read this editorial, and more particularly, General Manager Warren of the Duluth Street Railway company. I have read those articles by street car men that have appeared in this column lately with great interest, and am impressed with the logic of their arguments.

One can plainly see wherein the fault lies. Those men know that they are underpaid when receiving only an average wage of 22 cents per hour in the employ of a large public service corporation that is more than able to pay better wages.

General Manager Warren, as I understand, was formerly in Minneapolis in the employ of the street car company there in various capacities, as line foreman, superintendent, etc. That during a strike among the men he was very successful in their defeat, and at the time the street car men struck here in 1899 he was sent here for the same purpose, and has been advanced to his present position for his ability to run a street car line, with underpaid street car men, for which he no doubt receives a princely salary. Now, to my way of thinking, his position is that of a taskmaster. How much better it would be for all concerned if these men were paid an average of 27 cents per hour for their services. While they would receive the direct benefit, Duluth would receive an indirect benefit. No doubt the directors of the street railway company are well pleased that Mr. Warren can run their line for them with such poorly paid men, but I believe that to increase these men's wages 5 cents per hour, an additional expense of perhaps $30,000 per year, does not become a liability but an asset; that these men by greater efficiency and application to duty can increase the company's earnings to more than offset this increase in wages. Twenty years ago it was thought to be quite the proper thing to do to fight a man into the last ditch rather than share profits, and in doing so this was Mr. Warren's opportunity for advancement. But things have changed in the last few years, and we look at some things in a different light. I think these men on our street cars should have an increase in wages. Thanking you for this space I am,

C. B. D. CLAYTON.

DULUTH AND A CONVENTION HALL.

To the Editor of The Herald:

There has been considerable discussion recently, due to the enthusiasm of the curling club's membership campaign, about the proposed erection of a clubhouse by that organization.

I think that is an excellent idea, but I would suggest that the curlers consider the needs of Duluth in the way of a convention hall or large theater. At present Duluth has no place capable of seating a large audience. If Duluth had such a hall it would be in the front rank for all state conventions and could even bid and fittingly entertain a national convention. Everyone knows what the Democratic national convention did for Denver.

I read with interest that Col. Roosevelt has included Duluth in his itinerary and will address our citizens. But where? Duluth can only accommodate a small portion of the number that would wish to hear him.

Then, too, the seats in our large theaters are too expensive.

We paid $2.50 and $3 for seats for Lauder and Nordica and are pleased to do so, but with a big auditorium these prices could be lowered.

Many share my opinion that Duluth hasn't room for anything big in the convention line, and so let us hope that the curlers, "who do things," will consider our views when erecting their headquarters.

SCOT.

Duluth, Minn., March 15.

That is just what the curlers have promised to do. The rink, they claim, will seat 8,000 people when used as a convention hall, which it will be for eight months in the year.—The Editor.

The Colonel's Sudden Discoveries.

New York Evening Post: It was Guizot, we believe, of whom it was said that a fact which he had learned on Saturday night he would produce on Monday morning with the air of having always known it. A similar gravity has often been displayed by Mr. Roosevelt in giving the semblance of lifelong convictions to something that he has for the first time taken up. To read his letter, published this morning, on direct primaries, with special emphasis on a presidential preference primary, you would think that here is a cause for which he must have been fighting ever since he entered politics. He describes it as going to the very essence of popular government, and expends his vocabulary upon those recreants and reactionaries who are lukewarm or hostile to the doctrine. Yet Mr. Roosevelt himself, for the two years that he was governor of New York and the seven years that he was president of the United States, never lifted a finger or uttered a syllable to aid those who were striving to effect this reform. The movement for it was, for example, marching on to success in Wisconsin during his presidential term under the leadership of La Follette. But what did President Roosevelt do except to express his aversion for the "wild" ideas of the Wisconsin man, use the federal patronage against him ruthlessly and have his delegates thrown out of the national convention which nominated Roosevelt for the presidency in 1904?

Reasons for Staying on the Farm.

The following reasons for staying on the farm are presented in the current issue of Farm and Fireside:

"It is the safest real estate investment.

"It is the best place to avoid doctor bills.

"There is no place like it for bringing up a family.

"It affords the greatest opportunity to cultivate the bump of optimism.

"It is the foundation of all national prosperity.

"It produces the eatables and wearables for the nation's people.

"It offers the best chance to live in peace with God and man than which nothing better can be desired.

"It is easier to leave the farm than it is to get back to it after you are once in the city working as carpenter, bricklayer, carman, bookkeeper or clerk to meet your financial obligations.

"It gives a man room to build his own home. In town another is likely to build the home for you—and in the end own it."

The Winning Hand.

Philadelphia Bulletin: Hearts may be trump, but the man with diamonds often can give another cards and spades.

The Pressing Need.

Toledo Blade: What we need now are old-fashioned violets, old-fashioned dandelions and old-fashioned robins.

One Mine's Iron Output.

Kansas City Star: A single mine in Minnesota produced 1,500,000,000 tons of iron ore last year, which is more than was used in all America before 1854.

THE STATE AND THE RAILROADS

Hard on the Purse.

Pine River Pine Poker: That purse-robbing 3-cent fare still exists, which is no glorious reflection on our great state.

No Fun In Travelling.

Cass Lake Times: Railroad traveling at 3 cents per with your nerves pricking for fear of a broken rail is our idea of unadulterated misery. You're welcome, travelers!

A Boomerang.

Aitkin Age: It is now reported upon good authority that some of the Minnesota railroads are contemplating the voluntary reduction of passenger fares from 3 to 2 cents a mile. The punishment they have been meting out to the public is said to be proving a boomerang as they are making less money under the two-two-and-a-half-three-cent rates of discrimination than they would under a straight 2-cent fare.

The Reason.

Lake Crystal Union: Why it is that the rates on every passenger train entering Minnesota are boosted as soon as the train strikes Minnesota soil?—Long Prairie Leader.

Why is it? That's easy.

Weren't you interested in the last legislature?

Do you know a man by the name of Judge Sanborn?

Ask the judge! He'll tell you all about it. Ask Governor Eberhart. He'll tell you all about it.

Ask the railroad companies! They will tell you all about it and will ask you what you are going to do about it.

Wants System Stopped.

Holt Northern Light: The United States supreme court has ruled that Minnesota's gross earnings tax laws are valid. We hope that august body will also sustain our 2-cent law and put a stop to the present system of plundering the poorer classes by the railroads doing business in the state.

Travel Has Fallen Off.

Austin Transcript: The 2-cent rate on passenger travel was an inducement to the public to make frequent use of it and the result was that people of moderate means could take trips which added much to their enjoyment. Under the present robber rates, the public uses the railroads just as little as possible and the feeling against them is bitter. If a man is rich he can buy a mileage book and travel for 2 cents a mile now but the poor and those of moderate means must pay 3 cents or stay at home.

Minnesota An Easy Victim.

Browns Valley Tribune: In Wisconsin the railroad fare is 2½c per mile, while in Minnesota it is 3c. If anything under 3c is confiscatory, as held by Judge Sanborn, why are the same roads submitting to 2c and 2½c rates in states adjoining Minnesota, where there is no more travel? If less than 3c is confiscatory, why are certain classes of people permitted to ride at 2c per mile? Fact is, Minnesota is considered a pretty easy mark by the railroads.

The Recall of Decisions.

Cambridge North Star: How long would Judge Sanborn's 3-cent decision stand if the people were allowed to vote on it?

Tschaikovsky.

I have heard music, and I cannot sleep,
I have been in some sad and distant land
Where silent steppes to dim horizons creep,
And long slow rivers wind through choking sand.

I have heard winds tempestuous in the night,
I have heard waters wailing far away.
I have heard forests trumpet in their might,
And moan together at the break of day.

I have heard voices sobbing in the dark
Because of love and loneliness and pain.
I have heard singing when I seemed to hark
To twilight fields and low skies gray with rain.

I have heard marching and the roll of drums
Across those steppes, within those forests dim;
And I have felt the sudden thrill that comes
Upon the charming of a mighty hymn.

I have heard music, and I cannot sleep,
My heart shall know no peace nor pity yet;
For in me whirl, like clouds across a deep,
Things I can neither utter nor forget.

Fools Speak the Truth.

Desiderius Erasmus' "Praise of Folly." It is one farther very commendable property of fools, that they always speak the truth, than which there is nothing more heroical and noble. For so, though Plato relates it as a sentence of Alcibiades, that in a sea of drunkenness truth swims uppermost, and so wine is the only teller of truth, yet this character may more justly be assumed by me, as I can make good from the authority of Euripides, who lays down this as an axiom, "Children and fools always speak the truth."

Whatever the fool had in his heart, he betrays in his face; or, what is more notifying, discovers it by his words; while the wise man, as Euripides observes, carries a double tongue; the one to speak what may be said, the other what ought to be; the one what truth, the other what time requires; whereby he can in a trice so alter his judgment, as to prove that to be now white, which he had just swore to be black; like the satyr at his porridge, blowing hot and cold at the same breath; in his lips professing one thing, when in his heart he means another.

Furthermore, princes in their greatest splendor seem upon this account unhappy, in that they miss the advantage of being told the truth, and are shammed off by a parcel of insinuating courtiers, that acquit themselves as flatterers more than as friends. But some will perchance object that princes do not love to hear the truth, and therefore wise men must be very cautious how they behave themselves before them, lest they should take too great a liberty in speaking what is true, rather than what is acceptable. This must be confessed, truth indeed is seldom palatable to the ears of kings, yet fools have so great a privilege as to have free leave, not only to speak bare truths, but the most bitter ones, too; so as the same reproof which, had it come from the mouth of a wise man, would have cost him his head, being blurted out by a fool, is not only pardoned, but well taken, and rewarded. For truth has naturally a mixture of pleasure, if it carry with it nothing of offense to the person whom it is applied to; and the happy knack of ordering it so, is bestowed only on fools.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

Saints of Yesterday and Today.

One tradition alone remains in the popular mind regarding St. Patrick, and the least important of any connected with that good man. It is surely a pity that his reputed encounter with the snakes of the Emerald Isle should dispossess in our thought the story of his splendid service to Christianity in those early years. The noble lad who was stolen by pirates from his father's country place, carried to Ireland, sold among strangers, to become at length a great teacher and friend to his adopted people, deserves a day of his own in the calendar. Surely all lovers of righteousness can salute the memory of brave St. Patrick.

Of saints in general we cherish the impression that they are scarcely human. For one thing they lived in a time long since past. About their heads the mists of antiquity have gathered in a halo that moderns cannot becomingly wear. They appear as ethereal, bloodless creatures rather than as real people with the sap of nature running in their veins. The stained-glass window saint which is the kind we are chiefly familiar with, is a being out of another sphere than our own. Most of us wouldn't really care to be saints of that sort even if we were able to fulfill the conditions.

It is probably nearer the truth to believe that the saints were men and women of like passions with ourselves. They had their own battles to fight and their own temptations to overcome. They got hungry and tired and, it may be, on occasion they lost their tempers. Beneath the mass of legends which seem to separate them from human fellowship we come upon qualities, desires, experiences which seal their kinship with the rest of us. They were simply resolute souls who overcame their evil propensities, crucified laziness, and worked mightily for the kingdom of God.

It is good for us to dwell in the company of these great ones. We of the present age are so mightily afraid of being considered saintly! Call a man sharp, strenuous, selfish — what you will—but don't, if you value his friendship, call him pious. Any undue amount of virtue appears even ignominious and Kipling's longing for the place "where there ain't no Ten Commandments" is reckoned a smart sentiment by hosts of people who aren't really as bad as they would have us believe.

As a corrective for our mistaken notions of what sainthood really is let us know more of the spirit of the saints of old. We shall find that they were a pretty desirable sort of citizens after all. Who of us moderns would not be at once better and more interesting for a touch of the delicate honor of St. Dominic, the self-sacrifice of St. Francis or the spiritual fervor of St. Bernard.

Nor need one look in vain for genuine saints in this present time. They may be found everywhere if one puts any heart into the search. No visible nimbus is about their heads; they are not living in cloisters nor following any fantastic ideal. They have no thought of making a saintly impression, but make it in spite of themselves. In the common work of every day, immersed in such prosaic cares as a part of the human lot, they exhibit a spirit of devotion, sacrifice and patient goodness that marks them of the true saintly quality.

Some of these modern saints, whether found behind the counter or in the kitchen or in the schoolroom do as much to quicken my faith and stir me to the best that I can be, as do medieval records of those who long since won their victor's crown of gold.

THE PARSON.

The He-One of the Species.

(By a Deadly Female, After Kipling.)

Once a monkey and a parrot traveled to enlarge their view,
For they wished to learn if legends of men's wisdom could be true.
They had scarcely left their cages when they met a street parade,
With regalia weird and gorgeous, decked with fringe and scarlet braid.

"What a brave array! Where go they in the heat?" the monkey cried.
"Is it fire, or war, or famine spurs them on, or just vain pride?"
"'Tis the Knights of Ruta-Bega greet the Wall-eyed Loons," Poll said;
"For the he-one of the species makes the peacock hide his head."

"There are children in the workshops and in mines so dark and bare, While our young sport in the sunshine, fed and sheltered by our care."
"Men are lacking," said the parrot, "in parental love, you see,
For the he-one of the species is more selfish than the she."

"There's a pretty damsel coming, guarded by a sturdy hound;
What can harm the gentle maiden, snake nor wolf is lurking round?"
"She fears man," the parrot answered, "him that she should fear the least;
For the he-one of the species lacks the instinct of the beast."

"See the man! He reels and staggers and his eyes are bleared and red.
Is he ill or idiotic, tell me friend?" the monkey said.
"He is drunk," the parrot whispered, "men are very apt to be;
For the he-one of the species is more vicious than the she."

"Why are there so many buildings for the sick, the halt, the blind, Crazy, drunken, epileptic, and for those of feeble mind?"
"We don't need them," said the parrot; "from men's vices we are free;
But the he-one of the species is less moral than the she."

"I have heard," the monkey pondered, "that the nations have no law;
But they arm and kill each other, calling wholesale murder war."
"They're apostate," scoffed the parrot, "since they left their primal tree;
But the he-one of the species is more savage than the she."

"Why do some men live in mansions and hoard all the earth's great store,
While their brothers, weak and starving, homeless beg from door to door?
They might learn from bee and chipmunk," said the ape. Poll answered, "Nay;
For the he-one of the species lacks the wisdom of the jay."

"Since the he-ones do so badly," said the monkey with a sigh,
"Why in blazes don't the dunces let the she-ones have a try?"
"Don't ask me," the parrot grumbled, as she turned her steps to go;
"Why the he-one rules the she-one only God and Kipling know."

Worth the Money.

New York Evening Sun: A recently married couple and a friend were traveling by train when they were suddenly plunged into the darkness of a tunnel. There was no light in the carriage and when they abruptly returned to the daylight the bride and the bridegroom were caught in the midst of a furtive kiss.

The friend was dreadfully embarrassed, and to cover his confusion he said the first thing that came into his head:

"That-ah-that tunnel cost $2,000,000."

The bridegroom nodded his head wisely. "It was worth it," he said.

Slightly Misunderstood.

Puck: Mrs. Dashaway—Yes, while we were in Egypt we visited the Pyramids. They were literally covered with hieroglyphics.

Mrs. Pneurich—Ugh! Wasn't you afraid some of 'em would get on you?

Not an Epicure.

Judge: "Don't these parvenues make you sick?" asked Chapley of his vis-a-vis at the Spilldorf.

"I don't know," she replied innocently. "I never ate any."

WHERE ONE SMOKES THERE WILL BE FIRE

By C. L. SHERMAN

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1892.

On St. Patrick's day, solemn high mass will be celebrated in St. Clement's church at 9 a. m. by Father George, assisted by Fathers Degnan and Stroka. An entertainment will be given in the evening by the young people of the parish at Svea hall, and an address will be delivered by Rev. Dr. W. E. Degnan, professor of rhetoric and elocution at St. John's university.

C. W. Hoyt has sold his Bay View Heights residence and will move his family to West Duluth.

Detective Daniels of West Duluth handed in his resignation today.

E. W. Wilcox of Fort Atkinson, Wis., is visiting his sister, Mrs. H. B. McArthur, at West Duluth.

Bobby Gaylor will appear at the Lyceum next Tuesday evening in his great comedy success, "Sport McAllister, One of the 400."

Tomorrow night, the Irish drama, "Kathleen Mavourneen," will be presented by the young people of the procathedral parish.

The traveling men of Duluth held their first annual banquet at the Spalding last night, nearly 100 being present. E. L. Whittington acted as toastmaster. The speakers were Judge I. E. West, Mayor d'Autremont and Messrs. De La Vergne, Fitzgerald, Sutphin, Costello, Bryant, Seigrist, Prindle, Anneke, Work, McDonald and Cutler. A feature was the singing of a quartet consisting of Messrs. Burke, Doran, Reynolds and Seigrist.

James O. MacLeod, wife and child of Montreal are guests of A. P. Wood, 1727 Bench street. They are on their way to Butte City, Mont.

The Republican Sixth district committee met at St. Cloud yesterday and decided to hold the congressional convention in Duluth, the date to be fixed by Chairman C. S. Benson later on. The district convention to elect delegates to the national convention at Minneapolis will be held at Brainerd on May 3.

The Minnesota members of congress have united to procure the passage of a special bill giving Williams C. Colvill of Duluth a pension of $72 a month. He was colonel of the First Minnesota regiment and was disabled for life while leading the regiment in the famous charge on the second day at Gettysburg. The members have taken this action without Col. Colvill's knowledge.

The Gunflint Lake Iron company will be incorporated by John Paulson, O. D. Kinney and Marcus Johnson. Its properties are part of the well known Mayhew tract and are about two miles from the international boundary line. There is a fine outcropping of magnetic ore.

JOHN SHARP WILLIAMS

By SAVOYARD.

If the Democrats carry the country next fall and a Democrat becomes president March 4, 1913, that party will have a majority in the United States—nominally, at least, for we may be sure that there will be Germans and Jim Smiths in the lot.

"Now there was a time when the sons of God came to present themselves before the Lord, and Satan came also among them."

All this tariff "projeckin'" that is now going on only serves to make the issue, as did the Springer "popgun" bills of precisely twenty years ago, thought at that time the cardinal tariff creed of the Democratic party was from raw materials—wool, lumber, coal, salt, iron ore, and so on—for the manufacture in order to enable him to compete with foreigners in all markets, domestic as well as foreign, and with a view to forcing him to that policy by a tariff strictly for revenue on the finished product to encourage our foreign trade. That was the tariff idea on which we swept the country in 1892 and elected Grover Cleveland president of the United States. Whether the Democratic party still adheres to that idea is a matter of some doubt. Certainly the present speaker of the national house of representatives and its chairman of ways and means repudiated the tariff doctrine of Cleveland and Bryan, Morrison and Carlisle, Mills and Turner, Beck and Breckenridge, Vest and Cockrann, when they forced through a hostile ways and means committee the "popgun" wool bill of the extra session of this Democratic congress last summer.

The Democratic party has been fooling with the tariff question ever since the bayonet was withdrawn from the South, more than a third of a century ago, and it is not at all certain that we are any nearer tariff reform in 1912 than we were in 1862. There is not the slightest doubt that the doctrine of Cleveland and Bryan touching taxation would have prevailed long ago, if the coinage question had not interposed to send the taxing question to the rear. The Wilson tariff, even as it passed the senate, was a very long step in the right direction, and would have served ultimately to divorce the wool-grower from the wool-spinner. All that work must be done over, and it is not at all clear that the men in whose keeping the thing is in congress, are willing to see the dissolution of that adulterous connection.

But it all depends on the presidential election. If a Democrat should be chosen president and he should turn out as true a tariff reformer as Grover Cleveland was we may be happy yet. But heaven deliver us from Randallism, from Gormanism, from Jim Smithism, and all such unrighteousness.

Who is going to land in the senate in case the Democrats elect the president and secure a majority in both houses of the Sixty-third congress? Of course the leadership of Tom Martin is titular only—by senatorial courtesy solely, and accorded him because it would have been as much out of the question as it would have been outrageous to confer it on the Hon. Joseph W. Bailey. It would be an intellectual impossibility for Mr. Martin to steer a tariff bill through the senate and it would be a political absurdity for him to attempt to pilot a Democratic tariff bill in that body. Mark you, in the Sixty-third congress, if there shall be any tariff legislation at all, it will be a general bill, embracing everything from "coates" to "zinc" and all and every article intermediate.

It is going to take a consummate parliamentary leader to accomplish the work—a fine intellect, a ready, an instantaneous debator capable of meeting all comers. It demands a legician and one thoroughly acquainted with the principle of the thing and also the political phase of it. At present there is but one such man on the Democratic side of the senate—John Sharp Williams. His is the cleanest mind that body has known since John G. Carlisle, and he is a much more thoroughly cultivated man than Carlisle. He is the fittest for catch-as-catch-can debate the senate has had in thirty years and never has required a moment's warning to enter the lists and grapple with the best of them.

There be those who think Williams better suited to a turbulent body like the house, but that is a mistake. His place is the senate and there he will discover his superiority as soon as he makes up his mind to do so. I have never known a statesman with less vanity than John Sharp Williams. His friends are sometimes fretted with him for not being more self-assertive, and yet when in action he is the very Hector of debate, yielding not an inch nor ever asking or wanting quarter. The thoughtless disparage him for his looks, and his mind is as plain as his person; but it is that simplicity that is the inseparable companion of greatness. If John Sharp Williams had the corporesity of Bailey, the voice of Cockran, the solemnity and the ponderosity of some I could name, his primacy would be universally acknowledged and the leadership forced on him. There never was a more approachable man, and never a great man that I ever saw so open, so candid, so plain of speech whether debating a great question or in social converse with a friend.

It is impossible for John Sharp Williams to say a dull thing. He seizes on your attention at once. He is as miserly of language as DePoe and I defy you to find a surplus word in any statement he ever made. There is your orator, there your debater, though we must admit that John Sharp is shy in the matters of volceful declamation, of ornate rhetoric, of solemn stupidity, and all that. He will never split the ears of the groundlings, like Bailey of Texas, or William Alden Smith of Michigan; but when it comes to taking a subject by the throat and choking the error out of it he can beat both of them out of sight.

Williams is an all around man; Bailey is a specialist. William can discuss foreign relations with Lodge himself, though for a hundred years—John Quincy Adams, Charles Sumner, Henry Cabot Lodge—it has been superlatively un-American for anybody outside of Massachusetts to understand foreign affairs. And I do think it is a pity that Uncle Cullom keeps Mr. Lodge out of his proper place so long, for while the Republicans have the senate, Lodge ought to be head of foreign affairs.

There is no subject that can possibly come before the senate that John Sharp Williams cannot grapple with and do himself immense credit. His mind is so direct—his mental integrity is so exquisite—that for him study is as much amusement as it is labor. What his friends deplore is the man's utter indifference to applause, his aversion to the limelight.

But if the Democrats carry the country this year, and a Democrat is inaugurated president next time, the leadership of the senate will be forced on Williams. He cannot escape it. He is the best man for the work, and if we are to have tariff reform by the Democratic party the leadership of the senate must be entrusted to John Sharp Williams, or one such as he, and none such as he is yet in sight.

Sore Throat

Sloan's Liniment is an antiseptic remedy for inflammatory diseases of the throat and chest. For sore throat, croup and asthma it gives quick relief.

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

is also good for cough or cold.

A. CLINE, of Waldo, Ohio, writes:—"I had a severe sore throat and for four days could not swallow, as my throat had swelled very much. I used four drops of Liniment on lumps of sugar and let it dissolve on my tongue, and in eight hours I was completely cured."

IN THE LITERARY WORLD

THE LONG ROLL. Being a journal of the Civil War as set down during the years 1861-1863 by Charles F. Johnson, sometime of Hawkins' Zouaves. Illustrated with many sketches and photographs. East Aurora, N. Y.: The Roycrofters (Elbert Hubbard). For sale in Duluth by Chamberlain & Taylor and J. W. Nelson. $5.

In the first place, not because it is the most important fact, but because it is the one that first strikes the attention, let it be said that in the preparation of the Yuletide edition of this publication Mr. Hubbard's Roycrofters have done a beautiful piece of bookmaking. Printing and binding are neat, artistic and highly attractive; which gives any book a good start.

This particular book has elements of interest in itself abundant enough to make that advantage unnecessary; but it is fine that so interesting a volume could have had so attractive a dress.

The story is vital, true, absorbing. It is a very real picture of a soldier's life in war time, interesting not only to those who knew, as Charles F. Johnson loved and respected fellow citizen during many years, but to any reader for its own sake as a living, speaking human document out of the rich library of war's experiences.

The late Mr. Johnson, for many years a prominent Duluth citizen, as a lad of 18 enlisted in the First Regiment of New York Zouaves, afterwards known as the Ninth New York Volunteers, in the spring of 1861, and served more than two years. He saw plenty of actual service, and underwent the full round of camp life, battlefield and hospital. Many others had similar experiences, of course, but very few of them possessed the faculty of setting down their impressions so vividly and in a fashion so like the interest so sincere. Mr. Johnson manifestly had real literary ability, combined with an artistic bent that enabled him to provide an abundance of excellent sketches which add greatly to the interest and value of the book. This lad of 18, with eyes and ears open and heart and soul eagerly absorbing impressions, went about with pencil and notebook and sketching block, not forgetting them even in the din of battle; and now, half a century after, we are given the results of his loving labors.

So well written are the descriptions and so patriotic, penetrating, sage and true are the thoughts and observations, that it is hard to realize that this was the work of a lad in his teens.

It is a real contribution, and a valuable one, to the human side of the great war drama. Mr. Johnson did not make the mistake, as so many other diarists have, that is, of attempting to write a history of the war. He confines himself rigidly to his own personal experiences and his own personal impressions, and to such events elsewhere and rumors of events only as they related to these. There are stories of adventures on the picket lines, with the false alarms which the raw recruits heard in plenty and real fights, and tales Corrie West of the real ones that came later—in plenty, too. There are intimate word sketches of officers and comrades, and of particular interest is the loyalty shown to Col. Hawkins, who refused a brigade because he preferred to stay with his Zouaves. There are thrilling descriptions of sights on the battlefields, during and after the fighting, very vivid, very absorbing, and very true; together with the effect they had on the impressionable mind of a tender youth.

Mr. Johnson participated in the capture of the first battery taken during the war at the point of the bayonet, took part in a number of fierce conflicts, culminating at Antietam, and was wounded twice. Through it all, as his diary shows, he was as much the observer, writer and artist as he was the soldier; and history and human interests are served by the publication of this most interesting book in which his impressions and experiences are set down at last.

IN DESERT AND WILDERNESS. By Henryk Sienkiewicz, author of "Pan Michael," "With Fire and Sword," "The Deluge," "Quo Vadis," etc. Boston: Little, Brown & Co. $1.25 net.

Beyond question Sienkiewicz—pronounce it something like "Shenkeyvich," with the accent on the penultimate—is one of the world's greatest novelists. Though less popular than his "Quo Vadis," his trilogy of Polish historical novels ranks with the best literature of that class. In the present volume he takes for his scenes wild and savage Africa at the time of the insurrection of "The Mahdi," and in company with two kidnaped children and a few Sudanese, Bedouins and blacks, he takes the reader through an exciting series of events which revolve around a boy of 14 and a girl of 8. To read this remarkable story is like being carried through the African desert and wilderness upon a real journey. The author's extraordinary power of observation and faculty of description make the almost impossible events seem real. The pages of the book glow with the atmosphere and color of the desert. Though concerning children, the tale will absorb young and old. The translator is faithful but uninspired though the splendid work done by the late Jeremiah Curtin in translating the earlier Sienkiewicz novels set a standard hard to follow.

THE DRUNKARD. By Guy Thorne. New York: Sturgis & Walton Co. $1.35 net.

Fiction is used as the basis for a treatise on the theory of hereditary drunkenness and a plea for the elimination of the influence of alcohol on society by the penal restriction of procreation by drunkards. Drunkenness is treated as a disease that takes the same form in son as in father. The old opinion that the excessive use of alcoholic drinks is a vice is ridiculed, and while it is admitted that the regeneration of the individual may be brought about by the co-operation of medical science and religion, the contention is advanced that only by the restriction of the reproduction of their kind by drunkards can society be regenerated.

Gilbert Lothian is a poet of brilliant mind and of unusual success. He has a country home, a loving wife and his works bring him enough of worldly goods for comfort. He is addicted to whisky, and the reader is acquainted with the fact that his father was similarly cursed. An illegitimate son of the father was hanged for the murder of his wife, the motive of the crime being an attachment to another woman, with drink as the underlying influence. Gilbert Lothian goes through the same course, the ego aroused by drink takes the ascendency, and in the hope of satisfying an ignoble passion for a young girl he kills his wife by the administration of diphtheria serum. He finds that the other girl has married, goes into delirium tremens, ends in a monastery and confesses his crime. The reader is allowed to surmise that he meets the same end as his illegitimate brother.

The story is valuable principally for the theories advanced and the striking temperance lesson conveyed. The author claims for his work the quality of accuracy, and a series of notes depicting the mental state of the confirmed drunkard on the verge of delirium are said to be actual notes made under such circumstances. The story is strikingly real in spots, and may be read profitably by any one interested in the subject. It is, in short, a pathological melodrama in which the psychology and pathology of inebriety furnish the thrills and plenty of them.

FROM THE CAR BEHIND. By Eleanor M. Ingram, author of "The Flying Mercury," etc. Philadelphia: The J. B. Lippincott company. $1.25 net.

Here is a vivid and breezy story in which automobile racing forms the thread on which is strung a pretty and interesting romance. The hero is Girard, an Admirable Crichton who excels in all manly sports and who would have gladdened the heart of Ouida. The heroine is sweet Flavia Rose, who loves Girard, but comes near losing him through a mistake. Corrie Rose, Flavia's brother, a likable lad with a quick, hot, short temper, and Isabel Rose, her cousin, a pretty but flirtatious and rather vicious minx, are other prominent members of the cast.

In an automobile race a wrench, thrown from the car behind—driven by Corrie—hits Girard low. To all appearances, Corrie threw it in a fit of temper because he was being outgeneraled. Corrie's father cannot pardon this breach of sportsmanship, but Girard is forgiving, and takes Corrie West to his automobile factory, where he makes good as a racing driver. Perhaps it would have been as well if he had been permitted to make good in something more worth while, but then that would have made it another story. Meanwhile, Isabel's machinations have made Flavia believe that it is Isabel whom Girard loves and matters get into a pretty tangle, only to be pleasantly straightened out in the end. A decidedly readable novel.

THE MYSTERY OF MARY. By Grace Livingston Hill Lutz, author of "Dawn of the Morning," etc. Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott company. $1 net.

A gallant young man, taking a short cut through a railroad yard, is overhauled by a beautiful young woman in distress who begs him to help her escape—the question from what she is fleeing is not answered until late in the story, thus keeping our interest in suspense. He does help her. He even puts some of his sister's and mother's outer clothing apparel on her, and takes her to a dinner to which he had been invited. Then he puts her on a train for Chicago. But he can't forget her. He goes looking for her, and finds her working as a domestic in the home of a friend whom he visits. He probes the mystery, saves her from deadly peril, and, of course, falls in love. A light, attractive, pleasantly improbable and piquantly entertaining tale.

HE THAT IS WITHOUT SIN. By Dr. Herman A. Haubold. New York: The Cosmopolitan Press. $1.50.

Dr. Haubold, who is a professor of surgery in the New York university, has written a "realistic" story in which the realism seems brought in for its own sake, including the nastiness for ITS own sake. While not badly written, the tale is overwrought and unnecessarily vulgar.

THE SEVEN SONS OF BALLYHACK. By Thomas Sawyer Spivey. New York: The Cosmopolitan Press. $1.

Brother Spivey must have eaten a heavy meal of mince pie, Welsh rarebit and cabbage; gone to sleep and dreamed, and then elaborated his dreams in a book. It is said to be a satire on things political, but the satire is rather far-fetched and complicated—so much so as to be almost undiscoverable.

LABOR, LAW AND JUSTICE. By Prentice W. Chase. Stamford, Conn.: The Bulletin Publishing company. 50 cents.

Mr. Chase, who is a member of the Connecticut bar, has produced an interesting and suggestive discussion of employers' liability and workingmen's compensation, in which he argues that the risk of industry should be borne by society and injuries incident thereto compensated out of a common social fund. In other words, neither the employer nor the laborer, but society through general taxation, should pay this cost.

While Mr. Chase writes intelligently and argues his proposition vigorously, his position would be sounder if society participated in the profits of industry. Most of us will still cling to the idea that those who reap the profits of industry should bear its costs, including the cost of properly compensating its injured workers. In the long run society pays anyway; but it will make simpler bookkeeping if the employer pays the bills.

MAYA. A drama. By William Dudley Foulke. New York: The Cosmopolitan Press. $1.35.

In this poetic drama is told the story of a young Spaniard who is cast away on the shores of Yucatan, where he finds a people still retaining the characteristics of the ancient Phoenicians, from whom some scientists say the Mayas of Yucatan are descended. He has a romance with a daughter of the reigning king. While the drama shows imagination and the poetry some skill, we can't agree with the publishers that "no better lyric drama than this has been published in our language in many years."

THE LIGHT OF THE GODS. By Grace Granger. New York: The Cosmopolitan Press. $1.

VAGRANT VERSES. By Modeste Hannis Jordan. New York: Cosmopolitan Press. $1 net.

A book of verses gathered from widespread newspaper and magazine publication, and many of them very good indeed. THE AMERICAN GOVERNMENT. By Frederic J. Haskin. Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott company. $1 net.

Mr. Haskin has made an interesting compilation of intimate facts about the national government. A chapter is given to each department of the federal government and to each of the most important bureaus and the reader is given an insight into their workings. The book is the result of long familiarity with government affairs and only a man having such intimate knowledge could make a success of such an undertaking. Although the work is largely instructive, it is not prosy and is written in a style that appeals. One gains a greater appreciation of his government by reading it. The different chapters were submitted to the heads of the departments for indorsement, so the information given is authentic.

ENGLISH FOR SECONDARY SCHOOLS. By W. F. Webster. Boston: Houghton Mifflin company. 90 cents.

This very practical volume for high school sudents in English, which is by the principal of the East Side high school of Minneapolis, is a revision of the author's first book, "English: Composition and Literature," in which such changes have been made as long use has shown to be advisable. The combination of rule, example from standard authors, and exemplary exercises, is admirably practical. The earlier book, the publishers state, has a continued large sale after twelve years. The new one should exceed it in popularity, as it certainly does in efficiency.

AMATEUR GARDENCRAFT. By Eben E. Rexford. Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott Company. $1.50 net.

This is a very valuable book, we should say, for the home-maker who realizes that a good lawn, well-selected trees, shrubs and hedges, and well-arranged flower beds are as essential parts of a well-ordered home as the window curtains, but who has not the means of turning the job over to a high-priced expert. The man who gives an expert carte blanche, unlimited as to expense, will not get half the fun and satisfaction out of his home-making that the man will get who creates his own home surroundings, following his own taste and the advice of such a book as this. Mr. Rexford, though a highly skilled expert, talks as an amateur to amateurs, thus giving his book very practical value. He writes interestingly, and puts a great deal of useful information in a very attractive way.

THE RATIONAL MEMORY. Second edition. By W. H. Groves. New York: The Cosmopolitan Press. $1.50 net.

Mr. Groves, we should imagine, has devised as good a scheme of strengthening the memory—which can be strengthened by practice and weakened by abuses, just as the muscles can be—as anybody has. He gives his scheme in this book and makes it plain so anybody who will may try it.

SALLY SALT. By Mrs. Wilson Woodrow, author of "The Silver Butterfly," "The Beauty," etc. Indianapolis: The Bobbs-Merrill company. $1.25.

Salt was her name. And salt was her wit, of the true Attic brand. There was even a pinch of pepper in her temper, though not a trace of vinegar. In a righteous cause her wrath blazed as fiery as her hair. Her vigorous will gave spice and sauce to her lovable character—for she was lovable—a high-minded, generous, self-sacrificing young woman. "Sally Salt" is Mrs. Wilson Woodrow's latest creation in fiction. It is a book teeming with good things, but is not goody-goody. It breathes the spirit of the open, and the reader is permitted to roam at will in its broad acres at will. Through it is heard the click of the reaper and the nestle of the lark's wings as he rises from a field of ripened grain. There is nothing problematic about it, nothing perplexing. It is good, wholesome romance, the kind we all like to read, and, after having read, feel that we have been refreshed as by the breath of early spring.

Among the Magazines.

The Progressives of both parties have many unquestioned virtues, but hitherto the saving grace of humor has been rigorously denied them. They may well, however, welcome to their ranks Dr. S. M. Brothers, who in the March number of the Atlantic writes a letter to a citizen of the old school in which sanity, humor and sound reasoning are judiciously compounded. With a large public such methods will make more headway than the oppressively familiar trumpet call of the orator. This March issue is signalized by the first chapters of "The Sunset of the Confederacy," a detailed personal history of the week of Appomattox by Gen. Morris Schaff, himself an actor in that great drama, and author of "The Spirit of Old West Point," "The Battle of the Wilderness" and other books of peculiarly familiar to old soldiers. "The Significance of the Persian Question" is a timely and suggestive article by Roland G. Usher. In "The Prospects of Anglo-Saxon Democracy" Professor L. T. Hobhouse of London university interprets the social currents of the time. W. D. Parkinson discusses some very curious and interesting phases of the debatable rights of real estate.

The April St. Nicholas has two fine stories of adventure—very different, but with a brave lad the hero of each. One is Ford Walsh's "The Return of Okakok," the story of an exiled Eskimo lad's hard journey home. The other is Frank B. Elser's "Wireless Peter," in which a plucky lad, fascinated by the magic of wireless telegraphy, wins out in spite of many discouragements. One of the jolliest bits of nonsense which has appeared in St. Nicholas for many a day are four illustrated pages of "The Canalboat Captain's Story," told in jingle by Malcolm Douglas. Of the departments, that "For Very Little Folk" is especially delightful this month, with pictures and jingles all about finger and toe play by Arthur Guiterman, Frederic B. Hodgins, Alice Turner Curtis, Florence E. Storer, Emilie Poulsson and other child play experts.

While the whole of America is interested in the colonel's declaration, "My hat's in the ring," it is curious to reflect that one section of the citizenry has to soft-pedal political discussions. The traveling man has to be "all things to all men." The first rule of the road man is to never take sides in any section where he is looking for business. By way of illustration, Robert V. Carr, in the Popular Magazine, tells a story of a livestock commission man who drops into a territory where there is an election pending. It is a capital yarn, and one that every traveling man will appreciate.

In the March National there is the usual flashlight on affairs at Washington, calling attention to the fact that the next March winds that blow will witness another inauguration at Washington. The opening of presidential headquarters and the clearing of the decks for the campaign of 1912 are described by the editor, Joe Chapple, who seems to be here, there and everywhere—wherever there is a breath of political air stirring. The remarkable serial, "The Minor Chord," the story of an American prima donna, continues in this issue. The fiction for the month is an especially strong feature. There are glimpses of the men who are doing things today, with personal sketches about Wrigley, the chewing-gum man, Cairns, prominent in the railroad world, and other Americans who are in the public eye.

Mrs. Seymour's evening class in dramatic structure will meet at her home, 311 East Third street. Festival chorus will meet at K. of C. hall at 8 o'clock. Meeting of study class of Matinee Musicale at 207 old Masonic temple.

TUESDAY—Bonci will give concert at Lyceum theater in evening. Travel department of Twentieth Century club will meet at library at 2:30 o'clock to plan work for next year. Elks' dance at clubrooms.

WEDNESDAY—Rev. George R. Gebauer will give fifth lecture in series on "Faust" at Unitarian church at 8 o'clock. Meeting of committee from Federated clubs at library to plan for convention of Eighth district. Matinee tea at Spalding.

THURSDAY—Informal social affairs planned.

FRIDAY—Representatives of Matinee Musicale will give program at Neighborhood House. Koehler Social club will give dance at Coffin's Academy hall.

SATURDAY—Regular meeting of Saturday club at library clubroms. Matinee tea at Spalding hotel.

The biggest event of next week socially and musically, as well as one of the biggest events of the season in a musical way, will be the concert which will be given by Alessandro Bonci on Tuesday evening at the Lyceum. This is the last event in the course planned by Duluth's musical committee, Stephen H. Jones, T. W. Hugo and Horace W. Reyner, and promises to be the biggest. The advance sale of seats for this concert was greater than for any of the former events and many parties have been planned for that evening.

The musical teas at the Spalding have been largely attended this week, the tea today being in St. Patrick's day appointments. The teas next week will also be prominent among the social events, as very few are scheduled for the week.

The lectures on "Faust," which Rev. George R. Gebauer has been giving at the Unitarian church have proved a literary treat and the musical programs given with them have been pleasing settings for the lectures.

The concert given at the Y. W. C. A. Monday evening was a delightful success. Miss Berta Schmied, with her pianologues, made a decided hit, and Miss Wally Heymar, Miss Alice May Brown and Miss Florence Lawson charmed the large audience with their musicale numbers.

The luncheon which was given this noon at the Spalding hotel for Mrs. A. Starr Best, national president of the drama league, by the members of the local branch of the league was an interesting event of the week. Mrs. Best met the members of the league informally and spoke interestingly of the league work. Mrs. Otto Hartman was chairman of the committee in charge of this function, assisted by Mrs. Elmer Whyte and Mrs. R. P. Dowse. Mrs. Best will speak in Superior this evening at the organization of a Superior branch.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS ARE BECOMING PROFICIENT CRAFTSMEN IN MANY LINES

SOME OF THE BASKET WORK.

THAT skillful training of the hands is as essential as the skillful training of the mind is coming to be more and more widely believed in educational work throughout the country. The popularity of the art work at the high school has proven with what readiness the pupils will take to such work, and the fine results obtained in the art classes where basketry and the modeling of pottery are taught, prove the worth of the study.

Under the direction of Miss Gertrude Carey about seventy-five pupils are busy at this interesting work and it is not only work for the hands but work for the mind as well. The students make their own designs, work them out carefully and well before they are allowed to apply them to their work, and when they are accepted then the baskets, pottery, stenciling or other work are made from these charts.

Wonderfully pretty baskets, varied in shape and design have been made by the students and many of them with true craftsmanlike skill. There are baskets small and large, light and strong, work baskets, and flower baskets, market baskets and in fact baskets for almost any use. The class has been exceptionally fond of this work and any afternoon after school hours groups of students will be found working in the art rooms weaving.

Many of the students are continuing this work at their homes and one or two who have become proficient in the art are teaching it to groups of women and girls in their communities and are also giving private lessons. The tooled leather work too has been productive of excellent results and many of the students have sold their work and are making other pieces on order, proving the commercial value of the work as well as the educational.

The pottery work is also surprisingly fine. Vases, bowls, and various articles have been carefully moulded into artistic and useful pieces and are beautifully finished. A new kiln has been installed and after two successful firings many fine pieces have been turned out.

Even more careful work has to be done in this than in the basketry for if the pieces are not well moulded and perfectly worked up they will not stand the firing and will break in the kiln.

The stenciling work has been a part of the art work at the school for some time but the original designs worked out and applied have produced fine results.

Next year the department will put in work in metals, the making of hammered metal objects and the designing and making of jewelry.

This higher art work in the high school is an elective study for which equal credit is given with the other regular studies and besides this some 300 students are taking the regular art course of drawing and painting and design work under the supervision of Miss Jessie Case.

Colleges also are beginning to give credits for the highest art work, more and more, recognizing the worth of the training of the hands in connection with the training of the minds through the regular accepted courses.

The work being done by the students makes a fine display to which visitors are always welcome and a visit to the art department in the new manual training high school would prove instructive.

CLUBS AND MUSICAL

EVENTS OF THE WEEK IN CLUBS AND MUSICAL CIRCLES

Matinee Musicale's Concert Monday Most Enjoyable—Twentieth Century Club Election—Junior Drama League—Talk on Prisons—Other Happenings of Interest.

SEVERAL interesting club and musical events have held the attention of Duluth's women during the week.

At the meeting of the Matinee Musicale Monday afternoon at the Endion M. E. church Miss Isabel Pearson proved herself an artistic organist and displayed her mastery of her instrument in several difficult and varied numbers. Miss Alice Mae Brown sang a beautiful solo number accompanied by Miss Pearson which was artistic and delightful. Miss Mary Gladys Reynolds also pleased with a fine vocal number to which Miss Wally Heyman played a violin obligato with sympathy and finish. Mrs. J. N. McKindley accompanied this number. Miss Florence Hyland, Miss Brown, Leon Cooley and George Edward Sutton in several quartet numbers also gave special pleasure with their singing.

At the meeting of the literature department of the Twentieth Century club Tuesday afternoon at the library club room, Mrs. J. C. H. Engel was elected chairman of the department for next year and Mrs. Guy Diehl, leader of the class in modern drama which will be continued under this department. Mrs. Henry Taylor, who has held the position as chairman of the department for several years since Mrs. H. C. Marshall left the city, declined the nomination for re-election. This department is closing a most interesting series of studies for this year. The two classes in modern drama have read and discussed several of the most prominent playrights and their more important works and a series of interesting talks has been given one at each meeting.

A chapter of the Junior Drama league was also formed during the week by a score of young people of the Endion M. E. church. Mrs. S. R. Holden, chairman of the Duluth center of the Drama league, and Mrs. George Morgan, chairman of the educational committee of the Duluth center, were present at this meeting Wednesday evening when the chapter was formed, and helped to organize. The following officers were chosen: Chairman, Mrs. John Walker Powell; vice president, R. H. Herrick; secretary, Miss Verna Willard; treasurer, Ralph Dunning; stage manager, Russel Clifford; property man, George Stickles. A play committee was appointed, with Miss Marion Herrick as chairman, the other members being Dr. John Walker Powell and Miss Marguerite Turner.

Members of the Lester Park Literary club listened to an interesting talk by Miss Edna Meeker, assistant secretary of the Associated Charities, at their regular meeting Tuesday afternoon. Capital punishment and the penal institutions were her subjects, of which she spoke comprehensively and delinitely. She spoke of the abolishing of capital punishment in many of the prisons and predicted that the general tendency is towards its absolute abolishment. She also advocated the establishment of a house of detention here, pointing out the needs for such a place both for children and older persons, but especially for children. This meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Theodore Holister, with Mrs. Harriet L. Carey as leader.

CONVENTION OF CLUBS.

Eighth District Clubs Will Meet in Duluth in May.

MAY 3 and 4 are the dates set for the annual convention of the Federated clubs of the Eighth district of Minnesota, which will be held in Duluth. Delegates from all federated clubs in the district will be entertained here, among whom Mrs. McCarthy of Grand Rapids, president of the district, and Mrs. E. H. Lloyhed, state president of the association, are both expected. A committee of women from each of the federated clubs of Duluth will be appointed to arrange the details of the meetings.

ART EXHIBIT.

Effort Being Made to Encourage Craftsmen in All Lines.

THE Minnesota State Art society has sent to the artists and craft workers throughout the state an announcement and invitation asking them to contribute toward the annual exhibition of art to be held this spring, beginning April 27, at St. Paul, and followed by Stillwater, Anoka and Duluth.

The state art society plans to make this exhibit as broad and comprehensive as possible, and hopes to show the many phases of art and its application in Minnesota.

The society invites all schools, artists, craftsmen, architects and manufacturers who are producing work which has artistic merit and possibilities.

Lists and addresses of artists throughout the state are constantly changing, and it is impossible for the state art society to reach all. Any one, however, who has not received a prospectus and is desirous of contributing to the coming exhibit, can receive detailed information with entry blanks, etc., by addressing the director of the State Art society, old capitol, St. Paul.

Maurice I. Flagg, the director of the society, plans to arouse interest in developing Minnesota's resources.

At the coming exhibition the development and artistic possibilities of Minnesota Kasota stone will be shown.

A St. Paul sculptor is preparing a series of specimens from this material.

A special architectural exhibit and competition is being planned.

Red Wing clay and its expression in terms of tile and pottery will be demonstrated.

Flax which is raised in the state and converted into threat will be displayed, made into useful and beautiful material.

The lacemakers of New Ulm and their work will be represented by a complete exhibit of different types of laces. A lacemaker will show how the lace is made.

Other phases of industrial art will combine with the above to demonstrate what Minnesota is doing along artistic lines, as well as possibilities for the future. Not the least interesting will be a series of lectures having a direct bearing upon the exhibit, and will be given by people of authority in the state.

Fine Arts.

One prize of $100 for best work in oil or water color.

One prize of $25 for second best.

Honorable mention for third best.

Sculpture.

One prize of $50 for the best work in sculpture.

One prize of $25 for second best.

Honorable mention for the third.

Handicraft.

The sum of $120 is to be awarded and proportioned as the jury deems best. The following crafts are eligible for competition: Jewelry, metal work, wood carving, pottery, bookbinding, leather, design-book plate, book decoration, illumination, laces, weaving, embroideries, stenell, stained glass.

Artistic Photography.

One prize of $20 for best group of photographs from life or nature. (Number accepted from one exhibitor limited to six.)

One prize of $10 for best single photograph from life or nature.

All work receiving prizes will become the property of the society if the selling price does not exceed the award. In the latter case the society may acquire the article by adding the difference. No prize can be divided, and the jury may withhold the prize whenever, in its judgment, the exhibit does not warrant an award.

Student Competition.

One prize of $10 for best study in oils or water color from nature. Honorable mention for second best.

One prize of $10 for best illustration in black and white from nature. Honorable mention for second best.

One prize of $10 for best textile design in color for either weaving or printing. Honorable mention for second best.

The exhibition committee consists of Mrs. Herbert Davis, chairman, St. Paul; Mrs Andreas Ueland, Mrs. H. S. Woodruff, Miss Julie Gauthier, Miss Grace E. McKinstry, Mrs. Samuel Sewall, Miss Emily McMillan, Edwin H. Hewitt, Bishop James McGolrick, Theodore Keane, Robert Koehler, Allen Albert.

BONCI CONCERT.

Famous Italian Tenor's Appearance Will Be Notable Event.

CONCERT goers are looking forward to Tuesday night, when the famous Bonci will give his first concert in Duluth. For this concert there were over 300 individual advance subscriptions, ranging from one to seven seats and the concert is expected to be one of Duluth's social and musical events. Bonci is drawing enormous audiences in every city where he sings. At his New York recital he drew 3,500 people. Symphony hall, Boston, was packed to hear Bonci and Kubelik in a joint recital. Philadelphia, also, gave him an overflow audience and it looks as if every seat will be occupied at his concert here in Duluth. With reference to the gallery seats, it has been decided to place them on sale on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock and thus save women much annoyance waiting in the line in the early evening. The elevator will be running for the accommodation of those holding gallery tickets. The following is the program:

Glee Club Coming.

MUSIC lovers are anticipating a treat in the concert which will be given here Saturday evening, May 30, at the Pilgrim Congregational church by the Carlton Glee club. This organization of young men has sung in this city before and they will be gladly welcomed on their return. Press comments in other cities where they have appeared have been most flattering to the singers. The following is an example of notices of their work:

"The Carlton Glee club, consisting of sixteen voices appeared at the high school auditorium yesterday evening under the auspices of the athletic association and was greeted by a large and enthusiastic audience. Each number called for an encore and each one seemed better than the preceding number. The burlesque on grand opera was particularly good and the strains of 'Faust' and other noted operas were heard in the act. The boys made a decided hit and will be given a packed house should they appear here again."

CLUB NOTES.

Twentieth Century Club Activities for the Coming Week.

NEXT week will be an active one for members of the Twentieth Century club, the chief event of which will be the lecture-tea on Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. J. Atwood, 1941 Waverly avenue, Hunter's Park, at which Mrs. Cobb of Brainerd will give a talk on "Maeterlinck and His Works." Receiving with Mrs. Atwood will be Mrs. J. H. Crowley, president of the club, and Mrs. Julia Barnes, and assisting about the rooms will be the following members of the literature department: Mrs. Henry Taylor, Mrs. J. C. H. Engel, Mrs. L. H. Corcoran, Mrs. L. K. Daugherty, Mrs. A. L. Warner, Mrs. E. Schmied, Mrs. B. Spiegel, Mrs. K. M. Nicoles, Mrs. G. E. Diehl, Mrs. A. E. Walker, Mrs. H. H. Phelps, Mrs. Ida Merritt, Mrs. H. N. McHarg, Mrs. R. B. Liggett, Mrs. H. P. Bjorge, Mrs. W. J. Works, Mrs. S. Dix, Mrs. M. Holden, Mrs. O. A. Oredson, Mrs. E. J. Bardwell, Mrs. W. Holden, Mrs. J. J. Moe, Mrs. F. C. Berry, Mrs. William Carlson, Mrs. O. Holden, Mrs. M. B. Cullum, Mrs. B. H. Hayes, Mrs. E. F. Barker, Mrs. M. Cook, Miss Frances Earhart, Miss Grace Sheridan, Miss Mary Shesgreen, Miss Conrad, Miss Ely, Miss Colby and Miss Oliver. Mrs. Henry Taylor will preside at the tea-table.

Monday morning the adjourned February meeting of the executive board will be held at the club room of the library at 10 o'clock. As this will be the last meeting of the board before the annual meeting of the club, there will be several matters of importance to be discussed and every member is urged to be present.

Tuesday afternoon all present members of the travel department and all former members of this department and all women interested are cordially invited to attend an informal meeting to be held in the library club room at 2:30 o'clock at which plans for the work for next year will be made.

Free Lecture.

The fifth regular lecture in the course on modern drama, under the direction of the literature department of the Twentieth Century club, will be given by Miss Mary D. McFadden on Friday evening, March 22, at the library club rooms at 8 o'clock. The subject will be "Modern American Plays and Playwrights." This lecture is free and a cordial invitation is extended to any one interested.

The activities at the Neighborhood house will be carried out as per schedule during the week. On Friday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock a musical program will be given for the children who attend the clubs and classes at the house by representatives of the Matinee Musicale.

Yesterday afternoon a delightful program was given for the children there under the direction of Miss Margaret Anneke. The young folks keenly appreciated every number and accorded them vociferous applause. Miss Smith, pianiste, played two delightful little numbers, Miss Alice Reynolds sang Gaynor's "Come Out Mr. Sunshine" and another number and Miss Emily Smith played a beautiful violin number. Miss Lucille Albachten accompanied the numbers and played "The Star Spangled Banner" at the close of the program when all of the audience rose and joined in the singing.

MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN.

Catholics Will Make Effort to Secure New Guild Members.

MEMBERS of the Guild of St. James are interested in the campaign for new members which will be commenced on Sunday, March 17 and continue until June 1. The entire campaign has been planned by a woman interested in the orphanage and the guild and she has worked out a set of rules governing the contest.

The object is to secure as many new members as possible for the guild and the person securing the largest number will receive a first prize of a chafing dish. The second largest number will win for the one who gets the members, a gold ring with setting, and the third prize will be a picture of the Holy Madonna.

The St. James' Orphanage, which is run by this guild, is one of the most worthy causes for help in the city and members of the guild are proud of the chance to help. An earnest canvass for members will be commenced Sunday, under the following regulations:

"Section 1. The president of each sodality will be given a copy of regulations, to be read at all meetings during the contest, in order to prevent mistakes, also 100 membership cards, and as many more as she wishes. Three young ladies will be selected in each parish as candidates. Sodalities will work for their own candidates with the guild, who so kindly offered to assist the young ladies of each parish in this worthy cause. Sodalities with all other workers, will have free access to enter any parish in Duluth and range towns for members.

"Sec. 2. A copy of regulations, also names of candidates will be given to the societies of each parish to be read at its meetings during the contest, in order that they may fully understand the work and help the young ladies of their own parish.

"Sec. 3. All workers are kindly asked to place on back of membership card, the name of candidate and to which parish they wish it to be given. Memberships without names of candidates or parish specified, will at the close of the contest be equally divided among sodalities in order to prevent any feeling of favoritism that might otherwise exist.

"Sec. 4. Due to an error in printing of date on cards, we kindly ask you when members pay to see that the correct date of expiration of membership be put on, thus giving each person the beenfit of a full year's membership. We trust that every one will give this their personal attention.

"Sec. 4. Returns from all sodalities will be given over to the president of same. Societies in each parish will make returns to the treasurer of the guild, Mrs. J. H. Kenna. Any questions relative to the contest not fully understood will be carefully explained by the president of the guild. Prizes can be seen at F. S. Kelly's furniture store.

"Sec. 6. We trust that every young lady and young man of the diocese will enter into this grand work with a hearty enthusiasm, and with the staunch support of the older ones, who have always taken such a deep interest in the past, the contest cannot help but be a much greater success than we anticipate.

"Duluth's motto is Do It For Duluth. Let ours be Do It For the Orphans. I with emphasis on the orphans. I heartily wish the campaign great success.

JAMES McGOLRICK."

The guild already has one of the largest memberships of any club in the city under the leadership of Mrs. Otto Hartman, president.

To Honor Mrs. Taylor.

IN COMPLIMENT to Mrs. Henry Taylor, who has been chairman of the literary department of the Twentieth Century club for several years and who this year refused the nomination for re-election, a social afternoon is being planned by members of the club to be given on Monday afternoon, April 1, at the library club room, to which all members of the club are cordially invited. Mrs. E. Frank Barker will give a talk on Southern writers speaking of some Kentucky writers in particular, with some of whom she is personally acquainted. Readings of extracts from some of their works will be given by different people and among the authors whose work she will touch upon are: James Lane Allen, Eliza Calvert Hall, Dasil Duke, Alice Hegan Rice, Tale Young Rice, John Fox, Jr., George Madden Martin, Elvira Meller, Henry Watterson, Col. E. W. Newman (Savoyard), Elizabeth Cherry Waltz and Joel Chandler Harris.

Matinee Musicale.

THE study class of the Matinee Musicale will hold its regular meeting Monday afternoon, March 18 at 3 o'clock at Miss Simond's studio. Dr. Robinson will address the class on "The Voice as an Organ" and will speak with charts and drawings clearly explaining the use of the vocal chords and the muscles of the throat.

Theosophical Meeting.

THE Duluth branch of the Theosophical society will meet next Thursday at 8 p. m. in room 28, Winthrop block. Study will be from "Pedigree of Man," by Annie Besant. The advanced study class for members will meet Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the same room. "The Evolutionary Period of Abraham" will be the subject. An enquirers' class for the study of theosophy will be held Sunday evening at 8 o'clock, to which the public is invited.

W. R. C.

The regular monthly thimblebee of the Woman's Relief corps will be held Thursday afternoon of next week at the home of Mrs. John McMillan of 430 Twelfth avenue east.

"MUSICAL FORM."

Subject of Illustrated Talk By Ernest Lachmund.

Ernest Lachmund gave an interesting talk this afternoon to his pupils on "Musical Form," giving illustrations on the piano and cello. The lecture was given in Mr. Lachmund's studio in the old Masonic temple.

Plan for Convention.

A meeting of the members of the committees from the various Federated clubs of Duluth will be held Wednesday morning at the library club room at 10 o'clock to perfect plans for the program of the convention of the Federated Clubs of the Eighth District of Minnesota, which will be held in Duluth, May 3 and 4.

Festival Chorus.

The Festival Chorus will meet next week on Monday evening at the Knights of Columbus hall on West First street instead of on Tuesday night, as usual, on account of the Bonci concert, which will be given at the Lyceum theater Tuesday.

Luther League.

The Luther League of St. John's English Lutheran church will meet with Miss Lillian Olson, 102 South Eighteenth avenue east, Tuesday evening, March 19.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The school orchestra held a rehearsal in the music room Wednesday afternoon. Under the direction of Prof. Dwight Hiestand, the students devoted most of the time to perfecting the several numbers to be played by the organization at the teachers' convention.

The first of the series of illustrated lectures on colleges throughout the country, which are being given under the auspices of the Association of College Alumnae of this city, was held Wednesday afternoon in the physics laboratory. Mrs. W. H. Hoyt and Mrs. Carroll Graff discussed Smith college and Minnesota university, and a large number of girls were present, including several from the normal school.

The time limit has been extended in the prize essay contest conducted by the local Association of College Alumnae, so that all the girls who are planning to compete in writing essays may have the benefit of hearing some of the illustrated talks on the various schools and colleges, which are given every week in the physics laboratory by the members of the association.

• • •

The regular weekly meeting of the musical society was held Tuesday afternoon in the assembly hall. All the students selected to take part in the opera, "Trial by Jury," were present and Prof. Custance spent most of the period in rehearsing the music of the play.

• • •

A short meeting of the junior class was held Wednesday afternoon at the close of school. President William Elder read a report of the expenditures and receipts of the junior mid-year dance and announced that the class came out about even on the finances of the hop.

• • •

The first of a series of informal parties was held last evening in the gymnasium by the members of the enthusiastic organization known as the Junto Literary society. The students held a banquet and several speeches were made following which a program was presented.

• • •

The halls on the first floor of the school building are filled with standards upon which are mounted specimens of writing, drawing, etc., which have been made by the various classes of the local grade schools.

The specimens have been declared excellent by the delegates to the teachers' convention who have been inspecting them.

School was dismissed yesterday at the end of the fourth period. The usual routine was followed for the first four periods and the afternoon sessions were dispensed with.

• • •

The high schol boys' Bible classes met for dinner and study Tuesday evening at the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. The courses now being studied will be concluded in a few weeks and the members will take the international Bible study examinations.

The Monday and Wednesday gymnasium classes reported for practice yesterday following the regular lunch period, under the direction of Miss Alice Schidecher, the new gymnasium instructor for the girls. The class basketball teams will be chosen next week and the interclass tournament will be started as soon as a satisfactory schedule has been arranged.

• • •

In chapel yesterday Prof. Wilbur H. Schilling, coach of the basket ball team, delivered an enthusiastic address to the students relative to the basket ball situation. Mr. Schilling announced the record of the quint and stated that nine games had been won out of ten played. NO MORE MISERY IN THE STOMACH

Indigestion, Gas, Sourness, or Dyspepsia Goes in Five Minutes.

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch Gas and Eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of Dizziness, Heartburn, Fullness, Nausea, Bad taste in mouth and stomach headache —this is Indigestion.

A full case of Pape's Diapepsin costs only 50 cents and will thoroughly cure your out-of-order stomach, and leave sufficient about the house in case some one else in the family may suffer from stomach trouble or Indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases, then you will understand why Dyspeptic trouble of all kinds must go, and why Diapepsin always relieves sour, out-of-order stomach or Indigestion in five minutes. Diapepsin is harmless and tastes like candy, though each dose contains power sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but, what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for Biliousness or Constipation.

This city will have many Diapepsin cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be cranky about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever try a little for Indigestion or Gastritis or any other Stomach misery.

Get some Pape's Diapepsin now, this minute, and forever rid yourself of Stomach Trouble and Indigestion.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

BOTH SIDES MAKE CLAIMS

Roosevelt and La Follette Forces Are Lining Up for Final Test.

La Follette Stirs Up Enthusiasm at Mandan and Bismarck With Speeches.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.) — When United States Senator La Follette reaches Grand Forks tonight to address the big audience which is certain to congregate he will bring to a close the most active campaign that has ever been waged in North Daktota in a presidential contest. The fight for delegates through the control of the presidential primary election of next Tuesday, the first such election held in the state and the first election of that nature held in the Union, has been a hot one, and today, with only a short time intervening before the polls will be thrown open, the two opposing forces—Roosevelt and La Follette—are claiming victory.

La Follette sentiment is unmistakably strong, and unless the Roosevelt forces can come in from the Missouri slope with an extremely heavy vote, they will be defeated. It is on the West that the Roosevelt forces expect their greatest strength, and it is there that the La Follette managers have made their hardest fight.

The Grand Forks La Follette club has made complete plans for his entertainment here this evening. There will be receptions committees to take care of the senator, and the Grand Forks Votes for Women club, recently organized, will tender a reception to Mrs. La Follette. A special train will run here from Devils Lake and it is expected that a large number will come to the city on that train.

Wisconsin Senator Is Cheered.

Bismarck, N. D., March 16.—United States Senator La Follette, candidate for the Republican nomination for the presidency, Friday made a dramatic bid for preference at next week's North Dakota presidential primaries. He entered the Upper Missouri river cattle country where silk handkerchiefs supplant linen collars and each sombrero is leather banded and delivered what he declares is his estimate of Theodore Roosevelt. This occurred at Mandan.

Senator La Follette not only did this, but he departed with the cheers of his audience ringing in his ears.

The occurrence, which La Follette's friends said was wholly unexpected, came near the end of a busy day during which the senator addressed a large meeting at Jamestown and made car-end speeches to moderate sized crowds at Cleveland, Medina, Dawson, Steele and Driscoll, and spoke last night at Bismarck.

Senator La Follette was concluding his Mandan speech, which had dealt principally with the initiative, referendum and recall, the Sherman anti-trust law, and the 1907 panic, when a gray-haired ranchman in the audience interrupted him:

"Who was president when you say these things should have been done?" interrogated the ranchman.

"Roosevelt was president," replied Senator La Follette. "Roosevelt was president," continued the senator, "but I want you to know that I don't believe he was to blame for the panic. It was a Wall Street panic. I don't want to be unfair to any one, no, no.

"But I do say that with the right as president to secure the things for the people, went the responsibility."

"Roosevelt passed by a wonderful opportunity there."

"But now that you have brought him before this meeting I want to tell you something about Theodore Roosevelt. I want to tell you this:

Says People Owe Teddy Much.

"The people of this country owe Theodore Roosevelt a debt of gratitude.

"Mean and stingy indeed is the mind that cannot credit him for what he has done.

"Few presidents, none since Lincoln, did more to set before the people the right moral standards, particularly regarding the holding of public office.

"However, no one knew Roosevelt better than he knew himself. He knew that he had no liking for the plodding research and study necessary to master those great economic problems.

"And he knew that he had never studied the great railroads of this country and their bearing upon the situation that I have described to you. So, what do we find that he did?

"He said that the ground had been prepared and said that they had answered for a constructive president to take hold. He selected the man, President Taft. On the constructive side, it was a bad guess.

"Now, I have referred to the record of Roosevelt and not only is it open, but it is the duty at this critical hour to point out that record. Study that record carefully. This is not time to follow any blind sentiment. The least mistake by congress or the government regarding the trusts will forever fasten this burden upon the people. So I admonish you, when you elect a representative in congress, a United States senator or a man to fill the president's chair, see to this: 'See that you will not get just talk, but that you will get something done.'"

That 1907 Panic.

Just previous to his discussion of Col. Roosevelt, some one had questioned "How about the 1907 panic, senator?"

"That's a whole speech in itself," said Senator La Follette, "and my watch says it is now 5 o'clock."

"You're an hour off, senator," said the chairman of the meeting, "we're in the Western time belt here and it's 4 o'clock."

"That's the finest gift, that hour, that you could make me," answered the senator.

"I'll tell you about the panic," he said as he again turned to his audience.

"That was a Wall Street panic. There were no reason for it."

"But we didn't have the panic here," said the man in the audience.

"Maybe," said the senator, "but you didn't have the cash in North Dakota banks to move the crops and that's where you farmers suffered.

"When that artificially created panic was precipitated more than $410,000,000 of country bank money was locked up in Wall Street—the New York banks wanted that money in New York, to buy in stocks that were being hammered down, Tennessee Iron and others. During all the time of the panic, only 5 per cent of this country's bank money was returned to its source.

"Morgan, during that period ran his private car over to Washington and Cortelyou let him have $47,000,000 to take back to New York to buy up some of the cheap stocks. There was absolutely no reason, aside from speculation, for the panic."

WRENSHALL MAN HAS CLOSE CALL

Fast Northern Pacific Train Kills One of Horses He Is Driving.

Carlton, Minn., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. B. Gilbert, who lives south of Wrenshall, had one of his horses killed by a Northern Pacific train Monday morning. He was hauling cordwood and while going over the crossing his load stuck, the rails being about an inch higher than the planks. Just about this time the passenger train from Brainerd, a couple of hours late, came tearing along at a rate of sixty miles an hour. The engineer tried to stop the train, but was unable to do so in time, the engine striking the team, killing one horse, while the other was completely turned over in the air, but escaped without injury. The driver had a very narrow escape, as he tried until the last moment to get the load off before starting to get out of the way.

CARLTON COUNTY JURORS DRAWN

Citizens Who Will Serve on Grand and Petit Juries at April Term.

NORTHWEST HAS FAMINE OF SEED

Bemidji Instructor Says Condition Confronting Minnesota Is Serious.

Bemidji, Minn., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Prof. Otto I. Bergh, instructor in agriculture in the Bemidji high school and one of the recognized farming experts of Beltrami county, asserts that Beltrami county and the state generally is in the midst of a seed famine.

"The public generally do not know that we are today in the midst of a seed famine," says Mr. Bergh. "We are facing a condition that is vastly of greater importance than the presidential campaign that now holds the public mind. We are face to face with a situation that will likely go down in the history of the Northwest as the seed famine of 1912. From the Wabash to the Black Hills, and from the Great Lakes to the Ozark mountains there is today a shortage of good seed corn that has not been paralleled since this region became the corn field of the world. Word has just reached us that practically all of Northrup King & Co.'s seed corn, amounting to more than 160,000 bushels, has spoiled, and they can only fill fractional orders. There is a veritable famine in flax seed, as well as timothy, and all through the Northwest the seed grain, especially wheat, is of unusually poor quality."

FIRST RURAL CARRIER

In Manitowoc County Celebrates Thirteenth Anniversary.

Manitowoc, Wis., March 16.—John Houghton, the first rural mail carrier in Manitowoc county, who on his first trip thirteen years ago carried one letter and one paper, celebrated the anniversary of his employment yesterday by carrying a load of more than 100 pounds over his route. Houghton was the only rural carrier in the county for three years, but today there are nearly fifty and not a traveled road but has the service.

TWO SANDSTONE DEATHS.

Mrs. O. F. Larson and Louis Nelson Are Called.

Sandstone, Minn., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Wednesday Mrs. O. F. Larson suddenly passed away at her home here. She was formerly Miss Maude Gibbs and was born in Tracy twenty-eight years ago. There she received her high school education and later she attended the normal. She devoted her life to teaching and for several years taught in the Sandstone schools. Last spring she was married to O. F. Larson. Before the end of the school last year, she was taken ill and had to give up her duties and for the past few months has been confined to a hospital with nervous prostration. She returned home about a week ago and was thought to be improving and her end came very unexpectedly. The widowed husband accompanied the remains on the Thursday morning train to Tracy, where the funeral was held.

Louis P. Nelson, Sandstone's oldest resident, passed quietly away Thursday morning at 2 o'clock. He was stricken with tuberculosis about eight months ago and has been confined to bed for nearly four months. Funeral services were held Friday and interment was made at the local cemetery.

FOREST PRODUCTS!

Ties, Pulpwood, Piling, Posts, Poles, Mining Timber and Logs.

McLEOD-DAVIS TIMBER CO., 515 Lyceum Building, DULUTH.

TO HAUL RED METAL.

Calumet & Hecla Installs First Gasoline Locomotive.

Calumet, Mich., March 16.—The first gasoline locomotive to be tried in the Copper country has been received by the Calumet & Hecla Mining company and will be used to haul copper from the company's mills to the smelters at Hubbell. The locomotive weighs seven and one-half tons and has been secured for experimental purposes. Should it prove successful it is likely that the steam locomotives will be replaced by others of the gasoline type.

BOTTINEAU TAFT CLUB.

Only Organization of Kind in State Formed.

Bottineau, N. D., March 16.—This city enjoys the unique distinction of having what is probably the only Taft club in the state. Promoters of the club expect to have 75 or 100 members. Officers elected are: Dave R. Carlson, president; T. F. Woods, vice president; J. A. Johnson, secretary; Anton Lallum, treasurer. When widespread La Follette sentiment is considered in connection with this Taft organization it is evident that Roosevelt will have little strength in Bottineau county. Taft men are talking of a rapid organization campaign throughout this part of the state. La Follette men are also active.

CONTEST STORY CANARD.

Dr. Dumas Denies He Will Carry Election Into Courts.

Cass Lake, Minn., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. Dumas denies the story sent out of Bemidji and printed in some newspapers that he contemplates contesting the election held here last Tuesday that resulted in his defeat for mayor. He said he went to Bemidji this week to consult his attorney, Michael Daly, about his case, which is coming up in the federal court at Fergus Falls in June.

He states that under no circumstances would he consider a contest of the election even if the hours of voting had been irregular, which they were not. He states that the people have spoken and he respects their wishes in the matter.

DIXON SENDS MESSAGE.

Roosevelt Manager Cautions South Dakota Progressives.

Watertown, S. D., March 16.—Expressing his disapproval of the proposal to place a second set of Roosevelt delegates in the field in South Dakota, at a meeting to be held in Aberdeen, March 20, Joseph M. Dixon, chairman of the executive committee, wired Progressive papers of the state as follows:

"Our positive information here is that Taft people are using every endeavor in two or three states to stir up dissensions to divide the anti-Taft forces, hoping in this way to elect Taft delegates. We believe it would be fatal to the Progressive cause to permit the opposition to bring about a division in South Dakota."

DR. VINCENT ADDRESSES WINONA TEACHERS' MEET.

Winona, Minn., March 16. — The feature of the convention of the Southeastern Minnesota Educational association Friday was the address by President Vincent of the University of Minnesota before an audience that taxed the capacity of the local theater. Nearly 400 teachers from various sections of Southeastern Minnesota are attending the convention. Dr. John Bergan, recently elected president of Albert Lea college, will make the principal address today.

ARRESTED AT MARINETTE ON CHARGE FROM IOWA.

Marinette, Wis., March 16.—Joseph Hubbard, Jr., indicted for murder at Crescent City, Ill., was arrested by Sheriff Ireland of Crescent City. Hubbard, together with Roy and Orrin Day, all of Wausaukee, Wis., are wanted in connection with the alleged shooting of Melvin Broderick. Roy Day is now in jail at Crescent City, but Orrin is still at large.

Milwaukee Road Improvements.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 16.—Announcement is made that the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway will expend $1,500,000 in improving its roadbed in the Northwest. While considerable of the work will be done in Minnesota it is said the greater part of the improvement will be made in Iowa.

$25,000 Fire Loss at Missoula.

Missoula, Mont., March 16.—Fire from an overheated furnace Thursday destroyed the European hotel here, causing a loss of $25,000, with a partial insurance.

Does Not Apply to Janesville.

Janesville, Wis., March 16.—Attorney General Bancroft, through Secretary of State Frear, has filed a decision in the question relative to Janesville's vote on Tuesday next, deciding that the second choice in primary vote does not apply to Janesville, which is under a commission form of government.

Chippewa Falls—Chippewa county this year will expend about $60,000 on improving its highways and $50,000 in bonds may be issued.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Bismarck, N. D.—The inspection committee of the North Dakota Fire Prevention association dropped into the state capital Wednesday evening, and Thursday surprised the local business and wholesale establishments by visiting the buildings for the purpose of looking them over.

Minot, N. D.—That the lignite coal shortage in Minot is the result of a car scarcity is the assertion of leading lignite mine operators having offices in this city.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Wednesday night, March 20, in the assembly room of the local high school, Prof. Frederick H. Koch of the department of English, will give a number of Shakespearean readings for the benefit of the junior class.

Minot, N. D.—Louis Muhs was seriously injured in the explosion of a hot water boiler in the basement of his house. Mr. Muhs was testing the boiler when it exploded. A piece of iron struck him in the side, and he was badly burned by escaping steam. The fire department was called out, but there was no fire resulting from the explosion.

Devils Lake, N. D.—An investment company which will, before long, play a conspicuous part in the real estate business of the Lake region, is being organized with A. M. Mikkelson, auditor of the Farmers' Grain company, H. Mikkelson of Webster and C. L. Thwing of Webster, the incorporators.

Bismarck, N. D.—That North Dakota lands are soon due for a boom and that when the spring weather opens in earnest, there will be a steady influx of buyers and men seeking locations is evidenced by inquiries being received by Commissioner of Agriculture Gilbreath. From the tone of these letters, North Dakota lands are preferred to those of Texas and Florida.

Watertown, S. D.—Under instructions from the war department at Washington, Adjt. Gen. C. H. Englesby of this city will next Monday offer for sale 10,000 pounds of heavy woolen clothing, to be sold as rags and which can be made into rugs. The clothing consists of old uniforms, now out of date.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Mankato—The agents' association of the Omaha and Northwestern roads held its quarterly meeting in this city Thursday and discussed matters relating to the quick handling of freight. About fifty agents and railway officials were present.

Cokato—P. Stevenson, election teller at the Cokato elections, has been arrested charged with fraud in connection with the wet and dry fight here. It is charged that Stevenson was discovered to have withheld several wet ballots. The votes, it is said, were found in his pockets. He has been released on $2,000 bail pending trial.

St. Paul—Fire completely destroyed the garage of C. W. Verdon, 378 Summit avenue, Thursday night. The three-story brick building and two automobiles were burned, causing a loss of $7,000. The fire is believed to have been caused from sparks from a stove in the basement. The driver, Theodore Boeringer, was away at the time.

Anoka—James Foley, a Civil war veteran and a man beloved by young and old alike, passed away at the home of his son, E. H. Foley, in Zimmerman on March 10, aged 71 years. Funeral services were held in the Catholic church at Anoka Wednesday morning and were attended by many relatives and friends of this hero of many battles.

Princeton—Harvey B. Case died at his home in Milo township Wednesday. Mr. Case was 67 years of age and had lived in Milo five years, going there from Osage, Iowa. He was born in Connecticut. His wife and three sons, Earl and William of Osage, Iowa, and Elmer of Milo, survive him.

Stillwater—Prisque Peloquin, a resident of the town of Centerville, Chisago county, for the past fifty-four years, died Wednesday morning, aged 73 years. He is survived by his widow, three sons and four daughters. The funeral was held Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock from St. Geneves church at Centerville.

Mankato—The funeral of Joseph Schroeder, who was shot and killed by a maniac at Hot Springs, Ark., on March 6, was held at the St. Peter and St. Paul's Catholic church Thursday morning at 9 o'clock. Interment was made in Calvary cemetery. A large number of the friends of the deceased attended the services.

Fergus Falls—Samuel L. Copeland, who came from California to answer for the Northern Pacific holdup in 1893, is still at liberty and will probably remain at liberty, as the statute of limitations seems to bar prosecution after this lapse of time. The statute of limitations applies to all crimes except murder, which never outlaws.

Rush City—Mrs. John Herring celebrated her 71st birthday on March 7. Among the friends and relatives present was Mrs. Herring's daughter, Mrs. Carl Holmburg of Pine City.

ON THE IRON RANGES

OFFERS HER A POSITION

Wisconsin Woman Lured to Hibbing Apparently for Immoral Purposes.

Man Making Offer Is Facing Charge of Enticing and Attempting to Procure.

Hibbing, Minn., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—On the charge of enticing and attempting to procure, in other words doing a stunt in "white slavery," John Ingdahl, who has been employed at a roadhouse run by May Whitney on the Chisholm road, was arrested this morning and the Whitney woman will be arrested this afternoon. The affair has created the biggest sensation here since the recent election and the mine shut down.

Eka Rannd, aged 26, appearing to be a respectable woman looking for a position, is the complaining witness against the man and the woman.

Lured by Letter.

She lives at Sheboygan, Wis., and came here in response to a letter received from Ingdahl offering her employment as a seamstress and domestic. She came from Duluth in the train last evening and before reaching Hibbing asked the conductor if he knew such a woman as May Whitney. The conductor's suspicions were aroused and on the arrival of the train, turned the woman over to a policeman, to whom she told the object of her mission. She was given a stopping place for the night and a warrant was issued for Ingdahl, who is now in jail and will have a hearing next week. As Sheboygan is in another state the federal authorities may look in the case. The officers claim to have a clear case, having the letter Ingdahl wrote to the woman offering her a position.

"BURIED ALIVE;" LABORER LIVES

Nick Radliff, Caught By Cave-in at Canisteo Pit, Dug Out Alive.

Coleraine, Minn., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Nick Radliss, a laborer working at the Canisco pit, who was caught by a cave-in a few days ago while drilling holes in the bank and "buried alive," is as well as ever now and working again.

He was buried under a chunk of frozen earth estimated to weigh a dozen tons, that required the services of a locomotive to remove. He was presumed to be dead when the big chunk of earth had been removed and some one sent for the undertaker. As that worthy arrived Radliff emitted a groan. The ambulance was called and he was hurried to the hospital, where he rapidly regained consciousness and is out again apparently as well as ever.

JUDGE HUGHES TO SPEAK.

Will Deliver St. Patrick's Day Address at Eveleth Tuesday.

Eveleth, Minn., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.) — The celebration of St. Patrick's day in Eveleth Tuesday evening will be a grand affair. There will be an entertainment at the high school auditorium. Judge Martin Hughes of Hibbing will make the leading address. A fine musical program will be rendered and the whole will conclude with a short play entitled "The Irish Doctor."

Rev. Father Culligan and Judge Moylan are in charge of the program, and are determined to eclipse anything ever undertaken on the occasion of a St. Patrick's celebration on the range. The proceeds will be turned over to the general fund of St. Patrick's church. The program follows:

Solo, Mr. Magnusson; solo, Mrs. E. K. Medler; solo, Mabel Kiley; reading, Miss McCarthy, Gilbert; solo, Peter Vanberboom; trombone solo, J. S. Saari; solo, Daisy Soular; solo, William Millette; reading, Miss Gettings; violin solo, Mr. Hartman; solo, Henry Foelz; oration, Martin Hughes, Hibbing; other musical selections from Virginia and Hibbing, including the Eveleth high school orchestra; "The Irish Doctor," cast of characters. Sir Ralph Credulous, L. Tobin; Walter Lovewell, A. Farnand; Dr. Frantic, L. Andrews; Denis Murphy, G. Springer; Squire Robert, L. Andrews; Dick, E. Corbin; Simon, F. Farnand; Robin, L. Tobin; Laura Credulous, Edith Knight; Peggy, Mabel Kiley; Bridget, Kathryn Burke.

Baby's Voice

Every woman's heart responds to the charm and sweetness of a baby's voice, because nature intended her for motherhood. But even the loving nature of a mother shrinks from the ordeal because such a time is usually a period of suffering and danger. Women who use Mother's Friend are saved much discomfort and suffering, and their systems, being thoroughly prepared by this great remedy, are in a healthy condition to meet the time with the least possible suffering and danger. Mother's Friend is recommended only for the relief and comfort of expectant mothers; it is in no sense a remedy for various ills, but its many years of success, and the thousands of endorsements received from women who have used it are a guarantee of the benefit to be derived from its use. This remedy does not accomplish wonders but simply assists nature to perfect its work. Mother's Friend allays nausea, prevents caking of the breasts, and in every way contributes to strong, healthy motherhood. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for our free book for expectant mothers.

COUNTY GROUNDS TO BE IMPROVED

Virginia Courthouse Surroundings to Be Made More Beautiful.

Virginia, Minn., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—St. Louis county is going to do its part in making Virginia the city beautiful, together with the Commercial club, the Homecroft committee and the citizens. One of the most important improvements will be the work done around the grounds of the St. Louis county courthouse here. County Auditor Odin Halden of Duluth and Nell McInnis of Eveleth, chairman of the county board have been here this week making the final arrangements for the work as soon as frost conditions will permit. It is proposed to make an expenditure of $2,500 on the courthouse grounds and $600 of this will be invested in trees and shrubbery alone. The balance will go toward carrying a cement walk around three sides of the courthouse grounds, leveling the surface and producing a greensward, together with walks.

Across the street the school board also is making improvements. The Roosevelt and Technical high school grounds are to be improved. The work done by the county will be done by the some landscape artists who have the work in hand for the school board and the work on both sides of the street will be uniform. The same varieties of shrubbery and grass will be used and the same kind of landscape engineering followed out. It was first proposed to sod the lawns about the courthouse but it has been determined a better sod can be obtained by seeding. The grounds will take on the appearance of beauty before the middle of the summer. Everything that will be planted and sewed will be Minnesota grown so that it will be assured the shrubbery and grass will flourish under the conditions of climate in this region.

MUCH ORE BEING TAKEN FROM MINE

Two Thousand Tons Every Twenty-Four Hours From Mississippi Mine.

Keewatin, Minn., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Some idea of the large amount of ore that is being mined at the Mississippi mine may be gained from the knowledge that there are two shifts a day and that the ore is being brought out to the stock pile at the rate of 2,000 tons every twenty-four hours. There are about 350 men employed in the mine at the present time and although the stock pile of the mine was finished up at the close of the shipping season there is now a stock pile on hand of about 175,000 tons.

St. Paul Mine Running.

Repair work was begun at the St. Paul mine last Monday morning and quite a number of men, who have been idle since the mine was shut down last fall, have been given employment. Steam shovels and other mining equipment are being repaired and by the time stripping operations are resumed a large number of men who were employed at the mine last year will have returned here to occupy their former places. From present indications it is not likely that stripping operations will be resumed before about the middle of April.

TO TELL OF BIG WAR.

Sergeant Johnson of Austin Will Speak in Eveleth Church.

Eveleth, Minn., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. F. R. Ellsworth received word Wednesday of the death of her sister, Miss Irene Lucas, at Milwaukee, following an operation. She was about 19 years old.

On Sunday evening, Sergeant G. W. Johnson of Austin will lecture in the Methodist Episcopal church, on the Civil war, "The Homes of '61-'65." Sergeant Johnson was a member of the Army of the Potomac for four years in the Fifth Vermont Regiment Volunteers.

Miss Miles McAlpine of Duluth is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Frank Winchester, this week.

E. A. Lissack of Eau Claire, Wis., has accepted a position here.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Whitman are expected home Saturday. They have been absent about three weeks on a tour down the Florida east coast and over to Cuba.

Mrs. P. Peterson entertained the Ladies' Aid Society of the Swedish Lutheran church last Thursday afternoon.

Rev. P. A. Schwarz is at Rutherford, N. J. He was called there to marry a nephew, and will return about March 22. Rev. W. T. Hughes of Ely will occupy the pulpit of the Presbyterian church on Sunday, March 17, both morning and evening in the absence of the pastor.

E. J. Kane, A. J. McGuire, Tim Shea and J. J. Gleason attended the Knights of Columbus banquet in Duluth last Saturday night.

Miss Mae Madden of Virginia has accepted a position on the office staff of the News.

Mrs. Paul Kuehn has been in Chicago the past week visiting her daughter, Mrs. Thomas P. Raney.

Miss Mae Furlong of Hibbing was the guest of Mollie Donovan last Friday.

The Floyd & Son stock of groceries which went into the hands of a receiver a few weeks ago was sold Wednesday to F. C. Talboys, the Aurora merchant. The price paid was 40 cents on the dollar.

The Art club met with Mrs. W. R. Van Slyke today. The papers for the day were: "The Reformation in the Netherlands," by Mrs. Whitman, and "The Duke of Alva in the Netherlands," by Mrs. Van Slyke.

A son was born Monday to Mr. and Mrs. George McCormick.

WOUNDED MINING MAN TO RECOVER

Capt. Wilson, Shot By Discharged Employe, Expected to Pull Through.

Eveleth, Minn., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Unless complications set in, Capt. Joseph Wilson of the Spruce mine, who was shot Friday by a discharged miner, will recover speedily. The surgeons do not consider the wound especially dangerous. The bullet and its course were located by an X-ray. It entered the left breast about an inch above the heart, struck and shattered the shoulder blade slightly, glanced down and lodged at the base of the shoulder blade. Carmeno Marinone, the assailant, was alone and met Wilson alone a short distance from the "dry," or building where the miners clean up and change clothing. Without speaking he drew his revolver and fired at close range which shot took effect. As his victim was staggering away he fired two more shots which went wild. Tony Lesar, who was in the dry, was attracted to the door by the first shot and witnessed the last two shots fired. Marinone threw his revolver away and ran, but several men who had been attracted to the scene of the shooting gave chase and he was soon captured. Marinone was arraigned before Judge Moylan and bound over to the grand jury. He was taken to the Virginia jail to await trial, charged with assault in the first degree. Marinone was discharged several weeks ago for incompetency. For a number of days he has hung around the mine office trying to get reinstated. Thursday he was more troublesome than usual and was ejected from the office. He has been in trouble several times.

Gleason, who served under Dr. McCuen. He also holds the position of deputy clerk of the court for Eveleth and among other duties issues the marriage licenses.

WILL STOP PUPILS PEDDLING TICKETS

Hibbing Police Chief Will Try to Keep Boys at School Duties.

Hibbing, Minn., March 16. — (Special to The Herald.) — Chief of Police Peter Wring announces that next year he will ask the co-operation of candidates for village office to the end that high school boys shall not be hired to peddle tickets at the various polling places on election day. "The class room is the place for high school students on election day," said Chief Wring in an interview last night "The lessons they learn and the time they spend there will have advantages superior in every way to the lessons they learn and the time they spend about the polling places on election day. This condition has long existed in Hibbing and next year I will ask the candidates and school authorities to co-operate with me to the end that it may be discouraged."

HALT RELATIVES AT ELLIS ISLAND

Hibbing Family Alarmed Over Immigration Officers Detaining Them.

Hibbing, Minn., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Unless the efforts of the Austrian consul at New York city can be enlisted through a telegram sent him from Hibbing, the 16-year-old sister of Mrs. Matt Pintar and Mrs. Pintar's 2-year-old daughter, whom she has not seen since it was an infant, will be deported to Austria by the Cunard steamship Olympia, which clears from New York harbor at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The girl and child have been held at Ellis island since the Oceanica docked Monday afternoon. The immigration officers will not allow them to proceed to the interior until they have satisfactory proof ... have friends who will care for them.

Mother Preceded.

Eighteen months ago Mrs. Pintar left Austria and came to Hibbing to make her home upon the death of her husband, leaving behind her her 6 months' old baby. Six weeks ago she remarried here and sent for her sister and baby to come to America, forwarding them the money she had been able to save from her earnings as a domestic. The girl and the baby accompanied friends from their old home to New York, but were held up at Ellis island. Mrs. Pintar was informed of their plight by a message yesterday afternoon. She made the affidavits required by the immigration officials at once and they are now on their way to New York. The Austrian consul has been wired to have the officers stay proceedings until the affidavits can be examined.

HIBBING COUPLE FOOL THEIR FRIENDS.

Hibbing, Minn., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Coventry of Hibbing, who will soon be at home to their friends at 213 Selders street, successfully kept their wedding a secret from their friends. The details of their wedding, which occurred March 5 at the home of the bride in Ashby, Mich., were not made public in Hibbing until yesterday. Mrs. Coventry was formerly Miss Josie Roberts, a teacher in the Hibbing school. Mr. Coventry is the representative of a number of fee owners in mining lands in the Hibbing district and is master of the local Masonic lodge.

NORMAN MINE FATALITY.

Victor Lammi Struck By Falling Rock in Open Pit.

Virginia, Minn., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Services will be held at the Finnish Lutheran church Sunday afternoon for Victor Lammi, aged 23, who was killed Tuesday in the Norman mine pit when he was struck on the head by a chunk of frozen earth. This was the first fatality in the mine since the great disaster that claimed thirteen lives.

Another workman alongside Lammi received a broken leg in the same accident, being taken to the More hospital, Eveleth, for treatment.

Lammi was a single man, 23 years of age.

HAS LAUGHING MANIA.

Hibbing Girl Peculiarly Afflicted By Lightning Shock.

Hibbing, March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Ida Hylamala, the 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hylamala, residing at the School location was taken to Duluth yesterday and will have an examination as to her sanity. Last summer the girl received a shock from a bolt of lightning during an electrical storm and aberration followed. It takes the form of hysterical laughing in periodical fits, which she is unable to control and is followed by seasons of mental weakness. She has been unsuccessfully treated by local physicians for some time and her parents hope she may be benefited by being committed to the state hospital.

RESULTS THAT REMAIN

Are Appreciated by Duluth People.

Thousands who suffer from backache and kidney complaint have tried one remedy after another, finding only temporary benefit. This is discouraging, but there is one special kidney medicine that cures permanently and there is plenty of proof right here in Duluth.

Here is the testimony of one who used Doan's Kidney Pills years ago, and now states that the cure was lasting.

Mrs. M. McLean, 4324 Gilliat St., Duluth, Minn., says: "All that was said in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills by a member of my family when he publicly recommended them in 1898 still holds good. During the past several years this person has not been obliged to use a kidney medicine, for the cure has been permanent. Doan's Kidney Pills effected a cure of kidney trouble in this case and also brought relief from dull, heavy ache in the loins. The person of whom I am speaking recommends Doan's Kidney Pills highly when anyone asks him about them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

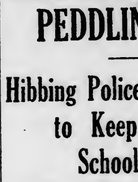
SNOW



Yesterday was almost a real spring day, but nobody is advocating the discarding of furs and other articles of winter wearing apparel. There was a March touch in the air last night. Today is a gray March day and snow and cold weather are predicted for tomorrow.

A cold wave struck Duluth a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 6:19 and it will set at 6:14 this evening, giving eleven hours and fifty-two minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the last twenty-four hours snow or rain again fell over the Ohio valley, southeastern lake region and Atlantic states. Heavy precipitation occurred as follows: Eastport, Me., 1.08 inches; Baltimore, Md., 1.22 inches; Atlantic City, N. J., 2 inches; Miami, Fla., 1.24 inches. The low pressure centered over Wyoming caused snow or rain in the plateau region and Pacific states, and much higher temperature in South Dakota, Nebraska, Colorado, Kansas, Oklahoma and Northern Texas. Much colder weather prevails from the eastern lake region southward over the Ohio valley to East Gulf and South Atlantic states in connection with the high pressure overlying the South. A high pressure condition developing over Saskatchewan is causing colder weather in Western Canada, which condition will reach the Head of the Lakes tonight, the turn to colder continuing throughout Sunday and probably Sunday night."

General Forecasts:

Chicago, March 16.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Sunday:

Upper Michigan—Local snows tonight or Sunday; slightly warmer tonight in south portion.

Wisconsin—Fair and warmer tonight; Sunday probably increasing cloudiness with warmer in east and south portions.

Minnesota — Increasing cloudiness with probably snow late tonight or Sunday; colder Sunday and in north portion tonight; cold wave in northwest portion.

Iowa—Increasing cloudiness tonight becoming unsettled Sunday; warmer in east and south portions tonight and in extreme east portion Sunday; colder in west portion Sunday.

North Dakota—Snow tonight or Sunday; much colder; cold wave in south portion.

South Dakota—Snow tonight or Sunday; much colder; cold wave in north and west portions.

Montana—Snow tonight and Sunday; much colder tonight with cold wave in east portion.

Shippers' forecast: Protect 36-hour shipments of perishables against minimum temperatures zero or below in the Dakotas, and zero to 10 deg. above in Minnesota and Western Wisconsin.

MAYOR AUSTIN TAKES OFFICE

New President of Chisholm Council and Other Officers at Helm.

Chisholm, Minn., March 16,—(Special to The Herald.)—The newly elected village council has taken charge of affairs. In former years the new members have taken charge the first of April as the fiscal year ends at that time, but the statutes provides that the newly elected members of the council must qualify and take charge within ten days and as there is considerable important business to take up within the coming week, the old council has turned the reins over to the new members. Mayor Austin will announce the several committees at a later date and have the machinery of city government running smoothly by the first of the month when the council will begin work in earnest.

One of the last acts of the old council was to pass a resolution retiring some outstanding orders and the treasurer reports that the city's debt is reduced to $75,000. Three years ago when the old members first took charge the city had a bonded indebtedness and a floating indebtedness of $230,000. Since then the city has practically been rebuilt as the fire in 1908 made a clean sweep. In spite of all the improvement the council has reduced the debt each year and last November called in the last of the outstanding bonds. The new members will set a new mark for economy and expect that next year when they turn the affairs of the city over they will have the present debt cut in two.

Would Change Railway Route.

With the spring election out of the way the citizens are beginning to pay some attention to the proposed change in the street railway route. As the line was originally laid out it would run down Lake street but the company officials contend that the grade on the main thoroughfare is a difficult one and desire to have permission to lay the track on Chestnut street. A good deal of the grade will be done away with by running along Chestnut but as it is a residence street the people who reside there object. Many business men also object to having the line on Lake street and the council has decided to call a mass meeting for the purpose of getting an expression from the people. It is generally thought that the council will not grant the change as desired by the electric railway officials.

IS FINED $25 FOR CARRYING WEAPON.

Eveleth, Minn., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Vincent Tassoni was arrested Friday on the charge of carrying concealed weapons. He pleaded guilty before Municipal Judge Moylan and was fined $25 and costs, which he paid. The shooting of Capt. Joseph Wilson here Friday has aroused the police and court to the need of taking drastic measures to suppress the almost universal custom of foreign miners of carrying revolvers and knives.

GRAND RAPIDS LIBRARY IS WELL PATRONIZED.

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—There are over 4,000 books in the local public library and the librarian's report for February shows that the average daily circulation of books has been forty-three, a total of 753 borrowers taking advantage of the library privileges during the month.

The fiction loaned during the month to adult readers was 455 volumes and juvenile books, 352. Non-fiction books read totaled 176, a total of 983 volumes in circulation during February.

SINK HOLE IS STRUCK.

Longyear Lake Pile Driving Outfit Need Longer Poles.

Chisholm, Minn., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The pile-driving crew at work in the construction of the trestle across Longyear lake, for the Mesaba Electric railway, struck a deep sink hole Thursday, and were compelled to order some longer timbers. The work is progressing very satisfactory and the contractor has hopes of completing the work before the ice leaves the lake. If the piles and heavy timbers can be placed before the ice leaves the work will be greatly lessened as the ties and lighter material can be placed almost as well by building out from the starting point.

Cards have been issued by the Misses Clare Hessian and Cecil Lane for a parcel shower to be given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Austin, March 21 in honor of Miss Gertrude Knapp, a June bride.

The art and study club will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. L. Austin. The regular session will be held during the afternoon and at 6 o'clock the men will be invited to a banquet.

ELY WOMAN IS CALLED.

Mrs. John Hanson, Active in Church Work, Is Dead.

Ely, Minn., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. John Hanson died Thursday night at the Shipman hospital. Mrs. Hanson was born in Kronobig, Finland, Aug. 24, 1888. She came when but a child to this country and made her home in Ely. She was married Jan. 8, 1910, to Mr. Hanson. For about a year she has been in failing health. She leaves beside her husband, a little girl aged about 18 months. Mrs. Hanson was not only active in the Lutheran church but also in the S. H. N. E. F. Fraternity. The funeral will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. from the Swedish Lutheran church.

Ely Bents Aurora.

The Ely high school basket ball team took the Aurora delegation into camp Friday evening, in one of the best contested games of the season. The final score being 19 to 12 in favor of Ely. In the preliminary game the Lincoln grade team defeated the high school grade team to the tune of 12 to 3.

Professors C. H. Barnes, D. Atkins, H. A. Shepherd, and P. Schweickhard, of the local schools are attending the educational meeting in Duluth.

WILL BE GIVEN CARE.

Popovich and Family Are Sent From Hibbing.

Hibbing, Minn., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mr. and Mrs. M. Popovich and their baby, who for the past year or more have been living at the Pool location, were taken to Duluth yesterday. Popovich will be committed to the county hospital. His wife and child will go to the county poor farm. The father is in the last stages of tuberculosis.

The family have been city charges for months. During the greater part of the winter they have lived in one room, sleeping, eating and cooking in a cramped apartment. The humane officer and their attending physician have done everything possible for their relief, but Popovich, who is headstrong and peevish from ill health, has by his obstinacy made their care a problem from which the authorities are glad to be relieved. Popovich believes he will recover. The doctors think differently.

VIRGINIA REVIVAL.

Plans Being Perfected for Religious Awakening in May.

Virginia, Minn., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The curling rink building has been leased by the united church organization which has in charge the evangelistic meetings to be held here in May, and it will be remodeled and arranged to take care of the large crowds expected to hear Prof. Weaver and Dr. Birch of Chicago. The ladies' societies of all the churches interested will hold a meeting Tuesday evening to make plans for a big banquet, which will be the first event of the evangelistic campaign. The presidents and secretaries of the various church societies, constitute the general committee in charge.

VIRGINIA'S PUBLICITY PLANS COMING UP.

Virginia, Minn., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Notices were sent out today for a meeting of the Commercial club Monday evening, to consider plans of the publicity committee for advertising the city as a desirable point for conventions, factories and wholesale houses, and the surrounding country as an inviting place for farmers to locate.

Former Tower Woman Dies.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Eliza M. Symons, aged 68, a former resident of Tower, who came here in 1896, died yesterday from a complication of diseases. Burial will be at Tower, the date of the funeral depending upon the movements of absent relatives. She is survived by nine children: Mrs. Fred Williams, Harry Symons, Clifford Symons and Wilfred Symons of this city; Mrs. Harry Bennets of Hibbing, Minn.; Mrs. W. J. Bosanko of Dener, Colo.; Charles Symons of Fresno, Cal.; and James Symons of of Rainy River, Ont.

LIKE THEATER TRAIN.

Many Cuyuna Range People Take It to Brainerd.

Brainerd, Minn., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Brainerd's first theater train brought 150 people from Aitkin, Deerwood, Crosby, Cuyuna, Ironton, Ironhub, Oreland, Manganese, Barrows and other points on the Cuyuna range to this city last night to "The Lion and the Mouse." The Northern Pacific railway furnished three coaches and a fast engine for the theater train equipment. All range visitors were informally entertained at the Commercial clubrooms after the show, returning home at midnight. It is hoped to make the theater train innovation a permanent institution.

Terrible Picture of Suffering

Clinton, Ky.—Mrs. M. C. McElroy, in a letter from Clinton, writes: "For six years, I was a sufferer from female troubles. I could not eat, and could not stand on my feet, without suffering great pain. Three of the best doctors in the state said I was in a critical condition, and going down hill. I lost hope. After using Cardui a week, I began to improve. Now I feel better than in six years." Fifty years of success, in actual practice, is positive proof that Cardui can always be relied on, for relieving female weakness and disease. Why not test it for yourself? Sold by all druggists.

Sunday Services in Duluth Churches

Tomorrow the week's campaign of the Men and Religion Forward Movement will begin.

The most important feature of the campaign is the series of institutes which will be held at five different points for four consecutive evenings, beginning Tuesday. The list is as follows:

(1) Bible Study—Pilgrim Congregational church.

(2) Boys' Work—First Presbyterian church.

(3) Evangelism and Community Extension—Swedish Mission church.

(4) Missions—St. Paul's Episcopal church.

(5) Social Service—First Methodist Episcopal church.

These institutes are open parliaments at which questions regarding methods in the various lines of work will be asked and answered. The Institutes will be conducted by experts in their lines and tremendous good of a permanent character is expected to be the outcome. The Institutes will commence each evening at 6:45 p. m. and continue for one hour.

Platform meetings will be held each evening at the same churches commencing at 8 o'clock, following the Institutes. The subjects of the addresses at the platform meetings will be changed nightly and will cover the points of emphasis not included in the Institute, therefore, it will be possible for men attending a given institute to get the message of the entire movement by remaining to the platform meting at the same place where they atend the institute.

Mass meetings will be held at the First Methodist church tomorrow and next Sunday at 3:30 o'clock. Tomorrow's meting will be addressed by Dr. I. J. Lansing of Washington, D. C., the expert on social service. His subject will be "The Social Interpretation of The Lord's Prayer."

The delegation from the local committee who attended the conference at Silver Bay, N. Y., in July last, heard Dr. Lansing give this address and speak of the message in the very highest terms.

Tomorrow night at the Y. M. C. A. a buffet supper to men will be served at 6:30.

This will be followed by a big meeting in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium at which addresses on the "Message of the Movement" by the entire team of experts.

Tuesday and Wednesday will be convention days and on each of these days, morning and afternoon sessions will be held in the Y. M. C. A. assembly room.

An important feature of the eight-day campaign will be a boys' convention which will be held at the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A on Friday, Saturday and Sunday. All the churches in the city have been invited to send boys as delegates to this convention and a strong program has been prepared. Boys of high school age in large numbers will undoubtedly enjoy the benefits of this feature of the campaign.

Shop meetings will be held at various factories and wholesale houses each noon, commencing with Tuesday. On Saturday night, large meetings of men have been planned for the West end and West Duluth, the former will be held in Columbia and the latter in Wade's hall. Representatives from the team of experts will address both meetings.

All of the institutes and platform meetings referred to are for men only but the Duluth committee has made an unusual arrangement in that five women's meetings have been planned as follows:

Monday, 3 p. m., First Baptist, speaker, Dr. Lansing.

Wednesday, 3 p. m., Presbyterian church, Dr. Raymond P. Gorbold.

Thursday, 3 p. m., Mother's meeting, address on the "Boy," J. A. Whitmore.

Thursday, 3 p. m., Lakeside Presbyterian church, Bible study, W. C. Pearce.

Sunday, March 24, Y. W. C. A., speaker, W. C. Pearce, 3:30 p. m.

On Saturday afternoon, an Interchurch conference of all attendance at all institutes will be held. At this time the entire team of experts will be present.

Other meetings will be held during the week of which due announcement will be made.

The hope and expectation of the leaders is that the eight-day campaign will result in the establishment of permanent, definite, aggressive, Christian effort on the part of men connected with churches and that this campaigning will mark the real beginning of a positive forward movement.

A great purpose is that of conserving the result of the effort which is made. From April 19 to 24, a great Christian congress will be held in Carnegie hall in New York city at which 3,000 delegates will be present from all sections of the country. The following Sunday, April 28, is conservation Sunday and it is expected that each church will be supplied with information that will enable them to prepare definitely for a five-year campaign.

BOYS' CONFERENCE WILL BE FEATURE OF MEN AND RELIGION FORWARD CAMPAIGN

REX ST. CLAIR.

CALDWELL HARRIS.

CHARLES LITTLE.

One of the most important phases in the men and religion program is the work for boys.

In every city where the campaign has been held, the boys' work has held a big place and much interest has been aroused. The program for the Duluth campaign will be full of interest both to workers with boys as well as the boys themselves.

James A. Whitmore is the expert for boys' work. His first address will be at the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday afternoon at 2:15 on the subject, "The Boy."

The boys' work institutes will be held at the First Presbyterian church at 6:30, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, and will be open to all men interested in boys and who want to know how to do effective boys' work. The institute will be on principles of boys' work. The boys' part of the program will commence Friday and it will be a regular boys' conference. Every church in the city will have older boy delegates, and every club in the city is invited to have representatives. The headquarters of the conference will be at the First Presbyterian church and will open Friday at 5 o'clock, when every delegate is expected to be present, to be registered. The election of the conference president will take place and other committees appointed. At 6:30 a banquet will be served at the boys' building, Sixth avenue east and Third street. Dr. Rice will be the toastmaster. Addresses will be made by the president of the conference, and responses by Charles Little for the church boys, Caldwell Harris for the high school, Rex St. Clair for the boys' department. Earl Brookes will respond for the West Duluth Boys' club, and other speakers will respond for the visiting delegations. N. D. McLeod will speak on "Why This Conference." The address of the evening will be given by James Whitmore of New York.

For the boys' conference all the towns on the range are invited to send delegates. C. A. Graves, 9 Edison block, is chairman of the entertainment committee, and will provide entertainment for outside boy delegates.

The program for Saturday and Sunday follows:

Saturday morning at First Presbyterian church, Second street and Third avenue east, 9 a. m., song service.

9:15 a. m.—Papers by older boys: "Should an Older Boy Teach a Younger Boys' Bible Class," Palmer Bevis. First Presbyterian church; "Why Don't Older Boys Attend Church Services? Should They Be There?" ALLEGED HORSE THIEF ARRESTED

Police Find Man Who Tried to Sell Livery Nag.

Fred W. Brown, the alleged horse thief sought by the police, was arrested here yesterday afternoon for the Superior authorities. It is claimed that he rented a horse from the Bowser stables at Superior, representing that he wished to drive to this side to look for a house into which to move, but that when he reached West Duluth he tried to sell the horse and buggy. It is stated that he asked $175 for a $250 outfit. His actions aroused the suspicions of two men who asked about the bargain, but when they learned that the outfit was not his, he had disappeared. Brown is said to have told the police that he is wanted in New York for having participated in a criminal operation and that he is also a deserter from the United States army.

He was taken back to Superior for trial this morning.

VERDICT FOR FULL AMOUNT

Late last evening the jury in the case of James S. Walsh against Asa Paine and A. M. Russell returned a verdict of $6,871.93 in favor of the plaintiff and against both defendants.

Mr. Walsh sued for the sum granted him, alleging that he was induced to put that amount, less the interest added by the jury, into the Russell Motor company, when that concern was insolvent. He claims that the firm's condition was concealed from him by the defendants.

Judge Dibell granted a forty days' stay. J. B. Arnold appeared as attorney for Walsh, the plaintiff, and A. E. McManus and H. B. Fryberger represented the defendants.

ROOSEVELT MEN PROPOSE TO BOLT

Indianapolis, Ind., March 16.—The Roosevelt faction of Republicans of the Seventh district, comprising this city and county, will have only 6 of the 124 delegates in its afternoon's convention to elect delegates to the national convention, it was announced after the results of yesterday's primaries had been compiled. At the county committee's headquarters today, Mayor Lew Shank and Capt. W. E. English as delegates instructed for Taft, was the slate for the convention.

At the Roosevelt committee's rooms it was said a second convention probably would be called, at which delegates instructed for Roosevelt would be named and would contest for seats at the national convention.

"This county unquestionably is pro-Roosevelt," said Charles O. Roemler, head of the organization. "The county machine controlled the primaries and the cards were stacked against us."

County Chairman Harry Wallace declared the primaries were fair.

"The cry of fraud is the stock in trade of the Roosevelt fellows," he said.

SERMON BY B. V. BLACK

Sunday, Evening, at 8 o'Clock, Union Church, K. P. Hall, 118 W. Superior St.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR NOTES

Christian Endeavor prayer meetings on Sunday, March 17, will have the topic, "Success Worth Having and Not Worth Having;" lesson reference, Daniel iv, 28-37. Meetings as follow have been reported:

The First Christian society meets at 7 p. m. in the church. Miss Older will lead. The president will give a 15-minute talk on the "Quiet Hour."

The First Presbyterian society meets at 6:45 p. m. in the lecture room of the church. A. E. Kienly will be the leader.

The Lakeside Presbyterian society meets at 6 p. m. in the Endeavor room. Ben I. Wells will lead the meeting.

The Westminster Presbyterian society meets in the parlors of the church at 6:45 p. m. The leader will be Miss Minnie Blakney.

The Union church society meets at 7 p. m. in the K. of P. hall. The meeting will be in charge of Omer Brokan.

The Smithville society meeting will be held at 7 p. m. in the church. The leader is Miss May Swenson. A special program will be rendered at the meeting.

The regular Sunday afternoon Christian Endeavor service at the poor farm on Sunday afternoon, March 24, will be in charge of the Second Presbyterian society.

The regular monthly meeting of the local executive committee scheduled for Tuesday evening, March 19, will be omitted on account of the services to be held in several of the local churches in the Men and Religion Forward movement.

On Monday evening, March 18, the mission study class of the Union church C. E. society will hold its regular study session at the home of L. L. Sparks, their leader, 1519 South street.

Considerable interest is aroused among the young people on account of the quarterly rally to be held Friday, March 29, at the Pilgrim Congregational church. The corresponding rally for 1911, held at Glen Avon, was one of the most successful in the history of the local union, and it is expected, in view of the approaching convention to be held in June, which will displace the June rally, and the fact that the Pilgrim church is convenient and accessable to a large majority of the Endeavorers, that a record-breaking attendance will be recorded at this meeting.

WHEAT MAKES SLIGHT GAIN

Big Slump of Friday Is Followed By a Feeble Reaction.

Country Receipts Are Still Large—Flaxseed Market Very Slow.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 16.—There was some reaction on the wheat markets of North America today from the sensational slump of yesterday, but it did not last well in the face of heavy receipts of wheat from the country, and at the close the prices were very little ahead of yesterday's closing figures. Duluth May wheat closed only ¼c up. Cash wheat was ½c over the May price. Durum was ½c up and oats, rye and barley were unchanged.

Receipts of wheat from the country continue to be large on the markets of both the United States and Canada. Today's American primary wheat receipts were 425,000 bushels, against 417,000 bushels a week ago and 418,000 bushels a year ago. Brokers wonder where all the wheat has been coming from, in view of the government estimate of the wheat crop of 1911. It all simmers down to the proposition that has been repeated again and again, and that is that no one can tell what the farmer is holding back. There is never much to tempt the farmer to overstate the amount of grain he has on hand.

There was much timidity about bidding up wheat on the Chicago market today and trading was very light. "The crowd is afraid of its shadow," were the words in which one broker summed up the situation.

Minneapolis reported a very good cash demand for wheat, the mills being the best buyers. Some little improvement was reported in the flour trade.

Wheat cables from the foreign markets were mixed. Buenos Ayres May wheat closed last night ⅛c to ⅝c lower but today it closed at an advance of ¼c to ½c. Liverpool was bulled a little by the firmness of Argentine and Australian offers, and wheat on that market closed ⅛d lower to ⅜d higher.

Flaxseed Market Slow.

There was little change in the Duluth flaxseed market today from what it has been. There was scarcely any cash trading, but some activity in futures. Offers from the country were very light and the demand amounted to little. Thus far there have been few signs of any picking up in the demand for linseed oil, and as long as this is the case, it is hardly likely that any great amount of flax trading will take place. Buenos Ayres March flaxseed closed last night at $1.75¾ for the March option, or 1¼c lower than on the night before. Today it closed unchanged.

Argentine flaxseed has been bought in considerable quantities of late on the Atlantic coast of America and farther inland. Buffalo and other places through that region have been getting a great deal of flaxseed from Canada. Duluth has had so little to sell that it has scarcely gone east of Chicago. Its sales are limited to points near home.

This far there has not been much selling of Canadian flax on the Duluth market. The cheapness of No. 1 Manitoba has not yet been sufficient to induce crushers to pick up any very large quantities of it, in preference to Duluth No. 1, and the Canadian flax has been steadily accumulating here. There is no very urgent demand for either the American or the Canadian seed.

MARKET GOSSIP

A. F. Gibbs, chief government grain inspector at Port Arthur, was in Duluth and Superior today, looking over the progress that Canadian grain has been making both into and out of the elevators at the American Head of the Lakes. From what remarks Mr. Gibbs made, the elevator men are inclined to think he is of the opinion that the American elevator hands have made all the progress they could reasonably be expected to make, notwithstanding the complaints that have been coming by wire from owners of the grain at Winnipeg and elsewhere. Mr. Gibbs sent six of his inspectors to look over the Canadian grain coming into the American elevators.

"Every time wheat has gone so low as to bring the Minneapolis May down to $1.03," remarked a Duluth broker today, "there has been quite a revival in the flour selling, but at that point the price has nearly always taken a turn and gone up again, and flour sales have dropped right off. If wheat should go just a few cents lower, I think the flour trade would wake up very quickly."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Covering By Shorts Hardens Wheat Prices and Foreign News Is Bullish

Chicago, March 16.—Wheat prices hardened today on account of covering by shorts. Threatened crop damage in India and a picking up of cash demand here counted in favor of the bull side. Opening prices were ¼c to ½@⅝c higher. May started at $1.01⅜@1.01½ to $1.01⅝, reacted to $1.01¼ and rallied to $1.01⅝.

A selling drive later resulted from weakness of corn. The close, however, was steady with May at $1.01⅜@1.01¼, just the same as last night.

Corn sympathized with the firmness of wheat. May opened a shade off to ⅛c higher at 70¼@70⅜c to 70½c, fell back to 70⅛c and then recovered to 70¼@70⅜c.

Subsequently reports of Argentine competition at Liverpool caused depression. The close, nevertheless, was steady at 69⅝c for May, ¾c under last night.

Aggressive demand for oats was lacking and the market was weaker than other grain. May started a sixteenth to ⅛@¼c down, at 52⅝c to 52¾c and sagged to 52½c.

Absence of selling pressure permitted hog products to remain about steady. First sales were 2½c lower to a like amount up with July delivery $16.57½ for pork, $9.57½ for lard and $9.05 for ribs.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Some Issues Sell at the Lowest Prices of the Week.

Notable Lack of Support Which Marked Recent Bear Attacks.

New York, March 16.—Opening prices on the stock exchange this morning reflected the depression shown by London and continental markets. Without exception prices tended downward with numerous losses of a point. Opening dealings in United States Steel and Erie common were the features at marked recessions. Canadian Pacific was off 1⅝ and American Sugar 1¼. The one-point losses included Amalgamated Copper, Atchison, Southern Pacific, Anaconda and Illinois Central.

The heaviness of this market was a natural sequence of the lower prices from London. Official and other advices from that center hinted at the possibility of an international crisis the nature of which was not disclosed. Bankers with foreign connection had no definite word, although admitting that conditions abroad are in need of correction. Prices here rallied some from the opening after which they went lower and trading became dull. Illinois Central, which was one of yesterday's few weak features, made a further decline of 3.

The market closed weak. Further declines were scored in the final hour, at which time some issues, including Union Pacific and Reading, were selling at lowest prices of the week. A significant feature was the increased activity at the expense of values. There was a notable lack of support, which has marked all recent bear attacks.

Cotton Market.

New York, March 16.—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 3@7 points, in response to lower Liverpool cables, less optimistic labor advices and rumors of possible European political complications, with the active months selling about 8@10 points under the closing figures of last night right after the call.

There was heavy selling through Wall Street and commission houses generally, but offerings were pretty well absorbed by foreign buying and support from leading bull brokers, with the market during the middle of the morning 2 or 3 points up from the lowest.

Futures closed steady. March, 10.40; April, 10.43; May, 10.47; June, 10.54; July, 10.59; August, 10.57; September, 10.56; October, 10.52; November, 10.64; December, 10.66; January, 10.63; February, 10.62. Spot closed quiet, 10 points lower. Middling uplands, 10.65; middling gulf, 10.90. No sales.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., March 16.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: Clearance was comparatively light, the demand being on a retail basis, the bulk of the sales being made to farmers and dealers from Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota. Now that spring work is approaching, farmers are beginning to place orders for horses needed to properly put in their crops. There were a number of lookers on the market sizing up the offerings of both horses and mules, and dealers anticipate a good demand during the next few days. Receipts limited to about 100 head.

MUST FACE CHARGE OF DESERTING FAMILY.

Dulin M. Royse, who was arrested at Cleveland this week on a bench warrant issued by Judge Ensign of the district court charging him with wife and child desertion, was arraigned before the court this afternoon. He pleaded not guilty.

Royse was indicted by the last grand jury. It is claimed that he deserted his family, who were living on East Fourth street, this city. A deputy sheriff brought him back to Duluth yesterday.

Royse is a printer. He says that a mistake has been made and that he is not guilty of having deserted his family.

COPPERS EASE OFF A LITTLE

Weakness of General Stock Market of New York Pulls Them Down.

There were few changes in the copper stock market worth noticing today. Some of the more active shares eased off a little in sympathy with the general market of New York, which was somewhat weak today. Calumet & Arizona and North Butte showed losses. Carmen and Cliff on the other hand were up a little at the close. In general the stocks showed a disposition to hold what they have gained in the recent advances, for the losses were not great. The local copper brokerage offices received a bullish piece of news from Boston, which, while it did not show its effect on the copper stock values immediately, will probably be quite a factor in determining values early next week. This dispatch announced that electrolytic copper had been generally advanced to 14¾c.

Gay & Sturgis today received from Boston the following closing copper letter: "The failure of negotiations to settle the English coal strike over night caused a very weak London market and a selling movement in the general market here. There was a demand for stocks at all times and the position of the market is no doubt stronger now than it was forty-eight hours ago, isasmuch as a good many weak accounts have been eliminated. Whether by legislation or otherwise the English coal strike must be settled within a few days. With general business showing an increase throughout this country of 5 to 10 per cent since Jan. 1, there can be little doubt of the general trend of security prices. We feeel very confident of higher prices next week, and can see nothing to change our opinion expressed emphatically for two weeks past."

Gay & Sturgis received the following from J. W. Prentiss at New York: "It is unquestionably true that business conditions are getting better; the demand for copper metal continues in excellent condition; reports from the steel trade are better; the crop news is good and the general speculative element think the political situation is improving."

• • •

The following telegram was wired from Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: "The general expectation is that Anaconda at the next meeting will increase the quarterly dividend to 75 cents per share, advancing the stock from a $2 to a $3 basis. The dividend meeting is due within the next two weeks."

TAX CASE IS REOPENED

The tax case brought against the Duluth Street Railway company by the state will be reopened in district court.

Judge W. A. Cant this afternoon granted a motion made by attorneys for the traction company, allowing them to reopen the case and to introduce new evidence.

C. E. Adams, special counsel for the county, opposed the granting of the motion on the ground that the case had been finally submitted and that the street railway company had not satisfactorily shown why the evidence was not introduced at the trial.

The evidence which the street railway company proposes to introduce is understood to be in the nature of deeds, secured a number of years ago by the Douglas County Street Railway company from the Wisconsin Land & River company.

The deeds, it will be claimed, convey to the Douglas County Street Railway company, now a part of the Duluth Street Railway company system, perpetual easements underlying the plat of the city streets over which the company operates in Superior. The company claims that these easements are worth $500,000.

If the claim of the traction company, in regard to the easements, is substantiated, there is a possibility that it might effect the valuation of the Superior properties of the company and subsequently change the proportionate division of the Duluth and Superior valuations.

The state and county claim that three-fourths of the street railway properties at the Head of the Lakes are in Duluth and that one-fourth is in Superior. The traction company contends that but two thirds of the entire properties are in Duluth.

If the testimony is admitted, as it probably will be, the state will contend that the easements are void and do not enter into the issues involved in the case.

The case is one in which the state seeks to enforce the collection of the 1910 personal property tax against the Duluth Street Railway company, amounting to about $44,500.

REAL ESTATE

BIG DEMAND FOR ACREAGE

Several Large Tracts of Farm Lands Sold By Duluth Dealers.

No Activity Is Reported in City Residence Property.

Although downtown properties, as well as those in the outlying residence districts, showed no particular activity in the realty market during the past week, the dealers report a better demand for acreage. Several good deals are pending and a number were turned during the past week.

Ebert Walker & McKnight this week gave an option on a 16,000-acre tract in St. Louis county to an Eastern capitalist. As the deal has not been closed, no particulars could be learned. The new purchaser, if the sale is made, will hold the property for investment purposes and it is understood that he intends to resell it to actual settlers. The Ebert, Walker & McKnight company also report the sale of an eighty-acre farm close to Eveleth to a Duluth investor.

J. B. Streeter of Minneapolis this week purchased from the Red Cliff Lumber company of this city, 10,500 acres of cut-over lands situated in Lake county. The price paid is said to have been $5 an acre. The deal was made through the agency of Edward Hazen, Alex and William McBean.

• • •

Stryker, Manley & Buck this week sold two tracts two miles out of the city on the Hermantown road to be used for truck gardening purposes. The firm reports an active inquiry for this class of property. One of the sales involved a ten-acre tract which was purchased by William Engwall. John Anderson and Oscar Peterson, truck gardeners, bought a five-acre tract.

• • •

Fourth street property between Fourth and Fifth avenues east changed hands this week. The deal involved the transfer of a 50-foot frontage on the upper side of the street, 100 feet west of the Fifth avenue east corner from Ray J. Lutes to Philip Rosenbloom. The consideration was $5,000.

• • •

Sarah A. Hibbard this week sold a lot on the lower side of Fifth street, between Second and Third avenues east, to Martha J. Gunn for $1,000.

• • •

A 25-foot frontage on the lower side of Fifth street, between Third and Fourth avenues east, was transferred this week from Rachael Singer to Annie F. Rine for $1,035.

• • •

Thomas S. Wood has purchased the northeast corner of Thirtieth avenue east and Superior street from I. Friemuth for $1,550. The property fronts 50 feet on Superior street.

• • •

The Lakeside Land company this week disposed of a 50-foot frontage on the upper side of Fitt street, between Forty-eighth and Forty-ninth avenues east, to William M. Gravatt for $575.

• • •

For $1,500 Emil Bjorlin of the West End this week purchased a 25-foot frontage on the upper side of West First street, between Twenty-second and Thirty-third avenues west. The sale was made through the F. I. Salter company.

• • •

The Scott-Graff Lumber company for $3,000 this week purchased from Felix McAllister a 100-foot frontage on the upper side of Huron street, between Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth avenues west.

• • •

C. H. Gordon & Co., 507 Torrey building, report the sale of lots 12, 14 and 16, block 8, Superior View addition, for Edmund Ingalls to Burt Olson.

WILL RESUME WORK ON NEW ROAD AS SOON AS FROST LEAVES

As soon as the ground thaws in the spring, the work on the new Commonwealth avenue which will replace the old road now in use between the city and Gary and New Duluth, will be resumed. Last year the city ordered the old road vacated on the promise made by certain real estate men and the steel corporation that the new road would be built without cost to the municipality.

The old road cuts through the steel plant property and the new one, perhaps a quarter of a mile longer, goes around the property controlled by the steel corporation. New Duluth people who have been clamoring because the "city gave away something for nothing" have little ground for their fear that the steel corporation will close the vacated road before the new one is ready for use and thus cut off hte suburb from communication with the city, say the real estate men.

The water board recently visited Gary with the view of looking into the needs of a water supply in this rapidly growing suburb. In all probability the city will take some steps in the near future towards the installation of local water-works plant. A steel tank will probably be put up and mains and pumps put in.

T. H. Jones, manager of the Duluth office of A. C. Volk & Co., the Gary townsite promoters, says that he looks forward to an enormous land sale at Gary this spring. "At the present time," said Mr. Jones, "the demand for lots along Gary street are exceeding our fondest expectations and we have every reason to believe that things at Gary are going to be lively from now on."

"The brick block on Gary street owned by Adam Schubert, has been leased and will be used for a clothing and shoe store. Two lots were sold at Gary this week, one of the purchasers being a local man and the other a resident of Stanley, Wis.

NEW HOME FOR ORPHEUS SOCIETY

Plans have been completed for a new three-story brick block, which will be erected this spring at Twenty-sixth avenue west and Third street by the Orpheus Singing society at a cost of $20,000. Bids will be called for about April 1.

The building will front on Third street, opposite Lincoln park. The first floor will be given over to a rehearsal room and auditorium. There will also be quarters for a store. The second and third floors will be used for flat purposes. The general dimensions of the building will be 50 by 110.

In the auditorium arrangements have been made for a stage. The room is 48 by 65 and has an 18-foot ceiling.

BUILDING PERMITS

The following permits to build were issued by the building inspector during the past week:

To E. M. Bartlett, addition, Minnesota avenue between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets	$ 200
To A. Olson, frame dwelling, Seventh avenue east between Ninth and Tenth streets	2,000
To E. J. Besser, bakery, Wellington street and Winnipeg avenue	500
To F. Rundquist, frame dwelling, West Third street between Twenty-seventh and Twenty-eighth avenues	1,500
To S. Nesgoda, frame dwelling, Eighth avenue east between Eighth and Ninth streets	1,000
To H. H. Brown, frame dwelling, East Eleventh street between Eleventh and Twelfth avenues	1,000
To J. Risatti, remodelling, on Mesaba avenue between Third and Fourth avenues west	400
To E. C. Perry, frame dwelling, East Ninth street between Ninth and Tenth avenues	1,700
To P. Olson, additional story, West First street between Twenty-first and Twenty-second avenues	1,000
To A. Holmacki, frame dwelling, Restormel street	1,500
To A. S. Hall, frame dwelling, Minnesota avenue between Twenty-first and Twenty-second streets	1,000
To F. A. Johnson, frame dwelling, East Fifth street and Twenty-first and Twenty-second avenues	4,000
To F. A. Johnson, alterations, West Superior steet between First and Second avenues	500
To C. A. Knudson, brick store, Eighteenth avenue east between Third and Fourth sts.	400
Estimated cost	$17,700
Total number of permits, 14.

NEW ARMORY FOR EVELETH

Plans for the new Eveleth armory, to cost upward of $30,000, have been prepared by Architect Anthony Puck, and figures are now being taken. It is understood that bids will be opened on March 29. The new armory and auditorium will be of brick construction, with a 70-foot frontage, and will be 190 feet deep.

A local architect also has plans out for the new Eveleth school, which will cost $60,000. Bids will be opened in the near future.

MORE RIGID INSPECTION.

Minneapolis and Milwaukee Place Restrictions on Issuance of Permits

In two cities, Milwaukee and Minneapolis, more rigid restrictions have just been placed about the issuance of building permits, says the Improvement Bulletin. Instead of the permit being simply a matter of public record, and one method of gathering statistics, it is approaching the proper idea that the permit is to be an assurance that the plans are in conformity with the building ordinance, and are suitable for the intended purpose. This will have a beneficial tendency to all concerned. The plans which are to be submitted for inspection and approval must be drawn intelligibly, and this means that sketchy outline plans will not serve the purpose. It means that the all-comprehensive clause that all necessary work shall be included whether covered in the plans and specifications or not, will not suffice to make partial and incomplete plans serve the purpose. It will assure to architects that they may have their work passed on and approved as it is drawn, and when so approved will be free from interruption unless there be a deviation from the plan. It will assure to contractors that the plans are to be properly completed, so they may know what they are assuming to undertake without having to make wide allowance for possible omissions. The ordinances are a distinct step for better and safer construction and should be of benefit to all concerned.

BUSINESS BLOCK FOR WEST END.

A. H. Burg & Co. are having plans prepared for the erection of a 2-story brick building at 2020 and 2022 West Superior street to be used as a five and ten cent store. The building will front fifty feet on Superior street and will run 140 feet deep, the entire length of the block. This gives the building a frontage on Michigan street. The cost will be about $15,000.

New Lakeside Residence.

Architect J. J. Wangenstein yesterday awarded the contract for the erection of the N. F. Russell residence at Lakeside to Richard Hanson, who will start its construction at once. The new home, which will be one of the finest at Lakeside, will be built on the southwest corner of Forty-fifth avenue east and London road.

ORELAND THE TOWN OF OPPORTUNITIES

Located in the Heart of the Cuyuna Range, on the Cuyuna Northern Railway, adjoining the Adams and Crow Wing mines.

Duluth people will soon awaken to the fact that a choice opportunity has escaped them. Investors from the Twin Cities, Grand Forks, Brainerd, Southern Minnesota and Wisconsin cities are heavy investors in ORELAND real estate. These people INVESTIGATED ORELAND.

The fact that after visiting the townsite they bought more heavily than they originally planned, coupled with the fact that they are improving their property by the erection of buildings, PROVES their faith in ORELAND and PROVES our statement—that for resources, ORELAND is two years ahead of any Minnesota Range townsite ever platted.

Choice lots are still held by the townsite company and are for sale to investors at from $250 to $400 each. One-Third Cash, balance in one and two years with interest at 6 per cent. Send a draft to clinch the lot now. Investigate any time within 30 days and if dissatisfied your MONEY will be RETURNED.

That shows good faith on our part; isn't it a square proposition?

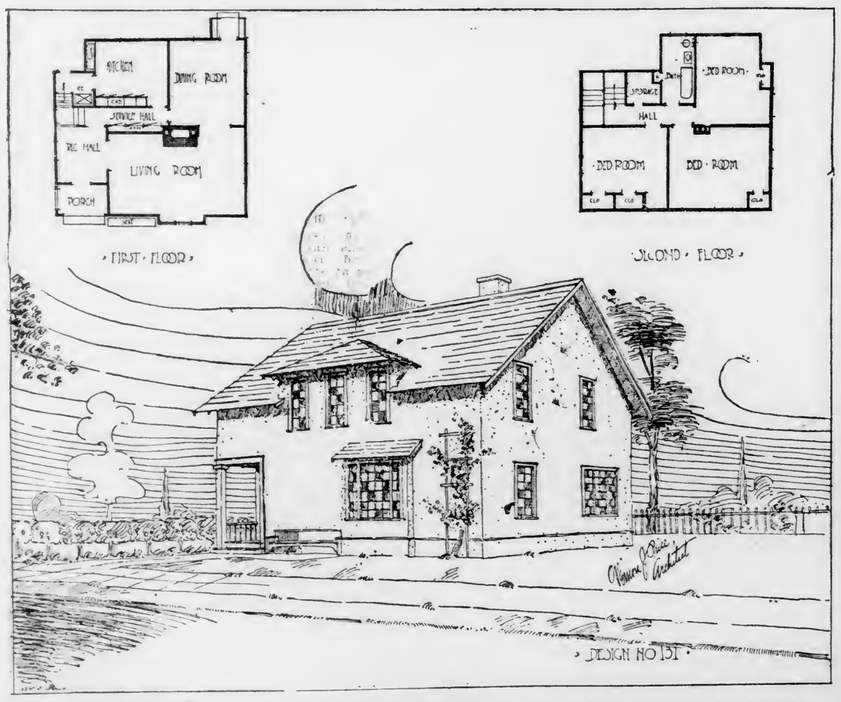
HERALD'S POPULAR-PRICED HOMES



This design was planned with a view to easy housekeeping, this arrangement being secured by the following: A large living room, sufficiently remote from the entrance to secure privacy; a dining room large enough for moderate needs, a compact workable kitchen, the stairway so located that it may be reached from the dining room and kitchen without using the reception hall, and the avoidance of the living room as a thoroughfare to the dining room. This arrangement makes an ideal first floor plan. On the second floor the chambers are large corner rooms, having cross-draft ventilation. The bathroom, besides the usual fixtures, has also a small closet for bath linen and medicines. The exterior of this cottage is very pleasing and homelike in its effects. The cost of this house in Duluth or vicinity would be about $3,000.

TAFT FOR PRIMARY UNDER "SAFEGUARDS" OF LEGAL ELECTION

President Answers Dixon's Challenge to Leave Nomination to People.

Speaks Before the General Court of Massachusetts in Boston.

Denies That Popular Rule Has Been Lost in This Country.

Boston, Mass., March 18.—President Taft today declared himself in favor of preferential primaries surrounded by certain conditions for the coming campaign.

"Wherever full and fair notice of the election can be given, wherever adequate safeguards can be thrown around to protect a preferential primary for the presidency, wherever the Constitution of the state permits it being made applicable to the present election, I favor it and welcome it."

This was the president's statement today before the general court of Massachusetts. It was his first personal reply to the challenge for preferential primaries issued some time ago by Senator Dixon, Col. Roosevelt's manager. President Taft did not refer to the challenge, however.

On Two Days' Visit.

President Taft began his two days' visit to New England here today with an engagement list that promised to keep him busy until after midnight.

In addition to a formal breakfast by the city officials the program included an address by the president to the Massachusetts legislature, an informal luncheon with the Pilgrim Publicity club, review of the Evacuation and St. Patrick's Day parades in South Boston, and "calls" at the dinners of the Charitable Irish society, the Boston Bank Officers' association, the Boston Paper Trade association and the Yale Club of Boston. Mr. Taft brought a green silk shamrock with him from Washington and wore it proudly in the lapel of his coat.

The president made his first speech of the day after his coffee and rolls at the City club, where Samuel J. Elder, a brother Yale alumus and one of the American representatives at the fisheries arbitration court at The Hague, presided. President Taft said he would have to be excused from talking on any public question in view

PLAN BIGGEST SEA FIGHTER

Navy Department Anticipates Big Appropriation By Congress.

Washington, March 18.—The 30,000-ton sea monster which has been the dream of American naval architects ever since the British ship builders initiated the struggle for supremacy in size and power in battleships with the launching of the original Dreadnaught, already is being planned on paper at the navy department, in anticipation of the allowance by congress of the department's estimates for two new battleships. The plans call for a ship about as large as the New York, with a good sized cruiser like the Olympia, Admiral Dewey's old flagship at the battle of Manila, added to her bulk.

If congress permits them to be built, the new ships will present some unusual features. Possibly they will have 15-inch guns, eight for each ship, which will be by far the most powerful ordnance afloat in any way.

EXECUTED YEAR AFTER CONVICTION

Murderer, for Whom Brother Perjured Himself, Dies in Electric Chair.

Auburn, N. Y., March 18.—Domenico Di Pasquale died in the electric chair today, exactly one year after his conviction. To the last he fought against death in the chair, and a statement issued by Deputy Warden Tupper after the execution told of Di Pasquale's efforts to hang himself in his cell early Friday morning. He was discovered, cut down and revived and was closely guarded until this morning.

When the final summons came he at first refused to leave the condemned row, but when shoved by two guards stepped into the chamber and walked to the chair alone.

He would have spoken, but the application of the deathmask silenced him.

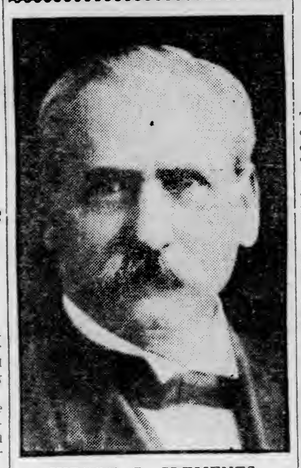
Two contacts were necessary to carry out the mandate of the law.

Salvatore Di Pasquale, the younger brother of the murderer, whose vain attempt to save Domenico by perjured testimony brought him to Auburn prison, was in his cell nearby and knelt in prayer during the early morning hours. Di Pasquale's body was claimed by his wife.

Domenico Di Pasquale killed Cologero Pollizzi with a pistol shot during a quarrel at a wedding celebration in Rochester on Nov. 13, 1910.

At the trial Salvatore Di Pasquale, a young brother of the accused, took the witness stand and said it was he who fired the fatal shot.

TWENTY YEARS ON THE COMMERCE COMMISSION



JUDSON C. CLEMENTS.

Washington, March 18.—Judge Judson C. Clements today celebrated the completion of twenty years' service as a member of the interstate commerce commission. He was appointed from Georgia by President Harrison in 1892 to succeed Commissioner Bragg of Alabama, and successively reappointed by Presidents Cleveland, McKinley and Roosevelt. He received many congratulations from all parts of the country.

"The work of the commission," said Judge Clements, "is yet in its infancy. It has accomplished much in the way of correcting errors that have crept into the transportation problem—errors due to the abnormally rapid development of our transportation facilities rather than to intentional wrongdoing—and my judgment is that it will do far more in the years to come."

STATE AFTER ALLEN GANG

May Send Virginia Troops to Help Capture the Mountaineers.

Dynamiting of Devil's Den Is Proposed at Hillsville.

Richmond, Va., March 18.—An important conference, believed to involve the sending of state troops to Hillsville to take up the search for the courtroom assassins, was held here today. Judge Walter R. Staples of Roanoke, who has been occupying the Hillsville bench since the death of judge Massie, came in from Hillsville unannounced and went at once to the private office of Governor Mann. The chief of the detective agency engaged in the hunt for the Allens and their outlaw followers also attended the conference.

L. L. Scherer, a detective prominent in the Beattie case, and Richard Davis,

CHICAGO BREWER KILLS HIMSELF

William C. Seipp Uses Gun While Family Is at Breakfast.

Chicago, March 18.—William C. Seipp, head of the Conrad Seipp Brewing company and the son of the late Conrad Seipp, shot and killed himself today while the family was at breakfast in another room. The coroner was notified that Mr. Seipp had committed suicide.

Mr. Seipp, who was 61 years old, arose shortly after 7 o'clock and entered a room adjoining his bed chamber. Mrs. Phoebe Seipp, his wife, and three sons were seated at breakfast when they heard the shooting. Physicians who were summoned found Mr. Seipp was dead.

Later attorneys for the family announced that he had committed suicide while in a fit of insanity due to long illness.

Since 1892, when Mr. Seipp retired from the brewing business he had devoted himself to real estate interests.

DR. MARY WALKER IS SERIOUSLY ILL.

New York, March 18.—Dr. Mary E. Walker of Oswego, celebrated advocate of woman's rights, who for half a century has appeared in male attire to support her ideas on dress reform, is seriously ill today with an attack of bronchitis at the Presbyterian hospital. Her condition was critical last night, but this morning she was improved. Dr. Walker is 82 years old and was stricken on a train coming down from Albany on Saturday.

HEAVY VOTE LOOKED FOR

Predict Victory for Their Candidate By Under 10,000 Majority.

Fargo, N. D., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ideal weather prevails over North Dakota today, and the forecast for tomorrow is fair and warmer. This should insure a heavy vote, and La Follette supporters regard their chances in tomorrow's presidential preference primaries as improved by a heavy vote.

One peculiar feature of the campaign is the practical unanimity of the Scandinavian voters of the state for La Follette. Enthusiastic boosters for the Wisconsin man claim that 80 per cent of the Scandinavian voters of the state will be for La Follette tomorrow. Senator Gronna is given some credit for this situation, though many other events were influential.

An argument in favor of La Follette advanced by his supporters is the psychological effect of the adverse conditions of the last two years. It is claimed that the effect has been to make the people resentful not only against Taft, but also against Roosevelt, who so strongly urged Taft's election.

Within eighteen hours of the balloting, both the Roosevelt and La Follette factions maintain the utmost confidence. John F. Bass of the Roosevelt committee declined to be quoted on any estimated majority for his candidate. R. M. Pollock of the La Follette committee says that indications are that the Wisconsin man will win by less than 10,000 majority.

Both Indorse Marshall.

Both the Roosevelt and La Follette committees have indorsed Former Congressman Marshall for national Republican committeeman. This will insure his election tomorrow.

ASKS UNCLE SAM TO KEEP IRISH OUT

Dublin Council Says Emigration Is Depopulating Emerald Isle.

Washington, March 18.—In a letter addressed to President Taft, the national council of Dublin has appealed for rigid enforcement of American immigration laws as a means of preventing further depopulation of Ireland by emigration. The council declares that Ireland has lost nearly half of its people during the last eighty-five years by "unnecessary and abnormal" emigration, and that the obliteration of the Irish nation actually is threatened. It is asserted that the British government views this prospect with "complacency or satisfaction." Irish emigration, the letter says, is directed largely to the United States.

New York, March 18. — All grades of refined sugar were reduced 10 cents a hundred pounds today.

REFUSES TO START WAR

President Taft Resists Temptation to Sent Troops Into Mexico.

Abbot Says Roosevelt's Candidacy Has Strengthened Taft's Position.

(By Willis J. Abbot.)

Washington, March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The temptation which always comes to a president hoping for re-election to embroil the nation in a war is being offered daily to President Taft. Greatly to his credit, he is resisting it manfully. Undoubtedly there would be a plausible reason for him to send a few regiments over the Mexican line to protect American interests. By "American interests" the purely personal interests of a few mining and railroad companies is meant. The president has sturdily refused to be dragged into an international affray of this sort; and he deserves the more credit because it is a well known fact that no president during whose term a war broke out ever failed of re-election.

A day or two ago there was sent out of Washington a most circumstantial story of impending war with Germany

George P. Robinson Tells Thrilling Story of Adventure With Bandits.

Denver, Col., March 18.—George P. Robinson, resident manager for a mining and smelting company at Acholta, Guerrero, Mexico, who on two occasions, Feb. 29 and Jan. 26, risked death at the hands of Mexican bandits in attempting to defend his employers' property, returned today to his home in Denver, with his wife and 6-year-old son.

Robinson still bears the mark of a rifle ball received in his last encounter with bandits on Feb. 28, when he was taken out to be executed because of his refusal to give up 300 pesos of his employers' money. Robinson mortally wounded the bandit leader and escaped after a desperate struggle.

Mr. Robinson, his wife and child and several others employed at the mine workings left immediately after the second visit of bandits to the place, traveling on horseback and afoot to a railroad where passage to the United States border was secured.

Seattle, Wash., March 18.—It was announced here today that Senator La Follette would arrive Thursday on his way to Oregon to participate in the presidential primary campaign there. His itinerary through Washington has not been announced.

Coal Walkout Would Be of Short Duration, It Is Believed.

British Wage Bill to Be Introduced Tuesday—Men Tired of Fight.

New York, March. 18. — The belief that a suspension of work in the anthracite coal mines on April 1 because of the deadlock between the operators and the miners over working conditions would not be continued long, and that a settlement will be reached, was expressed by coal operators today. It was pointed out that a similar situation existed when the agreement of the mine workers expired before. There was a refusal of the miners' demands, followed by a suspension, and later negotiations were opened and the old agreement was renewed.

Vice President Loomis of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad said nothing had taken place that would prevent further conferences on any new proposition made by the miners.

New York, March 18.—Leading manufacturers and business experts of the country gathered here today to organize the Efficiency society, whose purpose it is to develop increased efficiency and skill in commercial and industrial enterprises. President Taft and his cabinet are supporting the organization.

A dinner will be given tonight at which a letter from President Taft will be read. Secretary Meyer of the navy, Herbert Knox Smith, chief of the bureau of corporations, and Mayor Gaynor are to speak.

Lincoln, Neb., March 18.—Local advices received here confirmed from three different sources declare that posses have killed Taylor and Dowd and have captured Morley. The fight took place north of Gretna.

A report says Roy Blunt, the farmer who was driving the convicts' sleigh, also was killed.

Louisville, Neb., March 18.—The capture or killing of the three convicts who last week murdered three officials at the state penitentiary at Lincoln momentarily is expected. The outlaws are being driven towards Springfield in a sleigh by a farmer. The convicts are lying down in the body of the vehicle, forcing the farmer to expose himself to the bullets of the pursuing posse.

Lincoln, Neb., March 18. — The three escaped convicts and murderers, just before daylight today, were seen just out of South Bend, Neb., on a handcar. They had stolen the handcar at Prairie Home, just out of Lincoln, and broken into a hardware store at Murdock, stealing guns, ammunition and clothing.

FIGHT PRIMARY ON PRESIDENCY

Argument on Court Order Will Be Made in Chicago.

Chicago, March 18.—Argument on the right of the county court to order a preferential presidential primary vote in connection with the regular spring primary April 9 was set today for Wednesday morning before Circuit Court Judge Windes.

A petition for a writ of prohibition was presented to the court to prevent the preference vote, by counsel who contend that the county court has no jurisdiction to order such an addition to the regular primary.

LAST ARGUMENTS IN PACKERS' TRIAL

Chicago, March 18. — Closing arguments of counsel in the packers' case were scheduled to begin today before United States District Judge George A. Carpenter. The plan is for four attorneys to address the jury for the ten defendants while District Attorney James H. Wilkerson and Special Counsel James M. Sheehan and Pierce Butler will speak for the government.

The indications are that the long drawn out case will be given to the jury in a week.

BUILDINGS WRECKED BY CONCUSSION

Strike-Breakers on Southern Pacific Constitute Majority of Victims.

Locomotives Smashed as If Crushed Beneath Huge Mallet.

Most of the Dead Are From Northern and Western States.

San Antonio, Tex., March 18.—Twenty-five men are known to have been killed, many more injured and several buildings were wrecked today when the boiler of a locomotive exploded in the local yards of the Southern Pacific railroad.

Eighteen bodies had been recovered from the wreckage within two hours after the explosion and more were being removed, while nearby stores and buildings were filled with the injured.

The roundhouse and repair shops were demolished and many men working in them were hurt by falling walls.

The army hospital corps here was rushed to the yards, and police, ambulances and Y. M. C. A. workers were organized into rescue bands to dig out the dead and try to save the lives of the wounded.

Mangled Beyond Recognition.

So mangled were some of the victims that there seemed no hope of piecing the fragments of their bodies together sufficiently to identify them.

The victims were said to be largely men who had been employed as strike-breakers.

Strike-breakers have been working at the Southern Pacific shops ever since the shopmen's strike began several months ago. After the explosion, rumors in the downtown section of San Antonio were that dynamite was the cause, but investigation at the yards showed no indication that such rumors had started there. San Antonio practically has been free from violence during the strike.

The locomotive was standing in the yards near the shops, and the explosion came without warning. Parts of the roundhouse collapsed and several small buildings in the shop enclosure were wrecked, including part of the machine shops.

Engines Were Smashed.

Engines in the roundhouse were smashed as if hit with huge mallets. The roundhouse caught fire.

The half-ton jacket of the exploding locomotive boiler dropped between two houses on Duval street, several blocks distant, and the tender was hurled several hundred feet and twisted into a big, shapeless chunk of steel.

A majority of the men who were killed were from Northern and Western states.

SEEK SENDER OF ENGINE OF DEATH

New York Police Hunt Man Who Tried to Kill Judge Rosalsky.

New York, March 18.—Every available detective at police headquarters is searching the city today for the man who attempted to slay Judge Otto A. Rosalsky Saturday night with an infernal machine sent him through the mails. Similarity of the typewriting on the package and of the manufacture of the deadly missile with that which caused the death on Feb. 3 last of Helen Taylor at her home on Seventy-seventh street has led to the opinion that the same man sent both bombs.

Deputy Commissioner Dougherty declared that the police have been unable so far to find a clue to the identity of the sender, whom they believe to be insane.

Judge Rosalsky refused to discuss the case but it is reported that he has turned over to the police a number of threatening letters which he has received recently.

The home of Judge Rosalsky was the scene Sunday of renewed excitement, caused by the appearance of a man who wildly kicked at the door and demanded admittance. The stranger, shabbily dressed, forced his way past the hall attendants in the apartment, and climbed six flights of stairs to see Judge Rosalsky about some fancied grievance of "persecution by the tobacco trust." Police were called and the man was taken to Bellevue for observation as to his sanity. He gave his name as Wolf Berman, and his business that of a cigar-maker. The police believed him to be insane, but harmless.

TAFT FOR PRIMARY UNDER "SAFEGUARDS" OF LEGAL ELECTION

President Answers Dixon's Challenge to Leave Nomination to People.

Speaks Before the General Court of Massachusetts in Boston.

Denies That Popular Rule Has Been Lost in This Country.

Boston, Mass., March 18.—President Taft today declared himself in favor of preferential primaries surrounded by certain conditions for the coming campaign.

"Wherever full and fair notice of the election can be given, wherever adequate safeguards can be thrown around to protect a preferential primary for the presidency, wherever the Constitution of the state permits it being made applicable to the present election, I favor it and welcome it."

This was the president's statement today before the general court of Massachusetts. It was his first personal reply to the challenge for preferential primaries issued some time ago by Senator Dixon, Col. Roosevelt's manager. President Taft did not refer to the challenge, however.

On Two Days' Visit.

President Taft began his two days' visit to New England here today with an engagement list that promised to keep him busy until after midnight.

In addition to a formal breakfast by the city officials the program included an address by the president to the Massachusetts legislature, an informal luncheon with the Pilgrim Publicity club, review of the Evacuation and St. Patrick's Day parades in South Boston, and "calls" at the dinners of the Charitable Irish society, the Boston Bank Officers' association, the Boston Paper Trade association and the Yale Club of Boston. Mr. Taft brought a green silk shamrock with him from Washington and wore it proudly in the lapel of his coat.

The president made his first speech of the day after his coffee and rolls at the City club, where Samuel J. Elder, a brother Yale alumus and one of the American representatives at the fisheries arbitration court at The Hague, presided. President Taft said he would have to be excused from talking on any public question in view

Navy Department Anticipates Big Appropriation By Congress.

Washington, March 18.—The 30,000-ton sea monster which has been the dream of American naval architects ever since the British ship builders initiated the struggle for supremacy in size and power in battleships with the launching of the original Dreadnaught, already is being planned on paper at the navy department, in anticipation of the allowance by congress of the department's estimates for two new battleships. The plans call for a ship about as large as the New York, with a good sized cruiser like the Olympia, Admiral Dewey's old flagship at the battle of Manila, added to her bulk.

If congress permits them to be built, the new ships will present some unusual features. Possibly they will have 15-inch guns, eight for each ship, which will be by far the most powerful ordnance afloat in any way.

EXECUTED YEAR AFTER CONVICTION

Murderer, for Whom Brother Perjured Himself, Dies in Electric Chair.

Auburn, N. Y., March 18.—Domenico Di Pasquale died in the electric chair today, exactly one year after his conviction. To the last he fought against death in the chair, and a statement issued by Deputy Warden Tupper after the execution told of Di Pasquale's efforts to hang himself in his cell early Friday morning. He was discovered, cut down and revived and was closely guarded until this morning.

When the final summons came he at first refused to leave the condemned row, but, when shoved by two guards stepped into the chamber and walked to the chair alone.

He would have spoken, but the application of the deathmask silenced him.

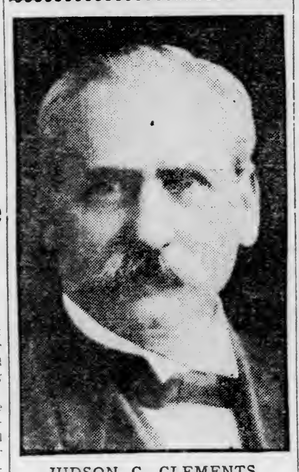
Two contacts were necessary to carry out the mandate of the law.

Salvatore Di Pasquale, the younger brother of the murderer, whose vain attempt to save Domenico by perjured testimony brought him to Auburn prison, was in his cell nearby and knelt in prayer during the early morning hours. Di Pasquale's body was claimed by his wife.

Domenico Di Pasquale killed Coiogero Pollizzi with a pistol shot during a quarrel at a wedding celebration in Rochester on Nov. 13, 1910.

At the trial Salvatore Di Pasquale, a young brother of the accused, took the witness stand and said it was he who fired the fatal shot.

TWENTY YEARS ON THE COMMERCE COMMISSION



JUDSON C. CLEMENTS.

Washington, March 18.—Judge Judson C. Clements today celebrated the completion of twenty years' service as a member of the interstate commerce commission. He was appointed from Georgia by President Harrison in 1892 to succeed Commissioner Bragg of Alabama and successively reappointed by Presidents Cleveland, McKinley and Roosevelt. He received many congratulations from all parts of the country.

"The work of the commission," said Judge Clements, "is yet in its infancy. It has accomplished much in the way of correcting errors that have crept into the transportation problem—errors due to the abnormally rapid development of our transportation facilities rather than to intentional wrongdoing—and my judgment is that it will do far more in the years to come."

Bogus Deaf Mute Gives Himself Away to an Officer.

Says He Only Received 50 Cents By Hard Begging.

Harry L. Thorpe, alias Dave Harris, was arrested Saturday afternoon charged with begging and who yesterday gave himself away by talking, after claiming that he was deaf and dumb, is now in the West Duluth police station awaiting a charge of vagrancy and begging.

Thorpe was first arrested by Officer Fred Anderson Saturday afternoon following a telephone call by M. J. Fillatrault, who told the police at the station that a man was going about from house to house begging for money. Thorpe claimed that he was deaf and dumb. He carried a small slate and several cards with him on which he asked the passersby for some money. Thorpe wrote on his slate in Mr. Fillatrault's office that he was anxious to return to his home in Des Moines, Iowa, and that all he wanted was enough money to take him there. Mr. Filatrault became suspicious. The telephone call followed and the man was taken to the police station.

At the station the man first refused to give his name and later wrote the name of Thorpe, which he immediately erased and changed to Dave Harris. He also wrote at first that his home was at 2611 Third avenue south, Minneapolis, but later said that his parents reside in Des Moines, Iowa.

Gave Himself Away.

Early yesterday morning Thorpe or Harris became suddenly tired of his scheme and when Sergeant Barber came back to the cell to ask the prisoner a few questions, Thorpe immediately surprised the officer by asking him for "makin's for a pill." The officer was surprised to hear the man talk, and later in the afternoon in a talk with Sergeant Bradley the prisoner told him that this imposition was tiring him and that he was badly in need of a smoke.

Thorpe said this morning that he came to Duluth Wednesday from Minneapolis and that he had been promised a job in a local barber shop beginning today. He said that he was anxious to get enough money to tide him over for a day or two and that he tried this "deaf-mute stunt" to get the money. Thorpe has several cards with him which he claims he secured in Chicago several months ago and which bear the following inscription:

"My circumstances are such that I repectfully solicit your patronage—will you please buy this card. Price, give what you wish. I am a deaf mute." The last sentence was in large type.

"I got 50 cents of the money," said Thorpe, "before I was caught, but I really never had the idea that getting money was as hard as all that. I got those cards from a guy in Chicago last fall and this is the first time I ever used them."

HIGH SCHOOL BOY IS SUMMONED

James Gillif, 17 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gillif, 4510 Rene street, died early this morning after a week's illness. The deceased was a student at the Duluth Industrial high school and was well known in this end of the city. The funeral will be held at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning from the St. James Catholic church, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Kinnear place. Rev. D. W. Lynch, rector of the church, will officiate and interment will be in the Calvary cemetery.

Party for Children.

Misses Celia Swenson, Edith Swenson and Myrtle Amundsen, teachers at the Harvey Webb Memorial M. E. church, entertained at a sleighride party for their scholars Saturday afternoon. They went to Amundsen's cabin at Fond du Lac, where refreshments were served. Those in the party were: Misses Celia Swensen, Edith Amundsen, Edith Swensen, Bernice Johnson, Lillie Lundquist, Mollie Swensen, Bertha Mortensen, Ragna Mortensen, Mabel Johnsen, Myrtle Johnsen, Agnes Boyd, Mildred Boyd, Effie Welling, Nellie Swensen, Agnes Neubauer, Edith Petersen, and the Messrs. Eddie Swensen, Edmond Johnsen, Clarence Johnsen, Grand Petersen, George Petersen, Wolmer Mortensen, Morius Mortensen, Sigfried Nelson, Edwin Lundquist, Alwen Swensen, John Swensen, Bennie Amundsen, Henry Neubauer.

SEWER PLANS FOR PROCTOR

Village Plans Expenditure for Sanitary Measures This Year.

Proctor residents have evolved a new sewer plan, which was given a hearing before the village council Saturday afternoon. About fifty residents attended the meeting and very little opposition has been heard against the plan up to the present time. It is planned to introduce the plan for the new sewer system at the meeting of the council tomorrow evening and then advertise for bids.

The plan at present is to install a sewer which will empty into a septic tank south of the village near the ball park. Another plan that has been suggested and which will cost the village more to complete is the building of a main trunk sewer to run through West Duluth and empty in the bay. latter plan will cost about $70,000, while the septic tank system is estimated at $45,000.

PERFECT CHURCH IS NEW PASTOR'S THEME.

Rev. W. L. Staub, who yesterday morning preached his first sermon at the Westminster Presbyterian church, Fifty-eighth avenue west and Ramsey street, chose as his subject, "The Ideal Church." A large audience was present to hear Rev. Mr. Staub. He said in part:

"There is really nothing perfect in this world, for that condition would be derogatory instead of helpful. The artist, musician and singer all have ideals which they constantly strive for during their whole lives. So it must be with an ideal church, to constantly strive for the best and most holy in everything.

"The ideal church is a praying church, a church filled with the holy spirit. It is a united church, united by love from the fact that Christ is at its head and we are all the members. To become ideal the church must work together, it must strive for the the best and most holy. The witnessing church will become an ideal church in time, as will the constant working church. The members must all co-operate in this work for that union alone will ever make an ideal church, the church which God will finally claim triumphant on the last great day."

LONG SEARCH FOR CHILDREN

French Police Again Start World-Wide Search for Madame Sourdillon's Three Children, Who Were Abducted in 1899 and Traced to Denver.

Paris, March 18.—Undismayed by a failure extending over twelve years, the French detective police have again started a world-wide search for the three children of Madame Sourdillon, who disappeared in 1899 and who are believe to be now living in the United States. The case is so appealing and pathetic in its nature that the police have asked the newspapers of America to assist in finding some trace of the missing children, the oldest of whom, if living, is now a young woman of 18 years.

Madame Sourdillon has spent her life and her fortune in an endeavor to find her children. She is the daughter of Charles de la Salle, a surgeon of the French army, who for distinguished and gallant services was presented with a sword by the city of Brest. Mademoiselle de la Salle married nineteen years ago Caesar Louis Sourdillon, who was then a Parisian journalist. In 1899 she obtained a divorce on the ground of cruelty and abandonment. The decree provided that the husband be permitted to see their three children one day a week. On April 13, 1899, Madame Sourdillon's maid took the children—Louise, aged 6; Berthe, 4; and Charles, 2—to the house of a common friend, only to return to say that they had been taken for a walk. Since that day Madame Sourdillon has never seen her children.

At once the grief-stricken mother began a search to which was devoted all of the keenest detective instincts of France, England and other European countries. Finally the children were traced to England and then to the United States. Every French consul or diplomatic representative in America was at once notified. The trail led to San Francisco, then to San Diego and Los Angeles. At Denver all trace was lost and for years nothing has been heard.

Formerly a woman of considerable wealth, Madame Sourdillon has expended her entire fortune in her search and is now earning her living by conducting a pension. She still believes that she will find some trace of her children, and the French authorities join with her in her expectation that the publication of the facts throughout the United States may crown her years' efforts with success.

The death of Jules Lefebvre, the celebrated French portrait painter, has been followed by many anecdotes of his interesting career. Despite his success, Lefebvre remained what he was from the start—a man of simple and charming manner. On one point alone was he firm and intractable. He detested utterly any form or attempt at bargaining.

One day, so the anecdote goes, an American of wealth called to see him. "I would like," the American said to the artist, "a full-length portrait of myself. How much, if you please, will it be?"

"Twenty thousand francs" (about $4,000), replied Lefebvre.

"Very well. But if I ask you to make two portraits instead of one—that is, one of my wife and one of myself, I suppose your price will be different."

"Certainly," responded the artist.

"And how much will it be?"

Lefebvre reflected a moment, then said simply: "It will be 40,000 francs."

The American paid.

The approaching dedication of a monument to Champlain on the borders of the lake which bears his name and to which France will send a special delegation with a beautiful bust by Rodin, has created considerable interest in the district of France, where Champlain was born.

The explorer was born at Brouage, about eight miles south of Rochefort, in the department of Charente-Inferieure. On the monument which was erected in his honor in 1878 at Brouage one reads that Samuel Champlain was born "towards 1570." It was from Brouage that the future founder of Quebec went to Havre and thence sailed to the new world. Today his natal town, formerly an important city, is no more than a modest, almost deserted village, situated in the center of a marshy territory from which the sea long ago retired. At the deep ditch, which was formerly the edge of the port, a customs collector will today show the huge rings where vessels formerly tied up. On the ramparts, now covered with vegetation, may still be seen the arms of Mazarin, who was "captain of Brouage."

Also may be seen in this melancholy village a church which incloses among other tombs that of the marquis of Carnavalet, an ancient prison, and, finally, the ruins of the walls and door of the house in which Champlain was born, ruins which were recently purchased by an Englishman.

An interesting celebration, which occurs in July, is that of the bi-centenary of the Abbe de l'Epee, inventor of the deaf and dumb alphabet. An influential committee has been formed to organize the fetes which are to be held in Paris from July 28 to Aug. 4, in the course of which there will be an international deaf and dumb congress.

Between selecting seeds, reading the seed catalogues for information as to planting, transplanting and later care of garden plants, building hot beds and starting plants indoors, Duluth's backyard farmers will be busy this week.

The farmers were astir last week. It was a little early and still is when it is taken into consideration that Duluth's planting season is usually between May 1 and May 20, each year, depending largely upon the season.

There are, however, many things that the farmers can do during the present week which may give them the jump on their less progressive neighbors.

All the local dealers who sell seeds have seed catalogues on hand and they contain valuable information which the backyard farmer may have for the asking. The dealer also knows what varieties have given most satisfaction in Duluth.

Although seeds do not have to be acclimated, there are certain varieties that have seemed to do better in Duluth soil than others. A few of them will here be mentioned.

This week the farmers may sow tomatoes in boxes, which will be kept in the house until it is time to transplant them in the garden. Two inches of mellow earth is all that is necessary to start them.

Park's Early Anna and Chalk's Jewel are said to be varieties which will ripen nicely in Duluth. Last year these varieties proved to be among the best planted.

It is as yet a trifle early for cabbage. In ten days it will still be plenty of time for this plant. Seed may be planted in boxes or pots just as tomatoes. Jersey Wakefield and Early Winnigstadt are said to have given great satisfaction to Duluth farmers last year.

It is as yet even a little early for the planting of cauliflower, but if care is taken with the plants they can be started now and transplanted later with great success. One man, whose cauliflower was the envy of all his neighbors last year, started his plants in the house about this time a year ago.

Seed onions can be sown at this time to be set out in the garden later. Some prefer to wait, buy the onion sets and set them out when they get them in planting time.

Celery plants can be started at this time in the same manner as the tomatoes and cabbages. The variety called White Plume is said to grow well in Duluth.

Seed for head lettuce can be started at this time. Burpee's Way-a-Head is a good variety to plant. Cucumbers can be started in the same way and White Spine is a variety that always gives satisfaction.

Corn Seed.

In the selection of seed for corn it is well to avoid the later and larger varieties, for much of this sort will not ripen here. The Early Minnesota and the Golden Bantam are good kinds to plant. And just here it might be said that nothing is gained by planting corn early. The weather has to be right or the corn will not come up.

If the backyard farmer is planning on starting some strawberries this week, he should select his variety and get his order in as no nursery sends plants until it is time to plant them. The Senator Dunlap and the Belderwod varieties are good kinds to raise in Duluth. The Jewel Nursery at Lake City, Minn., one at Three Rivers, Mich., and one at Taylor's Falls, Minn., supply plants that do finely in and about Duluth.

Time to Spread Manure.

If, last fall, you neglected to get stable manure and spread it over your garden patch, don't fail to do it now, as later there will be a rush for it and many will be unable to get it. This is essential to the success of the garden. Well rotted manure improves or enriches the soil to such an extent that the healthier appearance of the plants found growing in a garden will show at once that the ground has been well treated by the owner.

In getting manure it is well to avoid getting that which is mixed with sawdust or shavings. There is nothing in shavings or sawdust to improve the ground. Instead, it helps to dry it out. Wild hay or straw in the manure will help the earth as both will rot with the manure.

At this time of the year it is well to cover the strawberry patch with evergreen boughs or straw, to keep the frost in for a time. It is not well to allow them to start to grow too early.

Hot Beds.

This is the right time of the year to make the hot bed. An inexpensive and easy way is to construct it about the size of a window sash, using a storm window to concentrate the rays of the sun.

The frame can be built so that the storm window will fit nicely on top. The frame should be about ten inches high on the front side, facing south and about twenty-four inches on the other side. A heavy layer of manure should be placed on the ground and should extend about one foot out from the frame on each side and end.

The manure should be dampened so as to start it to heat. It should be left four or five days until the first intense heat passes off. From 4 to 6 inches of earth should be placed on top of the manure. The earth should be mellow and ready to work.

Nearly everything that has been mentioned here to start in the house can be started in the hot bed. In fact, the hot bed is considered the better system. Many use it and will start their plants in the early spring in no other way.

After the plants have begun to come up in the hot bed, it is well to open the glass top for the naurtl air that the young plants will need to be robust. Care must be taken to open the side opposite that from which the wind is blowing.

In the hot bed nearly every thing can be sown that the owner cares to try. Many have more than one hot bed, but for the man just starting in, one will be quite enough.

Astors, pansies and other flowers may also be started in the hot bed if they are desired. With a start in a hot bed, they will bloom at least two weeks in advance of those planted direct in the garden.

Garden Notes.

Buy good seed. There is no greater extravagance in gardening than to buy poor seeds.

Extension Bulletin No. 16 gives a lot of information as to the raising of strawberries and bush fruits. It is free for the asking and can be obtained by writing to the University farm, St. Paul, Minn.

Be enthusiastic, but not too much so, for the ground must be in workable condition before planting can be started. Allow the frost plenty of time to get out of the ground before starting your out-of-door planting.

About this time of year it is a good plan to make a draft of your garden on paper. Lay out the rows and beds and later you may refer to the plan to know what has been planted in each particular spot.

VARIED BILL AT THE ORPHEUM

Farber Girls and Famous Colored Comedienne Feature Strong Program.

Duluth got a glimpse of the Farber Girls last evening at the Orpheum. These two young women from Moline, Ind., where the plows come from, have made quite a furrow in the vaudeville field in five short weeks. They started cultivating audiences about five weeks ago in Chicago, and they have raised a very big crop of laughs since that time. Their stock in trade consists of youth, beauty, some good clothes, fair singing voices, more or less dancing ability, the amusing gestures of the smaller of the two sisters, and last but not least, a vivacity that has not felt the chilling effects of a prolonged experience in the "two a day." The Farber Girls are refreshing.

There is life and color to the act of Aida Overton Walker and her company. Eight colored chorus girls form a stage setting into which Miss, or rather Mrs., Walker glides, while the colored conductor tears off a Porto Rican waltz. There is more light and color, and Creighton Thompson drifts on in a cream-colored striped suit of flannels that would make a Pullman porter commit murder for sheer envy. Mrs. Walker studied in a good school. She is the widow of the late George Walker of the team of Williams and Walker, probably the best colored comedian who ever appeared before American audiences. She has a certain personal magnetism of her own, and it shows in the finish that the act possesses. The eight girls are all good dancers, and the above mentioned owner of the cream suit has a mellow baritone voice that is heard to good advantage.

The Five Sullys have a fifteen-minute farce that holds the long-distance door-slamming record in vaudeville. The chief requisite of a farce is a door that slams or swings, and somebody to keep swinging it. The stage manager has to stand behind the door with an oil can to use on the hinges this week. The Sullys, father, mother, two sons and a daughter, are entitled to the angel food in the farce line. Just for good measure, they top off their act with a good, lively dance—all five in a row right across the stage in front of the footlights—and they left the audience stamping its collective feet.

There is a mop of blonde hair attached to about four feet of humanity appearing in the act presented by the Four Holloways that should be brought out alone to perform, while the audience has a chance to enjoy it. Just when a very husky-looking woman is precariously balanced on top of a triplet bicycle placed upright on a tight wire, and the audience is holding its collective breath and crumpling programs, this mop of hair executes some amazing tumbles in his corner of the stage. It is like a three-ringed circus. The Holloways present too much in their act, but that is about the only criticism a fair-minded vaudeville critic would make. It may not be art, but it is entertainment.

Rosa Roma, pulchritudinous, Italian-esque, short-skirted and silk-stockinged, fiddles away while Rome burns but while the audience applauds. Answer—Miss Rosa plays one selection as full of technique as an old-fashioned music box, just to show what she can do, and then settles down to ragtime, and passes through the entire realm of syncopation, avoiding only Alexander and his famous band. Miss Rosa was a "riot" last night.

Lawrence and Edwards have an act called "The Alderman," containing comedy and pathos. It was Irish and "got by" on St. Patrick's day.

Jetter and Rogers, roller skaters and good ones, opened the bill. As an advertisement of the joys of roller skating they are not a success, but as a comedy vaudeville turn it is bully. The pictures this week show how to dance the Turkey Trot and the Grizzly Bear, and nobody left after this expose was announced on the screen.

HOOP ROLLERS AT THE EMPRESS

The Alpha Troupe Features Bill With Novel Headline Act.

There are hundreds of juggling acts in vaudeville today, but it was left to the Alpha troupe at the Empress this week to introduce their brilliant hoop-rolling and juggling feature. Hoop-rolling is a novelty in itself, as very few performers have undertaken to introduce the feature on the stage. The Alpha troupe of two women and three men are past masters in the art of juggling, throwing and rolling hoops. Their act opens disclosing scores of colored hoops, which are used during the fifteen minutes of brilliant juggling and spirited action. The act is the best ever seen here in this line, and the fact that the members of the troupe are accurate in their work and go through their act with a rush from start to finish, is a real treat in itself. The women of the troupe are as accurate as the men and prove a valuable asset in this headline novelty feature.

Duluth audiences will rarely see such a well-balanced bill as is appearing this week. Opening with Massey and Bolton in "The Village Band" and closing with the novelty headliner, the bill is replete with special variety features and artists. Although the opening act did not appear yesterday afternoon on account of a late train, it was presented in the evening in the regular order of the program. The two young men are clever musicians and comedians, and managed to score an immediate success with the audience. They play several instruments with apparent ease, and easily lived up to their advance notices.

From the reception accorded Ely and Florence in "The Kleptomaniacs," their act is a scream. Full of the necessary humor and dialogue, the audience is kept in a constant uproar during the entire act. Mr. Ely, as a patient with a nerve-racking toothache who comes into a dental parlor to get treated, is a splendid comedian, and the audience is given an opportunity to laugh at someone in distress. Miss Florence plays the dentist with real sincerity and manages to introduce a number of humorous situations. The playlet is a good comedy and Miss Florence and Mr. Ely are given a splendid opportunity to display their exceptional talent as comedians. The sketch is well worthy of the splendid bill this week.

Roach and Crawford are certainly able to entertain, and their numerous songs, jokes and parodies scored an immediate success at the performance last evening. Both young men possess splendid voices and have the necessary stage presence to stamp them above the ordinary comedy actors. Their jokes are all new and their songs, which were written by themselves, proved a great asset. They easily won their audiences and were compelled to answer to several encores before they were allowed to leave.

Daylight motion pictures closed the bill, showing a special film of pottery workers and the methods used to make the various clay dishes in the large factories and mills. From the moment the clay is poured into the mould to the time when the finished dish leaves the factory, the audience is given a series of interesting views of the methods employed in making the various articles.

Judge Watts Rules Against East Grand Forks Council.

Crookston, Minn., March 18.—Judge Watts has granted the writ of habeas corpus sought in the case of William Hogan, the manager of the East Grand Forks branch agency of the John Gund Brewing company.

Hogan was arrested for selling liquor in quantities of over five gallons without first taking out the $1,000 brewery license provided for in an ordinance passed recently by the East Grand Forks council.

The case was argued before Judge Watts of the district court and the court held that the city council of East Grand Forks have no authority under the charter to pass the ordinance under which a charge is made against William Hogan for selling intoxicating liquor in quantities greater than five gallons.

RICH MANGANESE ON CUYUNA RANGE

Strike Is Made By the Iron Mountain Company of Duluth.

Brainerd, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the interesting developments of the mining situation on the Cuyuna iron range is the reported strike of high grade manganese made by the Iron Mountain Mining company of Duluth, on its property in section 33, township 47, range 29 situated about four miles west of Cuyuna. It is stated that ore was struck at sixty feet in the hole now being drilled and, when the report came in recently, the drill was still in ore at 170 feet without a break being shown the whole way down. Ten feet a day progress is being made in drilling and it is the aim of the company to go 600 feet deep, if necessary, to determine the full extent of the complete deposit of rich manganese and iron. Another hole, 200 feet away, also gave indications of rich deposite of manganeese, leading the company to believe that they have a tract at least twelve or fourteen acres in extent carrying this rich ore. All the machinery has been installed. The shaft is now down over forty-seven feet, work in this line being in charge of Capt. Scalucci.

The Stowell Exploration company has begun work in the northeast quarter of the southeast quarter of section 8, township 45, range 28, which are the M. K. Swartz of Brainerd, lands near Clearwater lake. Many people are interested in this new district and are keeping an eye on developments.

William Rock of Duluth is operating drills in section 22, township 47, range 29. Associated with him is Mr. Harker. They are reported to have made a strike of very fine ore.

Considerable drilling is being done at the east end of Crow Wing county and also in Aitkin county. Five drills are being operated at Fleming lake at a point twelve miles northeast of Aitkin. One drill is near Mille Lacs lake in Jewett township. T. R. Foley of Aitkin is drilling near the town of Hassman. A drill is being operated in Roosevelt township, Crow Wing county.

STAPLES MUSICAL CLUB

Is Organized By Lovers of Music in That City.

Staples, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—A Thursday afternoon musical club has been organized here. The need of such an organization has been so pronounced in the musical circle that Miss Stone of this city has organized this association for this purpose. Recitals are given every week at the Knights of Pythias hall. Home talent has been used to a great extent though some of the better masters are to be secured at stated periods. It is the plan of the musical to give recitals and concerts during the season and to have outside talent attend their meetings. The membership has been limited at present to a small numbr but this will be increased as the work progresses. At a recent meeting Miss Stone was elected president; Mrs. T. J. E. Wilson, secretary, and Mrs. H. Koenig, treasurer.

Planning Warehouse.

The large crops of potatoes and vegetables grown in this section have awakened the farmers to the fact that they need a warehouse to protect their crop. A meeting of the producers of this locality has been called for next Wednesday at the city hall. The plans for a co-operative warehouse will be discussed and bonds voted and stock sold. This thing has been agitated before but because of the failure of co-operation between farmer and business man the plan fell through. Now that the farmer has taken the initiative the plan will prove a success. It is also planned to make this a storage and point from which the markets of Duluth, Twin Cities and Chicago will be supplied with fresh eggs, butter, vegetables, poultry and other farm produce.

Warren Election Tuesday.

Warren, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city election will take place on Tuesday. The following were nominated at the citizen's caucus and will probably be elected: C. E. Lundquist, mayor; August Lundgren, J. W. Thomas, M. J. Berget, aldermen; W. N. Powell, recorder; August A. Johnsen, treasurer; Thomas Keefe, constable; W. O. Braggans and Albin Young, justice of the peace. License or no license will also be voted.

SICK STOMACH, INDIGESTION OR CONSTIPATED BOWELS---CASCARETS

That awful sourness, belching of acid and foul gases; that pain in the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating, feeling of fullness, dizziness and sick headache, means indigestion; a disordered stomach which cannot be regulated until you remove the cause. It isn't your stomach's fault.

Try Cascarets; they cure indigestion, because they immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the decomposed waste matter and poison from the intestines and bowels. Then your stomach trouble is ended forever. A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning.

Between selecting seeds, reading the seed catalogues for information as to planting, transplanting and later care of garden plants, building hot beds and starting plants indoors, Duluth's backyard farmers will be busy this week.

The farmers were astir last week. It was a little early and still is when it is taken into consideration that Duluth's planting season is usually between May 1 and May 20, each year, depending largely upon the season.

There are, however, many things that the farmers can do during the present week which may give them the jump on their less progressive neighbors.

All the local dealers who sell seeds have seed catalogues on hand and they contain valuable information which the backyard farmer may have for the asking. The dealer also knows what varieties have given most satisfaction in Duluth.

Although seeds do not have to be acclimated, there are certain varieties that have seemed to do better in Duluth soil than others. A few of them will here be mentioned.

This week the farmers may sow tomatoes in boxes, which will be kept in the house until it is time to transplant them in the garden. Two inches of mellow earth is all that is necessary to start them.

Park's Early Anna and Chalk's Jewel are said to be varieties which will ripen nicely in Duluth. Last year these varieties proved to be among the best planted.

It is as yet a trifle early for cabbage. In ten days it will still be plenty of time for this plant. Seed may be planted in boxes or pots, just as tomatoes. Jersey Wakefield and Early Winnigstadt are said to have given great satisfaction to Duluth farmers last year.

It is as yet even a little early for the planting of cauliflower, but if care is taken with the plants they can be started now and transplanted later with great success. One man, whose cauliflower was the envy of all his neighbors last year, started his plants in the house about this time a year ago.

Seed onions can be sown at this time to be set out in the garden later. Some prefer to wait, buy the onion sets and set them out when they get them in planting time.

Celery plants can be started at this time in the same manner as the tomatoes and cabbages. The variety called White Plume is said to grow well in Duluth.

Seed for head lettuce can be started at this time. Burpee's Way-a-Head is a good variety to plant. Cucumbers can be started in the same way and White Spine is a variety that always gives satisfaction.

Corn Seed.

In the selection of seed for corn it is well to avoid the later and larger varieties, for much of this sort will not ripen here. The Early Minnesota and the Golden Bantam are good kinds to plant. And just here it might be said that nothing is gained by planting corn early. The weather has to be right or the corn will not come up.

If the backyard farmer is planning on starting some strawberries this week, he should select his variety and get his order in as no nursery sends plants until it is time to plant them. The Senator Dunlap and the Belderwod varieties are good kinds to raise in Duluth. The Jewel Nursery at Lake City, Minn., one at Three Rivers, Mich., and one at Taylor's Falls, Minn., supply plants that do finely in and about Duluth.

Time to Spread Manure.

If, last fall, you neglected to get stable manure and spread it over your garden patch, don't fail to do it now, as later there will be a rush for it and many will be unable to get it. This is essential to the success of the garden. Well rotted manure improves or enriches the soil to such an extent that the healthier appearance of the plants found growing in a garden will show at once that the ground has been well treated by the owner.

In getting manure it is well to avoid getting that which is mixed with sawdust or shavings. There is nothing in shavings or sawdust to improve the ground. Instead, it helps to dry it out. Wild hay or straw in the manure will help the earth as both will rot with the manure.

At this time of the year it is well to cover the strawberry patch with evergreen boughs or straw, to keep the frost in for a time. It is not well to allow them to start to grow too early.

Hot Beds.

This is the right time of the year to make the hot bed. An inexpensive and easy way is to construct it about the size of a window sash, using a storm window to concentrate the rays of the sun.

The frame can be built so that the storm window will fit nicely on top. The frame should be about ten inches high on the front side, facing south and about twenty-four inches on the other side. A heavy layer of manure should be placed on the ground and should extend about one foot out from the frame on each side and end.

The manure should be dampened so as to start it to heat. It should be left four or five days until the first intense heat passes off. From 4 to 6 inches of earth should be placed on top of the manure. The earth should be mellow and ready to work.

Nearly everything that has been mentioned here to start in the house can be started in the hot bed. In fact, the hot bed is considered the better system. Many use it and will start their plants in the early spring in no other way.

After the plants have begun to come up in the hot bed, it is well to open the glass top for the naurtl air that the young plants will need to be robust. Care must be taken to open the side opposite that from which the wind is blowing.

In the hot bed nearly every thing can be sown that the owner cares to try. Many have more than one hot bed, but for the man just starting in, one will be quite enough.

Astors, pansies and other flowers may also be started in the hot bed if they are desired. With a start in a hot bed, they will bloom at least two weeks in advance of those planted direct in the garden.

Garden Notes.

Buy good seed. There is no greater extravagance in gardening than to buy poor seeds.

Extension Bulletin No. 16 gives a lot of information as to the raising of strawberries and bush fruits. It is free for the asking and can be obtained by writing to the University farm, St. Paul, Minn.

Be enthusiastic, but not too much so, for the ground must be in workable condition before planting can be started. Allow the frost plenty of time to get out of the ground before starting your out-of-door planting.

About this time of year it is a good plan to make a draft of your garden on paper. Lay out the rows and beds and later you may refer to the plan to know what has been planted in each particular spot.

VARIED BILL AT THE ORPHEUM

Duluth got a glimpse of the Farber Girls last evening at the Orpheum. These two young women from Moline, Ind., where the plows come from, have made quite a furrow in the vaudeville field in five short weeks. They started cultivating audiences about five weeks ago in Chicago, and they have raised a very big crop of laughs since that time. Their stock in trade consists of youth, beauty, some good clothes, fair singing voices, more or less dancing ability, the amusing gestures of the smaller of the two sisters, and last but not least, a vivacity that has not felt the chilling effects of a prolonged experience in the "two a day." The Farber Girls are refreshing.

There is life and color to the act of Aida Overton Walker and her company. Eight colored chorus girls form a stage setting into which Miss, or rather Mrs., Walker glides, while the colored conductor tears off a Porto Rican waltz. There is more light and color, and Creighton Thompson drifts on in a cream-colored striped suit of flannels that would make a Pullman porter commit murder for sheer envy. Mrs. Walker studied in a good school. She is the widow of the late George Walker of the team of Williams and Walker, probably the best colored comedian who ever appeared before American audiences. She has a certain personal magnetism of her own, and it shows in the finish that the act possesses. The eight girls are all good dancers, and the above mentioned owner of the cream suit has a mellow baritone voice that is heard to good advantage.

The Five Sullys have a fifteen-minute farce that holds the long-distance door-slamming record in vaudeville. The chief requisite of a farce is a door that slams or swings, and somebody to keep swinging it. The stage manager has to stand behind the door with an oil can to use on the hinges this week. The Sullys, father, mother, two sons and a daughter, are entitled to the angel food in the farce line. Just for good measure, they top off their act with a good, lively dance—all five in a row right across the stage in front of the footlights—and they left the audience stamping its collective feet.

There is a mop of blonde hair attached to about four feet of humanity appearing in the act presented by the Four Holloways that should be brought out alone to perform while the audience has a chance to enjoy it. Just when a very husky-looking woman is precariously balanced on top of a triplet bicycle placed upright on a tight wire, and the audience is holding its collective breath and crumpling programs, this mop of hair executes some amazing tumbles in his corner of the stage. It is like a three-ringed circus. The Holloways present too much in their act, but that is about the only criticism a fair-minded vaudeville critic would make. It may not be art, but it is entertainment.

Rosa Roma, pulchritudinous, Italian-esque, short-skirted and silk-stockinged, fiddles not while Rome burns but while the audience applauds. Answer—Miss Rosa plays one selection as full of technique as an old-fashioned music box, just to show what she can do, and then settles down to ragtime, and passes through the entire realm of syncopation, avoiding only Alexander and his famous band. Miss Rosa was a "riot" last night.

Lawrence and Edwards have an act called "The Alderman," containing comedy and pathos. It was Irish and "got by" on St. Patrick's day.

Jetter and Rogers, roller skaters and good ones, opened the bill. As an advertisement of the joys of roller skating they are not a success, but as a comedy vaudeville turn it is bully. The pictures this week show how to dance the Turkey Trot and the Grizzly Bear, and nobody left after this expose was announced on the screen.

HOOP ROLLERS AT THE EMPRESS

There are hundreds of juggling acts in vaudeville today, but it was left to the Alpha troupe at the Empress this week to introduce their brilliant hoop-rolling and juggling feature. Hoop-rolling is a novelty in itself, as very few performers have undertaken to introduce the feature on the stage. The Alpha troupe of two women and three men are past masters in the art of juggling, throwing and rolling hoops. Their act opens disclosing scores of colored hoops, which are used during the fifteen minutes of brilliant juggling and spirited action. The act is the best ever seen here in this line, and the fact that the members of the troupe are accurate in their work and go through their act with a rush from start to finish, is a real treat in itself. The women of the troupe are as accurate as the men and prove a valuable asset in this headline novelty feature.

Duluth audiencch will rarely see such a well-balanced bill as is appearing this week. Opening with Massey and Bolton in "The Village Band" and closing with the novelty headliner, the bill is replete with special variety features and artists. Although the opening act did not appear yesterday afternoon on account of a late train, it was presented in the evening in the regular order of the program. The two young men are clever musicians and comedians, and managed to score an immediate success with the audience. They play several instruments with apparent ease, and easily lived up to their advance notices.

From the reception accorded Ely and Florence in "The Kleptomaniacs," their act is a scream. Full of the necessary humor and dialogue, the audience is kept in a constant uproar during the entire act. Mr. Ely, as a patient with a nerve-racking toothache who comes into a dental parlor to get treated, is a splendid comedian, and the audience is given an opportunity to laugh at someone in distress. Miss Florence plays the dentist with real sincerity and manages to introduce a number of humorous situations. The playlet is a good comedy and Miss Florence and Mr. Ely are given a splendid opportunity to display their exceptional talent as comedians. The sketch is well worthy of the splendid bill this week.

Roach and Crawford are certainly able to entertain, and their numerous songs, jokes and parodies scored an immediate success at the performance last evening. Both young men possess splendid voices and have the necessary stage presence to stamp them above the ordinary comedy actors. Their jokes are all new and their songs, which were written by themselves, proved a great asset. They easily won their audiences and were compelled to answer to several encores before they were allowed to leave.

Daylight motion pictures closed the bill, showing a special film of pottery workers and the methods used to make the various clay dishes in the large factories and mills. From the moment the clay is poured into the mould to the time when the finished dish leaves the factory, the audience is given a series of interesting views of the methods employed in making the various articles.

WILL SUPPLY GRANITE FREE

Uncle Sam Offered Material for New Federal Building Gratis.

Stone May Be Taken From the Quarries at Hinsdale.

The Oriental Granite & Iron company of Chicago has offered to contribute all the granite necessary to build the new federal building in Duluth.

In a letter to The Herald the company states that if the government decides to build the new building, it will furnish all the granite free of charge. The government will be allowed to take the granite from the company's quarry, which is located on the Duluth & Iron Range road at Hinsdale, near Two Harbors.

The granite is the same as that used in the erection of the Chicago Auditorium.

As the building is to cost in the neighborhood of $700,000, the sum decided upon recently, the offer of the Chicago company will, if accepted, mean a good deal in money to the government.

The letter states that The Herald is authorized to bring the proposition before the proper authorities for its acceptance.

The letter was turned over today to L. M. Willcuts, collector of customs and custodian of the federal building.

The granite for the courthouse was brought all the way from New Hampshire.

SNOW GOING FROM HILLS

Signs of Spring in Running Water on the Avenues.

The best harbinger of spring that anybody has discovered yet is the water running down the avenues. That harbinger appeared in noticeable form yesterday, so spring has come. Nobody would advise laying away furs, winter overcoats, and such yet, for Miss Spring is a fickle young lady and may be only flirting, but at least there is comfort in the fact that winter has dropped into sleep for the time.

The snow storm yesterday was only a resemblance to a real snow storm. The snow had no consistency and it had almost entirely disappeared by noon today. Yesterday was mild and sloppy, the high temperature recorded at the local thermometer on the hill being 34 deg.

Good melting weather is being furnished today. Mr. Richardson says the temperature will probably get to about 35 deg. in the shade, while it will be several degress higher in the sun. When old Sol with all his March strength strikes a snowbank, the snow is quickly converted into water and there is hope for the spring gardeners in the prevailing conditions.

BOARDS CAR THINLY CLAD

Patient From Hospital Escapes on Rope Made From Sheets.

Startles Passengers By Entering Car, Clad Only in Night Shirt.

Passengers on a westbound street car were startled and shocked about 8:30 o'clock Saturday night when a wild-eyed, fever-racked man, clad only in a night shirt and a pair of slippers climbed aboard at Twenty-fourth avenue east.

Quietly and unostentatiously the strange appearing victim seated himself in a corner at the rear of the car, unaware of the presence of any one else. When the car reached Second avenue east and stopped in front of the police station he did not make the slightest objection to being taken inside. His strange appearance attracted a crowd which blocked the sidewalk for some little time.

Investigation disclosed that the scantily clad man was a fever patient at St. Mary's hospital who had made his escape from a second story window. An improvised rope of torn sheets with one end fastened to the radiator was mute evidence of the manner in which he had taken "French leave." Lowering himself to the roof of the engine house he jumped to the ground and hurried eastward to Twenty-fourth avenue east, where he boarded the street car. The streets were dark and practically deserted, so he escaped attention until he seated himself in the street car.

The hospital authorities stated that his name is Martin Deboupre and that he had been at the institution but a couple of days. He is still delirious but seems to have suffered no severe effects from exposure.

? Will the gentleman who so kindly rendered assistance to a lady who fell and injured herself on the sidewalk on East First street, between Second and Third avenues, on February 25th, 1912, call in person at 513 First National Bank building as soon as possible?

"Of Massachusetts Stock."

He pointed out that although he was brought up in Ohio and "educated in the Philippines" as he expressed it, he was of thorough Massachusetts stock. "In the town of Mendon," said he, "there is a tablet which bears the names of twenty-seven of the founders of the town and I am descended from seventeen of them."

During the two hours that the president spent at the City club he was joined by his son Robert, who came over from the Harvard law school, accompanied by the son of Former Congressman Samuel J. Powers of Newton. Young Mr. Taft received nearly as much attention as was given his father. The two young men will accompany the president on his trip to New Hampshire tomorrow.

"Irresponsible Assaults."

In his speech before the court, the president made a rather pointed reference to the proposition "let the people rule," and had something to say about the recall of the judiciary and the recall of judicial decisions.

"Irresponsible assaults upon, either intemperate language or baseless assumptions of corruption, or bias or incompetency, made by those whose statements have influence with any part of our people, are a serious menace to enduring government," said the president.

He said in part:

"You have recently passed what is called a 'presidential primary law' for the election of delegates to the national conventions upon which will fall the duty of selecting the presidential nominees of the respective parties. I have not had opportunity critically to examine the new law, but I am sure it makes proper provision to meet the obvious requirements. I am glad that you have done this.

Has Become Important.

"The question of how delegates are to be selected to any political convention or how nominees are to be selected by ordinarily was a matter of merely voluntary and party adjustment, but so important to the public at large did the character of the candidates to be selected by each party become, that the state has properly interfered so as to throw safeguards around the exercise by all those who belong to a party, of their privilege to have a voice in the choice of their party candidates.

"I am not going to stop to discuss in detail the question of direct primary elections, their uses and abuses. I think every one will admit, however, in order that they may accomplish the good they are intended to accomplish, they should be safeguarded by effective provision as to the party eligibility of voters who participate in them, and by penal provisions securing conformity to rules of such eligibility and the honest casting and counting of the ballot.

No "Soap Box" Primary.

"I do not hesitate to say that in my judgment a voluntary primary outside the law, known by its informal character as a 'soap box' primary, is worse than none, for it gives full opportunity to the ineligible electors of the other party to cast unfair votes, and without the sanction and safeguard of penal provisions in respect to casting and counting the ballots is an open avenue for fraud and violence.

"It is eminently appropriate that in every election and in the discussion of all issues that affect the republic, we should discuss and hear much of the popular will and of the right of the people. This is a government based on popular control.

"We all concede that the operation of elections and the operation of government are not perfect and are sometimes subject to corrupt influences and control, and that it is the part of patriotism to remove as far as possible the obstacles which prevent honest primaries, honest elections and the honest administration of the government in the interest of the people; but the continued iteration and reiteration of the proposition 'let the people rule,' if it has any significance at all, and is intended otherwise than to flatter the people, is intended to be a reflection on the government that we have had down to the present time.

"People Have Ruled."

"Now, in spite of all the corruption, in spite of all the machine politics, in spite of every defect in the operation of our government that can be pointed out, I do not hesitate to say that the history of the last 135 years shows that the people have ruled. They may have been defeated at times by corrupt and corrupting influences; congresses and legislatures may have been halted by subterranean methods in carrying out what the people desire; but in the end, under our present Constitution and our present laws, we have had a really popular government.

"I don't mean to say that we cannot make it better. I don't mean to say that we may not remove some obstacles, by which corruption may be minimized, but what I do say is that the cry that the people do not rule and are not in control, or an intimation to that effect, does not do justice to the American people or their history, and holds us up to the world at large in a light which does not do us justice. Certainly there is nothing in the growth of this country from the adoption of the Constitution until now, or within the last twenty or thirty years, that justified any attack upon our structure of government, or sapping of the foundations that have stood so firmly and upon which our whole popular civilization has been reared.

Defends Judiciary.

"The occasion for these remarks is the attack upon our judiciary and the proposal, by judicial recall or recall of judicial decisions, to destroy its independence and thus to take away depend[illegible]arch of government the keyfrom the [illegible]ony that there is in the stone. I [illegible] courts or the character decisions of the [illegible]ent of Illinois of the judges, or [illegible]ies such a radical tion, that which just[illegible]mindful of the innovation. I am not [illegible]m, but that necessity of judicial relief depends not upon changing the character of the judges, but on the [illegible]dge of procedure, the expedition of judgments and the diminution of the expense of litigation.

"One can easily discover a tendency in modern politics to exalt above the written law and above the written Constitution what is called 'popular will,' as if that were a higher law to which we must all admit allegiance by obeying it and ignore or transgress statutory and constitutional limitations.

How "Heresy" Is Stated.

"This heresy is not stated exactly in the form of an assertion that judges and others are to ignore statutes and Constitution because of a conflicting popular will, but it is in the more insidious proposition that plain construction of the statute or of the Constitution is to be defeated, and a strained and otherwise impossible construction put on the language of the statute in deference to what is supposed to be the popular will."

The president here quoted a Western governor whom he did not name, who had declared "what is right is constitutional," and who had taken Lincoln's "the life of this nation is greater than any Constitution" to sustain his view.

"It is impossible to escape the meaning of such a view," said the president, "and that is that the plain construction of the Constitution is to be perverted because it is thought that the people at present would prefer not to be subject to the limitations contained in the Constitution lawfully adopted.

Right and the Constitution.

"The quoted words of Lincoln have here no application. Of course it is true that whatever is right is constitutional unless the declaration of the right is contained in the Constitution or is not forbidden by it. The popular will, to be effective and controlling with courts, must be embodied in statutory enactment or constitutional law. It is not left to the executive of state or nation, or to the judge on the bench, whether state or federal, to decide what is right when there is law declaring what is right on the statute book.

"The law is the guide of the judge and the governor, and not his individual opinion as to whether the law is good or not.

"This is a government of law, not of changing economic and political theories of judicial or executive officers when those theories are in conflict with the express letter of the law. Suggestions of that sort are dangerous because they put the ship of state on a sea of trouble without a rudder. They destroy that respect for constituted authority that is essential to well-ordered liberty. The strength of the government and the strength of the judiciary must rest ultimately on the confidence of the people in their integrity."

NO FEARS OF LONG STRIKE

high Coal & Navigation company in the Panther Creek valley, who quit a week ago because some of the men in the mines refused to join the union, returned to work today.

The men who quit were unsuccessful in getting all the workers to join the union, but they express confidence that every man in the mines will stop work in the event of a strike being called at the end of this month.

Operators Meet Wednesday.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 18.—Preliminary to the joint conference here March 20, between representatives of the operators and miners in the bituminous coalfields of Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, who are demanding wage increases, the operators will meet here Monday afternoon to decide on the policy they will maintain during the conference.

Simultaneously, it is announced, the executive committee of the Illinois Coal Operators' association will hold a meeting in Cleveland.

Although the conference Wednesday will be between only representatives of the operators and miners from the four states named, all bituminous miners in the United States and Canada will abide by whatever decision is reached. In case of a walkout at the expiration of the present agreement, March 31, 306,000 men will be involved.

Refuse to Sell Men Coal.

Shamokin, Pa., March 18.—Eight hundred employes of the scott colliery here were rendered idle today by all the miners going on strike because the mineral railroad and mining company refused to sell coal to the employes. The company states that outstanding orders from places outside the coal regions have to be filled. It is feared employes at other collieries may strike for the same reason. The Mineral Railroad & Mining company is a subsidiary of the Pennsylvania Railroad company.

Trouble in France.

Demain, France, March 18.—A large number of coal miners in this district voted today to go on strike in spite of the decision of the French National Miners' Federation against such a step. The union officials are trying to prevent the spread of the movement throughout the region, which includes Anzin, the center of the greatest French coal fields.

Minimum Wage Bill Ready.

London, March 18.—Premier Asquith announced in the house of commons today that the government would introduce a minimum wage bill for miners tomorrow. He will ask the house to read it a second time on Wednesday and complete the remaining stages on Thursday.

Many of the miners now on strike will return to the pits in the course of this week, according to opinion expressed in some quarters, where it is believed that by Monday next operations will be in full swing in the collieries in many parts of the country.

The men's leaders have informed the government that there will be no resumption of work until the minimum wages bill for underground workers has passed through parliament, but in spite of the declaration of the leaders there are indications that the miners are tiring of the strike, particularly in those districts where the prolongation of the strike has made necessary a reduction in the amount of the strike pay drawn from the miners' unions by the men.

Besides this there is much pressure being brought to bear on the miners by other trades unionists who have been forced out of work by the shortage of coal.

Lost $1,500,000 Last Week.

The loss to the trades' union funds last week, including those of the miners' union, amounted to $1,500,000. Nine unions alone, exclusive of the miners, on Saturday paid their members $450,000. The trades union funds are largely invested in bonds, the prices of which have been affected by the strike, and this causes them a further loss.

There has been a further curtailment of the railway passenger service today, while still more factories have been obliged to close. A number of steam trawlers are laid up at the fishing port of Grimsby owing to the shortage of coal.

There is some talk today of a general strike throughout the country during the month of May, but this may be due to the fact that a series of trades union movements will commence then. These may possibly lead to widespread stoppages in some industries.

Much Distress.

An increase in the prices of necessaries consequent on the virtual stoppage of freight shipments has caused much distress to the workers' families.

The action of the government in introducing minimum wage legislation is criticized in some quarters and is likely to lead to a considerable amount of opposition.

assistant attorney general, were called at noon into the governor's conference.

May Use Dynamite.

Hillsville, Va., March 18.—Dynamite was suggested today as an effective aid in the hunt for the Allen clan, in the belief that the Allens can make of Devil's Den, their retreat, an almost impregnable stronghold. Search for the Allens, whom the commonwealth of Virginia is determined at all costs to bring to justice for the murder here of five of its citizens, including the officers of Carroll county circuit court, began in earnest today. Picked men remained on the mountainside all night guarding the approaches to Devil's Den, and early today the detachment was joined by the posse of seventy-five detectives and citizen volunteers.

Farmers Are Scared.

While the detectives are preparing to starve out the fugitives, if possible, by cutting off their food supply from surrounding districts, Hillsville itself is not receiving any too much food. Farmers, fearing that the town still is in disorder, are slow about bringing their wares to market.

Every effort is being made to run down Sidna Edwards, a nephew of the older Allens, who, with a wounded foot, is supposed to be alone in the mountains, trying to join his relatives. When he is taken the officers believe they can learn from him with certainty the whereabouts of the rest of the gang.

Since the search began, members of the posse have interviewed many members of the Allen family. Mrs. Floyd Allen, at her home near here, was greatly worried over the situation and very nervous. She would say little about the affair. Mrs. Edwards, mother of Sidna, told the officers that last Tuesday night the Allens came for Sidna and he was away for two days.

Ammunition for the slaughter in the circuit court, which apparently was deliberately planned several days in advance, was secured from a Pulaski store early in the week.

HOT ON TRAIL OF CONVICTS

stolen handcar at Meadow, Neb., threw the car into the Missouri river and are traveling north toward this city on foot. Meadow is in the southwest part of Sarpy county about fifteen miles southwest of this city.

The bandits were two and one-half miles northwest of Meadow shortly after 10 o'clock and were headed toward Gretna. A posse has been organized at Springfield and gone in pursuit. Omaha and South Omaha police started out a special train, leaving West Side station at 10 o'clock. Another posse was organized and started out by the sheriff of Sarpy county from Gapillon. Sheriff Hyers of Lancaster county started from Lincoln on a special train over the Burlington at 8 o'clock.

Corneted in Cornfield.

Louisville, Neb., March 18.—At 11:15 the three convicts left the Blunt farm house, three miles north of here, and started in a southerly direction. They now are in a cornfield south of the Blunt home and a posse is organizing to take them.

The convicts appeared at the Blunt home and demanded that Blunt haul them to Albright, a small station near Omoha. This he refused to do and they started away, and then went back to the farmhouse. They told Mrs. Blunt that they were the three escaped convicts.

A special train is coming from Omaha and another already has arrived from Plattsmouth, carrying large posses. Another is on the road here from Lincoln, bearing a sheriff's posse and a body of national guard.

Terrorized Farmhouse Occupants.

The three murderers, Taylor, Morley and Dowd, spent Friday night, all day Sunday and part of Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hall on a farm five miles east and a mile north of Havelock. After tying Mr. and Mrs. Hall so securely that they could not liberate themselves, they tore the telephone instrument from its place, cut the wires and left the Hall home at 10:30 o'clock Saturday night. During their stay they compelled the people at the farmhouse to serve them with meals and permitted no one to leave the house.

After leaving the Hall home the outlaws went to Prairie Home, obtained a handcar and went to Murdock, where they burglarized two stores and secured arms, ammunition and clothing. Later the convicts were seen walking the railroad tracks between South Bend and Meadow, and later still Monday forenoon, were seen passing the home of T. P. Ball, two and one-half miles west of Meadows.

WEST END

CHRIST'S POWER OVER SIN.

West End Pastor Says Sin Is Real and Universal.

Rev. J. A. McGaughey of the Second Presbyterian church, 1515 West Superior street, preached on "Christ's Power Over Sin" at the regular services last evening. Rev. Mr. McGaughey called the sermon an evangelistic one and he divided the subject in three parts, the universality, the power and the results of sin. He said in part:

"While some people think that sin is only a dark thing never seen and beyond conception or imagination, it is in reality the most real thing on the earth. It is never in the dark and is ever before the people. Sin is universal.

"The many miracles performed by Christ and which gospel tells us were of sixty-seven distinct kinds, show that He wrought wisely and justly. This fact shows the life of Christ and how He lived among his fellow-men. When we consider how Christ was born and the surroundings He found himself in, it is marvelous that He lived such a life. The most profane of historians cannot say a word against the spotless character of Christ.

"The great Josephus, the noted Jewish historian, in speaking of Jesus said that He was beyond man. 'If it be proper to call this human a man, then Christ was a man who performed the miracles of heaven,' Josephus said."

WILL HOLD DEBATE ON WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE.

Beta Council, No. 2, Modern Samaritans, will hold a debate this evening on "Resolved, That Women Should Be Allowed Woman Vote," as the third of the regular weekly entertainments given by the members of the order. The members will meet at the Samaritan hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street, and the affirmative of the question for debate will be upheld by Mrs. L. Purdy and W. H. Humerichous will uphold the negative.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY ENTERTAINMENT.

Father O'Mahoney of the cathedral of Superior will be the principal speaker this evening at the annual St. Patrick's day entertainment to be given by the Young Men's Sodality of the St. Clement's Catholic church, Twenty-first avenue west and Third street. The young men will present the three-act Irish comedy, "A Bit o' Blarney," and they will be assisted by several members of the Young Ladies Sodality.

Miss Mary Shesgren will give a reading during the evening and La Brosse's orchestra will furnish the music. The special features to be introduced during the evening will be heard during the intermissions between the acts. Father O'Mahoney will speak on Ireland's people. He will also give a brief account of the life of Erin's patron saint.

WILL OPEN RELIGIOUS CAMPAIGN IN WEST END.

Dr. I. J. Lansing, one of the experts in the Men and Religion Forward Movement meetings that are being held in this city during the week, will open the campaign in the West end tomorrow evening at the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street. All the West end churches are uniting in this series of meetings and addresses which are to be given every evening until next Sunday. The meetings are only for men and boys and a special speaker has been secured for each evening, besides the various other features arranged by those in charge of the campaign.

Stranberg-Larson.

Miss Helen Stranberg and Lambert Larson of the West end were married Saturday evening at the home of the groom on the Duluth Heights. Rev. W. E. Harmann of St. Peter's Episcopal church, Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street, conducted the ceremony following which a wedding supper was served to the immediate friends of the couple. They will take a short wedding trip in the southern part of the state, after which they will make their home in this end of the city.

Will Present Play.

The Delta Gamma Club of the Central Baptist church at a meeting held last week at the home of Mrs. J. Leonard, 1913 West Second street, decided to present "Cinderella" within a few weeks. The club will hold a special meeting sometime this week and the cast for the play will be chosen and rehearsals started. The members of the club, who were present at the meeting and who will have charge of the production, are: Mrs. Mae Balille, Mrs. Erminie Hutchinson, Mrs. George D. Jewell, Mrs. Milton Fish, Mrs. J. H. Giffin, Misses Clara Goodhand, Mamie Low, Enid Shaw.

Change Meeting Night.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians has changed its meeting night to the second and fourth Mondays of each month. The next meeting will be held March 25 in the Foresters' hall, Twenty-first avenue west and Third street. A large number of new members will be initiated at this meeting and a special musical program will be rendered by the members of the order.

The organization is a new one, having been started several weeks ago with a charter membership of 36. The officers of the auxiliary are: Mrs. W. F. Granger, president; Mrs. C. R. Haley, vice president; Miss Charlotte Sullivan, recording secretary; Miss Anna Flood, financial secretary; Mrs. E. Evans, treasurer, and Mrs. F. S. Gallagher, chairman of the standing committee.

West End Briefs.

Mrs. C. Schweda of St. Paul is a guest this week at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Chartier, 430 Nineteenth avenue west.

There will be no practice meeting this week for the choir of the Swedish Misston church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street, on account of the Men and Religion Forward Movement meetings that are to be held in the church every evening.

Rev. Edward Erickson of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street, will return Saturday from Ashland, Wis., where he has been conducting mission meetings the past week.

Rev. C. G. Olson of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street, left this morning for Auburn, Minn., to attend a funeral. He will return tomorrow morning.

Miss Ingaborg Carlson of 509 West Fifth street will leave tomorrow for Saskatoon, Sask., where she will make her future home.

Miss Loys Lester of Hibbing is a guest this week at the home of Miss Mary Hart, 2725 West Fourth street.

William Penrose of Buffalo, N. Y., was a week-end visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. McMahon, 2003 West Fourth street.

Miss Elizabeth Wilson of Orr, Minn., spent last week with friends in the West end, while attending the annual teachers' convention in session at the Spalding.

Miss Lucille Vanderpool of Park Rapids, Minn., and Miss Mabel Bostad of Fosston, Minn., were the guests of Mrs. P. R. Haley last week.

LOOKS INTO BURNING.

Investigation of Destruction of Home Near Cass Lake.

Cass Lake, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Attorney Thayer C. Bailey, who is connected with the state fire marshal's office, has made an investigation into the burning of the home of Michael Henry, a bachelor who lived about seven miles southwest of here. The fire occurred during Mr. Henry's absence from his home. He had been away for a week since the last visit when it occurred, about a month ago. It is reported that certain parties have made statements to the effect that they knew who was responsible for the fire, but were afraid to tell.

During the acrimony of the recent campaign here various rumors and statements were circulated regarding the disposition of a certain $50 bill which had been marked and passed in connection with the Puposky attempt at arson. Mr. Bailey was also checking up these rumors as well as others concerning the purported stay of Mike Davis for a time in the office of a Cass Lake citizen, and where he is supposed to have been supplied with the necessaries of life by a man who spent some time in Cass Lake immediately following the Puposky affair. Davis is reported to have left Cass Lake some time afterwards, taking a sleeper on a Great Northern train.

WILL APPROVE OFFICERS' BONDS

City Council Meeting Promises to Be Routine Affair.

At the council meeting tonight bonds of the newly appointed city officials will be submitted and probably approved. These include the city engineer, the health commissioner, the city clerk and the building inspector.

It is uncertain whether or not the matter of the confirmation of H. A. Carmichael as city attorney will come up. Approval failed by one vote at the annual meeting last Tuesday and it is claimed that the seven who voted against him will not change their positions. It is not believed that the mayor will send his name in tonight, although he may do so later. It can be brought up by moving a reconsideration of the vote at any time.

The new dance hall ordinance of Alderman Scott is in the hands of the committee on ordinances and resolutions and may be reported for final passage.

Senators Favor Geiger.

Washington, March 18.—The nomination of Ferdinand A. Geiger to be United States district judge for the Eastern district of Wisconsin was ordered favorably reported to the senate by the judiciary committee today.

IS VITALITY OF YOUTH GONE?

Disease, Wrong Living, Overwork Responsible for Low Vitality.

ELECTRICITY RESTORES HEALTH AND GOOD BLOOD.

Experiences Some People of Duluth Have Made Who Were Treated By Electro Medical Doctors.

Most of the people who have lost their health are of the opinion that it cannot be restored again. Others again are laboring under the illusion that all diseases can be cured in all stages. Those which are most painful are not the most malignant troubles. The most dangerous diseases are practically painless, like consumption, Bright's disease, cancer, blood poison, etc.

If the strength of youth is gone and you are feeling old, while you are not passed middle age, that surely is a sign that there is something seriously wrong with your system.

Some one aptly remarked that a man of 20 envies the man with wealth—but that the man of 50 envies the man with health. That this is true in many, far too many cases, nearly every man or woman who has passed the meridian of life can testify of their own experience.

People who are afflicted with chronic diseases have more than one thing to worry them. Besides the suffering, pain and inconvenience occasioned by the malady or weakness that weighs them down, they are wondering day and night if there is not a skillful physician somewhere who can apply a remedy which will drive away disease, and return, in part at least, the health and strength that once was theirs.

Not only does the longing come, but the heartache, and the silent tear will steal down wrinkled cheek as thoughts of youthful days and scenes come trooping back to haunt the weary vision. Then we were strong and vigorous, life flowed in every vein. The blooming cheek, the sparkling eye, the steady, strong, vigorous nerves and muscles of steel, all told the tale of youthful health and strength and happiness.

But the days of life are not all light, nor are the nights all dark. To some of earth's afflicted, hope holds out a kindly hand and says: "There is both relief and cure for you." To such the Electro Medical Doctors offer an avenue of escape; they have cured people who had lost all hope, and what was worse, they had been told by many doctors that there was no use of treating them, as their case was incurable. The system the Electro Medical Doctors use differs distinctly from any school. A great number of Duluth people have been cured by the doctors and many more will be cured within the next few weeks. All patients feel a great exhilaration while under treatment of the powerful electrical machines, and while they have been treated by all kinds of doctors, have been bled and baked, doped and kneaded almost half to death, they witness that they have never been benefited as much as by the treatments of this new system. The offices are at No. 26 West Superior street and have separate waiting rooms for men and women. Those who are sick are welcomed to a free consultation from 9 to 12, 1 to 5, 6 to 8. While others may have failed to cure you, these doctors may bring back to you your health and youth.

News and Views of Minnesota Politics

Democratic Meeting.

The Democrats of Minnesota, who have been standing on the side lines watching the merry war in the Republican camp, will throw off their lethargy tomorrow. The Democratic state central committee will hold a meeting in St. Paul to fix the dates for the state and county conventions and the precinct caucuses and to choose a place for the state meeting.

The place and dates will probably be the only results of committee action, but there will be other political developments. The state central committee has a membership of over 100. Every man who attends will have a desire to test the sentiment of every other in regard to presidential candidates and prospective candidates for the governorship. There will be talk of delegates at large and district delegates to the national convention. The chances of Democracy in the various congressional districts will be talked over. There will be politics in the air and it will spread throughout the state to stir up Democrats who were not at St. Paul and make them take a greater interest in the fight that demands the strength of Democracy.

There is little doubt of Minnesota's position on Democratic presidential candidates. Up to this time the sentiment has been almost entirely for Wilson. Hennepin county has shown some Clark sentiment, while Ramsey county leaders have announced themselves for Harmon, but the general sentiment has been for Wilson. Wilson men believe there will be no change. Nothing has appeared yet to damage the cause of the New Jersey governor.

Nobody is certain of the sentiment on the governorship. Congressman Hammond, who has been the favorite in newspaper comment, is not anxious to make the run. He would rather make the fight to retain his seat in congress. Others mentioned are Judge C. W. Stanton of Bemidji, P. M. Ringdal of Crookston, P. M. Kerst of Minneapolis, Sam Anderson of Hutchinson, J. G. Armson of Stillwater and Senator E. P. Peterson of Litchfield.

North Dakota Primary.

North Dakota takes its politics seriously. During the winter the farmers of that state of bonanza farms has little to do but get wised up on politics. They all do it. They not only think politics, but they talk politics, and North Dakota has more orators per 1,000 of population than any other state in the union.

Naturally the primary on presidential candidates to be held tomorrow has stirred up some mess. Everything was lovely until Roosevelt entered the field. La Follette had things his own way. Taft never did have a chance and with La Follette the only other Republican candidate, the La Follette men had North Dakota checked off and laid away.

The entrance of Roosevelt into the race changed the aspect. The La Follette men set to work. So did the Roosevelt men. Orators were called into the state or orators and oratory was spilled all over the prairies from Fargo to Beach and from Ellendale to Bottineau.

All of the work wasn't in oratory either. The organizations were busy and they have some nice little well-oiled organizations in the Flickertail state. The Progressives were split by the entrance of Roosevelt into the field, but the Stalwarts, regarding Taft as a forlorn hope, also lined up for Roosevelt as opposed to the Progressive organization. The Progressies have assembled a semblance of order out of the chaos the first announcement of Roosevelt threw into their ranks and are now almost solidly behind La Follette.

No man can predict the result with assurance. Before La Follette went into the state last week the Roosevelt men were loud in their claims and they were credited, but the reception accorded the fighting senator from Wisconsin has developed many skeptics. Roosevelt is by no means certain to carry the state.

Taft will get a slim vote. He cannot carry the state and his followers will for the most part choose between what is to them the lesser of two evils. The real Taft men, who want to see the president renominated and will not allow their part in the factional fight in the state to interfere with their allegiance to the president, will vote for La Follette as a slap at Roosevelt. The members of the old Stalwart ring, to whom the defeat of the Progressives in any battle is the first consideration, will vote for Roosevelt. The Progressives of the state organization, to whom the defeat of the Stalwarts is the first consideration, will vote for La Follette and they will be joined by many other sincere admirers of the Wisconsin senator. Many Progressives have a wholesome respect for Roosevelt and will vote for him despite the red flag of Stalwart support.

John Burke is the only candidate on the Democratic ticket and many Democrats will go into the Republican primary. It is human nature to take a fight when peace is also offered. The Democrats will be most likely to vote for La Follette as most nearly expressing their ideal of political principles.

It's a complicated tangle. Roosevelt and La Follette organizations are both claiming the victory, but one man's guess is as good as another's. The result will have a national effect, for the North Dakota primary is the first to be held. A defeat to Roosevelt means much at this time and will be a rebuke that will have a lasting effect on his candidacy, while victory will bolster him up. Defeat for La Follette means elimination, while victory will arouse his waning cause and give it new life.

Bemidji Pioneer Vote.

The Bemidji Pioneer has completed its straw vote on president and governor. Roosevelt leads all candidates for the presidency, with Wilson leading the Democratic candidates. A heavy vote for Judge Stanton for governor indicates the feeling of the home folk toward the jurist. Gordon leads the Republican candidates, with Lee second and Eberhart third. The result of the vote follows:

For president—Roosevelt, 2,559; La Follette, 1,762; Taft, 1,048; Wilson, 618; Debs, 291; Bryan, 101; Cummins, 76; Clark, 70.

For governor—Stanton, 2,357; Gordon, 769; Lee, 675; Eberhart, 517; Dunn, 198.

Bar to Peterson.

There is an insurmountable obstacle to the candidacy of Senator E. P. Peterson of Litchfield, who has been mentioned for the Democratic nomination for governor. The Constitution of the state prohibits the holding of any other state office by a state senator during the term for which he was elected. Mr. Peterson's term as senator expires in December, 1914, so that he is not available as a candidate for the governorship this year. If this were not the case, Senator Peterson would be a formidable candidate.

Many for Stanton.

Judge Stanton's friends continue to boom him for the Democratic nomination for governor. The popularity of the judge in the Ninth district is shown by the result of the Bemidji Pioneer straw vote. Judge Stanton is well known throughout the state. He was formerly a resident of Swift county and many friends there would like to see him in the race. He was elected in 1910 for a term of six years and that he would resign from the bench to enter the race is doubted.

O'Brien Is Prophet.

Taft will have the Minnesota delegation, Taft will be the Republican nominee, and Woodrow Wilson will be the next president of the United States, was the prediction put forth by C. D. O'Brien of St. Paul, who was in Duluth yesterday. Mr. O'Brien was ne of the speakers at the annual St. Patrick's day banquet at Superior last evening. Mr. O'Brien is an ardent Democrat, but he says his ardor is not responsible for the prediction that Democracy will be triumphant in the coming campaign.

Breakers Ahead.

The talk of shunting Governor Eberhart to the side lines and substituting a stronger organization candidate will not down. Many men within the inner circle realize the weakess of the governor, but while Ed Smith holds fast to the "man of destiny" there is little chance for any other candidate. It may be that certain people having influence will whisper into Mr. Smith's ear before the convention and as a result Adolph O. Eberhart will lose his faith in his guiding star. It is not like the organization to play a loser consistently, especially when defeat at the polls looms up as a moral certainty.

Trouble for Steenerson.

The Moorhead News, in an editorial that appears to have greater foundation than conjecture, says that F. H. Peterson is seriously considering entering the race in the Ninth district against Congressman Steenerson.

The News lauds Mr. Peterson as a lawyer and a man. He served four terms in the state senate, has a wide acquaintance in the district and is regarded as a strong opponent for any man.

Congressman Steenerson has been subjected to persistent attacks since the revelations in the White Earth Indian inquiry. One result was the announcement that Senator Ole Sageng would again enter the lists as an independent. The Socialists will have a strog candidate in the district. If Mr. Peterson goes after Mr. Steenerson's scalp in the primaries, with a three-cornered fight at the polls looming ahead, the sturdy fighter from Crookston will spend a few sleepless nights.

Wilson Leads in South.

"Woodrow Wilson appears to be the leading candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in the South," said Fred B. Lynch, Democratic national committeeman, who returned to St. Paul Sunday from a three weeks' trip through the Southeast.

"From my observations in Florida," he continued, "I should say that the sentiment in that state is divided between Wilson and Champ Clark, with Wilson perhaps a little in the lead. Alabama and George seem to be all in favor of Wilson. Georgia, however, will hold presidential primaries in the near future, and the electorate will express their preference at the polls for the four Democratic candidates for the nomination—Harmon, Clark, Wilson and Underwood. But I have no doubt but that Wilson will be indorsed."

Compromise in Second.

As a compromise in the Second district Republican factional war, the Luverne Journal suggests that A. L. Ward of Fairmont may be the Republican candidate for congress and F. F. Ellsworth of Mankato will run for attorney general.

SUFFRAGETTES BUSY IN CHICAGO

London Woman Predicts Use of Bombs in the English Struggle.

Chicago, March 18.—Diners in fashionable down town hotel restaurants and cafes were handed equal suffrage literature last night. The distribution was not interfered with by the management at any of the places. Later the propagandists visited the hotel lobbies. Suffrage pamphlets were handed to members of the congregations of leading churches as they left after services in the morning.

Bombs may soon substitute window-smashing bricks in England, Dr. Jessie Murray of London, told a meeting of the women's party last night.

"You in America do not realize to what economic straits the women of England have been reduced," she said. "We are fighting for life and honor. The men are taking away our means of livelihood by legislation. They are robbing our working women of the privilege to work, when they are eager and willing to work to support themselves. The men are crying for their places.

"It has reached the stage of a civil war. People have asked why we do not substitute bombs for bricks. If our demands are not acceded to soon, I assure you bombs will be used."

"When a call was made for volunteers to work at the polls in the interests of the women's suffrage preferential primary vote, only four responded. A second appeal brought six more, making a total of ten workers.

POLICE STAND AT SIDE OF PRIEST

Thirty of Congregation Ejected From Church in Cleveland.

Clevelan', Ohio, March 18. — Father J. M. Paulus yesterday preached his sermon in St. Michael's Catholic church after thirty riotous members had been driven from the building and eight arrested by police that had to be assigned to duty there in expectation of trouble.

A large proportion of the parish, one of the most prominent in Cleveland, has been dissatisfied with Father Paulus. A week ago the pastor was hooted and jeered. Yesterday, when the police had ejected the malcontents, Father Paulus, standing in the sanctuary with an officer on either side, told the congregation that he had come as a soldier obeying orders, as the bishop had assigned him to the church. He had sought to resign, but Bishop Farrell had told him that that would disrupt the parish.

Threats of dynamiting caused the police to establish a guard about the pastor's residence.

IN HONOR OF ST. PATRICK

Observance of Day in Duluth Largely of Religious Nature.

Judge Martin Hughes Will Deliver Patriotic Irish Address.

The fact that St. Patrick's day fell on Sunday this year did not interfere with the celebration in Duluth, for the observance here is always quiet, although partaking of all the elements of patriotism and loyalty for which the Irish people are noted. The only change this year was that the program at Cathedral hall, an annual affair, was postponed until tonight.

The observance yesterday was of a religious nature. The Hibernian lodges of the city attended 8 o'clock mass in a body at the Cathedral of the Sacred Heart yesterday morning and received holy communion. At the high mass at 10:30, Irish sacred music was introduced and Rev. Father Ryan preached a sermon on Ireland's patron saint.

At St. James' church in West Duluth, a program of sacred Irish music was given and many Irishmen from all over the city attended.

This evening at Cathedral hall, Fourth street and Second avenue west, Judge Martin Hughes will deliver a patriotic Irish address and the boys of the Christian Brothers' high school will present a play, "An Irish Eden." There will also be a program of Irish music.

At St. Clement's hall in the West end there will also be a patriotic program tonight, with music, songs and a play by the young people of the parish.

Many Duluth Irishmen last evening attended the St. Patrick's day banquet in Superior. The event is always the feature of the St. Patrick's day celebration at the Head of the Lakes. The glory of Ireland's new era was extolled by some of the most brilliant speakers in the Northwest.

The general celebration of the day was not noticeable. Bits of green appeared here and there on coat lapels, but the wearing of the green is not as prominent as it is in the cities where the day is publicly celebrated. The hotel cafes had programs of Irish music for the entertainment of their guests, while the Sunday afternoon concert at the Masonic temple was given over to Irish airs.

over certain harbor leases granted to that nation by Colombia. The story had all the elements of plausibility. Colombia is at odds with the United States because of our seizure of the Panama zone. Nobody who has access to the evidence on the Rainey resolution of inquiry into the method by which the so-called republic of Panama was established can doubt the righteousness of the Colombian complaint. And so, when it was alleged that Colombia had leased certain harbors, commanding the entrance to the Panama canal, to Germany, the immediate cry of the jingoes was "war!" President Taft sat quiet, and the members of his cabinet whose departments would be most involved, maintained a like silence. Accordingly that little war scare died at birth. At just the right moment the department of state put out a bulletin that no such leases had been made or were in contemplation by Colombia.

Has Gained Strength.

It is precisely by such methods of dignity and caution that President Taft is impressing himself on the sober sense of the naton. All Washington knows that he is today three-fold stronger than he was six months ago. The avowal of the Roosevelt candidacy, instead of weakening Taft's position, has strengthened it. Day by day the reports of state primaries show an increasing number of Taft delegations. It becomes more and more evident that it was mere stupidity on the part of the Taft manager, Congressman McKinley, to evade the challenge of Senator Dixon, the Roosevelt chief, for a nation-wide primary.

I talked today with Senator Poindexter of the state of Washington, on this very topic. The senator is a leader among the Republican Insurgents, an earnest Rooseveltian and withal a highly creditable member of the upper house.

"Mr. McKinley erred in not accepting the Dixon challenge," said Senator Poindexter. "Of course, nothing could have come of it, if accepted. The cost of direct primaries in states where they are not provided for by law is absolutely prohibitory. I am credibly informed that direct primaries in Illinois, for example, would cost not less than $100,000. To raise that amount of money by popular subscription would be practically impossible. I believe absolutely in the direct primary system, and I expect that before another presidential campaign it will be in force in every state in the Union. But in meantime it is utter folly to demand primaries at private expense."

Potatoes and Politics.

Speaking of "cabbages and kings," as the late O. Henry would say, there is an interesting situation here betwixt potatoes and politics. Probably the average American does not know that we are importing potatoes from nearly every corner of the globe—and paying a tariff tax thereon. Potatoes come here from Belgium, the whole area of which is less than that of New York state. They come from New Zealand and pay for 5,000 miles of ocean carriage and an import duty beside. Concerning that import duty, Congressman Bathrick of Ohio had this tosay:

"I am in the potato business. My farm in Florida produces not less than 600 to 900 barrels every year. But I believe that the tariff on potatoes is an unwarrantable tax on the people. Potatoes are the most universal of all foods. When you talk of a free breakfast table you must recognize that it cannot be had with a tariff on the tubers. Notwithstanding my own interests I went to Oscar Underwood and asked that potatoes be put on the free list. It was not done then, and now there is talk of putting it in as a rider on the steel bill. There is not an American farmer who would be hurt by the complete abolition of the duty, and the cost of living would be reduced by it."

Dubois Large Grower of Tubers.

Mr. Bathrick is not the only public man who mixes potatoes with his politics. Former Senator Dubois of Idaho, who is now the manager of the Champ Clark campaign, is probably the largest grower of the Irish tubers in the United States. A graduate of Yale, a man of engaging presence and high devotion to principle, Dubois is today the animating force of the Clark propaganda. Coming into the Democratic party by way of the Silver Republican movement in 1896, along with Senators Teller and Pettigrew, Dubois has stuck to the party. He is the Democratic leader in his state, but having encountered the bitter enmity of the Mormon church has failed repeatedly of his ambition for re-election to the senate. At the St. Louis and Denver conventions Mr. Dubois fought unavailingly for an anti-Mormon plank in the platform. Perhaps if he can put Champ Clark over he will have better fortune at Baltimore.

SETTING A DATE FOR CONVERSION

Unitarian Pastor Says Revival Should Come About Naturally.

"Religious Revival," was the subject of a sermon preached by Rev. George R. Gebauer at the First Unitarian church, yesterday.

"We may smile at the notion of setting a date for the conversion of a community, for we hold that revival should come about naturally; but we forget that the start for this undertaking was naturally made, when men stirred by the religious condition among men, determined to enter upon such a campaign," he said. "But there are two things, which trouble the average liberal mind. The first is, that while indeed a good many are revived in their religious feelings, only so few survive the compaign period and become living assets in helpful church life. The answer would be: 'Look at nature, see how she scatters seeds so lavishly and yet among the millions only one grows to the full stature of a tree.'

"But the more serious question after all is this, what of the many who by the efforts of the revivalist are turned in disgust from all religion? Here we face a dilemma. The men who try to bring men in their way to the all-good, God, must do so according to their own light and their own convictions; they cannot say, let us sit down quietly in our closets and pray for the unconverted, for if we pray in the street, many more may be driven away from all faith. The orthodox preacher cannot take the position so easy to take for one who does not believe in the exclusive saving power of the gospel of Christ. Where may the solution be found? That solution rests with the liberal church, which often sits so quietly by with a smile on its face, and which protests against the teaching of orthodoxy, but fails to proclaim its own gospel of divine reasonableness to the world.

"The Unitarian church must realize, that in spite of all protest, it remains a part of the church universal, and is sent into the world to compliment the efforts of evangelism. We have the gospel which will appeal to the reverent but reasoning man. We have outgrown the fear of the old church, but not its faith; we have cast aside its superstitions but not its truth covered by these superstitions. It does not behoove the Liberal church to sneer and smile at the earnest efforts of our orthodox friends, but to open wide the doors of its sanctuary to all those who are driven out of the church by the doctrinal teaching of evangelism.

"We must show that belief may not only be devout, but rational; that while we have no binding creed of any kind, we have a deep and abiding faith; that if we have not the traditional theology of the fathers, we have a deep religious philosophy, which we endeavor to enrich day by day, as new light and truth come into the world.

"To all men we preach 'be true to yourself, true to your convictions, but see to it that you have convictions based upon deep reasoning and deep moral feeling and not merely shallow opinion. And if you have found yourself in your convictions, then do not stand aloof from the churches and find fault with their honest but may be weak efforts, but help them to build up the kingdom of God among men.' The true man is not a scoffer, but a sympathizer with all, who would bring a higher life to the world."

A Statement of Facts Backed By a Strong Guarantee

We guarantee immediate and positive relief to all sufferers from constipation. In every case where our remedy fails to do this we will return the money paid us for it. That's a frank statement of facts, and we want you to substantiate them at our risk.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten just like candy, are particularly prompt and agreeable in action, may be taken at any time, day or night; do not cause diarrhoea, nausea, griping, excessive looseness, or other undesirable effects. They have a very mild but positive action upon the organs with which they come in contact, apparently acting as a regulative tonic upon the relaxed muscular coat of the bowel, thus overcoming weakness, and aiding to restore the bowels to more vigorous and healthy activity.

Rexall Orderlies are unsurpassable and ideal for the use of children, old folks and delicate persons. We cannot too highly recommend them to all sufferers from any form of constipation and its attendant evils. That's why we back our faith in them with our promise of money back if they do not give entire satisfaction. Three sizes: 12 tablets 10 cents, 36 tablets 25 cents and 80 tablets 50 cents. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Duluth only at our store—The Rexall Store. E. M. Tredway, 108 West Superior street.

WORK ON DULUTH FARM SCHOOL HAS BEEN STARTED

Crew Is Clearing Fifty-Five Acres at Greysolon Farms.

Site Consisting of 235 Acres Will Be Transferred Later.

Work has been started on the Duluth demonstration farm school. The causes of the many delays and disappointments have been swept aside and the farm school for which Duluth men interested in agriculture have spent much effort and time is now assured.

A crew of men is at work on the Greysolon farms site clearing fifty-five of the 235 acres included in the tract. The clearing of the land was one of the conditions made by the regents of the university in accepting the site and the work will be done before the formal transfer of the land is made to the university.

The clearing is being done on contract and will be rushed through. The land is wooded with marketable timber, as it is estimated about 55,000 feet of various kinds of timber will be taken off of the fifty-five acres. The first load of logs was hauled to Howard's mill today.

Duluth men who were interested in the farm school are greatly pleased with the turn of affairs. For a time it was feared that the carrying out of the profect would be delayed for some time, but when assurances were given the regents that the commercial bodies of Duluth would do all in their power to obtain an extension of the street railway line to the city limits at the Greysolon farms site, the regents accepted the site and all obstacles were cleared away.

The Greysolon site was carefully selected and is considered the best of those available for the purpose of the school. When the university first took up the selection of the site, about a dozen tracts of land were offered. Experts from the farm school studied topographical and soil conditions carefully. Their examinations were exhaustive and when the recommendation was made to the regents that the Greysolon site be selected, it was the result of months of study and investigation.

The farm school will mean much to the agricultural development of Northeastern Minnesota. It will instruct not only the students at the school, but the farmers in the vicinity. Its experimental farm will be of great value to farms in determining the value of various crops and their adaptability to this climate. Its soil conditions are typical of a large area of land in the vicinity of Duluth and the experiments will thus be applicable to a large territory.

The time necessary to clear the land cannot be estimated, but those interested in the project are satisfied that work has been started. The school means much to them in their desire to advance the agricultural development of this region and they consider that their efforts to obtain it have been well spent.

MOVEMENT TO WIPE OUT "RED LIGHT" DISTRICT

Social Evil Is Attacked By Men and Religion Workers.

Experts Say Campaign Is Meeting With Success Everywhere.

It is probable that as an outgrowth of the week's campaign of the Men and Religion Forward Movement in Duluth, a crusade will be started with the view of wiping out Duluth's "red light" district.

At a meeting this noon at the Y. M. C. A., the social service committee discussed the conditions in Duluth with Dr. I. J. Lansing of New York, one of the team of experts in Duluth for the Men and Religion Forward campaign and the man who is in charge of the social work.

The situation in Duluth was explained to Dr. Lansing and it is probable that he will lay the foundation for the work of eliminating the district during his stay here, and that local men will work out the details after he goes.

Dr. Lansing is directly responsible for the elimination of districts of this kind in a number of large cities of the country, among them being Rochester, N. Y., with 225,000 people and Indianapolis, Ind.

At the meeting this noon Dr. Lansing was told of the conditions and needs by the representatives of different societies interested in the matter.

Moral Awakening.

"All over the country there is a great awakening going on," said Dr. Lansing. "Leading men and societies are becoming very much interested and the time is coming when all cities will eliminate districts which have no real place in any city.

"There is but little use of going into the evils caused by districts of this kind for every one knows of them. Boys are degraded and our people are diseased. The results are terrible. Every one realizes now more than ever before that we must arise and assail vice. We must meet it boldly and openly and fight until we have won.

"We must stimulate interest. We must have a force so powerful that nothing can stop us. We are in the right and by every law of nature we must and will win.

"Not only in Duluth, but in every city, the fight will go on from now on. I have traveled some in the last few weeks and I know that people are interested in every phase of the social question as they never have been before.

"In Chicago about two weeks ago, I noticed by the newspapers, the chief of police discharged several policemen and held up the salary of others because it was claimed that they were protecting vice. The movement is general all over the country.

"Theodore A. Bingham, commissioner of police in New York city under a former mayor, has made the statement that at least 50,000 women disappear every year in the United States and are never heard of again. They have been trapped into leading an immoral life and, it is said, either die in resorts or are finally done away with after they have outlived their usefulness."

Dr. Lansing is an expert on social conditions, having been interested in the work for years. While here he will investigate the wage question, the poverty conditions of the city, sanitation, sex hygiene, wages of girls and the conditions under which they work and other phases of the city's social problems.

Movement Is Success.

J. A. Whitmore of New York, the leader of the team of experts in the city for the week's campaign, says that the movement has been more of a success than the originators ever dreamed.

The speakers have been on the road since Jan. 4, when they left New York. They go from Duluth to Hamilton, Ont., and will reach New York on April 1.

"Everywhere we have been we have met with surprises," says Mr. Whitmore, "for while we expected a good deal, we found that more had been done and more interest created than we had thought possible.

"Every condition is most encouraging. The movement is already a big success and it is going to be even greater. It has swept the country and enthusiasm is not yet as its height.

"The governor of a big Southern state has called a meeting of twelve governors to discuss and help the movement. Is that not encouraging?

"The movement is not so much for men outside the church as those already in. We want to stimulate interest and awaken the churchmen of the country to their responsibilities. We try also to formulate practical plans and methods for the business of running the church. We want the men interested. We are succeeding pretty well, too, and I think that the movement is going to grow and grow until even the present is but a fore-runner of what is to come.

"Everyone is taking hold with the right kind of spirit. We have a good start and in the right direction, I think. This is my second visit to Duluth. I was here about a year ago to explain the movement.

"Duluth looks progressive and from what I hear, I judge the movement is doing well here."

The big religious campaign began yesterday. It will continue every evening this week and will be concluded with services Sunday.

A series of institutes, platform meetings and shop meetings have been planned for the week. All but five of the meetings scheduled are for men only. The others are for women.

Opening Meetings.

Initial meetings yesterday drew good sized crowds. Sermons were preached on the movement morning and evening in all of the churches and at the First M. E. church, there was a mass meeting for men and boys. Rev. I. J. Lansing, D. D., of Washington, D. C., was the speaker.

Dr. Lansing spoke on prayers. Too little attention, he said, is paid to praying. Its form, he declared, took that of recitation rather than of real prayer. Prayer means much more than this, he said, and without effort, it is a mockery.

This afternoon, Dr. Lansing delivered the same sermon before a meeting of women at the First Baptist church, Ninth avenue east and First street.

Tonight at the Y. M. C. A. a buffet supper will be served at 6:30 o'clock. The pastors of the city and the committee members will attend. The dinner will be preceded by a social half hour.

At 7:30 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium a mass meeting will be held and it is expected that the keynote of the campaign will be sounded. All of the so-called team of experts will give addresses. Among the speakers will be J. A. Whitmore of New York, team leader; Charles E. Drum of New York, David G. Latshaw, W. C. Pearce of Chicago, I. J. Lansing of Washington, D. C., and C. W. Hensel of Detroit.

WORTH MOUNTAINS OF GOLD

is the value Mrs. Charles Barclay of Graniteville, Vt., places upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so grateful was she for her restoration to health.

She says, "I was passing through the change of life and suffered from its effects with nervousness and other annoying symptoms, and I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound proved worth mountains of gold to me, as it restored my health and strength, and for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my trouble public."

Women who are passing through this trying period should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

BUGS GREW FAT AND LAZY

Woman Says Landlord Refused to Buy Vermin Exterminator.

Tale Connected With Suit for Money Earned as Janitress.

Big, bold, brown bedbugs grew fat and lazy and the cockroach colony thrived well and multiplied all because her landlord refused to buy bug exterminator before it was too late.

At least this is what Dora La Favre declared on the witness stand this morning when she testified in the case which she has brought against M. J. Craig. Mrs. La Favre sued to recover $866.66 for services as janitress and sub-agent.

Mrs. La Favre occupied a four-story flat building at 922-924 West First street. She claims that she took care of the eight flats in the building to the best of her ability for seventeen months. She also claims to have acted as a sub-agent in the renting of the vacant apartments.

As to the vermin, Mrs. La Favre declared that Mr. Craig never bought her any exterminator, although she had requested it. She claims she was not responsible for the bed bug population.

"Were there many bed bugs and cockroaches in the building?" she was asked by Theodore Hollister attorney for Mr. Craig on cross-examination.

"Oh, my! You ought to have seen them. They were all over the house."

"Well, why didn't you round them up and drive them out with a club?"

Mrs. La Favre sighed. She said that she had tried most everything else, but that had never occurred to her.

The case is on trial in district court before Judge Dibell and a jury. Mrs. Lr Favre is represented in court by Mrs. I. C. Buell, the local woman attorney.

SIGNS OF THE SPRING BREAK-UP

Open Water Is Sighted on Lake Superior Near Jackfish.

Open water is visible from Jackfish on Lake Superior, according to a well authenticated report. Jackfish is 147 miles east of Port Arthur and it is believed by weather prophets that this means a much earlier opening of navigation than was at first anticipated. It is now thought, with this breaking up of the ice already commenced that navigation will be in full swing by May 1. The recent mild weather and strong sun has had its effect upon the ice and it will not be long now before it begins to "honeycomb."

RICH CHINAMAN TOO MUCH MARRIED

Man With Many Wives May Not Be Allowed to Reenter Country.

San Francisco, Cal., March 18.—Charged with polygamy by the Asiatic Exclusion league, Fong Bow, a wealthy local Chinese merchant, will not be allowed to return to this country from a trip to the Orient, according to information received by the league today.

Fong had obtained proper papers for his readmittance, but investigation by the league, it is said, showed that he had wives in Honolulu, Manila, Shanghai and Pekin.

Fong contended that his case did not come under the general immigration laws and appealed to the department of commerce and labor, which decided against him.

JUSTICE PITNEY TAKES THE OATH

Supreme Court Complete for First Time Since October.

Washington, March 18.—Mahlon Pitney of New Jersey today took the oath of office and assumed the duties of associate justice of the supreme court of the United States as the successor of the late Justice Harlan. It was the first time since illness last October called Justice Harlan to his death bed that the bench was filled. Mrs. Pitney and other relatives witnessed the public ceremonies.

SUGAR CONVENTION IS RENEWED FOR FIVE YEARS.

Brussels, Belgium, March 18. — The international sugar conference today formally renewed the sugar convention for another five years, beginning Sept. 1, 1913. The supplementary exportation of sugar by Russia has been fixed definitely at 150,000 tons during the current year, and with the right to export 50,000 tons more during each of the two following years.

Bordered Foulards Are Prime Favorites For Pretty Spring Gowns.

Very original designs, and the effective ways in which they can be made up along with the pretty colorings in which they are shown make a combination that cannot help but appeal to women who like to have their dresses distinctive and have that pretty stylish effect which is so hard to get and so unusual.

The new designs are shown in single and double bordered effects—pretty printed Chantilly and Cluny Lace patterns—dotted effects combined with floral wreaths — conventional designs and Grecian borders.

We are showing an especially wide range of these fabrics and highly recommend them for this season's wear. Of course, they all have the Shed Water feature.

We will show you many colored plates suggesting clever and stylish ways to have them made up.

Priced at $2.00 and $2.50 a yard.

The First of the New Juay Prints Are Shown Here

We have them in chiffons, radiums and foulards. Their quaint old-fashioned effect will bring you back to Grandmother's Days, and their dainty, pretty colorings and patterns will suggest to your mind instantaneously what very pretty gowns are possible with them. It is the one popular novelty for the season, and is being shown by the most exclusive stores of the East.

Priced 85c to $2.50 the yard.

SUCCESSOR TO THE GLOBE.

TO AMEND THE CHARTER

Petitions Asking for Initiative, Referendum and Recall, Now Ready.

Municipal Ownership League Will Try to Secure 550 Signatures.

Petitions calling for amending the city charter to incorporate the initiative, referendum and recall have been prepared by the Municipal Ownership league. They are expected to come from the printer today or tomorrow, and their circulation will be started immediately.

The signatures of 5 per cent of the voters who exercised their franchise at the last city election make it mandatory for the charter commission to submit the proposal to the voters.

In this case about 550 signatures will be required. Those interested in the matter state that these will be secured within a day or two, and that a meeting of the charter commission will be called without loss of time to act upon the matter. From the charter commission it will go to the council, which is obliged to order the special election.

The Municipal Ownership league hopes to have the proposition past the charter commission and before the council at its next meeting a week from tonight. It is claimed by the league members that a majority of the members of the charter commission are in favor of the initiative, referendum and recall, and that as soon as the required signatures are affixed to the petitions, a special meeting will be called to comply with the legal requirements.

Terms Not Expired.

Some time ago it was erroneously announced that the city is without a charter commission. At that time the question was thoroughly investigated and it was found that the terms of the members of the charter commission do not expire until the coming July. They were appointed in July, 1907, and under the law their appointments hold for five years. Had the commission gone out of existence it is asserted that the present members would have been reappointed by the judges of the district court.

It is claimed that the municipal ownership league proposes to secure the incorporation of the recall, initiative and referendum to aid in the campaign to secure municipal ownership of the electric light plant. Aside from that it is also claimed that a great many voters are in favor of these provisions, believing they will place the people in more direct control of city affairs.

The petition which is being circulated is a lengthy one.

DULUTH AS THE GATEWAY

Heavy Immigration Movement Expected to Pass Through This City.

According to the Duluth railroad officials there will be a heavy immigration movement through this city the present season.

With the prospects for the largest land rush in the history of the Canadian Northwest, local passenger officials say that a fair percentage of this movement will go the Western Canadian provinces via the Duluth gateway.

Reports from Chicago state that the Grand Trunk Pacific is planning to move a large number of immigrants via Chicago and Duluth, while some of the Canadian Northern's business is coming this way.

Two Canadian passenger officials were in Duluth Saturday, and according to their statement the Canadian railroads are preparing to do by far the largest passenger business in the history of the Dominion. Especially is this so of the railroads of the Western part of Canada.

The looked for increase in the passenger traffic is based upon the heavy increase of Immigration over previous years, while the freight business of the railroads is expected to correspondingly increase.

The first heavy movement is looked for some time next month. There is some straggling immigration coming through Duluth at the present time, but the real movement, as far as Duluth is concerned, will not be on before April 1.

Woman's Realm

Gallery seats for the Bonci concert tomorrow evening at the Lyceum theater will be placed on sale tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. This arrangement has been made with the Lyceum management in response to requests from many who wish to hear Bonci and find it impossible to get to the theater early and then wait in line until the gallery sale opens.

Bonci was in Alberta on March 9 and sang before a capacity audience at the Grand opera house in Calgary. In a recent article in Musical America special mention is made of the air from "The Girl of the Golden West" which Sig. Bonci will sing as the last number on tomorrow evening's program. Duluth music lovers are especially interested in this number as Ricardo Martin sang it last fall in his concert and the comparison of the two interpretations will be of especial interest.

Parties from nearly all of the range towns are coming down for this concert and there will be a good deal of entertaining done as several large parties are planned and many have invited one or two guests.

GARFIELD CIRCLE.

Relief Committee Especially Urged to Attend.

Garfield Circle No. 4, Ladies of the G. A. R., will meet tomorrow afternoon at Memorial hall at 2:30 o'clock. The members of the relief committee are especially asked to be present at this meeting as there is important work to be taken care of.

Realized She Had Talent When Only a Girl of 7 Years

ROSINA GALLI.

That a child of 7 should recognize a great talent and insist on cultivating it, is unusual. It sometimes happens to young musicians that they show an aptitude for their profession at a tender age. Little Rosina Galli decided at 7 that she wanted to be a dancer. She had a hard time persuading her parents to let her join the ballet school and she was six years getting out of the line of coryphees. But the result is that at the age of 17 she is one of the most skilled and graceful dancers in the world. She is premiere danseuse at the Opera House La Scala in Milan and during this season she has been the premiere danseuse with Dippel's Chicago-Philadelphia Opera company.

"VOTES FOR WOMEN" NOTES

At the midwinter meeting of the Federation, held in St. Paul, Mrs. C. G. Higbee, former president of the Federation and chairman of committee on charities and corrections, broached the cause of equal suffrage to the Federation in the following terms:

"Obviously there is increasing need of woman's work in the development and care of dependent children; for the protection of young girls; in the regulation of public charities; in the elimination of dangerous social conditions; in securing justice for wage-earning women, and in all measures relating to the welfare of our sex.

"It is inevitable that thoughtful women realize that this work might be more easily and fully accomplished if women were balloting instead of begging. Our boasted 'indirect influence' is found to be of very fluctuating value.

"Therefore, as chairman of the charities and corrections committee, I now give notice that this federation will be asked, at its next annual meeting, in September, to indorse, for economic reasons the Equal Suffrage movement."

For the benefit of the Wisconsin campaign, New York advocates of equal suffrage held a mass meeting Feb. 28, and in less than half an hour a fund of $3,000 was raised and telegraphed to state headquarters at Milwaukee. Mrs. Crystal Eastman Benedict, campaign manager, made the appeal for money, and the collection was taken by Mrs. Beatrice Forbes-Robertson and Miss Inez Milholland.

* * *

Rev. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the National Woman Suffrage association, is making a tour of New Hampshire in the interest of the suffrage campaign. Dr. Shaw opened her series of meetings at Dartmouth college, under the auspices of the Men's League for Woman Suffrage, which is proving a valuable assistant to the state society. New Hampshire suffragists are thoroughly confident that their state will furnish the seventh star for the suffrage flag.

* * *

Ex-Governor St. John of Kansas, predicts that the Sunflower state will return a majority of at least 40,000 for woman suffrage at the election in November. The present state executive, Governor Stubbs, is a member of the suffrage organization.

* * *

As a result of anti-suffrage arguments at a hearing before the Ohio constitutional convention committee, a vote of twenty to one was reported in favor of the adoption of an amendment giving votes to women.

* * *

Governor West of Oregon, an ardent believer in woman suffrage, says there is no doubt that the amendment will be carried at the fall election in his state, when the question will be submitted to the voters.

Nevada and Texas are two Western states in which women have no form of suffrage. In Nevada, however, a bill conferring the full franchise on women has been approved by the legislature and suffrage clubs are being organized throughout the entire state of Texas.

Advocates of woman suffrage in Nebraska are planning an extensive campaign for the coming year. A house to house canvass will be made throughout the state, to register the attitude of every voter and every woman, and organizers will be sent into the field early in the spring.

* * *

According to Boston papers, the women of Cambridge have just concluded a two weeks' campaign of registration by increasing the women's voting list 450 per cent; 6,220 women registered, as compared to 1,778 last year. The election is for officers of school committee.

* * *

Clergymen in many parts of New Jersey are receiving requests to set aside a Sunday in March as "Equal Suffrage day" to address their congregation upon this topic.

* * *

A Men's League for Woman Suffrage is in process of formation at Princeton college, similar to those at Harvard and Yale.

* * *

Governor A. O. Eberhart is a member of the advisory board of the Minnesota Woman's Suffrage association and he with his wife are members of the St. Paul Political Equality club.

MACARONI EATERS ALWAYS HEALTHY

Some of the healthiest men and women in Duluth are great eaters of "Minnesota" macaroni and spaghetti. Many people who never cared for these foods before are delighted with the rich, nut-like flavor of "Minnesota" macaroni and spaghetti and it is surprising how much better a family will feel by eating more of these foods and less meat.

Good macaroni and spaghetti are the best and most nourishing foods known. They are fine for children—making their bodies strong and healthy. But if you want that rich, nut-like flavor be sure and get the delicious "Minnesota" brand macaroni or spaghetti—made from the finest Northern Durum wheat, with all the nourishing Gluten left in. It is easily digested and never gets soggy. All good Duluth grocers sell it.

THE EVENING STORY

Tim Moloney---Brute!

By M. J. Phillips.

"You're a brute, Tim Moloney," said Sheila O'Brien, her blue eyes flashing, "to whip Danny Cassidy!"

"Poor Little Danny," mocked Big Tim. "Sure he weighs 200."

"But he isn't as big as you are," returned Sheila, with a glance of admiration, sternly repressed. "You had no business to strike him."

"He danced five times with you last night," accused Big Tim. "Every time he does that and brags about it, I'll thump him."

"You have no thought of a poor girl's reputation," rejoined Sheila, on the verge of tears. "Sure, what will folks say when they know two big omadhauns were fighting about me?"

Being unusued to the ways of women, Tim blundered then. "If you didn't dance but once with Cassidy," he pointed out triumphantly, "there'd be no fighting and no talking."

"I'll dance with whom I please," flared Sheila, white and angry. "Here's your ring, Tim Moloney; you can't prison me." It was a rueful Big Tim who found himself in the street soon after, his modest diamond ring in his pocket and desolation in his heart. That the hammering of the bumptious Cassidy would bring any such result he had never for a moment dreamed, or he might have been slower about going into action. But the damage was done. He promised himself sternly that if Cassidy didn't keep a civil tongue in his head another beating would be his portion. Big Tim, lately promoted to the "Broadway squad," governed the business corner in the city with a rod of iron. Inches over six feet, with shoulders broad as a door, he carried his bulk like a willow wand.

He was a handsome chap, with roguish brown eyes. His brown hair showed an unruly desire to curl behind, though it was clipped short. He was always clean shaven, with a tinge of healthy color in his firm cheeks. Chauffeurs, motormen and teamsters were on their best behavior at his corner. He had a singular dislike for argument and a red-blooded love for action. The man who did not heed the white gloved hand was likely to find himself jerked bodily to the paving stones by a blue-clad giant with a leap like a catamount.

The next day after his quarrel with Sheila he ruled his little kingdom with the impartial excellence of Solomon, albeit it was all done subconsciously, warning whistle blew and traffic stopped. With one hand he held three converging strands; a gesture of the other and the fourth thread worked its way through. Then he shuttled the others back and forth with the calm confidence of the weaver who carries his design ever before him.

His thoughts were not on his work. Everywhere he looked he saw Sheila's blue eyes blazing with anger, clouded with tears. Every sound resolved itself into Sheila's voice, "You're a brute, Tim Moloney."

Again and again he rehearsed their quarrel, or thought of the $700 saved up with which to start housekeeping. The poor little spurned ring throbbed and burned against his heart. He did not know that, mid-afternoon, Sheila, lips compressed and head held high, came down the avenue. She was on a wholly unnecessary errand which, she assured herself, was very important. Nor did he know that on pretense of waiting for a car she was watching him with a betraying wistfulness.

Despite his preoccupation, Tim saw the little old lady on the curb as soon as she arrived there. She had silvery hair. It showed around the delicate face beneath the bonnet which was fashion's last word in the '70s. She was bent and carried a cane. She wore a shawl; her gown was pitifully shabby. In her faded blue eyes was a look almost of terror. The streets were slippery with new fallen snow.

Tim's whistle shrilled. Both hands went up decisively. All traffic, trucks, motors, pouring in from four directions, was dammed. Motormen banged their gongs peevishly, chauffeurs looked inquiringly. But Tim looked neither to the right not left; he hastened to the old lady on the curb. "You want to cross, ma'am?" he asked, with a sunny smile, and offered his arm.

The old lady took it gratefully. "I suppose a lame old woman has no business on this busy street," she said a little breathlessly.

"Sure and you have ma'am," returned Tim stoutly. "Take your time, and don't slip. 'Tis bad footing."

"Thank you, young man; you're the first person I've met since I left home that wasn't in a hurry. The city's a dreadful place."

"It is so, ma'am," agreed Tim soberly. When their slow journey was half completed, the old lady realized that the lane of six feet which they were traversing was banked on every side by impatient hundreds who waited on her footsteps. She halted and withdrew her hand from the policeman's arm the better to raise a chiding forefinger. "All these people waiting just for me? You shouldn't have done it. They're more important than I am."

"They think they are, but they're not, ma'am," assured Big Tim. "Waitin' a good for them." He gave the nearest motorman a level glance that stopped him at once. A grim, contemptuous stare, sweeping over a befurred chauffeur, and significantly to his license number, brought the fellow's gauntleted hand quickly from the horn. The other curb was won at last, and the old lady turned for a final word. "You're real good," she said earnestly. "The city can't be such a dreadful place when there are boys like you in it. Is your mother living?"

"Ye'es, ma'am, in Ireland," returned Big Tim.

"I hope you write to her?"

"Twice a month, ma'am."

"Keep on writing. Don't ever miss. Mothers set store by letters." She smiled lonesomely. "Good-bye, Mr. Policeman."

Big Tim, bare headed, bowed courtier-like over her fingers. She dropped him a little courtsey. To Sheila it was like a scene from a play. The snow was clean and fresh. The glittering show windows, pricked out by their myriad lights, were the background. The old lady and Tim, unconsciously graceful and sincere, held the center of the stage. The hurrying crowds on the walk filed in. The temper of the audience in the street changed at the little tableau. Impatient scowls gave place to smiles. Big Tim dove into the tangle and zigzagged his way to the middle of the street again. His whistle sounded. His white gloved hand was aloft, beckoning. The snarled strands of traffic straightened out and shuttled back and forth.

The motorman who had banged the loudest gave Moloney a friendly grin as he rumbled past. On all sides people nodded and smiled. There was something heart-warming about the gentle kindliness of the big policeman.

"I'd like to get across, Mr. Moloney," said a timid voice when traffic had settled down again. Tim turned like a shot. It was Sheila, demure and friendly.

"Y-yes, ma'am," he stammered.

Almost at the curb she hugged his elbow suddenly to her breast. "You aren't a brute, Timmie," she said, warmly. "I'm a mean, ungrateful girl, so I am."

"Sheila," cried Tim, huskily, "can I come up tonight?"

She smiled dazzlingly, and a blush mounted to her rounded cheeks. "If you'll bring me my ring."

"Darlin'!" said Big Tim fervently.

CARELESS ABOUT APPENDICITIS IN DULUTH

Many Duluth people have stomach or bowel trouble which is likely to turn into appendicitis. If you have constipation, sour stomach, or gas on the stomach, try simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as compounded in Adler-i-ka, the new German appendicitis remedy. Druggists state that A SINGLE DOSE of this simple remedy relieves bowel or stomach trouble almost INSTANTLY. W. A. Abbett, druggist.

Roosevelt Guest of Priest.

Huntington, L. I., March 18.—Col. Roosevelt will be the guest here this afternoon of Rev. Father York of St. Patrick's Catholic church. After luncheon at the rectory it was planned for the colonel to address the children at the parochial school and later to receive residents of Huntington at the rectory.

LESS DIVORCES WOULD RESULT

If More Marriages Were Solemnized in Church, Says Milwaukee Judge.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 18.—If all marriages were contracted inchurches, there would be far fewer divorces, is the opinion of Chief Justice Joseph G. Donnelly, of the Milwaukee civil court.

"There should be first of all, parental consent," said Judge Donnelly. "Then there should be the ceremony performed by a minister in a church before the friends of both the man and the woman. There should be a ring and the wedding march and all the other little touches—call them sentimental if you will—that go with the acceptance of a sacred responsibility. And it should have the proper setting.

"Take the other side of the picture. The young couple rush to the license clerk, possibly just before closing time, to keep it out of the papers. They turn to the nearest judge and apply for a special dispensation. They are taken into his chambers. There is nothing here to remind them of the nature of the contract into which they are about to enter. A few musty law volumes, the smell of stale tobacco smoke in the air; perhaps a few minutes before a woman of the under world has sobbed out a pitiful story of sordid shame to a callous-ed lawyer. What is there in this environment to maintain the impressiveness of the beautiful sacrament of marriage? Will the average man and woman regard the ceremony performed in a law office with that feeling of awe and reverence that must come when two persons meet at God's altar to plight their troth?

"Sentiment is a strong safeguard and I believe that if more marriages were performed in church, there would be fewer divorces."

THE MENACE OF CHICAGO'S PLANS.

Though there has been a belated alarm over the probable effect of Chicago's plans to divert a huge volume of water from the Great Lakes, it is doubtful if many people yet realize the real peril that threatens the greatest inland waterway in the world if Chicago succeeds.

For several years The Herald has been calling attention to this danger, but so far as it knows very few men, in Duluth or elsewhere, have appreciated the need of watchfulness and aggressive defense. F. B. Spellman of this city is an exception, he having given this matter close and careful study ever since Chicago began to conceive its vast schemes of robbing the Great Lakes to build up a waterway and waterpower system for which its drainage plans are only a disguise.

Chicago now is asking permission to increase its drafts upon the Great Lakes to 10,000 cubic feet per second. Not many know that it is holding in reserve a plan to increase this to 14,000 cubic feet per second by another outlet through Calumet river, in addition to the present one.

Chicago's excuse for this is that the water is needed properly to dilute and carry off the enormous quantity of sewage which flows through the drainage canal. It is using as a help the complaint that the sewage is killing the fish in the streams below. The fact is that no amount of water that could possibly be diverted from the lakes would effectually dispose of the prodigious quantities of sewage that Chicago produces. Another fact, which the communities on both sides of the lakes must impress upon Chicago as soon as possible, is that the only remedy is the construction of a filtering plant.

But the drainage need is only a subterfuge. It is valuable because it saves Chicago the expense of building the filtering system it needs; but it is more valuable because it serves in part to conceal the real purposes—which are the development of great horse-power enterprises along the drainage canal and the opening of a deep waterway to the Gulf.

This whole matter has been covered thoroughly by the reports of the international waterways commission, which discloses the above and many other important facts. These reports show, among other things, that with a flow of 14,000 cubic feet per second, which Chicago wants, it plans on developing electrical 40,000 horse-power to run manufacturing plants, sites for which Chicago has acquired along the canal and offers to manufacturers at very moderate prices.

The commission's reports show, too, that the proposed diversion of 10,000 cubic feet per second will lower the lakes below Lake Superior, and their connecting channels, by amounts varying from four and a quarter to six and a quarter inches, and that 14,000 cubic feet per second would lower the levels from six to eight and a half inches. A reduction of six inches would cause navigation interests a loss of a million and a half a year, to say nothing of the millions that it would cost to repair the damage to the Great Lakes waterway by a deepening of the connecting channels. This estimate is based on the traffic in 1905, and it would be much greater now and still greater in the future.

The states and communities on the Great Lakes and their representatives in congress must be awakened to the need of fighting this menace. Duluth has as great an interest as any other, and it must not neglect that interest. It is not one to be delegated to others. A committee of the Commercial club should watch every step of the proceedings, and be on the ground to fight every foot of the way.

The Great Lakes must be protected. Chicago must be compelled to solve her sewage problem in another way—by building a filtering system. It would be folly to permit Chicago to divert from the Great Lakes a volume of water that would virally injure an existing and richly profitable waterway to develop a new waterway of questionable value and waterpower enterprises that would profit Chicago at the expense of every community on the Great Lakes.

About the only person not particularly concerned personally in the outcome of the North Dakota presidential primary is Candidate Taft.

SOCIETY AND THE CHURCH.

The Men and Religion Forward Movement has taken to striking methods of advertising in New York.

Great electric signs on Broadway are visible from afar, and there are display advertisements on the sporting pages of all the New York newspapers.

The New York Evening Post speculates on this unique enterprise: "Why Broadway and why the sporting page? The answer would be that the church feels itself weak in competition with what the pleasures of the world have to offer, and that it must put its claims in striking fashion before the light-minded who crowd the Great White Way and the baseball parks. But is it actually true that it is the defection of the pleasure-loving element that has weakened the church? Is there not reason for believing that precisely those men and women who take life's problems with appropriate seriousness have drifted away because they have found that the church does not enter with sufficient vitality into the problems of life?"

There is matter here for those associated with the Men and Religion Forward Movement to think about.

For our part, while we believe that much can be gained by reaching out for those who throng the Great White Way of every community and who fill the baseball parks, we have a fancy that the stronger the emphasis laid by the Men and Religion Forward Movement upon church activity toward the betterment of social conditions, the more effective its work will prove.

There is nothing in belonging to a church, in participating actively in its work, and in experiencing and practising real religion, that is incompatible with enjoyment. The pleasures of the Great White Way, so far as drunkenness and dissipation and over-feeding are called pleasures, of course are inconsistent; but the wholesome pleasures, which are after all the only satisfying ones, are as free to the church member as they are to the free-thinker.

But today the people are awake, self-conscious, critical of society, of government and of social conditions. Never was there such a time of self-questioning, self-analysis and self-criticism in the social sense. Thinking men and women are engaging with religious zeal in many crusades for better social, political and economic conditions, and they feel that conditions as they are make individual regeneration almost impossible. Where the church saves one wanderer, economic injustice and its brood of evils drive a thousand more astray.

In this awakening the church has been laggard. Here and there, because of the civic consciousness of a pastor or a congregation, church organizations have reached out into the broader field of social activity. The prevailing unrest and discontent has been reflected from many pulpits, but seldom in organized church action.

There are many who hold conscientiously that the church should confine itself to dealing with individual regeneration, and leave social regeneration along political and economic lines to other agencies. On the other hand there is a growing body of church members who hold that it is not only consistent, but highly desirable, that the church as an organization should have its part in the economic revolution that is in progress.

The chief trouble with the standpat policy in the church is that it alienates many earnest-minded men and women who cannot rest content with the present social conditions, and who, because the church takes no part, seek outlets for their energy and zeal through non-religious agencies.

If North Dakota's wheat crop this year equals in volume her output of politics there will be a new lot of retired farmers next winter.

ROOSEVELT AND THE TARIFF.

Though the people are about to vote in one state on his presidential candidacy, and will soon vote on it in other states, Col. Roosevelt still is silent on the tariff.

If his candidacy fails, the cause of its failure may be found about equally divided between this significant neglect of a vitally important subject and the fact that almost everywhere the ring organization which controls Republican conventions is for Taft and against Roosevelt.

The tariff is the biggest concrete issue before the people, and the most vital.

The failure of the Taft administration to produce tariff revision downward is its greatest and least excusable failure.

Yet Col. Roosevelt refuses to take advantage of this splendid opportunity to strengthen his own position and to accent the weakness of the Taft position by taking a firm stand on the tariff and pointing out the conspicuous failure of the Taft administration to provide the relief it promised.

Roosevelt's manager, Senator Dixon, voted 126 times with Senator Aldrich in the framing of the shameful Payne-Aldrich-Taft tariff law, which ranked him with Smoot and Lodge and Gallinger as one of the most consistent supporters of a rule or ruin tariff policy.

Small wonder, then, that the Roosevelt campaign isn't sweeping the country as it was expected to do.

Arizona's legislature is preparing to call an election to reinstate the recall in the state constitution. Here's hoping President Taft feels good enough over having put the state to the extra expense to contribute liberally toward the defrayment of that election's cost.

TAFT AND THE PRIMARY.

President Taft today finally gave a grudging consent to the presidential primary, but his reluctant approval applies, evidently, only to the primaries arranged for by state laws. These, of course, he cannot evade, so his approval is not of much weight, nor does his utterance on the subject change much the impression left when he said recently that those who propose to let the people nominate their own candidates are inviting conditions like those following the French revolution and those existing in South American republics where politics is often anarchy.

Though his bias obviously is against presidential primaries of any kind, nevertheless President Taft is largely right in his fear of the informal presidential primaries proposed in states where it is impossible to get the legal kind. It is practically impossible to guard them against fraud and corruption, and though they are doubtless better at their worst than the convention system, in no state where it is possible to get the legislature to provide a legal presidential primary should the substitute be accepted.

President Taft might have simplified his objections to a primary on the presidency by saying that he was opposed to anything that would not be reasonably certain to result in favor of the administraton.

AS TO DESPOTISMS.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge has thrown his whole being into the fight against those dangerous things, the initiative, the referendum and the recall—dangerous, that is, because they give the people power, and the people, from the Lodge viewpoint, are not to be trusted. That explains why Lodge is for Taft, not for his old friend Roosevelt.

In a recent speech Senator Lodge said that "direct legislation and pure democracy have invariably led to despotism, usually through anarchy."

Except at times when humanity was in a primitive state of development, however glittering its surface indication of culture, the world has never had "pure democracy." It is still striving toward the achievement of that ideal, which will one day be realized.

Even if the Lodge argument were literally true, it is a wanton insult to compare these times and the American people with the times and the people from which he draws his lesson.

But "representative government," by ceasing to be representative, has led to despotism, too—the despotism of Special Privilege and its contemptible lieutenant, Corrupt Politics.

And the American people are going to break that despotism by taking the control of public affairs, political, social and economic, into their own hands, no matter how shrill an alarm the Tories and the Bourbons of the nation may raise.

New York is advertising its religion with electric signs. That's one way of advertising it. Another is living up to it. But maybe the electrical method is not only more modern, but easier.

People are accustomed to seeing a lot of fool things done on April 1, but there's no getting away from the fact that a big coal strike on that or any other day would be a mighty poor kind of a joke.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

GOVERNMENT BY ALL THE PEOPLE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

"Judson Harmon thinks the people are not capable of self-government."—Commoner.

"There are those of us who do not believe that all people are fitted for popular government." The fact is we know they are not," etc.—Taft.

Mr. Harmon and Mr. Taft are right. The whole history of the world proves it. If people—or part of the people—were capable of self-government would so many starve and countless numbers half starve, while so much produce here and there throughout the world rots and wastes for the want of being sent to the consumer, in this day of transportation?

The world has been governed by the minority in one form or another, by priests, kings, chiefs, presidents and assemblies and otherwise since the beginning of governments. Verily they were all human and one small unit out of the whole seems to be no better than the whole.

We seem to be lacking in something to govern us. We have tried government by single, trippies and halves, but as Mr. Harmon and Mr. Taft say, we are not capable. Verily we are not. But what are we going to do? The Lord has denied the mule a thumb and speech so he cannot have dominion over us.

The only possible change is to try government by the whole of humanity—male and female. As the female of all species will fight harder and longer for her offspring than the male, perhaps it might make a difference to allow the human female to fight—vote—for her offspring. Anyhow, why not try the only change in human government left to us poor helpless humans? That is government by the whole—all the people—not half. It can't be any worse at least and would be something new; not going backwards, as government by commission is.

SOCIALISM AND THE FUTURE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The problems of capital and labor are today causing a striking and a wide-awake discussion throughout the world. The time when men toiled away patiently without even asking for justice is today gradually disappearing. Yes, there is today an awakening among the producing class, such as never before in our history. The so-called wage earners, and bread winners, are now fast becoming a great army of intelligent thinking men—not believers only—No, they are students of a nobler and higher civilization, and a more evenhanded justice.

Today you can find those horny-handed men, planning and proposing measures—how to stop and stay the black cloud—that is so fast approaching us—the revolution. Yes, it will come as surely as we are now living this minute—unless a more equitable adjustment of our social problems is soon reached. People might go on condemning Socialists, and Socialism; but remember, you will sooner or later be weighed, and found too light.

Let me ask: Has not the laborer, the producer of the world, the right to demand justice? Socialism doesn't ask for anything outside of that. Only an equal share, and a just reward.

There would be no wealth, there would be no life, nor gladness, or joy, if it were not for the producing class. No! There would be no genius or noble, happy human beings, if everybody should shurk and be idlers.

The piled up riches cause people to wage war against each other, and to use dynamite to stop the industrial wrongs of today, while on the other side, the captains of industry are building more and more warships to proclaim peace—well we can see a better world in the future, but not until the big army of industry has changed the system. Then, and not until then, will the toilers be able to labor for themselves and not as now slaves for parasites.

This will come when we have learned to co-operate one with another—when we have learned to stand as one man throughout the civized world for our emancipation.

MILLER AND BURCH.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I see by a recent Herald that Mr. Miller of the Eighth district has had a "talkfest" with a certain Judge Burch, recent investigator of Indian affairs. There has been some anxious inquiry here as to how to get rid of Miller. Now, if he will just keep on talking for awhile he will have solved the question himself. I expect to see an advertisement something like this in the want ad column soon: "Wanted, a man for congress in the Eighth Minnesota district who knows enough to keep his mouth shut till his boss pulls the string. Apply at headquarters of Independent Order of Public Timber and Land Looters, state house, St. Paul."

E. P. JAQUES.

Aitkin, Minn., March 16.

SAYS LAND PRICES ARE EXORBITANT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Pardon me for asking more space in your valuable columns, and I promise you it will be the last on this question. I notice by your editorial comment in Saturday evening's paper on my communication on the farming question, that you infer that I am trying to knock this most important of all industries, and that my breeding is not of the best. The last I will admit, but not the first. Far from it. I am proud to say that I was born and raised on a farm and that my associations for the first thirty years of my life were on the farm and with farmers in one of the best mixed farming and dairying communities in America, and I believe I at least know a producing farm from a worthless slashing.

Now, Mr. Editor, there is one thing that I believe we will agree on that is, If all the land fit for agriculture tributary to the Head of the Lakes was put in producing condition, divided up into eighty acre farms with a prosperous family on each farm that it would bean something to Duluth and Superior. I believe it would mean more than several steel plants. And to make conditions still better reforest with fast-growing woods the land that is not fit for agricultural purposes. And such conditions can never be brought about by holding the wild land at what I maintain are exorbitant prices.

But I am open for information, and as you suggest there are hundreds of farmers who can analyze my figures, so as to show much better results at the end of the second year. It will certainly be both interesting and instructive to as many more farmers if they can.

You probably can find some one also who can explain why the bulk of this desolation which is an eye sore to every traveler coming in on any railroad to Duluth, remains year after year in practically the same condition. Let us hear from them.

A. ROBERTSON, Lakeside.

Duluth, March 17.

Demands Attention.

New Bedford Standard (Rep.): If Mr. Roosevelt thinks he can omit consideration of the tariff and not be reminded of the omission, he is badly mistaken.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Gloom Ahead.

Northfield News: Some of the band wagons romping along the political highways now will be hearses after the votes are counted.

For Parcels Post.

Anoka Union: The parcels post is the people's relief from the robbing express companies.

Righteous Judge!

St. Cloud Journal Press: Editor Ives of Cass Lake was re-elected municipal judge. He recently sentenced a man to six months in jail for selling whisky to the Indians. More of his kind of judges would create greater respect for the law.

Kindness in Stepmother.

Austin Transcript: The widow of a Chicago millionaire who recently died announces that instead of cutting off her stepson with the $5,000 left him in his father's will she will voluntarily give him half the estate, amounting to $1,000,000 for his share. Where is the justice in abusing stepmothers indiscriminately?

No Time For Masks.

Little Falls Herald: We still adhere to the conclusion that before any man is chosen delegate to Baltimore from this state, the Democrats of the state are entitled to know what his second choice would be. This is no time for masks.

Chance for Photograph.

Albert Lea Standard: They have some beautiful photographs of the president in the act of signing the bill admitting Arizona as a state. Yet how much handsomer he would have appeared signing one of the tariff-revision-downward bills.

Indignation!

Wadena Pioneer-Journal: Congressman Steenerson has introduced a bill calling for an appropriation of $100,000 for the introduction of an experimental system of mail delivery in second and third-class offices in villages of a thousand population or over, not exceeding $1,800 to be spent in any one town. This is getting pretty closely to the last straw. Things have come to a pretty pass when our government will deny us even the pleasure of making the daily trip to the postoffice, a custom hallowed by a lifetime of use. Next thing we may look for traveling barbers for those who are unable to shave themselves.

No Place for Clergy.

Red Lake Falls Gazette: There has been considerable discussion of late of "The Clergy in Politics" and there doesn't appear to be much in it. The good jobs as chaplain are very limited in number and praying for a bunch of legislators is an undertaking not encouraging enough in its results to be very inviting.

Curiosities.

I make a good speech,
And nobody cheers me;
I make a bad break,
And every one hears me!

I write a good song,
And nobody tries it;
I turn out some trash,
And every one buys it!

I dance rather well,
And nobody's boasting;
I slip on the floor,
And I'm in for a roasting!

I dress a la mode,
And nobody truckles;
I wear an old hat,
And every one chuckles!

I work like a dog,
And nobody praises;
I slack up a bit,
And I get the blue blazes!

I pile up the dough,
And the world is no wiser;
I give away cash,
And they call me a miser!

I'm poor and I'm good,
And nobody flatters;
I'm rich and no worse,
And they tear me to tatters!

I talk like the rest;
I am called a good fellow;
I deal in the truth,
And they say I am yellow!

I bluster and swear,
I could pass as a Quaker;
I follow the church,
And they call me a faker!

I do as they wish,
And I'm all on the level;
I do as I please,
I'm a son of the devil!

The Political Fight in "Younger America."

Edward Alsworth Ross in Century: In the East, many men of high ideals and independent means have enlisted in politics on the side of the public welfare, and have served as a kind of counterpoise to the selfish machines; but, as you leave the investor belt and enter the younger America, the number of sturdy idealists whose income goes on whether they win or lose today's fight is very few. The political Hessians know they can tire out the leaders of the people because these sooner or later must return to their neglected callings, leaving the party machines masters of the field. It is not surprising, then, that the people of the West do not rely on the aid of chivalrous Lafayettes, Steubens and Pulaskis from the propertied class, but purpose to safeguard their dearest interests by bringing government more immediately under their own control.

One Case, Anyhow.

Harper's Weekly: "Did you ever know a doctor take his own medicine, Slithers?" asked Bildad.

"Did I?" retorted Slithers, "well, rather. Last time I crossed the Atlantic old Dr. Gidbody prescribed champagne as a cure for my seasickness, and whenever it was time for a dose he'd come around and join me."

A Hen's High Batting Average.

Farm and Fireside: An ordinary hen lays about 100 eggs a year, but with careful attention hens can easily be made to lay twice that much. Following is the record of two hens:

Hen No. 1 began laying Nov. 3, 1910.

The eggs of hen No. 1 weighed 2¾ ounces; those of hen No. 2, 2½ ounces; each accurately weighed on an apothecary's scale. Reckoned on this basis, hen No. 1 laid approximately thirty pounds of eggs, and hen No. 2, thirty-one pounds, within the year, or over five times their own weight in eggs.

The cost of feeding these hens, exclusive of table-scraps and vegetable waste from a family, was 81 cents per hen; all grain, meat and oyster shells being purchased at retail rates.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1892.

•••J. M. Currie, who has been visiting at his old home in Ottumwa, Iowa, the past two weeks, returned yesterday.

•••Mrs. Harry Elliott of Great Falls, Mont., is spending a few days in Duluth and Lakeside with relatives.

•••Mrs. G. G. Hartley has been chosen alternate member of the board of managers of the Women's auxiliary to the Minnesota World's fair commission.

•••Special Agent Delambert's recommendation that a permanent government post be established on Rainy Lake river is indorsed by the secretary of the interior. The illegal cutting of pine on the Red Lake Indian reservation since 1882 is estimated at 5,782,000 feet.

•••Green was the prevailing color in Duluth yesterday, and St. Patrick's day was generally observed. The celebration proper was under the auspices of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and the Catholic Knights. Visiting Irishmen from West Duluth and West Superior were met at the Union depot and a parade was formed under charge of Capt. James Farrell as chief marshal. Headed by a platoon of police, the following organizations took part in the parade: St. Jean Baptiste society, Polish National Benevolent society, St. Boniface society, Sacred Heart cadets, Duluth Division, No. 1, A. O. H., and West Duluth division, No. 4, A. O. H. The parade proceeded to Catholic Association hall, where a musical and literary entertainment was given, and addresses were made by Bishop McGolrick, Mayor d'Autremont, Hon. C. P. Maginnis and W. D. Dwyer and Thomas Lyons of West Superior.

•••Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Douglas have returned from a Western trip and are stopping with J. E. Burgo at West Duluth.

•••Victor Johnson, secretary of the board of fire commissioners, resigned today and will go to Chicago for a several months' visit.

•••The Little Mesaba Iron company has been incorporated by Ralph W. Cavanaugh, Edward S. Bean, George H. Dodge, E. F. Dodge and A. C. Paul, all of the Twin Cities. The company controls twenty-four forties and its capital stock is $3,000,000.

•••The Republic Mining company was formed yesterday with a capital stock of $3,000,000. The incorporators are Philip Graff, president; Frank Eaton, secretary; John G. Brown, treasurer; Richard Ryan, Robert Jamison, R. C. Elliott, R. H. Fagan, John Mather and H. H. Nelson. The company's properties are in sections 1, 2, 4 and 11, 58-18, right in the marrow of the Mesaba range.

•••Jay W. Anderson, who has just returned from the effete East, comes back a vociferous Hill man. Jay always looked like David and now begins to act like him.

WHERE ARE THE OLD FAVORITES?

Brooklyn Eagle: Well, what's become of the mustache cup, f'r instance? Those china affairs made especially so gentlemen would not soil their lip adornments on the coffee. It seems only yesterday that Aunt Lizzie was sending them to all her best beaux for birthday presents. It was because I missed them the other day that I tried to find out how many other dear relics of the near past have disappeared.

What's become of the mud scrapers on the doorsteps and the mats with the large "Welcome" on them that used to greet us all wherever we opened the door? What's become of all the red and white barred stockings all the little girls used to wear? I can remember hundreds of little girls who used to run around with their legs looking like sticks of peppermint candy, but now I never see one. And the knitted mufflers around the necks? And, oh, yes—what's become of the big mitts we used to wear with strings attached around our necks?

I recall now that I didn't see a linen duster last summer, and I didn't see one of those straw derby hats we used to wear. What's become of them? And where are the red-top boys' boots, the boots with the little brass protectors, the boys' shoes with the big horseshoe nail on the bottom of the heel?

What's become of the lady barbers? And what's become of all the colored barbers, the sealskin caps and the bluing balls mother used to use in washing? What's become of the hand-painted neckties; the what-nots that used to adorn the parlor corner; the fringe on the parlor furniture, the old plush piano stool with the fringe on it, and the iron animals in the front garden?

Then there are the plush picture frames, the worsted mats for the lamp, made with a spool and four pins; strange glass canes that hung up in the parlor with colored water inside. What's become of them? What, too, of the big glass marbles with the little silver lamb inside that was the last word in knickknacks in every well-conducted American home? Also the stuffed doves under the round glass case that used to stand just at the side of the door, and the everlasting flowers. And what's become of the knitted wristlets you used to see along Broadway or any main street, and what's become of the old hand-knitted stockings for men, the sealskin collars on the coats—the sealskin collars that never had a lining—and last, the case on the mantelpiece with the wax figures?

What has become of the Austin sisters, the human flies, who used to walk on the ceiling? What's become of Zip, the mathematical marvel; Jack O'Brien and his six-day lady bike riders; the pug dog, the author of "White Wings, They Never Grow Weary," the seven Sutherland sisters, and the wooden ship in the bottle that no self-respecting bar could be without? For that matter, what's become of the raw-egg eating champion, the pie-eating champion, the oyster-opening champion?

Mother's canned preserves with the red sealing wax on top—are there any more anywhere? The old wooden wardrobe in the bedroom, and the six-day go-as-you-please races; the white, bone-handled table knives and home-made bread; the little candy hearts with mottoes and mushy sayings on them, and the sheaves of wheat and colored pampas grass in the best room—where?

Don't you remember the butter dish in the shape of the hen sitting on eggs and the milk pitcher built in the shape of a cow? You never see them now. And how about those elegant tidies the girls used to move around so they would always not be back of our heads when we sat on the chairs and sofas?

Did you ever see the alligator cuspidor? It was a weird-looking apparatus, and maybe you're lucky to forget it. But they used to be almost everywhere that the gentle habit was practiced. You reached out a foot and stepped on the 'gator cuspidor. Promptly it gaped cavernously. Then you expectorated. You removed your foot and the jaws closed. It was a truly wonderful thing. It raised that particular habit to the dignity of a ceremony, although many kept on preferring a knothole to the 'gator cuspidor.

Of course, the storage battery did away with the pull door bell knobs, but what made the horsehair ring, the horsehair chain, the cigar store wooden Indian, the whale-boned corset and the mottoes of "God Bless Our Home" sewed with colored worsted through perforated cardboard disappear? And what's become of the spring-heeled shoes for young ladies?

And the napkin rings? Does anybody give a baby a silver cup with its initials cut in it nowadays? All my friends who have been having babies lately don't seem to have them—the cups, that is. What's become of son and heir's silver knife and fork with his name on them? None of these about, either.

Bustles, "spit curls," frizzes, can be accounted for on the grounds of changing fashion, but what's become of the hair tongs, and what on earth has become of the natural hair? Where's the bolivar sandwich, which was made of a piece of cocoanut candy between two brown cookies, with scalloped edges? And the lozenges with the printed jokes? Has anybody here seen Kelly?

Have you noticed that the little German band is almost what-has-become-of-it?

Competent to Critize.

New York Press: An art student was copying one of Abott S. Thayer's paintings at the Metropolitan Museum of Art one day, when a plainly dressed man, who approached and, posting himself at the young man's elbow, watched him as he labored over his subject.

"You've got the angle of the mouth wrong, and the left eye too oblique," remarked the man decidedly.

The student blinked angrily and the hand that wielded the brush trembled slightly, but he took no notice of the unsolicited criticism.

"There is too much yellow in your flesh tint," continued the man.

Still no reply from the student, who ostentatiously slapped on more yellow in the high light on the nose.

"Did you hear what I said?" questioned the man.

"Yes, I heard," responded the student, wrathfully, turning and glaring at his modest looking critic, "What do you know about it, anyway?"

"I ought to know something about it," was the smiling response. "It was I who painted the picture."

TWO PLEAS.

John Hayes Holmes, minister of the Church of the Messiah, New York, in The Survey: He was a great employer, a good churchman, a generous philanthropist, a "best citizen"; and he stood before the governor of the commonwealth.

"I must have protection for my property and my life," he said. "Men mad for plunder are destroying my mills by stoning the windows, battering down the doors, and smashing the machinery. They are even threatening to kill me. I must be protected."

"Immediately, sir," answered the governor. "This is an outrage. These rioters must be taught their place." And instantly—regiments of infantry surround the mills with fixed bayonets, regiments of cavalry in the streets and squares with drawn sabres, regiments of judges on the bench with summonses and injunctions, blood in the gutters, prisoners in the cells.

He was an humble employe, a husband, a father, a householder, a citizen; and he stood before the fourth assistant-secretary of the second assistant-secretary of state of the cabinet of the governor of the commonwealth.

"I must have protection for my property and my life," he said. "Men mad for money are destroying my home by charging exorbitant rents, paying starvation wages, and exacting high prices. They are killing me and my wife and my children with over-work and under pay. We are hungry, thirsty, naked, sick, in prison—come unto us and save us!"

"This is really too bad," said the fourth assistant-secretary of the second assistant-secretary of state. "I am very sorry; but there is really nothing that we can do for you. The state protects property only when it is assailed with stones and torches and bombs; it protects life only when it is attacked with brickbats, knives and bullets. Good day!"

A Song of Long Ago.

A song of long ago;
Sing it lightly—sing it low—
Sing it softly—like the lisping of the lips we used to know
When our baby laughter spilled
From the glad hearts ever filled
With music glad as robin ever trilled!

Let the fragrant summer breeze,
And the leaves of locust trees,
And the apple buds and blossoms and the wings of honey bees,
All palpitate with glee,
Till the happy harmony
Brings back each childish joy to you and me.

Let the eyes of fancy turn
Where the tumbled pippins burn
Like embers in the orchord's lap of tangled grass and fern—
There let the old path wind
In and out and on behind
The cider press that chuckles as we grind.

Blend in the song the moan
Of the dove that grieves alone,
And the wild whir of the locust, and the bumble's drowsy drone;
And the low of cows that call
Through the pasture bars when all
The landscape fades away at evenfall.

Then, far away and clear,
Through the dusky atmosphere,
Let the wailing of the killdee be the only sound we hear;
O sad and sweet and low
As the memory may know
Is the glad-pathetic song of Long Ago!

GLEANED ALONG THE POLICE RUN

"Morally, ethically, or any way it may be put, it is no more wrong for a policeman to take a drink than it is for anybody else to stow one away," said the old policeman as he puffed away at his old corn cob in the operator's room this morning.

"But there is a difference just the same. There's been a lot of talking about this drinking question and there will be just as long as the stuff is made. But I didn't start out to argue the merits of the temperance problem, but to make a couple of observations about the cop who takes a drink.

"As I have said before the men who walk the beats are just as human as the rest of the humans. Some of them are just as ardent haters of the booze as the most radical, but others are not.

"And it's those fellows who have to watch themselves. They may think that they can slip one over once in a while and get away with it. And they can, too. I know from experience. But I know from the same experience, that they can't all do it and do it right along. The public won't stand for it. They feel that they are paying them and that they should be on the job all the time. They say that that is what the people are paying them for.

"I have found that many people do not care whether or not a policeman takes a drink. Maybe there'll be nine men who will see him take a snort and say nothing, but the tenth will go right up in the air. He will make noise enough to make up for the other nine who pass by silently. And the cop who makes a practice of slipping one over every so often is going to bump into that tenth man sooner or later and the 'later' will generally be a matter of a few months, or possibly a year.

"The regulations are strict and his superior officer cannot overlook the offense. If it is not aggravated he gets off with ten or twenty days and if he is wise he will have learned his lesson. Otherwise he is almost certain to be fired. And as I see it he hasn't much other consideration coming, after he has had ample warning. And it's a cinch that the commanding officers can follow no other course. The regulations are plain and they have their own bread and butter to look after.

"If these fool men feel that they must have a drink, they should wait until they are off duty and out of their uniforms. Let them take their drinks at home. Nobody will know the difference and if they did they wouldn't say anything, unless he should be fool enough to come on the job drunk. Then of course, he would be deliberately placing himself in a wide open position for criticism and couldn't very well escape it."

The old policeman's remarks were called forth when some one happened to say that a good man had been dropped from the force about a week ago for getting drunk. He was found on his beat much the worse for liquor. Investigation showed that a short time before that he had been drinking with a crowd in a saloon after 11 o'clock, although he was not in uniform or on duty at the time. There were several other things which had been overlooked, but upon the last complaint he was summarily dismissed. He was an intelligent officer and made a first class patrolman. They are not easily found and it is possible, but hardly likely, that the sentence may be modified to a suspension of thirty or sixty days.

There's a case on East First street, near Lake avenue, where a mother is setting her children a horrible example and which will probably never be investigated by the police or the humane society.

The "old lady" in question is a voracious tobacco chewer herself and is teaching her "kids" how to chew. The way she devotes Peerless would put many an inveterate of the weed to shame.

The "old lady" in question is "Nanny," the old goat which gave birth about a month ago to two little, white "kids" in the basement of the Lyceum livery stable on East First street. The "kids" are growing at an astonishing rate and take great delight in "butting" one another about their straw-covered stall. When they tire of that they concentrate their energies upon their mother, who doesn't mind it in the least, but on the other hand shows them how an experienced "butter" can "butt."

"Nanny" certainly loves tobacco. This morning she gobbled a big handful almost at a gulp. She moistens the leaves and then "chews the cud" in the same manner as a cow. The men at the stable state that she is guilty of trying to teach her "kids" the same habit.

Detectives Bradley and Toewe and Patrolman Steffin raided the cigar store at 309 West Superior street shortly after 10 o'clock last night and arrested four men, who were playing a quiet game of "stud" poker. Otto C. Strum was charged with running a gambling house and Walter Campbell, Sam Milovitz and Phillip Andrews were booked on charges of gambling. Strum forfeited $50 bail and each of the others $25 bail, when their names were called in police court this morning.

Hugh McKinnon, a brakeman, was arrested Saturday night by Special Agent Cunningham of the Soo road on a charge of burglarizing the Soo depot. It is claimed that he and another man, who escaped, were caught red-handed lugging tubs of butter out of the warehouse. McKinnon asked for an examination when arraigned in police court this morning and his hearing was set for this afternoon. The complaint charges him with the theft of six tubs of butter valued at $108.

• • •

A man giving his name as Sandy Campbell caused considerable excitement near the ship canal Saturday evening. He represented himself as a secret service official and went from one place to another telling men that he wanted to see them at the aerial bridge. Some obeyed the summons and some didn't. It was not long before he was taken in charge by a policeman and booked on a charge of being drunk and disorderly. He forfeited $15 bail when his name was called this morning.

Harry L. Thorpe, the "deaf mute" who found both voice and hearing after he had been arrested at West Duluth Saturday, pleaded guilty to a charge of vagrancy in police court. He got $100 or sixty days in the county jail.

The next time Anton Kohll gets drunk he will probably remember not to give his wife a tongue lashing. He pleaded guilty to having become voluntarily intoxicated and using abusive language he got seven days straight in the county jail. He stated that he got the whisky which made him drunk from his wife's brother, and she admitted that that was correct. But neither she nor the court considered that an excuse for the heaps of mean things which he said about her.

• • •

When Frank Manlett of West Duluth was brought up for drunkenness the police reported that another man's wife is the cause of his dissipation. They also asserted that unless he changes his ways he will be the means of breaking up the other man's happy home. Frank admitted that he had been under the influence and got $40 and costs or thirty days in the county jail. But upon his promise not to see the other man's wife again he was allowed his liberty.

It's to the tall timber and the ash-heap with the helmets which adorned the city's finest all last summer.

They have been discarded, and 'tis believed, forever. "Never again for us," say the blue coats. "Not if we can help it. They're not what they were 'cracked up' to be. They make a fellow feel as though he were wearing one of those 'peach basket bonnets,' minus the frills and the feathers, which we see parading up and down the streets. Us for the caps every time."

The policemen voted almost unanimously against wearing the helmets again during the warm weather. In deference to their wishes uniform caps are being ordered for the men. They are somewhat different from those which have been used in the past, but they are equally neat and more comfortable, according to those who claim that they know.

The body of Louis Erickson, who died several days ago at St. Luke's hospital from burns sustained at Hibbing, was sent to his home at Washburn Saturday for interment.

His son, Leonard Erickson, went to Hibbing to investigate the cause of his father's death, but could not obtain much satisfaction. He said that as far as he could learn he had stumbled over a stove, precipitating a bucket of scalding water upon himself.

Instead of a spirit of willingness, he stated that those who apparently knew the details tried to keep them from him. It may be that the young man did not know how to go about his investigation, but that does not excuse those whom he went to see from rendering him all the assistance within their power.

AFTER ONE CONVENTION

Duluth May Land One of the State Democratic Gatherings.

Duluth may get one of the Democratic state conventions this year. Duluth men going to St. Paul to attend the meeting of the Democratic state central committee tomorrow say that they will work to bring either the delegate convention or the nominating convention to Duluth.

The delegate convention, which will select delegates to the Democratic national convention in Baltimore, will probably be held the latter part of April. The nominating convention to name a state ticket, will be held in July or early in August.

The last time Duluth entertained a Democratic state convention was in 1904 when delegates were chosen to the national convention at St. Louis. The Republican nominating convention was held here in 1906.

WAR AEROPLANE CARRIES DEATH

Italian Flyer Drops Bombs Upon Entrenched Arabs in Tripoli.

Benghazi, Tripoli, March 18.—Bombs dropped from an aeroplane belonging to the Italian expeditionary force killed ten Arabs in a camp some distance from this city today.

The aeroplane, driven by an army airman and carrying an officer as a passenger, left the Italian camp early in the morning and flew at a considerable altitude into the desert, where a strong Turkish and Arab encampment was found in a well sheltered position.

Before the aeroplane was noticed by the enemy, the Italian officer had made valuable observations. Then some of the Arabs opened fire, to which the aeronauts replied by dropping several bombs with deadly accuracy. They exploded in the midst of a group of Arabs. Ten men fell dead and several others were wounded. The aeroplane then returned to the Italian camp.

HARDWARE COMPANY HAS AUTO EXPERT.

Carl Farmer, a man who thoroughly understands the construction of automobiles, has associated himself with the Quayle-Larson Hardware company and he will be glad at all times to help auto owners out after talking over their difficulties with them. He has had fifteen years' experience as a machinist and auto-repair man. He has been retained by the hardware company especially because of his experience, that the customers of the store may have the benefit of his advice which will gladly be given at any time. The company has a large assortment of auto accessories and is getting stronger into the automobile business each year.

ALL COAL WILL BE SOLD IN THIRTY DAYS.

That within another thirty days there would be no unsold coal in Duluth or Superior was a prediction made by W. W. Broughton at the Spalding hotel yesterday.

He said it was probable no coal would arrive at the Head of the Lakes until the third week in May and whether it arrived then or not, depended on labor conditions in the East. He said present indications pointed to a stoppage of coal mining on April 1 for an indefinite period.

Mr. Broughton said the Duluth-Superior harbor ought to receive at least 10,000,000 tons of coal during the present year. The receipts in 1911 amounted to about 8,450,000 tons.

PERCIVAL HILL IS HEAD OF AMERICAN TOBACCO.

New York, March 18. — The new board of directors of the American Tobacco company today elected the following officers: Percival S. Hill, president; E. S. Edwards, P. J. Hanlon, G. W. Hill, M. C. Patterson and T. B. Yuille, vice presidents; J. P. Wilcox, secretary and J. M. W. Hicks, treasurer.

DENY CASE HAS BEEN MADE IN LORIMER AFFAIR.

Washington, March 18. — A brief, summing up arguments on the facts in the investigation of Senator Lorimer's election, was filed with the senate investigating committee today by Mr. Lorimer's counsel. It declares that no proof has been given either of the raising or expending of any corruption fund for the election and that "the charges are the outgrowth of the determination of the Chicago Tribune and its allies to destroy Senator Lorimer politically and otherwise."

SOME MERIT TO THE CASE

Judge Refuses to Dismiss Strange Personal Injury Suit on Demurrer.

Workman Struck By Lightning While Handling Steel Rails.

Judge Cant of the district court sees cause for action in the peculiar personal injury suit brought against the Walsh Hogan Construction company by Mike Luchich, a laborer, who was struck by lightning while in the employ of the company last July, and Saturday overruled a demurrer made by the defendants to the complaint.

According to the complaint which was filed some time ago, Luchich was struck by lightning July 30, while employed by the construction company in laying rails on the new Canadian Northern line, near the station of Forbes. Luchich says that the rails were charged with electricity and that he and other workmen spoke to the foreman of the gang about it, but that he refused to stop work at the time.

A few minutes later, Luchich claims, a charge of lightning came over the rails and caused his right arm to be paralyzed. He asks $2,656 damages. In overruling the demurrer to the complaint, Judge Cant made the following memorandum:

"The question of law in this case is closely allied to questions in the field of electrical science. Plaintiff and defendant probably rely upon different assumptions with respect to the storing, the conducting and the discharge of the electric fluid. Plaintiffs' theory evidently is that the steel rail was a storage reservoir for the electric current and that conditions were such that the rails in question became heavily charged therewith; that one upon which the plaintiff was working became especially so charged and that he was injured as a result thereof.

"The correct theory, whatever it may be, must be determined as a matter of fact. If plaintiff's allegations are correct, this is not exactly the ordinary case of a man being struck by lightning. The man was working in the midst of dangers which the master recognized and attempted to correct, and with such attempted correction, which was insufficient, he directed him to continue at work when a proper regard for his safety should have induced the master to discontinue operations.

"Plaintiff was injured as a result of the same danger, which had threatened and of which the defendant had taken cognizance. This is quite different from the case of a servant in a field or elsewhere being struck by lightning, without any of the attendant circumstances, alleged in this case. From the allegations in plaintiff's complaint, it cannot be inferred fairly that plaintiff must have assumed the risk."

MADAM FASHION IN SPRING GOWN

First of Spring Openings Is Held at Gidding Store.

Madam Fashion attired in her loveliest robes of spring was received with admiration and delight by the women of Duluth who visited the J. M. Gidding shop today on this first day of their spring opening.

In a setting bright and fragrant with effectively arranged clusters of tulips and roses Mme. Spring was presented in every department of the shop where the daintiest, freshest garments, so attractively displayed, filled the heart of every visitor with that impatient desire to get right at her spring wardrobe and stock up with the new dainty things that always comes at this time of the year. With the real spring feeling in the air the showing made all the more of an appeal and the shopper enjoyed every minute in this delightful bower.

The styles this season are really delightfully pretty in every line and diversified enough to be becoming to almost any figure. With the skirts a trifle fuller the woman "with hips" is more comfortable and the dainty little style effects adding new touches are not particularly partial to any one build.

The skillfully set windows with their samples of the various lines are attractive but are just a mere suggestion of the beauties the shop contains. Many a passerby who stopped to admire the window displays was drawn inside to see the fuller lines.

An exquisite evening gown of Nile green with gold beads is a Paul Poiret importation and was much admired. A smart set of hat, mantle and sun shade also displayed in the same window is also especially attractive. Made of a small figured chiffon in the delicate persian colorings the hat was on the Charlotte Corday model with a large puff crown and brim of rose silk. The mantle which is deep and long, hanging to the waist and deep over the shoulders and falling nearly to the knees in front, was finished with a double frill of deep cream lace at the neck. The sunshade was lined with the lace a full frill edging it.

Another gown in one of the windows which is attractive is a peach colored chiffon taffeta gown, a Lucille model, made with trimmings of straight, scolloped bands and black velvet bandings.

A violet Paquin model of "Gros de londres" silk was also especially noticed.

Waist Department.

Inside the waist department attracted the shopper first and the new Jeanne d'Arc culraise waists were the newest things shown. Built on the lines of Joan of Arc's armour these dainty waists of fine embroideries and the cluny waists are very fetching. Some are made jumper style to be worn over a silk or linen frock and some are regular waists with collar and sleeve but all have the long straight peplum. On some the peplums are continuous and some are split with longer flaps over the hips than in front and back.

Most of the waists to be worn for afternoon with the street suits are high in the neck and have three-quarter sleeves. The strictly tailored waist in linen, pongee, rajah and the Jap silks are also featured this season and voile and marquisettes elaborately embroidered are very effective for the more dressy wear. Cluny and Irish lace trimmings are much used.

In the sweater department where the shopper next went some new models are displayed. The sweaters trimmed with silk collar and cuffs in contrasting colors are very good and Angora sweaters and other novelty weaves are popular this season. The sweaters are rather shorter this year than last.

The shopper next was led into the most bewildering display of spring creations for headwear. No matter what your taste in hats, you can be suited this season for everything in every color is shown. There are hats extremely large and very small, very high and very flat, gaily trimmed and simply trimmed, in fact anything one could wish for.

One effective hat was a white Battenburg model, with a rather small brim and medium crown with the single adornment of a feathery "montieur." (A montieur, by the way, is the very high bunch of trimming put on so many of the hats this season.) Taffeta hats and hats of soft fine straw seemed to predominate and the small English walking hat, plain and scantily trimmed, often with just a severe bow was a popular model.

Billowy displays of laces and fine materials filling show cases and shelves were the new spring lingerie pieces and new lines were shown in the infants' department.

Suits are a little more fancy than they were last summer but they remain about the same length as to coats and skirts. One attractive model displayed was called the "Piper" suit. It was made of fine blue serge with wide revers, one of the material and color of the suit and the other of grey satin. A long sash falling from the belt of the skirt was also one of the new style touches on this model.

The Cossack effects in the gowns and coats are also used to a large extent and another popular model in the street suits is the King George model. This model is made on Norfolk lines only the back is fuller and gathered under a belt which just crosses the back. A pretty suit in this make shown was of white whipcord. They also come in navy blue and tan.

The more fancy suits are heavily trimmed with braids and satins.

The line of coats is varied, ranging from the strictly tailored to the novelty cuts in silks and satins for dress wear.

In the department the little trotteur frocks in one piece in taffetas, foulards and fine serges are very chic.

Chiffons and marquisettes were popular materials in the more dressy gowns for evening and pretty color combinations were most exquisite.

In the junior department the usual lines of tailored coats and dainty gingham, linen and lingerie dresses were shown. A three-quarters Norfolk coat for misses is especially featured here.

ASKS $220,427,000 FOR BRITISH NAVY

Churchill Refers to Germany in His Speech in Parliament.

London, March 18.—Winston Spencer Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, today introduced the naval estimates for the coming year in the house of commons. The appropriations called for $220,427,000, a decrease of $1,535,000 from the amount last year.

Mr. Churchill accompanied the introduction with a promise of an augmention or a retardition of British naval construction to correspond with Germany's naval program. He said he regretted the necessity of referring specifically to Germany but continued:

"The Germans are a people of robust minds, with strong masculine good sense and high courage, who do not recoil from and are not offended by plain, blunt statements of fact if they are expressed with courtesy and sincerity."

Mr. Churchill said the "two-to-one" standard was not necessary at present, although it would possibly become so.

"The 'two-power standard' has been extended by some of its supporters," continued Mr. Churchill, "to include the United States, and by this means it has lost both good sense and reality."

BIG COTTON MILLS WILL PAY MORE

New England Textile Workers' Advances Aggregate Millions.

Providence, R. I., March 18.—An increase in wages was announced by the large cotton manufacturing companies of Rhode Island today. The mill men would not say, however, what the amount of the increase which will go into effect March 25, will be. The mills employ about 20,000 operatives.

Millions More in Wages.

Boston, Mass., March 18.—Wage increases aggregating more than $10,000,000 will go into the pockets of New England textile workers the next twelve months, according to authoritative estimates of the result of the present upward trend of wages in cotton and woolen mills. On the basis of an annual payroll of $79,000,000 in the woolen mills, the increase there will amount to $6,600,000, while cotton mill operatives will receive an advance of $5,000,000.

Fully 275,000 operatives will share in the raise by April 1, if all the mills which have not yet joined in the movement follow the lead of larger concerns.

Statistics figure the injury by the Lawrence strike to manufacturers at $1,500,000 on business in hand and advance business lost; a forfeit by the strikers of about an equal amount in wages, and a cost to the state and city of $300,000 for militiamen and extra police.

FIGHTS TO HEAD BALLOT.

Deneen Files Demurrer to Small's Petition for Writ.

Springfield, Ill., March 18.—A new point is raised in the demurrer filed in the Sangamon county circuit court today by attorneys for Governor Deneen in answer to the amendment to the amended petition of Len Small for a writ of mandamus to give him first place on the list of Republican candidates for governor.

Attorneys for Mr. Small have asked the court to order Secretary of State Rose to change the filing time stamped upon the Small petition so as to give Mr. Small priority.

In the demurrer filed for the governor, it is contended that the law does not recognize any preferred place on the ballot, and the clause providing that the names of candidates shall be placed upon the ballot in the order in which the petitions are filed is merely a rule of administrative convenience. Therefore the petitioner has no private right to protest by mandamus.

It further is contended that if the secretary of state has omitted to perform an official duty affecting the public, the suit should have been brought by the attorney general or the state's attorney.

MOVING PICTURES OF LIFE IN MINNESOTA.

St. Paul, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Moving pictures of industrial and geographical Minnesota will be shown throughout all America and Europe, if a proposition made to Governor Eberhart in a letter from a Chicago moving picture company today is accepted. The concern offers to take the pictures and exhibit them if the state will pay the expenses of the picture operator and a salary of $50 a week. The estimated cost will be $1,000. The governor has taken the proposal under advisement. The company declares that 60,000,000 persons will see the pictures if they are taken.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

LARGE VOTE IS EXPECTED

Roosevelt and La Follette Forces Making All Sorts of Claims.

La Follette Winding Up His Campaign at Devils Lake and Minot.

Bismarck, N. D., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The last day before the presidential primary vote tomorrow, the first of its kind in the United States, finds the supporters of La Follette and Col. Roosevelt very sanguine. Each side is making some wild claims as each is swayed by respective supporters. It is estimated there will be a vote of nearly 60,000 despite the snow storm of Saturday, which has made rural travel difficult. Senator La Follette today is making a trip along the Great Northern west of Grand Forks, having left Grand Forks last night. He will speak today at Devils Lake and other towns, winding up his campaign tonight at Minot. He is very confident of carrying the state over Roosevelt. Rumor has it that many Democrats will support La Follette in order to make the state situation more complex, while the Stalwart Republicans will join the Roosevelt forces. Governor John Burke, Democratic nominee for the presidency, is expected to get a fair sized vote but not the normal Democratic vote, because the Democrats are expected to take sides in the Roosevelt-La Follette controversy.

The La Follette men expect to carry the state by several thousand and advices today indicate they are basing their claims on pretty good foundation. Despite Col. Roosevelt's old-time popularity in this state it is admitted by many he has lost ground more or less of late. President Taft is not expected to receive the normal Republican vote because of the Roosevelt-La Follette squabble.

List of Candidates.

La Follette Ticket.

National committeeman, Thomas Marshall, Oakes; national delegates, P. O. Thorson, Grand Forks; R. M. Pollock, Fargo; W. S. Lauder, Wahpeton; A. L. Nelson, Rolette; O. T. Tofsrud, Rugby; L. B. Garness, Sheyenne; J. H. Cooper, Williston; Emil Scow, Fessenden, and Treadwell Twitchell, Casselton. Presidential electors, A. A. Anker, Fargo; D. P. Barnes, Glen Ullin; F. W. Cathro, Bottineau; Gilbert Johnson, Mohall; T. Thompson, Cooperstown.

Roosevelt Ticket.

National committeeman, E. C. Cooper; national delegates, A. M. Christianson, Towner; John W. Scott, Gilby; H. J. Linde, Stanley; Torger Sinnes, Minnewaukan; Smith Stimmel, Casselton; F. W. Masack, Lidgerwood; Henry Hale, Devils Lake; Nicholas Hayes, Williston; L. P. Hyde, Valley City; presidential directors, S. M. Ferris, Dickenson; Roger Allin, Park River; E. H. Tostevin, Mandan; M. Breen, Wolford; C. S. Buok, Jamestown.

The name of President Taft is also on the ballot, but there are no presidential electors or delegation candidates.

Democratic Ticket.

President, John Burke; national committeeman, B. G. Whitehead, Williston; George E. Duis, Grand Forks; F. A. Willson, Bathgate; F. W. McLean, Fargo; H. H. Perry, Ellendale, and John Brugger, Williston. National delegates, J. W. Boeing, Minto; W. E. Byerly, Velva; E. W. Conmy, Pembina; S. J. Doyle, Carrington; W. A. Joy, Grand Forks; W. A. Fulkerson, Churchs Ferry; J. Nelson Kelly, Grand Forks; O. G. Major, Hope; Frank Lish, Dickinson; Charles A. Mansfield, Williston; William P. Porterfield, Fargo; W. E. Purcell, Wahpeton; Frank Reed, Bismarck; W. L. Walton, Bantry; M. H. O'Harem, Kenmare, and Carl Nelson, Cando.

A New Stomach

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Restore Lifeless Organs to Normal Condition.

A Trial Package Free.

Many a sufferer from Dyspepsia, Indigestion and kindred ailments of the digestive organs carries around an absolutely useless stomach — a dead load, and a cesspool for ever-increasing disorders. The muscles are seemingly worn out, the mucous lining has lost its secretive power and food taken into the stomach lies there and ferments, causing sour eructations, belchings, heartburn, dizziness and other distressing conditions. Many sufferers have given up in despair until they have been induced by some interested friends to try a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the dyspeptic's hope. They are a natural restorative of healthy action to the stomach and small intestines, because they supply the elements that the weak stomach lacks—pepsin, golden seal and other digestives.

If you are afflicted with any of the symptoms above described, be assured that your digestive organs are losing power,—they need help and there is no more sensible help to be given them than to supply elements which will do the work of digestion for them.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been found by test to have digestive powers, one grain of the active principle of these tablets being sufficient to digest 3,000 grains of ordinary food. It is plain that no matter what the conditon of your stomach, or how far your disease has progressed, one of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets taken at meal time will do the work—give your stomach an opportunity to regain its lost powers, the muscles will be strengthened, the glands invigorated, and you will be a new man.

It costs nothing to prove the effectiveness of this cure. Send for a free sample package today. F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

All druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, at 50 cents a box.

HOMESEEKERS ARE COMING RAPIDLY

Business of Federal Land Office at Crookston Shows Demand for Land.

Crookston, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the surest indications of the steady increase in the demands for Northern Minnesota land is shown by the business being done by the United States land office here. The steady increase of business last summer resulted in the department sending an additional permanent clerk to the office, and the work has continued to increase during the winter until word was received yesterday that a third permanent clerk was to be sent here at once.

Land filings and final proofs are being received at the rate of from twelve to twenty daily and the homesteaders are coming from practically every state in the Union and many from Canada. Asked as to the reason of the increase in business, Register A. P. Toupin said:

"From what I gather in talking to the majority of them, they have heard of the uniform prosperity of this section. While there have been partial and total crop failures in many of the agricultural states during the past few years, or in sections of them, the Red river valley and Northern Minnesota generally have continued to prosper. We have had good crops every year. Many are coming because of the success achieved by the dairymen of this section. They have heard of the prizes carried off by Northern Minnesota butter and cheese, and Illinois and Iowa farmers keep closer watch of these things than many people think. They have also heard of the successful raising of corn, and this is attractive to many.

Returning From Canada.

"For some reason, we are getting a great many applications for homesteads from people who have been in Canada and desire to get back to farming in Minnesota again. We are having a great many of this class this spring.

"The increase of business at the land office here has been steady for the past two years and it is certainly a good indication. Northern Minnesota land is being eagerly sought after, in many cases after the prospective settlers have tried other sections of this country and Canada and this is certainly a good indication."

MARQUETTE NORMAL CLOSED BY TYPHOID

Fourteen Girls Are in Quarantine, Four Having Dread Disease.

Marquette, Mich., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because of an outbreak of diptheria at the dormitory, the Northern State normal school here closed until after the Easter vacation. Fourteen girls are quarantined, four of whom are typhoid fever patients.

GRAND FORKS MEET WAS BIG SUCCESS

Men and Religion Forward Movement Gatherings Did Much Good.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Men and Religion Forward Movement campaign here closed last evening. The week's work was a complete success, with an attendance of about 500 from out of town. The team of experts left for Duluth where they will work this week.

Last night at a general union meeting about 2,500 people were present, hearing W. C. Pearce, Cleveland, and Charles R. Drum also addressed a big mass meeting of men yesterday afternoon.

In the recommendations made by the experts for the work in Grand Forks, a municipal lodging house is set forth as one of the necessities. The amending of state laws to prevent children under 14 years from working under unnatural conditions.

The Y. M. C. A. convention was held during the last three days of the campaign, and, like the general movement, it also was entirely successful.

CLOQUET CREAMERY SCHEME IS BOOSTED

Enthusiastic Meeting Addressed By A. J. McGuire and A. B. Hostetter.

Cloquet, Minn., March 18. — (Special to The Herald.) — The Cloquet creamery idea which has been taken up by the newly organized Commercial club was given a great boost at the mass meeting held at the Bijou theater Saturday evening, addressed by Supt. A. J. McQuire of the Grand Rapids state experimental farm and A. B. Hostetter of Duluth.

Mayor Kelly in a brief opening address, said that the farmers of the country are the real conservers of its wealth. He has lived here nearly thirty years, and he said if he were to start life over again in this country it would be on a farm.

Mr. McQuire told of the first time he came to Cloquet to address a farm meeting. The hall was clean and warm, but McQuire waited half an hour when a lone man, a preacher, appeared, and the two constituted the farm meeting at that time, The speaker acknowledged the presence of the minister in the crowd Saturday.

Many Saginaw Farmers.

A special train from Saginaw brought a large number of farmers from that section. Friday afternoon Mr. McQuire had been taken to Thomson to address the farmers, and it was his suggestion that in view of the prospective creamery, the cattle of the section should be bred to the best dairy sires, and C. L. Dixon, cashier of the First National bank of Cloquet said that his bank would stand back of the expense of bringing in two such animals. On their return to Cloquet, Mr. Smith, the superintendent of the Island farm, owned by Mr. Hartley of Duluth, was communicated with and Saturday morning two fine Guernsey bulls arrived in Cloquet accompanied by the superintendent of the Hartley farm. Mr. Smith addressed the farm meeting briefly.

Many Take Stock.

At the close of Mr. McGuire's talk, Mr. Vibert called for names of those who would take stock, and over sixty shares were sold at $25 per share, most of the men taking two and three shares, although a few bought four and five and one farmer took eight. Mr. McGuire, as well as some of the business men, during the various trips of the past few days in the interest of the creamery, expressed themselves as very much surprised at the many good farms in this section. Wrenshall, Saginaw, Pine Grove, Thomson, Sawyer and the reservation country were among the communities well represented.

There was a goodly per cent of women in the audience, and it was noticeable that they were enthusiastically in favor of letting the creamery handle the milk and cream. The study of agriculture in the city schools has increased the farm interest and high school boys among the audience, and boys from the grades, were numerous. R. C. Schiffiett, agricultural instructor in the schools, gave a brief talk and distributed a number of pamphlets bearing on dairying among the audience. A collection of farm books from the public library was also placed at the disposal of farmers. Saturday morning the visiting farmers were taken to the various places of interest in and about the city and at noon a free lunch was served them.

Mr. Hostetter Talks.

A. B. Hostetter of the Duluth Commercial club talked on potatoes, exhibiting samples of several varieties brought to him and advising the farmers as to planting of certain kinds. It was learned that many farmers have this year held their potatoes for better prices. Where the commission men bought them in October at from 40 to 50 cents, they are now paying 90 cents. One farmer at Saginaw has 700 bushels of Burbanks, which he expects to hold for a few weeks longer, and other farmers have correspondingly large quantities.

EHLER GIVES BIG BAIL.

Hancock Man, Accused of Murder, Furnished $25,000 Bonds.

Hancock, Mich., March 18. — Jacob Ehler, the well known local merchant, charged with the murder of Ernie Hendrickson, who was bound over to the next term of circuit court by Justice J. J. Eickern of Hancock, has been released on $25,000 bail by Circuit Judge O'Brien until May 27, the opening day of circuit court.

Ehler appeared in court with his attorney, W. A. Burton, to show cause why he should be liberated under bonds. Thler had been brought to the county jail after being bound over by Justice J. J. Eichkern of Hancock, being refused bail, it being out of the jurisdiction of a justice of the peace to allow bail to such cases. Judge O'Brien decided that bail could be allowed, each bondsmen to qualify for the sum of the bond be furnished and each security to be liable for the entire sum. Five prominent Hancock citizens went on his bonds. They are John Punkey, John C. Donahue, Richard Hosking, Joseph Schneider and Archibald J. Scott. The sum secured by each was $5,000.

MAKING THEM SETTLE.

Internal Revenue Collector Collects From Delinquents.

Crookston, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Deputy Revenue Collector Gust Aubol has just finished covering his territory in Northwestern Minnesota where he has collected about $3,000 in fines and penalties from saloon-keepers who have been in the habit of selling liquor by the keg to farmers and others—which in lots of five gallons or over puts them in the wholesaling class. Many persisted after being warned and the result was the $50 wholesale tax and $25 penalty netting $75 in each case. Mr. Aubol is now covering nearly his whole territory to secure the corporation tax report which has not been sent in by a great number of corporations and which must be in by the last of the month.

BANKERS SHIPPING IN DAIRY LIVESTOCK.

Minot, N. D., March 18.—(Further impetus was given to the dairying industry in this locality when two carloads of cattle were shipped in by a committee of Minot bankers, representing the Minot Commercial club. This makes four carloads of pure bred cattle that have been brought to the Minot district within the past few months, being shipped from Wisconsin.

The plan of the Commercial club is to sell the cattle to the farmers at actual cost.

Crookston — The Crookston high school debating team, Messrs. Bumgertel, Sylvester and Lee, won from the Brainerd team Friday night, having the negative of the question, "Resolved, That the government should establish a parcels post." The judges were Professors S. Squires and Jacobstein of the University of North Dakota and Jacobson of the Moorhead normal.

Warroad—The creamery has been leased to a couple of gentlemen from Warren—one of whom was here this week—and will be opened for business in the near future. One of them has been buttermaker and manager at the Warren creamery for some time and both are experienced men in that line of business.

Rochester—D. A. Morrison, one of Rochester's prominent citizens, a veteran of the Civil war, ex-mayor, ex-state senator, and at one time grand master of the Odd Fellows of Minnesota, passed away in this city Friday, after a lingering illness. Mr. Morrison was with Sherman on his famous march to the sea. He is survived by a wife and three children.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Langdon, N. D.—The meeting held in Langdon when the Better Farming association of the state came in for consideration, was a distinct success. The several speakers at the meeting, including Director Thomas Cooper, covering various features of the movement and what it meant to the farmers of the county, and there was unanimous endorsement of the proposition.

Grand Forks, N. D.—C. E. McLaughlin has arrived from Breckenridge and has entered upon his duties as superintendent of the Dakota division of the Great Northern. He was formerly master mechanic at Breckenridge. Supt. Allen has left for Great Falls, where he will succeed C. O. Jenks as superintendent of the Butte division.

Bismarck, N. D.—Secretary Thomas Hall has received notice of a conference to be held by the railway executives and manufacturers of rails and railway equipments, at Chicago, March 20. The purpose of the meeting will be to endeavor to arrive at some plan to make rails tougher and not so hard and brittle.

Jud, N. D.—The home of A. J. Graham, on the Whiting farm out in the Floyd district, had a narrow escape from fire. The upholstering of a chair caught fire and before it was discovered had set fire to the window casings near which the chair stood. Fortunately it had gained but little headway and was soon under control.

Langdon, N. D.—The annual Scottish Rite reunion, which had its closing session here last week, was, according to those present who had attended the reunions for many years the best one ever held here. The degrees were conferred from the fourth to the eighteenth, inclusive, on a class of ten candidates, and a class of twenty took the degrees from the nineteenth to the thirtieth.

Fargo, N. D.—P. H. Cummings has purchased of Peter Elliott the Elliott building on N. P. avenue, lot 8 in plot No. 2, S. G. Roberts addition for $20,000. This includes the present home of the Fargo Courier-News. The transfer was made through the W. J. Lane real estate agency.

Sioux Falls, S. D.—As the result of falling under the wheels of a wagon, Henry Jenson, aged 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jenson, residing on a farm in Aurora county, was instantly killed. The wagon was loaded with hay and the horses attached to it were being backed up to the barn by the little boy's father when the lad stumbled and fell under the wheels, which crushed out his life.

Fargo, N. D.—Practically $70,000 was raised Friday night by popular pledge at a mass meeting in the Fargo Commercial club, held to create enthusiasm of the construction of an auditorium in Fargo, in which public meetings and conventions can be held. Practically every business man in the city attended the meeting.

Minot, N. D.—At a hearing here April 2, 3 and 4, the state railroad commission will receive complaints from the shippers of the state bearing upon the proposed new freight classification. The telegraph question will also come up at the meeting in Minot.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Although the local coal dealers are trying to take an optimistic view of the possibilities of a walkout of coal miners, the big coal users in the city are laying in a supply of coal to last through the proposed strike. It is considered probable, however, that if the coal strike does come on April 1, some of the manufacturers will be short of coal.

Dickinson, N. D.—Seed wheat distributed by counties will be transported by the Northern Pacific railroad free of charge, according to announcement made here. Stark county is having some little trouble securing a good supply of seed wheat, the first shipments being rejected, the company selling the same having brought in an inferior grade of grain.

S.S.S. CURES OLD SORES

If an old sore existed simply because the flesh was diseased at that particular spot, it would be an easy matter to apply some remedy directly to the place that would kill the germs; or the diseased flesh might be removed by a surgical operation and a cure effected. But the very fact that old sores resist every form of local or external treatment, and even return after being cut away, shows that back of them is a morbid cause which must be removed before a cure can result. Just as long as the pollution continues in the blood, the ulcer remains an open cesspool for the deposit of impurities which the circulation throws off. S. S. S. cures Old Sores by purifying the blood. It removes every trace of impurity and taint from the circulation, and thus completely does away with the cause. When S. S. S. has cleansed the blood, the sore begins to heal, and it is not a surface cure, but the healing process begins at the bottom; soon the discharge ceases, the inflammation leaves, and the place fills in with firm, healthy flesh. Under the purifying and tonic effects of S. S. S. the system is built up, and those whose health has been impaired by the drain and worry of an old sore will be doubly benefited by its use. Counterfeits.

Read what one of the GREATEST NEWSPAPERS IN AMERICA has to say on this subject:

"The manufacturers of Castoria have been compelled to spend hundreds of thousands of dollars to familiarize the public with the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. This has been necessitated by reason of pirates counterfeiting the Castoria trademark. This counterfeiting is a crime not only against the proprietors of Castoria, but against the growing generation. All persons should be careful to see that Castoria bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher, if they would guard the health of their children. Parents, and mothers in particular, ought to carefully examine the Castoria advertisements which have been appearing in this paper, and to remember that the wrapper of every bottle of genuine Castoria bears the fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher, under whose supervision it has been manufactured continuously for over thirty years.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Letters from Prominent Druggists addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Conger Bros. of St. Paul, Minn., say: "Fletcher's Castoria is certainly full of merit and worthy of recommendation."

C. G. A. Loder, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "For 20 years we have sold Fletcher's Castoria and are pleased to state that it has given universal satisfaction."

The Scholtz Drug Co., of Denver, Colo., says: "Fletcher's Castoria has surely become a household word. Seemingly every family where there are children uses it."

Hoagland & Mansfield, of Boston, Mass., say: "We have nothing but good to say about your Castoria and we do not hesitate to give it our unqualified endorsement."

Riker's Drug Stores, of New York City, say: "Fletcher's Castoria is one of the oldest and most popular preparations in our stores. We have nothing but good to say about it."

Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., of St. Louis, Mo., says: "Of the thousands of patent medicines for which we have demand there are a very few of them that we can conscientiously recommend and your Castoria is included in this few."

D. R. Dyche & Co., of Chicago, Ills., say: "The increasing demand for your Castoria shows that a discriminating public is not slow to seek out a remedy of merit and once convinced that it does all and even more than claimed they do not hesitate to recommend it to their friends."

The Owl Drug Co., of San Francisco, Cal., says: "We have always been a believer in the 'original man protection' and have been particular never to sell anything but the genuine and original Castoria (Fletcher's). We have many calls every day for this article from people who say they would not be without it in their homes."

Debate on Proposition at Midway Results in Negative Conclusion.

Midway, Minn., March 18. — (Special to The Herald.) — The Midway Literary society held their regular weekly meeting at the Maple Grove school. A very interesting debate was held on the subject, "Resolved That the Proposed Potato Warehouse Will Benefit the Farmers of This Vicinity," which was won by the negative side.

Those speaking on the affirmative side were Fred Hendrickson and Henry Norman. Those on the negative side were George Highmark and Percy L. Cole. After the debate the following program was rendered: Organ solo, Miss Inez Turnquist; song by four girls; recitation by Percy L. Cole; vocal selection by Fred Hendrickson, George Highmark and Joseph Highmark. The society is planning on giving a play in the near future in connection with its second annual banquet.

At the annual township election Tuesday sixty-one votes were cast. Ole Anderson, the present incumbent, won out in a three-cornered fight for supervisor, the other candidates being Nels Johnson and Robert Samuelson. The other officers elected were: Treasurer, John F. Anderson; town clerk, Henry Norman; justice of the peace, Fred Hendrickson; constable, P. E. Nordin and John Gronquist; road overseers, Charles Stack, P. E. Nordin and William Raatikainen. The proposition to move the polling place was lost by an overwhelming majority.

STORMS COMING, AND THEN SOME MORE COLD

Washington, March 18.—Fair weather promised for the South during the next several days will also overspread the Eastern states and will prevail in the Middle West the first part of the week, according to the bulletin issued by the weather bureau.

"The atmospheric pressure," the bulletin continues, "will remain relatively low with unsettled weather the next two days in the Northwestern states and on the North Pacific coast, and a well-developed disturbance will overspread these regions about Tuesday or Wednesday, whence it will move eastward and cross the great central valleys Wednesday night or Thursday and the Eastern states Thursday or Friday; this disturbance will be attended by local rains and snows in Northern and showers and thunder-storms in Southern districts, and will be followed by a change to considerably colder weather, which will make its appearance in the Northwest about Wednesday."

DELAY HOME RULE ACTION

British Government Will Not Introduce Bill Until After Easter.

Terms Will Include Irish Senate and House of Commons.

London, March 16.—The Irish home rule bill is not to be introduced in the house of commons before Easter.

Thus far the members of the ministry have kept the secret as to the details of the bil entirely to themselves, unless perhaps the Nationalist leaders have been given a hint as to how far the government is prepared to go. Mr. Churchill delivered a long speech in Belfast without letting very much out and he has been followed by Mr. Birrell, the Irish secretary, who has said even less. He, however, did tell the country that the bill was to be introduced by Mr. Asquith, the premier in this respect following the example of William Ewart Gladstone, who personally introduced both his home rule bills, and that "this was proper, as the bill was no departmental measure, but an important and an authoritative act of the whole Liberal party."

An Irish Parliament.

The preamble or first clause will set forth that the bill sets up on Irish soil an Irish parliament, a house commons and a senate, with legislative authority over the whole range of purely Irish domestic affairs. This was hardly news. What the people have been asking is what safeguards have been inseterd to protect the Protestant minority in Ulster, and more particularly what are to be the financia arrangements. The ministers have assured the Ulsterites that the safeguards against religious intolerance will be sufficient without having as yet stopped the agitation against the bill in Belfast and the surrounding country. However, this will not be the government's greatest difficulty, for the non-conformists in England are not giving their fellow religionists in Ireland the same support that they did in previous home rule campaigns.

Financial Arrangements.

What will trouble the ministers are the financial arrangements. Nationalist members speaking in Ireland lately have been demanding full fiscal autonomy, a demand that the government can hardly grant and a refusal of which might cause the bill to be rejected by the Dublin convention, as was the Irish councils bill. The government might grant the control or excise or inland revenue, but to hand over the control of the customs would be to court the opposition of some of their own English and Scteh free trade supporters. It has been suggested that a way might be found out of the difficulty by introducing a provision that complete free trade should be continued between the two countries and by giving the Irish parliament the power of varying the rates of customs duties on foreign imports, while withholding the power to vary the articles on which duty is now levied. If the demands of Ireland as to financial arrangements are not satisfactory, Mr. Redmond might prefer to oppose the bill before submitting it to the convention.

Food Supplies.

Besides the alleged unfairness of placing Protestant Ulster under a government which, by the nature of things, would be largely made up of Roman Catholics, the Unionists are fighting the government on the finances. They point out that the trade of Ireland has increased enourmously in recent years and that now England gets a very appreciable portion of her food supplies from the sister isle. So long as Ireland remains in the union no enemy could stop that supply, on which England's very life might depend—no enemy, that is, except an unfriendly government in Dublin, which could stop the export of food to England when she needed it most. Ulster, too, they say, should have something to say about the disposal of the customs collections, for, while she pays something over $10,000,000 annually in customs, the rest of Ireland contributest under $5,000,000.

Subsidy Proposed.

It is estimated that the expenses of government in Ireland are about $55,500,000 and the income from the island $41,000,000. The balance has come out of the pockets of the other members of the union, and the government in its bill proposes that Ireland should be granted a subsidy for fifteen years to cover the deficiency. Then there are the old age pensions, paid by the imperial exchequer and the billion dollars invested in land purchase and other matters of finance, every one of which offers a difficulty to the framers of a home rule bill. To satisfy all, of course, is impossible, and even to satisfy a sufficient number of members of the house of commons to make home rule possible this year, Unionists say, is out of the question. Therefore they are looking for a general election in the summer.

To Speak in Belfast.

Both sides are campaigning in England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland, but still Ulster remains by far the most interested. Excitement has cooled down since Mr. Churchill's visit to Belfast, but the Unionists have no intention of allowing this, the greatest asset in their campaign—the intention To keep up the fighting spirit, therefore, Bonar Law, the Unionist leader, of Ulster to fight—to lose its force. is to visit Belfast on Easter Tuesday and address a great open-air gathering, as did the first lord of the admiralty. He is to be supported by the Duke of Abercorn, Sir Edward Carson and others. Preceding the meeting there is to be a great demonstration of Unionists and a parade through the city. Should the parade pass through the Nationalist section troops may be needed, as they were during Mr. Churchill's visit. It is expected that there will be in the parade 100,000 members of the Ulster Unionist council, Loyal Orange lodges and Unionist clubs of Ireland.

Should the bill be accepted by the Nationalist convention, or even if rejected be proceeded with, the debate in the commons will rank as one of the great parliamentary duels. With Mr. Balfour out of the house, as he has been since the openings, Mr. Asquith has been the master of debate. Mr. Balfour, however, is coming back for the home rule bill and will take a prominent part in the earlier discussions. The two great speeches will thus be delivered by the old opponents and the harder subsequent fighting left to Mr. Churchill, Mr. Lloyd George and other ministers on one side and Bonar Law, the Unionist leader, Sir Edward Carson and other front-bench Unionists on the other side.

SWITCHMAN IS TO BE THE SPEAKER

Indorsed at Democratic Caucus in Arizona Legislature.

Phoenix, Ariz., March 18. — Samuel B. Bradner, a switchman in the Southern Pacific yards at Benson, was selected as a speaker of the house of Arizona's first state legislature by a caucus of Democratic members. The Democrats control the house 35 to 4.

Bradner's only rival for the place was A. R. Lynch, an attorney. Bradner was the choice of the state administration for speaker. A Democratic senate caucus named Michael Cunning, a former instructor in Harvard university, for president.

Probably the first act of the legislature will be the enactment of a constitutional amendment reinserting the recall of the judiciary, stricken out at the insistence of President Taft. It is believed that an equal suffrage amendment also will be submitted to the people.

IRON AND STEEL REVIEW

New York, March 18.—Business in the steel industry last week was accompanied by developments of unusual interest and importance. The coal strike in Europe was responsible for greater activity in steel products here and the prospective suspension of milling operations in this country, stimulated placing of orders for both finished and semi-finished steel for prompt shipment.

The effect of this was to cause an advance of $1 per ton on steel bars, shapes and plates and on galvanized sheets and wrought pipe. The export demand for tin plate was active and with all the British tin plate mills holding down prices abroad the American market was also energized. Large tonnages of sheet bars were sold to independent sheet mills in the Central West. Wire products were especially active and firmer in tone. Contracts for fabricated structural steel, aggregated over 20,000 tons and railroad work called for only 2,200 tons. Car and locomotive orders were again disappointing, but rail contracts aggregated 62,000, including 15,000 tons for the Wabash and 8,000 for the C. & O. The Erie, Santa Fe and Burlington each placed small tonnage while western trunk lines, including Pacific roads, are negotiating for 150,000 to 200,000 tons.

Continued activity in pig iron developed contracts for 210,000 tons. Contracts in the Pittsburgh territory alone called for 125,000 tons. East of the Alleghany mountains orders were placed for 25,000 tons. Further activity has caused an advance of 50 cents to 75 cents per ton for steel-making iron in the Central West and 25 to 50 cents per ton on foundry grades at Buffalo and in Eastern Pennsylvania and Virginia.

ARRESTS FOR ATTEMPT TO KILL ITALIAN KING.

Rome, March 18.—Several arrests have been made in connection with the attempt to assassinate King Victor Emmanuel last week. Among the prisoners is Nicholas Tacito, a Roumanian, who was mentioned in a report sent the government by the Italian consul at Geneva recently as being connected with a plot hatched there to kill the king, Premier Giolletti and Foreign Minister Di San Guino. Tacito was arrested in Rome. Antonio Dalba, who fired the shots at the king, was interrogated again regarding the attempted assassination. He again insisted that he alone is responsible for his attempt. Some persons believe Dalba's mind has been affected by the Turco-Italian war.

Webster's Diuretic
For Lame Back

A GRIPPING pain in the small of the back is usually an indication of kidney trouble, especially if accompanied by one or more of the following symptoms; a settling in the urine, highly colored urine, a too profuse or too scant supply, too frequent a desire to urinate, twitching eyelids, specks before eyes, sleeplessness, irritability or languid feeling.

Webster's Diuretic brings relief by removing the cause. It causes a flow of water from the blood to the kidneys, washing them out; soothes and allays the pain in the irritated surfaces of inflamed bladder and urinary tract. After a few doses you should begin to feel much improvement. That tired feeling, depression, or irritableness will gradually pass away.

While certain serious kidney diseases are much helped by Webster's Diuretic, if properly taken, in such cases a physician should be consulted by all means.

Webster's Diuretic sold in two sizes, 50c and $1.00—money refunded if results are not satisfactory after a fair trial.

Under the Webster trademark and guaranty are sold 60 different articles, including most effective remedies for all such human ailments as do not require a doctor—household remedies that should be in the medicine cabinet of every family; also pure toilet preparations. Your druggist has them or can get them for you.

HONOR MEMORY OF CLEVELAND

President Taft Writes Eulogy to Meeting in New York City.

New York, March 18.—Grover Cleveland's memory was honored Sunday at a public meeting in the city college, commemorating his seventy-fifth birthday anniversary. Tributes from President Taft, Governor Dix of New York and Governor Harmon of Ohio were read, and eulogistic addresses delivered by men with whom Mr. Cleveland was associated. The exercises were attended by Mrs. Francis Folsom Cleveland, widow of the former president, and Mrs. Daniel S. La Mont, widow of the secretary of war in the Cleveland cabinets.

"Grover Cleveland earned the sincere gratitude of his countrymen and justified recurring memorial occasions like the one in which we are taking part" President Taft wrote. "He was a great president, not because he was a great lawyer, not because he was a brilliant orator, not because he was a statesman of profound learning, but because he was a statesman of clear perceptions, of the utmost courage of his convictions, and of great plainness of speech; because he was a man of the highest character, father and husband of the best type, and because throughout his political life he showed those rugged virtues of the public servant and citizen, the emulation of which by those who follow him will render progress of our political life toward better things a certainty."

SEINE RIVER REGION IS DRAWING PROSPECTORS

Lucky Joe Shaft at the Foley Mine to Be Unwatered.

Active Season in Prospect for Lake of the Woods Region.

Mine Center, Ont., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.) — "The Seine river region looks mighty good to me and I propose to cast my fortunes with it for some time to come. With my experience in other gold camps, I am positive that this one will treat me kindly and generously."

This expression was made to The Herald correspondent by Frank H. Simmons, a Western mining man of thirty years' practical experience. He has roamed the deserts of Nevada and climbed the mountains of Colorado. For the past couple of years he has been in the boom at Porcupine, Ont.

"Out in Nevada and Colorado," continued Mr. Simmons, "we had burros to carry our packs. Down at Porcupine men have to perform the part of burros. When I left down there I weighed 240 healthy pounds. When I left I had worked myself down to 190 pounds. I did that carrying packs and stumbling through muskegs.

"Porcupine has half a dozen mines that will give a good account of themselves. A couple of them probably will make a great showing in bullion production within a few weeks but not more than that. A few others will show merit, but to brace up the declining boom will make that old mistake of forcing bullion production before ore reserves warrant mining and milling. The Hollinger promises to be a success and F. Augustus Heinze, the former free lance in Butte mining, has an excellent property.

"But that region is entirely too lacking in outcrops. Much of it is flat and covered with moss, muskeg and swamps. Heavy sums are required for trenching and stripping before you know what you have. Naturally, there are many disappointments.

Ask Prohibitive Prices.

"Another objection is that the whole region has been blanketed with mining locations and holders of claims ask prohibitive prices. An investor, explorer or even intelligent prospector is greatly handicaped, if not barred out. Along the Seine river, between Rainy lake and the Sawbill belt, I can buy outright properties of great merit for $5,000 that would cost me $100,000, or more, in Porcupine. In the Seine river district, the Canadian Northern railway is within a very few miles of all the best neighborhoods. Accessibility and cost of supplies are away ahead of Porcupine. The only difference is that Porcupine has had a wild boom and hopes for another. In the Seine river region there is no excitement. That is what appeals to me as a prospector and explorer who knows his business. All the Seine river region is bound to 'come back' and, in fact, already has started to do so.

"There are not half a dozen gold mines in all Ontario that, in my opinion, excel the Foley mine in equipment, development and character of free-milling quartz ores. When I am told that the old Golden Star produced $150,000 in bullion, when I note conditions at the Olive, the Golden Crescent, the Lucky Coon, the Ferguson and a dozen other properties around here I am satisfied to risk my time, skill and money up and down the Seine river region. I am waiting for the snow to leave and then I will get very busy."

At the Foley Mine.

Out at the Foley mine the men have finished putting up a supply of ice for camp use the coming summer. Estimates are being secured for a telephone line from Mine Center to Shoal Lake, ending at the Foley. Forest fires two years ago nicely cleared up a plat of ground that is as mellow as an ash heap and as rich as mud. A model garden and small fruit ranch is planned for that ground.

One handicap so far in this region has been poor wagon roads and inability to do heavy hauling within moderate costs. A strong plea is being made to the Ontario government for a liberal appropriation for the wagon road from Mine Center station to the Foley mine on Shoal lake. It seems advisable to use coal fuel at the Foley, and to do so economically, roads fit for use of a gasoline motor truck are imperative. The management of Foley Gold Mines company, Ltd., is awaiting the action of the government concerning road appropriations before deciding on a number of plans.

Among the first mining work undertaken at the Foley this spring will be the unwatering of the Lucky Joe shaft and some drifting to the northward on the lower level. Ores to the northward from that shaft are very heavy in iron sulphides. When last sampled, the sulphide concentrates from the ores assayed $773 per ton. The quartz ores from the vein averaged $20 a ton, free milling, by actual mill runs.

Another piece of work planned for early spring will be the sinking of a shaft on the galena vein. The last sampling from a pit seventeen feet deep gave $30 a ton in gold, $3.58 in silver and 5 per cent in lead.

Over a year ago, The Herald predicted that there would be a natural and profitable overflow of capital from Cobalt and Porcupine to the great Rainy river district. The first of this year, the prediction was borne out by the fact that the Bewick, Moreing company acquired a gold mine near Dryden for $75,000. This company is prominent in London, heavily interested in Porcupine, California, Mexico and other countries.

Port Arthur Silver Belt.

Now comes the news that Cobalt silver mine operators are seeking properties in the Port Arthur silver belt. One of the Cobalt companies, called the Right-of-Way company, secured the right to mine silver along several miles of a narrow belt bordering the right-of-way of the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario railway, a road owned by the province of Ontario. Some success followed and dividends were paid, but some of the best veins crossed the right-of-way, instead of following it, and it is believed that the company has mined the best of its ores.

The Right-of-Way company has secured a five months' option on a silver property in the Silver Mountain neighborhood, within a mile of the Port Arthur, Duluth & Western railway, a part of the Canadian Northern system. The vein on this silver property averages eight feet in width and has been prospected with trenches and pits for a mile and a half. It shows good silver values along that distance. The neighborhood has a record of $1,500,000 worth of silver produced in the past.

The property was secured by A. Bishop of Port Arthur and Dr. Heasman of St. Paul, Minn., from the owners for the Right-of-Way company. Manager Rex Taylor and H. H. Dickson of the Right-of-Way company are soon expected at Silver Mountain.

The Silver Cross company of Cobalt also has secured an option on a silver property in the Port Arthur region, but to date no details are obtainable.

The movement in the Wabigoon and Dryden belt keeps up. Development work is progressing on the Good Luck group, sold by E. G. Rognon for the owners to Bewick, Moreing company. Mr. Rognon now is prospecting another likely group of properties.

At the Gold Moose, idle for some time, A. R. Hutchinson is preparing to make another test of the ores in the shaft, preparatory to further development work. Some rich ore is being hoisted.

Supt. Rodgers is pushing work on the Good Lake property and saying nothing. Gus Larson is working on a new location that samples richly on the surface. Dryden Smith is active as superintendent at the Laurentian mine. Cordwood is being cut for both the Detola and Paymaster mines near Goldrock, in the Manitou belt.

Lake of the Woods Region.

An exceedingly active season is in prospect for Kenora and the Lake of the Woods region. Development work has brought fine results at the Ophir, and recently the Consolidated Ophir Mines, Limited, was organized with a capital stock of several million dollars. This property comprises eleven locations and occupies most of Sultana island, about eight miles from Kenora. Some of the richest ore ver found on the American continent came from the Ophir shaft. Work last year showed a persistent streak of high-grade ore thirty inches wide in a wide vein, some of which went $500 a ton. There are several parallel veins, and in time this mine ought to furnish a heavy tonnage of profitable value. Electricity will be used for power.

The pioneer mine of the entire Rainy River district, the Sultana, is being reorganized. This property was brought into profitable production by John Caldwell, a Winnipeg druggist, who had a hard pull and involved every dollar he possessed. The mine is credited with producing $1,250,000 in gold bullion. Finally, an English company acquired it and made a failure for some reason. One cause given is that the superintendent was not big enough for his job. The Sultana has forty stamps, big air compressir and a chlorination plant.

Henry Weill, a Buffalo banker, now owns the Joseph Gauthier group on Echo bay.

Work is progressing nicely at the old Scramble mine, now being operated by the Homestake of Canada company, under the skilled management of Charles Brent, M. E. This company has a contract for 1,500 electrical horsepower at the astoundingly low rate of $12 per horse-power per year. It is expected to treat 500 tons of ore per day from a wide, low-grade ore body.

IRISH MUSIC AT FREE CONCERT

St. Patrick's Day Is Fittingly Observed at the Masonic Temple.

If any person had any idea that the old folk songs and music had lost their hold on the average individual type, the enthusiastic reception of the St. Patrick's program given at the free Masonic concert at the auditorium yesterday would have dispelled all doubts. Extra chairs were necessary to seat the audience and the interest and pleasure were manifest through the applause and attention of the large audience.

The pathos and humor of Irish music were shown by the selections and the jollity and sympathetic character made manifest by the reception of the different styles represented. Mrs. Leo Ball, the vocalist, whose appearance is always the signal for expectant pleasure, sang with her old time vigor and sweetness, receiving at this time an ovation from those who had frequently heard her clear, strong voice. Her artistic phrasing, distinct enunciation and interpretation of the melodies of Ireland, made her a great favorite yesterday. The first vocal number was followed by an outburst of applause which brought out Tom Moore's beautiful "Believe me if all those endearing young charms," sung with a sympathetic conception in decided contrast to the number on the program, "The Harp That Once Through Tara's Halls," which called for the more robust treatment which it received. Her second number, "The Minstrel Boy to the Wars is Gone," pathetic and somewhat mournful was followed by the charming and rollicking "The Lowback Car," each treated as the mood demanded and in perfect taste. In fact it was remarked by many of her old friends that she never entered into the spirit of the songs with greater abandon and grace than on this occasion.

The organ music was nearly all Irish in character and from Gounod's "Ave Maria" to "Patrick's Day in the Morning," through all the different phases of music appropriate to the occasion, the rendition showed such an appreciation of the music that the audience decided the player was either an Irishman, or ought to be, so familiar was he with the different moods and tenses and so imbued with the spirit of the day.

Next Sunday, the last concert but one of this series, the music will be all from the compositions of Gilbert and Sullivan; the singers being members of the high school musical society. The numbers will consist of choruses, solos and organ music.

ONE TAXICAB BANDIT CONVICTED OF ROBBERY.

New York, March 18.—Guilty of robbery in the first degree, was the verdict by the jury that tried Gene Montani, the chauffeur in the sensational taxicab holdup of Feb. 15, when two messengers of the East River National bank were robbed of $25,000.

With the verdict was coupled a recommendation of mercy. Montani was remanded for sentence on Wednesday.

Much of the evidence on which the chauffeur's conviction was based was obtained by stenographers who took down conversations between Montani and his alleged accomplices while they were in jail pending the trial, the stenographers listening from an adjoining cell.

Six other alleged participants in the robbery remain to be tried.

Few Unshaved Men Seen In Business Places These Days

Need of a Shave too Apt to Give Bad Impression, No Matter How Well Dressed a Man May Be

An observing writer on business topics of the day discusses the cleancut men who prevail in every branch of business.

"You seldom see a man nowadays in any department of business who isn't clean shaven and clean looking," he writes. "An unshaved man looks out of place and very conspicuous. He creates a feeling that he's careless about his personal appearance—even if his clothes are the latest and best."

The Gillette razor has been the big factor in making frequent shaving popular.

The Gillette is so easy, so quick and so convenient.

Whatever excuse a man had for going unshaved because he dreaded the stropping and honing and risks of the ordinary razor the Gillette did away with. With the Gillette you just lather and shave.

What the Gillette Will Do for You

Whatever your shaving habits may be, no matter how tender your skin or tough and wiry your beard, the Gillette will give you a clean velvet shave.

It will give you a light shave or close shave (closer than a barber dare give you), with no roughness, no irritation.

It is not necessary that you know how to shave yourself. You do not need to be "tool-wise" or handy. There is no stropping, no honing.

You quickly get the knack of the Gillette and you will learn little individual shave-simplifying tricks every day you use it.

The wonder of the Gillette is its adaptability—the way it meets individual needs.

Every man's face is different. Your beard is individual in the way it grows and its shaving requirements.

The adjustment of the Gillette will suit your beard and your skin. The Gillette will save you time and money and it is safe.

Think of the comfort of it; the ability to shave in two or three minutes in the morning as regularly as you wash your face. The convenience and simplicity—no litter of strops and hones. No danger of bad cuts and scratches.

Don't Put It Off—Buy a Gillette To-day

Considering all the Gillette means in comfort and economy, it should be in the hands of every man in this city with a beard to shave.

Don't be without it another day.

Ask your dealer.

If you can't go now, go soon.

The very next time you see a Gillette in a store window go in and talk to the man about it.

Examine the razor—buy it—take it home.

Standard set, $5.00 everywhere.

Pocket editions, $5.00 to $7.50.

Travellers' and Tourists' sets, $6.00 to $50.00.

Gillette Blades, packets of six (12 shaving edges), 50 cents; nickel-plated box of twelve (24 shaving edges), $1.00.

For sale in 40,000 retail stores in every part of the habitable globe.

KNOX CABLES TO INDORSE TREATY

Wants Senate to Take Up Pact on Nicaraguan Loans.

Washington, March 18.—Secretary Knox has cabled from Nicaragua to President Taft urging that the senate foreign relations committee give attention to the Nicaraguan loan treaty which has been pending more than a year. Secretary Knox cabled that the Nicaraguan government and citizens were anxious to have the United States ratify the treaty. The only objectors in Nicaragua, he declared, represented the remnants of the Zelaya regime.

The terms of the loan to be made to Nicaragua under the proposed convention, were just made known here. Brown, Brothers & Co., and J. & W. Seligman of New York have proposed to loan $15,000,000 at 5 per cent, taking Nicaragua bonds at 90. This money is to be used to reform Nicaragua's currency and tax collection system. The convention and the terms of the loan have been approved by the Nicaraguan national assembly.

Terms of a new contract between Honduras and the Whitney Savings Bank and Trust Company of New Orleans, have been submitted to the state department and will be published soon. The southern bankers have eliminated those features of the proposed loan which were criticised in the so-called Morgan loan contract and have offered terms which will be acceptable to Honduras.

MURDERERS OF MRS. KAUFMAN SENTENCED.

Chicago, March 17.—The four men convicted of the murder of Mrs. Hattie Kaufman at her home on the night of Dec. 2, were sentenced before Judge Kersten as follows: George ("Towhead") Rabenau, 21 years old, who fired the shot, life imprisonment. John Stacey, 23 years old, 25 years' imprisonment. William Rolland Channel, 18 years old, 25 years' imprisonment. Fred Boneham, 21 years old, 25 years' imprisonment.

Boneham pleaded guilty before the trial of his companions. His relatives had expected leniency to be shown him on this account.

Edison Starts Mill City Show.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 18.—Thomas A. Edison from his laboratory hundreds of miles away, Saturday afternoon pressed the button which opened the annual show of the Northwestern Electrical association here. The show will continue for one week. A message from Mr. Edison to Governor A. O. Eberhart also was received at the opening of the show.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

BRUCE'S COLUMN

COMMENT AND DIVERS DISCUSSION OF THE MERRY WORLD OF SPORT.

WELL, George, the "Ineligibles" have come and gone. The performance of Saturday evening, accompanied by the cheering and songs and general air of collegeness, if there is such a thing, brings youth bubbling to the surface and turns back the hands of the great human clock for a while at least. As for the game it was one of the best ever played here and it showed to advantage the home grown production. But the whole college spirit is something that possesses potential good for Duluth. We are sending our own boys away to colleges, most of them to the university, and they are coming home and are helping to make this a better town. Next to cannon crackers and the suffragette movement, there is nothing making for greater enthusiasm than the college spirit. We need it here, and we want all the college aggregations that we can get to visit us. If they would only send up the football team for an annual fall game the college club movement here would be given an impetus that would soon result in the organization of the long talked of university club.

Yes, the game of Saturday evening was one of the athletic events of the season and one of the best exhibitions of sports that we have had here for some time. Those arranging the game deserve credit for their enterprise, and right here is where the pen of humble laudation is dipped into ink of sincerity and a boost is given for the boat club quint. The boys played a great game and surprised the big crowd by the hard and fast contest. The boat club men were up against some real stars and the close-margined defeat is more in the light of a victory than a crushing humiliation.

AFTER a series of negotiations that started the morning the news came of the defeating of Pedersen by the mighty Mahmout, the officials of the Greater Duluth Athletic club finally secured the signature of the Bulgarian for a finish match for this city. It required a good stiff offer to get the big Bulgarian to promise to come, as at the present time the former starved man of Europe is the greatest card of the wrestling game and is filling lucrative engagements in all parts of the country. In selecting an opponent for the man who some claim is the greatest wrestler in the world, the officials of the club selected Charles Kid Cutler, the famous Chicago Nonpariel, and the former Bemidji boy, who also made his home in this city and Superior before he became famous as the sparring partner of John L. Sullivan and Jack Johnson. Cutler wrestled the greatest match seen here the present season and made a great impression upon the fans by his remarkable exhibition of speed and footwork. Cutler's wrestling more closely resembles that of Gotch than any of the Americans in the game at the present time.

This contest will be one of the last of the season and will be the biggest card of all. The name of Mahmout is on the tongue of every wrestling fan at the present time. He is matched with Zbyszko for next month and a defeat for the Pole means that the patient and long waiting Turk is to become the champion of the world. Acting as the human hurdle for Champion Gotch, Mahmout has defied the world.

Perhaps there is only one man in the world who knows how great Mahmout is. In securing the contract of Cutler to come here and wrestle the Turk the officials of the club have secured a man who can make any wrestler in the world go a lot to beat him and the fans of Duluth will probably witness the best match of the season, as far as science and the ability of the wrestlers is concerned.

SOME of those witnessing the play of Rosenwald in the basket ball contest of Saturday evening formed some conception of why this chap is one of the greatest backs in the West. For speed and general force this Rosenwald imitates the sinewy grace of a projectile. Several times he galloped through the bunch toppling over those who, in an unguarded moment and the abandon of impulse, stepped in his way. On the football field, William, the rules for going ahead are far more free and have more abandon than the restrictions of the comparatively gentle indoor sport of basket ball. One with an eye to the perspective and fidelity of detail can picture this human catapult dashing gayly down the football field, causing humanity, in the shape of strewn opponents, to litter the field. Yes, Rosy is some kid.

IF the suffragettes are to become an effective fighting force surely they must improve their aim. Accounts of the recent assault upon the house of commons and the windows generally in dear old London, tell of the bricks and stones that missed widely the mark. While casting around for a subject to tickle the typewriter keys with, the thought comes along connecting Cy Young with the future growth of the feminine We Are movement. Cy is getting pretty old and can't stay up there in the majors for more than ten years. The farmer from Ohio has always been noted for his control and his remarkable ability to hit the mark aimed at. If the women who are to fight the future battles of the movement for votes wish to acquire proficiency of markmanship and thus cause greater destruction and also heavier burdens of taxation upon us mere men, they might hire Cy as a coach and acquire the free arm movement and the general sureness of aim that has been one of the sterling characteristics of the grand old man of baseball.

THIS is the day the delegates of the Minny meet. The traveling delegates of the little league have had a jolly time this season, flitting around not unlike the butterfly with just about as much on their minds to keep them off the solid thought tread. As an example of grownup men trying to conduct the affairs of a baseball league the course of the club owners of the organization has been about as edifying as a large man with gout and a red nose attempting the Grecian symbolical dance.

Business men are needed in baseball. The old haphazard methods of the past have been tossed in the waste basket that experience provides for all thoughtful men. Duluth has erred with some of the rest and is today repenting of its sins. Don't inflict us further with the Minny and the shoddy methods of the past. Give us a league where the games will begin on scheduled time, where the umpire will be master of the play and will not allow the patrons of the game to be wearied with wrangling. P. Henry majestically cried to give him liberty or a farewell ticket; likewise we cry to give baseball befitting our station in the large family of municipalities, or give us rest.

WITH Bombardier Wells coming here to fight Al Palzer and the possibility of there being a murder perpetrated between Jack Johnson and Jim Flynn, the heavyweight situation in the fight game promises to be fairly well sifted to the bottom. There are some in the heavyweight division who should be sent back to the various trades. They have sifted the heavyweight wrestlers down to Gotch, Mahmout and Zbyszko, let the fighters be eliminated so as to figure out the real ones.

THE OUTLAW LEADER

JOHN T. POWERS.

John T. Powers is the president of the new Columbia baseball league which was recently founded. It is said that teams will be placed in Kansas City, Milwaukee, Detroit, Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Louisville. President Powers does not desire war with the big leagues but believes there is room for another league in the United States.

NEWS OF THE BALL TEAMS IN PRACTICE

Galveston Defeated.

Galveston, Tex., March 18.—The second division of the New York National league team defeated the Galveston club of the Texas league, 7 to 0. Marquard pitched five innings without allowing a hit. Tesrau pitched four allowing two hits. Galveston pitchers allowed thirteen hits.

Philadelphia Players Beaten.

San Antonio, Tex., March 18.—San Antonio's Texas league club defeated a team of Philadelphia American players, 9 to 7 with Plank, Krause and Coombs pitching for the visitors. Krause was hit for five runs and Plank for three.

Sox Win From Forth Worth.

Forth Worth, Tex., March 18.—The second division of the Chicago American league team defeated the Fort Worth club of the Texas league, 13 to 1. J. Scott, for the visitors, allowed but three hits.

Orleans Pitchers Wild.

New Orleans, La., March 18.—The wildness of New Orleans pitchers and errors aided the Chicago Nationals in winning, 4 to 3 here yesterday afternoon.

Austin Club Shut Out.

Austin, Tex., March 18.—The Austin club of the Texas league was defeated by the Philadelphia Americans yesterday, 3 to 0. Bender and Brown pitched for Philadelphia.

Topeka Beats Tigers.

Shreveport, Iowa, March 18.—The Topeka club of the Western league defeated the Detroit Americans, 14 to 13.

New York Suffers Defeat.

Houston, Tex., March 18.—The regulars of the New York National League club met defeat at the hands of the Houston club of the Texas league yesterday, 5 to 2. Crandall and Ames pitched for New York. Foster for Houston allowed but three hits.

Waco Defeats Leaguers.

Waco, Tex., March 18.—By a score of 3 to 2 the Waco league team yesterday afternoon defeated the third section of the Chicago Americans in a twelve-inning game.

FORMER CHAMP AFTER HONORS

Thomas Haley of Detroit Out for Individual Bowling Championship.

Chicago, March 18.—Thomas Haley of Detroit, Mich., winner of the individual championship in 1910, competed in the minor events of the American Bowling congress tournament yesterday along with more than 100 Detroit star bowlers. Men also were entered from Des Moines, Columbus, Minneapolis, Milwaukee, Peoria, Louisville and Cincinnati.

The schedule of the five-man teams tonight appears to be the best of the meet. Clubs from a dozen cities are to go after the tournament record held by Terry's Mountains of Milwaukee. The Toronto, Can., team, which won the Canadian championship, is listed among the competing teams.

HAVEN FOR GAME BIRDS WILL BE ESTABLISHED ON CAPE COD

Wild duck, quail, ruffed grouse and pheasants will be raised by the American Game Protective and Propagation association for free distribution among members, according to its March bulletin, just issued.

Between 5,000 and 6,000 acres have been secured near the town of Tremont, on Cape Cod, to be used as a game farm and sanctuary. There are thirty ponds on the land and a good growth of pine and scrub oak. During the last four years it has been used as a game refuge and as a result there are not many quail and ruffed grouse in the covers.

The breeding of wild duck will be the initial work in propagation. A supply has been purchased, and it is estimated that thousands can be raised this year. Special attention will be given to the wood duck, which is not only one of the most beautiful specimens, but was at one time among the most common. This bird is now on the verge of extinction.

There have been numerous attempts in this country to raise quail and ruffed grouse, but few of them have been successful. The reasons for this are various. One reason is that no gamekeepers are trained to the work of breeding native birds. The association will secure an expert game-keeper to take charge of rearing upland birds. The game raised on the association's farm will be distributed among members for stocking purposes.

The association is advocating the establishment of game refuges in all parts of the country. If the birds have a place where they can raise their young in security they will increase so rapidly that they are bound to overflow into the surrounding territory, and thus improve the shooting in the neighborhood of the sanctuary.

The March bulletin also tells of the association's activities in securing hearings on bills for the federal protection of migratory game birds. Since it was issued these hearings have taken place, and representatives from forty different states came out in favor of federal protection.

The hearty support of sportsmen throughout the country has been continued, and up to March 1, about $6,000 had been subscribed. Particularly gratifying is the way fish and game clubs and local and state protective associations have joined the movement. Such bodies, situated in all parts of the country, are hastening to affiliate with the national one, which now has members in every state in the Union.

DROP GAME TO STUDENTS

Boat Club Team Puts Up Scrappy Contest Against "Ineligibles."

Local Basket Ball Players Make Surprisingly Good Showing.

After playing the fast University of Minnesota "Ineligibles" to a standstill the greater part of the game, the Duluth Boat club basket ball team lost, 23 to 19.

The game was played Saturday evening in the gymnasium of the central Y. M. C. A. building and was one of the fastest exhibitions ever seen on the local floor.

A large and enthusiastic crowd turned out for the struggle and the rooting was a feature of the contest.

The game was filled with sensational passes, baskets made from difficult angles, beautiful blocking and those in attendance did not want for thrills.

Opening with a rush and a basket by Paddock of the local team in the first minute of play, only to be quickly followed with a basket by Harris, the fast forward of the "Ineligibles," the fast, snappy play was continued with no let up throughout the game.

The team work and the passing and blocking of both teams were brilliant. Harris, a former high school player, starred for the visitors. He is a "dead shot" on basket throwing, and the visitors kept "feeding" the ball to him.

In the first half the Duluth players practically held their opponents even, the score at the end being 10 to 11, the larger figure favoring the university players.

Paddock, Solheim, Boerner and Johnson did the scoring for the locals and Harris and McKeon performed a like service for the "Ineligibles."

The second half was even faster than the first. The Duluth players apparently had the jump on their opponents and it looked for a time like another victory for the boat club aggregation. The university players settled down later and made a business of breaking up plays and scoring themselves. In the matter of breaking up plays Rosenwald was the bright and shining example for the visitors.

The "Ineligibles" were very busy in the latter half of the second period and the game ended with the score 19 for the locals and 23 for the university.

The lineup and scores:

U. of M.	Pos.	D. B. C.
M. Harris	f	Johnson
McKeon	f	Boerner
Waldron	c	Paddock
Stevenson	g	Lathrop
Rosenwald	g	Solheim

Osman and Halsvord, Tomkeepers.

Referee—Ray Fenton. Timekeepers—Colton and Haroldson. Scorers—Obelinger, Ducy and Bush. Time of halves—20 minutes.

Summary—Duluth Boat club: Field goals—Paddock, 3; Johnson, 2; Boerner, 1; Solheim, 1. Free throws—Johnson, 5.

U. of M.: Field goals—Harris, 6; Waldron, 2; McKeon, 2. Free throws—Harris, 3.

BIG RECEPTION FOR KILBANE

Cleveland People Honor Man Who Is Now Lightweight Champion.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 18.—This city never saw such an outpouring of its population as that which yesterday marked the home-coming of Johnny Kilbane, who on Feb. 22 won the featherweight championship from Abe Attell at Los Angeles. It is said no president was ever greeted here as was Johnny.

At the depot the police had to fight a way through for Kilbane, who joined his wife and baby in a waiting automobile that headed a monster parade.

Holding his baby aloft and waving an American flag, Kilbane pursued his triumphant way. At the city hall Mayor Newton D. Baker reviewed the parade. At the Kilbane home it was only after a way had been cleared by the police that the champion managed to make his way into the house.

Brown vs. Redmond.

Windsor, Ont., March 18.—Pal Brown of Hibbing, Minn., and Jack Redmond of Milwaukee are scheduled to box eight rounds here next Wednesday night.

Pole Fails to Throw Greek.

San Francisco, Cal., March 18.—Stanislaus Zbyszko, the Polish wrestler, failed to throw William Demetral, Greek champion, twice in seventy-five minutes here, thereby losing the handicap match. The Pole weighed 235 and the Greek 195 pounds.

Is Allowed to Play Ball.

Aurora, Ill., March 18.—Frank Schaub, recently released from the Wisconsin state penitentiary on a parole which did not permit him to play ball, will get in the game this year after all. When Governor McGovern of Wisconsin learned the conditions of the parole, he notified Schaub he might join his club. Schaub is an outfielder of the Appleton club of the Wisconsin-Illinois league. He was sentenced for perjury.

McVey Beats Barry.

Sydney, N. S. W., March 18.—Sam McVey, the California pugilist, and heavyweight champion of Australia, easily defeated James Barry, the Chicago heavyweight, in a twenty-round contest here yesterday. McVey got the decision on points.

Wins Two-Mile Chase.

Paris, March 18.—Eugene Fischoff's Journaliste yesterday won the prix Amadou, a chase two miles and one-half furlongs, at the Auteuil track. The stake was valued at $1,000.

Leeds, N. D., School Row.

Leeds, N. D., March 18.—Claiming that it was impossible to work harmoniously together as long as one of the members of the present teaching corps is maintained as a teacher, Supt. K. M. Hagestad and the other six teachers in the school have presented a petition to the board of education, stating that either they or the eighth member of the corps must leave.

REAR ADMIRAL MELVILLE DEAD

Paralysis Causes Death of Noted Authority on Arctic Travel.

Philadelphia, March 18.—Rear Admiral George Wallace Melville, U. S. N., retired, died at his home here Sunday from paralysis. He was national commander of the Loyal Legion at the time of his death and was a noted authority on Arctic exploration as well as engineering and naval affairs.

Rear Admiral Melville, who was placed on the retired list Jan. 10, 1903, was 72 years old. For sixteen years he was chief of the bureau of steam engineering in the navy department. He was appointed an assistant engineer in the navy in 1861 and was a member of both the Jeanette and the Greely relief expeditions to the Arctic circle.

Among the colleges which conferred honorary degrees upon him in recognition of his scientific work, were the University of Pennsylvania, Harvard, Columbia, Georgetown and Stevens Institute.

He was a past president of both the American Academy of Mechanical Engineers and the American Society of Naval Engineers. At the time of his death, he was the president of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick. Interment will be made in Laurel Hill cemetery, this city, on Wednesday.

NO LONG TOURS FOR ROOSEVELT

Colonel Will Make Several Short Campaign Trips, He Says.

Oyster Bay, L. I., March 18.—The first information concerning the plan of campaign mapped out by the Roosevelt leaders at their conference in New York Friday and Saturday has been given by Col. Roosevelt. He said he had decided definitely to make a number of speeches in various parts of the country in the near future.

Col. Roosevelt said at the outset that he would not make a country-wide speaking tour. He thought such a thing inadvisable, and moreover the physical strain would be too great. It is his idea to make a number of comparatively short trips, so arranged that he will be able to speak in states where Roosevelt sentiment is believed to be strongest.

The speech before the Civic Forum in New York Wednesday night is first on the program. Later this week Col. Roosevelt will talk somewhere on the East side of New York, if a hall can be obtained. Early next week he will start on a short tour of the Middle West. Three speeches have been decided upon, to be made at Chicago, St. Paul or Minneapolis and St. Louis. Other stops may be arranged later.

In the week beginning March 31 Col. Roosevelt will go into New England. Speeches are to be made in Boston and Concord, N. H., with possibly one in Portland, Me., although Col. Roosevelt doubted whether he would be able to go to Maine before the primaries are held. A trip to Philadelphia and Newark, is to be made during the week of April 7.

None of the speaking dates has been definitely fixed. The Roosevelt campaign managers are at work upon the itineraries, which probably will not be completed for several days.

CO-OPERATIVE BAKERY

To Be Started in Minneapolis By the Labor Unions.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 18.—The first co-operative business enterprise ever undertaken by organized labor in Minneapolis for organized labor will be started today. The enterprise is a bakery, established, according to L. H. Day, an officer of the union, as a "result of recent discussion of possibilities of co-operation by working men in the production and purchase of the necessaries of life."

The company is incorporatde for $50,000, and stock is held only by members of organized labor. A number of local unions have subscribed stock from their treasuries, it is said.

WARRANT FOR POLICE HEAD

Keewatin Man Claims Chief Vagnais Beat Him Without Cause.

Procures Warrant at Hibbing and Engages Lawyer to Help Him.

Hibbing, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.) — Police Chief Jack Vagnais of Keewatin is facing arrest and prosecution on the charge of assaulting Matt Thompson, a miner employed at the Mississippi mine at Keewatin, if Thompson carries out his announced intention of prosecuting the officer.

Thompson came here today with his head bandaged and claims to have received several ugly cuts at the hands of the police chief, who he says assaulted him without provocation Saturday night. He visited an attorney here, engaged the lawer, procured a warrant for Vagnais' arrest and left for Keewatin. Thompson claims that the officer mistook him for someone else when he administered the beating and hints at a suit for damages, besides the criminal prosecution.

NO PROSECUTION OF JOHN INGDAHL

Woman Alleged to Have Been Lured to Hibbing Declines to Prosecute.

Hibbing, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Ingdahl, employed about the resort run by May Whitney on the Chisholm road, who was arrested on the charge of writing a letter to Eka Randd of Cheboygan, Mich., presumably to entire her here for immoral purposes, will not be prosecuted as an investigation puts a different phase on the matter. Instead of being prosecuted he may marry the woman.

The woman was taken to Virginia Saturday night by Deputy Sheriff Harry Little and told her story to County Attorney Boyle.

She declined to appear against Ingdahl and he was dismissed from custody yesterday.

Tells Different Story.

The woman told a somewhat different story to the assistant county attorney than she related at police headquarters in Hibbing Saturday. The letter written by Ingdahl was deciphered by three different Finnish interpreters at Virginia. Their version of it is that Ingdahl, who knew the woman at Cheboygan, wrote her to come to Hibbing to accept employment and told her that in case he did not meet her at the train she was to call up the Whitney place and inform him she had reached this city and later drive to the place. Ingdahl alleges he intended to marry Miss Randd and had no intention of placing her in the resort, but intended to place her in the home of some Finnish friends on the north side of the city, there to remain until she could secure apartments in the city and set up a dressmaking establishment. The woman flatly declined to prosecute Ingdahl.

SAINT'S MEMORY IS KEPT GREEN

Dan Lawler at Hibbing and Senator Boyle at Virginia Give Addresses.

Hibbing, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local division of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, assisted by the ladies' auxiliary, gave a St. Patrick's program Saturday night at the Power theater to an audience which taxed the capacity of the house. The seat sale opened at 10 o'clock Saturday morning and every seat in the house was disposed of within an hour.

The principal address of the evening was by D. W. Lawler of St. Paul, who was introduced by Judge Martin Hughes.

Following Mr. Lawler's address, there was a program to which W. R. Sponsley and a chorus contributed the singing of Olcott's "My Wild Irish Rose" in costume. This was followed by the singing of "Go Find a Sweetheart From the Emerald Isle," by Miss Myrtle Lavelle, George Kohrt and chorus. Then there was an old-fashioned Irish reel by eight young ladies and gentleman, which made a decided hit, and the farce "That Rascal Pat."

Senator Boyle's Tribute.

Virginia, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Many were turned away at the St. Patrick's day entertainment at the Lyric theater Saturday night, many nationalities being represented. The oration was delivered by Senator James P. Boyle. He lauded the achievements of the people of Irish birth and named many who have been prominent in American affairs from the signing of the Declaration of Independence down to today. He deplored the fact that not always have the Irish been entirely free from the charge of bigotry and urged broadmindedness and tolerance of others who have been reared to believe in a different creed. His address was short but he had his facts and statements well marshalled and received stirring applause at intervals and also at the close. There was a musical program and a three-act Irish comedy entitled "The Four-Leaved Shamrock." All in the cast of characters were local people.

Fine Gilbert Program.

Gilbert, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The St. Patrick's entertainment given Saturday evening in the Lyceum theater, Gilbert, was attended by a crowded house. The program was well received and the performers responded to many encores. The speaker of the evening, Hon. M. H. McMahon, was introduced in a few well-chosen remarks by A. E. McInnis.

Following is the program:

Irish Medley, orchestra; vocal solo, "Kathleen Mavourneen," Miss Mila Trace; flute solo, K. K. Tibbetts; male quartet, C. L. Newberry, F. Bowman, H. Hursh, F. Marshick. "In the Land of Heart's Desire," W. B. Yeats, Miss Margaret McCarthy; piano solo, "Believe Me, If All Those Endearing Young Charms," Mrs. W. Dowling; vocal solo, "Irish Lullaby," Miss Angela Schumacher; trombone solo, selected, Homer Hursh; quintet, "'Tis the Last Rose of Summer," Messrs. C. L. Newberry, H. Hursh, F. Bowman, F. Marshick and Miss M. Feyereisen; music, orchestra; lecture, M. H. McMahon.

Ely Has Dance.

Ely, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—St. Patrick was not forgotten by his many Ely admirers. His memory was kept green, not only by the wearing of the green, but by the annual St. Patrick's Day ball given by the Ely entertainers on Saturday evening in Turf hall. The decorations were in charge of Decorator Murphy, while Knutson's orchestra furnished the music.

ELY WHITE WAY IS BEING BUILT

Vermilion Range City Will Be Well Lighted From Depot to Hospital.

Ely, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The White Way will soon be a fact. The new lighting is to extend from the depot up First avenue to Sheridan street, up Sheridan street to the Shipman hospital. The intervening streets leading from First avenue to the east are to be included in the White Way for about two blocks. Also workmen are now engaged in moving the electric wires from the streets of the city to the alleys.

The Tuesday club will hold its regular meeting this week with Mrs. R. S. Miller. The club is now engaged in reading the book entitled "Keeping Up With Lizzie."

For several years the Sophomore cooking class of the high school has given a luncheon. Each member has the privilege of inviting five persons to the luncheon. The one inviting must cook the meal and must not permit more than 15 cents to be expended for all essentials for the meal served. This seems a practical way of reducing the cost of living. Tuesday they will serve the next luncheon.

Supt. Young's Gift.

A novel gift has been presented to County Superintendent of Schools Young by Miss Clara Rothleu and Supt. Barnes of the local schools. It is an exhibition of penmanship of the Ely grade schools. It consists of over forty specimens, each mounted on cardboard for exhibition purposes.

The Winton Sunday school will indulge in a trip around the world next Thursday evening. The party will meet at the church at 6:30 p. m. Experienced guides will be present to show them the wonders of Sweden, Scotland, Japan, and America.

The Ely lodge, Knights of Pythias, are planning on a banquet to be served the knights, their wives and sisters, at 7 o'clock Saturday evening in the I. O. O. F. hall. The lodge has been very successful in securing new members and this not only settles the rivalry between Companies A and B, but also serves to get all better acquainted.

CITY PARKS TO BE BEAUTIFIED

Virginia Park Board to Do Much Work During This Year.

Virginia, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—As soon as the condition of the ground will permit the city park board is ready to go ahead with extensive improvements in all the parks paying particular attention to the new park in the south end of the city.

As a large amount of tree and shrub planting will be done a large force of men will be employed to do the work quickly just as soon as frost conditions make planting practical.

PUPILS GIVE PROGRAM.

Fine Entertainment Held at McKinley Primary School.

McKinley, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the parents' meeting held at the primary school building Friday afternoon, the following program was rendered:

Song, kindergarten and primary children; folk dance, primary children; "White Hen's Mistake," (dramatization), primary pupils; kindergarten exercises; "Brown Puppy," Hugo Erickson; "Happity," Matt Schlochtic; talk, Mr. Bell; solo, Miss Trace; talk, Mrs. Farmer; piano solo, Miss Lively; sewing, refreshments.

The Misses Lively and Miller received the highest commendation for their indefatigable efforts in enlisting the interests of the parents in the meetings held as did Miss Heinrich, primary and kindergarten supervisor.

C. L. Newberry has been re-elected superintendent of School District No. 18 for the ensuing year.

C. Edwin Bell was re-elected principal of the McKinley-Elba division of School District No. 18.

WINSTON & DEAR TO BEGIN WORK

Planning to Resume Stripping Operations at Buffalo & Susquehanna.

Hibbing, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Winston & Dear, one of the largest firms of stripping contractors on the range, plan to resume operations at the Buffalo-Susquehanna mine in about ten days. Three shovels, working night and day shifts, will be started working at that time and others will be put on shortly after. The stripping operators believe there will be larger volume of this work done in the Hibbing district this year than last. While the impression prevails that the work of removing the overburden from the Webb mine will begin this year, tenders for the work have not yet been called for by the Steel corporation. This is one of the last big stripping projects in this vicinity.

PRLINA DECLINES TO ENTER HOSPITAL

Hibbing Consumptive Refuses to Take Treatment and Returns Home.

Hibbing, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rado Prlina, reported to be in the last stages of tuberculosis of the lungs, and whose boarding house was ordered closed by the health authorities last week has returned from Duluth, where he had been taken after consenting to enter the county hospital. After reaching Duluth Prlina changed his mind and flatly refused to go to the institution. There is no law to compell him to do so and accordingly he was left to his own resources. In the opinion of physicians Prlina has only a few weeks to live. Arrangements had been made to have his wife and their children go to Duluth and remain with him while he lived.

The home of the Prlina's had been closed and boarded up and they are now living with neighbors. The health authorities will take steps at once to isolate Prlina, but they cannot compell him to go to the hospital.

French Location Conditions.

The publicity given the case has attracted attention to the sanitary conditions at the French location, which, despite the constant vigilance of the health department, are terrible beyond belief. The location residents for the most part are foreigners of the poorest class. Large families live huddled together in cramped apartments. Men, women, children, pigs and chickens live together in some of the shacks. There have been numerous cases of tuberculosis there within the past year and other diseases are frequent.

Specially Trachoma.

The local health officer has worked a revolution in the sanitary conditions, not only at the French, but at the other locations during his term of office. His efficiency is attested by the fact that during the past three years there has not been in Hibbing an epidemic of contagious disease.

The element with which the health department has to contend among the poorer classes at some of the locations is one of the most obstinate in the country. The people seem to revel in filth and squalor. They resent interference by the health department and its executives and the most constant attention is necessary to maintain a semblance of regard for the fundamentals of cleanliness and sanitary living.

The Prlina case, with others which have recently been brought to the attention of the health authorities here, have aroused a public sentiment which, it is believed, will go far to securing better conditions.

TYPHOID CLAIMS TWO IN ONE DAY

Old Conductor and Former Brainerd Girl Die at Two Harbors.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—That the typhoid epidemic which has come upon this city has not yet passed the critical stage is evidenced by the fact that the disease claimed two victims yesterday.

Conductor E. L. Blood died at his home on Third avenue about 10 in the morning. Mr. Blood had been sick for only about two weeks. He was an old employe of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, having worked here eighteen years. He was about 45 years of age, and was a member of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. The funeral will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the First Methodist church.

Former Brainerd Girl Dies.

Miss Alma Peterson died of the typhoid fever at about 6:10 last night at the Budd hospital. She had been very sick for about three weeks. She was a Brainerd girl, who came to Two Harbors, several months ago, entering into the employ of W. N. Moulton.

MILD

Well, Genevieve, spring has come. The bright sun shines, the snow takes on a dirty, worn-out appearance, the muddy water runs down the avenues and the light coats and nobby hats appear in the store windows. As a quiet tip to the boys and girls from one who knows the Duluth spring as it is, it might be remarked that one should not take 'em off or put the furs in storage just yet. It may be by Easter—but Easter comes early this year. More mild weather tonight, with slightly colder temperatures Tuesday, is the weather man's prediction.

Raw, cold March weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 6:18 and it will set at 6:17 this evening, giving twelve hours and two minutes of sunlight. The day and night are nearly equal length even though March 21 is supposed to be the first day of spring.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the last twenty-four to forty-eight hours rain or snow fell over Upper Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Montana, Idaho, Washington, Oregon and Northern California in connection with the barometric depressions centered this morning over Quebec and Southern Alberta. Light to heavy rain also fell over Central and Northern Florida. Temperatures are generally rather moderate and closer to the normal than for some time. At the Head of the Lakes there is a likelihood of the weather turning somewhat colder during Tuesday."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, March 18.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m Tuesday:

Upper Michigan—Fair tonight and Tuesday; moderate temperature.

Wisconsin, South Dakota—Generally fair tonight and Tuesday; moderate temperature.

Iowa—Generally fair tonight and Tuesday; warmer in east portion tonight.

North Dakota—Unsettled weather tonight and Tuesday; colder in north portion.

Montana—Unsettled weather with rain or snow tonight or Tuesday; colder in east portion tonight.

Minnesota—Fair tonight, probably becoming unsettled Tuesday; colder in north portion Tuesday.

Shippers' forecast: Protect thirty-six-hour shipments of perishables against minimum temperatures 10 deg to 20 deg. above zero in the Dakotas, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

MR. YOUNGDAHL HIRES SPECIAL

Hurries From Hibbing to Minneapolis Because of Mrs. Youngdahl's Sickness.

Hibbing, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The sudden illness of Mrs. Youngdahl, wife of T. A. Youngdahl, president of the Minnesota Anti-Saloon league, prevented Mr. Youngdahl from completing his Hibbing engagements yesterday and necessitated Mr. Youngdahl hiring a special train to Duluth to catch the late night trains for the Twin Cities.

Mr. Youngdahl spoke yesterday morning and would have addressed other meetings in the afternoon and evening but for the unwelcome news he received from Minneapolis that Mrs. Youngdahl was in a very critical condition there. He left her last Thursday, he said, in normal health, and he was at loss to understand the purport of the message. As the regular train had left for Duluth, Mr. Ringdahl hired a special train from the Missabe road and made record time to Duluth, where he caught the night train for Minneapolis. Several weeks ago when Mr. Youngdahl was on his way here to speak he was prevented from coming from Duluth because of the sudden death in the Union depot of Rev. Mr. McKenzie, an old friend from Mankato.

CLOSE GATES AT DAM.

Water Is Raising in Water Barrier at Tower.

Tower, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The gates at the new municipal dam were closed Saturday preparatory to raising the water to a head sufficient to start up the new machinery for lighting the city. The old steam plant in town is about worn out and service has been very poor the several evenings of late.

The work of remodeling the manse of the St. James' Presbyterian church for club room purposes has begun. The church will rent it to the young people's club of the city. One of the rooms will be made large enough for dancing purposes and the accommodation of a pool table.

TACONITE JOTTINGS

Taconite, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. J. Smith and daughter, Helen, were Grand Rapids callers last week.

Miss Nora Byrnes was a Coleraine caller last Thursday.

Mrs. W. McCumber and Miss Bernice Dowd were Marble callers last week.

Misses Lily Hielly and Margaret Byrnes were Grand Rapids callers last week.

Dan Cassidy was a Duluth caller last week.

Mr. Derosha is at the home of Mr. and Mrs. August Huhn.

Mrs. Winberg and Mrs. Lunquist of Second avenue. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Peterson of Brainerd, will arrive here today. Miss Peterson was about 21 years of age. The remains will be shipped later to Brainerd for interment.

The funeral of Adolph Hedin, who died of the typhoid last week was held from the Swedish Methodist church yesterday.

The funeral of Mrs. Elisa Symons will be held tomorrow morning at 7:30 from the First Methodist church. The remains will be taken to Tower for interment.

PROFIT IN TUBERS.

A. J. McGuire Tells of Great Possibilities Offered Farmers.

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.) — A. J. McGuire, superintendent of the Northeast experiment farm here, has issued a statement in which he says that the potato crop for the coming year will be the greatest in the history of Northern Minnesota, and that it will be second only to the dairying interests.

He presents figures showing that to produce potatoes, the total cost per acre is $25, while the average yield on experiments which he has made has been 250 bushels. At an average of 50 cents per bushel, this leaves an average profit of $75 per acre.

MARRIES IN IDAHO.

Miss Anna Sharpe of Eveleth Weds in Idaho.

Eveleth, Minn., March 18.—The Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, Journal of Feb. 24, speaking of the marriage there of Miss Anna Sharpe of Eveleth to James E. Rentschaler, says:

"Mrs. Rentschaler is well and favorably known to several Eureka families with whom she was acquainted in the East, while Mr. Rentschlar is one of the popular young men of this city and for the past three years has been employed as sawyer for the Eureka Lumber company and during his stay here has made many friends who unite with the Journal in extending congratulations and in welcoming the happy couple to make their home in our midst."

"CASE-HARDENED" AD MAN WRITES

Who else would dare make this offer?

We quote from a letter from H. M. Johnson, Vice-President of the Daily Republic, Rockford, Illinois.

"In the twenty-seven years that it has been my business to deal with copy of all kinds I have never seen more convincing, logical and forceful ads than those you are sending out. They have a ring of sincerity and the statements have the tone of being a recital of facts that should inspire confidence. They have so impressed a case-hardened ad man that he is exceedingly curious to know if it really does the wonderful things recited."

In reply we sent Editor Johnson some convincing literature, following it up with the statement that if he knew of a definite case of Bright's Disease, a worthy person to whom our aid would mean something, that we would send a course of Fulton's Renal Compound in an attempt to establish the genuineness of the claims made in the very shadows of the Republic's Editorial Rooms. We added that we do not claim recoveries in all cases and might make a failure, but that we would take the chance, and trusted within three months to show such results that the patient would be in comfort and would have a new heart and courage in the reasonable probability that recovery could ultimately be had.

Ask yourself this question—would anybody else in the world dare make this offer?

Monitor Monterey Struck By Bullets Fired By the Chinese.

Marines Are Landed at Swatow to Quiet Outbreak.

Swatow, China, March 18.—A detachment of marines from the United States monitor Monterey was landed here today in consequence of the continuous disturbances all over the city and the threatening attitude of some of the natives. The marines have taken charge of the customs house.

Heavy fighting between the Hakka tribesmen and the troops from Canton went on for eight hours today in the streets of the city. Forty natives are known to have been killed during the fighting, but it is believed that the casualties far exceed that number.

A shot from one of the combatants, who were firing wildly, killed a bluejacket on a Japanese warship in the harbor, while several other bullets struck the United States monitor Monterey.

Reports from Wai Chow say that the troops there are mutinous.

Hong Kong, March 18. — Two hundred insurgents were executed at Canton yesterday, near Sha- Meen, the foreign quarter. Late reports say that operations have been suspended temporarily in Canton, but that there has been severe fighting at Swatow, 225 miles from Canton, between the Hakka tribesmen and Cantonese troops.

Tang Shao Yi Distrusted.

Pekin, March 18. — Premier Tang Shao Yi has left here for Nanking. Certain of the foreign ministers who have met Tang Shao Yi, considered him something of a visionary. The four-powers group of financiers, though perhaps with some bias, are of the opinion that his financial policy is dangerous and accuse him of trickiness in negotiating the present loans with which he was entrusted.

The southern delegation generally has disappointed the diplomatic representatives, as, with one exception, they were apparently without experience.

WANTS STATE TO HELP IN FIGHT ON TRACHOMA.

St. Paul, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the meeting of the state board of health tomorrow, Dr. H. M. Bracken, secretary, will make recommendation that the state employ an eye specialist to co-operate with those of the federal government in endeavoring to suppress trachoma among the Indians on the White Earth reservation. He will also recommend that a complete investigation of existing conditions there be made.

The proposed action against residents of Anoka for dumping sewage into Rum river, a tributary of the Mississippi, and thereby contaminating the source of Minneapolis' water supply, also will come up for discussion.

DULUTH MAN AMONG DEAD

Christ Dahl's Body Among Those Recovered From the Maine.

Among the bodies recovered from the wreck of the Main are the remains of one Duluth man.

Christ Dahl, a brother of Harry Dahl, a well known retail meat dealer whose place of business is at 1030 West First street, was a seaman on board the Maine when the vessel was destroyed. Harry Dahl was also in the Spanish-American war, and was on board the cruiser Baltimore, with Dewey's squadron. Mr. Dahl today received word from a close chum of his dead brother, who was a sailor on the Maine and escaped, that Christ's body was probably among those recovered, as one skeleton had been found with a ring on a finger which answered the description of the ring worn by Christ. Mr. Dahl will leave this afternoon for Washington to claim the body.

INDIANS' WANTS TOLD TO MILLER

Representative Gets Copy of Resolutions Adopted at Leech Lake.

Washington, March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—A copy of resolutions adopted at a council of the Leech Lake Indians last week was received by Representative Miller today. SEES EARLY FINISH OF THE NOBLE RED MAN OF THE AMERICAN FOREST

A recent report from Sitka of the ravages of pulmonary diseases among the Indians of Alaska makes timely the question: "What is being done to preserve the records of the American natives for posterity?" The American Indian is approaching, if indeed he has not already reached, the last stage of his native existence. Either he is gradually disappearing, or he is adopting the white man's civilization, and adapting himself to it. In both cases the records of his own civilization will be lost unless something is done, and done speedily. Much has been done, much is being done. Of this I am perfectly aware.

Indian languages have been studied —we have even preserved eighteenth century vocabularies of vanished tribes like the Algonquins. The culture, arts and industries, the domestic and social organization, the customs, games and pastimes, the work and play of the Amerind have been described time and again. His history has been traced as far back as his civilization has made possible. Explorers, missionaries, settlers, Indian fighters, army officers, and later scientists have gradually accumulated a valuable volume of information.

The camera has been brought into play. The series of photographs made by E. S. Curtis for J. Pierpont Morgan practically stands first here. Our museums have their Indian collections; and last of all, a beginning has been made with the phonographic registering of Indian music.

This mention of the phonograph leads me to my point, which is that we have not yet begun to take a systematic living record of the Indian in all the phases of his life. Description of it in books, drawings and photographs are well enough, but moving pictures would still be better. Vocabularies and grammars are indispensable, but phonographic records of vanishing tongues would be better still, even for the information of linguistic specialists.

The question of the origin of the American native is as yet one of the mysteries of ethnology. We shall wish to solve it even after that native has been assimilated or has ceased to exist. And a complete set of living records may in the future prove of the greatest value in solving the problem.

When speaking of the American Indian, we in this country are apt to overlook the Indians of Canada, and still more, those of Central and South America. It is in the latter field especially that speedy and organized action is necessary. The field there is as vast as it is unexploited. We need not hope to penetrate for a long time to come the veil that covers the prehistoric remains of Peru. What matters just now are the records of the living Indians of all the Americas who are still leading their aboriginal lives in more or less the adulterated form. The field is too vast for private undertaking, too vast for the resources of the Modern Historic Records association, whose chief aim is the making and preservation of just such records as these. The forming of similar associations in different parts of the world is already being discussed, but its realization will take time, and the organization of co-operation between them all still longer.

Meantime, no feature of the life of the present is vanishing faster into the past than the native civilization of the American Indians, from the sub-arctic to Patagonia. Cannot the government at Washington, the leading power on this continent, be petitioned to put itself into communication with the other governments north and south of it for the purpose of establishing an inter-American system for the taking and preservation and exchange of the living records of the vanishing American Indians? The Modern Historic Records association would gladly place at the service of the movement such resources as it has already at its command in the beginning of its existence.

ALEXANDER KEATA,
Chairman Executive Committee, the Modern Historic Records association.

PLAN TO STOP INBREEDING OF DEFECTIVES

Segregation of Feeble-Minded as a Check to Criminality —Harm Worked By Injudicious Jail Sentences— Present Methods Lead to Endless Repetition.

By HENRY H. GODDARD,
Director Department of Research, Training School, Vineland, N. J.

(Exclusive Service The Survey Press Bureau.)

Three hundred thousand persons in the United States are feeble-minded. Five hundred thousand have not sufficient intelligence to manage their own affairs with ordinary prudence; are unable to compete with their fellows on equal terms and thereby to earn livelihoods.

This army furnishes the recruits for the ranks of the criminals, paupers, prostitutes, drunkards, the ne'er-do-wells and others who are social misfits. Their incapacity would be a priori cause for believing that they eventually will become public charges in one form or another and investigation, in fact, proves that the groups of criminals, paupers, prostitutes, etc, actually do contain large percentages of people mentally irresponsible.

Actual tests in our reformatories for girls and boys show that at least 25 per cent of them are distinctly feeble-minded. Of 100 consecutive admissions at the state reform school for boys at Rahway, N. J., twenty-six were feeble-minded. Nearly as many more were border-line cases. Fifty-six girls who had been inmates of the Massachusetts reformatory, but who had been released on probation were examined. They were selected because of their bad conduct and inability to remain in homes found for them. All but four were distinctly feeble-minded. Of 100 youths in the detention home of the Newark juvenile court, we found only one who had average normal mentality, and sixty-six were beyond question feeble-minded.

In view of these conditions how inadequate has been our treatment of these cases in the past? A man, woman or youth is brought before the court, convicted of petty thievery, sentenced for sixty days, serves his time and goes free. What has been accomplished? Nothing! The chances were one in four at least that he was so mentally deficient that he was incapable of knowing the right from the wrong. Two months in jail can have no possible effect on him. He comes out with the same weak mind. His time served he is set free and in a few weeks or days is again before the court.

The writer examined eight women in one of the best county almshouses to be found. All had given birth to feeble-minded children within six weeks of each other. The superintendent said that of 105 children born there within a period of five years, 102 were feeble-minded.

Our government spends hundreds of thousands dollars examining immigrants to see that none who are feeble-minded are admitted, but here is a group already in our country who are breeding a race of feeble-minded people more dangerous than many barred by the immigration inspectors. We spend thousands of dollars to determine whether Harry Thaw is criminal or crazy that we may know whether to send him to the hospital, we are pretty particular not to make any mistake in such cases as his, but here's an army of law-breakers as to whom it is a serious question whether the punishment be sixty days in jail or permanent care where they will be happy and harmless. Yet little is done to determine their responsibility and we made mistakes without blushing.

What then is to be done? The state should establish stations where these cases may all be carefully and critically studied so that the courts and other authorities may be able to act intelligently upon the facts. After these cases have been discovered they must be removed from that environment in which it has been proved they are incapable of living normal lives, in accordance with the conventions of society. They must be colonized in groups where they may be perfectly happy and somewhat useful. Only one limitation need be placed upon them in these places and that is they must never become parents.

Our studies at Vineland have shown that 65 per cent of feeble-minded people are the children of feeble-minded people. There is at Vineland a feeble-minded boy who had as parents a normal father and a feeble-minded mother. As a result of this marriage we have seven feeble-minded children, four others that died at infancy and there were two miscarriages. If we trace back as far as the grandparents, this is the fourth child of this strain that is in our institution. The condition is strongly hereditary. If feeble-minded people are allowed to become parents they will bring into the world another group like themselves.

We are discussing a possible state policy. We are not looking to the immediate solution of this condition but to the gradual reduction of our present troubles and the prevention of them hereafter. As already stated we must carefully examine all cases that come to public notice. But many parents are either normal or of such a high grade of defectiveness that they never get into court and yet have feeble-minded children. We cannot touch these adults. We must somehow get hold of their children.

Our compulsory education laws bring every child before school officials. Each will be examined as to his mental development. If he be normal he will go to school as now; if he be merely backward he will be placed in a special class; if he be an idiot or an imbecile his condition will be recorded; if he be a borderline case he may be sent to school, but he must be watched. At the proper time the parents must be informed of the condition of the child and of the willingness of the state to take care of it in a colony. When these are located within a reasonable distance a great many parents will become willing to allow their children to be cared for. To those who are unwilling the state can say: "We insist that you shall care for him, see that he does not get into mischief and above all that he does not become a parent. Whenever we find that you are neglecting this duty, then we shall take him and place him in a colony.'

Some will say that such a policy would involve endless expense. It is true that it will cost money, but so does the crime that we now have to endure. Furthermore it must not be forgotten that when these mentally defective persons are trained to do things rather than to read from books, many of them have become self-supporting under direction.

We may reasonably hope that a policy of segregation carefully followed will in a generation or two largely reduce our feeble-minded population and thereby our problems of criminals, prostitution, disease, drunkenness and crime.

HAS BILL FOR NATIONAL PRIMARY

Senator Cummins of Iowa Introduces Measure in the Senate.

Washington, March 18.—Senator Cummins of Iowa today introduced in the senate a presidential primary bill, the effect of which would be to do away with local, state and national conventions of the various political parties.

The plan of Senator Cummins is to have a national primary July 8 next, to be followed each four years with a national primary election upon the second Monday of July.

The bill would require primary elections of candidates for president, vice president and presidential electors.

All candidates would be required to file their nomination papers forty-five days prior to the primary, in order to have their names appear on the ballots.

LEGAL NOTICES.

Sale of School and Other State Lands

STATE OF MINNESOTA, STATE AUDitor's office, St. Paul, March 4, 1912.

Notice is hereby given that on April 17, 1912, at 10 o'clock A. M., in the office of the County Auditor, at Duluth, St. Louis County, in the State of Minnesota, I will offer for sale certain unsold state lands and also those state lands which have reverted to the state by reason of the non-payment of interest.

Terms: Fifteen per cent of the purchase price and interest on the unpaid balance from date of sale to June 1, 1913, must be paid at the time of sale. The balance of purchase money is payable in whole or in part on or before forty years from date of sale. The rate of interest on the unpaid balance is four per cent per annum, payable in advance on June 1st of each year, provided the principal remains unpaid for ten years; but if the principal is paid within ten years from the date of sale, the rate of interest will be computed at five per cent per annum.

Appraised value of timber, if any, must also be paid at time of sale.

Lands on which the interest is delinquent may be redeemed at any time up to the hour of sale, or before resale to an actual purchaser.

All mineral rights are reserved by the laws of the state.

Not more than 320 acres can be sold or contracted to be sold to any one purchaser.

Lists of lands to be offered may be obtained of the State Auditor or the State Commissioner of Immigration at St. Paul, and of the County Auditor at above address.

SAMUEL G. IVERSON,
State Auditor.

D. H., March 11, 18, 25, April 1, 1912.

SCHOOL BUILDING

Eveleth, Minn., March 15, 1912.

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Board of Education of School District No. 39, St. Louis County, Minn., up to Monday, April 1st, at 12:00 o'clock noon for the construction of the new Lincoln School Building at Eveleth, Minn., according to plans and specifications prepared by Bray & Nystrom, Architects, Duluth, Minnesota.

A certified check for five (5) per cent of the amount of the proposal, made payable to Albert Rohrer, Treasurer, must accompany same, to be forfeited if Contractor fails to execute contract if awarded to him.

Proposal must be addressed to H. S. Sherman Secretary, and on the outside of envelope must be marked "Proposal for General Work," "Proposal for Plumbing," or "Proposal for Heating and Ventilating" as the case may be.

Plans may be had at the office of the Architects upon the deposit of a certified check for $25.00. This check to be forfeited if the Contractor does not return plans and specifications to the Architects, in good condition, on or before April 15, 1912.

The Board of Education reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

D. H., March 15, 16 and 18, 1912.

RECEIPTS OF WHEAT LESS

Falling Off of Country Arrivals Alarms Shorts—Prices Higher.

Bullish Foreign Flaxseed News Causes an Upward Movement Here.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 18.—There was an upward movement of wheat on the principal markets of this continent today, due in part to bullish foreign news, and partly to falling off of receipts from the country on the American markets, in comparison with a year ago. Duluth May wheat closed today at an advance of ⅝c to ½c over the closing figures of Saturday. Cash wheat closed ½c over May. Durum closed 1c up and oats, rye and barley were unchanged. All the Duluth flaxseed futures closed at gains of 2c over Saturday.

Wheat was bullish on the markets of North America this morning. For the first time in many days, the primary American receipts showed a falling off in comparison with those of a year ago. There was a decrease of 1,368,000 bu in the American visible supply from what there was a week ago. This is a fairly large decrease. The demand for Canadian wheat on the Liverpool market was brisk. Small wheat shipments were reported from Argentina.

Duluth May wheat, which closed Saturday at $1.05⅝-1.05½ asked, opened today at $1.05⅝ bid, and at noon was selling for $1.05⅞-1.06. There were also bullish quotations from Chicago, Minneapolis and Winnipeg.

Wheat on the market of Buenos Ayres opened this morning ¾c to 1½c higher than Saturday's close. Liverpools wheat was bulled by the fear that the coal strike would cause a falling off in the Argentine shipments after March 31, and this, together with the small supplies on hand in the British markets, caused no little apprehension. Reports from India were less favorable. Cargoes were light and there was a free buying demand for them from the continent. Liverpool wheat today closed ¾d to 1¼d higher.

Flax Trading Is Better.

Light offerings of flax, and higher quotations from both Argentina and Canada caused a bullish movement on the Duluth market today. The demand was better than it has been for many days. At noon today Duluth May flax was 2c up and July was 1½c up. Winnipeg May flax at noon was 1c up at $1.86 bid. Buenos Ayres March flax closed Saturday at $1.75¾, being unchanged from Friday, but this morning it opened 1c up.

FLAXSEED.

The price of flaxseed at Duluth has been very steady and rather inclined to rise during the week ending last Saturday. The strength was not due to any improvement in the demand. This has continued very poor. The lowness of the receipts has kept up the price. Minneapolis has frequently bid a little above the Duluth price, and the bulk of the seed from the American farms has been going to that city. Duluth has been going to that city. Duluth has not cared to bid very high for the seed, because there has been so little sale for it. At this season of the year Minneapolis has quite an advantage, because of the large crushing factories that are located there. At the same time navigation is closed and there are no prospects for an early opening. Moreover, Canadian and Argentine flaxseed have been flowing into Eastern markets at the United States at prices that would not pay Duluth dealers to place it there by rail. Hence, it is not surprising that Duluth dealers have been very conservative, both in buying and selling and have been confining themselves with selling to crushers whose plants are near enough to make it pay.

All last week the price of flaxseed on the Buenos Ayres market kept going down, making a decline of nearly 6c for the March option during the week. On Saturday the March option at Buenos Ayres closed at $1.75¾. The Duluth market paid no attention to this decline. Duluth has not enough flaxseed to be able to meet the competition of Buenos Ayres at New York and other Far Eastern markets of the United States. Duluth and Argentine flaxseed are not coming into competition just now to any extent worth mentioning. Even the Port Arthur flaxseed taken a back-seat on the coast markets, since the Argentine article seed takes a back-seat on the coast quantities. Farther west, at Buffalo, and through the region, the Canadian product sells at better advantage. Little of the Duluth product reaches even as far east as that. Of late very little Duluth flaxseed has gone farther east than Chicago.

Duluth flaxseed has been closely following the quotations at Winnipeg, the margin between the two markets remaining almost constant. Port Arthur flaxseed has been crowding the Duluth article quite closely in the region of the United States just west of the Chicago north and south line. The Canadian flaxseed, however, has not been of such a quality as to crowd that of Duluth and nearer home than that. Very little of the Canadian seed has thus far been sold on the Duluth market.

The average of the closing prices of Duluth cash flaxseed for last week is $2.04, against an average of $2.03 for the week before and $2.01 for the week before that. The movements of flaxseed on the Duluth market during the week closing last Saturday are told in figures in the tables below:

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Price Goes Up on Strike Conditions in England.

Chicago, March 18.—Strike conditions in England with prospects of wheat shipments being delayed made the cereal here bulge today in price. The advance brought out free commission selling, and resulted in a sharp backset, which, however, proved to be only temporary. The bulls were encouraged by the fact that crop advices from India were less favorable, and that there was promise of a fairly good decrease in the United States visible supply total. On the other hand, Northwestern receipts were large and the weather auspicious throughout the winter wheat belt. The opening was ⅛c to ⅜@½c higher. May started at $1.01⅞@1.01⅝, a gain of ⅛@¼c to ⅜@½c reacted to $1.00¾@1.01 and then rallied to $1.01¼@1.01⅜.

Additional gains resulted from persistent buying attributed in part to the presence of an Italian fleet near the Dardanelles. The close was firm with May at $1.01⅝@1.01¾, a net advance of 1½c.

Fine weather weakened corn. Strength of wheat, though, proved more than an offset. May opened unchanged to ⅛c lower at 69½@69⅝c, touched 69¼@69⅜c and ascended to 69¾@69⅞c.

A further advance followed on account of shorts covering. The close was strong at 70⅝c for May, just 1c over Saturday night.

Plentiful offerings kept oats depressed. May started a shade to ¼c off at 52½c to 52⅝@52⅜c, sank to 52⅜c and recovered to 52¾c.

Hog products suffered from the bearish influence of a decline at the yards. There was just a fair trade. Initial sales varied from 5@7½c down to a shade advance, with July options $16.30 for pork, $9.60 for lard and $9.05@9.07½ to $9.07½ for ribs.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Firmer on Overselling, Foreign Strength and Lower Supply.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 18.—A slightly oversold condition, foreign strength and a material decrease in the visible supply made wheat firmer today. Local receipts still heavy but decrease expected soon. May closed ½c higher than Saturday; July ⅝c higher, and September ½c higher. Local elevator stocks decreased 90,000 bushels for two days.

Carlot wheat receipts follow: Minneapolis today, 408; week ago, 377; year ago, 301. Duluth today, 24; week ago, 14; year ago, 3. Winnipeg today, 667; week ago, 755; year ago, 243.

Cash wheat was in good demand and steady. Offerings liberal and mills active buyers. No. 1 northern sold for 1@1¼c above the May contract.

Millstuffs — Shipments, 2,351 tons. Market steady. Bran in active demand; other feed slow.

Wheat: May opened $1.05⅜ to $1.05⅝; high, $1.06⅛@1.06¼; low, $1.05¼; closed, $1.06. July opened, $1.07; high, $1.07⅛@1.07⅜; low, $1.06⅜; closed $1.07⅛. Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., March 18.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: There were several dealers from points in Washington and British Columbia looking over the horse offerings, and some nice sales were booked. The retail demand continues satisfactory, and there was a large clearance in agricultural classes. Receipts were not as heavy as a week ago. While values are somewhat firmer, they have made no market advance over recent quotations. Values as follows:

Drafters, extra	$185@245
Drafters, choice	120@185
Drafters, common to good	90@115
Farm mares and horses, extra	140@175

London Stocks.

London, March 18.—American securities opened steady at irregular prices today. Later the market improved on fair buying and at noon the tone was steady and values ranged from ⅛ to ⅛ below Saturday's New York closing.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Vigorous Strength Shown in Afternoon and Trading Is Active.

Best Prices of the Day Are Made in the Last Hour.

New York, March 18.—The stock market showed some disposition to recover from Saturday's heaviness at the opening today. The active issues made substantial fractional gains, Amalgamated Copper advancing ½ with smaller gains in Reading, Union Pacific and United States Steel. Missouri Pacific opened with an advance of ⅝, which it soon extended to a full point. Opening declines were recorded by Illinois Central, American Smelting, Lehigh Valley and American Car and Foundry.

Amalgamated Copper was the strongest of the active stocks in the first hour, recovering practically all of last Saturday's decline. Coal stocks were under some pressure, especially Reading, and Illinois Central's weakness was more acute. Missouri Pacific was the feature of the minor railway shares, increasing its early lead. Trading became dull and featureless towards the end of the first hour.

The activity in the Eries was the subject of general comment, but aside from evidence of further accumulation of these shares the street was without plausible explanation. There is a fixed belief, however, that this property, like Missouri Pacific, has a more assured future. Erie common was the feature of the early session, its sales in the first hour far exceeding United States Steel.

American Can common and preferred were among the strongest of the industrials with some weakness in International Harvester. Reading and Lehigh Valley improved their positions and the leaders as a whole developed a better tone. The dullness, however, denoted uncertainty and caution. Bonds were steady.

Increased activity at better prices occurred during the noon hour, following the receipt of word from Washington that no decisions of importance would be rendered by the supreme court today. United States Steel and other leaders advanced sharply, but dullness again ensued, even though the advance was fairly well sustained.

Various groups of stocks began to show vigorous strength in the afternoon, and the market generally gave a good account of itself. United States Steel rose steadily and touched 67⅛. Harriman and Hill stocks also were in favor, and the other well known issues were all conspicuous at intervals.

The market closed strong. Best prices of the day were made in the last hour. Amalgamated Copper, United States Steel, Union Pacific and American Smelting gained from 1 to over 2 points. Prices shaded in the final dealings.

The Cotton Market.

New York, March 18.—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 1 point on March and of 5@9 points on later positions in response to lower cables than expected, reports of much more favorable weather in the South and liquidation by buyers of last week. Right after the call active months generally sold about 7 to 10 points under the closing figures of yesterday, but good support was met at this decline and prices later ruled nervous and irregular with the market working up 2 or 3 points from the lowest. Liverpool houses appeared to be buyers of old crop positions while leading bulls bought October. New Orleans and Memphis appeared to be sellers of new crop positions.

Spot closed quiet, 5 points lower; middling uplands 10.60; middling gulf, 10.85. Sales 1,000 bales.

Futures closed barely steady. Closing bids: March, 10.28; April, 10.25; May, 10.33; June, 10.39; July, 10.44; August, 10.44; September, 10.40; October, 10.46; November, 10.45; December, 10.52; January, 10.49; February, 10.48.

Slump in Russian Stocks.

St. Petersburg, March 18.—The uncertainty of the situation in the Balkans and the movements of Russian and Turkish troops caused a heavy slump on the bourse today.

New York Money.

New York, March 16. — Money on call steady, 2¾@2½ per cent; ruling rate 2⅝ per cent; closing bid, 2⅜ per cent; offered at 2½ per cent. Time loans, firm; 60 days 3@3¼ per cent and 90 days, 3¼@3½ per cent; six months, 3½@3¾ per cent. Closed: Prime mercantile paper, 4 to 4½ per cent. Sterling exchange steady with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.84.25 for 60 days and at $4.87.45 for demand. Commercial bills, $4.83½. Mexican dollars, 47c. Government bonds steady. Railroad bonds steady.

FOUR NEW MEXICAN SOLONS ARE ARRESTED ON BRIBERY CHARGE

Accused of Taking $500 Each for Their Votes for Senator.

All Walk Into Trap and Are Caught With Money Upon Them.

Write Resignations to Be Read at Meeting of House.

Santa Fe, N. M., March 19.—The "trap" in which four members of the house were caught and arrested charged with accepting bribes today was declared by the accused men to have been set by themselves to catch the "higher ups."

The first ballot for two United States senators resulted in a deadlock. There was no election today.

Albuquerque, N. M., March 19.—Four members of the New Mexico legislature were arrested last night in Santa Fe, charged with accepting bribes to vote for certain candidates for United States senator, the first vote on which will be taken by the legislature today. Bribes amounting to $500 each are said to have been paid them.

The arrest of the legislators, all members of the house of representatives, was effected by means of a ruse, and came as a climax to dickerings extending over several days, it is alleged.

Those arrested were Representatives Julian Trujillo and J. R. Lucero of Rice, Arraba county, and Manuel Cordova and Luis Montoya of Taos county. They are alleged to have been caught with the money in their possession. The arrests were made by Territorial Mounted Policeman A. A. Sena in a room at the Palace hotel in Santa Fe, where the men met by appointment.

Immediately after their arrest the

TAFT INVADES BASS' STATE

Goes to Make Series of Short Speeches in New Hampshire.

Boston, Mass., March 19.—President Taft left Boston at 8:55 today for New Hampshire to "invade" the state of Governor Bass, one of the state executives who has announced that he will support Col. Roosevelt.

During the day the president expected to lay the cornerstone of a Y. M. C. A. building at Nashua and make an address in the Colonial theater there; speak to the French-American league; hold a reception in honor of Governor Bass and his staff at Concord, and address the citizens of the New Hampshire capital in Phoenix hall. The president is due back in Boston late this afternoon and will leave for Washington tonight.

In an address to the Charitable Irish society last night the president praised the Irish for their adaptability in becoming Americans, and added a word about the evident belief of that race in the stability of American institutions.

In this connection he said it is a "well known fact that Socialism and anarchy have found no lodgment among Irishmen. They believe in constituted authority; they believe in the preservation of the checks and balances of our constitutional structure. Not from them do we hear proposals to change the fundamental law, to take away the independence of the judiciary or to minimize in any way the influence and power of constituted authority. They welcome progress; they are enterprising and active to further prosperity. They are not full of diatribes against the existing order. They are not reaching out for new gods of government. They are not seeking to invest a new society and turn the present topsy-turvy. They are on the side of law and order. They value it; they will fight to preserve it."

KAISER WILL NOT TRAVEL

Churchill's Speech in London May Be Cause of German's Action.

Berlin, March 19.—Emperor William has most unexpectedly postponed his departure for Vienna, Venice and Corfu, which was scheduled for March 22. The reason officially assigned for the postponement is "difficulties in the sphere of internal politics."

This explanation is so indefinite that it may refer either to the coal strike or, as is more probable, to the conflict now going on in connection with the provision of finances to cover the increases in the army and navy recently decided upon and which caused the resignation of Adolf Wermuth, formerly secretary of the imperial treasury.

There is a strong disposition here, however, to connect the emperor's

WILBUR GLEN VOLIVA, Who Is Preparing to Make Claims of Leadership in Zion City Greater Than Those of Alexander Dowie, Its Founder.

FORCED OUT OF OFFICE

No Question of Salary That Led to Dr. Wiley's Resignation.

Taft Campaign Managers Said to Have Forced This Action.

(By Willis J. Abbot.)

Washington, March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Of course," says Secretary Wilson, "Dr. Wiley can earn much more money outside the department than he can in it."

In a way that is part of the explanation of the Wiley resignation, but only part. His salary is $5,000 a year, and his scientific attainments and national repute would win for him any time four times as much.

But every man in public life in Washington knows that it was no question of salary that led to Dr. Wiley's resignation. Everybody who knows anything about politics knows that he was forced out of office and that the resignation was merely a matter of form. It is not wholly an insignificant matter that the resignation

VOLIVA TO CLAIM MORE THAN DOWIE

Will Set Himself Up as Elijah III, "Messenger of the Covenant."

Chicago, March 19.—Wilbur Glenn Voliva, son of an Indiana justice of peace, who succeeded the late John Alexander Dowie as overseer of Zion City, Ill., will appear in a few weeks as Elijah III, it is reported. He also will call himself "The Messenger of the Covenant," it is said, which is more than Dowie, who said he was Elijah II, ever claimed to be.

Conferences lasting into the early hours of the morning, are being held by the head Zionites this week. Voliva recently stated that he would make the most important announcement in the history of his cult. What it is to be, he refused to say. But those close to the secrets of the colony say he is preparing to make the announcement regarding himself.

In a sermon on March 10, Voliva spoke on "The Messenger of the Covenant," saying the messenger and Elijah III, are one and that they will precede the second coming.

Voliva is said to be planning to choose twelve apostles and to garb them and himself according to biblical traditions.

HALT TRIAL TO EXAMINE ORGANS OF DEAD WOMAN.

New Orleans, La., March 19.—The trial of Annie Crawford on the charge of killing her sister, Elsie, with poison last September, was halted today to allow medical experts for the defense to inspect the heart, brain, lungs and other organs taken from the body at an autopsy Sunday morning. The plans of the defense, temporarily upset by the unexpected introduction of these exhibits yesterday, probably will be realigned. Court will reconvene tomorrow morning.

ALLENS NOT CORNERED

Officers Deny That Outlaws Are at Bay in the Blue Ridge.

Big Force Has Gone From Hillsville, Va., to Squirrel's Spur.

Charlotte, N. C., March 19.—A correspondent at Mount Airy, N. C., wires that officers in the search of the Allen outlaws positively deny that the hunted men are surrounded in the Squirrel Gap section, and they say that if the Allens have been located up to this time the officers on the Mount Airy side know nothing of it.

Hunted by Big Posses.

Hillsville, Va., March 19.—An assault on the heights of Squirrel's Spur, in the Blue Ridge mountains, where Sidna Allen and a part of his gang now are believed to be entrenched, was planned early today by a posse of forty detectives, reinforced by citizen volunteers, according to reports reaching here through Mount Airy, N. C.

Confident that they had located the outlaws, the detectives stretched a cordon around the base of Squirrel's Spur late last night and guarded every approach vigilantly as they waited for a survey of the surroundings by daylight before undertaking to close in. In the meantime, a messenger had been sent to Mount Airy, twelve miles away,

MAY SHELL THE FOREIGN QUARTER

Brigands at Canton Are Looking for Trouble—Consuls in Dispute.

Hongkong, March 19.—A flotilla of Chinese gunboats opened fire on the Bogue forts at Canton today. The forts have been in the hands of the followers of Luk, the brigand chief, for a week, since the soldiers mutinied and handed them over to the robbers. The robbers replied vigorously to the bombardment of the gunboats.

Luk yesterday declared that if his followers, whom he calls the people's army, failed to gain victory over the government they would shell the foreign quarters in order to bring about foreign intervention.

Consuls Have Dispute.

Canton, China, March 19.—A conflict of opinion has arisen between Leo Allen Borgholz, the United States consul general here, and the British consul general on the question of international action. The senior naval officer of the United States gunboat Wilmington is in command of the foreign naval forces, while a British officer holds the foreign settlement of Shah Meen with a force consisting of four-fifths British and one-fifth French troops.

The situation has become so serious that a telegram has been sent to Hongkong asking for advice, and in response Commodore Cresswell J. Eyres, the British naval officer in charge at Hongkong, is on his way here.

BITUMINOUS STRIKE SURE

New Wage Agreement Cannot Be Made Before April, Says Taylor.

Taft Is Said to Be Seeking Peace in Anthracite Fields.

Chicago, March 19.—Announcement was made here today that it practically would be impossible for the operators and miners in the bituminous coal field to reach a wage and working agreement by April 1 and that a suspension of business on that date was certain.

It was said that even if the miners and operators of Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois at their conference at Cleveland tomorrow decide to come to an amicable arrangement, it will be impossible to draw up the terms of a two-year agreement by the first of the month, and that therefore a suspension of business, if not a strike, was inevitable.

Announced By Taylor.

The announcement came from the Illinois Coal Operators' association, whose president, J. M. Taylor, was expected to reach Cleveland today. C. E. McLaughlin, secretary of the association, declared that 200,000 miners in the four states alone would be affected. As at least six other states—Oklahoma, Kansas, Arkansas, Missouri, Iowa and Michigan—use the agreement in the Central states as

NO DYNAMITE AT SAN ANTONIO

Experts View Wreckage Where Engine Explosion Killed Thirty.

San Antonio, Tex., March 19.—Experts practically have determined that the explosion of a locomotive here yesterday, which cost the lives of more than thirty persons, was not due to dynamite or nitroglycerin, as had been rumored.

An investigation is being made to determine whether a valve of the engine had been tampered with or was defective. Work of clearing away the wreckage is under way.

POTATO TAKES TARNISH BUT STRANGER TAKES POTATO AND JEWELRY.

Chicago, March 19.—"Just place the brooch in the hollow of this potato and the tarnish will disappear, lady," said an aged man today to Mrs. Henrietta Ballou. She did as she was bidden, and fifteen minutes later when she opened the potato left by the old man, Mrs. Ballou found that not only the tarnish but the brooch had disappeared. The police are searching for the new variety of confidence men who guarantee to clean gold and silver articles with raw potatoes.

DULUTH IS GIVEN STATE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

WILSON AND HAMMOND

Favorites of Minnesota Democrats for President and Governor.

Candidates for Congress Discussed and Warm Contests Expected.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Minnesota is for Woodrow Wilson for president. Congressman Winfield S. Hammond of the Second district is the favorite for the Democratic nomination for governor with Peter M. Ringdal of Crookston, member of the state board of control, as second choice.

That is the sentiment expressed by the members of the state central committee here for the meeting today. The members come from all parts of the state. They are for the most part leaders in the Democratic cause in their respective districts. Their views may be taken as representative of the sentiment.

The sentiment for Wilson among the committee members is almost unanimous and they report that they are expressing the views of the Democrats

MILWAUKEE HOLDS ITS CITY PRIMARY

Fusion Candidates to Oppose Socialists Will Be Nominated.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 19.—Milwaukeeans are today voting at a primary election for the nominations of candidates for city tickets, thirty-three aldermen and eighteen supervisors.

As far as the Socialists are concerned the election is a mere formality, as that party's nominees were decided by party referendum. The interest centers in the choice of two tickets for non-partisan or fusion nominations to oppose the Socialists.

The second choice ballot is being tried for the first time in Wisconsin and it may be a day or two before the tabulations of the results are figured out on the aldermanic nominations.

The polls opened at 6 a. m. and will close at 8 p. m. The weather was clear early and a good sized vote was cast before 9 o'clock this forenoon.

$6,250,000 for Orphanage.

London, March 19.—A bequest of $6,250,000 was left by the late Baron Wandsworth for the foundation of an orphanage.

WINFIELD SCOTT HAMMOND, Congressman From Second District.

SPEECHES BY ROOSEVELT

Probable at Duluth and Other Points in Eighth District.

Former Justice Douglas Says Preferential Primary Is Constitutional.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Irving A. Caswell, member for Minesonta of the Roosevelt national committee, will do all in his power to have Col. Roosevelt make a speech in Duluth on his trip West. The original plans of the national committee call for only one address by the colonel in Minnesota, but Mr. Caswell hopes to have the plans changed so as to allot two days to this state.

Mr. Caswell yesterday wired to New York asking that he be given another day for Col. Roosevelt in the state. If only one speech is to be delivered, it will probably be in St. Paul. If one whole day is allotted to the state it will undoubtedly be divided between St. Paul and Minneapolis.

If a second day can be obtained, Duluth and other points in the Eighth district will get the benefit. The Sixth district will also come in for

HOUSE PASSES THE EXCISE BILL

Miller and Some Other Republicans Vote for the Tax.

Washington, March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Democratic excise income tax bill passed the house unamended this afternoon by a vote of 249 to 41. Many Republicans voted for it.

Representative Miller voted for the bill.

"I have always been in favor of an income tax," said Mr. Miller, "and will vote for it every time it comes up."

The proposed measure is intended to meet the drain on the treasury which would be caused by putting sugar on the free list.

Louisiana Negro Lynched.

Shreveport, La., March 19.—According to a dispatch to the Times from Mer Rouge, La., Henry Lee, a negro, was hanged to a water tank near Mer Rouge. The dispatch says Lee insulted a white man and fired into a party returning from an entertainment.

TODAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Met at noon.

Considered District of Columbia appropriation bill.

Senator Martine introduced joint resolution to appoint commission to inquire into feasibility of government purchasing Monticello, Jefferson's home.

Chairman Emery told the finance committee it would take two years for tariff board to investigate thoroughly all schedules of present tariff laws.

HOUSE.

Met at noon.

Resumed consideration of excise tax bill.

Interstate commerce committee decided to appoint sub-committee to consider bill to extend Erdman act to coal mine owners.

MEET HERE ON JUNE 6

Invitation Presented By Andrew Nelson and Promptly Accepted.

No Presidential Primary Owing to Lack of Statutory Safeguards.

D. D. Daly Chosen Chairman of Committee to Succeed Frank Day.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Democratic state delegate convention will be held in Duluth, June 6. This was decided on by the Democratic state central committee this afternoon.

The invitation was presented by Andrew Nelson of Duluth. He started a boom for Woodrow Wilson and gave the invitation to convene in Duluth, which was immediately accepted. The only other date, May 23, mentioned, was voted down.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—After two hours of gathering, during which the Duluth delegates put forth valiant efforts to make the others see the wisdom of taking the delegate convention to Duluth, the Democratic state central com-

WILL CORRECT CENSUS RECORD

Duluth's Kick on Minnesota Soil Report Is Heeded By Durand.

Washington, March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Correction of misstatements in the agricultural publications of the census bureau relative to the characteristics of the soil of the north central and northeastern portions of Minnesota will be made in the permanent bulletins of that bureau.

Representative Miller today had a long conference with E. Dana Durand, director of the census, at which he pointed out the errors in the official publications, and that official agreed to make the necessary corrections.

The director did not go into details as to how the changes would be effected, but he told Mr. Miller that the statements about which complaints were made by the Duluth Commercial club, backed by Mr. Miller, obtained only a limited circulation.

The director said that the bulletin was merely a "preliminary" publication, and only a small number of copies were printed, mostly for newspaper circulation. The permanent bulletin on Minnesota agriculture will do justice to the north central and northeastern portions of the state.

FLICKERTAIL VOTE HEAVY

La Follette Is Two to One Favorite in Betting in North Dakota.

Weather Favors Roosevelt in Some Parts of the State.

Fargo, N. D., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Heavy voting marked the opening of the first state presidential preference primary today. Apparently responding to Senator La Follette's personal appeal issued during his rapid trip across the state during the last five days, followers of the Wisconsin man were the first at the polls in many precincts. This particularly was true in Fargo, Grand Forks and other points in the eastern end of the state.

Betting on the results of the primary was active and prevailing odds at several points were 2 to 1 on Senator La Follette.

No Effort for Taft.

There has been no effort made by the national Taft committee to bring out votes for the president in the primaries today. It generally is recognized that the fight in this state lies

HELD UP BY MEXICANS

West Duluth Men Stopped Twenty-Two Times By Bandits.

Return From Exciting Trip Through the Rebellion Zone.

Out in a West Duluth barber shop this morning while "Joe" snipped hair, and waiting customers spat thoughtfully at the cuspidor in the corner, Guy Nettleton told the story of the Mexican war.

Guy lives at 5709 Cody street and he and his brother, Walter, together with Frank Hoyt of Eighteenth avenue east, returned last evening from El Paso, after a seven-day trip from Medera, Mex., to El Paso.

Guy is a West Duluth boy, and his tale of the war gave the barber shop patrons an insight into conditions in Mexico that telegraph accounts do not.

The boys are none the worse for their exciting trip through the lines of both forces, and the brigands, who hold up wayfarers on their way across the country. The young men were held up twenty-two times during their trip, but the insurrectos were never able to secure any valuables as the young men had prepared for the robbery and packed their belongings on small pack mules, which were driven directly behind the horses. The insurrectos usually wanted any gun they could find and all the ammunition available. These the young men hid among their bundles.

"We were working for the Madera Lumber company at Madera, Chihuahua, when the insurrectos began their fighting," said Mr. Nettleton, "and on the first day every railroad in Mexico stopped operations. This was Jan. 29, and from that day to this there has not been a trainload of lumber or anything else shipped through the country. The insurrectos are lined up along every railroad with dynamite, which they will use on a train attempting to get by them. Every tunnel and bridge is watched. The only train that can go safely across the country is the one bearing the insurrecto soldiers.

Mills Are Closed.

"I saw Gen. Orozco enlist hundreds of men and then send them across the state to fight. Their horses would be placed in boxcars and the men would ride on the top of the cars. All the mills have shut down because of the scarcity of men to work, and the danger of going about the streets. The Mexican laborers have nearly all joined the insurrecto forces, which are now in a very strong condition.

"The conditions are very bad and the methods adopted by the insurrectos are most barbarous. The soldiers will arrive in the town and go about burning every store and home in sight. The moment the fire starts the men will rush in and take every valuable from the building. Even in the banks the men burn the building and then break open the large safes and vaults.

"Americans are all leaving the state following the proclamation issued by President Taft several weeks ago. The only way to leave the country is to go across on horseback. We were compelled to buy our horses and when we arrived on the border, they were taken from us. Very few newspaper men are able to get in the interior to the scene of the conflict, on account of the prejudice against them by the officers of the insurrecto army. I saw two photographers attacked by a band of insurrectos, who broke the large, expensive cameras to bits. Most of the newspaper correspondents are on the border and they make daily tours to the near vicinity for their reports."

Hopes for Intervention.

Asked what he thought would be the outcome of this conflict, Mr. Nettleton replied that in his opinion President Madero would wait until United States would come to his assistance.

"I believe it is Madero's plan to endanger the Americans so that the interference of this country is inevitable. It would help Madero and enable him to again gain control of the country. We cannot imagine over here the hatred against us by the Mexicans. They are afraid to do anything and are a very cowardly lot, but in their hearts are boiling against us.

"The Mexicans hate the Chinese, of whom there are a large number in the country, and every time they get the opportunity a number of the insurrectos will attack a colony of them and kill all in it. The Chinese government however, is better than the American in this respect and from now on every Chinaman will have to be accounted for by the Mexican government. It is very hard for an American to get the consul there to help him. It takes weeks and weeks before anything is done. The Chinese government gets right after the Mexicans, and a Chinaman is always sure of protection. Most of the young men I know call themselves Canadians, to get the proper protection from the Canadian consul, who also keeps constant watch for the protection of his countrymen. The American consuls are different and take all the time they please in doing things. This is one reason why it is dangerous for Americans to live in a country where fighting is going on."

Badly Crushed By Cement.

Some cement piled at the Grassy Point bridge toppled over and seriously injured Peter La Fave, 518 South Sixtieth avenue west, yesterday afternoon. Mr. La Fave is a laborer for the Northern Pacific. The cement jammed him forward through a fence. He was seriously cut about the face and neck. He was compelled to undergo an operation for a resetting of the bones of one foot which were dislocated. He was attended by Dr. W. E. Judson.

FUNERAL OF WEST DULUTH BOY

JAMES GILLIS.

The funeral of James Gillis, 17 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gillis, 4510 Rene street, who died early yesterday morning after a short illness, will be held at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning from St. James' Catholic church, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Kinnear place. Rev. D. W. Lynch, rector of the church, will officiate and interment will be in the Calvary cemetery.

Reception for Friends.

Miss Margaret O'Toole of Proctor entertained at an informal reception for a number of her friends last evening. The time was spent in music and games after which a supper was served to the following guests: Misses Eileen Hanks, Josephine O'Toole, Mary McCabe, Natalie Blanchett, Agnes O'Toole, Lucille Haley, Margaret O'Toole, and the Messrs. Robert Matthews, William Haley, Reuben Paulson, Arthur Nelson, Orrin Clement, Lambert Hanley and Trig Balgaard.

Jury Returns Verdict.

A jury in the district court last evening brought in a verdict for the plaintiff in the case brought against the Petruschke Box & Lumber company of West Duluth by Godfrey Johnson. Johnson sued for $1,095, but the jury allowed him only $469.97.

With the Curlers.

Owing to the soft condition of the ice at the Western Curling rink last evening, there were no games played in the regular scheduled events. This evening Clark will meet Ellis in the Henricksen event for the right to play Evered in the finals.

Members of Isaacson Family Are Dogged By a Cruel Fate.

Mother and Five Deserted Children Tubercular—Sixth Child Dies.

When death ended the suffering of a 13-year-old boy at the county tubercular sanitarium at the poor farm last evening, the Great White Plague tightened its grip on a poverty-stricken Duluth family which has been fighting a losing battle against the dread disease for several months past.

The case of Mrs. Anna Isaacson and her six children, one of whom died yesterday, is one of the most pitiable which has come to the attention of the poor authorities for some time. Every member of the family is said to be afflicted more or less with tuberculosis.

Henry, aged 13, died yesterday of a tubercular affection of the brain. Arthur, aged 19, who with his 13-year-old brother has contributed largely to the support of the big family, is failing in health and is said to be tubercular. The other children, Alma, 11; Phoebe, 10; Edna, 4; and Ethel, 3, are also sickly. The mother is small and frail.

The family have been living at 10 West Second street in a two-room basement flat. The rooms are scantily furnished with a stove, one table, two or three chairs and three old mattresses. Two weeks ago, when Poor Agent Shogran investigated their case, he found the 13-year-old boy suffering from his tubercular affliction.

The mother and oldest boy were out at work trying to make enough money to feed the hungry children and to buy medicine for the sick boy. At home, the boy tossed about on an old mattress under the basement stairway. The four smaller children stayed at home with the sick boy.

Henry, at the time of Agent Shogran's visit, was suffering intense pains from a headache. The children had improvised a water bag by sewing some old rags together and this was filled with snow and ice. They placed it against his fevered brow in order to relieve the pain.

The boy was taken from the house to the county poor farm and was treated at the sanitarium. His case, however, was found to be an advanced one and little hope was held out for his recovery from the first. He will probably be buried at the expense of the county.

Mrs. Isaacson and her children, who, it is claimed, were deserted by husband and father two years ago, came to Duluth from Hancock, Mich., five months ago. They tried to make things go here, but everything seemed to go from bad to worse. For a while the 13-year-old boy was working in a grocery store. The mother worked out as well as the older brother.

Poor Agent Shogran today made arrangements to have the family sent back to Hancock, where is is understood that they will be cared for by friends. They will leave on this evening's train. Mrs. Isaacson is a native of Finland.

GLEANED ALONG THE POLICE RUN

John Hill, said to be a bold, bad man, was arrested this morning by Sergent John Roberg on a charge of having robbed Charles Ruokija, a farmer of Toimi, a station on the Duluth & Iron Range, of $10 the night of Feb. 29.

The robbery is said to have been particularly daring. Hill is claimed to have yanked Ruokija from a party of three and to have forced him to hand over his money at the point of a revolver. The victim and two companions were going up the rear stairs of the Maine hotel to their rooms shortly after 11 o'clock at night when the alleged hold-up took place.

The men with Roukija did not suspect that anything was wrong and continued on their way. In a minute or two they missed him and one of them went back to look for him. He did not see Ruokija handing over his money, but he claims to have seen Hill putting away his revolver.

After the trio had retired Hill is said to have made his way into Ruokija's room, roused him from his slumbers, and waving the loaded gun in his face, to have told him that if he dared to "squeal," he would blow his head off. That frightened the farmer temporarily, but by morning he had recovered his nerve and made his way to police headquarters, where he furnished the police with an excellent description of the stick-up artist.

It is probable that Hill will be arraigned in police court this afternoon on a grand larceny charge.

Christ Gunnarson, proprietor of a pool room at 401-3 Central avenue, West Duluth, was arrested this morning on a charge of allowing a minor in his pool room. He pleaded not guilty and will be tried Thursday morning.

The complaint was sworn out by George J. Mallory, deputy United States marshal and alleges that Gunnarson allowed his son, George S. Mallory, 16 years of age, in his pool room in violation of the ordinance.

It would be an excellent thing if other parents would make a few inquiries as to where their minor sons spend their time when they are away from home, particularly in the evening, say the police. Many boys can be seen hanging about pool halls, possibly smoking the insidious cigarette, "shootin' rotation," or perchance gambling in a pill-pool game at a nickle or a dime a "corner."

A trip into some of the pool halls of the city, shows that a lot of young boys frequent them. It is not shooting very wide of the mark to say that without the patronage of immature "kids" a number of these places could not exist.

Mr. Mallory evidently decided to make a little investigation of his own. But few such cases have been in the police court in late years, but whenever they have been brought, the court has not hesitated to take a positive stand in the matter. And the stand has not been one encouraging to the men running the hall which solicit the patronage of young boys.

Raymond Bilodeau was arrested at the Union station yesterday afternoon on a charge of having stolen a young dog belonging to Jerry Corcoran. Corcoran said that he had seen him about the place and suspected him when he missed the animal. He started a search for him and found him at the depot, the dog under his arm. Bilodeau pleaded guilty in police court and paid a fine of $50 and costs.

This morning John Hurdy pleaded guilty to stealing a pup belonging to Louie Anderson at Pike Lake. He said that he took the spaniel away a week ago today but had been intending right along to return it. When Anderson learned who had the dog he got out a search warrant and recovered it. "You gotta quit kickin' my dawg aroun'," was the tune of his song to Hurdy.

Hurdy got $40 and costs or thirty days in the county jail. But the court didn't sing, or ask to have sung, the now famous "houn' dawg" song from the Missouri hills, when he passed sentence. He probably figured that that would be song enough for the prisoner.

Hilda Maki, arrested several days ago on charges of keeping a house of ill-fame at 125 Seventh avenue west and of selling liquor without a license, was not brought to trial yesterday. The case was dismissed on motion of the city prosecutor, who stated that the necessary witnesses were not available. The Maki woman's alleged offenses are said to have been committed the night following the afternoon on which she paid a fine of $100 for keeping an unlicensed drinking place. Her husband got sixty days straight for the same offense.

• • •

The case against Alex Mehlin, charged with assault, was dismissed in police court yesterday afternoon. It was stated that his wife has started action for a divorce and that their troubles would be thrashed out in the higher court.

• • •

George Page was convicted in police court this morning of having assaulted Susan Thomas, his housekeeper, and fined $20 and costs, with the alternative of twenty days in the county jail. The woman showed a badly discolored eye, which she said resulted from a blow from Page's fist.

"I wasn't so much drunk as I was tired," said John Lingman when he was brought before Judge Cutting today. "I walked in from Pike Lake yesterday. I was a little drunk, as little drunk as one can get from three or four glasses of beer." John got a suspended sentence.

For nine months Ed Gladdis lodged on the hard benches at the police station. Then he got a chance to work at the rock pile. He made big rocks into little stones for two days, for which he was paid $1.30. But Ed didn't use the cash for buying a job. But he spent it. Last night he came back to headquarters to pass another night in the bull pen. He passed the night there, but this morning he was not turned loose with the other couple of dozen of lodgers. He was brought into police court on a charge of vagrancy, to which he pleaded guilty. He went over the hill for ten days.

mittee convened at the Saint Paul hotel today with D. D. Daly, chairman of the executive committee and temporary successor to Frank A. Day, in the chair.

The Duluth delegates were hopeful at the opening of the meeting. Harris Bennett, W. B. Getchell, E. R. Rhenack, Andrew Nelson and A. C. Weiss found many friends among the delegates and were given many warm promises of support.

Mr. Daly in his opening remarks predicted glorious success for the Democratic party this year.

Eighty-one men representing fifty-five counties responded to their names at the roll call. There was some parley over the proxies, and practically all present were seated in lieu of delegates unable to be present.

Daly Elected Chairman.

Mr. Daly declared the office of chairman of the committee vacant on account of the removal of Frank A. Day from the state.

Mr. Daly was promptly and enthusiastically elected chairman of the committee. In responding, Mr. Daly made the cheerful prediction that the Democratic party would be triumphant all along the line in the state of Minnesota this year.

After the reading of the call, Mr. Daly started to take up the fixing of representation in the convention, but was interrupted by T. J. Knox of Jackson, who offered a telegram congratulating W. J. Bryan on his 52nd birthday, and it was adopted by a rising vote and applause.

The resolution congratulated Mr. Mr. Bryan also on living to see two Republican candidates contesting for the honor of being the representative of the principles Mr. Bryan first enunciated.

Presidential Primary.

D. W. Lawler started his move for a primary when the question of fixing the basis of representation was taken up. He suggested that first the committee determine whether a primary would be held.

Senator Stockwell of Minneapolis presented a resolution adopted by the Woodrow Wilson club of Minneapolis indorsing the presidential primary form in Minnesota. Senator Stockwell also moved that the executive committee be instructed to work out a primary plan.

Julius Coller said that if a primary should be held the delegates from each congressional district should be elected by the people direct.

Dan Lawler, in an impassioned speech, asked permission to offer his resolution. Mr. Duxbury withdrew his motion to lay on the table and said he did not intend to cut off free discussion.

Mr. Lawler's resolution provided for the direct election of delegates to the national committee at primaries, the executive committee to provide for the election of delegates at large and the congressional delegates to be elected at primaries arranged by the congressional committees.

E. A. Stevens of Minneapolis offered a substitute resolution providing for a state convention and election of delegates thereto, substantially the same as has been the practice in recent years.

Will Not Have Direct Primary.

Fred Schilpin of St. Cloud, J. M. Freeman of Olivia, W. R. Duxbury of St. Paul, Ray Farrington of Hortonville and others opposed the primary, while Senator S. A. Stockwell of Minneapolis, Dan Lawler of St. Paul and Senator Julius Coller of Shakopee fought for the primary. The substitute motion was adopted by an overwhelming vote.

The speakers against the primary made it clear that their opposition was based on the fact that the primary could not be safeguarded in the absence of statutory provision for it. They opposed a makeshift, they said.

Fred Schilpin of St. Cloud made a motion, after the primary had been turned down, declaring the sense of the meeting to be in favor of a direct presidential primary and urging the representatives in the legislature of the Democratic party to introduce such a law. On amendment, the matter was referred to the resolutions committee at the next state convention.

An echo of the "seven-senator bill" came in the discussion on the question of representation in the state convention. James Morrissey of Crookston and Thomas Meighen of Preston made a fight for one delegate to 150 votes and three delegates-at-large from each county, which would cut down the representation of the big cities.

The question was voted down by 46 to 24, and the plan for one delegate for each 125 votes and two delegates-at-large from each county was adopted. Ia gives 1,039 delegates, St. Louis county hoving 38.

June 6 was fixed as the date for the delegate convention. Andrew Nelson extended the invitation to the delegates to come to Duluth. He presented the invitation of the city council. He set forth the advantages of Duluth. He promised them a good time and ample accommodations.

Robert Carmichael of Hastings, Dakota county, seconded the motion. Duluth was given the convention with few dissenting votes. A committee of the chairman, secretary of the committee and a committee of one from each congressional district was empowered to call the second convention.

Preliminary Forecast.

The best forecast that could be obtained before the committee began its session was that the presidential primary plan would be voted down, that the state delegae convenion would b called to meet in St. Paul, May 22 or 23 and that the call for the state nominating convention would be delegated to th executive committee.

Unless something unforeseen happens, D. D. Daly of St. Paul, chairman of the executive committee, who has been acting as chairman of the whole committee since F. A. Day left the state for Montana, will be chosen permanent chairman of the committee. A new committee will be chosen at the state nominating convention, which will probably be held late in August, and Mr. Daly's term will expire at that time.

No Statutory Safeguard.

The presidential primary will probably be killed, but not on account of lack of merit in the abstract. Almost every member of the committee here is in favor of submitting the candidates for the presidency to a vote of the people, but they object to the plan for naming the delegates to the national convention by the electors, without any statutory provision to safeguard it. A primary could be held this year only on the initiative of the state central committee and thus without the warrant of law. It might cause complications, not being safeguarded by law, and the opposition to it is on that ground.

Dan Lawler of St. Paul, who intends to introduce the resolution, will make a fight for it. Mr. Lawler claims that the expense of holding such a primary as he proposes could be met by the cost of holding a state convention for naming delegates. He declares that the objection that the primary would not be safeguarded on account of the lack of law to regulate it will not hold, but more conservative members of the committee declare that such an experiment should not be tried.

Fireworks are promised. Mr. Lawler is a hard fighter and he will put up an oratorical fight for his resolution. There are some orators to be heard on the other side of the question and everybody is looking for a verbal war. No serious split is expected, however, for the members of the committee opposed to the particular plan advanced by Mr. Lawler are far in the majority and the vote will not be close.

A resolution indorsing Woodrow Wilson as the Democratic nominee for the presidency may be introduced and if such should be the case, it will be adopted. There was some talk last night and this morning of introducing the resolution, but there was also some objection. The objections came from the Wilson men for the most part. They say that the precedent established by the indorsement of Governor Johnson four years ago should not be followed. The case at that time was different, as Minnesota had a candidate of its own for the presidency. Many of the Wilson men are content with the conviction that the state is for Wilson and are inclined to allow the precedent established four years ago to stand.

Plans of Representation.

Three plans of representation will be presented to the committee. The basis of each will be one delegate to the state convention from each county for each 125 or major fraction of the vote of the cuunty for W. J. Bryan for president in 1908. One plan provides for one delegate at large from each county, another for two delegates and the third for three delegates at large from each county. The committee is expected to take the middle ground providing for two delegates at large from each county.

Figuring unofficially, the number of delegates on that basis would be 1,039. St. Louis getting thirty-eight. Hennepin county would have 131 and Ramsey county 95.

The delegating of the call for the nominating convention to the executive committee was considered the most likely course as far as could be learned before the meeting. A late convention is favored and it will probably be held late in August.

SUPERIOR

MRS. THOMAS JENNINGS DIES IN MINNEAPOLIS.

Word was received heer yesterday of the death of Mrs. Thomas Jennings, 80 years of age, at Minneapolis, Sunday. Mrs. Jennings was the mother of Mrs. Frank Clements of Superior and well known here, having lived in Duluth for over a score of years.

The funeral will take place at St. Clement's Catholic church, Twenticth avenue west and Third street, Duluth, Wednesday morning at 9:30 o'clock. Mrs. Jennings is survived by ten children. Besides Mrs. Clements they are: Thomas, James, Peter, Anna and Robert Jennings, and Mrs. William Gallagher all of Minneapolis; John Jennings of St. Charles, Mich.; Patrick Jennings of Tacoma, and Mrs. M. Tedford of Canada.

School Principal Returns.

Principal H. A. Schofield of the Superior high school, returned yesterday from the Twin Cities, where he studied school methods and plans followed by the high schools of the two cities. Mr. Schofield will make his report this week for the consideration of the school board.

Appoint Superintendent.

E. M. Phelps, who was yesterday appointed superintendent of the free labor bureau, will assume his new duties next Monday. Mr. Phelps was connected with the Superior Water, Light & Power company up to several weeks ago.

New Buildings for Plant.

Rumors which have been current to the effect that the Evered Foundry and Machine company has been sold to outside parties were set at rest yesterday when building permits were issued to the concern by City Engineer Banks for the construction of two buildings, one at 122-4 and the other at 130-2 Ogden avenue. The buildings will adjoin the present plant and will cost $1,500 each.

Station for South Range.

Plans will be drawn for a passenger and freight station to be erected at South Range. The decision was reached yesterday afternoon at a conference of Omaha road officials and a member of the state railroad commission in behalf of the residents of South Range, who have agitated the construction of a station for some time.

Knitting Factory Here.

Another manufacturing industry may be added to the already large list in Superior, according to the plans that are now being made by several local business men. A large knitting house in the East has applied here for a ten-year lease on the property located between Seventh and Eighth streets on Ogden avenue, and it is believed that with the conclusion of the deal, plans will be drawn for the erection of a modern building, adapted especially to factory purposes.

Large Vote Cast.

Indications today point to one of the largest votes ever cast in Superior. The average vote cast here at city elections is 4,500, while today the vote is estimated at 5,500. There are seven candidates for mayor and twenty-three candidates for councilmen. The polls opened at 6 o'clock this morning and will close at 8 o'clock this evening.

It is Superior's first election under the commission form of government.

WIFE GIVEN DIVORCE AND CUSTODY OF CHILD.

Gabriella Mandelin, aged 24, was today granted a divorce from Arthur P. Mandelin, 26, on the grounds of cruelty. The case was tried before Judge Dancer at the opening of the March term, but his findings were not put on file until today.

The Mandelins were married in Duluth May 3, 1907. They have one child, Leo Paivio, aged 4. Mandelin is ordered by the court to pay his wife $500 alimony and to contribute $25 a month to the support of the woman and child until the woman remarries or the court changes its order. The costs of the divorce action are also assessed against Mandelin.

The plaintiff is given the right to assume her maiden name, Gabriella M. Esterman, and is given the custody of the child.

OBITUARY

Franklin J. Firth, former president of the Erie & Western Transportation company, and well known among transportation interests on the Great Lakes, died at his home in Philadelphia. He had been ill for a long time. Mr. Firth was 70 years old.

Col. W. B. McCord, a pioneer resident of Minneapolis and veteran of the Civil war, is dead at Los Angeles, where he had gone for his health. His home formerly was at Paris, Ill. The body will be taken to Minneapolis for burial. With him when he died were his daughter, Miss Eva McCord and a son, A. C. McCord of Chicago.

A TRIAL WILL CONVINCE ANYONE—THE GREAT KIDNEY REMEDY NEVER DISAPPOINTS.

A few years ago I was troubled with a complication of kidney and stomach ailments and although I tried two or three different doctors, I was unable to obtain a cure. Having heard a great deal about Swamp-Root, I decided to give it a trial and purchased a one-dollar bottle of Mr. Alexander, the druggist. From the beginning I could notice a change for the better and after taking eight bottles of your medicine, I felt entirely cured and have not had any trouble since.

Had I began using Swamp-Root sooner, I would have been a few hundred dollars to the good and saved myself a lot of suffering.

You may use my testimonial any time you wish. Yours very truly,

CHARLES E. HARRIS,

The "Cocloco"

A hard-time Special

For the past number of years the tendency of clothing prices was to travel upwards with the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill until a good suit of clothes selling for less than $20.00 had become the exception. In consequence the man who started out to pay about $15.00 for a suit has been persuaded against his will to pay $5.00 or $10.00 more than he really ought to afford.

We do not mean to imply that a man paying $20.00 or $25.00 did not get his money's worth, for the tendency has also been to manufacture better goods with better workmanship. But the time has come when there is an imperative demand for more popular-priced clothes. Foreseeing this the buyers of the Columbia Clothing Company looked around for a whole year in order to find a combination of dependable cloth and high-grade workmanship in garments to be sold at a less price. The result is a "HARD TIME SPECIAL," which we are bringing out this Spring and which will be high in everything but the price.

We'll have about twenty styles in this particular line. Only all woolen fabrics will be included —many of them bearing the Union Label.

Further information on this specialty to be sold at about $15.00 and to be known as the "Cocloco Suit" will be given in the newspapers as well as in our windows. Look for it.

Woman's Realm

"The popularity of the problem novel during the latter half of the last century gave the dramatists much food for thought," said Mrs. Cobb of Brainerd in her delightfully interesting talk on Maeterlinck yesterday afternoon at the tea given at the home of Mrs. H. J. Atwood of Hunter's Park, under the auspices of the literature department of the Twentieth Century club.

Receiving with Mrs. Atwood were Mrs. Henry Taylor, chairman of that department; Mrs. J. H. Crowley, president of the club, and Mrs. J. C. H. Engel. Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. K. M. Nicoles presided at the tea table, assisted by Miss Irene Keyes, Miss Margaret Grannis, Miss Ruth Bjorge, Miss Grace McClanaghan, Miss Eva Atwood and Miss Amy Oliver.

Before the talk Mrs. Neil Morrison sang "Because I Love You, Dear," and a little "Spring Song," which were both exquisite, and Mrs. J. A. Tupper entertained delightfully with a piano number.

Mrs. Henry Taylor introduced Mrs. Cobb, and after the talk, which was thoroughly appreciated, Mrs. Crowley voiced the appreciation and thanks of the club to Mrs. Cobb, and to Mrs. Atwood for her hospitality and the pleasing musical numbers which were arranged by her. Killarney roses and smilax were effectively used about the rooms.

Mrs. Cobb's paper covered the work of the Belgian writer thoroughly and she presented her views in so interesting and earnest a manner that the interest of every member of the audience was held until the end.

Problem for Dramatists.

"The dramatists realized that they had a very real problem to solve if they were to regain the position from which the novelists had crowded them" she said. "The novel had created a public demand for problems and the only way to satisfy this demand seemed to be to bring forth the problem play. The result is that we now have problems, political, religious, social and psychical as well as the eternal sex problem, all worked out upon the stage.

"There may be a difference of opinion regarding the moral value of the so-called 'problem play,' but we must all agree that is better to use the stage to help solve life's problems than to confine it to the portrayal of its passions. The church gave birth to the drama in order that it might portray religious truth and we are beginning to realize that it was a great mistake to allow the theater to deteriorate into a mere playhouse to allow a great educational and moral force to degenerate into a form of questionable amusement.

"The dramatist-turned moralist has a great advantage over both the preacher and the novelist, as he has all the arts of stage craft to help him in presenting his truth. But as Maeterlinck puts it, 'It is not enough to possess a truth, the truth must possess us,' and in the art of presenting truth so that it will take complete possession of our minds and abide with us, Maeterlinck stands at the head of modern dramatists.

Symbolism.

"His manner of presentation we call symbolism. It is the presentation of truth in a form in which the imagination can picture it, the emotions can feel it and the mind can incorporate it. Smmbolism is only the outer garment of his thought, while beneath it, shining and shimmering, is a garb whose weft is of mingled poetry and music. According to his own definition, his dramas are 'the essence of supreme poetry,' for their sole aim is 'to keep open the great road that leads from the seen to the unseen,' and not only his dramas but his essays as well are packed full of poetic fancy."

As illustrations of the musical quality in his writings, Mrs. Cobb gave delightful sketches from some if his works, her discription of the graveyard scene in "The Bluebird" being especially beautiful.

As Tytyl at the close of this scene says "There are no dead," Mrs. Cobb says "In Maeterlinck's dramas there are no dead, for each character illustrates or help illustrate an immortal truth. If the body dies, this soul of truth lives on, and it is this that immortalizes both the author and his work, all the rest—the beauty, the symbolism, the poetry, the music, the atmosphere—merely form the husk that gradually unfolds and reveals this golden kernal of philosophic truth within."

Mrs. Cobb here discussed several of his plays from this point of view giving several good character sketches. "In my opinion," she said, "Mona Vanna is the queen of Maeterlinck's women. The play that bears her name is to me one of the most interesting of the dramatist's plays because it reveals the author's method of study. Each character in this play is allowed to state his own point of view and the conclusion is left with the reader.

"He announces himself a mystic and this brings us to the question what is a mystic? My definition would be a combination of poet and philosopher. The followers of Plato seek truth by the path of pure reason, the poet seems to acquire it through the senses of the soul, through inspiration, intuition or visions, if you please. The mystic combines the two."

Change in Views.

Mrs. Cobb spoke of the change in Maeterlinck's views of life. "From a sad pessimist he has become a cheerful optimist," she said, "who finds happiness in the scent of a flower, the flight of seagulls around a cliff. Philosophy has converted Maeterlinck from fatalism to a fine faith in the ultimate triumph of a virtuous intelligent and omnipotent will in nature, from a gloomy pessimist to a happy optimist.

"Let us see how it has affected his art. I believe it is not too much to say that it has revived the static drama, or rather it has established the Raison d'etre of modern static drama. His habit of seeking cause from effect impelled him to look beneath the humdrum lives of normal human beings and to discover that they experienced a more human, a more universal life. He made it his business to reveal the essence of this universal life, to draw the veil aside and lay bare the real life of the soul. This he does, not through the ordinary medium of language, but by means of vivid, dramatic pictures. He does not believe that any real communication can ever pass from one mind to anothers by means of mere words. But although he does not use language for the ordinary purpose of communication he does not scorn it. Instead he uses it to produce the emotional effect of music. Then, when the emotions are aroused and the imagination stimulated, he flashes a vivid dramatic picture on the sensitized plate of the mind. This dramatic power, so independent of dialogue is shown in that little play that our English translators have given the title 'Home.'

"The dramatic intensity of this play could scarcely be surpassed and yet it consists almost wholly of pantomimic pictures, with just enough dialogue to entitle them and draw from them a few simple truths.

"This play also illustrates Maeterlinck's ability to utilize the dramatic material in every day life. This is perhaps his most important contribution to dramatic literature."

Discarding Language.

Mrs. Cobb also discussed Maeterlinck's belief that some time there will be complete communication without the medium of language. "Our generation has almost ceased to wonder at wireless telegraphy," she said, "perhaps to the next generation the problem of telepathy will become as simple and its use will be as general. This would seem to be the logical outcome of the static drama, for, if it is to truly represent a state of mind, it should reveal the thoughts that are passing through the mind of any given state without obscuring them in language.

"But whether Maeterlinck is ever able to carry the static drama to this ultimate conclusion or not, he has already accomplished much by turning our attention to the nature of disaster instead of its effects, by pointing out the dramatic material in every day life and by dramatizing those common experiences that make the whole world kin. In short, he will have rendered a great service and dramatic art will have gathered a rich harvest from that golden kernel of philosophy that lies half hidden, half revealed in its husk of beauty, symbolism, poetry, music, atmosphere and mystery in the soul dramas of this Belgian Shapespeare."

MME. HOMER AND BABY.

Do babies interfere with the life work of a prima donna? In one sense undoubtedly. This little one kept Mme. Homer from the Metropolitan opera house stage for several months this season. But Mme. Homer would rather be a mother than a prima donna; and those are the sentiments of her husband, Sidney Homer, the composer. Whence arises the fact that the entrance to the Homer home in New York looks to a visitor like a baby carriage garage. The newest addition to the Homer family has a voice, but whether it resembles that of its gifted mother has not been determined yet. The next generation may hope that it does. Mme. Homer, after a half-season devoted to domestic affairs, made her redebut recently in "Orfeo" to a crowded house of her admirers; for no one is more missed from the Metropolitan stage than this popular contralto.

THE EVENING STORY

PIONEER COMMUNISM

By Mrs. Frank Lee.

One of the early settlers of Biendon township, in the state of Ohio, was known far and wide for benevolence and hospitality. From the beginning of Isaac Griswold's life, in what was then almost unbroken wilderness, prosperity seems to have attended him. Such good fortune often hardens the heart and narrows the outlook of the successful man, but with Mr. Griswold it only intensified a naturally generous disposition. This is well illustrated by the following account, slightly amplified, of an actual incident, related by one of Mr. Griswold's grandchildren, herself a woman past 70, at the family centennial.

Grandfather Griswold was still living in a log cabin, but the cabin was a large double one, with a loft that was like a second story. Barn and corn crib were also of logs, but the one was filled with fodder and the other with the yellow fruit of harvest. The smokehouse was a hollow tree, six feet through at grass top, and holding a goodly array of hams, shoulders and side meat.

A knowledge of all this, of plenty of shed room for the cattle, and comfortable housing for pigs and sheep, made Grandfather Griswold's face crinkle happily as he sat before the big fire on the hearth, and saw snow flakes fall down the wide chimney, to sputter into steam on the coals. Enter Cicero, his 18-year-old son, stamping the snow from his boots, and not smiling—quite the contrary.

"Father," he said, "there's another ham gone. That makes the third."

"Well," said grandfather, cheerfully, "I reckon whoever took 'em must have wanted them badly enough."

"And somebody's been at the corn-crib again."

"Likely he didn't have any of his own."

"He might at least have had manners enough to come and ask for it," grumbled Cicero. He left grandfather chuckling and stretching his feet out toward the blaze, and took himself out to the kitchen, to pour out his grievance to grandmother.

"Father's too easy. This thing ought to be stopped. I don't fancy our grubbing round stumps to raise corn, and tumbling out in all sorts of weather to feed pigs, and then have some lazy, worthless red or white scamp walk up and coolly help himself."

"You can't make father over, Cicero," said grandmother. "His latch string has always been out, and he would share food and fire to the last crumb and the last chip."

"I don't grudge helping folks that need it, but I do grudge their helping themselves." Cicero sat on the edge of the puncheon table, and swung one foot meditatively. Presently he rose up with a look of resolution.

"I am going to Worthington this afternoon, and I'll buy a couple of padlocks. Father need know nothing about it. I'll put them on after he goes to bed and take them off before he gets out in the morning. I tell you something must be done."

Grandmother shook her head doubtfully; but Cicero rode to Worthington, the nearest town, bought the locks, and ascended the rude stairway to his bed in the loft that evening, happy in the conviction that he had not only outwitted the surreptitious visitors, but the too amiable host as well.

The snow ceased falling by sundown, and the night grew clear and very cold. About midnight Mrs. Griswold awoke her husband. "Something is prowling about the house," she whispered. 'I heard the snow crunch, and listen to Bose."

Bose was the dog that slept in the kitchen and that was now ordering intruders off at their peril, in his best "caninese." Hurrying into his clothes Grandfather Griswold took his gun down from its pegs, tiptoed into the kitchen and peered out of the small window. A dark, crouching figure stole across the clearing, but it walked on two feet, and made straight for the smoke house. Grandfather watched it for a moment, and then dropped the butt of his gun to the floor with a laugh.

"After another ham, that's all. Quit, Bose. Stop it, I say. Let him have the ham; must need it to come after it a night like this. Why doesn't he go in and get it? What's he going away for? Hi, friend. Here, come back. You're welcome to the meat. I'll help you get the door open. It must be frozen."

But at the sound of grandfather's voice the intruder took to his heels and the louder grandfather urged, the faster fled the visitor. Thereupon, out through the snow to see what ailed the inhospitable door hurried Mr. Griswold. Five minutes later Cicero was hauled from sound sleep and his warm bed by insistent and indignant shouts at the foot of the stairs.

"Cicero! Here you, Cicero, get up this minute and take the padlock off the smoke house. Of course he can put his clothes on," this to grandmother, who was remonstrating—"and—yes, I know it's cold. I want him to know it, too, as well as the poor chap who couldn't get his meat, and may be starved to death and frozen stiff before morning. Now, sir," this to the reluctant youth, who dragged his unwilling feet down the stairs—"bring me that padlock in a hurry, and don't you ever put another on any door that belongs to me!"

Cicero obeyed perforce. In the morning the lock on the corn crib was likewise confiscated, and to the day of Grandfather Griswold's death there was nothing to prevent the needy or the thievish from helping themselves to his stores of grain and meat. It is pleasant to record that his generosity was seldom abused.

SPORTSMEN FORM CLUB

Anglers Organize to Protect Fish in Northern Minnesota Streams.

Second Meeting Will Be Held Monday at Commercial Club.

Duluth anglers met yesterday afternoon and took the preliminary steps looking towards the organization of a local club whose primary purpose will be to further the propagation and protection of fish in the lakes and streams in and about Duluth.

A goodly number of the disciples of Isaak Walton attended the gathering and the enthusiasm manifested insures the success of the club. Committees were appointed to draw up a constitution and by-laws and to investigate a number of matters.

The meeting was adjourned until Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the Commercial club rooms. At that time it is expected that the permanent organization will be completed, officers elected and the club placed upon a working basis. Any one who is interested is urged to attend the meeting next Monday evening.

FAREWELL TO FREEDOM

Convicted Murderer Is Sentenced to Life Term in Prison.

Life sentence was passed yesterday by Judge Martin Hughes of Hibbing on Michael Angelo Gentilcare, the miner who was convicted of murdering Gregori Pilagge, a fellow countryman at Virginia on Dec. 27 last. Judge Hughes presided in Judge Ensign's court room.

"Human life," declared the court, "is sacred in this country and it cannot wantonly be destroyed without the guilty one suffering the severest penalties of the law.

"The jury which tried you in Virginia was most merciful in consideration of the evidence. You murdered that man in cold blood. You believed that he took your money and without determining whether he did or not and without taking recourse to the law as you should have done, you loaded a revolver and lay in wait for your victim. When you accused him of taking your money and he denied that he had done so, you gave him no chance to prove his innocence, but murdered him, when he was defenseless and completely at your mercy."

Gentilcare's parting words were, "Well, if you have to sentence me, it's up to you."

SPEAKERS ARE SCARCE

Taft Club Unable to Get Good Headliner for Banquet.

President's Campaign Manager Claims More Than 700 Delegates.

Owing to the scarcity of Taft speakers and the inability of the National Taft bureau to supply orators for a number of the Western cities, it is probable that the Duluth Taft banquet which was scheduled to take place about March 28 will be postponed for a time.

J. J. Robinson, secretary of the Duluth Taft club, has received the following letter from the National Taft bureau, Washington, D. C.:

"March 16, 1912.—Mr. J. J. Robinson, Secretary Duluth Taft Club, Duluth, Minn.

"Dear Mr. Robinson—I have held yours of the 12th trying to get a speaker. It is very difficult to find members of congress who can get away at this time. I am very sorry.

"We are getting the best reports from the West and Central West and as the East is practically solid for Mr. Taft we are sure we will have between seven and eight hundred votes when we go to the Chicago convention. Very truly yours,

"WILLIAM B. McKINLEY."

THREE MORE FOR TAFT.

Twelfth Michigan Expected to Select Favorable Delegates.

Marquette, Mich., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two more delegates instructed for William H. Taft will be added to the list of the men who will nominate the next Republican candidate for president, when the Republican convention for the Twelfth Michigan district—the Upper Peninsula—has concluded its deliberations at Ishpeming, where it is scheduled to meet March 25. The result would not be so certain, according to the Roosevelt supporters, were the delegates to the district convention named at presidential preference primaries. They say, indeed, that the peninsula would declare for the colonel by a large majority. However the delegates are to be named at county conventions, and it is conceded that at these the administration faction will be predominant.

FACULTY INCREASED.

The Doctor's Answers on Health aud Beauty Questions

By DR. LEWIS BAKER.

The questions answered below are general in character, the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply to any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice, free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Ellwood Sts., Dayton, Ohio, enclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given, but only initials or fictitious names will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

"Distress," writes: "My hair is so oily and straggling I wish you could tell me something to make it soft and fluffy. It makes me positively homely. I also have a great deal of dandruff."

Answer: Many women would be more beautiful if they had soft, fluffy hair. I can tell you a very simple remedy, one that will make your hair soft and fluffy. It will cure dandruff, itching scalp and lusterless and falling hair. Ask your druggist for a 4 oz. jar of plain yellow minyol and use according to directions, and you will be surprised to note the difference in your hair.

"Fred W." writes: "I suffer with headache, indigestion, nervous debility and am also thin almost to the danger point. What can be done for me?"

Answer: You can very readily overcome these difficulties by using three-grain hyponuclane tablets. They are put up in sealed cartons with full directions. These are highly recommended by physicians, and if used according to directions you will soon be rid of your headache, your indigestion will be gone and you will gain from 10 to 30 pounds. These tablets should be taken regularly for several months, and you can depend on gaining flesh.

"Lee" writes: "I have tried so many remedies for rheumatism that I am almost afraid to try any more, but if you can tell me a sure cure I will try it."

Answer: Do not be disheartened because you have not been able to find something that would cure your rheumatism for you can be cured if you will take what I tell you. Get from the drug store: Iodide of potassium, 2 drams; sodium salicylate 4 drams; wine of colchicum, one-half oz.; comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz.; comp essence cardiol, 1 oz.; and syrup sarsaparilla, 5 ozs. Mix and take a teaspoonful at meal time and again before going to bed.

"Fern" writes: "I have suffered with a bad cough for some time and I am also weak and tired most of the time, which I think is due to the severe coughing. Can you give me a remedy?"

Answer: Yes, your weakness is due to the coughing, but you can be cured by using the following: Get a 2½ oz. package of essence mentho-laxene and make according to directions on the bottle, then take a teaspoonful every hour or two until the cough is cured. This makes a full pint of the very best and safest cough syrup. If your druggist does not have mentho-laxene have him order it for you of the wholesale firms.

Doctor: "What can I thake for a bad case of indigestion. I have suffered with it for many years and nothing I take helps at all. I am also bothered with constipation."

Answer: You should not neglect indigestion and constipation as it leads to more serious trouble, very frequently appendicitis is caused by this neglect. Begin at once and take tablets tripeptine. These are packed in sealed cartons with full directions for taking.

"Laura" S. writes: "I am so tired and nervous all the time that I can scarcely drag one foot after the other. It is very hard for me as I have to work. My appetite is also very poor."

Answer: What you need is a good tonic restorative treatment. Take the tonic prescribed below and you will soon be strong and healthy and will not have that tired feeling. Your work will become a pleasure to you. Syrup hyphophosphites comp. 5 ozs., tincture cadomene, 1 oz., mix, and take a teaspoonful before each meal. This should be continued for several weeks until you feel perfectly strong.

"Martha" writes: "If you know of a safe, harmless but effective remedy for reducing weight, please advise."

Answer: Purchase these two ingredients at the drug store and take a teaspoonful after each meal for three days, then double the dose continuing for several weeks or as long as necessary: Aromatic elixir, 5 ozs.; glycol arbelene, 1 oz. Mix by shaking well in a bottle and always shake before using. It is well to purchase these separately to avoid substitution.

"Anna R." writes: "I have taken medicine from several doctors for liver and kidney trouble and constipation, but it does not seem to help me at all. My skin is sallow. I have constant headaches, and dizzy spells. What shall I do?"

Answer: The best remedy that I know for your trouble is three grain sulpherb tablets (not sulphur tablets). These are packed in sealed tubes with full directions. Most of the remedies only relieve, but if you take the sulpherb tablets regularly for a few weeks you will be cured. This will purify the blood and your skin will lose that sallow look.

"Busy Mother"—Bedwetting can be easily cured in children by giving them the following: Tincture cubebs, 1 dram; tincture rhus aromatic, 2 drams, and comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz. Give from 10 to 15 drops in water an hour before each meal.

Doctor: "I have a very bad case of catarrh of the head and my stomach, bowels and blood are affected. I suffer greatly and would like a cure."

A. G.: Local treatment should be used as follows: Get 2 ozs. of antiseptic Vilane powder. Use a half teaspoonful to a pint of warm water; snuff the water from the palm of the hand through the nostrils two or three times a day. Then make a catarrh balm by mixing a level teaspoonful of Vilane powder with one ounce of vaseline or lard and apply to the nostrils as far up as possible. Also take a teaspoonful four times daily of the following: Syrup sarsaparilla comp. 4 ozs.; comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz.; fluid ext. buchu, 1 oz. Mix and shake well.

SAYS IT BRED SOCIALISM

Underwood Talks of the Supreme Court's Income Tax Decision.

Big Drainage Appropriation Proposed in House—Other Washington Doings.

Washington, March 19.—Oscar W. Underwood, Democratic leader, supporting the proposed income tax bill in the house, charged that the supreme court, by its annulment of the income tax in 1895, was responsible for the growth of Socialism in the United States.

The measure is expected to raise between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000 a year in revenue for the government. Multi-millionaires—Andrew Carnegie, J. Pierpont Morgan and John D. Rockefeller—would be compelled to pay their full share of tax under its terms, the Democratic leaders declared.

"When the government had the right to tax wealth," said Mr. Underwood, "we did not hear the Socialistic cry of these lees able to bear the burden of taxation. The spirit of unrest came when the supreme court abandoned its policy of 100 years, and five justices to four said in effect to congress that great wealth was to be exempted from taxation."

Defended by Underwood.

Mr. Underwood defended the measure under a rapid fire of questions from Republican Leader Mann, Representatives Madden of Illinois, Longworth of Ohio, and Campbell of Kansas, all regular Republicans.

A remarkable demonstration marked the speech of Representative Littleton of New York. He devoted more than an hour to citing from court records to prove the constitutionality of the bill, and urged its passage.

"I want to say that if we expect to tax the wealth of this country as we ought to tax it," he said, "we must not stand paralyzed before this impending influence of the court. We cannot forecast the judgment of the court, but we must not let that impede us.

"I do not want to be understood as railing at the judiciary," said Mr. Littleton. "I do, however, want to be understood as criticizing the supreme court's decision of 1895 on the income tax law, which cut off at one stroke three-fourths of the taxing power of the government."

Halted the Session.

Mr. Littleton occupied the space in front of the speaker's rostrum, surrounded by a small mountain of law books.

When he had concluded, practically the entire membership of the house flocked around him and it was with difficulty that order was restored. He was followed by Representatives Clayton of Alabama, Covington of Maryland, Sweet of Michigan, Democrats, for the bill, and Crumpacker of Indiana, Towner of Iowa and Malby of New York, Republicans, against it.

"Reasonable" Campaign Aid.

"What is a reasonable campaign contribution?" asked Senator McCumber of North Dakota while Senator Culberson of Texas was reading from the 1908 Democratic platform declaring for "reasonable contributions."

"Five thousand dollars," replied Mr. Culberson. He said that was the largest contribution to the Democratic fund last year, the largest Republican contribution being $110,000. Senator Oliver said the records show that Herman Ridder had given to the Democrats $35,000 or $40,000.

"Oh, that was merely given in labor," responded Mr. Culberson.

"In goods rather than in money," interjected Senator Gallinger.

Vote on Smoot Bill March 28.

The senate agreed to vote on the general service pension bill on the legislative day of Thursday, March 28. The pending measure was offered by Senator Smoot and favorably reported by the pensions committee as a substitute for the house dollar-a-day pension bill. The Smoot bill is estimated to carry an increased expenditure of more than $24,000,000 annually.

May Hire St. Louis Lawyer.

The house sub-committee preparing to conduct an inquiry into the "money trust" will consult with William Williams of St. Louis with a view to retaining him as counsel in the investigation. When hearings will begin is undecided. Treasury officials are expected to be the first witnesses called.

The other sub-committee, headed by Representative Glass of Virginia, to consider the Aldrich currency plan, has held only preliminary meetings, and no definite plans for hearings have been announced.

Blames Bell in Ray Case.

Luke E. Wright, former secretary of war, before the Heim investigating committee as a witness in the case of Maj. Beecher B. Ray, an army paymaster, passed responsibility for Maj. Ray's escape of a court-martial to Former Chief of Staff Gen. J. Franklin Bell. Gen. Bell is now in Manila.

Gen. Wright's recollection of the Ray case was faulty. He remembered the man, knew of charges made against him, and had extended Ray's tour of duty in the United States during the campaign of 1908 because of the necessity for an operation on Maj. Ray's wife, he said. In all of these actions he was influenced by Gen. Bell.

Gen. Wright volunteered an explanation for the mystery of the papers in the Ray case. He said his presumption was that Gen. Bell kept the papers secret because of the feud that existed between Maj. Ray and Lieut. Col. Wallace, a superior, in Manila.

For Drainage $25,000,000.

Twenty-five million dollars for the drainage of the swamp and other wet lands of the United States would be appropriated by a bill which Representative Stephens of Mississippi presented to congress. The bill apportions $5,000,000 annually to this feature of government reclamation work from 1912 to 1916 inclusive. The Stephens bill would reorganize the department of agriculture's drainage division. The community or company which organizes the drainage district would pay one-half the expense of drainage and the government the other half.

Talked of North Dakota.

The presidential primary in North Dakota was the subject of comment at various political headquarters in Washington. The La Follette headquarters, basing their prediction on reports from Senator La Follette and Manager W. L. Houser, predicted a plurality of the vote for Senator La Follette.

Senator Dixon, in a statement issued at the Roosevelt quarters, made no claims of a plurality for Col. Roosevelt, but predicted a heavy anti-Taft sentiment. He added that "no matter whether the Hanna-Roosevelt ticket or the Gronna-La Follette ticket wins, the North Dakota delegates will be anti-Taft and pro-Roosevelt at Chicago."

Wickersham Doesn't Know.

Attorney General Wickersham, replying to a house resolution asking for information as to the existence of a smelter trust, stated that there was no such information now in possession of the department.

Educational Test for Immigrants.

Senator Simmons advocated a reading and writing test for immigrants as an addition to the Dillingham immigration bill. The American people, he said, were in favor of such a restriction. Opposition to it, he asserted, came chiefly from the "steamship and railroad companies, which profit by hauling them in their ceaseless migration, and certain industrial interests which seek to secure cheaper labor than the American standard of living will allow." The influx of ignorant immigrants, the senator said, was largely the root of the recent trouble at Lawrence, Mass.

A HARMLESS WAY TO DARKEN THE HAIR

A Little Sage and Sulphur Makes Gray Hair Vanish—A Remedy For All Hair Troubles.

Who does not know the value of Sage and Sulphur for keeping the hair dark, soft and glossy and in good condition? As a matter of fact, Sulphur is a natural element of hair, and a deficiency of it in the hair is held by many scalp specialists to be connected with loss of color and vitality of the hair. Unquestionably, there is no better remedy for hair and scalp troubles, especially premature grayness, than Sage and Sulphur, if properly prepared.

The Wyeth Chemical Company of New York put out an ideal preparation of this kind, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, in which Sage and Sulphur are combined with other valuable remedies for keeping the hair and scalp in clean, healthy condition.

If your hair is loosing its color or constantly coming out, or if you are troubled with dandruff or dry, itchy scalp, get a fifty cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur from your druggist, use it according to the simple directions, and see what a difference a few days' treatment will make in the appearance of your hair.

All druggists sell it, under guarantee that the money will be refunded if the remedy is not exactly as represented.

FOUR NEW MEXICAN SOLONS ARE ARRESTED IN BRIBERY CHARGE

four legislators were taken to the county jail. After their arrival there they wrote their resignations, which will be presented to the house.

Walked Into Trap.

The trap to catch the men was laid by Fisego Baca of Albuquerque, manager for Judge Albert B. Fall, one of the leading candidates for United States senator; State Chairman Venceslao Jaramillo of the Republican central committee, also mentioned for a senatorship; Joseph D. Sena, clerk of the state supreme court, and A. A. Sena of the mounted police.

The men, it is said, had gone to Manager Baca earlier in the day and demanded $500 each for their votes, agreeing, so the story goes, to deliver them to Judge Fall. Immediately the proposal was placed before Judge Fall and plans were laid to catch the men.

The money was secured and the men were told to meet Baca in a room in a hotel at 9 o'clock. Officer Sena, Court Clerk Sena and Jaramillo secreted themselves in the bathroom adjoining, where they could see what took place, and as soon as the legislators had been handed the money the concealed men burst into the room.

Andrews Gains a Point.

Santa Fe., N. M., March 19.—The first skirmish in the contest in the first New Mexico legislature for the United States senatorships resulted, last night, in a victory for W. H. Andrews against the adherents of A. B. Fall and T. B. Catron.

The house at an evening session refused to concur in the rules adopted by the senate to govern the joint balloting on senatorships, and appointed a conference committee. The point of difference was the provision that the two senatorships should be voted on at the same time, a provision that is being fought by the supporters of Andrews.

the basis for their contracts, Mr. McLaughlin said practically the entire bituminous coal field, with 400,000 men involved, would face a suspension of business.

"Even if there is no strike, the shutting down of the mines until an agreement can be drawn up is certain," said Mr. McLaughlin. "There absolutely is no other way out of it. Neither the miners nor the operators would be willing to operate without an agreement, even if the miners show a disposition not to strike. How long business will be stopped cannot be forecasted."

Taft Seeking Peace.

The Record-Herald today says President Taft may take a hand in the coal situation to avert a strike in the anthracite fields.

Alarmed over the political possibilities of a general strike of coal miners, the president is said to be preparing to follow the precedent established by his predecessor in office in 1902 and bring pressure to bear on the anthracite operators to make concessions in the interests of peace.

To gain information on the subject, President Taft has called John Mitchell, former president of the United Mine Workers, to Washington for a conference.

Will Decide Wednesday.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 19.—Another day is expected to determine whether there is to be war or peace between the operators and miners in the bituminous coal fields of Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. It was said here by representatives of both sides that the result of the conference tomorrow would be accurately forecasted by developments at the first morning session.

The operators demand a wage decrease. The miners are equally firm in their demand for a wage increase. The best either side hopes for is a compromise. Bituminous miners all over the United States and Canada, numbering approximately 306,000, are expected to abide by the result of the conference here which opens tomorrow morning. If a strike is called, nearly half a million men will be rendered idle when the struggle begins April 1, the date on which the anthracite miners also will walk out unless a compromise is effected.

Whatever the result of the conference, it will be necessary for the miners to vote on the action taken by their representatives before the actual result of the dispute can be known.

New York Less Scared.

New York, March 19.—There was a subsidence of the anthracite strike scare today, and in consequence there was a falling off in the pressing demand for hard coal from frightened consumers. The belief is gaining ground that both sides will reach an agreement, and that if there is a suspension of work on April 1 it will not last long. The operators say they are ready to confer with the men on any reasonable proposition and consider the situation from all angles. There are also reports from the hard coal region that the miners' officials are ready to meet the operators half way.

The report from the West that President Taft may be asked to take a hand in the situation to avert a strike was read with interest, but there was no comment made by the operators.

Meanwhile the operators are said to be doing nothing toward preparing for a strike. Local hotels, hospitals and transit lines are well stocked with coal in preparation for a long strike.

ALLENS NOT CORNERED

calling for volunteers to aid in storming the position of the fugitives.

Just Missed Nephew.

Interest shifted from the Devil's Den to Squirrel's Spur late yesterday when a large posse which had been scouring the mountains on the North Carolina side barely missed Wesley Edwards, a nephew of the older Allen, at his cabin eight miles east of Sidna Allen's. Edwards escaped through a back door. His sister told the officers that Sidna Allen, suffering from a severe wound, had been at the cabin Sunday and had told Wesley to meet him at Squirrel's Spur last night.

Taking Edwards' trail, the posse followed him to the rendezvous, arriving near the foot of the cliff about 10 o'clock. Not daring to do more in the darkness, the detectives placed themselves to prevent the possibility of an escape. News that they have moved against the Allens is expected momentarily.

Here in Hillsville the belief is growing that the fugitives, with a full day's start on their pursuers, have escaped and scattered into remote villages. They would scarcely meet acquaintances after traveling twenty-five miles in any direction. If they have fled in pairs, perhaps to reunite somewhere in North Carolina, West Virginia or Tennessee, there would be no hope of immediate capture.

To determine this definitely, Capt. H. W. Davant of the state militia is anxious to surround the mountains with 200 men and peer into every nook and corner day after day, stationing guards on the principal highways to cut off food supplies.

BAY MILLS, MICH., IS ONLY MEMORY

Once Thriving Village Has Been Practically Wiped Off the Earth.

Bay Mills, Mich., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Within a month it is likely that hardly a vestige of Bay Mills will remain with the exception of the old docks where ships once were wont to take on big cargoes and the huge sawdust heaps, the existence of which explain the passing of a decadent village that a decade and more ago was one of the most active and prosperous lumber manufacturing towns in Upper Michigan.

The town is fast being dismantled. Nearly all of the seven-score buildings that comprised the village have recently been sold by the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company, which some years ago purchased the land holdings of the former operators of the Bay Mills industrial plants, and the structures are now being torn down and the material shipped away. The remaining buildings are doomed to like disposal. The dwelling houses and the business and other structures were only recently put on the market. Many of the buildings have been sold to farmers and summer resorters in the nearby region.

MANISTIQUE BOY IS DISFIGURED BY CAT.

Manistique, Mich., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Attacked by the family cat, Robert Johnson, 4 years old, of Indiantown, a suburb, had his face so badly lacerated by the animal's claws that a physician had to be called to attend the youngster. One cut had to be closed with stitches. It is likely the boy will bear the scars for life.

WOULD ESTABLISH ALIBI AS SPERRY'S DEFENSE.

Fargo, N. D., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—An alibi will be the defense for young Sperry charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of young McKenzie of Aneta, Nelson county. The witnesses at the trial here today endeavored to show that Sperry was in the opera house at the time of the tragedy.

Arrest Mill City Cigarmaker.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 19.—Charged with failure to make proper revenue reports to the federal authorities, Michael McGuirk, a cigar manufacturer here, was placed under arrest by United States deputy marshals from St. Paul and taken to St. Paul for arraignment. Recently federal authorities confiscated a large quantity of cigars found in the McGuirk factory.

Death Points to Aching Kidneys

U. S. Government Statistics Show Over 100,000 Deaths a Year From Kidney and Bladder Diseases.

The appalling death rate from kidney and bladder diseases in the United States is enough to make any man or woman, who has the first sign of these troubles, turn pale with fear. Kidney disease is the "snake" among all diseases. Pain in the back means that you have already had kidney trouble for some time. Deaths occur by the thousands from sheer negligence.

Dr. Clarke, the great specialist, has put into Dr. Clarke's Kidney Wafers the result of 18 years of remarkable success in curing dangerous kidney and bladder diseases. Take them tonight—you'll feel their effects tomorrow. They save the kidneys—make them work normally—and save you.

Dr. Clarke's Kidney Wafers are the only kidney treatment that makes good its strongest statement. If you have pain in the back, profuse or scanty, cloudy or foul urine, rheumatism, diabetes, bladder pains, Catarrh of the Bladder, your search for a cure should end, if you buy a 25c box of Dr. Clarke's Kidney Wafers, at any drug store, or sent direct, on receipt of price, by Regent Drug Company, 42 Regent Bldg., Detroit, Mich.

If you want to prove their wonderful results first, just ask your druggist for a free sample package. Get it and try it. You'll be convinced. If you want any advice about your kidney or bladder trouble, just write to the above company. It will be given free and cheerfully.

Dr. Clarke's Tonicum, the great strength builder. A remarkable remedy for nervous weakness and general debility. Harmless—pleasant—efficient. Two weeks' treatment 50 cents, at all druggists.

TRAIN KILLS FIVE MEN IN SURREY

One Body Carried to Town on Pilot—Horses Are Uninjured.

Ellettsville, Ind., March 19.—Five men in a surrey were killed outright by a passenger train on the Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville railroad at a crossing near here early today. They had spent last night at a theater at Bloomington and were driving to Spencer, where they were employed as glass blowers.

The engine struck the surrey squarely and splintered it. Four of the men were thrown clear of the track, but the body of one was caught by the pilot of the locomotive and carried a mile and a half to this city. Trainmen went back to the crossing and found the torn bodies. The two horses hitched to the surrey were not hurt.

action with the speech delivered yesterday by Winston Spencer Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, in the British house of commons.

Called on Von Tirpitz.

This view is strengthened by the fact that the emperor, in the course of the morning paid a long visit to Admiral Albert P. von Tirpitz, secretary of the imperial navy, immediately after which leading officers of the admiralty staff assembled in conference, the object of which is not disclosed.

The reason impelling the emperor to change the plans of his foreign trip must be quite important, as it will involve the embarrassment of Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria and King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, whose arrangements for the meeting have all been made.

Public opinion of the speech of Winston Spencer Churchill has not yet crystallized, but his references to Germany are regarded in many quarters as highly inopportune, in view of the attempts being made to reach an understanding between the two countries.

Makes Sharp Reply.

Cologne, Germany, March 19.—In replying to the speech made yesterday by Churchill in the British house of commons, the Cologne Gazette adopts an unusually sharp tone. It says in substance that Great Britain must decide from the standpoint of her own interests what increase of her fleet is necessary, and that Germany must do the same thing. It continues:

"Germany hardly will ever have a navy equal to that of Great Britain, but if Germany's navy is to be destroyed, the victory must cost the enemy so heavily that England will have few resources left to defend her great international interests."

between the La Follette and the Roosevelt men.

The weather today is favorable to Roosevelt, according to his supporters, who contend that the rural districts are for La Follette and will have difficulty in getting to the polls. La Follette supporters insist that the bad weather will not prevent La Follette from winning, but may materially reduce his majority. A rapid fall in temperature has occurred in the northwestern corner of the state, and a light snow storm is prevailing in the southwestern counties. The western half of the state is cold, with a high gale blowing from the north. After the rapid thaw yesterday and the freeze today, the country roads are in bad shape, which will prevent many rural voters from going to the polls.

Roosevelt Men Hopeful.

Campaign managers for Theodore Roosevelt said that reports received from Bismarck, Mandan and other points in the western end of the state showed that Col. Roosevelt had lost nothing as a result of Senator La Follette's speech-making tour. The Roosevelt men declared that the trend of the voting indicated victory for them, although they admitted the race was close.

Because of the municipal and other local contests to be decided with the presidential preference primary, actual results will be very slow in coming in, except where groups of judges have agreed to count and announce the presidential figures first.

It is doubtful if the actual result between Col. Roosevelt and Senator La Follette will be known before a comparatively late hour on Wednesday.

No Democratic Contest.

Among the Democrats there is no contest in the matter of a presidential choice, Governor John Burke's name appears alone on the ticket. This fact has led to interesting speculation. From reliable sources it was learned today that many Democrats, realizing that one vote only would be as good as a thousand registered for Burke, were casting ballots in favor of La Follette in order to embarass Roosevelt, and thus widen the breach in the Republican party.

RAILROADS

LOW RATES WILL BE OFFERED

Minnesota Roads Will Break the Three Cent Rule.

St. Paul, Minn., March 19.—A departure from the rigid policy adopted by Minnesota railroads to exact the full legal passenger rate of 3 cents a mile has been decided on by the Northern Pacific, Great Northern and Soo Line, with respect to Minnesota tourist rates for this summer. It is announced that the Northern lines will make a 2-cent rate from the Twin Cities to the important resorts, restoring a basis which was effective before the enactment of the 2-cent fare law by the Minnesota legislature.

The rate will go in about May 29 and will be offered daily until Oct. 31. The limit of the tickets will be thirty days. The selling period will be available for people going fishing or hunting and for outing.

The rate will not conflict with commutation tickets to nearby lake points, which are on a basis of a little less than 2 cents a mile.

The Northern Pacific announced yesterday that the spring schedule to White Bear and other points will go in about May 1. The Great Northern made some changes in its train service to Lake Minnetonka points last Friday, the installation of the regular summer schedule is pending on the weather outlook, but it is expected to put on more trains before the middle of May.

That the railroads are "breaking over" a little at a time is also evinced by the prospect that 2 cents a mile will be made on account of some Norwegian gathering in July. The Norwegian National Singing festival will be held at Fargo, N. D., July 12 to 14, while the Sons of Norway will hold their national convention at the same place July 10 and 11. The Normanna association will meet at Willmar, Minn., about the same time. Low rates to these meetings probably will be made by both the Northern and the lines in the Western Passenger association.

NEW YORK CENTRAL'S RAIL TO BE ANALYZED.

New York, March 19.—The New York Central & Hudson River Railroad company has accepted the offer of the United States government to conduct a scientific test in the investigation of the derailing of Twentieth Century Flyer on the Hudson division last week, and the broken rail will be sent to Washington for analysis by the bureau of standards of the interstate commerce commission. A piece of the rail about three feet in length still is missing, but search for it is being continued.

STILWELL TO QUIT THE K. C., M. & O. ROAD.

New York, March 19.—Arthur E. Stilwell, president and promotor of the Kansas City, Mexico & Orient railroad, who accused the "money trust" of being responsible for the recent receivership of that property, has written a letter of resignation and deposited it with a committee of bondholders headed by Samuel Untermyer, the Times says this morning. It will be accepted, it is stated, when the committee has ready a plan of reorganization. Mr. Stilwell has consented to retire, according to the Times, at the instance of English financiers interested in the property.

MILWAUKEE ROAD PLANS EXTENSIVE TRACKING.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 19.—According to an announcement made at the offices of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway, one of the principal improvements which are to be begun soon by the road at a cost of $5,000,000 is the double tracking of what is known as the H. & D. divisions between Minneapolis and the Missouri river. About 400 miles will be double tracked, at a cost of approximately $2,500,000.

EXPECT BRYAN TO TELL HIS CHOICE

Leaders Gathered at Birthday Celebration Hope He Will Speak Up.

Lincoln, Neb., March 19.—W. J. Bryan was 52 years old today, and the annual birthday dinner which will be given tonight in his honor has brought to Lincoln many of the prominent party leaders of the country.

Mr. Bryan, who has been making an extended speaking tour, was expected to reach Lincoln from Chicago in time to take part in a conference during the day concerning presidential candidates and party policies. The conference will be limited to those representing the so-called "progressive" faction of the party, but tonight's function will include Democrats of all shades of political belief.

It is among the possibilities that a declaration will be made in favor of some particular presidential candidate. Mr. Bryan has not yet declared his choice of those mentioned in connection with the nomination, and speculation this morning was as to whether he would break his silence.

The list of speakers besides Mr. Bryan includes Ex-Senator R. F. Pettigrew, South Dakota; Senator T. P. Gore, Oklahoma; George F. Williams, Massachusetts; Frederick Townsend Martin, New York; Congressman R. L. Henry, Texas, and Congressman Ollie M. James, Kentucky.

Munising Man's Close Call.

Munising, Mich., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Nicholas Hajjar, a Munising jeweler, narrowly escaped death when he attempted to board a passenger coach when the train was in motion. He missed his hold and fell. A brakeman, Armour King, standing on the car platform, grabbed at Hajjar and with a remarkable exhibition of strength dragged the man to safety in the very nick of time. The jeweler escaped with a bruised shoulder.

Hillman Case Appealed.

Washington, March 19.—The supreme court has been asked to review the conviction of Clarence D. Hillman of Seattle, Wash., on an indictment alleging fraudulent use of the mails. The court took the application under advisement.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

Eleven Hundred Delegates Will Be Entitled to Seats.

Thirty-Nine for St. Louis County, According to Table Issued.

St. Paul, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—There will be 1,100 delegates in the next Republican state convention, according to the report issued today by Julius A. Schmahl, secretary of state. Five hundred and fifty-one will be necessary to make a choice. St. Louis county will have thirty-nine delegates in the convention.

The report from Mr. Schmahl was issued at the request of E. E. Smith, chairman of the state central committee, and is as follows:

If the representation in the Republican state convention is to be based on five delegates at large for each county, and one delegate for each 250 votes, or major fraction thereof, cast at the last election for the Republican nominees for governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, auditor, treasurer and attorney general the following figures, compiled from the official returns in the office of the secretary of state, are to be used. Pennington county, not having been created until after the last election, is given only five votes at large:

CYR CLEARED OF BLAME FOR KILLING

Coroner's Jury Exonerates Him for Death of Fournier.

Bemidji, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—That George Cyr was justified in killing Paul Fournier at Quiring, this county, on Thursday, March 14, when he shot him to death, was the conclusion reached by a jury under Coroner Ibertson and Attorney Torrance. Cyr and Robert Logan, with whom Fournier lived, and several other witnesses were examined. It was said Fournier sought trouble with Cyr and had declared he would get a settlement with Cyr or kill both Cyr and his wife.

County Attorney Torrance will probably hold a hearing next Saturday. Cyr is held in the county jail pending the outcome of the investigations by the county attorney.

NO VERDICT REACHED YET IN TRUSKETT CASE.

Independence, Kan., March 19.—No verdict in the third trial of A. A. Truskett, charged with the murder of J. D. S. Neeley, the Lima, Ohio, oil promoter, had been reached when the district court opened here today. Judge Flannelly said he would not discharge the jury, which has been out since Saturday afternoon, until the last hope of reaching an agreement was gone.

Gigantic Load of Posts.

Shingleton, Mich., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the way of enormous loads of cedar fence posts, claim to the championship of the state is laid by the woodsmen at the camp of Ed Cookson, near Shingleton. The load that they declared broke the record contained 4,113 posts and was hauled by one team. It was forty feet long, with the center stakes on the sleigh twelve feet high. There were enough posts to fill two and one-half railroad cars.

MAN FROM WOODS KILLED BY TRAIN

Bemidji, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the left leg severed above the ankle, the right leg broken and the head badly lacerated, the body of O. Rice, a woodsman, was found at an early hour this morning alongside the Great Northern tracks, at a crossing in the west end of the city. The body was found by Conductor Johnson who was in charge of eastbound freight train.

Rice had been working for the J. Nelis Lumber company in the vicinity of Cass Lake. He came to Bemidji early last evening from Cass Lake and was seen on streets near the depot. It is believed he wandered onto the tracks in the west end of the city and was struck by a passing train and instantly killed. Rice had evidently been dead several hours.

On the body was found a check for $100, signed by A. Marshiko, Cass Lake, $35 in currency. It is said Rice was formerly a resident of Fargo, N. D. The body is being held by Coroner Ibertson pending further investigation of cause of death

HE FAILED TO REGISTER.

So Lake Linden Alderman-Elect Cannot Serve.

Lake Linden, Mich., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because he neglected to register as a voter, Ransom Pearce has been denied a seat on the village council, to which he was chosen at the recent election. Mr. Pearce is 23 years old and a native of Lake Linden.

The village charter provides that "no person shall be elected or appointed to any office unless he shall be an elector of the village." It is held by the village attorney that, not having enrolled himself, Mr. Pearce is not a qualified elector, even though he is a native-born citizen and has lived in the town all his life. This view has been accepted by the council and the trusteeship to which Mr. Pearce was elected has been declared vacant. Mr. Pearce says that he was ill on registration day a year ago, and that this year he was out of town.

GAS AND WATER PLANTS EARNED $127,123 IN 1911

Annual Report of Board Is Filed With City Council.

Value of Plant $3,818,289, With Indebtedness of $3,321,000.

THE REPORT IN A NUTSHELL.

The department has 127 miles of water mains and 111 miles of gas mains.

Net earnings of water department for year, 1911, were $94,285.15 and of the gas department, $32,838.04, making a total of $127,123.19.

The department expended 190,310.97 for construction and improvements during the year. This came from the net earnings and $55,381.18 of the $200,000 bond issue.

The Lakewood station pumped 3,520,331,000 gallons during the year.

The department is bonded for $3,321,000.

The inventory of the plants shows a value of $3,818,289.66.

The report figures that the two departments have saved the citizens $2,551,786.81 in reduced gas and water rates.

Showing net earnings for the year 1911, of $127,123.19, the annual report of the water and light department, filed last evening with the city council, contains many facts and figures of much interest to the citizens of Duluth.

The report of the water board summarizes the work of the year. It is in part as follows:

"The transmission of this report to your honorable body has been delayed for the reason that after its preparation, owing to charges and criticisms that were made in the recent municipal campaign, the board concluded to have the books of the department audited by some disinterested accountant so as to verify the results of the last year's business. For that purpose it employed the firm of Marwick, Mitchell & Co. of Minneapolis, who have made a thorough examination of the books and whose approval of the figures herein given for the last year's business is attached to the manager's report.

"The department now has 127 miles and 1,285 feet of water mains and 111 miles and 3,917 feet of gas mains. Of this 74 miles and 829 fet of water mains and 82 miles and 974 feet of gas mains have been laid since the city acquired the plants.

Capacity of Plant.

"The reservoir capacity of the water department is 28,500,000 gallons. When the plant was acquired by the city the capacity was 5,000,000. The capacity of the gas holders is 718,000 cubic feet. Of this amount 518,000 feet have been added by the city. The single pumping station at Fourteenth avenue east purchased by the city with the water plant is not now in use but the department operates six pumping stations, the main station at Lakewood, the Fifteenth avenue east station, the Woodland station, the Booster pump station at Forty-sixth avenue west, the Duluth Heights station, and the Orphanage station, all equipped with engine, pumps and machinery and at each is maintained the necessary men to operate and keep the machinery in repair. When the plants were acquired there were 2,246 water connections and 1,111 gas connections. There are now 10,630 water connections and 7,967 gas connections.

"In the year 1911 the department laid 12 miles and 1,398 feet of water mains and 12 miles and 2,484 feet of gas mains. The number of service extensions made during the year was 1,016. There were 916 water meters installed and 810 gas meters.

Earnings.

The total earnings of the water plant for the year were $285,513.18
Those of the gas plant were. 214,291.26

Total $499,804.44

"The operating expenses for the year including interest on the bonded debt were:

Water plant $191,228.03
Gas plant 181,453.22

Totals $372,681.25

"This leaves surplus earnings for the year of the two plants, $127,123.19.

"Expenditures for construction and improvements during the year were $190,310.97—$53,381.18 of which came from the bond issue and the balance from the surplus earnings of the department. The cash on hand January 1, 1912, was $121,618.82.

Year's Improvements.

"Not all of the work contracted to be done during the year 1911 was finished. The feeder main being put in Third alley westward from Sixteenth avenue east has been laid to Mesaba avenue and the pipeline in First street to connect therewith is now being laid over the point of rocks from Eleventh avenue west to Piedmont avenue. Of the extension to the upper hillside district in the West end 13,500 feet of water pipe has been laid and 2,164 feet yet remains to be laid.

"One of the improvements planned for 1911 was the building of a reservoir on the hillside back of the main part of the city from which to supply the territory that is now supplied from the wooden tanks located on the property owned by the department at Second avenue east and Thirteenth street. A reservoir to take the place of these tanks is very much needed as the tanks will soon be inadequate. This was one of the improvements planned to be paid for out of the bond issue voted at the election in February last. As soon as the bonds were sold the board caused plans for a 5,000,000 gallon reservoir to be prepared and advertised for bids for the work on the site owned by the department. About the time of the receiving of the bids for this work it was suggested to the board that a saving could be effected in the building of the proposed reservoir by utalizing a portion of the canyon just to the east of the site owned by the city where Brewery creek comes down from the hills above. The board thereupon made a careful study both of the old site where the tanks are located and the proposed new one and ascertained these facts:

"That a large part of the cost of constructing the reservoir on the site owned by the city would be in excavation; that if Brewery creek ravine were utilized practically no excavation would be required as concrete walls could be built across the canyon which are from thirty to forty feet high could be utilized as additional walls and a saving be thus effected. It was further ascertained that a possible danger in constructing the reservoir on the site owned by the city existed as the formation was gravel, the site was on a side hill, and the engineers were undecided as to whether or not concrete walls could be so built on a gravel bed as to prevent leakage or as to whether or not the pressure of the water on the lower side of a reservoir built on so much of a slope against a bank of sand and gravel might not receive so great a pressure as to cause it to give way and flood the portion of the city over the brow of the hills unless an expensive retaining wall were built on the lower side. It must be understood that the department has had no experience in building reservoirs in sand or gravel. All our reservoirs lie in beds of heavy clay.

New Reservoir This Year.

"In view of these facts the board determined to abandon the idea of constructing a reservoir on the existing site and at once took steps to acquire necessary ground for the purpose of a site in Brewery creek canyon. These proceedings necessarily prevented the building of the proposed reservoir in 1911 but if no unforeseen cause prevents a reservoir adequate in all respects to supply the needs of the hillside territory will be constructed in 1912 out of the moneys voted by the people for the purpose which the department now has on hand.

"Up to 1911 the department had no special engineer but was dependent upon the city engineer for its advice and work in the engineering line. As the bulk of the work of the departmet came at a time in the year when the engineering departmet of the city was over-crowded with street work it was utterly impossible for the city engineer to give to the work of the water department such attention as the board felt that it needed. Accordingly early in the year the board employed E. W. Kelly as special engineer of the department. This has enabled the department to keep a closer watch upon the work in the field, than it formerly did, as Mr. Kelly has personally directed the work being done under contract.

Tribute to Johnson.

"In August occurred the death of Supt Johnson. Mr. Johnson came to the department with the plant, he having been an employe of the old Gas & Water company. He has seen practically the entire system of pipe lines laid and knew by heart every part of the work. Many times, in years gone by while the people of Duluth were peacefully slumbering on beds of ease, Johnson has stood amid rain and snow over an open trench directing the repair of a broken main in order that the patrons of the department might not be inconvenienced for lack of water when they arose in the morning. It is probable that the exposure to which he was subjected had much to do with his untimely death. Daniel Keefe who has had charge of the West Duluth end of the system ever since its purchase by the city has been promoted to Mr. Johnson's place.

Criticism.

"The year 1911, like most of its predecessors since municipal ownership began in Duluth, has been prolific in criticisms of this department. They have taken various forms and have come from various directions, but generally have emanated from one source. It is probable that some of these criticisms are honestly made without full knowledge of the workings of the department or its exact status but others we know to have been made from personal spite or hope of business gain.

"That the management of the department is no nearer perfect than human institutions usually are is to be expected. Some mistakes have been made but, we believe, none so serious as to call for condemnation of municipal ownership of such utilities. When it is considered that this enterprise was undertaken by the city with no capital except its credit and that its people were wholly inexperienced in public management of business enterprise it seems to us almost phenomenal that this department can make the showing that it makes today; for whatever criticisms may be made as to details of management these great facts stand out in glaring prominence: that for impure water and typhoid epidemics municipal control has given pure water and healthy; that the price of gas and water to the consumer has been reduced so that the saving effected to the patrons of the department since the city has operated the plants has been $2,551,786 as compared with what they would have paid under prices formerly charged, and that the actual salable value of the plants coupled with the exclusive right of operation would be not less than $2,000,000 in excess of what the city has invested.

"All of which is respectfully submitted.

"T. T. HUDSON, Vice President.

Increase of surplus over 1910..... 469.80

These four accounts are intended to be self-supporting only. In other words it has been the policy of the department to supply water meters, service extensions, stoves and lamps to the consumers of water and gas at cost.

At the close of the year 1910, it was found that the surplus has increased over that of 1909 by $8,377.35.

It was therefore determined that the prices of water meters and service extension could stand a reduction, and they were reduced, water meters $1 each and service extension, heretofore $1 per foot, to 90 cents.

The increase of the surplus in 1911 was as a result but $469.80, showing the wisdom of the reduced prices.

Had the former prices been continued the surplus would have been fully $8,000 more than it was, the earnings of the department being decreased that much.

Our Great Easter Offer

What to do? What to wear? What to read? What to eat? A woman's work is a series of questions. Think what it means to have a hundred fellow workers ready to help you with their advice. Think what it is to have on hand a storehouse of answers to your most perplexing questions—

1500 answers to 1500 questions for 15 cents—all in a single magazine.

What are you most interested in?

People?
Here are three of the most interesting: Cecilie, the Crown Princess of Germany; Max Reinhardt, who produced Sumurun, the wordless play all New York is talking about; Oscar Hammerstein who has made the musical world of two continents sit up and take notice.

Public Spirit?
Here is a way in which women can put the Moving Picture Shows to good use so as to help the town.

Self-Support?
One woman is making a living running a successful boarding-house. She tells how she does it.

Art?
Olive Rush has painted a picture which is reproduced in full color on fine art paper by a remarkable new process. You will also like the cover by Douglas Volk.

Health?
The article on Exterminating the House Fly comes in good season for work this summer. "Good Health as an Asset" ought to be read by every woman.

Women's Clubs?
A remarkable department, outlining work for ten different representative clubs.

Literature?
When Miss Gilder tells what she thinks of Arnold Bennett you will find it is just what we all think.

Shall I entertain this month?
If you do, you will want to know about April Fool Parties, April Showers and plain April parties.

Are the children troublesome?
Give them something to do. Here is a post-card projector that will interest all boys, and more Kewpies for both boys and girls.

Is baby cutting teeth?
Don't worry. Just consult Dr. Dennett, the New York specialist, whose department, "The Healthy Baby," now takes up this question, so important to mothers.

Do you give Easter presents?
A Page of Gifts for Easter tells about one kind, while "In Cut Leather and Silk" tells about another. Then there is the new gilt braid fancy work, among which are some good ideas.

An Easter Hat?
A page of them, from a small turban to a picture hat.

Clothes?
"A Costume for Afternoon Tea," in colors, is one of 100 suggestions for gowns.

What are they wearing in New York?
Miss Gould recently spent a most interesting day. She started in the rooms of a fashionable dressmaker, where smart New York women order their gowns. She went to luncheon, afternoon reception, tea, dinner and the theatre. She describes what the women who know how to dress are wearing at these functions.

What shall we have for dinner?
Fannie Merritt Farmer is one of those cooks who create real enthusiasm for cooking. She suggests a menu for every meal in the month of April, with a glorious dinner for Easter. "Sixteen Unusual Sandwiches," "Fourteen Delicious Soups" and "Ten Maple Sugar Recipes" make your mouth water.

What shall we read?
Olive Rush who painted the full-page picture in colors in this number, was a pupil of the late Howard Pyle. Howard Pyle could write as well as draw. If you do not believe it, read his story, "When I was a Little Boy." Do you remember what a hit Kathleen Norris' story "Mother" made? She has now begun a new story—a serial this time. Carolyn Wells, Mary Stewart Cutting and Mary Hastings Bradley are well known to Woman's Home Companion readers. They all have stories in this number.

Shall we have a garden?
If so, what shall we plant? How shall we make it grow? Do you want "A Garden of Annual Shrubs" or "Hardy Vines for Use and Beauty?"

A friend in need is a friend indeed
That is why The Companion has so many friends. They simply cannot keep house without it.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

HOLDS ALL ARE FELLOW SERVANTS

Supreme Court Classes Repair and Operating Department Together.

Washington, March 19.—The supreme court has decided that employes in a car repair department of a railroad are fellow servants of employes in the operating department, thereby excusing the employing railroad from liability for negligent injuries to the former class by the latter.

"The doctrine of fellow servant is established," said Justice Holmes "whatever may be thought of it."

He added that it was for congress to change the law, if bad; not for the courts.

MORGAN BUYS WINNIPEG PLANTS

Pays $30,000,000 for Street Car, Heat, Light and Power Business.

Winnipeg, Man., March 19.—The purchase of the Winnipeg Street railway lines, and the heat, light and power plants by the J. P. Morgan interests of New York, was completed late yesterday. The price paid was $30,000,000. Joseph H. Choate, Jr., of New York, is here representing Mr. Morgan in the deal. The purchasers announce that $15,000,000 will be expended in extensions.

The only remaining act to complete the transfer will be a special act of the legislature which is now in session.

The property was formerly owned by Sir William Mackenzie, president of the Canadian Northern railway.

GREGORY JOINS IN THE FIGHT OVER LEWIS.

Washington, March 19.—S. S. Gregory of Chicago, president of the American Bar association, has taken a hand in the fight over the membership of W. H. Lewis, a negro, and an assistant attorney general of the United States in the association. Lewis was ousted by the executive committee. President Gregory has sent a letter to every member of the association. Attorney General Wickersham, who is conducting a vigorous fight for his assistant, has heard of two other members of the association who are said to be negroes. One is a Minneapolis lawyer and another livse in Boston. The attorney general has asked the officers of the bar association to reconcile the membership of those men to their action in ousting Lewis.

MAJ. SHUNK EXPLAINS.

Made No Reference on Recent Report to Navigation Question.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—In a letter to the Commercial club, Maj. Shunk of St. Paul explains away a misapprehension which has arisen in connection with a recently published report concerning the improvement of the Red river, and which it was supposed was based upon his recent inquiry.

The major states that the report is an old one, filed by him in 1910, and which had just come to light through the war department's action in filing it with the house commission on rivers and harbors.

In his report made on the recent inquiry, Maj. Shunk made no reference to the navigation question, having made no investigation into the proposition of constructing locks or dams, as proposed by the river interests that are at work before congress in an effort to secure an appropriation for a survey of the Red River valley.

THE NORTH DAKOTA PRIMARY.

Today, for the first time in the history of this Republic, the people of a state are voting, at a legal primary election, on candidates for presidential nominations. North Dakota is the state which has the honor to lead in the van of progress, and it is to be congratulated on its patriotic progress.

It is a far cry from the day when the framers of the Constitution very carefully tied up even the election of the president out of the reach of the people to the day when the people not only elect their president by direct vote, but in some states vote directly on presidential nominations.

This is far more important, and far more interesting, than the issue of who shall prevail at today's presidential primary in North Dakota.

From all reports, it looks like La Follette would win the popular victory in North Dakota, with Roosevelt second and Taft a bad third. The Democratic delegation will be for Governor Burke.

This will not help La Follette very much, because there is nobody so sanguine as to believe it possible for him to be nominated, and it will hurt Roosevelt's candidacy quite a bit. Though North Dakota is the state where Roosevelt, by a season of ranch life, turned himself from a spindling and rather feeble youth to a rugged, boisterously vigorous and healthful specimen of manhood, his candidacy is rather handicapped there. He is handicapped by the support of McKenzie's Old Guard, which, oddly enough, is back of him to a man. It isn't so odd, either, when it is remembered that a McKenzie Old Guarder would have little difficulty in making a choice between Roosevelt and La Follette, when there was no use making a struggle for Taft.

Though a North Dakota victory for La Follette would hurt Roosevelt and not profit La Follette greatly, still there is no place in the situation where Taft can find comfort. A president who is a candidate for re-election, and who finds himself a negligible factor in a popular primary in a state of more than average intelligence like North Dakota, is separated from the goal of his ambition by an impassable abyss.

"Dr. Wiley has done some splendid work," was Secretary Wilson's statement following the pure food expert's resignation. Perhaps the secretary could have given no clearer exposition of the reason that led to Wiley's being forced out.

WHERE'S THE "RULE OF REASON?"

The United States supreme court rules that railroad employes in the car repair department are "fellow servants" of employes in the operating department.

In other words, if inefficient work in a car repair shop causes the injury of a brakeman, conductor, engineer or fireman on the road, the injured man can't recover from the railroad. It is not the railroad's fault, but the fault of some "fellow servant" in the repair shops.

"The doctrine of fellow servant is established," said Justice Holmes in his decision, "whatever may be thought of it. It is for congress to change the law, not the court."

Here, plainly, is another decision that ought to be "recalled" by appropriate legislation.

Somebody started a report that there is a volcano under the Panama canal. The only volcano connected with the big ditch is the one founded on the taking of that territory from Colombia.

LABOR SHOULD MEET IT.

Throughout the history of organized labor the movement for unionism has been justified by its defenders as a necessary step to meet the organization of capital. Arguments have been advanced intended to discredit unionism, but no satisfactory answer has been found to the plea of the necessity of counter-organization.

Today a body of representative manufacturers and business men is in session in New York City to found an "Efficiency society," designed to promote efficiency in industrial and commercial establishments. The efficiency campaign is comparatively recent, and in certain forms it has met with determined opposition from organized labor. Some of this opposition has been based upon apparently good grounds. Any efficiency system that cuts down the earning power and the industrial rights of the wage earner should be opposed. But at other points there appears to be quite as much in favor of the efficiency system, from the worker's standpoint, as can be found against it from the same point of view.

That the efficiency campaign would sooner or later take on some such form as that sought at this New York meeting was inevitable, but what the attitude of organized labor will be toward the Efficiency society has yet to be shown.

The best step for organized labor would seem to be the formation of a counter organization an efficiency society within the ranks of organized labor, which shall strive to make every member of the labor body a better workman, worth more to his employers and of more individual value to society at large, and to see that labor shares fairly in the benefits from this joining of efficiency forces. The movement would not only be a conclusive answer to the charge that unionism tends to lower individual efficiency and limit output, but would give organized labor a firm basis on which to meet this new organization of capital. It would furnish a means toward that completer understanding and identity of interest between employer and employe that must be established if our industrial and commercial system is to attain to its greatest possible development and our wage-earners are to secure their fair share of the products of their toil.

The English suffragettes are threatening to use bombs next. But their real bravery will not be apparent until they take to handling mouse-er rifles.

INCONSIDERATE GOVERNORS.

There is a mighty discourteous lot of governors in this country.

Without a particle of consideration for the feelings and standing of Fortunatus Eberhart, the Man of Destiny, whenever a crisis arises in their states which seems to require legislative action, these governors call extra sessions of their legislatures as a matter of course.

Michigan had an extra session to provide a presidential primary, and because the legislature failed to do its duty in that respect it is going to have another one.

California's governor called an extra session to provide a presidential primary and other needed legislation.

A dozen states in the last year have had extra sessions of their legislatures, and all of them seem to have survived it.

And now Wisconsin, nextdoor neighbor of Minnesota, is to have an extra session of its legislature to take up important matters of state.

These governors ought to be talked to. They surely can have no conception of the hurt they are doing to Minnesota's Man of Destiny, who has refused to call an extra session though Minnesota has greater need of one than all these dozen states combined, and is losing millions of dollars in taxation, at a time when the state tax rate is the highest in forty years, by its failure to have one.

But then few of these governors have to fear that the legislatures would pass statewide primary bills, because their states already have such a law in most cases.

And that explains why other governors do not hesitate to call extra sessions of their legislatures if they are needed. It also explains why Fortunatus Eberhart refuses to call one when it is needed.

England proposes to spend $220,427,000 on her navy next year. It sounds pretty awful until you stop to think that this is $1,535,000 less than last year's appropriation. Maybe the nations are beginning to get a little sense after all.

THE FRUITS OF "TRUST-BUSTING."

Will neither the prayers nor the tears of afflicted and bewildered trust magnates strike pity to the heart of the Taft administration and stay its ruthless butchery of the trusts?

The carnage is frightful!

Yet no trace of pity can be found by the most microscopical analysis of the indomitable and relentless determination of President Taft to dissolve every guilty trust if he wears out the Sherman law in achieving his end.

The frightful nature of the blow that has been struck at the Standard Oil trust, for instance, can be realized by a glance at the latest market quotations of stock in this guiltiest and most malignant of all the trusts.

Since the oil trust was officially sentenced and executed according to law, the stocks of the constituent companies have gained in value—market value, that is—about two hundred millions of dollars.

Why are the oil trust stocks worth that much more than they used to be?

Because they are making more money. Because the people are being made to pay dividends on that much more capitalization.

Where is the gain for the people, who didn't ask so much that the trusts be dissolved as that they be given relief from trust exactions? You will have to ask those who are responsible for the trust-busting crusade, and who take the stand that a dissolved trust answers every need of the nation, how much wool there is about the great cry of trust-busting, and who is getting it.

And now Wisconsin is to have an extra session of the legislature. Talk about "bleeding Kansas"—it isn't in the same class with Minnesota.

THE "LOAN SHARK" AND THE EMPLOYER.

Not long ago The Herald said that the "loan shark" problem, while it is not to be solved by abusing the money-lender, could be solved if employers would aid their employes instead of abetting the loan sharks, and if some other way of providing money for the needy person of small means could be devised, such as the provident loan associations which have been formed in many communities.

In that connection the Illinois Central railroad was mentioned as one employer that had taken a stand with its workers and against the loan shark.

Since then The Herald has received a copy of a circular issued by the educational bureau of the Illinois Central, covering this point. The circular says in part: "The educational bureau is now in position to assist employes in legal matters, to a certain extent. It will endeavor to issue from time to time information dealing with matters wherein experience has proven that for want of legal aid employes have been imposed upon so that they have suffered either financial loss or worry and unpleasantness which could have been avoided had they known their legal rights.

"The first step the bureau will take will be to explain the methods of loan sharks—to tell employes who have suffered from the wiles of these sharks what their rights are, and to offer employes who are at present in trouble as a result of having patronized these loan sharks or companies, aid in straightening out their affairs and getting clear of the clutches of those engaged in the illegal practices by means of which the loan sharks exist.

"While the rules of the company as regard garnisheeing, etc., stand as they have heretofore, nevertheless any employe of the company may feel free to write to the chief of the educational bureau regarding any complication that he may have gotten into, due to obtaining a salary loan from one of these money-lenders. The object in doing this is purely a friendly one. Such employes as are in any trouble of this kind will be protected as far as their position is concerned, their cases will as far as possible be handled in confidence, and their records will remain unaffected. This offer carries behind it the backing of all the organization and talent of the company's law department."

The rule in railroad and other employments which brings about the discharge of an employe whose wages are garnisheed has been a valuable aid to the loan sharks in collecting their money from borrowers. Ordinarily the mere threat of garnishment proceedings, with the remembrance of this rule, is enough to bring the borrower to time.

But when employers interpret this rule liberally, to protect their employes against illegal interest charges, the money-lender is weakened materially

The Illinois Central's example is a good one for employers, large and small, to follow.

TEDDY I.

By SAVOYARD.

The Democrats who followed John C. Breckinridge and the Democrats who followed Stephen A. Douglass, in 1860, were not further apart than are the Republicans who support W. H. Taft and the Republicans who support Theodore Roosevelt in 1912. Already the recrimination indulged by both is acrimonious and a hopeless split is inevitable unless the good luck of the G. O. P. shall return again, proclaim a plague on both their houses and draft Mr. Justice Hughes to head the national ticket. That would restore confidence, promise victory; unite and enthuse the party, and that is what the G. O. P. would do if it were the party it was all its life up to and inclusive of 1868. But there are evidences that the party of Lincoln and Grant, of Conkling and Morton, of Logan and Forraker, of Mark Hanna and Matt Quay, of Aldrichism, of monopoly, of privilege, of iron, of fraud, of everything that is depraved in politics is moribund, on its last legs, and ready to depart for the country, wherever it is, of its grandsire, the Federalist.

The re was a serious split in the ranks of the Democratic party sixteen years ago; but it was upon a single matter, and that of financial policy. On all things political except 16 to 1, W. J. Bryan and John M. Palmer were in perfect accord, and today Simon Bollvar Buckner and Mr. Bryan are thoroughly agreed about things political. But where is any common ground that Joseph G. Cannon and Victor Murdock, John Dalzell and Irvine L. Lenroot, Boies Penrose and Robert M. La Follette, Cabot Lodge and Moses Clapp, Reed Smoot and Joseph L. Bristow, can stand on and maintain the smallest dab of harmony?

The advent of T. R. makes the melee intensely interesting. The third term is as paramount in the G. O. P. as it was in 1880, and the third term means a great deal more in 1912 than it did thirty-two years ago. This time it means revolution—whether ours shall be distinctively government by the executive. Gen. Grant had some respect for congress, and recognized that body as the law-giving department of the republic. Though a soldier—not of a skirmish, but of a hundred bloody fields—he honored the judiciary and respected its adjudication.

But Col. Roosevelt has a contempt for congress and he positively hates a judge who renders a judgment that defeats his lay opinion, or in the slightest way annoys him in carrying out his polices, as he calls them, whatever they are. Look at his treatment of Judge Anderson and of others. What does he know of law? When did he ever show any respect for it? O, yes, he did obey a summons to serve on a jury—a thing for which he is hopelessly and defiantly unfitted, by reason of his vicious temperament and his utter want of the judicial quality, mental, moral, or physical. But the act suggests to the thoughtless Cincinnatus and his plough, and it may be of some use to the colonel at this particular time. That is why he was a juror.

For ten years we have heard a heap of the "Roosevelt policies." What are they? Here is what they are—"Bark like the devil, but be sure not to bite." That is what they are and all they are. Paul Morton's case was in exact and precise point. Where is a single tentacle of a single octopus T. R. ever clipped? Did not Harriman, the biggest octopus of the entire school, raise $260,000 to buy the election of 1904 for Roosevelt? To be sure he did. Is not the Steel trust for the third term in 1912? To be sure it is. Why? In utter contempt and flagrant violation of law President Roosevelt granted the Steel trust indulgence to buy out and absorb its chief, its only powerful rival, the Tennessee Coal & Iron company? No wonder Perkins is for him, no wonder Munsey is for him, no wonder the Harvester trust is for him, and Wall Street is ready to buy the election for him again in 1912 as it did in 1904, when it even assessed Champ Clark, a policy holder, in the contribution of the Equitable Life Insurance company to the slush fund handled by the unspeakable Cortelyou.

The thing was so flagrant that even Wickersham was forced to act against the Steel trust. He brought suit to dissolve the stupendous concern as a combination in restraint of trade. Well, what did T. R. do? He sailed in and, though he is no lawyer, denounced the administration of Taft for the suit and gave the Steel trust a certificate of good character. Is there any wonder the Steel trust is for him? Is he not committed to a dismissal of that suit as soon as he is inaugurated, just as he dismissed the suit against the Santa Fe railroad when his friend, Paul Morton, was involved.

Now there is one positive, distinct, inveterate, fundamental "Roosevelt policy," and that is to let the tariff alone. He won't even bark at that. He was more than seven years president, while that prodigious robbery was going on, working more injury to the common people than all other vicious agencies combined, and all that time he was as mute as a fish on the subject. Nobody knew better than T. R. that the fat fried out of the manufacturers bought elections for the G. O. P. He knew it also bought nominations, and until he had it nailed down in 1904 he was trembling in his boots lest Mark Hanna enter the market and bid over him, something Hanna could have done something Hanna would have done had he not known that he had an appointment at the graveyard that could not be evaded or postponed.

Roosevelt has supporting him the Steel trust and its offshoot, the Harvester trust. He also has the state of Oklahoma, because it is wild, wooly and West, and he is all these, and more too. He has Pinchot, Garfield, the "outs" of the South. He has some "yaller" magazines. He has all the regiments of Republican Adullamites; but the respectability of the G. O. P. is for Taft, and Taft will be nominated, yet the chances are there will be a bolt and an independent Insurgent-Progressive ticket.

And the sun is shining bright on the Democratic side of the hedge, though even there is seen a cloud of faction, now not larger than a man's hand.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

FARM ENTHUSIAST ANSWERS MR. ROBERTSON.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I read with some amusement the letter of Mr. Robertson in the Friday issue of The Herald and I think he has been given the wrong conception of farming in this county. The first principle of any business is, to not over-reach your capital. As Robertson says he was idle most of the winter I assume that he does not have $5,765 to spend and I would suggest that he read some of the splendid articles recently published in The Herald, showing what could be done by a man with $1,000. Mr. Robertson makes two fatal mistakes at the outset, by planning to buy eighty acres and by putting the greater part of what he cleared into oats. He only planned clearing ten acres, then he would have to pay interest and taxes on seventy acres of unused land. To my mind twenty or forty acres make the ideal farm and the cleared land should be planted to potatoes, carrots, cabbages and other crops requiring intensive cultivation.

Mr. Robertson can buy forty acres of good land within two miles of any town in Carlton for $20 per acre with enough timber on it to build his barn and cattle shed. Log barns are warm and cost only the labor of building them. A comfortable house can be built for $400 that will do until he becomes more prosperous. Good water can be had any place by digging fifteen to thirty feet. In clearing land there are two items of expense, the labor and the dynamite. I assume that he will do the work himself and the dynamite cost will not exceed $15 per acre on the average. By raising root crops very little machinery is needed and a ready market is assured The following amounts judiciously invested will buy Mr. Robertson a farm and equip it so that he will never have to worry about supporting his family during idle winters hereafter.

Forty acres of land at $20 per acre	$ 800
House	400
Dynamite clearing ten acres	150
Six cows	300
Two pigs	20
Farming implements	50
Seed potatoes for five acres	40
Six dozen hens	40
Team, harness and wagon	400
Miscellaneous expenses, fencing, etc.	100
Total	$2,300

I have not added feed for stock or other expenses as I figure that the milk and eggs will more than pay all running expenses. The land can be bought by a small payment down and the balance on long time. The cows and team can also be bought on time. Many farmers here are making money on less than $1,000 capital. The year's work should show these returns:

Milk from six cows at $7 per month for each cow	$ 504
Six calves	72
1,200 bushels potatoes at 50 cents per bushel	600
Carrots, one-half acre	75
Beets, one-half acre	50
Hogs raised should be worth	100
Eggs from six dozen hens	100
200 chickens at 50 cents each	100
Total	$1,601

Limited space prevents me from taking up the cost of feed for stock but in my estimate I have allowed four acres of land for fodder corn, mangels and rutabagas and therefore the item of feed will not be so large. The team should do enough work in addition to the farm work to pay for their feed. Some times two or three farmers have a team together and then there is always hauling at good wages in the winter, at a time when there is no farm work. The above estimate is very low. I know of actual instances where farmers have paid the total cost of buying and clearing their land from the first year's crop alone.

A farm is not a bonanza or a place to get rich without work but the man of energy and common sense, will find in it, the solution of the high cost of living and will have an assured competence in his old age.

Qualifications for Statesmanship.

Galena Gazette: George L. Maxeiner of Galena, is a candidate for representative to the state legislature from the Twelfth senatorial district. Without any doubt, Mr. Maxeiner is well qualified to fill the position which he seeks. For over twenty years he was in charge of the linen department of the John Fiddicy dry goods store and at present is engaged in the French dry cleaning and pressing business, succeeding his father, the late P. W. Maxeiner.

The Mother.

My little boy, who used to run
With glad hair blowing in the sun,
Where runs he now?
Where runs he now?
In fairer fields than these, that blow
The withered blooms of long ago,
That soon shall whiten with the snow
As does my brow,
As does my brow.

My little boy, the sweet of tongue,
Who leaped and laughed and joyed and sung
Where sings he now?
Where sings he now?
In some bright place where children meet
And lullabies of love repeat
That break my heart's remembering beat
With tears somehow,
With tears somehow.

My little boy, who used to play
With happy eyes the livelong day,

Where plays he now?
Where plays he now?
With fairer playthings there than those
That broken in their box repose,
As in my heart the hopes, God knows
O'er which I bow,
O'er which I bow.

My little boy, who sat to hear
The wonder tales to him so dear,
Where harks he now?
Where harks he now?
Haply in that fair world he knew
Of fairy, where all dreams come true
As here on earth they never do,
Alas! somehow,
Alas! somehow.

Our Tripping Authors.

Boston Transcript: A line by W. J. Locke runs: "He talked incessantly all the time." Oh, Willyum!

Writes Arnold Bennett; "She won 15,000 francs in as many minutes." Pretty long session that!

Another novelist says: "Her eyes filled with silent tears." Generally they boom like billows, you know.

According to another, the hero "brushed her hair with his lips." Scarcely an improvement on the old method, we think.

Another writer remarks: "Charlotte Von Stern was, when Goethe first met her, several years older than himself." But later, of course, 'twas otherwise.

"He rested his feet on the back of a chair and blew some rings with half-closed eyes." We've seen it done with the mouth.

"Marjorie would often take her eyes from the deck and cast them far out to sea." As a caster, old Ike Walton had nothing on Margie, believe us!

"Speechless with horror and loathing I tottered a helpless jelly against the jamb." We believe that the mess was cleaned up in the next chapter.

The Voice of Wilson Strong for the People.

Woodrow Wilson: The great voice of America does not come from seats of learning. It comes in a murmur from the hills and woods and the farms and factories and the mills, rolling on and gaining volume until it comes from the homes of common men. Do these murmurs echo in the corridors of universities? I have not heard them.

The universities would make men forget their common origin; forget their universal sympathies and join a class—and no class can serve America.

"Nations are renewed from the ranks of unknown men."

"National life is renewed from the bottom and not from the top."

"The common man has a divine right of a chance to arise."

True to Form.

Chicago Tribune: The Anonymous Correspondents were holding a reunion. Veritas had told a fish story.

Fair Play had sung a comic song that he knew one of the others was intending to sing.

Justitia had occupied twice the time that had been allotted to him.

Pro Bono Publico had made a speech advocating a wide-open town.

Vindex had been called a liar and had not resented it.

Pax Vobiscum had raised a fuss because the cigars were 5-centers.

"Gentlemen," spoke the toastmaster, "I should like to hear a few words from our silent friend on the other side of the table, whose name I seem to be unable to recall."

"Never mind me," said the silent friend. "I'm Vox Populi; I never talk except when I have something to kick about."

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1892.

The Duluth, Red Lake Falls & Northern road has purchased 200 acres of land from Smith Croft for $30,000 and also a large slice of adjoining territory from Vose Palmer, at Sucker Bay about fifteen miles from Duluth. The land is for terminal facilities. and it is said the company will probably erect three large docks, two for lumber and one for ore.

H. B. Moore, the new World's fair commissioner from Dnluth, has returned from Tower where he raised $1,000 for the Minnesota fund. He is now working in Duluth.

The Lake Superior Iron company has filed articles of incorporation. The capital stock is $5,000,000. The incorporators are A. J. Trimble and Frank Hibbing of Duluth, W. H. Baffin of New York, W. D. Vernam and William Munro of Superior. The officers are: W. F. Mattes, manager of the West Superior steel plant, president; W. D. Vernam, vice president; Peter Deyo, Superior, treasurer; A. J. Trimble, secretary, the properties are in 58-20 and 57-21.

George Fredericks is a candidate for the position of chief of the West Duluth fire department.

Miss Bella M. Hood, the "lady evangelist," will hold meetings all this week in the Presbyterian church at West Duluth.

Miss Mary Schuman and John Schultz were married on the afternoon of March 17 at the residence of the bride's parents, 605 East Third street.

R. McLennan, well known in Duluth, has been appointed Indian farmer for the Fond du Lac reservation and has entered upon his duties.

H. W. Wheeler, the patriarch of Oneota, and a few friends recently purchased a large tract of land on the Mesaba range and will soon organize the Westminster Iron company.

Owing to the serious damage sustained by the Endion Baptist church during the blizzard of March 9, no services can be held until repairs are made. The continued cold weather has made it impracticable to replace the chimneys or to repair the roof.

Some idea of who constitute the Mesaba range iron nabobs of Duluth may be gleaned from the following: James T. Hale is in thirteen companies with a capitalization of $35,100,000; John McKinley comes next with ten companies and a combined capital of $30,000,000; Leonidas Merritt is third with eight companies and $25,000,000 of capital; A. E. Humphreys is fourth with eight companies and $24,000,000 of stock; Alfred Merritt is fifth with eight companies and $18,100,000 of stock. The Merritt family in the aggregate are represented in companies having $112,700,000 of stock.

The Mesaba & Northern Townsite company has been organized with a capital of $50,000.

MINNESOTA AND PRESIDENCY.

Reminiscences.

Northome Record: The Taft and Roosevelt method of campaigning brings to mind the Dunn and Collins political fiasco that disgraced Minnesota a few years ago.

Remembers Winona Speech.

Virginia Enterprise. Taft's speech at Winona on "the best tariff bill ever passed" is not going to make many votes among the common people of Minnesota, even though Ed. Smith, Billy Hamm and "Fortunatus" may be able to swing the Minnesota delegation his way.

He Will Not Come.

Roseau Region: It is announced that Taft intends to take the stump in defence of his administration. If he comes out West he will find that the farmers have work cut out for him.

Close to the People.

Mora Times: We cannot understand why any Republican newspaper with the interests of the Republican party at heart will insist upon the renomination of President Taft. The people have definitely made up their minds that they do not want him for another four years and many good Republicans will go to the extent of voting the Socialist ticket rather than support him again if nominated. That this is the state of the public mind is so evident that it requires no great political acumen to discover the fact. There is a reason for this and that reason is that the people are progressive, honestly so, and believe in progressive legislation, while the administration has been, to a large extent, reactionary.

Courtesy?

Little Falls Transcript: By virtue of what he has accomplished while in the office of chief executive, President Taft should be accorded the courtesy of the nomination for a second term.

It Will Be Hot.

Madison Western Guard: A scientist declares that the coming summer will be the hottest on record. He probably made that prediction after Col. Roosevelt threw his hat into the ring and then went in after it.

The General Understanding.

St. Cloud Times: Ex-President Roosevelt now asserts that he had reference to three consecutive terms when he wrote his declaration that he "would not accept a renomination." How did the people of the country understand that statement? It is not a fact that every person who read it believed that it meant what was said and what Mr. Roosevelt meant at the time—that he would never accept a renomination.

He Has.

Anoka Union: Roosevelt has raised a pretty mess in the Republican party.

HEARST ATTACKS WILSON.

William R. Hearst in the Washington Post: To my mind he is a perfect jack-rabbit of politics, perched upon his little hillock of expediency, with ears erect and nostrils distended, keenly alert to every scent or sound, and ready to run and double in any direction on the slightest intimation of danger.

If Prof. Wilson's inconsistencies and contradictions, his undemocratic and un-American utterances, should not become sufficiently well known before the convention to prevent his nomination, they will certainly become well enough known during the campaign to prevent his election.

The whole trouble with Prof. Wilson is that he is not a Democrat and does not know how to be a Democrat. His Democratic pose is assumed, and therefore awkward and unnatural.

He is a fish out of water. In the pursuit of his ambitions he has left the Federalistic element in which he knows how to swim and has come out upon the Democratic land upon which he does not know how to walk. As a candidate for president he would be a pitiful disappointment.

As an actual president he would be a positive danger to his party and to the country. A Democratic president who is not a Democrat would be a failure and the failure of an administration for which the Democratic party could be held responsible would mean the expulsion of Democracy from power for another score of years.

These are my reasons for not supporting Prof. Wilson. They may or may not be sound. At least they are not selfish.

Being a Democrat.

New York World: Sadly and sorrowfully the Hon. William Randolph Hearst reads the Hon. Woodrow Wilson out of the Democratic party.

In a long and anguished letter to the Washington Post, Mr. Hearst says of the governor of New Jersey:

"The whole trouble with Prof. Wilson is that he is not a Democrat and does not know how to be a Democrat. His Democratic pose is assumed, and therefore awkward and unnatural."

But is there no hope for Woodrow Wilson? Can he never scale the exalted heights of Democracy which Mr. Hearst has attained? We know, of course, that Governor Wilson began wrong, but perhaps the mistakes of the past can be remedied.

To be truly Democratic, Governor Wilson should have run as a municipal-ownership candidate for mayor in 1905 in order to defeat the regular Democratic candidate.

In 1906 Governor Wilson should have spent $250,000 organizing an Independence League to name him for governor, and then used this league to club a stolen nomination from Murphy after Grady had "done the dirtiest day's work of my life."

In 1907 Governor Wilson should have gone into partnership with the Republican bosses and the Republican machine and placed a "fusion" ticket in the field against the Democratic ticket.

In 1908 Governor Wilson should have financed and nominated an independent presidential ticket to help Taft and Roosevelt defeat Bryan.

In 1909 Governor Wilson should have run as an independent candidate for mayor against the Democratic candidate, with the support of Chauncey M. Depew the Republican bosses and other "reform" elements.

In 1910 Governor Wilson should have been an independent candidate for lieutenant governor in the hope of defeating the Democratic ticket and keeping the Republicans in power in Albany.

In 1911 Governor Wilson should have again nominated a "fusion" ticket in partnership with the Republican machine. Then, as soon as his "fusion" ticket was beaten and it became apparent that the Democratic party had a chance of winning the presidency, he should have formally announced his return to Democracy.

Woodrow Wilson may not know "how to be a Democrat," but William Randolph Hearst knows. In comparison with Mr. Hearst, no other Democrat ever was a Democrat. He is the only known specimen of his kind.

Parasites of Politics.

Chicago Tribune: A writer in the National Review presents briefly some of the discoveries of parasitologists in the last century. Being interested merely in the microscopical examination of the subject, he does not attempt to trace any "biological analogies in history." From the scientific viewpoint it might be absurd to do so, but there is a temptation which inclines the fancy in that direction.

The parasite's existence, the scientists say, is a reasonably happy one so long as the "host" does not object. It gains a "life of ease, comfort, and leisure, possibly full of the keenest happiness"—this so long as the "host" is tolerant or indifferent.

"So far as we know," the writer says, "all parasites are degenerates; that is to say, they have become fitted for a life of parasitism by a gradual process of degeneration. They are often specialized to an extreme degree in one direction."

They have become unfitted for any other mode of existence than that which they enjoy, and that existence is dependent on the complaisance or ignorance of the "host." What a fanciful speculation leads to concerns the attitude of the parasites toward a "host" which suddenly rebels.

Possibly they would form a league and protest against the disregard of a constitutional form of government, viewing with alarm the dangerous and demagogic tendencies of a restless and uneasy age. We are certain they would call on all sober minded patriots to rally to the defense of the institutions of their fathers. And no doubt it would be advanced as an argument that in the time of Thomas Becket the conditions which they defend were considered a proof of piety.

It is possible that they might convince the "host," but of that we are not so sure.

SURELY OVERCOMES INDIGESTION OR DYSPEPSIA IN A FEW MOMENTS

Eat a few of these and all Sourness, Heartburn, and misery from a sick, upset Stomach will vanish.

Time it! In five minutes all stomach distress will go. No indigestion, heartburn, sourness or belching of gas, acid, or eructations of undigested food, no dizziness, bloating, foul breath or headache.

Pape's Diapepsin is noted for its speed in regulating upset stomachs. It is the surest, quickest and most certain remedy in the whole world and besides it is harmless.

Millions of men and women now eat their favorite foods without fear—they know now it is needless to have a bad stomach.

Please, for your sake, get a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any drug store and put your stomach right. Don't keep on being miserable—life is too short—you are not here long, so make your stay agreeable. Eat what you like and digest it; enjoy it, without dread of rebellion in the stomach.

Diapepsin belongs in your home anyway. It should be kept handy, should one of the family eat something which doesn't agree with them or in case of an attack of indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis or stomach derangement at daytime or during the night it is there to give the quickest, surest relief known.

instead of being a friendly letter to the secretary of agriculture was merely a printed form in which Dr. Wiley filled in only about fifteen words.

There is big politics in this Wiley affair. Within two days the charge will be made by the administration forces that the doctor resigns to enter the employ of a well known manufacturer of several varieties of pickles and sauces. The allegation that he has been thus interested has been bandied about Washington for a year or two past, but has been believed by nobody. Around the Cosmos club, where the foremost scientific men of the United States gather, the name of Dr. Wiley stands at the very top of the list of men who are working along scientific lines for the country's good.

Now mark! Nobody here in Washington thinks for a moment that Wiley "resigned." It is the universal opinion that he was forced out. And it is the first really ugly thing that I have heard said about the Taft campaign managers that they should have forced this action. To discard Wiley will be to invite the friendship of the "Big Four" beef packers of Chicago, the aid of all the patent medicine firms, the kindly contributions of the distillers. No doubt in a day or two the administration will begin its attack upon Dr. Wiley, but men who are cognizant of the facts in the case will discount all such charges.

The Free Sugar Bill.

Among the curious features of today's politics is the fight being made against the Democratic free sugar bill on the theory that it is in the interest of the Sugar trust. The men who prepared that bill, and particularly Oscar Underwood, know how absolutely futile is this charge, but to the country as a whole it seems plausible and the trust lobby is working hard to make it appear correct.

The real fact of the matter is that the testimony taken before the Hardwick committee showed that the tariff increases the price of sugar to consumers not less than 2 cents a pound, the real tax on the consumer runs up as high as $104,000,000 a year. Many people hold that the Sugar trust, controlling the Louisiana refineries, wants this reduction in order to freeze out the beet sugar producers of the Middle West. But it was shown in the Hardwick committee hearings that the trust controlled the beet sugar interests quite as much as those engaged in the production of Louisiana cane.

Mr. Underwood is himself a Southern man. While his state is not engaged in the production of sugar it closely approaches Louisiana, the one commonwealth which makes sugar its chief industry. It took courage for the chairman of the ways and means committee to press the free sugar issue, but he has succeeded in putting it through the house and will get it through the senate before the close of this session. What the President may do with it is mere conjecture, but perhaps the fact that Pearl Wright, Republican national committeeman for Louisiana, has just resigned may indicate that Mr. Taft does not purpose to sacrifice the nation to Louisiana appetite.

What Grocers Say.

The New York Committee of Wholesale Grocers sends out this statement regarding the relations of the Sugar trust to the tariff:

"Our government has once made the mistake of attempting to foster the production of sugar under abnormal conditions in Louisiana. We cannot afford to repeat this mistake in a larger way with beet sugar. The production of cane sugar (a tropical plant) in Louisiana can never be a success, yet the American people have been required to spend hundreds of millions of dollars on the industry, now 100 years old, and this 'infant' is crying just as loudly as ever for tariff favors. Under the 'hot-housing' process, the maximum production has been reached, with only 8½ per cent of our requirements being filled, so that the American people can never hope to secure any permanent benefit from the production of cane sugar in Louisiana, which is dependent on 'special privilege' legislation. The far-seeing men in Louisiana admit that it would have been a great blessing to their state if the tariff on sugar had been removed twenty-five years ago, as in that event their lands would now be producing more suitable and remunerative crops. The Hardwick committee report shows that the present tariff is so high that it encourages over-capitalization of beet sugar plants. It also encourages the improper location of factories where natural conditions are not such as to produce the best results. The industry would be on a much better footing if the tariff were revised so as to prevent both of these conditions, which are foundamentally so unsound."

IRISH HONOR ST. PATRICK

Two Large Celebrations in Duluth in Memory of Erin's Patron Saint.

Wearers of the Green Hold Appropriate Literary Entertainments.

The Cathedral hall was filled last evening with enthusiastic Duluthians of Emerald Isle ancestry for the celebration of St. Patrick's day. The day happened to fall on Sunday this year, but it was deemed best not to hold the program until Monday. A splendid literary and musical entertainment was held.

Judge Martin Hughes of the district court at Hibbing addressed the gathering on "St. Patrick and Ireland." He told of the great qualities of the patron saint of Erin and gave a brief recapitulation of the trials and struggles through which the Irish people have passed. He spoke of their achievements in war and peace, and in art, science and literature.

"St. Patrick's day is more than an Irish anniversary," said Judge Hughes. "People of all nationalities now celebrate it." He sketched the life of St. Patrick briefly, telling of his early captivity, his returning to Ireland after having been made a bishop, and his travels over the island preaching to multitudes—some of the gatherings containing many thousands of people. He converted them to Christianity and they have retained the faith ever since. St. Patrick's day is not a political day for the Irish, said Judge Hughes, and recounted something of their political history, telling of their early struggles to repulse the Norseman, which were successful under the famous King Brian Boru. These early struggles, he said, sapped the peoples' strenth and they were not able to overcome the later oppressors sent out by Enland. He dwelt at some length on the notable heroes in Irish life—Robert Grattan, Daniel O'Connel, and Charles Stuart Parnell, Grattan and Parnell being Protestants, but nevertheless giving their entire time and energy to the cause of helping their countrymen and helping to remove the restrictions and burdens placed upon the Catholics. He gave it as his opinion that within another year home rule will have been granted to Ireland.

He then referred to the extent to which the Irish people have gone to other lands, especially to the United States, and told of the part they have taken in the history of this country. He called attention to the work of Edmund Burke in parliament for conciliation of the American colonists; said that thirteen of the signers of the Declaration of Independence were Irishmen; named a number of Irish soldiers in the revolution and quoted Washington's tribute to them. He said that there were 175,000 Irishmen in the war of the rebellion, referred to the part they took, describing at some length the notable charge of Meagher's Irish brigade at Chancellorsville, and reciting John Boyle O'Reilly's poem inspired by it.

He concluded by praising the Irish for their active citizenship and urging them to continue active and to be inspired by the best and finest ideals of citizenship—that by serving this country and its institutions well they would best serve their own country and the things it is striving for.

The other feature of the program was a comedy, entitled "An Irish Eden." This was ably presented and was thoroughly enjoyed, as was evident from the frequent bursts of applause. The cast of characters was as follows:

Program at West End.

St. Patrick's day was celebrated last evening by the Young Men's Sodality of St. Clement's Catholic church, Third street and Twenty-first avenue west. The Irish people of that part of the city entered enthusiastically into the spirit of the occasion as was evident from the fact that the hall was packed with an audience that responded with hearty applause to every reference that was made to the noble qaulities of Ireland's patron saint and people.

The address of the evening was delivered by Father Mahoney of the Superior cathedral. A recital was rendered by Miss Mary Shesgren. A play, "A Bit o' Blarney," was presented with signal success. It is a three-act comedy, the scene of which is laid on Irish soil at the present time. The leading roles were taken by James Wade as Rody, the Rover; John Miller as Cuddeen Cassidy and Miss Louise Emerson as Rosaleen O'Connor. Other participants were Walter Emerson, Ernest Robinson, Ambrose Nolan, James Morarity, Miss Rose McMahon, Miss Alice Kennedy, Arthur Schlitz, Earl Birmingham, Howard Kiley, Mae Nolan, Alice Lamb and Elizabeth Devaney, E. Robinson, C. Carrol and J Flynn.

in the parts of the state from which they come. Unless something unforeseen happens between now and the latter part of May, when the delegate convention will be held, a delegation instructed for Wilson will be sent to the national convention at Baltimore.

Minnesota For Wilson.

"I think Minnesota will be for Wilson," said National Committeeman Fred B. Lynch last evening. "I know that the state will be for some progressive candidate and unless things change that candidate will be Wilson.

"I have just returned from a business trip and naturally came in touch with some political sentiment. I believe that Taft will be the Republican nominee. That is the impression I gathered from men who are close to the situation in the Republican ranks.

"I am not so sure of the Democratic nominee. I believe Wilson will go into the convention with more delegates than any other one candidate. Clark will come next with Harmon and Underwood about even in third place, I believe. Burke will have the North Dakota delegation. A favorite son' delegation from Massachusetts will present Foss' name. Governor Baldwin will have his home delegation and Marshall may also have delegates. What will happen when it comes down to the final test, I am not ready to say."

Mr. Lynch is enthusiastic over the chances of Democratic success. He believes that it is a Democratic year.

Hammond for Governor.

Other prominent Democrats here express the same sentiment not only as to the nation but as to the state. There has been a strong revival of the Hammond talk here. The Second district congressman is easily the favorite for the Democratic nomination for governor if he will accept. There are doubts of his acceptance. He would like to make the run for congress in the Second district again and Second district Democrats want him to do so. They are doing all in their power to bring about the nomination of some other man for governor.

Peter M. Ringdal is probably second choice. He is admittedly a strong man, outside of the party as well as in it. Two years ago when a boom was started for him, he pulled out on account of illness. He had two years more to serve on the state board of control and that may have had something to do with it is the opinion of some Democrats. In any event, another effort to have him head the ticket is not outside the possibilities this year.

The committee men are also looking ahead to some good contests in the congressional field in Minnesota. If Hammond runs again they are certain of success in the Second district, but they have hopes there, even if Hammond is the Democratic candidate for governor. There are other strong Democrats in the Second district who would stand a chance, although perhaps not as good a chance as Hammond.

Congressional Timber.

In the Third district, Senator Julius Coller, Senator A. A. Poehler and Senator H. F. Weis of Le Sueur are spoken of. Senator Coller's candidacy is unlikely and as between the other two Senator Weis is the favorite. He has been ill of late, but is here at the meeting and his friends believe he will be sufficiently improved to enter the race. He has not signified any intention of doing so, however.

Louis Betz is being mentioned as an opponent to Fred Stevens in the Fourth district, and Elmer Holdale is the favorite in the Fifth. The Sixth, Seventh and Ninth districts do not hold out much hope of Democratic success, although candidates will be put up. In the Eighth district it is believed a fighting chance exists and the Democrats here counsel a strong candidate for the Democratic ticket in that district.

The political talk began last night. Delegates to today's meeting began to arrive here and while only a few were present last night, they fraternized with true Democratic spirit and exchanged confidences. Among the early arrivals were M. E. Matthews of Marshall, W. A. Burnett of Park Rapids, Fred Schilpin of St. Cloud, Senator H. F. Weis of Le Sueur, C. I. McNair of Cloquet, Julius Thorsen of Benson, G. B. Roddis of Long Prairie, J. H. Wolfe of Staples and Harvey Grimmer of St. Cloud. Many prominent St. Cloud Democrats met them and talked over the situation.

SPEECHES BY ROOSEVELT

a share. Mr. Caswell plans a trip that will take the colonel through Anoka, Elk River, St. Cloud, Little Falls, Brainerd, and Aitkin to Duluth. Speeches would be made from the back platform at the other towns and the big speech of the trip would be scheduled for Duluth.

Eighth District Doubtful.

Mr. Caswell is very hopeful. He is pulling all the wires he knows, urging the national committee of the necessity of spreading the colonel's time in this state in order to get the best results and especially of the beneficent results that will come from a speech in Duluth. The Eighth district is counted for Taft by the Taft national committee. Although the Roosevelt men claim the Eighth district for the ex-president, they are none too confident and disinterested observers consider that the Eighth is one of the doubtful districts.

Mr. Caswell yesterday obtained a legal opinion that he believes will be a formidable weapon in the fight before the state central committee for a preferential primary in Minnesota in connection with the precinct caucuses preceding the state delegate convention. The opinion, which is given by W. B. Douglas of St. Paul, former attorney general and justice of the supreme court, is that the placing of the names of presidential candidates on the ballots at the precinct caucuses would not be inconsistent with the laws or the Constitution of Minnesota.

Mr. Douglas stands high in the legal profession in the state and Mr. Caswell believes his opinion should have weight with the central committee. Various persons interested in the matter have stated that they would favor a presidential primary in connection with the precinct caucuses if they could be convinced that it would be legal. Governor Eberhart, in an interview given at Duluth, said that he would favor a presidential primary if it would be legal and would also be safeguarded so as to give a fair expression of the opinion of the voters.

Opinion by Douglas.

Mr. Douglas's opinion follows:

"To your inquiry as to whether in my opinion it would be illegal to place the name of the elector's choice for president of the United States upon the ballot to be used in the coming primary election to select delegates to the various county conventions of the state, which in turn elect delegates to the various districts or state conventions, called for the purpose of electing delegates to the national Republican convention, I beg to say that in my judgment the placing of the name of a presidential candidate upon such primary ballots will not be in violation of the laws or the Constitution of this state. The state statute bearing upon this subject in part reads, 'The delegates shall be chosen by ballot, and each may contain as many names as there are delegates to be elected from the district. If more be placed thereon the ballot shall be void.'

"For a great many years it has been customary to place the name of the candidate for governor or president upon the primary ballot upon which is included either the printed or written names of the delegates elected to attend the convention and a popular construction of the provision above quoted has thus been adopted favorable to this conclusion.

"However, it seems clear to me that while the statute quoted, prohibits the placing upon such ballots of a greater number of names than are delegates to be elected from the districts that it cannot be construed as prohibiting the electors from expressing in some convenient form which shall not be misleading, their choice of the candidate the delegates named and the elector casting the ballot desire to favor. The clause which provides for placing upon the ballot 'as many names as there are delegates to be elected from the district' and further provides 'if more are placed thereon the ballot shall be void' must be construed as reading, 'if more names of delegates be placed thereon, the ballot shall be void.' This rule of construction has been repeatedly adopted by the supreme court of the state of Minnesota. The rule is well stated in section 8977 of volume 3 in Dunnell's Digest, as follows: "Where words of a specific and limited meaning are followed by words of generic or similar meaning, the latter are to be construed as applicable only to things of like nature to those designated by the former.' The author cites among other authorities: Knight vs. Morris, 13 Minn. 473; Berg vs. Baldwin, 31 Minn. 541; State vs. McCrum, 38 Minn. 154; Brown vs. Heron Lake, 67 Minn. 140; Rohne vs. Loomis, 74 Minn. 200. In Rohne vs. Loomis, supra, this rule of ejusdem generis was carefully reviewed and the word 'other' in the statute before the court was held to mean 'other such like.'"

GRAND FORKS BANKS WILL BE CONSOLIDATED.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Scandinavian-American National bank and the Northwestern Trust company of this city have consolidated. The two concerns will have a combined capital, surplus and undivided profits of $400,000. The Scandinavian-American bank was organized seven years ago, and the Northwestern Trust company was launched three years ago.

The interests identified with the banks have purchased a downtown corner for a consideration of $60,000 and will, as soon as practicable, erect a modern banking home.

What's the Matter With Your Baby?

The young mother—and many an old one, too—is often puzzled to know the cause of her child's ill nature. The loudness of its crying does not necessarily indicate the seriousness of its trouble. It may have nothing more the matter with it than a headache or a feeling of general dullness. It cannot, of course, describe its feelings, but as a preliminary measure you are safe in trying a mild laxative.

Nine times out of ten, you will find it is all the child needs, for its restlessness and peevishness are perhaps due to obstruction of the bowels, and once that has been remedied the headache, the sluggishness and the many other evidences of constipation and indigestion will quickly disappear.

Don't give the little one salts, cathartic pills or nasty waters, for these will act as purgatives, and they are too strong for a child. In the families of Mrs. E. A. Thelin, Manvel, N. D., and Mrs. Henry Jensen, Granton, Wis., the only laxative given is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It has been found to answer most perfectly all the purposes of a laxative and its very mildness and freedom from griping recommend it especially for the use of children, women, and old folks generally—people who need a gentle bowel stimulant. Thousands of American families have been enthusiastic about it for more than a quarter of a century.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 405 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

PRESIDENT OF COUNCIL ANNOUNCES COMMITTEES

Z. D. Scott, William Bernard and Frank Jordan on Light Committee.

Mayor, Attorney and Council President to Interview Steel Plant Officers.

The chief interest in the council meeting last evening centered in the announcement of the various committees by President Charles Hoar.

That most anxiously anticipated because of the agitation for the municipal ownership of the electric light plant was the light and water committee. Alderman Zar D. Scott was made chairman of this committee and the other two named were Alderman William Bernard and Alderman Frank Jordan. This is eminently satisfactory to the municipal ownership advocates as Aldermen Scott and Bernard have been recognized as the leaders of the municipal ownership faction.

The appointments of President Hoar to this committee came as a distinct surprise. In view of the fact that previous to his election he received strenuous objection from the municipal ownership men on the ground that he would have the naming of this committee, the selection of two municipal ownership men was unexpected.

President Hoar's appointments for the other committees met with universal approval. They were considered extremely fair from all standpoints and the members of the council seemed pleased with the places assigned to them. Each alderman is chairman of one of the fifteen committees. They vary in importance and it is recognized that it is impossible to give each one what is looked upon as a heavy committee.

The complete list of the committees is as follows:

Auditing and county conference—Hicken, Phillips, Curren.

Bridges, viaducts and ferries—Shartel, Miller, Sandberg.

City property, buildings and markets—Miller, Sandberg, Hector.

Claims—Hogan, Krueger, Gibson.

Drains, sewers and sanitation—Makowski, Shartel, Bernard.

Finance—Jordan, Gibson, Makowski.

Fire department—Gibson, Curren, MacDonell.

Harbors, parks and roads—Krueger, Hector, Hogan.

Light and water—Scott, Bernard, Jordan.

Offices and elections—Sandberg, MacDonell, Phillips.

Ordinances and resolutions—Hector, Hicken, Shartel.

Police and license—Curren, Jordan, Miller.

Purchasing and supplies—MacDonell, Makowski, Krueger.

Railroads, telephones and telegraph—Phillips, Scott, Hicken.

Streets, alleys and sidewalks—Bernard, Hogan, Scott.

A successful fight was made against transferring the saloon license of T. Pinsonnault from 1920 West Superior street to 2331 West Superior street. When the vote on saloon licenses was called Alderman Bernard called for a division of the vote on the Pinsonnault transfer and led the fight against the transfer.

He pointed out that the building into which it was proposed to move the bar is a tenement, inhabited by a large number of families. He declared that the building is little better than a tumble-down, overgrown shack, which has outlived its usefulness and that there are already enough saloons in that block. He was sustained by Alderman Joseph Gibson, his colleague from the Seventh ward, and Alderman Scott also protested against the transfer. It lost by a vote of 7 to 7. Nine votes would have been necessary to allow the change.

The council passed a resolution declaring that it is time the city and the street railway company reached a definite understanding as to street car extensions. It was pointed out that there is a large tract in the center of the city adjacent to Hunter's Park and Duluth Heights which is without proper street car service and that there are natural routes which should be followed in laying the rails in this territory. The city engineer was directed to make a survey showing the routes and grades for a line starting at Seventh avenue east and Eleventh street and running through Kenwood park to a connection with the Woodland line near Victoria street, and for another line starting at the same point and running through or adjacent to Kenwood park, through or adjacent to the poor farm and connecting with the street car system at Duluth Heights. Alderman Hicken stated that in his opinion the council should receive a statement from the street railway company as to the policy which it has mapped out for extensions.

Mary Blackwell filed notice of a personal injury claim of $5,000. She alleges that she sustained a broken ankle and other injuries on East First street between Second and Third avenues because of the defective condition of the sidewalk on Feb. 26, last. Herbert Blackwell, her husband, filed notice of a claim of $500 because of the same accident.

The different parts of the message of Mayor McCuen were referred to various committees. That section pertaining to the steel plant was referred to a special committee consisting of the mayor, the president of the council and the city attorney. The mayor recommended in his message that a committee be appointed to wait upon the Steel corporation officials to get a definite answer as to when the plant which is under course of construction will be completed.

The council extended the Democratic state central committee a cordial invitation to select Duluth for the next Democratic state convention, at which time delegates to the national convention will be chosen. The use of the Armory was offered for the purpose.

* * *

Petitions for sanitary sewers in Fifth alley between Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth avenues west, in Seventh street between Twenty-first and Twenty-second avenues west, and in Fourth street between Thirty-seventh and Thirty-eighth avenues west, were received.

* * *

No action was taken upon the application of Leon Solomon for an auction license at 512 West Superior street. He was granted a similar license but a short time ago, and it is not believed that the license will be reported out by the committee.

* * *

The dance ordinance introduced by Alderman Scott was laid over for one week, as a number of the aldermen expressed the wish to examine it further. The committee recommended that the provision prohibiting saloons in the same building be eliminated, and that the fee be reduced from $100 to $50.

* * *

The city engineer was directed to change the grade of Piedmont avenue at Miller's creek by lowering it from four to six feet and to change the grades of other streets and avenues affected accordingly.

* * *

The Associated Charities was directed to continue the operations at the rock pile until March 29. The cost in excess of the value of the stone produced will be paid from the permanent improvement fund.

* * *

The city attorney was directed to prepare an ordinance providing for the proper use of the slips and other waterways inside the dock line, prohibiting dumping or the depositing of other foreign substances in them.

* * *

The street railway company was granted permission to re-arrange its poles on Superior street between Third avenue west and Ninth avenue east.

* * *

The board of public works reported that it has established sprinkling districts for the coming season. Each of the aldermen will be furnished with a copy of the list.

* * *

The health commissioner was directed to select a new dumping ground at West Duluth as the Island Creek Coal company has served a notice that it intends to erect an office building adjacent to the present dumping grounds.

* * *

The use of the municipal court room to those intending to form a Roosevelt club was granted for Wednesday evening, March 20.

* * *

The time for receiving the original assessment for the Woodland sewer was extended to March 26.

FREE ADVICE TO SICK WOMEN

Thousands Have Been Helped By Common Sense Suggestions.

Women suffering from any form of female ills are invited to communicate promptly with the woman's private correspondence department of the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence. A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established a confidential correspondence which has extended over many years and which has never been broken. Never have they published a testimonial or used a letter without the written consent of the writer, and never has the Company allowed these confidential letters to get out of their possession, as the hundreds of thousands of them in their files will attest.

Out of the vast volume of experience which they have to draw from, it is more than possible that they possess the very knowledge needed in your case. Nothing is asked in return except your good will, and their advice has helped thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, should be glad to take advantage of this generous offer of assistance. Address Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass.

Every woman ought to have Lydia E. Pinkham's 80-page Text Book. It is not a book for general distribution, as it is too expensive. It is free and only obtainable by mail. Write for it today.

SPRING WORK ON STREETS

Sun's Rays Exposing Tons of Filth on Duluth Highways.

Board Has Men at Work Opening Manholes and Gutters.

Spring is on the way and the board of public works is taking cognizance of the fact.

For several days crews of men have been at work cleaning and thawing the manholes, digging ditches along the curbs and taking such other steps as may be necessary to take care of the annual spring thaw.

The members of the board are hoping that the thaw will be fairly gradual and distributed over a fairly long time. This will prevent the dreaded, destructive floods which wash out the streets on the hillsides, turn the streets into miniature rivers and fill basements with water, damaging stocks of goods.

The antics of Old Sol, who has been shining brightly, have brought to light tons and tons of filth and the end is not yet. It is the winter's accumulation of dirt and each day makes the mess worse. A number of men have been kept busy on the principal crossings of the downtown streets, but with water coming down faster than they can sweep it away it is impossible to keep them dry.

An effort will be made to haul away the accumulations on the streets as quickly as possible. The crews will be increased and teams will be put to work, but at best it will be rather a slow process. It will be many weeks yet before the city's streets and avenues present anywhere near a normal appearance. The funds are limited but the board intends to make the available cash go as far as possible in the shortest space of time.

When most of the ice and dirt has been hauled away the flushing will begin. The big hose will be turned on and what remains will be washed into the sewers. But it is not expected that this can be done for some time yet.

DINNER FOR JOHN PANTON

Friends of Former Duluthian Entertain Him at the Club.

An informal dinner in honor of John Panton, a former Duluthian now engaged in business at Seattle, Wash., was given last evening at the Kitchi Gammi club. Mr. Panton is en route to the East and is spending but a day or two in the city.

A. L. Agatin presided at the affair. Covers were laid for fourteen. Those present were: B. M. Peyton, Hans Christianson, C. S. Wilson, L. B. Arnold, J. E. Granger, William Harrison, George W. Welles, George H. Mance, A. W. Hartman, S. A. McPhail, Dr. W. H. Magie, Frank Day, A. L. Agatin and Mr. Panton.

CUT STRIP FROM FOURTH STREET

Property Owners Want It Made of Uniform Width.

It was the sentiment of the property owners who met with the board of public works yesterday afternoon that that part of Fourth street between Sixth and Fourteenth avenue east be made to conform in width to the street which is on either side of that section.

West of Sixth avenue and east of Fourteenth avenue the street is 66 feet wide. Between it is 86 feet wide. It was the opinion at the meeting that 20 feet should be cut off, adding that much to the length of the lots in those blocks. The matter will be referred to the council for final action. The reduction would not only make the width of the street uniform but would reduce the cost of the pavement.

PUBLIC DOCUMENTS.

How They May Be Obtained With Least Trouble.

Washington, March 19.—No doubt most people interested in useful reading matter will be thankful for information, obtained through official sources, as to how public documents can be procured with least trouble and at trifling expense. The idea that prevails most generally, that this class of literature may be secured through the courtesy of members of congress, is correct only in so slight a degree that it had best be corrected. There are nearly 500 senators and representatives—hence an edition of several thousand copies, if distributed pro rata, gives to each only a few copies. Some of these the senator or representative needs for reference, the few left over are soon exhausted, and those constituents who then write for them are necessarily disappointed, through no fault of the public man whom they have addressed. Now, as a general proposition, the reader who is interested in a government publication will serve himself best by addressing the official known as the superintendent of documents, government printing office, Washington, D. C., who is authorized to have reprinted any government publication for which there is a demand, and sell the same, at cost, to all applicants. He will mail price lists, divided by subjects, free upon application, and remittance can then, as required by law authorizing such sales, accompany order.

MINNESOTA RAILROADS FILE BRIEF ON RATES.

Washington, March 19.—In a 900-page brief the Minnesota railroads yesterday filed in the supreme court their reasons why the decisions of Judge Sanborn enjoining the enforcement of the Minnesota rate laws should be affirmed. The brief elaborates the views set forth by Judge Sanborn.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

WILL TILL STATE'S SOIL

Inmates of Institutions Will Cultivate About 4,550 Acres.

Corn Will Be Principal Crop, Hay Next and Potatoes Third.

St. Paul, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Officially, Minnesota will turn farmer within the next few weeks, and at the various state institutions, put in approximately 4,550 acres in crops. Estimates received by M. C. Cutter, purchasing agent for the state board of control, indicate there will be a slight increase in acreage over last year, and that corn will be the principal crop. Hay will be next, potatoes third and oats fourth.

At practically all the institutions gardening will be carried on extensively. The largest will be at the state reformatory, where 15 acres of beets, 30 acres of beans, 5 acres of tobacco, 2 acres of rutabagas, 5 acres of pumpkins, 2 acres of squash, 10 acres of peas will be planted. At the state prison a garden will be cultivated, but on not so extensive a scale as at the reformatory. It will be of a somewhat higher class, including such things as celery, cauliflower, lettuce, muskmelons, strawberries, tomatoes, mangel-wurzel and similar vegetables and small fruits. About forty-five acres will be planted.

At the Boys' School.

At the state training school for boys a garden of twenty-five acres will be planted. Twelve acres will be devoted to sorghum. Twenty acres will be devoted to "spuds."

Corn, oats, rye, barley and potatoes will be the chief crops at the hospitals for the insane. At several, however, sorghum for making molasses for use during the winter, will be grown. There will be 1,159 acres of corn seeded, 871 acres of hay, 537 acres of potatoes, 490 acres of oats and 345 acres in gardens for vegetables.

"We encounter practically no trouble in getting inmates of the various institutions to do farm work," Mr. Cutter said. "Give most of 'em a chew of tobacco and the farming implements and they go happily on their way. They enjoy the open air work. The tobacco grown at the state reformatory is for the use of inmates of that institution, and it's always a carefully worked crop."

Tobacco is allowed at practically all the institutions except the training school for boys at Red Wing and the girls' school at Sauk Center. The girls will have flower gardens this year instead of tobacco fields, such as will be set out at other institutions.

EAST GRAND FORKS CARRIED CASE UP

Appeals to Supreme Court From Judge's Ruling in Brewery Case.

East Grand Forks, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The decision of Judge Watts at Crookston against the validity of the local ordinance imposing a license of $1,000 per year upon agents for breweries will not stand unless affirmed by the supreme court, as an appeal is being taken.

Judge Watts held that the city could not collect the license fee.

The fact that an appeal has been made from Judge Watts' decision to the supreme court will not affect the present mode of doing business of the wholesalers, and liquor will be sold in wholesale lots as before.

CARRIERS' WEEK'S WORK.

What Ishpeming Government Employes Did in Six Days.

Ishpeming, Mich, March 19.—The carriers in the Ishpeming postoffice have completed the compilation of figures in regard to the mail handled and delivered as ordered by the assistant postmaster at Washington. The record was taken during the week of March 4 to 9, inclusive. During that period, 6,174 pounds of mail was distributed by the carriers, or an average of 147 pounds a day for each man. Each carrier covered nine miles during the week, an average of sixteen miles a day. The average number of first-class letters and circulars distributed each day by each carrier was 571, and the average number of stops made by each carrier was 475. A total of 1,041 pieces of mail of all classes was the average for each carrier a day.

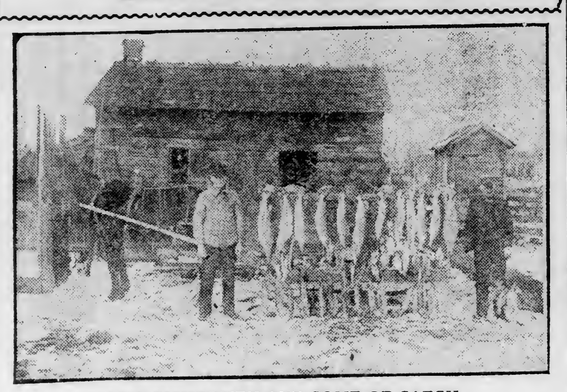
WINTER FISHING IS BIG INDUSTRY NEAR STAPLES



TWO FISHERMEN AND SOME OF CATCH.

Staples, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Winter fishing is becoming quite an industry in this section. The photograph shipped over two tons of fish from Big Thunder lake and vicinity this winter. The fish netted them 6 cents per pound above all expenses.

DRUGSTORE CAN BE OPENED AGAIN

Eddy County North Dakota Is No Longer Without Pill Mixers.

New Rockford, N. D., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eddy county, which for several days was without a drugstore in operation, has one under an order issued by Judge Coffey.

In raids that were made by the county officials, the stores were closed up, and in several places large supplies of liquor were found. As a result, the owners, in reopening, must seek new locations, the old buildings being closed up for a period of a year.

During the period that the county was without drug stores, arrangements were made whereby physicians could secure their supplies, but the general public was positively barred.

CO-OPERATIVE IDEA PROVING POPULAR

Roseau and Other Towns in Northwestern Minnesota Start Such Concerns.

Roseau, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Roseau is becoming the home co-operation town. It now has a farmers' co-operative store, a farmers' co-operative creamery, a farmers' co-operative elevator and this summer the farmers will build a co-operative potato warehouse and a co-operative laundry. In addition to this a $20,000 school building will be erected with an agricultural school in connection. The farmers tributary to Badger and Greenbush have also several sucessful co-operative concerns.

Karlstad, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—A meeting will be held here March 26 to organize a farmers' co-operative elevator. Considerable stock has already been subscribed. The farmers around Kennedy, twenty miles west of here, are organizing a farmers' co-operative elevator, more than $5,000 stock being subscribed at the first meeting. Hallock farmers are also organizing as are those at Newfolden, Middle River and Donaldson. That means six new farmers' elevators within a radius of fifty miles.

PAROCHIAL SCHOOL CONTRACT AWARDED

East Grand Forks Institution Fathered By Duluthian Going Ahead.

East Grand Forks, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The contract has been let for the construction here of a parochial school to Dinnie Bros., of Grand Forks. There were seven bidders, the tender of the lucky firm, $12,176, being the lowest. The foundation for the school has already been laid.

Father Hogan, who went from this city to Duluth, was responsible for the movement in favor of the construction of the school, and brought the financial feature to a successful conclusion before departing.

PIONEER HOTEL BURNS.

Shakopee Hostelry, Built in 1847, Is Detroyed.

Shakopee, Minn., March 19.—Fire Sunday destroyed what was known as the old American hotel in early steamboat days on the Minnesota river. The loss was about $4,000, partially covered by insurance. The building, which was erected in 1847, has of late years been used as a tenement house, occupied by four families, all of whom escaped from the burning building in safety. The fire was caused by a defective chimney.

Plan Minneapolis Branch.

St. Paul, Minn., March 19.—The J. I. Case company of Racine, Wis., is preparing to establish a branch factory at Minneapolis for the manufacture of farming implements and thrashing outfits. The articles of incorporation were filed with the secretary of state yesterday.

WANT MUNICIPAL COURT.

Cass Lake Council to Be Asked to Create Position.

Cass Lake, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—A petition addressed to the village council is being circulated asking for the establishment of a municipal court. It has been signed by all the attorneys in town and by citizens generally. It is argued in favor of the movement that a municipal judge would have jurisdiction in cases to the amount of $500, while a justice of the peace has jurisdiction only in cases where the amount involved does not exceed $100. It is believed that the establishment of such a court would tend to expedite court business for the whole county and relieve the district court of a great many cases which can now only be tried in it. It is reported that about three-fourths of the district court cases are over sums between $100 and $300, and litigants under the present system have to wait for the district court sessions, which occur only twice a year, in order to get their cases adjudicated. In the event that the council takes favorable action, it is believed that it is practically the unanimous opinion of people here that Judge Frank Ives will be recommended to Governor Eberhart for the position of municipal judge. For a number of years he has been justice of the peace here.

APRIL 30 IS DATE.

For Special Session of Wisconsin Legislature Just Called.

Madison, Wis., March 19.—Governor Francis E. McGovern late yesterday afternoon issued a call for an extra session of the legislature to be held beginning April 30.

Included in the call is the announcement of a primary election on April 2 for nominations for two senators and one assembly vacancy, the election proper to be held on April 26. The vacancies to be filled are the Thirtieth senatorial district, caused by the death of Senator James A. Wright of Merrill; the Fourteenth senatorial district, because of the removal from the district of Senator J. Elmer Lehr; and the Fourth assembly district for a successor to Carl H. Dorner, deceased.

The subjects to be considered probably will be: State aid for the city of Black River Falls; state aid to strengthen the Portage levee against floods; new water power legislation; amendments to the weights and measures law to insure uniform standards for berry crates, etc.

Several other minor matters will probably come up. It is expected the session will take at least fifteen days.

Two Sets of Candidates.

Madison, Wis., March 19.—Two sets of candidates for president on the Prohibition ticket have been included in the presidential preference petitions filed by Wisconsin Prohibitionists, the slates being as follows: Eugene W. Chafin, Tucson, Artz., formerly of Waukesha, for president, and E. L. G. Hohenthal, South Manchester, Conn., vice president; and Oliver W. Stewart, Chicago, for president, and Finley C. Henrickson, Cumberland, Md., for vice president.

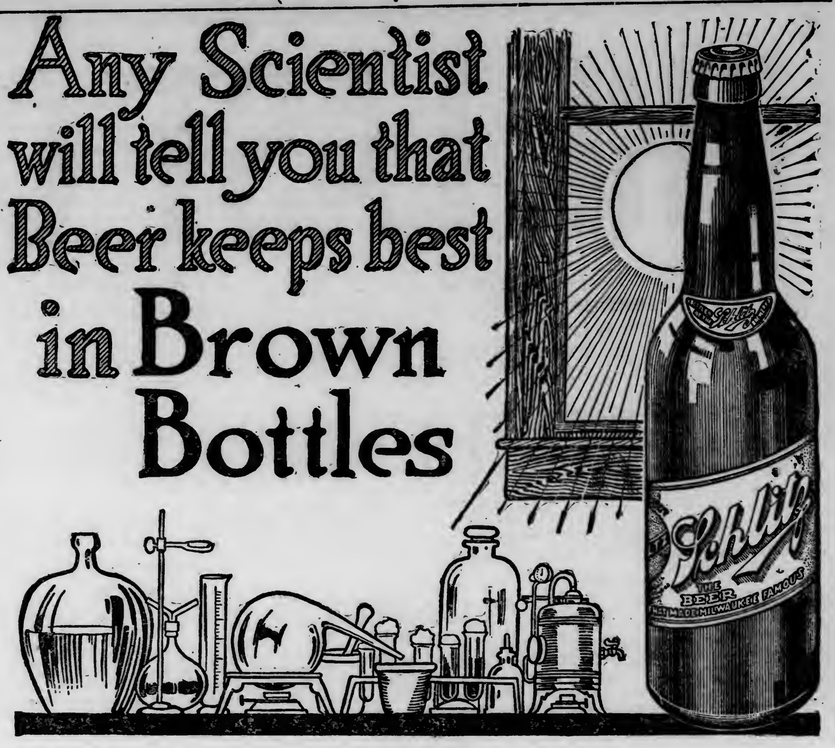
Any Scientist will tell you that Beer keeps best in Brown Bottles



Wahl-Henius Institute of Fermentology, Chicago, writes:

"We have tested beers repeatedly, placing the bottles into direct sunlight, and testing the same after one, two, three and five minutes exposure; found that the beer with three and five minutes exposure became undrinkable on account of the peculiar odor developed. The detrimental effect of light upon beer can be successfully counteracted by the employment of brown or dark colored glass bottles."

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Marquette—The hunting camps of John W. Thoney and Capt. W. J. Cleary, at Thoney's quarry, on the Marquette & Southeastern railway, were broken into some time in the last couple of weeks and considerable damage done to the furniture, as a result of which vigorous efforts are being made to apprehend the house breakers.

Negaunee—John W. Elliott will be mayor of Negaunee another term, according to the present outlook. It is said that both parties to last spring's fight are satisfied with his administration, and have agreed to elect him to another term without opposition The election this year will be quiet, it is thought, except in one ward.

Marquette—Mrs. Robert Erickson, aged 24 years, died Saturday evening at the home of her father, William Wiseman. She is survived by her husband and a 2-year-old daughter, besides her father and mother, four sisters an five brothers. She was a member of the Royal Neighbors of America.

Munsing—Of late a number of jumbo whitefish have been taken by Munsing fishermen near Wood island. Fish of that kind command fancy prices. One day recently Powell brothers caught one which weighed sixteen pounds. They sold the fish right at home for $5.

Houghton — On Thursday morning the St. Paul train near Baraga hit an unknown man of Finnish descent and fractured his skull. The accident occurred near the waterworks and electric light plant. The victim was taken to the McKinley hotel and given medical attendance. His wound is of such a nature that he will not recover.

Hancock—Rev. Edward Eckstrom, pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church at Michigan street and Railroad avenue, has received a call from the Swedish Lutheran congregation at Metropolitan offering him the church at that place. Rev. Mr. Eckstrom has refused the offer, but will visit the town next week after attending the Lake Superior district convention at Marinette.

Marquette—John Dunleavey, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Dunleavey, died Friday evening after a lingering illness, at the age of 37. He is survived by his father and mother and the following sisters and brothers: Mrs. Barney McNulty of Duluth, Minn., and Michael, Thomas, James and William of this city.

Laurium—The funeral of Mrs. Oscar Strombeck of Lake Linden avenue, Laurium, who died Friday, took place Sunday afternoon from the Swedish Lutheran church, Rev. Moline officiating. Mrs. Strombeck died after a short illness. She was 35 years of age and is survived by her husband and seven children.

Lake Linden—The Italian Citizens' league of South Range will take a class of forty applicants for second citizenship papers to Houghton Tuesday.

Ontonagon—The Ontonagon county board of supervisors has authorized one of its members to purchase a Holstein bull and two heifers for the Ontonagon county poor farm for the sum of $16,000, and have instructed him to buy a young bull from the strain known as the Pontiac Korndyke strain.

Marquette—Details have been completed for a farmers' institute and grange meeting for Marquette county to be held at the Northern normal school on March 28. The speakers will be Charles B. Cook of Owosso and Mrs. E. Creyton of Lansing, and possibly Leo M. Geisinar of the experimental station at Chatham.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Madison—The action of Circuit Judge Arthur H. Reid in failing to appoint counsel to defend John F. Dietz, the Cameron Dam outlaw serving a life sentence for the murder of a deputy sheriff, was criticised by Attorneys Maurice McKenna, Fond du Lac, and J. E. Malone, Beaver Dam, in the supreme court Saturday, where they argued for a new trial for Dietz.

Eau Claire—The Kepler company purchased the bankrupt stock of the Greenbaum company Saturday at 35 cents on the dollar. The sale was conducted by Joseph C. Culver, trustee. Bidding was brisk, several bidders participating from out of town.

Merrill—The Merrill Railway & Lighting company has placed its order for the Sixth ward trackless trolley system and expects to start on the work of construction as soon as the frost leaves the ground.

Green Bay—Con Murphy, teamster for the city, was perhaps seriously injured in a runaway when his team became frightened at escaping steam from an engine carried on the wagon. The teamster suffered a fractured skull and also sustained internal injuries when he was thrown heavily to the pavement.

Fond du Lac—Lakota Cardinals of Janesville, disputing the claim of Company E of this city to the state basket ball championship, invaded the city Saturday night and drew a 76 to 25 beating from the soldier five.

Green Bay—The annual convention of the Ninth district of the Wisconsin Federation of Women's Clubs will be held at Marinette the second week in June. The exact dates have not yet been decided upon by the district president, Mrs. John F. Martin, Green Bay. The meeting will extend over two days.

Milwaukee—Andrew Greulich, 72 years old, retired liquor dealer, died Saturday. Born in Detroit, Mr. Greulich came to Milwaukee sixty years ago. His first work was as a reporter for the Sebote, a German newspaper. He later entered the liquor business, conducting a wholesale business on Fourth street, between Prairie and Chestnut, and a distillery in Bay View. He retired from business ten years ago.

Green Bay—Ed Ashley, Big Suamico, lies in the St. Vincent's hospital in a critical condition as the result of having his left hand cut off at the wrist by a corn shredder. The deadly machine chopped his fingers off an inch at a time until the middle of the hand was reached, when Ashley was able to pull it from between the rollers.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Deer River—A. Whaley, representing a large grocery house of Des Moines, Iowa, has been here trying to buy potatoes. Mr. Whaley says his firm has tried Itasca Carmens, and the customers have made such a strong demand for them that he must get them the coming season even if his company has to put in warehouses in this county. He bought two carloads at Grand Rapids and one at Cohasset.

Fergus Falls—B. O. Killmer, who has conducted the Park hotel here for the past six years, has sold out the business to Dell Cummings, a well known traveling man, taking in exchange a racket store stock of goods, and a dwelling house in Anoka.

Brainerd—Alonzo Richardson, aged over 80, the father of Cashlous Richardson, of this city, died at Staples Friday night, death being due to the infirmities of old age. The deceased was a resident of Brainerd for over thirty years. He was visiting a son-in-law at Staples when the final summons came. The body was removed to this city and the funeral services were held here.

Mankato—M. W. Curran died at McLaughlin, S. D., last Wednesday, from pneumonia. The remains were taken to Janesville for burial. The deceased was for many years a conductor on the Milwaukee railroad running out of Mankato to Wells, and lately was employed on the Milwaukee coast extension. He was a member of the Masonic lodge at Mankato.

Grand Marais—With the advent of warmer weather, several of the camps located near Grand Marais are closing. Last week the Woods, St. Jacques and Le Sage camps ceased operations. W. J. Forsythe, who has been logging on the Brule, will finish the winter's work there soon, as will also the Bates-McDonald company, who have been operating near Devils Track lake.

Aitkin—Edward Ree, the orphan boy from Waukenabo, who was in the local hospital for some time, died very suddenly after going back home, having been attacked by pneumonia from which he died in a few hours, the date of his death being Sunday, March 3. He was 15 years old.

Crookston—The Tennis club have held their annual meeting. C. E. Gildersleeve was elected president; Aaron Youngquist, secretary and treasurer, the offices formerly filled by Dr. J. F. Boles and I. B. Fisher. Plans were discussed for the summer and it was decided to have several tournaments with out of town teams.

International Falls—John Morrow, an Austrian, who has been held on a charge of being insane, was given a hearing Saturday in probate court and ordered taken to Fergus Falls. Theodore Barnholt, a teamster employed around town, drew a fine in police court for whipping his horse more than was thought necessary by the party making the complaint.

Cloquet—The Cloquet ticket office of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern in the union depot here were robbed of $30 and a bunch of tickets Friday night between the 6:45 and 10:45 trains when the ticket office and waiting rooms are locked. The locks on the doors were picked.

A Simple Way to Reduce Wrinkles

(From the Home Maker.)

Remember that wrinkles and bagginess of cheek or chin are due to the muscular tissue losing its strength and shrinking. The skin is then too large in area to fit such tissue smoothly. It wrinkles or sags.

To remedy this condition, there's nothing so effective, so quick-acting, as a simple wash lotion easily made at home. Get an ounce of powdered saxolite at your druggist's, and a half pint witch hazel, mix the two and bathe your face in the liquid. This at once tightens the skin and solidifies the underlying tissue—which, of course, smoothes out the lines and draws in the sagging skin. It also stimulates circulation, bringing natural color to faded cheeks.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Grand Forks, N. D.—Wednesday night this week Prof. Frederick H. Koch of the department of English of the university will give a number of Shakespearean readings in the assembly room of the high school. The readings will be given under the auspices of the junior class of the school.

Fargo, N. D.—Robert Nesbit is captain of the high school basket ball team of 1913. Saturday evening his teammates unanimously elected him leader of the budget forces for next year. During the season just passed he has played a remarkable game at running guard and has scored more field baskets and more points than any man on the high school team.

Bismarck, N. D.—The funeral of William E. Cochrane, who died suddenly at his home in this city Thursday morning was held at the Masonic temple Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Shafer, N. D.—With a promptness which indicates that the many rumors regarding railroad construction at an early date in McKenzie county are not without foundation, the Great Northern and Northern Pacific engineers and surveyors in this section of the county are running the lines for their respective companies.

McClusky, N. D.—William Burchardt, who pleaded guilty to a charge of incest preferred against him by Humane Officer Blake was sentenced to seven years at hard labor in the state penitentiary by Judge Winchester.

Dupree, S. D.—Mrs. Rose Wentworth (Carr) formerly a champion bareback rider, took charge of the Hotel Dupree in this city yesterday as manager. Mrs. Carr retired from circus arena three years ago and since that time has been living on a ranch near this city.

Dickinson, N. D.—The Stark county bond issue of $100,000 for a new court house will not likely carry at the election on March 19, as the Dickinson Commercial club has gone on record as not favoring the issue at this time. The county was considerably inclined to oppose the issue anyway, so there does not seem to be much question as to the failure of bonds to carry.

NATURE'S WARNING

Duluth People Must Recognize and Heed it.

Kidney ills come mysteriously.
But nature always warns you.
Notice the kidney secretions.
See if the color is unhealthy—
If there are settlings and sediment,
Passages frequent, scanty, painful.
It's time to use Doan's Kidney Pills,
To ward off serious diseases.

Doan's have done great work in Duluth.

William Bain, 1402 E. Fourth St., Duluth, Minn., says: "Two years ago I gave a public account of my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills. I can now say that I have had no need of a kidney medicine since. My kidneys were so badly disordered that I was miserable in every way. The kidney secretions passed too frequently and were discolored. I had backaches and felt weak and tired. Doan's Kidney Pills quickly relieved me and the contents of two or three boxes made me well. I feel as though it were my duty to recommend this remedy when I can."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

WEST END

NO BRICKS ARE NEEDED HERE

Woman's Argument for Woman's Suffrage Is Unanimously Indorsed.

Members of the Beta council, No. 2, Modern Samaritans, are in favor of woman's suffrage, judging from a decision rendered last evening in a debate held between two of the members on the question of allowing women to vote. Mrs. L. Furdy upheld the affirmative of the question and she was given a unanimous decision over W. L. Humerichous, who upheld the negative.

The meeting was the third in the series of regular weekly entertainments given every month by the members of the order. The next entertainment will be given Monday evening, March 25, in the form of a card party at the Columbia hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street.

TWO NEW BRICK BLOCKS PLANNED

The West end will have two new brick buildings within a few months.

Plans for a two-story brick structure on Superior street between Twenty-first and Twenty-second avenue west, next to Emma Johnson's store, are now being drawn for P. George Hanson & Son, real estate dealers, who are representing a Minneapolis business man. The site was formerly owned by Dr. L. Q. Greeley, who sold it recently to the Minneapolis man, and who is now building the structure through the West end real estate company.

Just what kind of a building it will be is not known from the present plans of the owner, but it is possible that the structure will occupy a 50-foot frontage and will run seventy feet to the alley. The first floor will be given over to stores, while the second will be arranged for flats or offices. The cost of the building when completed will be $15,000.

The other building for which plans are now being made by W. J. Sullivan, architect, will be two stories with a 50-foot frontage and a depth of 150 feet to Michigan street. It will be located on the site of the present West end five-and-ten-cent store, 2022-24 West Superior street. A. H. Burg & Co., real estate dealers, are in charge of the work and the razing of the present building is expected to start soon. Mohaupt Bros., proprietors of the five-and-ten-cent store, have taken a twenty-five year lease on the basement and first floor of the structure and according to the present plans, will move into the building June 1, the time when it is expected to be ready for occupancy. The building will cost about $20,000.

RAISE $700 FOR PIPE ORGAN FUND

The Young People's Society of the Zion Norwegian Lutheran church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street, has already raised $700 in its campaign to secure $2,500 for a pipe organ to be donated to the church.

The members of the society started the subscription campaign several weeks ago at one of the meetings, when $320 was donated by the members of the society alone. Special district committees have been appointed and every member of the congregation is being approached and asked to subscribe. The full amount needed is expected before summer.

The church has long been in need of a pipe organ and with the present active campaign by the Young People's society it is the general belief that enough funds will be raised to defray the cost of the organ. The officers of the society in charge of the subscription campaign are: Rev. J. M. Nervig, pastor of the church, president; P. Orsund, vice president; Miss Agnes Midthune, secretary; and C. O. Grotting, treasurer.

SOCIETIES WILL UNITE FOR BENEFIT PERFORMANCE.

Three West end societies will unite in a benefit performance to be given Saturday evening, March 30, for Olaf Peterson, the young man who lost both feet by freezing early this winter. The entertainment will be given by members of the Vasa order, Svea Glee club and the Sophia lodge at the Columbia hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street.

Addresses will be given by Mayor McCuen and Rev. W. E. Harmann, rector of the St Peter's Episcopal church, Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street. Several musical numbers will be rendered during the evening and the following committees are in charge for the different lodges: Svea Glee club—John Wallin, Iver Holmberg and H. Enlund. Vasa order—J. Lund, O. A. Larson and Gust Lundeen, and the Sophia lodge, Misses Marie Johnson and Vera Horngren.

Peterson was employed in a lumber camp near Tower and while going from one camp to another his feet were frozen. He was brought to a local hospital where amputation was found necessary to save the young man's life. Two weeks ago the West End Tramp orchestra gave an entertainment for his benefit, at which nearly $200 was raised.

WILL COMPLETE PLANS FOR MIDSUMMER'S DAY.

Plans for the second annual midsummer's day festival to be held June 24 by the Swedish-American National League of Duluth will be made at a meeting of the committee Thursday evening at the Bricklayers' hall, Nineteenth avenue west and First street.

The Swedish-American league is composed of representatives from all the Swedish lodges and organizations in the city and this committee will have complete charge of the festival. The inviting of the speakers for the day and the arranging of the various features will all be taken up by the committee at its meeting Thursday. At its recent meeting in January the members elected the following officers to take charge of the league's work for the year: Andrew Hornegren, president; Louis Levine, vice president; John Johnson, secretary; and A. T. Lind, treasurer.

Several interesting features are promised by the organizations in the league and the auxiliary orders will also take a prominent part in the celebration. The women will have charge of the costumes for the parade to be held in the morning. It is probable that the festival will be held at Lincoln park, where fireworks will be displayed in the evening and the older members finish the day by dancing. An open air vaudeville performance will also be introduced at this year's festival and following a special series of games and races in the afternoon for the children, a supper for every one present will be served by the women of the various orders in the league.

The members of the league are now arranging a tentative program for the day's festival, which will be submitted at the meeting Thursday. Following are the societies now represented in the league: Vasa order, Sons of Sweden, S. H. & E. F., I. O. G. T., Swedish society, Orpheus Singing society, Swedish Benefit society and the Svea Glee club.

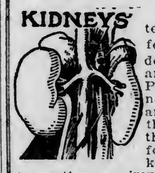
TEN-HOUR DAY MEANS MORE PAY.

Employes at the Woodruff Lumber company, 819 Garfield avenue, were yesterday placed on a ten-hour day working schedule instead of 8 hours, as in the past winter. The men are paid by the hour and the change will add about 50 cents a day to the pay of each laborer.

Early this winter about sixty men working at the mills were given an option of working 8 hours instead of 10 or taking a possible chance of being laid off near the end of the winter. The men chose the 8-hour day and the many large orders that have been received the past week warrant the new schedule.

DANGERS OF FAT

HOW FAT AFFECTS THE KIDNEYS



The kidneys often become affected by fatty deposits before any other organ. Probably there is no more important function of the entire body than that performed by the kidneys. Any interruption or impairment of this function, must necessarily soon result in serious trouble. And not the least of these dangers is the gradual change in substance of the organs themselves. You will hardly care to risk Bright's Disease, or the torture of Rheumatism, to say nothing of the unwelcome burden of fat which attacks the whole body, making it a sight far from attractive. There is one sure, harmless means by which fat may be checked; that is the famous Marmola Prescription of a Detroit Physician, rendered more convenient and effective in Marmola Prescription Tablets. All druggists sell Marmola Prescription Tablets, and their price is 75c for a large case, or they will be sent postpaid on receipt of price by the Marmola Co., 491 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich. By their use, exercise and dieting may be discarded a smooth, clear complexion and even satisfactory reduction accomplished at the rate of 10 to 16 ounces a day.

Basket Social.

Lysglimt lodge, No. 7, I. O. G. T. will entertain for its members at a basket social tomorrow evening at the Maccabee hall. A program of music and addresses will be rendered following the regular business meeting of the order, at which delegates to the annual district convention will be chosen.

West End Briefs.

Rev. Hugo Thoren of Virginia was a guest yesterday at the home of Rev. C. G. Olson, 2305 West Third street, on his way to a week's visit at Alexandria, Minn.

The Men's Society of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street, will hold its regular meeting in the church parlors at 8 o'clock Thursday evening.

The St. Luke's Guild of St. Peter's Episcopal church, Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street, will be entertained in the guild rooms Thursday afternoon by the Mesdames Gus Johnson and Thomas Bark, following which Lenten services will be conducted by Rev. W. E. Harmann.

The choir of the Zion Norwegian Lutheran church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street, will give a grand concert in the church parlors Thursday evening.

Mrs. H. T. O'Neill, 2708 West First street, has returned from Dubuque, Iowa, where she attended the funeral of her mother.

Miss Hulda Sandstrom of 612 Piedmont avenue is visiting relatives in Minneapolis this week.

Miss Florence Armstrong of Carlton, Minn., returned to her home yesterday after spending the past few days at the home of Mrs. F. R. O'Donnell, 421 North Twenty-first avenue west.

BIG MILL FINISHED.

International Lumber Company's Plant Starts Soon.

International Falls, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is expected that within a few days the new planing mill of the International Lumber company here will be in operation. The machinery has been tried out and given satisfaction. This concern will add to the local payroll.

The local council of the Knights of Columbus marched in a body Sunday to the Catholic church, where they received communion.

G. F. Axt of Duluth is visiting in the city as the guest of his friend, Joseph McPhee.

AMUSEMENTS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—Bonci.
ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.

Amusement Notes.

One of the most popular performers on this week's big bill at the Orpheum, is Rosa Roma, the violinist, who just at the present time is the heroine of a little romance that is furnishing the topic for some interesting and harmless gossip among vaudevillians. Rosa Roma is in private life, Mrs. C. N. Sutton, the wife of the manager of the Salt Lake City Orpheum, and thereby hangs a tale. They were married but a few months ago after an interesting little romance. Miss Roma was appearing in Salt Lake City on the Orpheum time when she was taken seriously ill with typhoid fever, and removed to a hospital. She had no friends in the West, and while she had the best of medical attention, her stay in the hospital promised to be a very dreary one. Mr. Sutton, realizing this, began sending flowers and books to the patient. Later he called, as soon as she was able to receive visitors, and the call was repeated several times. He was at first interested only in seeing that one of his performers received every possible attention, but later his interest in the patient became more personal, and a few days after she left the hospital, Rosa Roma became Mrs. C. N. Sutton. She spent the summer in Salt Lake City in a local stock company, and last fall began another Orpheum tour.

The Empress is presenting one of the finest bills of vaudeville of the present season this week. From start to finish there is not a weak spot and the majority of the attractions could do justice to the headline position. The Alpha troupe of hoop rollers and jugglers is given the headline position this week. Hoop rolling acts as a rule do not appeal to the average theatergoer but the Alpha troupe has included feats which have never been attempted by any other act of a similar nature. With five members operating and twenty or thirty hoops or painted wheels spinning in the air at the same time and performing all sorts of gyrations and evolutions, the act is a brilliant one. Any one who has ever had a tooth extracted can fully appreciate "The Kleptomaniacs"

ROSA ROMA.

FLOYD MACK.

as presented by Ely & Florence. This piece is one of the brightest comedy playlets yet presented at the Empress and in the hands of Ely & Florence, it is doubly entertaining. The scene of the playlet is laid in a dentist's office which is faithfully reproduced with all its instruments of torture. Ely & Florence make the most of the opportunities afforded them and keep the audience convulsed from start to finish. To Floyd Mack belongs the credit of presenting a dancing act that is different. Mack is about the nittiest dancer seen at the Empress in months and he is presenting a turn which is far removed from the average cut and dried dancing act. Mack features several new dances, his barn dance clog being one of the best. Roach & Crawford offer a mixture of singing and dancing which meets with favor and they hand out a line of gags which are really new. The show is opened by Massey & Bolton with a comedy musical turn which is funny and which at the same time is excellent from a musical point of view. They put the audience in a happy frame of mind for the good things that follow. The daylight pictures are especially fine this week.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

LAST NIGHT IN OLD CLUB

Curling Season Will Come to an End Saturday Night.

Members Will Pack Their Belongings and Move Out.

EVENT WINNERS.

Manley—Ron McLeod.
Gruesen—Harris.
Herald—Bradley.
Hegley—Unfinished. Two games yet to play. Bradley meets the winner of the McLeod-Harris game. Will probably be played tonight.
City champion—Phil Helmick.
State champion and winner of the Governor Merriam—Elmer Whyte.

Saturday night marks the close of the curling and skating season at the Duluth Curling club.

It also marks the last night at the old club house where for years the curlers have assembled for their curling games and the families for their skating.

In addition Saturday night ends the most successful curling season in Head of the Lakes history.

There are but few of the old timers who will not pack up their traps with a pang of regret, for even the new rink will not recompense them, for a time, at least, for the lost associations which hover about the old Third avenue structure.

Curling history has been made at the old rink. Great games have been won and lost. Thrilling bonspiels have been held.

It was on No. 2 or No. 5 or some of the other ices that such and such a game was played. It was here or there that some great and almost impossible shot was made. It was in the club room that the feeds and jollifications were held.

The old building has been a winter home for a great many for years and even though promised a new rink for next year that will be the last word in convenience and modern structure, there are but few old time curlers who will not turn back and heave a sigh as they realize finally that the old building has a place in their heart which cannot be filled by the new.

Many New Curlers.

This year many new curlers have been made. They are all enthusiastic over the game, and there will be more next year, for now the club has a membership of about 1,200 as compared with 300 this year.

It is a fascinating sport, this curling, and it is a game for old and young. It is a clean, healthful sport. With the new rink with its skating surface and twelve rinks, the club will be able to take care of 1,200 curlers as nicely as it did 300 at the old rink. There are three clubs at the Head of the Lakes now, one at Superior and one at West Duluth. The rivalry is intense, but it is the best and friendliest sort.

About June 1 operations will begin on the new rink on London road. By next winter the rink will be ready.

The Northwestern bonspiel will not be held here next year, but curlers from Winnipeg, the Twin Cities, Portage, Superior, West Duluth and other places having yearly representatives in Duluth for the bonspiel will send rinks for the opening and to help Duluth celebrate.

Next year promises great things, for with its new building, the Curling club will be the center for the city's winter sports.

All agree that the winter just past has been one of the greatest curling seasons in the history of the Duluth club.

"Kid" Farmer to Marry.

St Louis, Mo., March 19.—Harry D. B. Tibbetts Farmer, known in pugilistic circles as "Kid" Farmer of Peoria, Ill., announces that he is to marry Miss Theo Spencer of Alton, Ill., Sunday night. He is scheduled to fight Leo Kelley, a local lightweight here Wednesday night.

CROOKSTON HOCKEY TEAM HAS CLEAN RECORD FOR THE SEASON

Crookston, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald)—The Crookston hockey team has finished its schedule for the past season with a straight record of victories. They were scored against but three times, once by St. Paul, and twice by Hallock, who scored one each time. They shut out Bemidji and Emerson and for the season scored twenty-five points to their opponents' three.

Winning every game their score was as follows: St. Paul, 3 to 1; Bemidji, 8 to 0; Hallock, 7 to 1; Hallock, 5 to 1 and Emerson, 2 to 0. The team ends the season with finances in good shape. The Crookston hockey team controls the city park during the winter months and has been so successful in providing a public skating rink in the winter that the same organization will probably secure the control of the same grounds for the summer, which includes the baseball park and put a regular team in the field for the coming season.

COLLEGE HEADS TO HOLD MEETING

Presidents Will Talk Over Difficulties of the Big Eight Conference.

Chicago, March 19.—Presidents of all the institutions in the "Big Eight" conference will meet here today in an attempt to find a solution for the many difficulties which now confront the organization.

While there has been talk of a dissolution of the body, the formation of two conferences of four schools each, and similar rumors, it is believed by the majority of the institutions' heads that the organization will not be broken up. Students are said to be, in the main, responsible for the separation cry that has been raised.

President James of the University of Illinois, it is said, has a plan to suggest to the presidents, which if adopted would result in an amicable settlement of all questions now before the conference.

The prediction that the presidents would pass many rules regarding the regulation of athletics was shattered by President Harry Pratt Judson of the University of Chicago. He said they would do little balloting, leaving this work for the regular delegates, who meet Wednesday afternoon.

LEAVES RANKS OF THE AMATEURS

Ralph Capron Passes Up Bright Prospects to Play Professional Baseball.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 19.—Ralph Capron, star halfback of the University of Minnesota football team, has signed a contract and left for Hot Springs, Ark., where he will join the Pittsburg National league team. Capron, who is an outfielder, was signed by Elmer Foster, former big league player and scout for the Pittsburg team. Capron, it is said, is to receive $3,500 for the season, whether he remains with the team or not.

By signing to play professional baseball the university loses one of the strongest members of its 1912 football team, and a possible member of the Olympic team, as Capron, who is a sprinter, has been in training for some time for the trials which are to be held in Chicago.

LEAGUE TO HAVE BUT FOUR CLUBS

Duluth and Superior Are Given Until April 3 to Send Guarantees.

Eau Claire, Wis., March 19.—The Minnesota-Wisconsin league will continue, but just how many teams will compose the circuit is not known. According to plans made at the meeting held here last night the season will open May 14.

The four towns of the southern end of the circuit were represented. President Elliott of La Crosse, Conrad of Winona and Davis of the local club, represented their respective cities. Rochester was represented by proxy. Duluth and Superior did not send representatives. No reply was received to the summons of the president from those two cities.

The directors determined that if the two cities do not forward their total guarantees, for the season by April 3 their franchise will be forfeited and a four-team schedule will be framed.

MAY PLAY SUNDAY BALL IN NEW YORK

United States League Features Sunday Games in Its First Schedule.

New York, March 19.—Although the promoters of the new United States baseball league were still waiting this morning for a decision as to whether New York will stay in the circuit, they have completed a tentative schedule, an important feature of which is said to be the prominence given to Sunday games.

Baseball is played here on Sunday, but only by semi-professional teams. No admission is charged to these games but the revenue is obtained by the sale of programs and by other subterfuges. If the United States league plans to play games here on Sunday, the venture will be watched with much interest. The Brooklyn team of the National league tried Sunday baseball a few years ago, but the police interfered.

CRACK PINMEN AT CHICAGO MEET

Bowlers From Many Cities Roll in Big Windy City Tournament.

Chicago, March 19.—Crack pinmen from a dozen cities competed in the minor events of the American Bowling congress tournament today among them being Herman Collins and "Kit" Selbach of Columbus, Ohio, who won the two-men team championship in 1904. Bowlers from Jamestown, Va., Clarksburg and Wheeling, W. Va., Columbus, Cleveland, Dayton and Cincinnati, Ohio, Toronto, Canada, Des Moines, Iowa, Port Huron, Mich., Indianapolis, Buffalo and Louisville also rolled.

LARGE AMOUNT OF MONEY NEEDED

Donations Are Being Made to the American Olympic Fund.

New York, March 19.—Announcement has been made that the Boston Athletic association will contribute $1,500 to the American Olympic fund. Twenty-five thousand dollars will be needed, the committee says, and so far the bulk of the contributions have come from New York, Chicago, Boston, San Francisco and Philadelphia.

Walter Camp has forwarded a check for $300 as Yale's contribution. It is expected that Princeton, Pennsylvania, Dartmouth and the other colleges in the East and West will send funds later.

Woman Breaks Record.

Tacoma, Wash., March 19.—Miss Anna Hanson of Tacoma broke the world's record for women in revolver target shooting last night when she made 48 out of a possible 50 on a 20-yard indoor range with standard targets.

WAY OPENED FOR BOXING BOUTS

Under Ruling By Chicago Judge, Gymnasium Clubs May Hold Them.

Chicago, March 19.—William J. O'Connell, owner of a gymnasium, was found not guilty of instigating a boxing contest by a jury in Municipal Judge Fry's court yesterday.

Thomas Gary and Vincent Ketchel, pugilists, who were arrested with O'Connell and later discharged, testified that they were sparring when the arrests were made. O'Connell said only members of his gymnasium were permitted to witness the boxing and that he charged no addission fee to his place.

"The finding of the jury opens the way for boxing contests in Chicago," said Attorney Elmil Van Bever, counsel for O'Connell. "Without charging an admission price and by obtaining members who pay a certain amount each month for gymnastic exercises, boxing matches may be staged."

MAHMOUT SAILS FOR EUROPE

Big Wrestler Called Home By Death of His Brother.

Yussif Mahmout will not been seen in action against Kid Cutler in this city on March 28, as was planned, for yesterday the big Turk left New York for Bulgaria where his brother died yesterday.

All American engagements have been cancelled. He will be gone some time and the date of his return to this country is not known.

His manager has posted a forfeit of $1,000 to bind a match with Zybszko, so that his return is assured.

The Mahmout-Cutler match was one of the biggest cards arranged for the present wrestling season in Duluth and the fact that it has been called off will bring keen regret to the fans who were interested in seeing the men in action against one another.

Baptist Ministers Condemn Cleveland Officials Who Joined in Demonstration.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 19.—The Baptist ministers of Cleveland last night adopted resolutions condemning city officials who yesterday joined in a demonstration welcoming Johnny Kilbane, featherweight pugilistic champion to his native town.

The resolutions were introduced by Rev. Dr. W. W. Bustard, pastor of the Euclid Avenue Baptist church of which John D. Rockefeller is a member.

The welcoming parade was reviewed by Mayor Baker.

HUNT URGES THE RECALL OF JUDGES

Arizona Governor Criticizes Taft in Message to Legislature.

Phoenix, Ariz., March 19.—The first message of Governor George W. P. Hunt was read to Arizona's first state legislature yesterday. It was voluminous, containing approximately 16,900 words.

As its first legislative act the governor urged the enactment for submission to the people at the next regular election of an amendment to the Constitution providing for the recall of judicial officers.

The message called attention to the fact that Arizona had voted favorably on two occasions to adopt the recall of judges and continued:

"Their wishes were set at naught by a president's unwillingness to yield a prejudice, but they were secure in the knowledge that with statehood once attained, and with the initiative at their command, they would have it in their hands to restore to the Constitution the power so rudely taken away."

A drastic anti-lobbying law, in conformance with a mandate of the Constitution, also was urged.

On Woman Suffrage.

Although noncommittal on the enfranchisement of women, the message recommended the submission to the people of an equal suffrage amendment.

Free text books were advocated and the legislature was asked to consider the question of old age pensions for Arizonans, "either men or women whose years of residence and devotion to our territory's cause, through the period of its greatest trial, have failed to provide them with the means of easing their declining years."

The legislators also were urged to pass a law requiring each newspaper in Arizona to publish in every issue "a full and complete list of its owners, stockholders and holders of securities, in whatever form they may exist."

Compulsory Compensation.

A compulsory compensation law for workmen and an employers' liability law along lines laid down by the Constitution, an eight-hour day for all classes of labor, abolition of the employers' "blacklist" and the creation of an arbitration board to settle industrial disputes were among the measures recommended under the head of labor.

NEW DEPUTY CORONERS NAMED

Coroner C. F. McComb, recently appointed by the county board to fill the unexpired term of Dr. J. A. McCuen, has selected several new deputies. Five new appointments have been made.

The new deputies are: Dr. W. R. Schmidt of Chisholm to succeed J. Kirk; Dr. Darrow at Aurora to succeed John Christianson; S. E. Helps at Eveleth to succeed J. J. Gleason, and W. J. Dowling at Gilbert. Dr. F. F. Clarke, who served as an assistant to Dr. McCuen in the city, has been replaced by Dr. J. A. McAuliffe.

Five deputies were not removed. They are Dr. E. J. Pengilly of Hibbing, Dr. J. H. Crowe of Virginia; Dr. Burns of Tower; Dr. Shaw of Buhl and Dr. Ayres of Ely.

DOCTOR MUST PAY $25,000 TO WOMAN.

Chicago, March 19.—Miss Mary Lonergan, an artist, whose home is in Kankakee, Ill., has obtained a verdict of $25,000 damages against Dr. Daniel B. Hayden, a Chicago physician, who the young woman declared promised to marry her and then married another. The promise to wed, Miss Lonergan said, was often repeated by the physician, who is a son of a wealthy resident of Manhattan, Ill. Miss Julia Howard of Farmer City, Ill., became the wife of Dr. Hayden in October, 1910.

MOELLER RESIGNS HIS PERE MARQUETTE JOB.

Detroit, Mich., March 19.—H. F. Moeller, general passenger agent of the Pere Marquette railroad, has announced his resignation, to take effect immediately. With reference to the reason for his action Mr. Moeller said: "Beyond the announcement of my resignation I have nothing further to say at this time." It is said his successor will be W. E. Woolfenden, general Western passenger agent in Chicago.

Mr. Moeller began his service with the Pere Marquette at the age of 15 years.

ON THE IRON RANGES

ONLY FIVE MEN ON JOB

Balance of Day Force at Stevenson Mine Does Not Show Up.

No Disturbances Reported—Company in Dark as to Trouble.

Hibbing, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Only five of the day crew employed at the Stevenson mine of the Corrigan-McKinney company near here showed up for work this morning, the balance, about seventy-five, failing to put in an appearance. The night shift of forty refused to go to work last night.

The officers of the mining company are not disposed to talk for publication and appear to be rather in the dark as to just what the men are kicking about, but the general report is the night shift claim if they work only five hours Saturday night they should be paid for eight hours. There is also a report that too much liquor indulged in by some of the men lately has caused more or less dissatisfaction. The men are all foreigners and it is difficult to get a clear statement from them.

Three Deputy Sheriffs.

So far as known there has been no disorder, the men not going to work just keeping away. Acting under authority from Sheriff Meining, Deputy Sheriff Little of Hibbing, today swore in three deputy sheriffs who are now at the property. All the saloons at the Stevenson have been closed. The company has issued orders for the men to get their time if they do not intend going to work.

Wild reports are current here about the miners at the Mississippi mine, at Keewatin, being disgruntled over some rule put into effect since the new eight-hour regulation became effective and threatening trouble, but this cannot be confirmed. The authorities will prevent any disturbance at the Stevenson but up to noon the deputy sheriffs had nothing to do. It is expected that the situation will be clarified in a few hours and that the night shift may nearly all report for work.

WIELDS KNIFE IN POKER GAME

Mike Katake Alleged to Have Stabbed Steve Capon During Row.

Hibbing, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Steve Capon is at a local hospital receiving treatment for knife wounds inflicted during a row over a poker game at the St. Paul location and Mike Katake is being sought on the charge of using the steel upon his adversary. Capon has an ugly wound in the back but it is not considered fatal.

Just how the row developed is not known but it is understood the men became involved in an altercation over the comparative worth of two hands.

TO BUILD MANY HOMES.

Large Number of Dwellings to Be Built in Hibbing.

Hibbing, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—More new residences will be built in Hibbing the coming summer than for many years past, according to local real estate men.

There is a brisk demand for lots in the various additions to the original townsite, and a number of fine homes will be commenced within a short time. Hibbing has long since exhausted the building spots on its original townsite, and the builders are now turning their attention to the additions of Alice and Brooklyn and a new addition on the north, whose promoters confidently predict that some day it will be the site for the business in the present city of Hibbing, when the mining companies get ready to work the ore measures that are known to underly the town.

POLICE CHIEF WRING ISSUES NEW ORDERS

PETER WRING.

Hibbing, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Chief of Police Wring has promulgated a new set of rules for the guidance of the local police officers. Among other things it announces that officers becoming intoxicated while on duty will be discharged; officers must not go into saloons unless on business, and must not remain standing in one place for longer than five minutes or talking to one another for a longer period than that; they must keep their clothing neat and shoes blacked every day, and the shift working between 8 o'clock p. m. and 4 o'clock a. m. must report by telephone every thirty-five minutes to the headquarters station. Violation of any of the rules will cause to be charged against the record of the officer a black mark. Five such marks are to be equivalent to a discharge.

CHISHOLM TO HAVE OLIVER CLUB TOO

Institution Along Lines of Hibbing Affair Is to Be Erected.

Chisholm, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Oliver Iron Mining company will build a clubhouse at the Monroe location at this place during the coming summer. The plans for the building are now in the hands of Engineer Winn, who planned the Oliver club at Hibbing. The clubhouse will be located on the square better known as the park, at the Monroe. The building will be a frame structure and will be provided with a billiard room, bowling alley, library and reading room, dance hall and gymnasium, shower baths, and all the conveniences of a modern club house. Work will be started as soon as the plans are approved by the head officials of the company and will be completed during the summer. The building will cost in the neighborhood of $15,000 including equippage.

The Range Ministerial association was in session at the M. E. church in this city Monday. The program printed in The Herald a short time ago was carried out.

BUILDING RANGE ELECTRIC LINE

Cutting Right-of-Way and Driving Piling for Bridges Going On.

Virginia, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Work on the Mesaba Range company's line is going ahead notwithstanding winter has not yet broken. At the office of C. E. Thomas, chief engineer, here, draughtsmen are at work and John Rundquist of Duluth, general contractor, has men all along the line cutting out and clearing the right-of-way.

The piles have been driven where the line will cross Longyear lake at Chisholm and the sub-contractors are establishing camps along the surveyed right-of-way. A great deal of material such as could best be distributed in winter, has been placed where it will be needed.

Cars Like Duluth's.

The cars for the new line will be of the type of the newer and larger cars used on the Duluth and St. Paul and Minneapolis street railway lines. The contractors assert that with the progress that has been made during the winter, that the work will be advanced so that it will be possible to have the line carrying passengers perhaps three months before the year is ended.

CONTRACT IS AWARDED.

Minneapolis Firm Will Build New Virginia Federal Building.

Virginia, Minn., March 19—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Mary James, postmistress, received a letter Monday from the postoffice department advising that the contract for the public building here had been let to Bailey, Marsh & Co., of Minneapolis. The site for the new building is the northeast corner of Maple street and Wyoming avenue. The contractors are well known in Virginia and on the range as they erected the St. Louis county courthouse here and also the new technical high school. They have also done other work on the Mesaba range.

TWO LAKES TO BE STOCKED NEAR HIBBING.

Hibbing, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. B. Connors has made application to Executive Agent Ryder of the state game and fish commission for several cans of wall-eyed pike fry to be planted at Day lake, about seven miles from town, formerly one of the most popular summer resorts in this section. A requisition also was made for black bass for Clearwater lake.

COW QUESTION IS TO BE CONSIDERED

Eveleth Lawmakers Are to Discuss Handling of Stray Bovines.

Eveleth, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The family cow is to come up for some lively discussion tomorrow night at the regular meeting of the city council.

Last week a notice was published asking all cow owners to be present. Eveleth is to have a park this year and the new boulevards along the streets of the residence district will be set with trees and for the good of the trees bossy will no longer be permitted to roam the streets and alleys at will. The council has in mind the inclosure of several acres of land adjoining the townsite. In this it is proposed the cattle shall be kept at night, and the owners will be required to employ herders to keep the stock out of the city during the day.

Polsky Bros. have offered the city the use of their building on Jones street to be used as a public market for $40 a month. The question of leasing the same will be decided at the meeting. A new site for the park and also for the library will be proposed. This is the tract at the south side of the townsite abutting on the Fayal road. It embraces about two blocks and with the exception of the Fayal school and the Presbyterian and Episcopal churches, is unoccupied. The property is soon to be transferred from the Oliver Iron Mining company to private citizens. The library would be placed so as to form a central figure for the park.

STUDENTS MUST CHANGE HABITS

Hibbing High Boys in Athletics Forbidden to Smoke or Drink.

Hibbing, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—High school students who are anxious to retain their positions on the various athletic teams must forego the use of tobacco and liquor in any form. This is the decision arrived at by the superintendents division of the recent Northeastern Minnesota Educational association meeting at Duluth and announced by Superintendent Blair to the students of the Hibbing high school yesterday. A number of the local high school's athletes affect the calabash pipe and accompanying rakish air outside of school hours and the new edict is far from satisfactory to some but is generally receiving the indorsement of Hibbing people.

BUILT AFTER COLERAINE.

Addition to Iron River to Follow Western Mesaba Village.

Iron River, Mich., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—A project is on foot here, backed by President D. H. Campbell of the Commercial club, to arrange immediately for the erection of 200 houses on the 40-acre addition laid out by Paul N. Minckler. The new addition is to be built a good deal after the style of Coleraine, on the Western Mesaba range. It will have graded streets, sewerage and electric lights. The houses will be built and sold on the installment plan, and will be within the reach of the men working in the mines.

TWO FAMILIES BEREAVED.

John Bell and Louis Earnest Are Taken By Death.

Chisholm, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—This community has been shocked by two deaths that have occurred in the last few days each claiming the head of a family. John Bell, aged 50, and Louis Earnest were both called.

Mr. Bell had been employed by the Swan River Logging company at Sturgeon lake. He was brought to his home about two weeks ago suffering from pleurisy which turned into acute Bright's disease resulting in his death Saturday. On Friday he showed symptoms of improvement and there was good hopes of permanent recovery but the change for the worse took place Saturday and he died very suddenly. He leaves a wife and four children, two of whom are grown. The body was taken to his former home at Unionville, Mich., for burial, where his wife's relatives live also.

Louis Earnest had lived here for several years. He was stricken with pneumonia on last Wednesday and died from that cause Saturday night. He leaves a family of a wife and child. Mr. Earnest was about 40 years old and spent his winters in the woods. He recently returned from Cook, where he had finished a season's contract getting out timber there. He was around town Tuesday being around the voting precincts, in fact polled a vote himself. His remains were taken to Briarville, Wis., for interment.

Pretty Mothers

Health is the foundation of all good looks. The wise woman realizes this and takes precautions to preserve her health and strength through the period of child bearing. She remains a pretty mother by avoiding as far as possible the suffering and dangers of such occasions. This every woman may do through the use of Mother's Friend, a remedy that has been so long in use, and accomplished so much good, that it is in no sense an experiment, but a preparation which always produces the best results. It is for external application and so penetrating in its nature as to thoroughly lubricate every muscle, nerve and tendon involved during the period before baby comes. It aids nature by expanding the skin and tissues, relieves tenderness and soreness, and perfectly prepares the system for natural and safe motherhood. Mother's Friend has been used and endorsed by thousands of mothers, and its use will prove a comfort and benefit to any woman in need of such a remedy. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for free book for expectant mothers, which contains much valuable information.

PRESIDENT ESSE GIVES EVIDENCE

Tells Two Harbors Council About Testifying as to Alleged Coal Combine.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—President Esse of the city council reported to the council last night as to the latest phases of the difficulty over getting coal from Duluth for the municipal coal yard.

He said that he went to Duluth last Saturday in response to a telegram from Hinton G. Clabaugh, assistant division superintendent of the committee on investigation, department of justice, and gave testimony before Mr. Clabaugh as to the so-called combination of Duluth coal dealers alleged to be operating in restraint of trade, which the government is investigating. After the hearing Mr. Clabaugh left for Washington to lay the matter before the attorney general.

Would Not Sell City Coal.

It is claimed the coal companies in the Zenith City have been averse to selling the city coal for retailing purposes. Last fall the city decided to go into the retail coal business and see if the prices on coal could not be cut down. At first the city had no difficulty in obtaining coal and this was sold with astonishing rapidity. Then the application of the city for membership in the Northwestern Retail Coal Dealers' association, with the fee of $5 was refused by that association, and the sale of coal to the city for retail purposes was stopped. The matter was taken up at once with the authorities at the national capital, who seem disposed to look into the matter.

Start Emergency Hospital.

At the former council meeting steps were taken for the establishment of a temporary emergency hospital and the matter was given over to the committee on sanitation, with full power to act. A short report was given last night by this committee. A building on Cedar street, between Third and Fourth avenue, has been rented by this committee and about a dozen cots have been bought. It is not expected, however that the hospital will be in operation until the latter part of the week.

FAY HOTEL IS LEASED.

Walter Markham of Bemidji Will Run Virginia Hostelry.

Virginia, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Fay hotel has been acquired on a long time lease with a privilege of buying by Walter Markham of Bemidji. B. F. Smith, who has operated the hotel since it was erected soon after the fire of 1900, will give up possession April 1. The hotel is said to represent an investment of $75,000. Mr. Markham will spend $15,000 in refurnishing and erecting a new thirty-room addition. The new boniface was formerly of the Hotel Markham in Bemidji. He was also one of the syndicate which bought the St. Louis hotel of Duluth and turned it over to the present management. Mr. Markham is away on business pertaining to his new venture. He will come to Virginia to reside and will assume personal charge of the property. The Fay is one of the best known hotels on the range. The original building was erected by Capt. M. L. Fay, now of Duluth, and it has already been enlarged twice.

VIRGINIA COMMERCIAL CLUB'S BOOSTING PLANS.

Virginia, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The publicity committee of the Commercial club has had under way a plan to obtain 10,000 booklets for the advertising of the city and a meeting was held last night to lay the plan before the whole club. A committee of five was appointed to devise means of financing the plan which will involve an expenditure of $300. Don Carlos Musser of Duluth is preparing the material and illustrations for the advertising literature. Secretary W. J. Archer of the club has a great many inquiries from people in other states who want to know about Virginia, and up to the present the club has not published anything elaborate.

HIBBING SCHOOL BIDS TO BE OPENED APRIL 22.

Hibbing, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. B. Ittner, the architect retained by the school board to draw the plans for the new addition to the Lincoln school, estimated to cost between $100,000 and $150,000, returned yesterday to his home in St. Louis after securing the approval of the plans for the building by the school board. It is expected that by the first of April copies of the plans will be on file at all the principal builders' exchanges in the country. The board will open bids for the general construction contract at its regular meeting April 22.

To Inspect Hibbing Militia.

Hibbing, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Maj. Johnson of the Fourteenth United States Infantry will conduct the annual federal inspection of Company M at the Armory, April 3. He will also inspect the Eveleth and Duluth companies. Maj. Johnson is the regular army officer detailed for the annual federal inspection of the companies of the Third regiment, M. N. G.

Rhody Hearing Thursday.

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The charges against James Rnody, charged with running a disreputable house and selling liquor on Sunday, will be heard in justice court Thursday. Eleven women caught in the raid of the place Sunday will also be arraigned.

Mud Hen Farmer Dies.

Eveleth, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Johnson, a farmer living in the Mud Hen district, died Sunday at the More hospital of locomotor ataxia. The burial took place today at Virginia.

Larger Biwabik Church.

Biwabik, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—About $2,000 is expected to be expended by the Congregational church in enlarging the structure, as the attendance is increasing and more room is needed.

DELICATELY FORMED

and gently reared, women will find in all the seasons of their lives, as maidens, wives and mothers, that the one simple, wholesome laxative remedy which acts gently and pleasantly and naturally and which may be taken at any time, when the system needs a laxative, with perfect safety and really beneficial effects, is Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna.

It has that true delicacy of flavor which is so refreshing to the taste, that warming and grateful toning to the stomach which responds so favorably to its action and the laxative effect which is so beneficial to the system when, occasionally, its gentle cleansing is desired.

HANDS BURNING ITCHING, DISFIGURED

Cracked and Swollen, Could Not Sleep, For 2 Years Nobody Could Cure His Eczema, Cuticura Soap and Ointment Completely Cured.

905 Lowell Place, Chicago, Ill. — "The trouble began by my hands burning and itching and I rubbed and scratched them till one day I saw little red sores coming out. My hands were disfigured and swollen, and troubled me so that I could not sleep. They were cracked and when the small sores broke a white matter would come out. I could not do any hard work; if I did the sores would come out worse.

"For two years nobody could cure my eczema, until one day I thought I would try the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I used warm water with the Cuticura Soap and after that I put the Cuticura Ointment on my hands twice a day for about five or six months when I was completely cured." (Signed) Sam Marcus, Nov. 28, 1911.

SCRATCHED UNTIL BLOOD RAN

Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured Little Girl.

2046 E. Ann St., Philadelphia, Pa.—"My little girl's trouble commenced with pimples on her face. Finally she got them behind her shoulders, then in her hair. At night they seemed worse. They itched and burned, and she scratched until blood ran from them. She had long light curls and when they got in her hair I was afraid I would have to have her hair cut. She was nearly crazy. The blood ran down her face and back. I got a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment and had not used quite two boxes when she was cured. I think Cuticura Soap and Ointment are worth their weight in gold." (Signed) Mrs. E. A. Cade, Sept. 26, 1911.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere. Sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. book. Address, "Cuticura," Dept. T. Boston. Tender-faced men should shave with Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick.

IMMEDIATE AND EXPERT SERVICE.

INSPECTION OF INDIANS

Medical Supervisor Talks on Conditions on Minnesota Reservations.

Expert on Diseases of Eye and Trained Nurse Arrive.

White Earth, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. J. A. Murphy, medical supervisor, Indian department, of Denver, Colo., who, for the past month has been investigating health conditions on the Minnesota Indian reservations, returned here Saturday and gave a lecture at the Assembly hall on the subject of tuberculosis and trachoma. Dr. Murphy has visited every Indian settlement on the White Earth reservation, including the non-removal Indians residing at Mille Lacs. At the latter settlement a large per cent of the Indians are afflicted with pulmonary and glandular consumption, but no cases of trachoma was found.

At the Pine Point boarding school forty-seven pupils were examined and 74 per cent of the number were found to be afflicted with trachoma and 21 per cent were afflicted with corneal scars and more or less permanent impairment of vision while 10 per cent were found to be afflicted with suspicious lungs. 17 per cent with tubercular glands and 2 per cent were suffering with Pott's disease (tuberculosis of the spine.) The percentage of those afflicted with trachoma and tuberculosis in different forms was found to be much greater at this settlement, where dwell the larger portion of the full-blood Indians, than any other locality of the reservation.

Consumption and Trachoma.

Out of the sixteen families inspected at Twin Lake settlement, numbering some sixty-five people (mostly full-bloods), five of the persons were found to be afflicted with pulmonary and five with glandular consumption and thirteen cases of trachoma. At Elbow Lake settlement fourteen families composed of fifty-four people, four members were found to be suffering with pulmonary and four with glandular consumption and thirteen with trachima. At Beaulieu, or Wild Rice settlement, fifteen homes were visited, and out of the seventy-six occupants inspected, eight persons were suffering with pulmonary and nine with glandular consumption and twenty-four were afflicted with trachoma.

White Earth Boarding House.

At the White Earth boarding school, among an enrollment of 140 pupils, only about twenty-five were found to be afflicted with active consumption and about as many were suffering with trachoma.

At St. Benedict's Catholic Mission school for girls, with an attendance of about eighty pupils, mostly mixed-bloods, the percentage of those afflicted with tuberculosis and trachoma was very small, while at the agency day school, with an average attendance of thirty-five, practically all mixed-blood pupils, only two were found to be afflicted with pulmonary troubles and no trachoma troubles.

Dr. W. H. Harrison, United States med'cal Indian service, an expert in diseases of the eye, arrived here yesterday and is accompanied by Miss Moore, a trained nurse of several years' experience, who will assist him in his labors among the Indians of this reservation. Dr. Harrison will be assisted by the several agency physicians, who are located in different portions of the reservation.

SLIM ATTENDANCE AT MEN AND RELIGION MEETING

Social Work Expert Speaks Before Small Gathering at Y. M. C. A.

Says American Cities Are Worse Morally Than Paris.

Other Meetings Planned for Day—Boys' Conference Friday.

DR. I. J. LANSING.

The principal address given at the convention session of the Men and Religion Forward Movement at the Y. M. C. A. this morning was delivered by Dr. I. J. Lansing, the head of the social department of the work.

"The Need and Opportunity" was the subject upon which Dr. Lansing addressed a slim gathering of men, who had turned out for the morning session.

Dr. Lansing spoke on the need and opportunity for social uplift which would better conditions in the city, state and nation.

"You want to have a big city here, a city of 500,000 people," said the speaker. "You want great industries. How much better would it be to first concentrate your efforts along the line of cleaning up the city, improving the conditions, and then saying to the world: 'We have a clean place to live, a place where your children may be reared right among the right conditions.' Don't you think that this would sound attractive and bring the kind of people here to help you build up your city?

"We have need of a superior home life. People use but little judgment in forming homes. Most of us haven't attained that higher, nobler life which would not only make our home life happier, but would extend out and with far-reaching influence have a bearing on society.

The Divorce Evil.

"Why, do you know that 40,000 homes are broken by divorces being granted each year. It is largely because people do not live in the right way. Thousands of people who mistake something else for love are making the mistake of marrying every day.

"A physical examination should be necessary before people are allowed to contract marriage. Homes are formed and broken on a word. People think little of it. They don't get down to facts and find out why. The deeper things and higher things do not interest them.

"We will never get rid of the criminal classes until we forbid criminals to have children. A great part of the criminals today come from broken homes. The broken home is turning out more criminals today than any other institution that I know.

"The teaching of the highest in home life seems to be a lost art. I, as an intelligent man, cannot predict much salvation for this nation until the mode of home life has been changed—until the higher, better way of living becomes more universal.

Live On Low Plane.

"Men live on a low plane. It would surprise some of the you to know how low that plane is. Our intellectual powers are stupidly low. I have seen men in daily attendance at our meetings for a week and at the end of that time they were not able to give an intelligent opinion upon them.

"We fancy we know a very great deal, but we don't realize how inferior we are even in comparison to the men who lived hundreds of years ago.

"Business men go along in a certain train of thought day after day. They think of nothing else and give their brains no chance to develop.

"The study of the Bible, the nobility of life, affection, pure and simple, are things that should take up more of our time. The greatest thing in the world is love, but we must first find out how to love. We must educate ourselves from one plane to another. Once attained, it gives a greater, broader existence and makes life all the more worth living.

"I have even found organizations in our high schools conducted and organized for vice. I tell you the intellectual powers of our men and boys are low—miserably so.

Paris Outdone.

"If we could have ideal homes, the situation would not be such as it is. It is truly astonishing to study the conditions in this country. They tell about wicked Paris, but I want to say that it is not to be compared with that of American cities.

"City conditions in America are a scandal. Most people seem to be satisfied to say: 'Well, it is a whole lot better than it used to be.' I tell you that this attitude will not do. It must be good.

"In one city recently a man said to me that the mayor was a joke. I asked him why and he said that not one reputable business man could be induced to take the office and it was simply a question of who was the better of the two men who were running, both of them absolutely unfit in every way for the office. We need clean men at the heads of our cities. We need a lot of reform along this line that we must have before conditions are improved to any great extent.

"We must have civic interest, the right sort and lots of it. I have no faith in the future unless there is more reform along this line.

"There is more race and color prejudice today than ever before. We must get over this. We must have a high standard of world-wide citizenship. We want to forget a man's race and his color. I understand Booker T. Washington has been refused decent hotel accommodations.

"Representatives of other countries come over here to study our conditions and then they go back to their people with notices that are surely not the best."

Convention Opens.

The first meeting of the convention proper was called this morning. David G. Latshaw spoke on "Prayer As An Agency of the Kingdom." He was followed by Dr. Lansing.

There was also an open conference and an address on "The Bible in Action," by W. C. Pearce.

This noon there were several shop meetings conducted in various parts of the city by local men interested in the movement and representatives of the team of experts. Tomorrow noon there will be a noon meeting at the Marshall-Wells Hardware company, at which it is probable Dr. Lansing will speak.

This afternoon "The Boy" will be the subject of an address to be delivered by James A. Whitmore.

This evening there will be platform meetings at St. Paul's Episcopal church, the First Methodist church, Pilgrim Congregational, First Presbyterian and Swedish Mission churches.

The conference for the older boys will begin Friday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. with a dinner.

This conference is for boys 15 years old and older. Each church in the city has selected delegates to the convention.

The program for the boys' conference follows:

TO GET CASH FOR PAVING

City Will Raise Money Needed to "Carry" Property Owners.

Clerk Will Open Bids April 8 for Certificates of Indebtedness.

City Clerk Harry Cheadle will open bids at his office April 8 for the certificates of indebtedness which will be issued by the city to swell the permanent improvement revolving fund in order that assessments may be taken care of under the provisions of the last charter amendment, spreading them over a period of three years.

The ordinance authorizing the issuance of $125,000 to $200,000 of certificates was passed a week ago last evening. This sum is what has been estimated will be necessary to carry the fund over the first three years. The certificates are payable in one, two and three years and bear interest at 5 per cent. It is believed that the entire $200,000 will be issued at once.

Before the figures were prepared a statement was secured from the board of public works showing the jobs which will probably be completed the coming year. The statement shows that advance assessments have been made for improvements estimated to cost $96,657.03, the largest of these being the Woodland sewer. It is not thought that any of these will come under the charter amendment provision. Another part shows that $148,192.05 in improvements have been ordered for which no assessments have been made. It is thought that the majority of these will be given the benefit of a three year option. The third part of the statement shows jobs which have been petitioned for, but not ordered. Most of them are comparatively small sewer contracts.

HOLD CONVICT FOR MURDER PLOT

Only One of Nebraska Trio Captured Alive By Posse.

Lincoln, Neb., March 19.—Charles Morley, the living member of the trio of convicts who were run down after a four-day hunt yesterday, and who killed three men in making their attempt to escape from the penitentiary, probably will be given his preliminary hearing in the latter part of the week on a charge of "conspiracy with intent to commit murder."

Morley's trial probably will occur second on the criminal docket in the April term of court, about April 29. The trial of Albert Prince for the murder of Deputy Warden Davis on Feb. 11 occurs April 23, the first day of that term. The authorities assert that both men, if convicted, will probably hang together.

Three of the convicts, John Dowd and John Taylor, alias "Shorty" Gray, and Roy Blunt, an innocent victim of their murderous attempt to secure liberty, are dead as a result of the exciting battle yesterday between the bandits and officers of the law. Morley saved his life by surrendering.

Morley asserts that Dowd fired a bullet into his own brain which ended his life.

Blunt was 22 years old and had been married but two months. His young widow was prostrated when his body was returned to the family home by his brother. Blunt was compelled by the convicts to drive their sleigh.

HELMER FILES COUNTER CHARGE

Demands $25,000 Damages to Offset Suit for $3,000 Note.

John Helmer today filed a countersuit for $25,000 for breach of contract against the Virginia & Rainy Lake company, which is suing Helmer on an unpaid promissory note amounting to $3,000.

The Virginia & Rainy Lake company claims that it conveyed to Helmer certain timber interests in township 60-21 and that he gave in return a note for $3,000, which has never been paid. The transaction is said to have been entered into Dec. 22, 1910.

Helmer admits giving the note but claims that there was an agreement whereby the Swan Lake Logging company was to furnish transportation facilities so that the timber could be easily removed from the land.

Helmer claims he fitted out camps and engaged for the work, and that the lumber company failed to arrange with the logging railroad for shipping facilities. As a consequence, he claims, the time limit in which he was allowed to remove the timber from the land expired.

OPPOSE TAX FOR SANITARY SEWER

Trust Company and H. J. Grannis Answer Suit to Enforce Payment.

Objecting to an assessment for sewer improvements amounting to $330.78 per lot, the Massachusetts Trust company, owner of the northwest corner lot at Tenth avenue west and Michigan street, and H. J. Grannis, owner of another lot in the same block, today filed an answer in the delinquent tax proceedings brought against them in district court.

The Grannis property, which is lot 168, block 9, Duluth Proper, Third division, is taxed for 1910 at $435.08. Of this amount $330.78 is for sewer benefits. The trust company's property, lot 162, same block, is similarly taxed.

In both cases it is claimed that the benefits to be derived from the sanitary sewer which the city laid in Michigan street do not warrant the assessment. They claim that it is unequal, partial and unfair, and ask the court to make a material reduction.

Beauty Seekers Praise Canthrox

"Since soap and many prepared shampoos have been found injurious to the hair," writes Mrs. Mae Martyn in the Boston News, "beauty seekers who are interested in having beautiful, abundant hair are taking rapidly to the use of a teaspoonful of canthrox dissolved in a cup of hot water for shampooing.

"No other shampoo seems to be so good, as the cleansing lather which canthrox makes—removes dirt, dandruff and stops scalp irritation immediately, while it adds a luster and soft fluffiness to the hair. It will not cause fading, brittleness, streaking or dullness, but produces only beneficial and most pleasing results. This simple shampoo will prove a great boon, especially to the woman who does her own shampooing. It is also becoming decidedly popular with hair-dressers."

Property Owners and City Far Apart on Park Property.

West Duluth Waterfront Held to Be Valuable for Docks.

The board of public works this morning concluded its first hearing in the proposed condemnation proceedings for the addition of 104 acres to Fairmont park at West Duluth. The hearing began yesterday morning.

The board heard all who were interested in the proposition and took the statements from witnesses under oath much in the same manner as prescribed in court procedure. The oaths were administered by R. Murchison, clerk of the board.

The large number of men who attended divided naturally into two sides, the owners or their agents and those who stood with the city. Each side put experts on the stand, most of them real estate men, and they were examined by Attorney Frank Crasswellerfor the owners and City Attorney Bert Fesler for the city.

There was a wide divergence of opinion as to price, which is of course the most material point in issue. The owners claim that the land, about sixty acres of which is submerged, is very valuable for dock purposes. In round figures it was stated this morning that they placed an average value of $2,000 an acre on the tract. This would bring the total up to over $200,000. Those on the other side, who wish the city to get the property at a reasonable figure and one which will not be prohibitive, asserted that in their opinion the average value of the tract would probably be about $750 an acre, or approximately $75,000 for the whole. The opinions are widely at variance, the difference being $125,000, roughly speaking, for the 104 acres which the city desires to add to Fairmont park.

The matter was taken under consideration by the board of public works. Other hearings will probably be held later. The board did not go into the merits of the riparian rights proposition. They will act as though the acres were a unit and if the property owners affected have any arguments they will be obliged to settle them in court, according to a statement of one board member this morning.

SAYS HOME RULE WILL PASS BY MORE THAN 100.

London, March 19.—John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish parliamentary party, presiding last night at a St. Patrick's banquet at the Hotel Cecil, said that the home rule bill would pass the house of commons by more than 100 majority, and inside of two years would become law. Ireland then, he declared, was destined to become the greatest human agency in promoting the security and power of the British empire.

BARS HIGHER COAL RATES

Commerce Commission Decides Two Important Cases.

Finds Relative Level of Cost of Carrying Bituminous.

Washington, March 19.—The interstate commerce commission today decided two of the most important cases pending before it, involving coal rates from the so-called Virginia and Pittsburg districts to Great Lake ports. In the Pittsburg case the coal shippers won a complete victory, the commission ordering a reduction of the rate on bituminous from 88 to 78 cents a ton from Pittsburg to lake ports.

In the cases regarding rates from Virginia and West Virginia fields to lake ports, the commission upheld proposed advances from the Thacker district from 97 cents to $1.06½ a ton, and from the Pocahontas districts from the $1.12 to $1.21¼ a ton, made by the Norfolk & Western railroad.

Some Advances Rejected.

The commission, however, ordered the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, the Chesapeake & Ohio and Kanawha & Michigan railroads to maintain their present rates from the Fairmont, Kanawha and New River districts, which are respectively 96½, 97 cents and $1.12 a ton. The proposed advances to $1.00, $1.06½ and $1.21½ a ton were held not to be justified.

The opinion in the Virginia case, prepared by Commissioner Lane, is an exhaustive consideration of the cost of moving coal from the fields concerned. It shows that the cost, including all operation and maintenance expenses, is about 2 mills a ton a mile, and it holds that a rate of 3 mills will cover interest and dividend charges, in addition to operating cost.

This is the first case in which the commission has made an exhaustive investigation into the cost of movement of traffic as a foundation for the fixing of a rate.

The opinion in the Pittsburg case was prepared by Commissioner Meyer. The reduction of the present rate of 88 cents to 78 cents a ton from Pittsburg to Ashtabula harbor is ordered maintained for at least two years from May 1, 1912.

Gives Relative Level.

"The testimony of the defendants," the opinion says, "makes the Pittsburg-Ashtabula rate the keystone of the entire system of lake coal rates. It determines the relative level of all other rates in the structure."

In this opinion, as in the Virginia case, the commission gives minute consideration to the cost of moving coal and declares that, taken all together, the statistical results tend to show the operating expenses of transporting Pittsburg coal to Ashtabula is probably less than one-half of the present rate of 88 cents.

The Pennsylvania railroad seems to be getting important results from a new device called the superheater, which turns "wet" into "dry" steam, and increases the power of the engine. It has made it possible on some steep grades to do away with the "helper" engine.

WEAKNESS OF LIQUOR DRINKERS

Alcohol Is a Cumulative Poison That Unbalances the Mind and Wrecks the Body.

The Neal Treatment Cures Any Case of Liquor Habit in THREE DAYS.

Liquor makes a man's whole life a lie. It poisons his brain and he believes that he feels good when he feels bad. Under its influence he believes himself strong when he is weak and growing weaker every day; he believes his business prospers when it is on the verge of bankruptcy; he believes he is talking intelligently when he is talking like an imbecile; he believes that he has the confidence of his friends when they wouldn't trust him for a minute in an important matter.

Why not wake up? Think just a little if you can. What has liquor ever done for you? What is it doing TO you? Has it ever made you any money, any friends? Come to the Neal Institute and be cured. But THREE DAYS of your time will be required. You will be accepted for treatment under a legally executed contract that you are to be cured in THREE DAYS—cured to your entire satisfaction—or the fee you pay shall be refunded at the end of the third day and treatment shall cost you NOTHING. You Judge the cure—not the Neal Institute.

There are no hypodermic injections, no strong drugs, no disagreeable features—nothing to be afraid of. There is not a poisonous ingredient in it.

BONCI WILL USE A KNABE PIANO TONIGHT AT THE LYCEUM

SAYS EVERYONE CAN HAVE AN ABUNDANCE OF PRETTY HAIR

Never any falling hair, itching scalp or dandruff if you use a little Danderine.

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine.

The very first application cleanses the scalp, stops itchiness, destroys and dissolves every particle of dandruff and prevents the hair from falling out.

It is easy and inexpensive to have nice soft hair and lots of it. Just get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance; freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre and try as you will you cannot find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower; destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits every one who tries this.

BONCI HAS MASTERED THE KNACK OF AMERICAN "JOLLY"

Famous Tenor Hands Out Little Bouquet to American Singers, and Duluth as a Music Center.

Democratic, genial, fond of the good things of life, and frankly enjoying his success is Alessandro Bonci, the famous Italian tenor, who reached Duluth last evening and is registered at the Spalding.

Bonci has mastered the American art of "jollying."

He likes the American singers whom he knows.

"Some of them," he says, "are very charming and some of them are very fine singers. The American women are apt to be a little impatient of success not having patience enough to keep at the training which makes the truly great artist. And it does take patience and it does take a long time to perfect the voice. However many of your women are really fine artists and are ranked among the best in the world of music."

Bonci also likes automobiles. Sig. Bonci has six cars, two of American make, at his villa in Loreto, Italy, where he spends his summers among his friends. He spends most of his time on the road taking short expeditions in his cars and visiting his neighbors and friends.

Sig. Bonci and his secretary have recently met the members of the Flonzaley String quartet, who played in Duluth the latter part of January under the auspices of the Matinee Musicale of this city, giving one of the finest programs of string music which has been heard here for some time. The members of this quartet were extremely enthusiastic about Duluth, said Sig. Bonci. "They said that they liked your city very much, and that Duluth was a very musical city, that the audience was appreciative and sympathetic and they had enjoyed playing before the people here. I am looking forward to my concert with pleasure."

Sig. Bonci will appear for the first time in Duluth at the Lyceum theater this evening in an admirably arranged concert program.

The program, which is composed of English, French and Italian songs, is as follows:

(a) "Se tu M'ami" ..... Pergolesi
(b) "Il Pensier" ..... Haydn
(c) "O del mio dolce ardor" ..... Gluck
(d) "Vittoria; Vittoria!" ..... Carrissimi

BONCI.

(a) "At Dawning" ..... Chas. W. Cadman
(b) "At Parting" ..... James H. Rogers
(c) "I Love Thee So" ..... de Koven
Grand Aria—"Che Gelida Manina," from the opera "La Boheme" ..... Puccini
Piano solo—"Overture to Mignon" ..... Thomas
Signor Francini.

PART II.

(a) "Le Desert" ..... Felicien David
(b) "Colette" ..... C. Chaminade
(c) "Sogno" (Manon Lescaut) ..... Massenet
(a) "Aspirazione" ..... Montefiore
(b) "All Luna" ..... Mascagni
(c) Grand aria from the opera "The Girl of the Golden West" ..... Puccini
At the piano, Signor Francini.

MANY CITIES AFTER TEDDY

Roosevelt's Speaking Tours Will Be Bigger Than Was Expected.

Washington, March 19.—Col. Roosevelt's trip to the Middle West next week promises to develop into a more comprehensive speaking tour than either he or his managers contemplated.

Since the announcement was made that he would speak in Chicago, St. Paul or Minneapolis and St. Louis, the national Roosevelt headquarters have received scores of telegrams from cities along the way and from outlying portions of the Middle West, asking to put them on the schedule of the tour.

The wishes of Col. Roosevelt probably will determine the points where speeches are to be made, but the campaign managers in Washington say he may have to make many short speeches at stations along the way and additional speeches in the cities where his main addresses are to be delivered.

DIBELL FOR SUPREME COURT

Governor May Appoint Him If Justice Brown Resigns.

Judge Homer B. Dibell is again being talked of for a supreme court position.

Justice Philip E. Brown, who took his position on the supreme court bench Jan. 1, 1912, has been suffering from ill health since his appointment, and it is reported on good authority here that he will resign before the opening of the spring term, and take a long vacation in the hope of recovering his strength. If he does tender his resignation Governor Eberhart may appoint the Duluth jurist to the vacant seat on the supreme court bench. It was learned from reliable source here today that the governor is considering the appointment at the present time.

Business Quiet in West.
That business is still rather quiet over the country at large, especially in the West, was a statement made today by J. S. Schleunes, a Duluth contractor, who has just come back after a business trip through the Western part of the country, in the course of which he passed through Montana, Washington, Oregon and California. At Butte he visited the Butte & Superior mine, in which he has an interest. Mr. Schleunes said he was much pleased with the progress that had been made in the construction of a new concentrator and with the results of shipments to the Basin smelter. In the course of his journey he also visited Mexico. There prospects for peace and prosperity seemed to him to be very poor. The government appeared to be weakened every time an effort was made to establish a new administration, he said.

TEN PER CENT RAISE IN WAGES ANNOUNCED.

Pottsville, Pa., March 19.—The Pine Hill Coal company, operated by Scranton capitalists and located at Minersville, near here, has posted a notice announcing that the employes would be granted an increase of wages of 10 per cent to take effect April 1 and that working matters will be satisfactorily adjusted by the company with the men.

TEXTILE WORKERS RUSH BACK TO MILLS.

Lawrence, Mass., March 19.—With a rush of mill operatives back to work, the textile strike that continued for nine weeks is believed practically to be ended. So many operatives presented themselves that several departments were unable to accommodate them. Out of the 22,000 mill hands involved in the strike it was estimated that all but about 2,000 or 4,000 have returned. The others, who stayed out, declared themselves dissatisfied with the advance granted by the manufacturers. The mill owners believe that the majority of those still out will soon seek their former positions. Within a week or ten days the manufacturers believe practically normal conditions will be restored in the mills.

The president of the club is Albert Cox, manager of the Companies' store and one of Cloquet's most prominent and enterprising business men. Joseph Loisel, the vice president of the club, has agreed to get a carload of dynamite for the farmers, letting them have the explosive at practically cost, provided they will be ready to take it from the car when it arrives. Mr. Loisel is the head of the Loisel hardware store and has been in business in Cloquet for a long period of years.

DULUTHIAN DOING NOTABLE WORK IN SAVING THE HUMAN WRECKAGE OF BOWERY SLUMS

Hadley Rescue Hall in Charge of Rev. John Callahan, Is An Oasis in the East Side Desert.

In the Bowery district of New York not far from Chinatown, a locality where one may see more specimens of humanity utterly degraded than in any other spot of this vast country, there is, standing like an oasis in a desert, a place where the fallen may find aid and comfort for the asking, a true, practical, working Christian mission, Hadley Rescue hall.

The superintendent is John Callahan, who some years ago was located at Duluth, where he had charge of the Star of Hope mission. Mr. Callahan has been in just such rescue work as this for many years. The earnest, efficient manner in which he carried on his missionary labors at Duluth won him a host of friends in this city, and there are many here now who recall with pleasure and profound respect some of the things that John Callahan accomplished while in Duluth. But he is now in a far broader field of usefulness, where he can reach a far greater number of those who have sunk so low that they have not the power to raise themselves by their own unaided efforts. Mr. Callahan gives an intensely practical demonstration of his brotherly feelings for such people by his annual celebration of his own redemption from a life of evil. Not long ago he celebrated the twenty-first anniversary of his conversion. This celebration consisted of a service at Hadley Rescue hall.

Here is part of a hymn that was sung by the large, rough-looking, yet intensely earnest gathering, attending the event:

"Just remember there's a Saviour
Looking down from Heaven's blue—
Watching o'er the strayed and fallen,
Holding out His hand to you.
He is holding out His hand to you,
He will help you if your faith is true;
To every sinner in the land
He is holding out His hand,
He is holding out His hand to you."

This hymn is a favorite at Hadley hall. The words were written by Hugo Halling, who some years ago was a reporter on The Duluth Herald. He is now on the reportorial staff of the New York Mail.

Eight Years at Work.
For nearly eight years John Callahan and his wife have been at Hadley Rescue hall. From the very moment of their coming the place has come to be regarded as a place of sanctuary —a harbor of refuge. Young and old, husky and frail, educated and ignorant, have, from the very beginning, been turning to Hadley hall and John Callahan for help in difficulty, guidance in perplexity, comfort in sorrow. Nor do they turn in vain. Here is a place where the needy are more welcome than the affluent, the drunkard than the substainer, the sinner than the saint. Loving hands and willing hearts are freely at the disposal of the storm-tossed and the lost. The doors of Hadley hall are closed to none—Christian or Jew, Protestant or Catholic, citizen or alien—to John Callahan and his fellow-laborers it matters not at all. For they realize that as they do unto the least, they do unto Him, the Author of life. Therefore, seeing they have received this ministry, as they have received mercy, they faint not.

So the door is always ajar—indeed, it stands wide open—for all who journey by that way, to enter, and they will. And weary feet do continually turn into this house by the side of the road, thus giving Hadley hall folk the coveted opportunity of loving the loveless, seeking the lost, enheartening those that are bound.

To spend a night in a place like Hadley hall, holding the opinions of an atheist or materialist — believing there is no God, no hereafter, and the rest of it—is simply to be driven to one utterly mercyless, yet inevitable, conclusion. And this it is: that, in the very best interests of society at large, it were better that such a heap of human rubbish as nightly gets housed there should be annihilated—and that right early.

But these men have souls—and souls well worth saving. And what is most to the point is, that Hadley hall folk believe in their redemption and have set to work accordingly. Yet what a task! To spend a night in this rescue hall, to look on this great horde of outcasts, with almost every trace of manhood obliterated, is to make it extremely difficult to believe in the possession by them of any of the ordinary attributes of decent humanity, let alone a soul. Yet John Callahan believes it, and his brave wife believes it, and they keep "pegging away," though nothing short of an overmastering faith in God and human nature, such as this splendid pair possess, could sustain or encourage them to proceed with the work at all.

Many a story there is of ruined lives being made over, of storm-tossed souls being rescued and planted safely on this soul-craft of which John Callahan is captain. And from this body of testimony comes the enheartenment and impetus which nerve John and his wife for fresh endeavor. The transformations thus effected enable them to despair of none, to believe that, no matter how sunken in sin, how depraved in character a man may be, God is able not only to change the heart, but wonderfully change the life. There is the right gospel ring about the Hadley hall message. No other is of the slightest avail on the Bowery.

REV. JOHN CALLAHAN.

REVIVING HOME CRAFTS BY STANDARDIZATION

How Home-Made Goods May Be Popularized—The Fireside Industries of Berea—Democratizing Food Production.

By DAVID C. DAVIS.

(Exclusive Service the Survey Press Bureau.)

The offer by students of hand-woven bed coverlets as payment for their tuition led the president of Berea college to establish the Berea Fireside Industries. "Repair that loom" became a slogan which awakened interest in the remotest cabins and aroused the whole neighborhood to the possibilities of making the mountain homes centers of profitable industry. A few of the coverlets found their way to Louisville, Cincinnati and New York. They were admired so much that orders soon began to overwhelm the women weavers in the Kentucky mountains. The energetic action of the president of Berea, who organized "homespun fairs" and awarded premiums for the coverlet, blankets, etc., and for new designs, checked a threatened decline in quality which would have killed in its infancy the accidentally awakened industry.

The Fireside Industries now include chairs, saddles, ax handles, wooden plates, forks, spoons, baskets, in addition to blankets, linen towel covers, ramie towels and rag rugs of many colors and designs. Because linen spun in factories broke when used in hand looms, as the fibers had been injured in spinning, Berea college now raises its own flax which the housewives of the neighborhood spin. The mountaineers often come a day's journey on horseback to the fairs or to get detailed instruction. An unlooked for source of revenue has been not only created, but what is better still, saved and regulated. It was only the prompt action taken to maintain the standards of quality which prolonged and made permanent the sudden revival of industries supposedly long since banished from the home.

Not only around Berea, but in every community there are people who make in the home useful and artistic articles the sale of which would furnish them a good living if an organized market could be developed for the products. One way to accomplish this is to establish in each community a co-operative store for the sale of such goods. By exchange with similar stores in other communities, arrangements could be made for disposing of any over-supply.

Through county and state conventions each locality could learn the needs and markets of various parts of the country. The conventions, also, could establish rules and regulations so that all will turn out a single product from a recognized standard recipe in a uniform way and in a uniform packing which will help them to compete with the uniform factory product.

The demand for home-made products, particularly in the case of food, is undeniably strong. Even now most first class grocers have customers who prefer to purchase goods guaranteed as coming from the home. The superiority of food products carefully manufactured in small quantities in the home from fresh stock grown on the premises, makes the mouths of city epicureans water. Summer vacations spent in the country are followed by regrets because it is nearly impossible to get in the larger cities at least good home-made products.

The National Home Products League is sponsor for a scheme to revive home crafts by standardization. The league asserts that the cost of food products made in the home is less than it is in the factory, because much of the time and labor used would otherwise go to waste. The farmer, too, if he were a manufacturer as well as a producer would from the double profit grow more prosperous. This it is urged might check the abandonment of farms in the East and stem the tide of migration to the cities.

If all this is true, why have the great packing houses and other firms secured such a grip upon the markets? One answer is that the primary requirement of trade conditions is for a steady and sure supply of a uniform standard quality, whereas in the past each family produced its goods by its own recipe and there was no machinery, as in the great manufactories that have developed, for insuring a steady dependable supply.

As evidence of the possibilities for such a scheme there is cited the successful sale, through the co-operation of the Woman's Exchange of New Orleans, of the cottonades woven by the Acadians in Louisiana, descendants of those expelled from Nova Scotia. The product is all inspected and measured and inferior work discarded. Other successful ventures are the Log Cabin settlement in Asheville, N. C., which manufactures coverlets and rugs, and the Cottage Industries Guild of Allanstand, N. C. In New Hampshire, at Paquaket, Carroll county, there is a prosperous rug-making business and the mothers' and daughters' industry of Plainfield, N. H., is another interesting success.

On Cape Cod there is a flourishing co-operative industry in making and marketing cranberry sauce. So successful has this last venture been that it became necessary to hire a secretary to answer inquiries from other parts of the country, from people who were anxious to start similar co-operative home products associations.

Maurice L. Jacobson, who was a member of the industrial commission sent by the United States to France and who has been in charge of economic investigations for the government, says that the movement if guided by capable leaders will appeal to "middle-class sentiment" with almost irresistible momentum. This opinion is shared by Joseph E. Ralph, whose efficiency in organization as director of the United States bureau of engraving and printing, has won him offers from one of the leading governments as well as from private employers. The government finds that housewives in many sections are engaged in the manufacture of commodities for the market, as a result of the interest aroused by various educators who have gone into the work as a matter of sentiment. The bureau of chemistry has considered the means by which the products offered could be guaranteed under the pure food law and the experimental station office furnishes instructions adressed to farmers' wives and others as to the proper household methods of preparing canned fruit, preserves, jellies and other commodities for the market.

The producer by keeping the profit on the manufacture of food products as well as that for raising it has a wider margin of return which tends to ease the pressure that had led to much of the over work incident to modern methods. For this reason officials of the department of commerce and labor are interested in the possibilities of the plan and see in the standardization movement possibilities for a great re-adjustment which will in part at least restore the conditions that prevailed before factory and sweatshop methods deprived the individual of his industrial self-sufficiency.

NOT FOR HIM!

Chicago News: "Some of the men in the neighborhood have decided to have a shooting match one of these days," said Zedliker. "We'll shoot at a target, and the man who makes the highest score draws the finest turkey that ever came down the boulevard. We'd all like to have you go in with us."

"Well, not being born an idiot, I'll stay out," replied Rumbelow. "There's some scheme back of all your apparent friendliness. I'll bet $1,000,000 that if I went to your shooting match I'd come home on a door, with my hide full of buckshot. Somebody would be sure to mistake me for the target and hit me in the bull's eye. You can't fool me worth a cent.

"Ever since I moved into this neighborhood there has been a conspiracy against me, and you and Traphagen and a lot more pirates I'm awake at night thinking up plans to drive me away from here, but you can't do it. I am going to stay right here in spite of your persecution.

"A few weeks ago Liddicott had a kid party on his lawn, celebrating the birthday of his little girl, and he came over with tears in his eyes, saying I simply must go over to his place and see the children enjoy themselves. It would make me young again, he said. He seemed so anxious to have me that I cast aside all suspicions and went to his place. I hadn't been there five minutes before somebody suggested that the children should have a swing.

"Then Liddicott dug up a rope and asked me if I wouldn't be so kind and condescending as to climb an elm and fasten the rope to a limb. He threw a lot of taffy at me, saying he never had seen such an agile man, and that my muscular development was simply wonderful. So like a blamed chucklehead, I shinned up that tree and crawled out on a limb about half a mile from the ground. It was while I was splicing the rope to the limb that I began to realize that I was the goat again. Their only object in asking me over was to have me shin up that tree.

"I was just going to return to the ground by way of the tree trunk and administer a crushing rebuke to Liddicott, when the branch I was sitting on broke, and I fell into a tub of lemonade and broke most of the bones in my back. They carried me home in a horse blanket, and Liddicott was spanning every step of the way, bewailing that lemonade, which he said wouldn't be fit to drink after I had wallowed around in it.

"When I was on my feet again Bigelow came over, too blamed hospitable for any good use. He knew I loved horses, he said, and he'd just bought a crackerjack, and he just wanted me to take that steed and drive him a few miles to see what a corkdinger he was. The horse was standing by his house, hitched to a buggy, and I hadn't any more sense than to climb into the buggy and drive away.

"The truth was that Bigelow bought the horse the night before, and after he brought him home somebody told him that the beast was as dangerous as a gasoline stove, and he naturally turned to me as the goat. Well, that horse hadn't traveled a hundred yards before he kicked the dashboard out of the buggy and hit me in fifty-seven places with his heels, and then he ran away and piled the buggy and a quarter of a mile of barb wire fence on me. Bigelow has been threatening to sue me for the value of that buggy.

"Now you come over with a deliberate plot to murder me and put me out of my misery. It doesn't stand to reason that a lot of brown bears would shoot at a mark in order to get a 90-cent turkey. No, that's just an excuse. You want to get me in some quiet spot where you can mistake me for a deer and shoot me full of holes."

COAL

Chicago Post: Coal, like gold, diamonds and other luxuries, is found in mines.

It is a brunette lignite. It is several thousand years old. Its manufacture began long before the conservation of forests was considered. Coal is the result of trees and ferns and flowers and grass and things getting entangled with the carboniferous era. Ask your coal man what he thinks of the carboniferous era, and he will explain that it is charged on your bill, pro rata.

Coal is regulated in price by the law of supply and demand, emphatically speakin, it increases in price 10 cents per ton per month during the summer.

There is no way to utilize coal ashes. If there were, we would have to pay for them or return them to the coal man.

In the United States coal goes into the furnace; in Alaska it goes into politics.

Gas is made from coal; also coal tar. From coal tar we derive many medicines, which are sold at approximately the same price as coal.

Coal makes heat, also heated conversations.

Coal mines are located along railways—usually where the haul will be long.

Coal is measured by the ton. A ton of coal weighs almost as much as a ton of feathers, but does not last so long.

The duke of Wellington, who had a taste for anything that Napoleon had liked, applied to David, the artist, who had painted Napoleon's portrait, requesting David to execute one of himself. "Sir," replied David, "I paint only historical characters.

MAY WIN MILLIONS OF AMERICAN WIDOW

LORD FALCONER.

Rumor has been trying for some time to find a titled match for Mrs. W. B. Leeds, the enormously wealthy American woman, who now lives in London. The latest name to be linked with hers is that of Lord Falconer. He is, in full, Lord Arthur George Keith-Falconer. He is second son and heir of the earl of Kintore. He was born in 1879 and educated at Eton, and has served in the army. He saw service in South Africa.

HOLDS FRENCH RECORD FOR NUMBER OF DUELS

PAUL CASSAGNAC.

To fight a duel with Paul Cassagnac is not only an honor but a dangerous one. This Charles Maurras found out a few days ago when he was wounded in a fight with the veteran duellist. But his honor was not satisfied and he has demanded another meeting. M. Cassagnac has fought probably more duels than any other man in France. His difference with Maurras grew out of a political dispute. One is an Imperialist and the other a Royalist.

CHANCE TO "MAKE GOOD."

D. M. Royse Is Given Opportunity to Support His Family.

Dulin M. Royse, aged 34, a printer who was brought to Duluth from Cleveland recently to answer to a charge of having deserted his family, has been given a chance to "make good" by Judge Ensign of the district court.

Royse pleaded guilty to the indictment returned by the last grand jury and was paroled by the court this morning on a suspended sentence.

PERSONAL INJURY SUITS ARE SETTLED.

Two more personal injury actions noticed for trial at the March term of court were settled out of court today and stricken from the calendar.

Nante Kujala has compromised the $20,000 action which he brought against the Northern Pacific Railway company for injuries alleged to have been received while employed as a dock worker on Dock No. 2, this city. Kujala claims to have been injured on May 9, 1911, while helping unload a cargo from the steamer North Lake.

Rade Kalich, who brought suit for $10,250 against the Malta Iron company for injuries alleged to have been received while working in a mine near Gilbert last August, has also settled his case out of court.

WORLD HAS LESS WHEAT

Bradstreets' Report of the Visible Supply Is a Bullish Factor.

Flaxseed Takes a Sudden Bulge, Influenced By Foreign Cables.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 19.—Bradstreets' report of a considerable decrease in the world's visible supply of wheat since a week ago, together with smaller American primary receipts, today had the effect of bulling wheat on the principal American markets. Duluth May closed at an advance of ⅞c, and it probably would have gone considerably higher, had it not been for bearish corn news from Chicago. Cash wheat closed ½c over the May price. Durum closed unchanged. All the Duluth flax futures advanced 2½c.

Wheat was very bullish on the markets of North America this morning. There was some decrease in primary receipts on the American markets both in comparison with what there were a week ago and with what there were a year ago. Moreover the Bradstreet's report, by showing quite a decrease in the world's visible supply of wheat, especially in the United States, had a strong bullish influence on the markets. Furthermore, the European markets were on the whole very strong.

Buenos Ayres flax closed last night ⅝c lower to ⅝c higher and opened this morning ⅝c higher to ⅛c lower. This, on the whole, was rather bullish. Liverpool wheat was bulled by this news, by firmness of La Plata and Manitoba offers, by the decrease in the local stocks, a scarcity of spot wheat, and active bidding from the continent. Liverpool wheat today closed ¾d to ⅞d higher.

Duluth May wheat, which closed yesterday at $1.06 asked, opened today at $1.06⅛ bid and at noon was selling for $1.06½-⅝ asked.

Flaxseed Goes Higher.

The continued scarcity of flaxseed offerings, together with bullish foreign news, today drove up Duluth flaxseed, notwithstanding the rather languid demand. There were seven cars of flaxseed on the track for inspection. Winnipeg May at noon today was 2½c up at $1.88½. Buenos Ayres March flax closed last night at $1.77⅜, being 2c higher than on Saturday at the close, and this morning it opened ⅝c higher. The coal strike of England is likely to bull flax on the American markets, if it is not having that effect already. Some Minneapolis crushers, who have bought large quantities of flaxseed on the Buenos Ayres markeat, are having great difficulty in getting it shipped and may not be able to get it to the United States for a long time. They fear the necessity of making large purchases of flaxseed on the Duluth and other American markets. The coal strike has interfered seriously with the ocean carrying trade. This perhaps had a great deal to do with the rise on the Duluth market today. Duluth May flax at noon today was 2½c up and July was 2¼c up.

Cash Sales Tuesday.

Foreign closing cables:

Liverpool, wheat, ⅛d to ¾d higher; corn, unchanged to ⅛d higher. Paris, wheat, ¾c higher; flour, unchanged to ½c lower. Berlin, wheat, ⅜c to ½c higher. Antwerp, wheat, ⅝c to ¾c higher. Budapest, wheat, 1c lower.

Car receipts of Canadian bonded grain today were as follows: Wheat, 127 cars; oats, 27 cars; barley, 1 car; flax, 4 cars; total, 159 cars. These figures are not included in the car receipts of the tables above.

The Minneapolis Commercial West says: "Demand for linseed oil was a little slow last week, and, in fact, was disappointing, as the crushers looked for a gradually improving market. Throughout the Northern states the continued cold weather has been having an effect in checking the increased demand for oil for immediate consumption that was expected by this time. Demand for oil cake is also reported as rather quiet. Reports from Antwerp are of rather a bearish nature on flaxseed and its products and conditions that affect that market are doubtless being reflected in this country.

"A fair amount of flaxseed is arriving daily in the Minneapolis market, but it is all of poor quality. In fact, it is doubtful if good flaxseed can be shipped here, owing to a relatively higher price being obtainable on the other side of the line. But there is not a market in Canada for all the lightweight stuff that is awaiting shipment, and there is the quality of the flaxseed arriving here. When the Canadian seed has been thoroughly cleaned, it may have fair, oil-yielding qualities, but the trouble with it is that there is a large percentage of lightweight stuff that has little or nothing in it. Local commission houses and elevator companies are of the opinion that there is very little flaxseed to come forward from North Dakota. The crop has practically been marketed and when the country houses have been cleaned out there will be little left, as the requirements for seed will be unusually large this spring.

"Receipts of flaxseed in the Minneapolis market since Sept. 1 have amounted to 6,225,000 bu, compared with 4,880,000 bu a year ago."

George Briggs, grain broker of Minneapolis, who was a visitor on the Duluth board of trade today, expressed the opinion that good milling graded of wheat would be very scarce indeed before the coming of the Northwestern wheat crop of 1912. "Sales of wheat are very brisk at Minneapolis just now," he said. "I believe a great deal more could be sold, if we had it. Millers keep saying that their flour sales are not good, but they keep on buying wheat at a rapid rate. Northern wheat this year has a great deal of water in it. We are getting in a great deal of winter wheat, coming mainly from Kansas and adjacent states. This wheat is commanding the unusual premium of 1 cent a bu over the spring wheat. There are certain properties possessed by the winter wheat that the spring wheat does not have.

"The Minneapolis wheat supplies are not decreasing very fast just now, but I think that after the middle of April, when we shall have about 17,000,000 bu of wheat on hand, the stocks will go down at the rate of about 1,000,000 bu a week. Even with what we can get from the winter wheat belt, I think good milling wheat will be a very dear article long before we begin to receive the spring wheat of the 1912 crop."

United Kingdom—Sowing of new crops is progressing slowly as a result of unfavorable weather.

France and Germany—In the lowlands the outlook is more favorable. Weather is seasonable.

Roumania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Turkey—The condition of the winter crop is good. The outlook for the spring crop is favorable.

Russia—the agent at Odessa reports that the reserves in the interior are moderate.

Italy—The weather is fairly favorable. There are no complaints regarding the crop outlook.

North Africa—The outlook continues favorable.

European visible wheat supply—This week, 78,700,000 bu; last week, 77,282,000 bu; increase, 1,418,000 bu; increase a week ago, 962,000 bu; increase a year ago, 600,000 bu; total amount a year ago, 114,200,000 bu.

There was much selling of wheat at Winnipeg today, said to be due to the cancellation of ocean freights.

Weather over the Canadian Northwest this morning was very cold, ranging from 8 to 28 below zero. This is very good for the grain movement from Western Canada to the elevators of Duluth and Superior. Wheat is now coming at the rate of about 250,000 bu a day and all grains at the rate of about 450,000 bu a day. The longer the cold weather lasts, the more of the damp Canadian grain will be safely dried out and stored in Duluth and Superior elevators, prior to the opening of navigation. The advent of warm days this month would spoil millions of bushels of comparatively unprotected grain in Western Canada.

Cotton Market.

New York, March 19.—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 2 points to an advacne of 2 points. The weather map showed favorable conditions in the South during the past twenty-four hours, but aggressive selling was checked by reports of steady interior spot markets and the improvement during the first hour was aided by the official forecast for unsettled or rainy weather in the Western belt.

Spot closed quiet and unchanged. Middling uplands, 10:60; middling gulf, 10.85. No sales.

Futures closed very steady. Closing bids: March, 10.35; April, 10.31; May, 10.41; June, 10.47; July, 10.52; August, 10.52; September, 10.52; October, 10.57; November, 10.58; December, 10.64; January, 10.60; February, 10.59.

London Stocks.

London, March 19.—American securities were quiet and steady during the first hour today. At noon prices ranged from unchanged to ⅜ higher than yesterday's New York closing. Prices unchanged. Closing range, 70@$1.26.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Sentiment Is Bearish in Spite of Foreign Firmness.

Chicago, March 19.—Sentiment in the wheat crowd today leaned to the bear side, but sellers were held in check by the firmness of foreign markets. Receipts in Chicago have been greatly in excess of shipments and of the local milling requirements. In addition, the arrivals at Minneapolis and Duluth showed no signs of a decided falling off. Mild weather in the winter crop belt counted also against the bulls. Further decreases in European stocks formed the chief influence back of the cash sables. Opening prices here were ¼@⅜c lower to a like amount up. May started at $1.01⅜@1.01¾, varying from ⅛@⅜c off to a shade advance. The price rallied to $1.01⅞@1.02, but slipped back to $1.01⅝.

Corn strength and reports of French millers actively buying helped bring about an upturn. So did the big decrease in the world available supply total. The close was steady with May ⅛@⅜c net higher.

Slowness of demand handicapped the corn market. Moreover, a leading house was rather conspicuous in the selling. May opened unchanged to ⅛c higher at 70⅝@70¾c, and then sagged to 70⅜@70½c.

Subsequently a material rise took place owing to uneasiness about a possible extension of the feeding season. The close was steady at 71@71⅛c for May, ⅜@½c over last.

In oats there was but little pressure by holders. Bids from commission sources served to sustain quotations. May started 1⅛@¼c up at 53c and seemed disposed to keep above 52⅞c.

Provisions rose with hogs. Leading by smaller packers acted as only an offset in part. Initial trades were 2½c to 7½@10c higher, with July delivery $16.50@16.55 for pork, $9.70 for lard and $9.25 for ribs.

Cash grain: Wheat—No. 2 red, $1.01½@1.02½; No. 3 red, 97c@$1.01; No. 3 hard, $1.01½@1.04½; No. 3 hard, $1.00@1.01½; No. 1 northern, $1.08@1.11; No. 2 northern, $1.06@1.09; No. 3 northern, $1.01@1.04; No. 2 spring, $1.04@1.06; No. 3 spring, $1.01@1.05; No. 4 spring, 95c@$1.03.

GOOD BUYING MOVEMENT

Bull Operations in Stocks Conducted Along Conservative Lines.

Prices Decline in the Last Hour and Dullness Follows.

New York, March 19.—Yesterday's late buying movement was resumed on a fairly large scale at the opening of today's stock market. Advances included one point in Reading, Illinois Central and American Can preferred. Great Northern Ore certificates were up 2, with substantial gains in Union Pacific, Lehigh Valley, Rock Island, American Smelting, Amalgamated Copper and allied shares.

Bull operations were conducted along conservative lines and prices marked up in a normal fashion. Some of the favorite stocks were pushed up steadily, including Reading, Lehigh Valley and Amalgamated Copper, but Union Pacific and United States Steel showed periods of hesitancy which the realizing sales outweighed the new buying.

Various minor shares rose from 1 to 2 points with a marked partiality shown for the low priced issues.

Trading in the early session was larger than in the same period of the previous day and leading stocks were decidedly more active. Reading and Lehigh Valley were helped by the more conciliatory attitude of the coal owners and American Smelting's rise was credited to Washington advices which absolved the company from wrongdoing.

Amalgamated Copper went to a high price for this movement on confirmation of another advance in metal quotations. Hill railway stocks did not share appreciably in the early gains of Great Northern ore certificates and United States Steel was the most backward of the speculative issues.

Further activity in American Can and Rock Island called renewed attention to the activities of an influential faction interested in those properties. Bonds were irregular.

The market closed steady. Prices fell off again in the last hour, the list showing the combined effect of realizing and short selling. United States Steel declined to its lowest quotation of the day as a result of persistent reports that the current quarter is likely to show a deficit. Reading, Amalgamated Copper and Union Pacific lost much of their advance and dullness followed.

NO SIGN OF YIELDING SHOWN BY OPERATORS OR THE COAL MINERS

Strike or Suspension of Work in Bituminous Fields Sure.

Wage Difference of 20 Cents Per Ton Separates Conferees.

Scotch Miners Told to Be Ready to Return to Work March 27.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 20.—With both sides avowing their intention not to yield, the operators and mine workers of the bituminous coal fields of Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois went into conference today concerning a proposed new two-year wage agreement, to take effect April 1, and thus to avert a strike.

The closing down of the mines, at least temporarily, is regarded as inevitable, in view of the attitude of both parties. Should the miners' representatives refuse to meet the demands of the operators, their action would have to be submitted to a referendum vote of the miners, and even if the latter were to declare against a strike, a suspension while a vote was being taken would ensue. The period allotted for this covers thirty days.

Would Make 400,000 Idle.

If the operators and miners in the Central states fail to agree it will leave the workers in Oklahoma, Arkansas, Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, Michigan and other states and Canada without a basis for an agreement, and altogether about 400,000 miners will be out of work.

Eight operators and eight miners from each of the four states directly involved, with John P. White, president of the United Mine Workers of America, as the leader of the union men, will participate in the conference.

H. M. Taylor, president of the Illinois Coal Operators' association, which has to deal with about 70,000 miners, said before the meeting that the situation is grave.

"The demands of the union are unreasonable," he said. "There is no prospect of settlement on that basis. We hope the men will see that they are asking too much."

Differ 20 Cents a Ton.

A difference of 20 cents a ton in the wage sought and offered is the main question to be settled. The mine workers want $1.05 a ton for the coal they get out. The operators want to pay 85 cents, or 10 cents less than is paid at present.

Back to Work March 27.

Glasgow, Scotland, March 20.—The officials o the Scottish miners' union

WOODSMAN BURNS WITH SOME HORSES

Alex Patient Perishes at Willow River With Sixteen Horses in Box Car.

Willow River, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Alex Patient, a woodsman, from Stillwater, Minn., who has been working at the White Pine Lumber camp near here, lost his life here last night along with sixteen horses belonging to H. G. Farmer of Stillwater when a box car in which the animals had been loaded caught fire presumably from a lantern carried by Patient.

Mr. Farmer had loaded the horses into a box car on the Northern Pacific here to ship them back to Stillwater. Patient did not work for Mr. Farmer and the presumption is that he planned on "beating" his way back to Stillwater in the car with the horses as he was seen in the vicinity of the car intoxicated with a lighted lantern. About 10 o'clock the car was discovered on fire and the flames were beyond control when the townspeople tried to extinguish the fire and rescue the horses. The animals were all suffocated but not until this morning was it known that Patient had perished when his body badly burned, was found in the ruins.

The horses were valued at about $4,000.

TAFT MAROONED BY HEAVY FOG

President Awakes in New York Instead of in Washington.

New York, March 20.—President Taft found himself a visitor to New York when he awoke this morning. He had expected to be in Washington, but had been marooned in New York by a fog.

The president was a passenger last night on the Boston & Washington express, which is ferried around the city on a car float. Because of the heavy fog the railroad officials would not venture to send the president's car by the river route. The train was switched into the Grand Central railroad yards, where the president's car, the Colonial, was run on a siding.

Before retiring the president had left instructions not to be disturbed. Police guarded the car during the night.

After breakfast President Taft made a call at the home of his brother, Henry W. Taft, and then went to the Pennsylvania station, where he took the 10:08 o'clock train for Washington.

AVIATOR INJURED IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH

FRANK C. COFFYN.

New York, March 20.—Frank C. Coffyn, the aviator, was perhaps fatally injured today in an automobile crash in Central park. His skull was fractured and he was injured internally.

Edwin C. Harvey, a city employe who was with Coffyn in the automobile, also was seriously injured.

PLOT TO KILL KNOX FOUND

Executions of Leaders in Nicaragua Are Likely to Result.

Thirteen Dynamite Bombs Under Track His Train Passed Over.

New Orleans, La., March 20.—As the result of the alleged discovery by the government of Nicaragua of a plot to assassinate Secretary of State Knox on the occasion of his recent visit to the capital of that country, it is not improbable that a number of prominent "Liberals" will be put to death, according to advices received here today from Bluefields.

Thirteen dynamite bombs placed beneath the roadbed over which Secretary Knox's special train traveled from Corinto to Managua, and connected with an electric battery, were discovered by government agents and will be used as evidence against the conspirators.

Two score Zelayaistas, or "Liberals," are confined in the penitentiary at Managua, and are held incommunicado pending the termination of the present investigation by the government.

On the day of Mr. Knox's arrival at Managua a bomb was exploded under the Chilamate bridge between Leon and Laccibe, destroying a small portion of the track, but doing very little damage to the bridge. Near this point four sections of telegraph and telephone wires were cut.

The discovery of these bombs was not made until after the Knox special train had passed on its way to the capital and the failure of the conspirators to set them off is believed to have been due either to a lack of proper battery connections or the approach of guards who had been detailed to patrol the tracks.

M. F. MURPHY WILL SUCCEED HIMSELF

Is Re-elected Mayor of Grand Forks By a Large Majority.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.) — In the Grand Forks city election yesterday M. F. Murphy was re-elected mayor by a big majority. J. E. Kulstad was his opponent, being the representative of the Socialists.

Jacob Welsh was elected city treasurer, defeating T. J. Hagen.

McClory Re-Elected.

Devils Lake, N. D., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—P. J. McClory was re-elected mayor of the city of Devils Lake yesterday by a vote of 329 to 300. Mr. McClory was opposed by P. G. Miller, a Socialist, and there had been a decidedly hot campaign.

The aldermen elected yesterday are J. E. Koller, A. L. Johnson, P. J. McGurren and W. Hawkins. The last named is a Socialist.

Truskett Jury Discharged.

Independence, Kan., March 20.—After being out since Saturday afternoon, the jury in the third trial of A. A. Truskett of Caney, Kan., charged with the murder of J. D. S. Neeley, the Limaj Ohio oil promoter, was discharged after failing to reach a verdict.

GAS BLAST KILLS NINE

Two Women and Seven Children Blown Up or Burned.

Mine Settling at Dunmore, Pa., Is Cause of Disaster.

Scranton, Pa., March 20.—In a gas explosion caused, it is thought, by mine settlings, nine persons were killed and two injured today in Dunmore, near here. Two families, comprising two women and seven children, were either blown to pieces in the explosion or burned in the fire that followed and destroyed three houses.

The dead are:

MRS. JOHN CAVELLA AND FIVE CHILDREN, Rose, aged 3; Dominick, 8; Lucy, 11; Lizzie, 14; William, 20.

MRS. VITO SUMMA, Mrs. Cavella's daughter, and her two children, Mary, aged 7, and Frank, 4.

The body of Mary Summa was found in the limbs of a tree fifty feet from the scene of the explosion a half hour after the accident.

Score of Houses Damaged.

More than twenty dwellings near the scene of the explosion were badly damaged by the concussion and the flying timbers and scores of persons were thrown out of their beds and bruised.

During the last week mine settlings in the neighborhood of the Cavella home have caused alarm. Only a few days ago the cellar dropped out of a house on the opposite side of the street and several miners climbed to the surface on ladders let down by the women of the house.

Dunmore police say that gas from a broken main, caused, probably, by the mine settling, found its way into the cellar of the Cavella home, where it gathered in a dense volume and exploded when it came in contact with an oil lamp that was burning in the house.

BADING PITTED AGAINST SEIDEL

Non-Partisan Man Nominated for Mayor in Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 20.—With the return from one precinct missing in yesterday's primary election in Milwaukee, Dr. Gerhard A. Bading, nonpartisan candidate for mayor, is shown to have polled 26,248 votes, defeating Congressman William J. Cary by 11,373 votes for the nomination. Mayor Emil Seidel, unopposed, received 17,299 votes. The regular election will be held April 2.

Anti-Saloon League Gains.

Annapolis, Md., March 20.—The statewide local option bill prepared by the anti-saloon league of Maryland was passed by the house of delegates early this morning. The bill now goes to the senate.

BODY SWINGS FROM WINDOW

Mrs. Blanche Carson, Confessed Smuggler, Hangs Herself in New York.

Suicide Follows Admission of $20,000 Fraud at Customs House.

New York, March 20.—Mrs. Blanche Carson of San Francisco, who was arrested here for smuggling $20,000 worth of jewelry on her arrival from India, committed suicide early today by hanging herself out of the window of her hotel.

The body of Mrs. Carson was seen by a pedestrian, swinging from a window on the eighth floor of the Hotel Broztell. The clerk was notified and the door of Mrs. Carson's room was forced. A rope tied to a radiator passed out of the window, and at the end dangled the body of the woman.

Two notes were found in the room, one of which was addressed to her attorney, Harrison Osborn. Their contents were not made public.

Mrs. Carson reached here day before yesterday on the steamship George Washington. She was arrested on the charge of gross under-valuation and smuggling, after having confessed that

MRS. GRACE GETS OUT ON BONDS

Furnishes $7,500 and Leaves Atlanta to Visit Her Mother.

Atlanta, Ga., March 20.—Mrs. Daisy Opie Grace, charged with shooting her husband, Eugene H. Grace, who is not expected to live, was released on $7,500 bail from the jail in this city at midnight and left for Philadelphia at 12:29 this morning, where, it is said, she will visit her mother.

Mrs. Grace will make only a brief trip to her former home, where she first met her husband. One of Mrs. Grace's attorneys today intimated that the trip was in connection with plans to protect her son's inheritance and interest in her estate.

WORST SNOW STORM OF WINTER HITS PART OF SOUTH DAKOTA

Norfolk, Neb., March 20.—The worst of a series of record-breaking snow storms struck North Nebraska and Southern South Dakota early today. Twelve inches of snow had fallen by 9 o'clock, and it still was snowing at that hour. A high north wind was blowing and the temperature falling. Train service is paralyzed, many trains being abandoned.

FORCE ISSUE ON TARIFF

House Democrats Backing Up Policy of Free Breakfast Table.

Claims for and Against the Leading Candidates for President.

(By Willis J. Abbott.)

Washington, March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The passage by the house of the free sugar bill with the loss only of the Democratic votes from Louisiana and Colorado, and with the gain of twenty-four Republican votes, is significant. It indicates that the Democratic policy of a free breakfast table is appealing to the opposition party, and will appeal to the country as a whole. It is apparent that this policy will be continued and that the high cost of living will be attacked at what the Democrats believe to be its foundation, namely the tariff on the necessities of life.

For the first time since the campaign of 1892 the house Democrats are united in their determination to force the tariff issue to the front, and to make the fight particularly on the tariff upon actual necessities.

Too Many Candidates in House.

It would perhaps be better if there were not quite so many candidates for the presidency in the house Democracy.

SIX MONTHS FOR ONE SUFFRAGETTE

Woman Who Tried to Burn the London Postoffice Is Sentenced.

London, March 20.—Ellen Pitfield, the suffragette who attempted to set fire to the general postoffice in London on the evening of March 8 by throwing a bundle of papers saturated with petroleum into the building, was sentenced today at the Old Bailey sessions to six months' imprisonment in the Second division. This means that she will be accorded many privileges not granted to ordinary prisoners. The judge explained that her sentence would have been more severe except for her ill health.

WILL STUMP THE COUNTRY

La Follette Says North Dakota Results Show National Will.

Dixon Thinks Taft Humiliated —"Sample Soap Box," Says McKinley.

Chicago, March 20.—Senator La Follette continued his journey to Washington today over the Pennsylvania railroad. Before leaving Chicago he reiterated his statement that the results in North Dakota showed that the people considered principles and not persons in casting their votes.

He announced that on April 1 he would start on a tour of the country in the interests of his candidacy, and would first visit Massachusetts and other New England states, afterward returning to the West, where he will campaign in Nebraska and on to the Pacific coast.

"Time to Do."

"The time for talk has gone by; the time to do is at hand. I shall campaign from now on until the last delegate is elected in the same spirit, with the same definiteness as to principles, and with the same confidence in the result elsewhere as in North Dakota."

This was Senator La Follette's announcement after reading reports of the North Dakota primary.

"The returns so far reported from North Dakota are confirmatory of the impressions formed in a three-day campaign in that state," continued a statement the senator dictated to the Associated Press. "Never in my experience have I known the people in any commonwealth more profoundly aroused than in North Dakota. They thoroughly understand the issue. Sentiment does not enter into the result. The people of North Dakota could not be influenced by any attempt to make a personal issue.

Thinks It Typical.

PACKERS' CASE TO JURY SATURDAY

Pierce Butler Will Make Government's Closing Argument.

Chicago, March 20.—Counsel continued their argument to the jury in the packers' case before United States district Judge Carpenter today.

Attorney John S. Miller, representing the Armour group of defendants, was expected to conclude his address during the morning and he was to be followed by district attorney James H. Wilkerson. Later M. W. Borders will speak for the Morris group and Attorney John Barton Payne for Edward Tilden, president of the National Packing company.

Special Counsel Pierce Butler will close the government's case. It is expected that the case will go to the jury Saturday.

GRAIN MEN WANT MORE TIME FOR GRAIN STORAGE.

Kansas City, Mo., March 20.—Representatives of grain dealers in Chicago, St. Louis, Omaha, Milwaukee, Peoria and Kansas City have met here to consider grain elevation charges.

The order of the interstate commerce commission, effective April 15, allowing railroads to pay elevators three-fourths of a cent a bushel for unloading grain, providing the grain is reloaded into cars for shipment within ten days, was discussed.

The grain men hope to induce the commission to amend its order and provide for a longer period for storage of grain.

ROOSEVELT BAD SECOND; TAFT LAST

Twenty-Seven Counties Give Senator 34,159; Colonel, 22,877; Taft, 3,000.

Democrats Are Said to Have Voted for the Wisconsin Man.

President's Support in Towns Varies From Nothing to 48 Votes.

Fargo, N. D., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Returns from thirty-two of the forty-nine counties, some complete, others about two-thirds so, show that La Follette leads Roosevelt 8,146. Marshall's lead over Cooper for Republican national committeeman in the same territory is in excess of 7,000.

Fargo, N. D., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—With 1,167 of the 1,800 precincts in the state heard from at noon today in the North Dakota presidential preferential primary election of yesterday, complete returns give:

Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, 34,159.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt, 22,877.

President Taft, 3,000.

Senator La Follette's majority in these 1,167 precincts is 11,282.

Complete returns from 27 of the 49 counties in the state show that Roosevelt is 7,600 votes behind La Follette. The counties reported include Grand Forks and Cass.

Democratic figures were an unknown quantity this morning, owing to the great interest which centered in the Republican primaries. The name of Governor Burke was the only one appearing on the Democratic primary ballot.

Ten delegates were elected to the Republican national convention to be held in Chicago, June 18. They are morally bound to support Senator La Follette for the nomination for president. The delegates are Robert M. Pollock, P. O. Torson, T. Twitchell, W. S. Lauder, A. L. Nelson, L. B. Garnaas, August E. Johnson, James H Cooper, Emil Scow and O. T. Tofsrud.

Five La Follette presidential electors were elected as follows: Theo-

SPANISH BOMB MAKERS KILLED

Five Dead and Nine Injured as Result of an Explosion.

Oporto, March 20.—Five men were killed and nine others injured by bomb explosions in the suburb of Niragaia last night. Among the dead is a barber named Costa, who was the real leader of the party organized for the defense of the republic. He was engaged with the others in manufacturing bombs, the ultimate use of which is not known.

The roar of the explosion was heard for miles. Four houses were reduced to ruins and the authorities believe the bodies of other persons still are buried beneath the debris.

EXPRESS SAFE IN TRAIN IS LOOTED

Corinth, Miss., March 20.—Sheriff McPeters of Alcorn county at the head of a large posse has gone in pursuit of a gang of highwaymen who last night held up northbound Mobile & Ohio train No. 4, dynamited the safe in the express car and escaped with booty the amount of which has not been determined.

The robbery took place seven miles south of Corinth in the Tucsonbia river bottom, an ideal place for a holdup, as that section is heavily wooded. The robbers left on horses which they had tethered a short distance from the railroad.

GERMANY NOT TO STEP INTO MEXICO

Berlin, March 20.—The German foreign office has decided that there are no grounds for German intervention in Mexico, which has been demanded by certain newspapers in consequence of a report cabled from New York March 18 that some followers of the insurgent leader, Emiliano Zapata had murdered a German woman.

Investigation by the German authorities has proved the report was false.

RELATIVES ARE BLAMED

Court Says Young Husband and Wife Should Not Be Molested.

Lays Down the Law With Some Good Advice on Side.

Too much mother-in-law, sister-in-law and brother-in-law are anything but conducive to happy domestic relations—so holds Judge Dibell of the district court.

The court not only administered the law but also some good advice in the case of Aniela Milejezak against Wladeslaw Victor Halicki, the findings of which were put on file today.

Aniela Milejezak sued her brother-in-law, Halicki, for the board, lodging and care of his wife, Victoria Halicki, for several months last year. According to the findings, she is entitled to $195 for her services.

The case was tried before Judge Dibell last term. He finds that Halicki and his wife were married in August, 1910. They have one child, 2 years old.

Relatives of both, it appears, interfered more or less in the family relations of the pair and they separated on April 22, 1911. Mrs. Halicki went to her sister's home. She gave birth to a child there shortly afterwards. The court held that the wife was justified in living apart from her husband and also that the sister-in-law was entitled to compensation for her care and for that of the child.

Judge Dibell's memorandum on the case is in part as follows: "There is no good reason why this man and wife should not live together now. They appear to be good young people, have a child, are in the same position in life, belong to the same church and do not believe in divorces. The defendant appears to be rather a capable young man, a good worker and thrifty.

"If he and his wife had been apart from the relatives of each, they would have had no trouble. Plaintiff (the sister-in-law) is too much of a busybody and should leave her sister and husband undisturbed. The defendant's parents should encourage him to live with his wife rather than apart from her. The question of economy is not the most important one.

"The defendant's wife will at once be in the wrong, if she refuses to live with him after he has furnished her a proper home. The judgment against him may seem a severe penalty, but he has invited it. If he now takes a proper view of the situation and his wife is sensible, they will live together apart from the relatives of either and without discord."

FREIGHT TRAIN DERAILED.

Broken Rail Delays Morning Passenger Train From the Ranges.

The morning train from the ranges on the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road was delayed nearly two hours by the derailment of a freight train at Payne, Minn.

The Virginia local, with twenty-two freight cars, struck a broken rail early this morning and was derailed. Nobody was injured, but the derailment blocked the line, delaying the passenger train. The Winnipeg train was nearly three hours late.

BUILT HOUSE ON WRONG LOT

Martin Brown Claims Property Sold Nineteen Years Ago Was Misrepresented.

The dispute between Martin Brown and Olof G. Olson over a real estate sale, which took place nineteen years ago and which is the basis for a lawsuit brought in district court, is being aired today before Judge Dibell and a jury.

Brown claims that in 1893, when Olson was employed as a real estate salesman by Roswell H. Palmer, that he sold Brown lot 4, block 9, Merritt's addition, but that at the time Olson pointed out to him lot 8, block 9, and represented lot 8 to be lot 4.

Brown says that he built a house on lot 8 laboring under the impression that it was lot 4. It was not until 1910 he claims that he discovered the difference. Lot 4, he claims, is in a ravine and unfit for habitation.

Brown wants the court to compel Olson either to convey to him the title of lot 8 or to compensate him for his damages, which he places at $1,317, the cost of the lot and the improvements.

Olson in his answer makes a denial of having made any misrepresentations to Brown. Judge S. F. White is attorney for Brown and O. S. Andresen is defeding.

STILL HOPE OF HEARING COLONEL

ALLEN GANG IN NEW STRONGHOLD

Virginia Posses May Attack Murderers in Chestnut Ridge.

Hillsville, Va., March 20.—Dawn today found Virginia detectives and posses surrounding and preparing to assault another mountain stronghold in which the Carroll courthouse murderers are thought to be at bay.

Chestnut Ridge, a spur of the Blue Ridge mountains just five miles from the home of Floyd Allen, is supposed to be the hiding place of the outlawed horsemen. Gathered there today were the posses who had been guarding the roads, reinforced by every available man from Hillsville, just arrived after an all night ride.

The leaders expect to attempt to take the fugitives as soon as their exact position has been determined.

News that the Allens had slipped out of their discovered refuge at Squirrel's Spur and reached Chestnut Ridge was brought to Hillsville last night by a mounted messenger. Immediately afterward Detective Felts, leader of the searchers, galloped off for Chestnut Ridge at the head of a band which included even the men who had been in the saddle all day.

Sidna Allen Seen.

Sidna Allen is said to have been seen yesterday afternoon making his way down the trail from Squirrel's Spur, and it is believed that he reached the Chestnut Ridge section with the rest of the wanted men. People here think that but for their refusal to desert Sidna, whose wounds prevent him from undertaking a journey of any length, the younger members of the gang before this would have made their way through the hills and started west.

POSTAL SAVINGS BANK AT COLERAINE

Coleraine, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Postmaster W. J. Stock has just received word from Washington that Coleraine is to have a postal savings bank. It will be opened on April 9. This is good news to the patrons of the postoffice as the foreign population in the range towns do not generally patronize banks, but willingly deposit their earnings in the government postal savings bank.

PETITION NOW HAS 500 NAMES

Members of the Municipal Ownership league, who have been circulating a petition to incorporate the initiative, referendum and recall in the city charter, have secured more than 500 signers to the petition.

It was reported this afternoon that the necessary 550 would be secured before night, but an effort will be made to get at least 600 signers, in order to allow for any who are not eligible and who may have signed.

Members of the league claim that the charter commission has no alternative, under the law, but to submit the petition to the council, and that the council must call a special election within ninety days. It is planned to get the petition and the proposed amendment before the council next Monday evening if possible.

MANY ARE EXPECTED

At Fire Prevention Association Meeting at Bemidji.

Bemidji, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is planned to make a big success of the meeting here Thursday of the State Fire Prevention association. State Fire Marshal Keller is expected to be present and make an address, and will probably be accompanied by one or more of his assistants. During the day, they will inspect the city and take note of the means that are being taken here to prevent loss by fire.

Bemidji invites inspection of its fire-fighting equipment and department members, and nothing but favorable reports are expected from that source. The streets and alleys of the city have been cleaned generally, and Bemidji is ready for the closest inspection of the state officials.

"Penal and Reformatory Work" Subject of Meeting.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of West Duluth will meet tomorrow afternoon, with Mrs. C. R. Keyes, 706 Fifty-seventh avenue west, at 2:30 o'clock. The subject for the afternoon will be "Penal and Reformatory Work" and Miss Jean Polrier and Miss Edna Meeker will both speak on the subject. Mrs. T. J. Gray will be the leader for the afternoon.

DELIGHTS THE EAST.

Minneapolis Orchestra Praised in New York.

The Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, which has pleased Duluth audiences for several years with fine concerts exquisitely given under the directorship of Emil Oberhoffer, has won praise even in New York, the great metropolis where, with the exception of Berlin and London, more musical entertainments are given during the year than in any other city in the world. The Minnesota organization was heard by a large audience and both critics and the public were amazed at its playing.

A few of the impressions of New York critics on this concert follow:

"The achievement of these musicians from Minneapolis has been simply astounding."—Alfred Hertz, Metropolitan opera house conductor.

"An orchestral performance of the first quality."—Irving Weil, Journal

"A very able conductor and well trained musicians, worth hearing in any place and at any time."—Sylvester Rawling, Evening World.

"Only the very best organizations afford as much pleasure, and they not always."—Krehbiel, Tribune.

"Many rubbed their ears and could scarcely believe that this Northwestern city has so serious and spirited a symphony orchestra."—Edward Zeigler, Herald.

"The Minneapolis orchestra contains good material. Especially rich and solid were the lower strings."—Globe.

"A man capable of holding his own among the best concert conductors in America and a body of players worthy of his baton."—Max Smith, Press.

"Mr. Oberhoffer is a conductor of ability and authority, a musician of sympathy and understanding."—Richard Aldrich, Times.

"Without doubt Emil Oberhoffer, the conductor, deserves the highest encouragement for what he has accomplished."—Sun.

Silverman-Luery.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Luery have arrived in Duluth from Escanaba, Mich., where they were married last Thursday. Mrs. Luery was Miss Doris Silverman of that city. They are at the Hotel McKay at present.

Open Meeting.

An interesting program is being arranged by the evening department of the Twentieth Century club for next Monday evening. This meeting which will be held in the clubroom of the library commencing at 7:45 o'clock, will be open to the public and anyone interested is cordially invited.

Seen In the Shops.

Bing's Love Birds are a new fad and a flock of them has arrived in Duluth. Wearing a little tag around their necks telling of their luck value, several of these sassy looking little mascots are perched in a display window of one of the large department shops. They look somewhat like the Duck editor's little ducks only they have arms besides their red webbed feet. They have a grey back, white breast, red head and yellow bill and can be purchased for from 75 cents to $2, according to the size of the bird.

"I am your lucky Penguin,
From distant rocky shore,
Behave myself quite genuine
And when you squeeze me, snore."

This is the motto of these love birds but it deosn't state whether the bird or the owner does the snoring.

Easter Novelties.

In this same shop an attractive line of Easter cards, folders and booklets is displayed, many beautifully illuminated and printed, and a line of new little Easter novelties for favors and decorations is also displayed in which soft downy chickens, furry Easter bunnies and little yellow ducklings are prominent. Attractive little baskets and-shaped favor boxes were also shown as well as place cards and other table appointments bearing the Easter motif.

FAUST LECTURE.

Fine Musical Program to Accompany Talk.

"Faust and Marguerite; love and passion; the evil neighbor; separation and reunion; the victory of passion; sin and repentance; the catastrophe; Marguerite's salvation," will be the outline of the fifth lecture on Faust which Rev. George R. Gebauer will give this evening at the Unitarian church at 8 p. m.

The musical program to be given in connection with this lecture is also of interest. Miss Isabel Pearson will open the program with two organ numbers, an "Andante in C" by Silas and "Allegretto" by Wolstenholme.

Louis Dworshak will sing "The Song of the Golden Calf" from Faust, and Miss Eleanor Kraft, violinist, will play "Faust Fantasia" Sarasace with Miss Ethel Mollitor accompanying. After the lecture Miss Pearson will close the program with Guilmant's Third Sonata.

Dinner Party.

Messrs. Svante Carlson and Nels Lindahl entertained at a dinner party last Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Carlson, 2028 West Fifth street. The afternoon was spent in music and games. Covers were laid for the following:

Mrs. Cobb Leaves.

Mrs. Cobb of Brainerd, who has been the guest of Mrs. H. J. Atwood of Hunter's Park, will return to her home this evening. Mrs. Cobb gave a delightful talk on Maeterlinck before the members of the Twentieth Century Club Monday afternoon at a tea at the home of her hostess.

For Greysolon Chapter.

Mrs. O. H. Clarke and Mrs. George Elder entertained the members of the Greysolon du Lhut champter of the Daughters of the American Revolution yesterday afternoon at their regular meeting at the home of the former, 1420 East Superior street. Mrs. H. N. MacHarg gave patriotic readings and Miss Gertrude Logan played two piano numbers, all of which were a pleasure to the hearers. Plans were made by the chapter for the furnishing of a room at Sibley House, Mendota. The rooms were attractively decorated with flags and red carnations.

Entertains Club.

Mrs. D. R. Hanford of Lakeside entertained the members of the Lakeside Five Hundred club last evening at her home. Three tables were used for the game, the prizes going to Mrs. G. W. Bertram, Mrs. H. G. Wood, G. W. Bertram and E. G. Smith.

Social Centers Subject.

Miss Julia Ensign entertained the members of the Liberty chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at her home this afternoon. "The Social Center" was the subject of the afternoon, Mrs. E. W. Matter giving an interesting talk on this subject in a general way and Miss Agnes Wells spoke on the "Local Social Centers."

Milady's Toilet Table

By Mme. D'MILLE

To keep the skin soft and lovely, gently massage the face, neck and arms daily with a solution made by dissolving an original package of mayatone in a half pint of witch hazel. This is better than powder, for it gives a more natural appearance and will not rub off, although it makes the complexion smooth, white and satinlike.

To cleanse and refresh the scalp and hair, use a dry shampoo powder made by mixing a cupful of cornmeal with a small original package of therox. Sprinkle on the head and brush out thoroughly. Too much water makes the hair harsh, dry and faded. Therox strengthens thin and weak hair and produces thick and luxuriant, brilliant tresses.

Pain and worry give one an anxious harried look. Many women have told me that Mother's Salve gave them relief from headache, pains and aches of the back or joints, sore muscles, sprains, bruises, rheumatism, lumbago, neuralgia and other common afflictions. It is easy to use, quick to act, and should be in every home.

Superfluous hair is a most annoying and embarrassing disfigurement. Ladies can easily and quickly remove wild hairs from face and forearms by an application of delatone paste. Just mix powdered delatone with enough water to cover the hairy surface; apply and after two or three minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs will be gone.

BONCI DELIGHTS AUDIENCE

Recital of Famous Italian Tenor Most Satisfying Number of Musical Course.

Nothing so thoroughly satisfying from a musical standpoint has been heard in Duluth the present season, as the recital last evening of Alessandro Bonci at the Lyceum theater.

Mme. Alda, Alice Nielson, Riccardo Martin, Nordica, and others have pleased Duluth audiences since last October, but nothing yet offered at the Lyceum so thoroughly delighted an audience as Bonci's singing last evening. The audience expected much and it was not disappointed. In voice, interpretation and personality Bonci was perfect, and left absolutely nothing to be desired. In contrast with Riccardo Martin, the only great tenor heard here this season, Bonci sings apparently without effort. The quality of his voice is above criticism and he leaves the impression of always having something in reserve. His personality is charming, and his stage manner delightfully natural, unaffected and unspoiled by any affectation or mannerisms.

His program was rather light, but well varied and interesting. His first groupe of songs consisted of four Italian numbers, and these were followed by three modern American compositions, which are almost well enough known to be classed as popular. The grand aria from "La Boheme" completed the singer's share of the first part of the program.

Three delightful French songs composed the first offering in the second part of the program and these were followed by two Italian numbers, with the grand aria from "The Girl of the Golden West" as the concluding selection. The latter brought a most insistent encore, as did all the others, and the singer gave the popular "La Donna E Mobile" from "Rigoletto." This last encore was one of the most delightful numbers on the entire program, and showed the range and quality of the singer's voice as no other selection did.

The accompaniments were perfectly played by Robert E. Francini, who was also heard in one piano solo. Unfortunately he chose the overture to the opera "Mignon," arranged for the piano, and while it was well rendered, there were many other compositions that would have been more suitable and more interesting.

The program follows:

PART I.

"Se tu m'ami" .....
..... Giovanni Battista Pergolesi

"Il Peneier" ..... Joseph Hadyn

"O del mio dolce ardor" .....
..... Cristofore Gluck

"Vittoria! Vittoria" .....
..... Gian Giacomo Carissimi

"At Dawning" ..... Charles W. Cadman

"At Parting" ..... James H. Rogers

"I Love Thee So"..Reginald de Koven

Grand aria—"Che Gelida Manina," from "La Boheme" ..... Puccini

Piano solo—Overture to "Mignon" .....
..... Thomas

Signor Francini.

PART II.

"Le desert" ..... Felicien David

"Colette" ..... C. Chaminade

"Sogno" (Manon Lescaut) .....
..... Jules Massenet

"Aspirazioni" ..... Montefiore

"Alla Luna" ..... Pietro Mascagni

Grand aria, from the opera "The Girl of the Golden West"...Puccini

Nothing Can Stop Equal Suffrage Movement, Says Speaker

The meeting of the West Duluth Suffrage club in the assembly room of the Irving school last evening was well attended and among those present were many of the most prominent people of the city.

The principal address was delivered by William E. McEwen, editor of the Labor World and former state labor commissioner. He strongly espoused the cause of votes for women and declared that the movement is gathering such momentum that it cannot be stopped.

"A handful of men and women have won all the battles of the world," said Mr. McEwen. "If women had the right to vote the fetters of industrial serfdom would fall from 8,000,000 women.

"Equal suffrage for women is in the air. Nothing can stop it. It will only be a matter of a few years when women will play an important part in the government of this country, and welcome that time. Statistics have proven that if women are compelled to work long hours the coming generations will become weakened. When bills have been introduced in the several states the manufacturers and employers have had the influence to get them killed, or if they passed, a supreme court declared them unconstitutional. When women have the power to ballot these bills will become laws and they will be held constitutional.

"Governor Stubbs of Kansas has declared that his state will give a majority of 40,000 in favor of suffrage, and it is conservatively estimated that next year over 1,000,000 women in six states will cast ballots for presidential nominees."

Following Mr. McEwen's talk a business session was held at which Dr. Mary McCoy was elected president to succeed Mrs. Agnes L. Atwood, who resigned on account of her duties at the state free employment office. Miss Laura Laumann was elected treasurer.

The following standing committees were appointed: Program, Mrs. Ruth Merritt, Mrs. David Adams, Mrs. Stoller; membership, Mrs. I. P. Swangle, Mrs. H. Olson, Miss Pearson, Mrs. Adolph Anderson, Mrs. Agnes L. Atwood; constitution and by-laws, Mrs. A. R. Armstrong, Miss Laura Laumann, Mrs. M. J. Murray, Mrs. Hasner.

THE EVENING STORY

SILVER TROUBLE

By W. Werner.

The storm seemed to be gathering terrific force with every passing second. Huldah stood at the window watching it with fascinated eyes. She was afraid, but not so much afraid as she would have been without Sam's big arm lying protectingly across her shoulders.

"It's awful," she gasped.

"It's splendid," Sam said. "Beats a Fourth of July celebration all hollow. Great Scott!" His exclamation and Huldah's scream came together. The lightning had struck the big elm and scattered its living shape in great white splinters. For an instant the house seemed to rock with the deafening detonation that followed, and Huldah clapped her hands over her tortured ears.

"I suppose it might just as well have been the house," Sam said soberly, when they had recovered. He drew Huldah closer. It was as if they had been restored after some frightful peril. After the storm they went out to look at the ruin. The elm had been the pride of their little farm. There was nothing left of it but a riddled trunk. Huldah's eyes were full of tears as she picked up a splinter. At that moment she and Sam saw the same thing—a canvas pouch exposed in the rent, hollow side of the great trunk. Both sprang and grasped for it. Their hands touched it at the same time; then Huldah drew back and let Sam have it. His hands shook as he untied the string that closed the mouth of the pouch. They stared at what it contained.

"Silver!" Huldah breathed. "Money." He glanced about, fearful of having his treasure seen by hostile eyes.

"Let's take it home and count it," he said. Upon the kitchen table Sam counted out more than $300. "It's a fortune for us," he muttered. "We can't give it up, Huldah."

"We don't have to," Huldah said. 'Who'd there be to claim it? Just see how old the sack is. We can have the house fixed up now. We can have a veranda."

"We can have a silo built on the barn. That's of more account," Sam said quickly. "You know I've wanted a silo this long while, Huldah."

"So have I wanted a veranda," Huldah replied. She drew away with suddenly reddened cheeks. Sparks snapped in her hazel eyes.

"I guess," Sam said slowly, "It'll be the silo this time, Huldah. We'll have to wait a bit longer for the rest." He gathered the money back into the pouch and tightened the string.

"We have waited," Huldah breathed hard. "I'm not going to wait any longer now that we have the means."

"What's the way I feel about the silo," Sam said stubbornly. Huldah faced him angrily. "You think more of your old cattle than you do of your wife," she cried.

"Now, see here, Huldah, you're unreasonable. This money finding has upset you," Sam soothed. "We'll just put the stuff away till we're calmer." He carried it to the old secretary and locked it away. Huldah stood looking after him. It came to her that if she got her own way he would have to fight for it, and she was willing to fight. For the first time she realized that there were rocks in Sam's nature as well as in her own. After he had gone to his work at the barn she set about measuring distances and planning. In consequence whereof supper was a little late. It was an uncomfortable meal. They avioded talking about anything else. As they sat at opposite sides of the table trying to eat without observing each other, a voice suddenly called in at the open window.

"Hello, folks!" The owner of the voice leaned easily on the sill. He was a big jovial man, neighbor and friend. "Cleared off nice after the shower, eh?" he queried. "You hain't heard of any carpenter job that's wanted to be done, have you, Sammy?"

"Why, yes," Sam said slowly. "I've got a job for you myself. I'm thinking of building that silo, Mac."

"And I'm going to have a veranda and a bay window put on the house," Huldah cried out.

"Pshaw," exclaimed the carpenter. He looked at them each in turn. "You're going to do a lot of building, hain't you? What's happened to you—a fortune?"

"Not a very big one, I guess, or we'd tear this old shell of a house down and have a new one, straight through," said Huldah.

"Well," said the carpenter as he moved away, "you think up your plans and I'll come over and talk with you. Good night." Across the table Sam and Huldah glared at each other. "So you're setting up your authority, eh?" said Sam.

"Well, aren't you setting up yours?" retorted Huldah. It was the first time in their married experience they had ever used that tone to each other. The moment they had spoken they seemed to put each other miles away, though only the table was between. Huldah cleared the table and washed the dishes. When presently Sam found her sitting stiffly in her chair with a paper she was not reading held resolutely before her eyes. He found another paper and sat down with it. They did not speak or look at each other. It was a relief when at last they heard somebody coming up the walk toward the front door. Huldah started for the door, but before she could reach it it opened and a young fellow entered. He was Huldah's brother, home from the village high school, and the sight of him eased the tense hardness of her face. Even Sam looked up with something like pleasure and his "Hello, kid," had a hearty ring.

The boy paused midway in the room, looking at both of them. Something was wrong between them and he knew it instinctively. What's up?" he asked.

"What do you mean, Bert?" Huldah inquired haughtily.

"You know what I mean. You and Sam had a falling out."

"The idea!" she exclaimed. She colored furiously.

Sam crushed the paper between his big hands. "I'll tell you, Bert," he said. "She wants a veranda and I want a silo, and we can't come to an understanding."

"Why, I didn't know you had any money for either," said the boy in amazement. "You must have had some money left to you." Sam told Bert the whole story.

"Hoorah," shouted the boy. "Let me see the money, Sam, will you?" Sam unlocked the desk and produced the pouch. Bert gave a low whistle. "All silver dollars. And"—he examined a few hastily—"all the same date." A curious look came over his face. He rang one of the pieces on the table, bit it and finally cooly opened his penknife and proceeded to whittle it. It whittled as easily as lead. "Counterfeit money, my children," he announced gravely.

"What!" Sam and Huldah spoke in the same breath. Both turned pale.

Bert nodded. "Counterfeit money," he said. "Queer you didn't catch on. Some chap has had to hide this and run for his life. "Clever work, though, I guess, however, you'd have found out quick enough if you'd tried to pass 'em. Good thing you couldn't agree about your building proposition." He grinned.

Sam and Huldah looked at each other and smiled. "What fools we were," they said.

$3.50 RECIPE FREE FOR WEAK MEN

Send Name and Address Today — You Can Have It Free and Be Strong and Healthy.

I have in my possession a prescription for nervous debility, failing memory and lame back, brought on by excesses, that has cured so many worn and nervous men right in their own homes—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his health quickly and quietly, should have a copy. So I have determined to send a copy of the prescription free of charge, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope to any man who will write me for it.

This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men and I am convinced it is the surest-acting combination ever put together.

I think I owe it to my fellow men to send them a copy in confidence so that any man anywhere who is weak and discouraged with repeated failures may stop drugging himself with harmful patent medicines, secure what I believe is the quickest-acting restorative, upbuilding, SPOT-TOUCHING remedy ever devised, and so cure himself at home quietly and quickly. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, 4671 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send you a copy of this splendid recipe in a plain ordinary envelope free of charge. A great many doctors would charge $3 to $5 for merely writing out a prescription like this—but I send it entirely free.

TWO WEEKS' CAMPAIGN BY EVANGELISTS IN WEST END

REV. M. S. RICE.

REV. GEORGE E. SILLOWAY.

Beginning next Monday evening a general evangelistic campaign will be held for two weeks at the Grace M. E. church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street. The meetings are to be held every evening up to Thursday and the second week they will start Tuesday evening and terminate with special Easter services.

The campaign will be in charge of Rev. George E. Silloway, pastor of the Grace M. E. church, and Rev. M. S. Rice, D. D., pastor of the First M. E. church, who will conduct the meetings during the two weeks The plan of the campaign is in line with the present Men and Religion Forward Movement meetings which are being held throughout the city. The meetings will all be open to the public. "It is a conservation program to gather the results of the Men and Religion Forward Movement meetings this week," said Rev. Mr. Silloway this morning.

The meetings are planned to be the largest of the year for this end of the city and special efforts are now being made to secure several vocal soloists and a combined union chorus for the series of meetings.

WORKING MEN AND CHURCH

Social Service Worker Says They Must Help Solve Labor Problems.

Says Neither Churches Nor Preachers Are Familiar With Conditions.

Dr. I. J. Lansing, one of the experts in the present Men and Religion Forward Movement campaign, conducted the first meeting of the series to be held in the West end at the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street, last evening. A large audience was present and Dr. Lansing chose as his subject, "The Social Service Institute."

"Honor, instruct and help the laborer, as a friend," said Dr. Lansing, "especially the immigrant, whether he labors with hand or brain. Get the facts concerning labor, for neither the churches nor the preachers are familiar with the facts. Of 351 questions asked by the team concerning labor, incomplete answers were received from twenty out of the eighty churches in Duluth.

"Learn who were the first settlers of the city, their characters and the date of settlement. They have generally impressed their characters upon the town to some extent and this influence and assistance is what every one of us must understand. Learn the number of saloons and labor unions in your city. Treat the unions fairly and form a nucleus from the laboring members of the churches to lead the other members in solving the many labor proolems of the day. Only 2,000,000 out of a total of 18,000,000 laboring men are organized in the United States today.

"We have a difficult labor situation, because laborers have from time immemorial moved toward the West to better their condition, while at the Pacific coast they reach the limit, and are compelled to turn back. What shall me do with the unemployed? Many of them in Providence, D. I., are Italians who have been brought over to this country by a new steamship line. If they are employed, an equal number will come over from Italy, looking for employment, which means the American freeman will be displaced, compelling him to ultimately end his days as a tramp.

"We should treat the Socialists more kindly, for they are fighting a just cause. It is estimated that from $700 to $900 is the wage necessary to keep the free American citizen and his family in comfort. Three-quarters of the workers today receive less than $600 a year. Food costs more here than in England, France and Italy, and the number of people who have money in the banks is three times as great, proportionately, in Europe as it is in the United States. The British republic has reduced the high cost of living to a great extent by the co-operative store system throughout the country. In this country we waste $10,000,000,000 annually on liquor, tobacco and lust, while an equal amount is wasted in other ways. These are the conditions we must cope with before the high cost of living can ever be reduced and the workingman receive his just reward for labor."

PUBLISH WEEKLY PAPER ON WARSHIP

Edwrd Le Neau, son of Peter Le Neau, 21 North Twenty-fifth avenue west, has been in the United States navy for two years, on board the Vermont.

A letter was received from him yesterday in which he sends a copy of the paper that is issued on board the ship. It is a small card, with lines on the back for mailing and is issued every Wednesday. It gives the news on board the ship for the entire week and the men are charged 25 cents a month for three of the cards each week. Following is the card, which contains the news for the week of March 6:

"March 6, 1912. At sea in company with United States steamship South Carolina en route from Cape Cruz to Guantanamo bay. Arrived and anchored in the bay at 9:20 a. m. 'If the Vermont cannot hold 7,000 tons of coal the Vulcan' and she came alongside at 10 a. m., and presented us with 1,015 tons of 'passage-home fuel.' We shoved her off at 5:30 p. m. The Fo'csstle Record's service with the Associated Press was very bum last week as we did not leave for Norfolk after coaling as originally reported. The Piedmonteograph on the quarter-deck after supper. March 7—General Field day. Rest of fleet returning from Cape Cruz. North Dakota made two more hits than we did, otherwise our marksmanship is holding its own. News received from Solace in evening of the death of Maurice M. Roth, ordinary seaman from pneumonia. Roth was also a member of the for'd eighth division. He leaves a grandmother living in Indianapolis, Ind., to whom the ship's company extend their heartfelt sympathy. March 8—Ship's battalion ashore at 8 a. m. for regimental drill and sham battle. Everyone over the side at 5 p. m. for a last swim. March 9—Chain-tierers called for a game of golf on the links in the chain locker shortly before 6 a. m. and underway with South Carolina at 6:30 a. m., en route for U. S. A. Forget G'wan-tan-some-moh until next winter. March 10, Sunday—Clear, pleasant day at sea. Passed Island of San Salvador at 10 a. m. on port hand. Bags and hammocks being scrubbed. March 11—Weather continues fine. Slight swell. Fire control drill with South Carolina steaming about 11,000 yards abeam. March 12—If you are looking for a stray goat, ask Weber which he would rather have, 'dirty clothes in his own bag or clean clothes in the lucky bag.' Choppy sea chasing us from astern. Three hundred miles from Cape Henry at noon. Arrive at Hampton Roads tomorrow about 8 p. m."

Mr. Le Neau was very well known in this end of the city and his parents and brothers now live in the West end.

RECEIVES PIPE ORGAN FOR HOME.

Prof. A. F. Lundholm of 2506 West Third street received his $2,500 pipe organ yesterday from the Ohio manufacturers and it will be installed some time this week. Prof. Lundholm is the organist of the Ella Swedish Lutheran church of West Duluth and is one of the most widely known musicians in this part of the state. The front room in his home was especially prepared to receive this large organ, which he will use for special home concerts and recitals.

Surprised on Birthday.

Mrs. A. J. Milligan of 2902 West Huron street was pleasantly surprised at her home last evening in honor of the anniversary of her birthday. A large number of her friends presented Mrs. Milligan with dainty gifts and the rooms were tastily decorated with shamrocks and green ribbons. The evening was spent in music and games after which refreshments were served to the following guests: Messrs. and Mesdames H. May A. Stenghlire, E. Bede, W. Severson, H. Scribner, D. Buchanan, A. McKenzie; Mesdames F. Simpson, S. Ose, W. De Vaney, O. Peterson, A. Samuelson, A. Ness; Misses S. Samuelson, A. Samuelson, R. Onet, E. Milligan, Severson, and the Messrs. F. Rickards, Alfred Milligan and A. J. Milligan.

FURTHER DECLINE IN SUGAR PRICES SURPRISED BROKERS

"The sugar market during the last few weeks has not fulfilled the expectations that were general among sugar men," said H. F. Sleepack, Duluth sugar broker, today. "The twenty-two point decline that has lately taken place was not expected a month ago. It was thought then that within thirty days after that time the American sugar beet product would be all, or practically all, sold and off the market. Such has not been the case. The quantities of sugar in jobbers' and retailers' hands were larger than was thought. Hence, the demand did not come up to expectations, and sugar declined.

"Moreover, there has been fine weather of late in Cuba for harvesting and grinding the sugar crop of the Island. There has been no occasion for cutting down the original estimate of 800,000 tons as the 1911-1912 sugar crop of Cuba.

"Another bearish factor has been the large Russian exports of sugar, allowed by the other European powers in their trade arrangements. Heretofore, Russia has been allowed to export only 200,000 tons a year. The powers have lately given her permission to export 350,000 tons between the present time and Sept. 1, 1912, and 250,000 tons more between that time and Sept. 1, 1913. Great Britain, which has always been quite a buyer of Russian sugar, has been buying Cuban sugar, but has not been nearly so large a buyer of that sugar, because Russia has been allowed to export so freely. For that reason, Cuban sugar has not been so expensive to the American buyer as it would have been if Great Britain had been making heavy purchases.

"The wholesale price of cane granulated sugar at Duluth is now $5.08 per hundredweight and of beet sugar, $5.98 per hundredweight. It may be that the price will go up a little in the summer, after the fruits begin to arrive on the various markets in large quantities. Just now the demand for sugar is at a very low ebb. When fruits come in large quantities there is always quite a demand for sugar for preserving purposes. I do not expect, however, to see sugar much higher than it now is at any time this year. I don't think there is any chance at all of it going as high as it did last summer, when it was about 75 cents over the present price. It was higher then than it had been for about a quarter of a century. The price was boosted by the shortness of the Cuban crop of 1910-1911, and the bad outlook for the European sugar beet crop of 1911."

HOUSE SPENDS $8,500,000 AN HOUR ON HARBOR BILL

Passes Measure Carrying $26,250,000 By Unanimous Vote.

Senatorial Precedent Jolted By New Men—Other Washington Items.

Washington, March 20.—The house unanimously passed the rivers and harbors appropriation bill carrying upward of $26,250,000, late yesterday. The measure went through in quick order, the appropriation being at the rate of more than $8,500,000 an hour.

Twenty of the appropriation items and an equal number of survey items were for work or investigations in Florida, the home state of Chairman Sparkman of the committee. That drew the fire of Minority Leader Mann.

"If there was ever an example of desirability of states maintaining their representatives in congress," he said, ironically, "it is to be found here. The gentleman from Florida, now risen to the head of this important committee, having seen to it that every river and harbor in this state was cared for, now provides here for surveys of every harbor, inlet, outlet, river, creek and spring in Florida. When the Panama canal is completed, I have no doubt that steamers drawing twenty feet will be able to pass through the canal and visit every part of Florida."

Mr. Sparkman defended the items and Mr. Mann did not press his opposition.

Wool Schedule Up Again.

With the free sugar bill and excise tax out of the way, Democratic members of the ways and means committee are free to tackle again the wool schedule, which is considered the knottiest problem they have to deal with at this session of congress. The committee will begin work with the free raw wool sentiment strong. Chairman Underwood is known to be opposed to a free wool bill.

Take Part In Maine Memorial.

The senate agreed to adjourn on Saturday in time to participate in the Maine memorial exercises.

Some Army Methods.

Luke E. Wright, former secretary of war, told the house committee investigating the Maj. Beecher B. Ray case, of some things which some army officers are alleged to do to circumvent orders, to get convenient change of assignment. The committee is trying to find out whether Maj. Ray did any political work for President Taft in 1908. A letter from Ray to the secretary of war beginning "My dear secretary" was read, and Senator Bulkeley thought it unusual for an officer to address the secretary so.

"Yes. It's against the regulations," said Wright. "Officers are supposed to communicate with the secretary through military channels, but they often see the secretary when accompanied by congressmen. The regulation which forbids enlisting congressional aid is overlooked. Families of officers, for instance, get the help of congressmen sometimes without consulting the officer."

Wright could not tell much directly about the Ray case.

Coal Situation Starts Bills.

Prospects of a coal strike has stirred members of both houses of congress to action. Senator Townsend introduced a bill to provide a federal investigation of any controversy affecting interstate commerce, and Representative Esch proposed a similar measure in the house. Senator Townsend's bill is similar to one he introduced when a member of the house several years ago.

Senatorial Precedents Jarred.

Senatorial precedent, which was jarred Monday by Senator Lea of Tennessee when he held up appropriations for three public buildings, received another jolt when Senator Kenyon of Iowa gave notice of a motion to reconsider the vote by which the bill providing for a public building in St. George, Utah, passed the senate on Saturday.

Older senators are startled at the movement of their younger associates against the erection of federal buildings in small towns. In advising Senator Lea, who is the youngest senator, against antagonizing the will of the senate, they have contended that he violated senatorial courtesy in presenting his motion for reconsideration of the Wyoming bills in the absence of the senators from that state.

Senator Lea said that, having entered the fight, he would not retreat. He will not yield either to persuasion or even hints of ostracism in his opposition of the long established methods. He is utterly opposed to the policy by which there has been almost no interference by senators with public building bills.

Both the Utah bill and the Wyoming bills have been transmitted to the house, but it is expected that all of them will be returned when the formal motion for reconsideration will be made. Active opposition is expected.

Doing Wiley's Work.

Dr. A. S. Mitchell, chief of the St. Paul laboratory of the bureau of chemistry, assumed office yesterday as a temporary member of the pure food board to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley. Dr. R. F. Doolittle remains acting chief of the bureau and chairman of the board.

"I believe in laws which will drive the adulterer out of business and in principle I think we all agree on that," said Dr. Mitchell, "even although we may differ as to ways and means."

BRYAN FAILS TO TELL PREFERENCE

Speaks at Dinner in Honor of His Birthday in Lincoln.

Lincoln, Neb., March 20.—Representative Democrats of the state and nation who declare allegiance to the Progressive wing of the party, conferred in Lincoln yesterday on questions of party policy and last night paid tribute to William J. Bryan at a banquet given in his honor on the occasion of his fifty-second birthday. On the eve of a strenuous presidential campaign and with members of the party over the country waiting to hear an expression from Mr. Bryan on the question of presidential preferences the function took on more than usual significance.

The set speeches of the evening avoided as a rule the personal preference of the speakers.

Mr. Bryan was the last speaker. His remarks were brief and along general lines. He disappointed the crowd when he failed to announce his position in preference for the presidency.

SHOE MACHINERY MEN ALL PLEAD NOT GUILTY.

Boston, Mass., March 20.—Sidney Winslow, Jr., William Barbour, George W Brown, Edwin P. Hurd and Elmer P. Howe, directors of the United Shoe Machinery company, who are under indictment on charges of maintaining a monopoly in interest of shoe machinery business, pleaded not guilty in the United States district court. They were held on $10,000 each for trial at a date not yet fixed.

WANT TO BAR "HELLO" FROM TELEPHONE USAGE.

Elgin, Ill., March 20.—"Hello" as a common salutation in telephonic communication will be discontinued in favor of a more businesslike and a timesaving phrase, if plans of delegates to a conference in Elgin of chief operators of telephone companies operating through Northern Illinois are successful. All the delegates went on record in favor of abolishing the time-worn "hello" and giving preference to phrases such as "This is Smith & Co." or "This is 456." A plea to patrons of the twenty telephone companies represented at the conference to adopt the new style of greeting will be made by circular letters.

ANOTHER ARREST FOR NEWARK, OHIO, LYNCHING.

Chicago, March 20.—Samuel A. Holler, charged with having participated in the lynching of Detective Carl Etherington at Newark, Ohio, July 8, 1910, has been arrested here. The lynching was the outcome of a "wet" and "dry" fight in Liking county, Ohio. Several men have been sent to prison for the lynching.

To Welcome Lawrence Children.

Lawrence, Mass., March 20.—Children of Lawrence textile workers who were sent to New York, Philadelphia and other places to be cared for during the strike, will be brought back here for a general welcoming demonstration on Sunday, March 31. By the end of the month, it is believed that normal working conditions will be restored in most of the families.

SUN WORSHIPPER IS INDICTED TWICE MORE.

Chicago, March 20.—Two indictments were returned against Otoman Sear Adusht Hanish, leader and founder of the Mazdaznan (sun worshippers) cult by federal grand jury yesterday. One, containing seven counts charges Hanish with shipping obscene literature from one state to another by express. The second indictment charges he made improper use of the mails by sending advertising matter regarding the alleged obscene books through the mails.

Hanish will be arraigned at an early date and the government will demand that his bonds be increased to $20,000. He is at liberty on a bond of $10,000.

The indictment of Hanish came after a rigid inquiry. More than fifty witnesses testified. It is said that the inquisition will not end with the indictment of the cult leader, but that other members of the colony may be indicted.

Cook Is Council President.

Seattle, Mont., March 20.—The new city council elected Robert B. Hasketh, a labor representative, president. He is a member of the waiters' union, and at the time of his election as councilman was a restaurant cook.

Mayor Cotterill, who was inaugurated Monday, reappointed Claud C. Bannick chief of police.

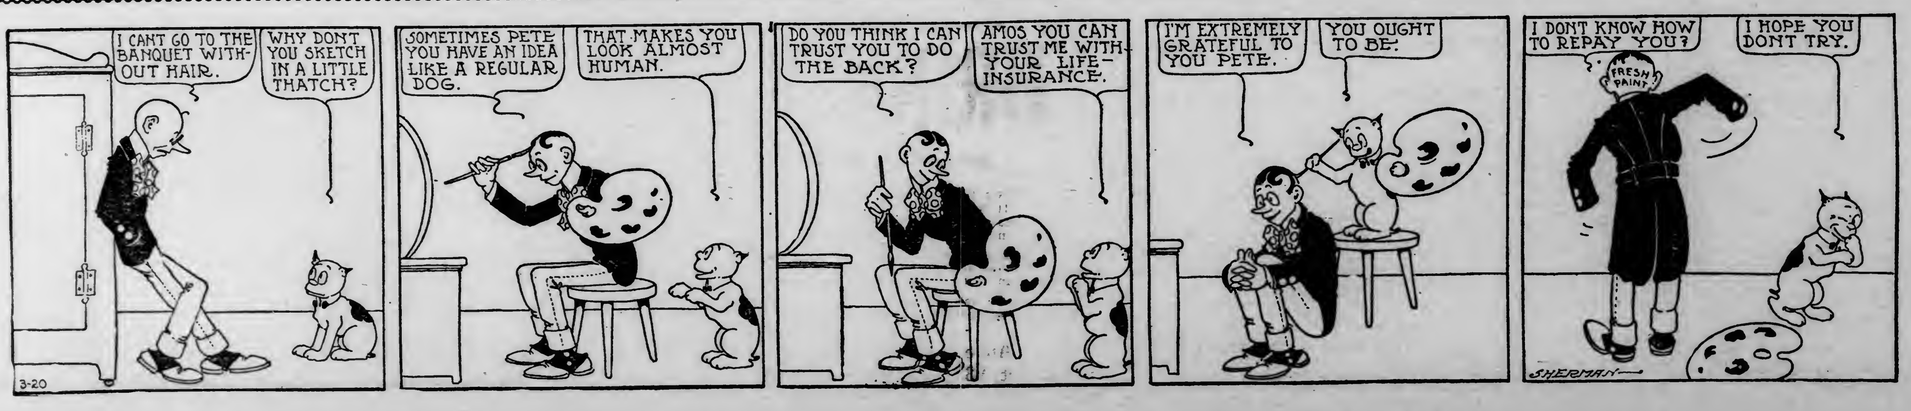
HIGH ART WITH A VENGEANCE - - - - - By C. L. SHERMAN



YOU WILL NOTICE the best dressed men on the street—men most critical of their attire—are wearing Morse made clothes. It's because the styles are a little better, the patterns a little more exclusive, the "lines" a little smarter, the tailoring of higher standard—in short, the whole suit is made distinctive and possesses individuality.

TWENTIETH CENTURY EVANGELISM THE THEME

Second Convention Session of Men and Religion Movement Held.

Clean Living and Free Giving Not Only Requirements.

"Twentieth Century Evangelism" was the subject of a talk by Charles R. Drum of New York, before the men in attendance at the second convention session of the Men and Religion Forward Movement at the Y. M. C. A. this morning.

As a basis for his talk, Mr. Drum quoted the golden text of the movement, which is "Now thanks be unto God who leads us forth into triumph with the Annointed One and who diffuses by us the significance of Him in every place."

Mr. Drum stated that this can only be accomplished by giving the best a man has to work, Bible study, concrete expression of love in social service, and having hope and faith in personal efforts.

"We must have a scientific, sympathetic understanding of boys and men and have both men and money for missions," he said.

"We must have an intimate knowledge of Christ so as to be able to live the poem of a good life and make our lives of bearing and influence on the other lives about us.

"Men who give largely and live well are not thereby excused from knowing the definition of twentieth century evangelism and living strictly within its bounds.

"We need and must have pastors, evangelists and laymen who will daily deliver the entire message of the movement everywhere, by every method of expression and influence.

"The supreme effort must be with you—you must work for the formation rather than the reformation. Subjective faith grows into the objective and fruits in service or it is valueless.

Go Outside the Church.

"Every layman of the future must be a sharer of responsibility and be active in the cause which he should represent. We must go outside the church and carry the glad message to those we cannot reach in the church.

"There are a great many changes necessary before all the good possible will have come out of the church and movements of this kind.

"Some church members will have to be converted. There must be an effort to create a feeling of responsibility in good men absorbed in life's cares. The theory of a delegated responsibility must be changed. It is a relic of the dark ages. The layman makes a mistake when he assumes that the pastor of his church can do his religious work for him.

"We need a better administrative and executive leadership in the church of the future. The pastor must be the overseer, a leader and trainer of men and boys.

"To the man outside the church, the church must make a great appeal. Men must be invited to give of service rather than to receive."

The address of Mr. Drum was followed by a talk by Dr. I. J. Lansing, who spoke to the men on "The Spiritual Value of Social Emphasis."

Dr. Lansing spoke on the value of prayer and the receiving of the spirit of God through the medium of prayer. "What manifestations did you expect when you prayed to be surrounded by the spirit of God?" asked the speaker. "Did you look for some serious hold upon you? Did you want something unusual? Did you get it? In what way was it manifested to you?

"You must have human love as well as Divine love. You must love your neighbor. You must be humanity forgiving. You must have a feeling of tenderness for all things good. If you pray for and receive the spirit of God, you will have all these things and more. Everything will look different to you. You will see from a new standpoint. Your vision will be improved. It is the vision you want. It is the feeling for which men hunger.

"This can only be obtained through God and it comes through prayer and knowing your God.

"Have you ever known any one who was not loved? If you have, you have seen a man hungry for love—love for his God and his fellow man.

"You men know the love of the father, the mother, the wife, the children. What has these different kinds of love meant to you? The world needs love. Love can rule the world. We are all helped through love.

Can Solve Problems.

"The problems presented by the working man can be solved through love. We are controlled by strange emotions. Why, recently I went to a great political meeting and the men were so swayed that they interrupted the speaker from time to time while they threw their umbrellas in the air, tossed their hats, pounded upon the floor and yelled. Do you suppose those men were so enthusiastic in church the next Sunday?

"People are swayed by emotions which we sometimes cannot explain. Many are against emotional religion. People are afraid of revivals. Yet people are swayed in other directions, in other ways and think nothing of it.

"Be joyful, bring sunshine to those about you, wear a smile, be happy yourself and inspire others to your happiness by telling them how you found it.

"Some people think religion is best expressed in tears. Do you feel best when you feel worst? Or do you feel worst when you feel best? Some have the idea that we are good when we weep and wicked when we laugh.

"There are times when it is fitting and proper to weep. The world abounds in sunshine and happiness if we can but educate ourselves to find it. The value of a smile is great. A laugh is always a help. Piety is not necessarily associated with tears.

"Be bright and get the most out of life. Help others to enjoy their lives. Teach them how to live. If you have a surplus of sunshine, distribute it to some one who needs it. Bring joy and happiness to others, for by so doing you yourself will be made happy. You lose nothing, it all helps and makes your own life all the more worth living."

School for Churchmen.

The convention going on this week is really a school in church matters for the committees of the Men and Religion Forward Movement and for all others who care to attend.

The meeting at the Y. M. C. A. this morning was well attended and the delegates were enthusiastic over the remarks of the speakers.

This afternoon there was another convention meeting at the Central building. W. C. Pearce spoke on "The Inter-church Responsibility." David G. Latshaw spoke on "Community Extension"; J. A. Whitmore delivered an address on "The Practical Application to the Individual."

C. W. Hensel addressed the women's meeting which was held this afternoon at the First Presbyterian church.

The institutes will be held at an early hour this evening as they were yesterday. They will be followed by the platform meetings.

The institutes begin at 6:45 and are divided as follows:

1. Bible study—Pilgrim Congregational church.
2. Boys' work—First Presbyterian church.
3. Evangelism and community extension—Swedish Mission church.
4. Missions—St. Paul's Episcopal church.
5. —Social service—First M. E. church.

At 8 o'clock this evening platform meetings will be held at the First Methodist, Pilgrim Congregational, First Presbyterian and Swedish Mission churches.

Charles R. Drum and David R. Latshaw will be in charge of the platform meeting at the First Methodist church, the topic of which is: "Evangelism and Community Extension."

"Boys' Work," is the subject of the meeting at the Pilgrim Congregational church. J. A. Whitmore is the leader.

"Social Service" will be discussed by Dr. Lansing at the First Presbyterian church and "Bible Study" will be discussed by W. C. Pearce at the Swedish Mission church.

MUST MOVE ITS WIRES

Telephone Company Must Provide Passage When Houses Are Moved.

Judge Dibell Upholds City Ordinance Passed in 1907.

Telephone companies must stand the expense of cutting, removing or raising their own wires for house-movers.

Judge Homer B. Dibell of the district court, in a lengthy opinion handed down today upheld the constitutionality of the house-moving ordinance passed by the city council in 1907 and which was slightly amended in 1907.

In findings filed today in the case of the Duluth Telephone company vs. Andrew Anderson, Judge Dibell has decided that the telephone company cannot recover $61 from Anderson, a house-mover, for the expense of cutting and raising wires to allow the passage of a building on a public street.

Anderson, it appeared, secured a permit from the city to move the building along certain streets and avenues in the downtown portion of the city. Telephone wires, operated and owned by the Duluth Telephone company obstructed the passage of the building. Anderson, in compliance with the city ordinance, requested the telephone company to raise the wires. The company did so, but assessed the costs on Anderson. Anderson refused to pay and the company started suit.

As the action brought by the telephone company is in the nature of a test case, Judge Dibell was called upon to pass upon the constitutionality of the city ordinance. Wilson, Morgan & Morgan appeared in behalf of the Duluth Telephone company and Henry F. Greene was attorney for Anderson.

The ordinance provides that the cost of the removal or raising of the wires for the accommodation of the house-mover shall be paid by the telephone company. The constitutionality of the law was attacked by the attorneys for the telephone company on the grounds that the council overstepped its legislative authority in compelling the company to pay for such services. Under a state law, telephone companies are allowed the use of public high ways, in so far as their poles and wires do not interefere with ordinary business or traffic.

"Over and over again, it is held" said Judge Dibell in his opinion "in various connections, that the use of a highway by a house-mover is not an ordinary one. It is, however, a useful use, a convenient and customary use, a permissable use, one which may be authorized by a municipal legislature and one which, in this state, at least, might be validly prohibited altogether.

Important Question.

"The question presented is of some importance. Within the last few years several railroads have condemned or purchased entrance into the heart of the city. The city has condemned or purchased for school buildings or parks and the county for public buildings. Improved property is pretty well fenced in with telephone wires. It is, of course, an economic loss, which some one meets, if buildings are destroyed when they might be used. In some cases they could not be moved unless telephone wires were cut or raised. It should be possible to avoid such losses."

In his opinion Judge Dibell also says: "To my mind, the legislation embodied in the ordinance, is harsh and unwise, but I am not passing upon its wisdom. The court is asked to say that it is unconstitutional. Looking at it from a purely indifferent standpoint, it would seem just that the house-mover should pay.

"The telephone company, however, is a free trespasser, tying to buildings which it does not serve and passing over property which gets no service from it. The company ought to be, and doubtless is, relieved of many requests for raising the wires.

"The plaintiff is granted a valuable right when it is allowed perpetually to use the highways without compensation in carrying on a business, which, though public-serving, is properly undertaken for private gain. The defendant asks to interrupt the plaintiff's business but for a few moments.

"Of course, under the guise of police power, an unreasonable burden cannot be put upon the company. There is no claim of such thing and no issue upon it is tendered. In my judgment the question whether the company should be required to raise its own wires at its own expense, is a legislative question and not a judicial one. The trial court should not hold that the ordinance is unconstitutional."

WESTERN STEEL ASSETS SOLD TO TRUST COMPANY.

Seattle, Wash., March 20.—All assets of the Western Steel corporation were sold yesterday to the Metropolitan Trust Company of New York for $720,000, this being the amount of the company's claim against the corporation for money loaned.

The sale by the referee in bankruptcy marks the final chapter in the history of the Western Steel corporation. It was capitalized at $20,000,000 and its promoters asserted the assets were $7,500,000, promising holders of common stock dividends of 20 per cent per annum. The assets of the company were a steel plant at Irondale, Wash., and lands in Washington and British Columbia said to contain timber, iron and coal.

AMUSEMENTS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.

Amusement Notes.

The rapid rise of the two Farber girls, who are appearing at the Orpheum this week, is one of the most talked of events in Western vaudeville circles at the present time.

The Farber girls were born in Moline, Ind. Their mother, who accompanies them on their tour, is a former professional actress and appeared in many large musical productions. The girls gave early promise of talent as entertainers, and when they moved to New York with their mother they frequently appeared before clubs and small societies in New York and vicinity. This winter they started west to visit their uncle in Los Angeles and stopped off for a few days with friends in Chicago. While there they visited the Majestic theater one afternoon. One of the performers on the bill had just had a quarrel with the manager and quit without notice. The manager was frantically trying to secure another act, when the Chicago friends of the girls, whom he knew, told him the Farber girls were in the theater. The manager didn't even stop to inquire what they could do, but borrowed some costumes for them and hurried them onto the stage. They had barely half an hour to make up and outline their act. They scored an instantaneous hit, and were continued on the bill the remainder of the week, being promptly booked for a tour of the circuit. Duluth is only their fifth week.

Did you ever have a tooth pulled? If so, you will enoy the act offered by Frank Atchison Ely and Mabel Florence at the Empress. If you never sat in a dentist's chair you will laugh just the same, because this is one of the brightest and neatest sketches than an Empress audience has been treated to in a long time. "The Kleptomaniacs" is the title of this clever comedy. John C. Rice and Sally Cohen appeared in it for two seasons in all the big vaudeville theaters of the country, and it has made get their troubles. The two artists get their trobules. The two artists who enact the piece at the Empress are clever people, and every bit of the fun is extracted from this bright comedy.

The scene is laid in the office of a lady dentist. A young man goes there to have an aching tooth extracted. While he is waiting he hears the agonizing cries and groans of another, suffering in an adjoining room. It about discourages him and he is on the point of leaving when the fair dentist makes her appearance. In the meantime he has discovered a lady's gold watch hanging to the sleeve of his coat, apparently caught there while pushing his way through a crowd on the street. While in the office the dentist recites the circumstances of the loss of her watch, and a few questions convinves the young man that he has it. This fact becomes known to the dentist, and while the patient is under the influence of gas, she takes a watch from his pocket, discovering, just as he is reviving, that in her haste she got his watch instead of her own. The incidents that follow straighten matters out, but not until a whole lot of fun has been had out of the situation.

Why do we make our Clam Chowder in the most expensive way?

Because that is the only right way.

Every clam is thoroughly washed, examined and opened by hand. The ordinary process of steaming is much cheaper. But it is not reliable. Our way positively insures fresh clams and a pure invigorating broth.

Of course this chowder includes clams, cut small, salt pork, cubed potatoes, tomatoes and all the other good things.

News and Views of Minnesota Politics

Roosevelt's Defeat.

The defeat of Roosevelt in North Dakota is a crushing blow to his candidacy. He had been counting on the state of his range-riding days. The primary was the first in the nation, and the Roosevelt campaign committee had plans all made for pointing with pride to the Flickertail state as having set aside La Follette for the leader of the new nationalism. New energy will be needed in the colonel's campaign to offset the effect of North Dakota's action.

On the other hand, the La Follette men have taken on new wings of hope. They were fearful for a time, although they did not admit it. Gifford Pinchot and other deserters from the La Follette camp had invaded North Dakota with plausible arguments. Many Stalwarts and many Progressives of the state factions had rallied to Roosevelt. La Follette had staunch friends, but they were placed on the defensive.

Then "Fighting Bob" himself entered the lists. The pendulum swung, and in the last few days even the Roosevelt men admitted there was no hope. The colonel was decisively repudiated by the state.

La Follette has no chance for the nomination, but he is still in the fight for the leadership of Progressive Republicanism. He still shows the fighting spirit, and it will endure up to the convention. He has announced that he will visit Minnesota, South Dakota, California and other Western states, and will continue his campaign regardless of consequences to Roosevelt. The result can only be greater certainty of Taft's nomination.

La Follette in Minnesota.

Reports brought to St. Paul yesterday by members of the Democratic state central committee were that La Follette's chances are not altogether blighted in Minnesota. There is much La Follette sentiment in the Seventh district, and that will be a fighting ground between Roosevelt and the Wisconsin senator. The Ninth district, especially the Red River valley portion of it, is imbued with some of the spirit of North Dakota, and La Follette is an important factor in the fight for delegates there. The Wisconsin senator's chances are materially improved by the North Dakota result. In the other Minnesota districts the contest is between Roosevelt and Taft.

Harmonious Meeting.

The meeting of the Democratic state central committee was a harmonious one, despite the rumors of war. Dan Lawler was mild in supporting his primary plan and the burden of supporting it fell on Senator S. A. Stockwell of Minneapolis and Senator Julius Coller of Shakopee. The opponents of the plan made clear the fact that their opposition was not against the primary in the abstract, but against the concrete plan of holding a primary for the election of delegates to the national convention, without statutory provisions for its regulation. Mr. Lawler's plan was pronounced a makeshift that might produce a travesty on a primary, with great damage to the Democratic cause in the state.

Had the plan offered provided for a mere advisory expression of the opinion of the voters on the presidential candidates at the precinct caucuses, the result might have been different. As it was, the members of the committee were not disposed to make an experiment that might have serious consequences if it should fail.

Some little acrimony was shown when the old question of the country against the cities arose in fixing the basis of representation at the state convention. Senator Julius Coller of Shakopee offered the resolution that the basis be one delegate to each county for each 125 votes cast for William J. Bryan in 1908 and two delegates-at-large from each county. James Morrisey of Crookston offered a substitute resolution that the basis be one delegate to each 150 votes and three at-large. The latter basis would cut the Hennepin county delegation from 131 to 108, would give Ramsey county eighty instead of ninety-five and St. Louis thirty-three instead of thirty-eight.

The city members of the committee objected vigorously and declared that because the Republican legislature had declared a man in the country is entitled to more representation than a man in the city, a Democratic gathering should not do likewise. They were supported by many country members and Mr. Morrisey's substitute resolution was voted down.

The representation for the different counties is:

Aitkin, 5; Anoka, 7; Becker, 8; Beltrami, 7; Benton, 8; Big Stone, 7; Blue Earth, 19; Brown, 14; Carlton, 6; Carver, 11; Cass, 5; Chippewa, 8; Chisago, 5; Clay, 11; Clearwater, 3; Cook, 3; Cottonwood, 6; Crow Wing, 7; Dakota, 16; Dodge, 6; Douglas, 10; Faribault, 10; Fillmore, 11; Freeborn, 10; Goodhue, 11; Grant, 5; Hennepin, 131; Houston, 8; Hubbard, 5; Isanti, 6; Itasca, 7; Jackson, 10; Kanabec, 4; Kandiyohi, 9; Kittson, 6; Koochiching, 5; Lac Qui Parle, 7; Lake, 3; Le Sueur, 16; Lincoln, 7; Lyon 10; McLeod, 14; Mahnomen, 3; Marshall, 8; Martin, 10; Meeker, 11; Mille Lacs, 5; Morrison, 14; Mower, 12; Murray, 8; Nicollet, 9; Nobles, 9; Norman, 7; Olmsted, 15; Otter Tail, 21; Pine, 9; Pipestone, 6; Polk, 17; Pope, 6; Ramsey, 95; Red Lake, 8; Redwood, 11; Renville, 13; Rice, 15; Rock, 6; Roseau, 6; St. Louis, 38; Scott, 14; Sherburne, 5; Sibley, 11; Stearns, 33; Steele, 12; Stevens, 7; Swift, 9; Todd, 12; Traverse, 6; Wabasha, 13; Wadena, 6; Waseca, 11; Washington, 11; Watonwan, 6; Wilkin, 7; Winona, 27; Wright, 12; Yellow Medicine, 8. Total, 1,039.

No resolution indorsing Woodrow Wilson was introduced. The sentiment was overwhelmingly for Wilson, but the Wilson men were not inclined to follow the precedent established four years ago when Governor Johnson was indorsed by the central committee. The circumstances were different at that time, as Governor Johnson was a Minnesota candidate.

The delegate convention will be held at a late date and the sentiment also favored a late nominating convention. The call will be issued by the executive committee and will probably provide for a convention some time after Aug. 15.

The dates for the primaries to the delegate convention will be fixed by the executive committee in issuing the official call for the convention.

Roosevelt Organization.

A Roosevelt organization for St. Louis county will be effected at a meeting to be held at the city hall here tonight. About 600 St. Louis county Republicans have signed the call for the meeting and many enthusiastic Roosevelt workers are expected to attend. There will be a large delegation from the range, where the Roosevelt men are particularly strong. Senator James P. Boyle of Eveleth and Representative Cleon T. Knapp of Chisholm will be among the speakers.

The Eighth district is counted as one of the doubtful districts of the state. The Taft and Roosevelt state organizations are both claiming the delegation from this district, but the contest will be close. If Col. Roosevelt can be induced to come to Duluth for a speech on his coming trip West, the Roosevelt men believe the district will be swung for them. The Taft club of Duluth has been unable thus far to obtain a speaker for the proposed banquet but they are hopeful that the national committee will be able to send a speaker of national reputation before the primaries preceding the state convention.

Republican Meeting.

The call for the meeting of the Republican state central committee to fix dates for the state convention may be expected any day. Chairman E. E. Smith, Governor A. O. Eberhart, Insurance Commissioner J. A. O. Preus and Executive Clerk Archie Hayes held a meeting Monday, at which the date for the meting was set. Mr. Preus said after the meeting that no announcement of the date would be made for a few days. He would say nothing as to anything else that transpired.

Washburn Indorses Taft.

J. L. Washburn has written to Thomas S. Wood from Tryon, N. C., indorsing President Taft for a renomination and denouncing the candidacy of Col. Roosevelt. Mr. Washburn sets forth his views in a lengthy letter, which Mr. Wood has made public.

Unit Rule Doomed.

The unit rule as heretofore used in state Democratic conventions is doomed. The rule was vigorously attacked by speakers at the meeting of the state central committee yesterday and a recommendation was made to the convention that the rule be abolished. Under that plan it will be possible for Minnesota to send a divided delegation to the national convention. Judging from the sentiment expressed at the committee meeting there will be no division in the delegation this year. It will be solid for Wilson.

Given the speaker and the floor leader as open rivals, it is hard to get coherent and united action. At the same time Mr. Underwood is pushing his measures with vigor and efficiency, and there is no indication of a lack of co-operation on the speaker's part. But among the followers of each there is a growing spirit of antagonism that makes Democrats eager for party success in the presidential election think that it may be the part of wisdom to look outside of congressional halls for the presidential candidate.

Of course in Washington, and in congressional circles the talk is all for Clark. Today he is beyond doubt the leading Democratic candidate. Six weeks ago Governor Wilson held that not wholly enviable position. It is not wholly enviable because the man in the lead inevitably arouses the antagonism of the friends of those who lag behind. Much of the Clark strength today is due to the fact that friends of Harmon and Underwood are throwing their strength to him, rather than permit Wilson to add to his own following.

For and Against Clark.

The argument being advanced for Clark by his able chieftains, ex-Senator Dubois and Harry Sawyer, is that his nomination will avert any possible split in the Democratic party. They urge, and rightfully, that nothing in the Clark record can justify antagonism on the part of Mr. Bryan on the one hand or Mr. Hearst on the other. That Champ Clark has been a consistent and persistent Democrat ever since he entered public life is a fact well known to everybody in politics.

But in answer to this argument the friends of Governor Harmon and Governor Wilson offer this: Champ Clark's Democracy is unquestionable, but is there anything in his career or record that would enable us to appeal for Republican votes in his behalf? He is a sturdy Pike county, Missouri Democrat, not to be ranked in any degree as a progressive, but rather one of the Bourbons. If it be true that the Democrats, in order to win, must get Republican votes, Clark is almost the last man with whom to get them. Wilson would get many. Everybody knows that Harmon would garner more Republican votes in states east of the Mississippi than any other Democratic nominee. Carter Harrison has always won his victories by the aid of Republican votes. But the nomination of Champ Cark would mean reliance on Democratic votes alone for victory.

It is with that argument that the anti-Clark headquarters meet the Clark charge that either Harmon or Wilson will encounter the antagonism of either Bryan or Hearst. Perhaps one argument is as good as another, but in any event after the delegates are all chosen the one question asked at the convention will be, who can most surely carry New York and its adjacent states, and Ohio. The question of personal antagonism by even such great leaders as Mr. Bryan will be given secondary consideration.

Redfield For Vice President.

Some weeks ago I referred to a growing sentiment among Democrats for the nomination of Representative William C. Redfield of New York, for vice president. It was then pointed out that Mr. Redfield's strength proceeded from the fact that he is a successful manufacturer who has made the best tariff reform speeches to which this congress has listened. His latest speech made before the National Democratic Club of New York has been made a public document at the request of Representative Foster of Illinois. Something of its tenor may be judged from this brief excerpt:

"The Democratic party would substitute industrial self-help for tariff protection. By this it does not mean rash, hasty, or even radical removals of existing duties, but reducing them with moderation to a revenue basis By self-help it means that our manufacturers shall exercise that constant and searching self-criticism into their own plans, methods, and management, which should mark every progressive producer, but which is little likely to exist, and has in many cases not existed, whereas by reason of the tariff a profit has been assured by law. But self-help in industry means more than this. It means replacing doubt with hope and fear with courage. Protection is the gospel of security for the incompetent and inefficient at the national cost. Self-help is the gospel of competence and efficiency to the general gain."

A year ago Mr. Redfield was unknown in national politics. Today he is looked upon as a coming man. The reason is that he has concentrated his efforts in congress upon the tariff issue and speaks of it as one having specific knowledge. Few men have won prominence more swiftly than he, and his success shows strikingly how much more the tariff issue appeals to public attention today than any other matter of political controversy.

Formal Re-Opening of the Henricksen Retail Jewelry Store

Plans Regarding the Future of This Well-Known and Reliable Jewelry Establishment

The Henricksen Jewelry Co. has decided to retain and continue the retail jewelry business at 332 West Superior street, Providence Building. In view of the repeated announcements which we made during the Summer and Fall of 1911, that this retail store was to be closed out and disposed of by us, we feel it is due to our friends and loyal patrons and the public generally to make an explanation of the reasons why we find it necessary and desirable to make this change in our plans.

In the first place, let us state that our announcement that we would discontinue the retail jewelry business was bona fide. After twenty years of successful service to the people of Duluth and vicinity we found our wholesale jobbing and manufacturing department grown to such proportions as to demand our full time and attention, to the detriment of our retail stores. We therefore advertised our retail store, stock, fixtures, lease, and good will for sale, in the National Jewelers' journals.

We found a customer who agreed to take over the retail store, fixtures, lease and balance of stock left on hand. Our recent big sales were held for the purpose of reducing our $100,000 stock to the figure at which our prospective customer agreed to buy. When the time of transfer, Jan. 1, 1912, came, for reasons unknown to us, this party was unwilling or unable to close the deal as per original agreement, asking us to make unreasonable concessions which would compel a sacrifice on our part of what had taken twenty years to build up; the business which we have nursed from its infancy with pleasure and pride to ourselves and to all our friends. In the meantime we have negotiated with others with a view to effecting a satisfactory disposal of the retail store, but without results. We therefore beg to announce that

We Will Continue the Jewelry Store at 332 W. Superior St.

In Addition to Our Wholesale Business at 201-2-3-4 Providence Building

With a complete New Stock throughout, confining ourselves to the exclusive high-grade jeweler's line, with repairing and manufacturing department fully equipped for all demands, with a view to offering the public at all times the best and choicest in jewelry and silverware that the market affords.

Everything is to be marked in plain figures. Strictly One Price to one and all. Correct representation guaranteed, and the best values consistent with right and just business methods.

We ask the continuance of the patronage of all people who appreciate value and artistic effect in Jewelry, Watches, Diamonds, Fine China, Cut Glass, Bric-a-Brac.

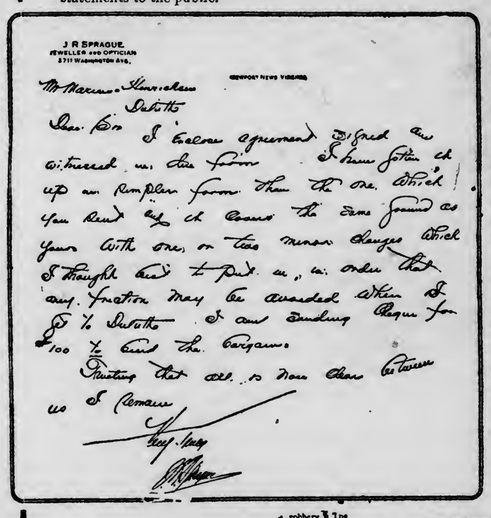
We hereby extend to everyone a cordial invitation to visit our retail store on a tour of inspection, for genuine bargains, and particularly at the time of our formal reopening, announcement of which will appear in the daily papers.

To Our Patrons and the Public!

It has come to our notice that since the announcement of the continuation of our retail business at the old stand, competitors, who were no doubt desirous of seeing us quit the field, and some other skeptical citizens, have taken it upon themselves to question the sincerity of our advertisements and announcements.

We take great pride in our record of dealing fairly and above board with our customers and the public, and, therefore, feel it our duty to correct the impression that might be given by the above mentioned parties and to set at rest once and for all any feeling these damaging remarks may have created concerning the truthfulness and sincerity of our statements to the public.



J. R. SPRAGUE, JEWELLER AND OPTICIAN, 2711 Washington Ave.

Mr Marcus Hendricksen
Duluth Minn.
Dear Sir
I believe agreement I had with you interested me, also from the letter which I received from you I have gotten the impression from them that you would like to have me come to your store, or the nearest place that I thought and to put me in the order that any fraction may be awarded when I get ½ Duluth I can handle your Agency for $100 ½ and the bargains. Trusting that all is now clear between us I remain
Yours truly
J. R. Sprague

Our reputation for the strictest business and personal integrity we consider as our greatest and most valuable asset. That our word is as good as our bond has been a matter to us of most pardonable pride during the quarter of a century we have been in business, and it is to a strict adherence to this principle, we attribute the great growth of this jewelry business.

We reiterate our statement that the announcement of selling out our retail store was bona fide. The deal was consummated and earnest money was given, as the adjoining letter shows.

Following the closing of the deal, as per the printed letter, Mr. Sprague's store in Newport News, Va., was closed out at auction by Mr. Hand, the same auctioneer who conducted our sale last summer, which latter sale was held for the purpose of reducing our $100,000 stock to the inventory figure called for in our agreement with Mr. Sprague. Note was taken of the closing out of Mr. Sprague's store by the Jewelers' Circular of June, 1911, as per extract shown below the reproduction of Mr. Sprague's letter.

James L. Hand, jewelers' auctioneer, is at present closing out the stock of J. R. Sprague, Newport News, Va. Mr Sprague has purchased the controlling interest in the Hendricksen Jewelry Co at Duluth, Minn., and will shortly remove there, when the concern will be known as the Sprague-Hendricksen Co., with Mr Sprague as president and manager. This auction sale closes one of the finest jewelry stores in old Virginia.

From the Jewelers' Circular issue of June 1911.

We shall be pleased to furnish further evidence in proof of the good faith of our statements to any person interested and we guarantee in this, as in all our other business relations, only absolutely correct representations.

TWO BEATEN IN NORTH DAKOTA.

The result of the North Dakota presidential primary, the first ever held, is most interesting, but a little puzzling.

It is a great personal triumph for La Follette, a sad blow at Roosevelt's chances for the presidential nomination, and a humiliating rebuke to Taft.

But though La Follette gets an impressive popular majority and the delegation from North Dakota, his total even after North Dakota's ten votes are added to the others he is likely to get will not be significantly large.

Though the people of North Dakota have repudiated Roosevelt by a large plurality, the vote proves what his friends have been declaring, that the people want no more of Taft and that somebody else must be nominated if the Republican party is to have a chance of winning.

President Taft, a candidate for renomination and reelection after three years in the presidency, was a negligible factor in the vote. In the returns at hand at this writing he appears to have received considerably less than 3 per cent of the total Republican vote.

Though the result in North Dakota does not clear the situation very much, it points very strongly to Taft's renomination and Taft's defeat.

The Republicans of North Dakota, who are representative American citizens of more than average public spirit and intelligence, have made it very clear indeed that they do not want any more of Taft. North Dakota's bitter opposition to Canadian reciprocity accounts for this in some measure, but the rebuke is too overwhelming and emphatic to be accounted for by that factor alone.

"Beaten to a frazzle!"

GOOD WORK!

The Democrats of Minnesota have an important duty to perform June 6, to-wit, the selection of a delegation to the Democratic national convention pledged to support a candidate for president who represents the progressive and enlightened thought of the party and the people of this state.

And the Democrats of Minnesota, through their state central committee, decided yesterday to come to Duluth to perform that duty.

And this makes it a pleasure as well as a duty. It will be a pleasure to Duluth to entertain the convention, and if we do say it ourselves it will be a pleasure to the delegates to visit Duluth. This is the first time in eight years that Duluth has had a Democratic state convention, and the first time in six years it has had a state political convention of any kind. The selection of this city as the convention place is a fitting tribute to its standing—only it doesn't stand, but goes forward all the time—in the state, and that the Democrats should have done this is not surprising in view of the fact that this was the only large community two years ago which returned a majority for the Democratic candidate for governor.

Tribute should be paid, too, to the enterprise and energy of the Duluth members of the committee who determined to get this convention for Duluth and who did get it. They showed the spirit that every citizen of Duluth ought to show under similar circumstances.

Duluth is very anxious to have its fellow citizens of Minnesota come up and get acquainted, and it means a good deal to this community to have a thousand or more representative citizens from all parts of the state come here even for a single very busy day.

Who says the Southwest isn't up to date? If ever a state got a good start and got it in a hurry it's New Mexico. She's trying to begin right abreast of Illinois.

COURT DECISIONS AND THE PEOPLE.

In two recent cases the supreme court of the United States has handed down decisions clearly and undeniably contrary to the best public policy.

In one it was held that the patent laws give holders of patents rights which foster oppressive monopoly.

In another it was held that an inefficient car repair shop worker is the "fellow servant" of a railroad employe in the operating department, so that if a brakeman is killed or injured because of poor work in the repair shops, the railroad is not to blame and can't be recovered from, because it is the "fellow servant" in the repair shops who is at fault.

There is justice, though there may be good law, in neither of these decisions, and it is imperative that congress recall both of them by enacting suitable legislation.

It is to be noted that in neither case is a constitutional question involved. Common or statute law determined both of them, so there is a chance for congress to redress the wrong by prompt legislative action.

But suppose a constitutional question had been involved in both of these cases. Congress, in such event, would be impotent. The court of final resort has the power of final veto on laws in which constitutional questions are involved. The only recourse, at present, would be an amendment to the Constitution; and in the nation or state that is a difficult thing to bring about.

In the light of this situation, Col. Roosevelt's suggestion of a recall of judicial decisions involving constitutional questions doesn't wear quite the garb of horror that President Taft and others are seeking to throw about it, even though its early adoption is extremely improbable.

As matters stand now, no matter how necessary to the public well-being a law may be, if the supreme court holds it unconstitutional there's the end of it. Only a constitutional amendment, which it takes many years to bring about if it is possible to bring it about at all, can cure the situation.

In point of fact, there is a good deal of sound sense and logic in the Colonel's suggestion, even if it has caused his opponent for the presidency an acute attack of nervous prostration at the very thought of it.

Here, in very simple terms, is what Col. Roosevelt's proposal amounts to:

The Constitutions, theoretically at least, come from the people. It is the voice of the people, expressed through constitutional conventions, which the supreme court is interpreting when it passes on a constitutional question.

When congress or a state legislature enacts any law, acting under the Constitution as it is, the lawmaking body also is interpreting the voice of the people as expressed through the constitutional conventions.

The legislature of Minnesota, for instance, passes an employer's liability law for the relief of labor and to promote the well-being of society. In so doing, the legislature impliedly expresses the belief that the people, in framing the State Constitution, intended to leave room for the passage of such a law.

The law gets into court and is carried up to the supreme court, which holds it to be unconstitutional. In other words, the court expresses its belief that the people did not intend, when they framed the Constitution, to leave room for such a law.

There is a clean-cut division of opinion, between the lawmaking branch of the government and the lawinterpreting branch of the government, as to what the people meant by their Constitution.

All Col. Roosevelt proposes is that the issue be put before the people for final decision, thus in effect asking them what they DID mean by it, anyway.

Except that the plan offers a simpler way of amending the Constitution than the people now possess, there seems nothing unfair or destructive about it.

We'd almost forgotten about her, but somehow that North Dakota primary brings Ballinger's "cow on the horizon" to mind once more. Bossy sure has grown some. She's big enough now to occupy about two horizons.

WEALTH FROM THE CLOUDS.

Not all the din that heralds a long political battle can obscure the fact that the outlook for prosperity, particularly in the Northwest and Middle West, the nation's granary, is particularly good.

And not all the alarms that the political campaign can possibly breed will be able to cast a cloud over the business situation if present indications as to this year's output from the soil bear fruit.

In every state where corn and wheat are raised the condition is the same. A deep blanket of snow covers the fields, and this practically guarantees good crops. The winter wheat situation never has been better, and the abundance of moisture that will soak into the soil when the snow melts will safeguard the spring wheat and corn crops well past any danger of the drouths that have made mischief in recent seasons.

Of course it is a little reckless to count unhatched chickens, and of course things can happen yet that will dim the rosiness of the crop outlook. But it is enough, for the present, that the outlook could not well be better for large and profitable crops this year.

And given good crops, a larger acreage and a bigger yield per acre, politics may blow itself black in the face without interfering materially with business. As a man can be inured to almost anything, so can business; and business is growing accustomed to political disturbance. There has been so much of it continuously during the turbulent Taft regime—the adjective applies, of course, to the regime and not to Taft—that business is getting into the happy condition of the man who learns to get his sleep in a boiler factory in full operation.

In short, a thing so substantial as good crops, which are as nearly assured now as they possibly can be at this time of the year, is proof against the boisterousness of politics, and the chances are that politics will disturb business less this year than in any recent presidential campaign.

Morgan has taken to buying electric plants and things in Canada. If Canada only knew it she is getting up against something a whole heap more insidious than reciprocity.

THE INCOME TAX.

Those who are declaring that the Underwood income tax bill, which passed the house yesterday, is clearly unconstitutional under the 1895 decision of the supreme court, evidently haven't read that decision lately.

But then those who launch the dreadful anathema "unconstitutional" against any measure intended to promote justice and equity and the common good seldom do stop to read any law or decisions.

That's why they have rendered their pet adjective so utterly unimpressive.

The supreme court in 1895 did not invalidate all unapportioned taxes on incomes or on persons or corporations or their business as measured by income.

It was this that President Taft had in mind when in his speech of 1908, accepting the presidential nomination, he said that in his judgment an income tax "can be devised which under the decisions of the supreme court will conform to the Constitution."

It was this that President Taft had in mind when he conceived the idea of heading off an income tax law that was about to be passed at the special session of congress in 1909 by the deft introduction of a tax on the incomes of corporations. The law providing this tax has been upheld by the courts.

And it was this that the house Democrats had in mind when, in providing for the loss of revenue consequent upon removing from the shoulders of the people the burden of the tariff tax on sugar, they devised the plan of expanding the corporation income tax law to include individuals and co-partnerships.

They are strongly buttressed by the decision of the supreme court in the 1895 income tax case, in which the majority of the court, through Chief Justice Fuller, said:

> We have considered the act only in respect of the tax on income derived from real estate and from invested personal property, and have not commented on so much of it as bears on gains or profits from business, privileges or employments, in view of the instances in which taxation on business, privileges or employments has assumed the guise of an excise tax and been sustained as such.

Though the income tax decision is thus shown to be no so sweeping as many people have understood it to be, it should be remembered that even so far as it went it was one of those famous five-to-four decisions, any one of which may be changed by a change in the membership of the court—and there have been many changes in the supreme court since 1895.

Just the same a late spring has its advantages—it delays housecleaning time.

A restaurant cook has been elected president of the council at Seattle. There should be no lack of spice to that body's proceedings.

Seventy-nine Republicans voted for the excise bill in the house. It seems that the light can penetrate to almost any place if it is strong enough and persistent enough.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

FREE FERTILIZER.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In connection with the educational campaign now being carried on by the Commercial club of this city along the line of potato-raising and land development in St. Louis county, I would strongly advise the Duluth board of public works to advertise that they have 2,500 loads of rich fertilizer on Superior street that will be given free of charge to applicants as long as it lasts. A visitor to this city who was stopping at the St. Louis hotel yesterday was seen to gaze thoughtfully at the street in front of that hostelry, and was heard to inquire of a local man how soon the spring plowing and seeding would be done, observing that the fertilizer appeared to have been spread for some time. It seems to me that the remarks of the stranger were extrmely impertinent.

I would also suggest that the Commercial club employ a photographer to take some views of Superior street between Third and Fourth avenues west, in order that people who are planning to come and reside in Duluth may see how well kept our main business thoroughfare is. One further suggestion: Why not send post-haste for Mrs. Caroline Bartlett Crane, in order that she may come and tell the board of public works of Duluth that there is some dirt on Superior street?

For is it not true that the present condition of our principal business streets would be a disgrace to a city that makes but one-tenth of the pretensions that Duluth makes in respect to being a well-ordered, up-to-date city?

A SUPERIOR STREET BUSINESS MAN.

Duluth, March 20.

THE HERALD AND CAPITALISM.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In summing up the election held in Duluth last month, the Appeal to Reason refers to The Herald thus: "The Duluth Herald Capitalistic," etc. Does it mean your paper is run in the interest of capital, and not independent? Also, what is the Navy League of the United States? Will you be so kind as to answer through your paper or by letter. Yours truly,

M. A. WILLIAMS.

Dunbar, Wis., March 18.

1.—We shall not undertake to interpret what the Appeal to Reason means by calling The Herald "capitalistic." If it means that this newspaper is run in the interests of capital as opposed to the interests of humanity, and that it is not free to declare itself on any issue as it deems best for the common good, the Appeal to Reason,—which does very little appealing to reason, by the way,—is wrong.

2.—The Navy League of the United States was organized in 1903 "to acquire and spread before the citizens of the United States, through branch organizations and otherwise, information as to the condition of the naval forces and equipment of the United States, and to awaken public interest and cooperation in all matters tending to aid, improve and develop their efficiency." It seems to be an organization to foster the building and maintenance of a large and ever larger navy.—The Editor.

Gaynor on Hearst.

Letter from Mayor Gaynor to Governor Wilson: We have in this town a proprietor of several newspapers, including one in Yiddish, who thinks himself fit for any and every office that comes along, including the presidency. Once every four years he is a violent candidate for that office, to the amusement of the nation, more or less. He sometimes gets in the convention the votes of the delegates from the states which we ordinarily call "purchasable." He is now puffing himself up in his publications and crying down every one else whom he thinks may be in his way as a candidate. His method is like that of some hogs in a fire, or a like emergency, namely, to jump upon all others in his way and bear them down and trample the hobnails of his shoes into their flesh in his efforts to save his own carcass. This is his way of striving for a nomination or an election.

Not until the human heart generally becomes as cold and base as his will that way succeed. The average human heart is kind and true. Some one has sent to me an attack of his on you. He wants to get you down and get the hobnails of his shoes into your flesh. The more fit you are the more he wants to trample on you, because you are in his way. He ridicules and denounces you for saying somewhere that Washington did not write the "Farewell Address." As usual, he seeks to excite passion and prejudice by appealing to the ignorant. It is no discredit to Washington that he had the "Farewell Address" written by others.

As I remember Jefferson's account, Madison prepared a farewell address for Washington at his request, when the end of his first term was approaching, and Hamilton revised it at the end of Washington's second term, and it was used in that form by Washington. But I write to you only to say that I am glad that you do not pay any attention to this common libeler. He can neither add to nor detract from a man like you. Sincerely yours,

W. J. GAYNOR, Mayor.

Sectional Feeling.

Toronto Star: A good deal is being said about the wickedness of setting the West against the East in Canada. There will be no lasting estrangement, unless an attempt is made to restrain the liberty of either, or to sacrifice the interests of one for the sake of the supposed interests of the other. Unity will be preserved by each considering the other, and obtaining its point of view. Somebody in the West may occasionally go too far, and use language that cannot be justified. Let us have his Western neighbors to correct him as the Winnipeg Free Press did the other day:

"There is undoubtedly a good deal of feeling among the farmers over the loss of the United States markets, which they had deemed in their possession; and, as often happens in times of excitement, there has been here and there an over-statement of this sentiment. But there is no body of opinion in Western Canada in support of any suggestion of the disruption of confederation. There are available effective constitutional means of redress for their grievances if the people of the West choose to avail themselves of them."

Our duty in the East is not to lecture the West, but to try to see the situation from the Western point of view. It is in this way that we will arrive at a policy which will promote the interests of Canada as a whole. The Western view is that the East, or the predominating element in the East, has deprived Saskatchewan and Alberta of a great and convenient market. The soreness occasioned by this belief will not be removed by lecturing or scolding. We must get ourselves into sympathy with the West. We must provide the West with substitutes for the market it has lost. We must not, by tariff measures, lay new burdens on the West. This Dominion is to be kept together and strengthened, not by compulsion, but by freedom, sympathy, and the spirit of helpfulness.

Courtesy.

Emerson: We must be as courteous to a man as we are to a picture which we are willing to give the advantage of a good light.

MORE ECHOES OF HARMONY.

Good Politics.

La Porte News: In order to prove that it is a principle and not merely the office that he is fighting for, Hon William E. Lee, Republican candidate for governor, says he will be very well pleased if the convention nominates Lieutenant Governor Gordon instead of himself. Probably Mr. Gordon will be, also. Another instance where "great minds run in the same channel."

What Made It Necessary?

Stillwater Gazette: Petitions are being circulated in Mankato, the home of Governor Eberhart asking the indorsement of the governor for another term. The purpose is to discredit the opposition and put the governor in a better light before the people.

Piling It Up.

Chisholm Tribune-Herald: It has been said that the opposition to Eberhart was confined only to the disgruntled press. How about the cooperative creamery associations and independent grain dealers?

Hard on the Governor.

Walker Pilot: Roosevelt and Taft are running along pretty close together just at present in Minnesota, but when one of them takes a notion to take the lead, we don't see how our governor is going to be able to ride both horses without getting split up worse than the party he represents, is today.

Not So Dismal.

Little Falls Transcript: Republican friction, Republican disagreement, Republican factionalism and Republican squabbles but contribute to Democratic prospects for success.

The Free For All.

Balaton Press-Tribune: The gubernatorial race is on. A. O. Eberhart in the chair, Gordon has the pole, Lee, second place and Weaver of Mankato, out scoring, getting warmed up ready for the start when the gong sounds. This is a free for all and more entries are eligible. We predict this a fast race and those who follow close to the pole "hoss" will have to step some.

He Has Heard Many Things.

Aurora News: Governor Eberhart sent a long telegram to Washington saying that he favored the re-election of Taft. But he has evidently heard of some things since that time and is now trying to make people believe that he occupies a neutral position on the presidential question. Fortunatus evidently needs another name.

And Restless Days.

Anoka Herald: If the men who oppose Eberhart and his crowd get together with the Roosevelt following in Minnesota and unite on one man, whether he be Lee, Gordon or some other man, that man will give the administration some sleepless nights.

As To You.

Did you give him a lift? He's a brother of Man
And bearing about all the burden he can.
Did you give him a smile? He was downcast and blue
And the smile would have helped him to battle it through.
Did you give him your hand? He was slipping down hill
And the world, so I fancied, was using him ill.
Did you give him a word? Did you show him the road,
Or did you just let him go on with his load?

Did you help him along? He's a sinner like you,
But the grasp of your hand might have carried him through.
Did you bid him good cheer? Just a word and a smile
Were what he most needed that last weary mile
Do you know what he bore in that burden of cares
That is every man's load and that sympathy shares?
Did you try to find out what he needed from you,
Or did you just leave him to battle it through?

Do you know what it means to be losing the fight
When a lift just in time might set everything right?
Do you know what it means—just the clasp of a hand
When a man's borne about all a man can stand?
Did you ask what it was—why the quivering lip
And the glistening tears down the pale cheek that slip?
Were you a brother of his when the time came to be
Did you offer to help him or didn't you see?

Don't you know it's the part of a brother of Man
To find what the grief is and help when you can?
Did you stop when he asked you to give him a lift,
Or were you so busy you left him to shift?
O, I know what you mean—what you say may be true—
But the test of your manhood is What Did You Do?
Did you reach out a hand? Did you find him the road,
Or did you just let him go by with his load?

—J. W. Foley in New York Times.

Not All Bank Tellers Steal.

Outlook: Cheerful results do not dissipate a pessimistic atmosphere, and attempts to boost business when it shows a tendency to sit quiet, rarely succeed. There is no artificial way of restoring the public confidence. It is true, nevertheless, as several wise business men have lately said, that hard times are often states of mind rather than states of trade; and it may be suspected that the present depression of business is due, not only to the political uncertainties, but also to the state of mind of the country.

The movement to establish the Optimist League of America may not succeed, and, if it should succeed, may not accomplish its end; but the circular of information which it sends out contains some facts which ought to be kept in plain view—facts which are constantly obscured by isolated tales of scandal and crime in which the newspapers abound.

The Optimist League calls attention to the fact that 10,000 bank cashiers have done their work faithfully for periods ranging from ten to twenty-five years—this is a fact to keep in mind whenever a defalcation occurs; that 20,000,000 married people in this country were not divorced last year; that 80,000,000 citizens have not committed suicide, and that every week 10,000,000 people make railway trips in safety.

Diogenes is now going through the country with a lantern in his hand, not because he is an old cynic, but because the times cry out for light; but it must be remembered that it is the exceptional and not the average man whose rascalities will come into view.

The Ax Once More.

Kansas City Star: In his Toledo speech President Taft said:

"I have examined this proposed method of reversing judicial decisions on constitutional questions with care. I do not hesitate to say that it lays the ax at the foot of the tree of well-ordered freedom and subjects the guarantees of life, liberty and property without remedy to the fitful impulse of a temporary majority of an electorate."

In England a simple act of parliament may reverse a judicial decision. The same thing is true in France, Germany and Canada. Yet it is the general understanding that "well-ordered freedom" exists in those countries in as full measure as in the United States.

These facts have been pointed out repeatedly in the last few weeks. But for some reason they seem to be overlooked by the gentlemen who are alarmed for American institutions whenever the recall of decisions is mentioned.

EDUCATING THE EDITORS.

Marshall News-Messenger: No annual outing proposed for the state editors in recent years has attracted such general commendation by the profession as the contemplated touring of Northeastern Minnesota this summer. And press comments from Duluth and St. Louis county indicate that a reception awaits the visitors that has thus far been extended to no other representative body. Southern and Central Minnesota are not aware of the tremendous progress in civic, commercial, agricultural and educational efforts achieved by this section of the state during the past few years. Many members of the press have kept in touch with the vast iron mining interests of the northeast, and in an indefinite way the people of the state generally appreciate its importance. But the facts of other progressive conditions of that section are scarcely appreciated, even by the editorial fraternity. And it is more with reference to these other features of progress, rather than the mining industries, that the summer outing of the editors has been planned.

Agriculture in St. Louis county has had a wonderful development, in some features surpassing any other portion of the state. The first general recognition of this fact came with that county's exhibits at the last state fair, when it was awarded the first prize. But a few years ago the entire Duluth and St. Louis territory was thought incapable of producing agricultural products to any extent. When the Willmar and Sioux Falls railroad was built a score of years ago, the chief argument for bonding with the farmers was the building of a line that would give a market at Duluth for the agricultural surplus of Southwestern Minnesota. Now some of the largest, best and most scientifically conducted farms in the state are in the Duluth territory, and these farms will be visited by the editors. In educational facilities, the finest school buildings in the Northwest, and in the character of the educational work performed, St. Louis county excels. This excellence has largely been achieved through the liberal school funds available in all of the extensive iron range country from tax assessments of the mining interests. The greatest industry of the state comprised in a single plant is under construction at Duluth, the steel plant, in which it is said some $17,000,000 is to be invested, and in which already some $7,000,000 has been expended. Great progress has been made in construction, and much greater will have been made by the time of the editorial visit, and therein will be found an industrial feature new to every visitor.

But "Seeing Minnesota," and study of progress in the north, by the editors, will not be unmixed with a generous amount of pleasure and recreation, in the exploitation of which the facilities and attractions of Duluth and its lake port has no equal. The editorial outing will cover an entire week, and probably be divided so as to give the excursionists two days on the north shore of Lake Superior, and a visit at Isle Royal; two days in the mining territory, with entertainment at the larger cities; a day among the big farms tributary to Duluth; a day on the St. Louis river, at its pleasure resorts and boat club, and a visit to the great steel plant; and a free day in the city of Duluth, on its renowned boulevards and its harbor, and among its commercial and social attractions. The outing promises to be a record breaker in the history of a long series of the extended and attractive excursions of the Minnesota editorial association, and which has not been approached by any other editorial body in the country.

An Impression of Wilson.

Arthur H. Gleason in New York Evening Post: This impression of the man was received on Jan. 19, when Gov. Wilson was in Michigan. A series of surprises had been sprung. Out from the self-seeking manipulators, trying to steer his Michigan campaign, and out from the large, attentive audiences at Detroit and Ann Arbor, Wilson emerged and climbed aboard the train for Grand Rapids. His tall, spare form, the lean face with the plowed lines of steady intellectual labor, make him a strange, lonely figure among the sleek, fat-fibered, ruddy politicians who surround his progress. Can he win a way through that welter of heavy, inert matter? He seems like a gaunt runner stripped for the race. One wonders if he will surmount the immense labors of publicity, the long-distance traveling, the harassing interviews, the endless speech-making, the interminable many-coursed dinners, the racking conferences.

An honest man and a thinker is again let loose on this planet, and the people will long rejoice in the reactions of that limpid mind, in the clear eyes and open, graceful speech, flaking off felicities as it travels through dreary matter. He has yet to learn that probably the world is not worthy of unbridled frankness. At least with a boy's audacity he will give it the chance of proving itself worthy.

Struggle and experience qualify for Woodrow Wilson the once cherished theory. His is an interpretation changing with the tumultuous, ever-shaping aspects of life. Consistency, as it leans toward petrification, will never lock him in. Flexibility and adaptation are the notes of his distinction. Inside the mind of the scholar he keeps kindled qualities of warmth and enthusiasm. The dubitations of a perplexed truthseeker are not for him, for he abounds in brave, unshaded judgments, preferring vitality of statement to finality of statement.

His style in both public address and off-hand private talk has the tang of common speech and the rhythm of literary felicity. He has the intellectual charm of Walter Bagehot. The two men are alike in their excellent scholarship unimpaired by "culture" and "privilege," in their forthright handling of vexed questions, and in the sinewy, flexible thrust of their English. Just as Bagehot was a financial expert, a banker, and from that executive mastery came to the writing of books on government and finance, so Wilson turns from writing on government, and governs. A historian has discovered the primaries, and a scholar emerges from the party caucus.

WORLD-WIDE GROWTH OF DEMOCRACY.

Hampton Magazine: Even the most cursory observer of events cannot fail to be impressed by the world-wide character of the present movement toward democracy in government. In our own country the principle that the people should rule is granted, nay, is upheld, by every party and faction in politics. Here the trend toward a greater actual democracy is to be found in the demand for more direct means of asserting the popular control.

The direct primary, that was generally adopted in the southern states twenty years ago, so far as local officers were concerned, that later spread over the West and now is being acclimated in the East, is for the first time a factor in the naming of presidential candidates.

There are some weighty objections to the primary as it is now conducted, but in those states where it has been adopted the bulk of opinion favors the removal of these objections by reform rather than by abolition of the primary.

But the full force of this trend is not realized until one looks abroad.

The German general elections have returned the Socialists to the federal parliament the most numerous of any one party group. In Great Britain the government is putting forward measures to give home rule to Ireland and to abolish the plural voting of landlords in England and Scotland. In Sweden the king from the throne announces a purpose to extend the suffrage.

German Socialists propose a program that would not be termed socialistic in this country, except in some of its minor phases. It includes the abolition of plural voting, the entire responsibility of the ministry to the parliament and reform of the taxation laws.

These things are merely what England won under Liberalism. They are, in essentials, what Americans have won under the banners of Republicanism and Democracy. They are what Canada and Australia call imperialism. The name matters not, the thing is democracy.

More than all these things, however, is the great unrest in Asia—the last refuge of autocracy.

The rapid growth of the Republican revolution in China astonished the whole world, nobody more than the Chinese themselves. It was only a few weeks from the inception of the armed movement until the Manchu imperialists and the Chinese Republicans were conferring under the protection of an armistice. And conferring about what? The details of a plan to leave the whole question at issue to the voice of the people! That they did not agree on terms is beside the question—both recognized that in the people rested the final power to decide.

At the same time in Japan where intense patriotism has vested the monarch with more power than he granted to the people by his vouchsafed constitution, there is a powerful party in parliament insisting upon immediate recognition of the Chinese Republic.

The pitiful efforts of the Persians to establish an autonomous constitutional government, as well as King George's deference to the Indian democracy in the reunion of the divided province of Bengal and the removal of the capital to Delhi, show that all Asia is marching in the same direction.

Hadn't Numbered Them Yet.

New York Herald: Eddie Foy, the size of whose family is a standing joke on the Rialto, has a story to offset any jokes that may be thrust at him about his children. He tells of the census taker who, working in lower New York on the East side, came to a tenement crowded with youngsters. Said he to the woman who was bending over the washtub:

"Madam, I am the census taker; how many children have you?"

"Lemme see," said the woman, straightening up and wiping her hands on her apron. "There's Florence and Mary and Angelina and Lucy and Charlie and Bob and Will and Hortense and Jim and ——"

"Madam," said the census man, "if you could just give me the number——"

"Number," she replied, indignantly; "we ain't got to numbering 'em yet; we ain't run out o' names."

DULUTHIANS JUBILANT AT LANDING CONVENTION

Hard Work of Delegates Surprised Twin City Representatives.

Friendly Feeling Toward Duluth Surprised and Delighted Local Men.

A small group of jubilant Democrats, who, by a short campaign, had obtained for Duluth the Democratic state delegate convention to be held June 6, returned to the city last evening.

They were well pleased with the results of their efforts, but no more so than many other Duluthians. Duluth people were surprised and pleased when they read in The Herald last evening that the convention was set for this city. They knew that a bid was to be made for it, but no organized effort to obtain the meeting had been made. The first intimation that Duluth wanted the convention was given Monday evening.

St. Paul had expected the convention as a matter of course. Duluth had the delegate convention in 1904, but that was a notable exception. Usually Minneapolis is given one convention and St. Paul the other and it was thought that plan would be followed this year. The newspapers of the Twin Cities did not take the Duluth efforts to get the convention seriously until the deed was done.

The Duluthians started late, but they made up for loss of time by increase of effort. E. R. Ribenack, whose wide acquaintance as a member of the legislature was a material help, did valiant work. Andrew Nelson, A. C. Weiss, W. B. Getchell, and Harris Bennett, all of whom had a wide acquaintance among the committee members worked with a will. To most of the delegates the news that Duluth wanted the convention was a distinct surprise, but with many of them their support was Duluth's for the asking.

Practically all of the work in getting the convention was done while the committee members were gathering in the Saint Paul hotel yesterday morning. The Duluth men started alone, but they soon had able lieutenants assisting them. Senator C. F. Cook of Austin, who, if he should be a delegate, will have to travel as far as anybody to get to Duluth, won many by his disregard of distance in enthusiasm for Duluth, T. M. Meighen of Preston, Maj. J. M. Bowler of Minneapolis, Robert Carmichael of Hastings, T. J. Knox of Jackson, S. H. Shiede of Cloquet, Fred Schilplin of St. Cloud, George Grimm of Lamberton Joseph McConnon of Winona and an enthusiastic Renville county delegation consisting of T. O'Connor of Renville and J. M. Freeman and J. R. Landy of Olivia proved themselves true friends of Duluth. T. W. McManus of Duluth was in St. Paul and he turned to with a will to assist in the campaign.

Through With a Whoop.

The convention was practically assured when the committee went into session, but all doubt was removed when Andrew Nelson extended his invitation and was supported by Robert Carmichael of Hastings. Mr. Nelson made a speech that was a masterpiece. He did not tire the delegates with any lengthy praise of the city. He merely told them to come and see. He promised them hospitality and good cheer. He reminded them of the great convention of 1904. He pointed out that Duluth has an overwhelmingly Democratic city council and that Duluth gave the Democratic candidate for governor in 1908 a majority. When he reminded the delegates also that Duluth is the home of The Duluth Herald, he was interrupted by a burst of applause that came from every man in the room.

Somebody offered the suggestion that the expense would be a bar to Duluth, but Robert Carmichael of Hastings promptly refuted the charge. Mr. Carmichael would have a long distance to travel, but he said that would not bar him from visiting Duluth. He pointed out that Duluth Democrats have always been on hand at every meeting, have been loyal through all battles and have seldom asked for anything. When they ask, their wishes should be respected, he said.

No other city made formal application and the motion that the convention be held at Duluth was carried unanimously and enthusiastically. Even the Duluth men were surprised by the unanimity of the committee and they extended warm thanks to the friends who had stood by them.

1,039 Delegates.

The convention is a big thing for Duluth. The delegates will number 1,039 and even though all seats in the convention are not filled, many delegates will bring their wives and many Democrats who are not delegates will be on hand to get in touch with Democratic sentiment. Democracy is militant and hopes to be triumphant this year and every Democratic gathering will be imbued with the spirit of hopefulness. They will be larger and more enthusiastic than in many years and Duluth may expect to see a crowd that the city will be glad to entertain.

The convention will draw to Duluth many people whom Duluth wants to have visit it. Southern Minnesota will send large delegations and the delegates will leave with a better understanding of the city. Many will take the opportunity to spend their vacation in the vicinity of Duluth and to visit the points of interest in Northern Minnesota.

There will probably be some contests on delegates, but unless sentiment changes materially the convention will be a love-feast with a solid delegation for Woodrow Wilson. Some of the congressional districts, notably the Minneapolis and St. Paul districts, offer contests on district delegates and they will enliven the proceedings.

The last Democratic convention held here, which was in 1904, was one of the warmest conventions ever held in Minnesota. Hearst was a factor in the presidential race that year and the contest on the Minnesota delegation was one that will live long in the memory of Minnesota Democrats. Maj. J. M. Bowler of Minneapolis, who was permanent chairman of that convention, was one of the Duluth enthusiasts at the committee meeting yesterday and he expects to return to the scene of the troublous times he witnessed in 1904.

Duluth Democrats will immediately make plans for the convention. They are grateful for the courtesy shown Duluth by their brother Democrats and they will arrange a true Duluth welcome for the convention delegates.

VALUE EYE AT $4,250

District Court Jury Returns Verdict for Injured Fireman.

John D. Brower, a Northern Pacific fireman, will recover $4,250 for the loss of his right eye.

Brower sued the railroad and John P. Klovstad, the engineer, for $20,000, claiming that in an explosion of a glass gauge he lost the sight of his right eye. The jury which heard the case in the district court, brought in a sealed verdict last evening. It was opened this morning, and gave the plaintiff $4,250.

BODY SWINGS FROM WINDOW

she had smuggled jewelry which the authorities valued at $20,000. On her arrival Mrs. Carson had declared a package of unstrung pearls, but had undervalued them grossly.

Broke Down at Hearing

On her appearance for examination yesterday she broke down and told of a large amount of jewelry that she had brought into the country concealed in her hat and in her baggage. Released on $2,000 bail for further examination Friday, Mrs. Carson went uptown, presumably to her hotel.

She registered at the hotel as Mrs. Edwin Carson of Paris. It was understood that her home was in San Francisco, but the hotel manager said this morning that he thought Mrs. Carson resided in Los Angeles. She was about 50 years old and was making a trip around the world alone.

Mrs. Carson had evidently sat up all night, and some time after 5 o'clock she untied a rope from a large package in her room, and fastening one end to a radiator, slipped a noose around her neck and slid out the window. The body was discovered at 6:30.

The second note left by Mrs. Carson was addressed to Paul R. Mayberry, No. 919 West Twenty-eighth street, Los Angeles, Cal.

"Willing to Pay Duty."

In her statement before the customs officials yesterday Mrs. Carson said:

"I will confess that these unstrung pearls are not the only gems I have. I have also a pair of diamond earrings which I concealed in the lining of my hat. I was told that the duties collected here were excessive. I thought that I ought not to pay excessive duties. I regret what I have done. I am willing to tell all and give up everything I have purchased for fair valuation. I am willing to pay the duty."

Attorney Osborn said he did not know of the previous affairs of Mrs. Carson, but said she came from Los Angeles. In her room was a card with her name on it bearing the address 1925 Gough street, San Francisco. Mr. Osborn declined to open the letter addressed to him until the coroner had completed his examination.

The letter addressed to Paul R. Mayberry began: "Dear brother," but the contents of the note were not disclosed.

WILL STUMP THE COUNTRY

in North Dakota is typical of the progressive movement in all the Progressive states. The politicians, in some instances, may have been stampeded, but the people generally have not been, and will not be. They know that the great problems that confront us have not been aggressively and constructively met by either the Roosevelt or Taft administration.

"They do not want the experiences of those periods repeated. They want to go forward. The time for talk has gone by. The time to do is at hand."

From Roosevelt Quarters.

Washington, March 20.—Senator Dixon, manager of Col. Roosevelt's candidacy, in a statement commenting on the North Dakota primary, said that the result was a severe blow for President Taft.

"In the election yesterday but one Republican voter in forty in North Dakota expressed a wish that Taft be made the Republican nominee for president," said Senator Dixon. "No such humiliating, crushing defeat of a presidential candidate asking renomination ever has been witnessed in American politics. Four years ago, in North Dakota, Taft received 57,680 Republican votes. In the primary election yesterday less than 2,000 Republicans in North Dakota expressed a preference for his second nomination.

"The ten delegates to the national convention are first, last and all the time, anti-Taft. The delegates elected in North Dakota yesterday had given out signed statements several days ago that if elected they would support Mr. Roosevelt in the Chicago convention when it was shown that La Follette could not be nominated. These ten delegates safely can be put in the Roosevelt column."

"Sample of 'Soapbox.'"

Director McKinley of the Taft campaign headquarters today characterized North Dakota's presidential primary as an indication of what might happen in a so-called "soapbox" primary.

Mr. McKinley in a statement this morning quoted John S. Bass, manager of the Roosevelt campaign in North Dakota, who said Democrats had voted for La Follette in the Republican primary yesterday.

"This exactly is what the managers of the Taft bureau have attempted to impress upon the country from the outset of this campaign," said Director McKinley.

"In this instance there was a state law, but without the party enrolled feature. The claim now is made by the Roosevelt managers it was not a Republican primary, but one open to all comers.

"In the absence of state law, it is easy to foresee that 'soapbox' primary rules would prevail and the contest for the Republican nomination for president would degenerate into a national scandal in which the Republican party itself would play a minor roll."

NORTH DAKOTA PRIMARY RESULTS IN LANDSLIDE FOR LA FOLLETTE

dore Thompson, H. H. Aaker, Gilbert Johnson, D. P. Barnes and F. W. Cathro.

Marshall on Committee.

Thomas F. Marshall, a La Follette man, candidate for national committeeman, was chosen by as large a vote as La Follette.

La Follette ran heavy in Grand Forks, Traill and Cass counties and carried Walsh, but Roosevelt is away ahead in Pembina and leads in Richland. He is also ahead in Ransom. The rest of the eastern and southern counties gave La Follette a good lead, but not by such figures as were estimated by the La Follette committee.

Figures on the Democratic committeemen are so confused it may take some days to get results.

Analysis of the returns from different counties shows that Democrats voted in blocks for La Follette, and increased the confusion of the Republicans in several localities. La Follette's vote was large everywhere he spoke on his recent tour of this state.

Total Vote About 45,000.

The total vote in the state is believed to be about 48,000. It was out down very materially in the western part on account of the severe storm that raged in that section.

The landslide for La Follette is complete. County after county which was believed to be in the Roosevelt column has been overturned and majorities for the Wisconsin man have replaced the Roosevelt figures.

The complexion of the Missouri slope,

THOMAS F. MARSHALL,
Elected Republican National Committeeman From North Dakota.

the former ranching grounds of the former president, has been completely changed by yesterday's election.

It is considered doubtful here if the complete returns are received before late tonight.

Among the Counties.

Traill county, which in 1904 gave Roosevelt a majority of 1,400 on a vote of 1,800, yesterday returned a plurality for La Follette of 880, while Taft received but twenty-seven votes out of the 1,550 that were cast.

With two precincts to hear from, it appears the La Follette majority in Griggs county will be 350. Marshall received about the same plurality, while Wilson leads for Democratic national committee man. Griggs county in 1904 gave Roosevelt a majority of 460. Returns from the two missing precincts are not expected before late tonight or tomorrow, since they are remote.

In the Cities.

In the cities the vote that was cast yesterday is especially interesting, on account of varied claims which had been made concerning the urban vote. It was the claim of the Roosevelt forces that the city vote would go to their candidate and that the country vote would be heavy for La Follette, that being true only of the eastern section of the state. In the western districts this situation was reversed. Here is how many of the leading cities and larger towns voted yesterday:

this morning received telegraphic instructions from London to make arrangements for having the striking miners return to work in the pits on March 27.

Distress Is Acute.

London, March 20.—The distress throughout the industrial districts of Great Britain because of the coal strike, which has thrown 1,000,000 miners and over 1,500,000 other workmen out of employment, is acute. While delegates of the miners and mine owners are discussing with political leaders the minimum wage bill, women, children and the workers themselves in many places are suffering extreme poverty, and appeals are constantly reaching London, which appears to be the least affected of the large cities, for assistance.

The Earl of Harrowby, who has just toured the potter districts in Staffordshire, in asking for funds says that thousands of children in the district are being fed from charitable funds. In this region alone 20,000 miners are on strike, and the lack of coal has thrown out of work 60,000 potters, to whose number must be added thousands of general laborers, porters, railroad men and bargemen, whose livelihood depends on the output of the potteries.

Get No Strike Pay.

The prevailing conditions in the Erwash valley, the great hive of industry stretching from Nottingham to Chesterfield, serve as an example of the conditions elsewhere. Here 75 per cent of the workers in all trades are idle and, unlike the miners, as these men have no strike pay, the families men out of employment, is acute. While delegates of the miners and mine owners are discussing with political leaders the minimum wage bill, women, children and the workers themselves in many places are suffering extreme poverty, and appeals are constantly reaching London, which appears to be the least affected of the large cities, for assistance.

S.S.S. CURES OLD SORES

Every old sore is due to the ulceration of flesh tissues. The superficial abrasion or opening may have come as the result of a scratch, burn, cut, or some other wound, but the place remains open and of a chronic nature because the tissues and flesh fibres beneath the skin are in an unhealthy condition from a polluted blood supply.

Even if it were possible to subdue the ulceration of the flesh and produce an antiseptic and cleanly condition of the sore with medicines applied to the external opening, such treatment could not bring about any permanent curative results. Deep down in the blood there is a continual cause at work to prevent the place from healing.

If we expect a permanent cure it is not the SORE but the BLOOD which must be cleansed. Then the morbid matter and infectious germs will be destroyed, and the flesh, becoming healthy, will knit and join together, and the ulcer can no longer exist. We do not mean to say one should never use any external treatment for an old sore, for we realize that some salves, lotions, etc., are often very soothing to the irritated and painful flesh. But the person who depends on such measures alone, and makes no effort to purify the blood, will never find a cure, and the place is sure to grow worse and enlarge.

In 1877 I had my leg badly cut on the sharp edge of a barrel. A great sore formed, and for years no one knows what I suffered with the place. I tried, it seemed to me, everything I had ever heard of, but I got no relief. At last I began the use of S. S. S., and continued it until it removed all the poison from my blood and made a complete and permanent cure of the sore.
JNO. ELLIS.
108 Wyckoff St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Only by cleansing the blood of the poisonous cause can old sores be cured. S. S. S. heals them by going down into the circulation and removing the cause from the blood. When this has been done there is no longer left any inflammatory impurity or infectious matter to irritate the place, and nature causes the natural and certain healing of the ulcer. When S. S. S. has purified the blood and the place is once more nourished with pure, rich blood, then every symptom disappears, and it is not a temporary cure, but the place is firmly and solidly healed from the bottom to the outer skin. S. S. S. is recognized as the greatest of all blood purifiers, and therein lies its ability to cure old sores. It is purely vegetable, containing no mineral in any form, and its fine tonic effects are always helpful in overcoming the impure systemic effects of an old sore.

We have a special treatise on Old Sores which we will be glad to send free to all who desire it. It contains the statements of many cured persons as to the value of S. S. S. We will also be glad to send you any medical advice you desire free of charge.

A New Stomach

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Restore Lifeless Organs to Normal Condition.

A Trial Package Free.

Many a sufferer from Dyspepsia, Indigestion and kindred ailments of the digestive organs carries around an absolutely useless stomach — a dead load, and a cesspool for ever-increasing disorders. The muscles are seemingly worn out, the mucous lining has lost its secretive power and food taken into the stomach lies there and ferments, causing sour eructations, belchings, heartburn, dizziness and other distressing conditions. Many sufferers have given up in despair until they have been induced by some interested friends to try a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the dyspeptic's hope. They are a natural restorative of healthy action to the stomach and small intestines, because they supply the elements that the weak stomach lacks—pepsin, golden seal and other digestives.

If you are afflicted with any of the symptoms above described, be assured that your digestive organs are losing power,—they need help and there is no more sensible help to be given them than to supply elements which will do the work of digestion for them.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been found by test to have digestive powers, one grain of the active principle of these tablets being sufficient to digest 3,000 grains of ordinary food. It is plain that no matter what the conditon of your stomach, or how far your disease has progressed, one of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets taken at meal time will do the work—give your stomach an opportunity to regain its lost powers, the muscles will be strengthened, the glands invigorated, and you will be a new man.

It costs nothing to prove the effectiveness of this cure. Send for a free sample package today. F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

RIFLE MEETS CALLED OFF

No National Contests This Year at Sparta, Wis., or Elsewhere.

Mexican Situation Causes Government to Abandon Rifle Matches.

La Crosse, Wis., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—No national rifle matches will be held at the Sparta military range or elsewhere this year, according to the announcement received today from the war department by Col. R. B. McCoy of Sparta, inspector of small arms practice of the Wisconsin national guard.

Matches generally have been held at Camp Perry, Ohio, and Seagirt, N. J., but this year were to be at Sparta.

Fear Mexican Situation.

The Mexican situation is understood to be the reason for the abandonment this year of the national rifle match, which for years has been contested by teams representing the several branches of the regular service and the national guard of all the states.

GETS DAMAGES FOR ELEVATOR INJURY

Child Badly Hurt in Monango, N. D., Is Given $4,500.

Ellendale, N. D., March 20.—The jury in the district court returned a verdict in favor of P. Z. Mowry as guardian for Laura Fogel, and against Mrs. W. O. Cladwell in the sum of $4,500.

A year or more ago Laura Fogel, only 8 years of age, was caught in a revolving elevator shaft at an elevator in Monango owned by Mrs. Cladwell. The child was terribly injured, both legs being fractured and one arm drawn out of its socket. For months her life hung by a thread and while she is now able to walk and be around, she will always suffer as a result of the accident.

Action was brought for $20,000 damages, and the case was closely contested on both sides.

It is probable that the case will be appealed to the supreme court.

IRONTON ELECTION TO BE CONTESTED

James Legere, Defeated for Trustee, Alleges Fraud in Count.

Brainerd, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The recent village election at Ironton is to be contested. Notice of an appeal from the decision of the canvassing board has been filed in the district court by James E. Legere, one of the defeated candidates for trustee. He alleges that more votes than ballots cast were counted; that more than ten voters were intimidated and coerced by their employers into voting the opposing ticket headed by President of the Village Council William Bamberg; that more than six voters were not permitted to vote by the officers of the election. The contest was close, the Bamberg ticket defeating the Charles Harkins ticket, on which Legere was candidate for trustee, by only three votes. This is the first election contest on the Cuyuna Iron range.

FORMER DULUTHIAN WEDS.

P. A. Quackenbush One Principal in First Barrows, Minn., Wedding.

Barrows, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first wedding in Barrows was celebrated when P. Alfred Quackenbush and Miss Ethel Frances Porter were married in the town hall before 100 guests, Rev. Charles Fox Davis of Brainerd performing the ceremony. F. W. Sherman, chief clerk of the M. A. Hanna company mine at Barrows, was the best man, and Miss Jennie Porter, a sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. The groom is associated with his brother, E. B. Quackenbush, in the Quackenbush Lumber & Mercantile company. He was formerly manager of the Duluth Novelty company in Duluth and later proprietor of a store in Proctor. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Porter of Crow Wing. A banquet was served after the ceremony and addresses were delivered by I. S. Roe, superintendent of the M. A. Hanna company mine, George Parmalee, F. W. Sherman, W. Bailey and Rev. Mr. Davis. Vocal and musical selections were rendered by Mrs. Bertha Bruce, Mrs. Hilmer Wilson, Miss May Bruce, Miss Ida Hoffbauer of Brainerd.

HIS HAND TORN OFF.

Brainerd Man Loses Member in Planing Mill.

Brainerd, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Aaron Johnson, foreman of the Mahlum Lumber company planing mill, caught his left hand in a molding machine and before he could extricate it the hand had been torn off near his wrist. Mr. Johnson has been foreman in this mill ever since the company commenced business and previously was the assistant foreman in a similar department in the old Northern Mill company in Northeast Brainerd.

SENATOR CONGRATULATED.

Hancock Man Lauded for Stand on Presidential Primary.

Hancock, Mich., March 20.—Senator W. Frank James of this city, who returned Sunday from the special session at Lansing, was congratulated on Monday by Judge Patrick H. O'Brien for his unwavering stand in favor of immediate presidential primaries.

In a congratulatory note sent the senator, Judge O'Brien said:

"Congratulations to yourself and other members of the state legislature from the Copper country on your stand for presidential primaries and for giving measure immediate effect. Bipartisan senatorial oligarchy triumphant at present, but will hear from the mere voters later.

"P. H. O'BRIEN."

DULUTHIAN LAYING PIPE.

W. S. Wanless Making Progress With Negaunee Contract.

Negaunee, Mich., March 20.—Sunday afternoon, W. S. Wanless of Duluth and his men commenced to lay the new intake pipe at Teal lake, and they placed one length. A second length was made ready for lowering and Monday morning it was set and the joints fastened. During the afternoon another length was set. Mr. Wanless expects to have all the pipe in before the end of the week.

The pipe is laid in 72-foot lengths, and there is 350 feet of it to be laid, beside building the suction end. Mr. Wanless expects to do the work more quickly than was possible in Marquette, where the pipe handled was larger, and the open lake, which was frequently rough, caused much loss of time.

BURKE TO BRYAN.

North Dakota's Governor Wires Peerless One Greetings.

Devils Lake, N. D., March 20.—While here yesterday to vote at the primary, Governor John Burke sent the following message to William J. Bryan felicitating him upon his 52nd birthday:

"Greetings and congratulations on the rounding out of 52 years of useful life. May God spare you and give you strength to fight the people's battle in the future as in the past."

COLLEGE DEANS MEET.

Problems Dealing With Liberal Arts Discussed at Minnesota U.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 20.—Deans of eleven liberal arts colleges or academic departments of Western state universities are meeting here today to discuss problems relating to their branch of education. At the close of the meeting today they will leave for Chicago, where the annual convention of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools will be held.

Among the speakers Tuesday were Dean Ellery W. Davis of the University of Nebraska and Joseph V. Denney of Ohio state. The visiting deans were entertained at dinner last night by Dean and Mrs. J. F. Downey of the University of Minnesota.

HAS SISTER IN DULUTH.

Mrs. William Black, Former Resident of Ishpeming, Dies.

Ishpeming, Mich., March 20.—Mrs. William Black, up to a short time ago a resident of Ishpeming, died Sunday at St. Clemens Mich., at the home of Rev. Mead, formerly a pastor in this city.

The deceased is survived by a husband, who is at present located in Sarnia, Ont., three sons and one daughter. The sons are Roy, agent for the Western Express company in this city; Lawson, who a short time ago left for Sarnia, and James of Saskatchewan, Can. Two sisters and three brothers also survive. The sisters are Mrs. A. H. Knight of Negaunee and Mrs. Will Johnson of Duluth. The brothers are Ed. McCutcheon of Chicago, Fred of New York and Will, living in the state of Washington. The body will be brought here for burial.

TWO BOYS RESCUED.

Saved From Drowning By Brainerd Water Works Engineer.

Brainerd, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Estie E. McQuillan, engineer at the waterworks near the Mississippi river, saw George Roth, aged 4, and Guy Warner, aged 5, fall through the ice on the river yesterday. At great risk of his life he ran out and rescued them.

SAWYER COUNTY TRAPPER KILLS VERY BIG WOLF.

Couderay, Wis., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Albert Zettle, a settler living near here, Monday trapped and killed the largest timber wolf ever seen in this section. It weighed ninety-five pounds. He received $20 bounty from the county for the animal and $8 for the hide.

Clean bathroom tub, pipes, and sink with

GOLD DUST

To keep bath tub and lavatory snow white—to keep metal pipes, fixtures and taps brightly burnished—to purify metal bowl—there's nothing on earth like Gold Dust. Gold Dust is the great sanitary cleanser, because it sterilizes while it cleans, and drives out every germ and hidden impurity.

Other products may clean the surface—Gold Dust cleanses to the bottom.

Add a heaping teaspoonful of Gold Dust to a pail of water and you are ready to prove these claims.

Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package means greater economy.

ASHLAND FIGHT WARM.

Mayor Dodd Names Another Police and Fire Commissioner.

Ashland, Wis., March 20.—The controversy over the retention of Chief Blair is getting warmer. Mayor Dodd has taken a lively hand in the affair by appointing Dr. Hertzman, a Blair supporter, to be a member of the police and fire commission in the place of Martin Nodin, an anti-Blair member, on the ground that Nodin cannot hold the office as he did not qualify the last time he was appointed by taking the required oath of office. This action of the mayor if upheld in the courts, as it is expected court proceedings will result, will give Chief Blair a majority of one on the commission and result, probably, in his retention. The commission will meet tonight to consider the charges against Blair.

Thomas Bardon has returned from a trip to New York. Mr. Bardon has been there for several weeks, meeting with the officials of the Shattuck Copper Mining company, and from can be learned, some developments regarding the sale or transfer of the mine are under headway.

Fred Huotte has resigned his position as manager of the Bell Telephone company and expects to go to Montana and join his brother and sister, who are located on a claim they have taken up there.

"STATE BUILDERS" MEET.

Governor Eberhart Among Those at Aberdeen, S. D., Gathering.

Aberdeen, S. D., March 20.—The "state builders'" meeting begins here today to continue until Thursday night. A large delegation is expected here from Minneapolis and St. Paul and representatives from North Dakota and Montana will be present.

Among those on the program are Governors A. O. Eberhart of Minnesota, R. S. Vessey of South Dakota and John Burke of North Dakota. Prominent railway men of the Northwest also are scheduled to make addresses.

HOMESTEADER KILLED.

Murder Is Committed in Cabin Near Mora, Minn.

Mora, Minn., March 20.—The body of R. N. Winters, a bachelor homesteader, was discovered Tuesday in his cabin near here by a neighbor. Every indication is that Winters was murdered, supposedly for his money, although there is no clew to the identity of his assassin.

Death was caused by a blow from a blunt instrument on the back of the head. There were bloodstains outside of the cabin, but the body was locked within. Winters was about 40 years old.

COPELAND IN PULPIT.

Man Who Confessed to Crime Speaks in Fergus Falls.

Fergus Falls, Minn., March 20.—The Swedish Baptist church was crowded to the doors Sunday afternoon when Samuel Copeland, who recently confessed in California to committing a robbery in Otter Tail county a dozen years ago, for which another man was punished, delivered his longed for address.

Mr. Copeland is not a public speaker in the ordinary sense of the word, but he told of his past life in a matter of fact way and drew a number of lessons for the benefit of his hearers.

Following his address, Rev. Mr. Nelson of Fargo spoke at some length and quite vigorously. Mr. Copeland has been asked to come to Minneapolis to engage in evangelical work there for a time, and he expects to leave for that city tomorrow. He then proposes to call on Warden Wolfer at Stillwater and will later return to the West.

NEW SETTLERS ARRIVE.

Bring Goods and Locate in Vicinity of Badger.

Badger, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Six car loads of settlers and their effects arrived here and they are moving out on neighboring farms. The following are the new farmers: T. Torstelnson, J. A. Scharf and P. F. M. Meyer.

Monday the graduating class of the Badger public school gave a play entitled "The Freshman." The following took part: Ray Chapin, the freshman; George Lee, Picadilly Jerome; Lloyd Lathrop, Bug Stevens; C. Peterson, Tiny McGrath; Elmer Mattson, Owl Griggs; Prof. D. L. Jolly, Prof. Locke; Normal Peterson, Mayme Lathrop, Gina Larson, Mabel Iverson, Ida Iverson.

Bishop Attacks Divorce.

Escanaba, Mich., March 20.—In an address at Peterson's opera house Bishop Muldoon of Rockford, guest of St. Patrick's church, severely assailed the spread of divorce in America, advocating total social ostracization of divorced women by all Catholics.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Hancock—The funeral of the late Matthew Enders took place Monday from St. Cecelia's church, Hubbell, at 9 o'clock. A solemn requiem high mass was sung by the Rev. Father Manderfield, with Rev. Houghton—Col. J. N. Cox has received his commission from Chase S. Osborn as agent of Houghton county for the state board of corrections and charity to succeed William H. Mason of Hancock, resigned.

Calumet—Wesley Weekes, a miner employed in No. 7 shaft, Hecla branch of the Calumet & Hecla Mining company, received a nasty cut on one of his shoulders through the falling of a large piece of rock which he attempted to loosen. The rock gave way without warning, pinning him under it.

Marquette—Duncan Weir, employed by the Big Bay Lumber company, died Sunday morning at St. Mary's hospital of pneumonia. He was brought to the institution only a few days ago.

Calumet—The monthly meeting of the Copper Country Ministerial association was held Monday afternoon. The principal feature of the program was a paper by Rev. D. D. Stalker, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Calumet on, "The Minister, a Student."

Eagle River—The Keweenaw county Republicans elected the following delegates to the Bay City convention: Frank Bawden, Dr. J. W. R. Kirton, Dr. A. R. Tucker and J. R. Bennetts.

Marquette—John C. Fassbender, Sr., for the past forty-five years a resident of Marquette, died Sunday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. William Carr, after an illness of but four weeks. Mr. Fassbender was one of the best known citizens of Marquette. He was born in Germany Jan. 20, 1834, and came to this country in 1867.

Ishpeming — Henry Losselyong, a former well known resident of Ishpeming, passed away Sunday at Morgan Heights sanitarium, where he had been a patient for the past few weeks.

Negaunee—The work of installing the new switchboard at the city electric plant was completed the latter part of last week, and Sunday, when the engines were shut down, the connections were made, and the old board thrown out of circuit. Hereafter the city will furnish power to its patrons on Sunday as well as week days.

Ishpeming—Joseph Collick, who has been a patient in a Chicago hospital for the past several weeks, arrived home Monday. He submitted to a difficult operation, and it will be a week or two before he will be able to resume his duties with the Ishpeming Steam laundry.

Marquette—Rosco C. Young, chief engineer for the Lake Superior & Ishpeming Railway company, left Monday evening for Chicago, where he will attend the American Railway Engineering association convention, to be held March 19, 20 and 21. Roadmaster E. C. Watson also left Monday evening to attend the convention.

Menominee—The annual short course at the Menominee Agricultural school opened Monday under auspicious circumstances. Many farmers are in attendance.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Marinette—Marshall Bean, the Chicago artist who committed suicide, was buried here from the Presbyterian church.

Chippewa—Farmers of Northern Wisconsin are taking up the culture of sugar beets more enthusiastically than ever. The Chippewa Sugar company of this city has already contracted for 5,000 acres of beets for 1912.

La Crosse—La Crosse Progressive Republican leaders, who are looking after Congressman Esch's campaign for renomination at the September primaries, during his absence in Washington, are elated over encouraging reports received from all parts of the Seventh district.

Marinette—"Grandma" Miller celebrated her 92nd birthday this week. She has been a resident of Marinette for fifty years.

Hartford—Judge Hiram W. Sawyer of Hartford, Wis., may be brought out as a Democratic candidate for governor. A movement for the nomination of Judge Sawyer was begun among a number of Democratic leaders who were in Milwaukee to attend the Bryan meetings.

Fond du Lac—When returning from a lumber camp near Antigo, where he has been working during the winter months, Walter Triplia was robbed of $80 while sleeping in a passenger car on the Chicago and North-Western road.

Waukesha—Robert L. Roberts, East Main street, was seriously injured in an accident at the plant of the Modern Steel Structural company. Roberts was operating a large emery wheel when it broke in two pieces, one of which lacerated the left side of his head and injured his left breast and arm.

Sheboygan—Miss Amelia Werner, 19 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Werner, died after a short illness. Death was due to a stroke of paralysis. She is survived by her parents and one brother, Charles, and a sister, Augusta.

Rhinelander—The first annual farmers' course in Oneida county, under the auspices of the University of Wisconsin department of agriculture and direction of E. L. Luther, agricultural representative, will be held at Rhinelander on March 28, 29 and 30.

Sheboygan—Emil Koll of Adell has purchased the Robert Donath cheese factory at Batavia for $3,500.

Two Rivers—The board of public works awarded to the Schuete Cement Construction company of Manitowoc paving contracts for the coming summer that will aggregate $30,000; twenty-five blocks will be paved.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Devils Lake, N. D.—J. B. Higgembotham of Doyon has returned from an Eastern trip. His father who lives at Athens, W. Va., was very ill and it was on account of his illness that Mr. Higgenbotham went East at this time. After his father's health improved he had an opportunity to visit old friends.

Bismarck, N. D.—State Dairy Commissioner R. F. Flint returned Sunday from a two weeks' trip up and down the main line of the Soo railway from Bowbells to Wyndmere, where he conducted a series of farmers' institutes and dairy meetings. He was assisted on his trip by John Christianson of New Salem, and by E. B. Coglon, one of the better farming experts.

Larimore, N. D.—Miss Anna Bergren met with an accident Tuesday while driving a team hitched to a buggy by being thrown out of the rig.

Grand Forks, N. D.—The fourth annual rendition of Dubois' sacred cantata, "The Seven Last Words of Christ," will be given by the choir of the First Baptist church on Good Friday evening, April 5, and the work is now in preparation.

Dickinson, N. D.—H. J. McGowan, a farmer in the Oakdale neighborhood, was unfortunate enough to lose a roll of money, amounting to $435 while on his way home from Dickinson.

Devils Lake, N. D.—The contest for the possession of the northeast quarter of section 35, 163-70, land in Rolette county, the history of which dates back to 1890, returned Anna Johnson, defendant, winner. In a decision handed down by the general land office, the contest of Margaret Demarais, which was started and prosecuted by Col. Armstrong who recently left Devils Lake for the South, was dismissed.

Grand Forks, N. D.—At a meeting of the sophomore class of the university, Randell Larson of Minot was elected assistant editor-in-chief of the Weekly Student for next year.

Minot, N. D.—Rev. Edwin S. Shaw of Minot, missionary representative of the Congregational Home Missionary society has gone to Ypsilanti, Mich., to attend a family reunion at the home of his father, who is 86 years old. While in the East Mr. Shaw will attend the annual meeting of the Congregational Sunday School Missionary society and institute.

Fargo, N. D.—J. L. Killion, who has been secretary of the Fargo Bond & Trust company, has been elected president of a new auto company, which will be known as the Glide Automobile company with headquarters in the Mill City, where the company will maintain a garage and repair plant, and during the present week Mr. Killion will move with his family to Minneapolis to make his home.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Badger—At the last meeting of the Woodmen here seven new members were initiated, making the membership ninety-nine. The new members were C. Dahl, William Johnson, Anton Dahl, J. N. Johnson, J. Olson, Charles Shaefer and Peter Torkelson.

International Falls—A. L. Thwing, a Grand Rapids attorney who was at one time a candidate for district judge, spent Saturday in the city on legal business and was warmly welcomed.

St. Cloud—With the signing of the articles of incorporation of the Elks' Home Building Fund association the work of securing subscriptions for the new home will progress rapidly. The association is incorporated for $25,000, and the stock will be taken by the local members in $50 shares.

Bemidji—Chief Gell and Officers Henderson and Denly raided a house at 29 Tenth street Saturday night and arrested Betsy Loberg and Amelia Higgins on a charge of running an unlicensed drinking place. Charles Shores and Ole Quamm were found in the house with the women and also arrested. The two women were each fined $25 and costs, Betsy Loberg paying her fine, and Mrs. Higgins being committed to the county jail.

Rochester—Charles Gray has been appointed to gather data in Olmstead county for the state immigration bureau, which will be used in the proposed advertising campaign of Minnesota. Monthly reports will be made by Mr. Gray on crop conditions, etc.

Fergus Falls—Edward Ward, who was so seriously injured on Lake Alice a few weeks ago, has been removed from St. Luke's hospital to his home in the northern part of the city. He is somewhat improved, but has by no means completely recovered yet.

Wiriona—Word has reached this city of the arrest of Seeling brothers, fishermen of this city, at Fairmont, for alleged violation of the state fish and game laws. Two charges, one that other than rough fish were seigned and the other that fish were shipped by them out of the state without a permit, are pressed against the alleged offenders.

Pillager—The tie votes on record here were disposed of and the Socialist, A. L. Randall, won out. Wildman of the people's ticket won the constable office, when that tie vote was disposed of. One of the old justices of the peace claimed he held over and Attorney Jay Henry Long gave an opinion in his favor. Thomas H. Parsons, whose name appeared on ballots, was made justice of the peace.

Little Falls—C. E. Brown, who had charge of the farmers' short course held in Little Falls last month, has just finished some work in Todd county, where he addressed several meetings. Mr. Brown who has been connected with the university extension work, has been elected to have charge of all the state agricultural farms this year.

Sauk Rapids—Mrs. Magdaline Mischo, aged 78, wife of John Mischo, Sr., died Monday morning of heart trouble from which she has been a sufferer for about a year. Her husband and family of five sons and two daughters were present when the end came. The daughters are Mrs. James J. Kiloran of St. Cloud and Miss Theresa Mischo of Sauk Rapids; and the sons are James, Nick, John and Ferdinand, all of Sauk Rapids, and Valentine of Pontaic, Ill.

St. Cloud—L. C. Brown, formerly secretary and treasurer of the St. Cloud granite works, and Frank Ekstrom of the Granite City Granite company have purchased the plant of the National Granite works and will continue the business under the same name. National Granite works.

Perham—The Perham Holding company is the name of the company that has taken over all of the properties of the late Peter Schroeder. They organized by electing the following officers: President, A. Markel; vice president, M. J. Daly; manager, secretary and treasurer, M. Walz.

Moorhead—Arthur Johnson of the normal school and who has taught school at Nome, Alaska, addressed the men's seminary at the Congregational church on Sunday upon his observations in Alaska. He went into details as to the life and habits of the newer occupants of the territory, and of the natives.

Stillwater—The Samuel McClure estate paid $4,032.30 inheritance tax, of which 10 per cent goes to Washington county. The total valuation was $254,115. The widow paid 3 per cent upon $74,705, and each of the five children paid 1½ per cent on $23,882 each.

Restores Men to Vital Vigor

The weakling must stand aside today; it is the strong, vital, healthy man who succeeds — who has the courage to meet all dangers. I can give you this vital strength.

Vitality is the thing which makes success; it gives men that compelling power which sends them forth eager and equipped to meet and overcome all obstacles; it is the thing which gives our young men courage to face death; it is the thing which inspires and holds a woman's love and faith. No matter what your age, I can give you this same vitality: I can restore the vigor you have lost from any cause, I can make you "young" and keep you "young." From an intimate and studious observation of possibly 100,000 weakened men I say to you that vitality or the lack of it means all the difference between a healthy man and a half man. The man who bubbles with vital power will exert a pleasing influence upon all with whom he comes in contact; women are naturally attracted to him, as are men. Lack of vitality is a negative condition, and it even repels. You wear my Health Belt and suspensory attachment all night; it sends a great, glowing, health-giving current of electro vimlth into your nerves, blood and organs; it takes all the "kink" out of your back and all the coward out of your make-up; it puts you right up in the "feeling fine" class and keeps you there. No stimulation, no false results; just a sure return to manhood and courage. Recommended also for rheumatism, pain in the back, kidney, liver, stomach and bladder disorders. It makes you feel young and keeps you feeling young forever.

Let Me Send You This Book Free

Here is my latest illustrated book, "Health In Nature," a fund of private information relating to weaknesses of men. All men, young or old, can read every word of this little publication with great profit. Sent to you in plain, sealed envelope by mail. The book is not written with the idea of compelling you to use my Health Belt; it is meant merely as a guide for me... and while my Belt is fully described, there is absolutely no obligation on your part to purchase. I simply want you to read this book that you may know certain truths about all weaknesses which have never been printed before. Vitality is the greatest thing in the world, and I can supply you with it. Please fill in the coupon, or drop into my office for free consultation and test of Belt. Hours; 9 to 6.

GLAD TAFT IS FOR PRIMARY

Roosevelt Issues Statement on President's Boston Speech.

Governor Deneen Will Call No Special Session in Illinois.

New York, March 20.—Col. Roosevelt has issued a statement discussing President Taft's speech in Boston.

"President Taft is reported as saying at Boston," Col. Roosevelt says, "that the voluntary primary power—as he calls it the 'soap-box primary'—that is, a method adopted by the people as the only way in which to express their wishes when their legislatures deny them any opportunity to do so, is worse than nothing. But the president continued to say that he favored a preferential primary for the presidency.

"I am exceedingly glad that the president has taken this ground, and if his campaign managers will sincerely back him in the proposition, we will be able at once to get the presidential preferential primary in Michigan, Illinois, Maryland, the District of Columbia and New York."

Col. Roosevelt then related the vain efforts made to get the president's moral support for the measure in Massachusetts. He continued:

"However, public opinion was aroused, and the bill went through, and I am exceedingly glad that the president—now nearly a week after the bill has become a law—should say, as he does, that he favors it and welcomes it.

"But I earnestly hope that the president and his supporters will in other states support such legislation before it passes and not after it passes."

Col. Roosevelt interrupted his office duties yesterday to meet the incoming liner Turralba from Colon, Port Limon and Kingston, bearing among other passengers Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss Ethel, who have been cruising in Southern waters. From the pier Mrs. Roosevelt and daughter went to Oyster Bay by automobile.

Francis J. Heney, the San Francisco graft prosecutor, called upon the colonel.

Two for Taft.

Harrisonburg, Va., March 20.—John Paul and R. J. Walker are the Seventh district delegates to the Republican national convention, instructed for Taft; no contest.

Two Uninstructed.

Port Huron, Mich., March 20.—Seventh district delegates to Republican national convention, Lincoln Avery and John E. Wallace. Uninstructed.

No Illinois Primary.

Chicago, March 20.—Governor Deneen will not call a special session of the state legislature to enact a preferential primary law. Recently the governor announced he would call a special session if two-thirds of the representatives would petition him to take such action.

Primary in Ohio.

Columbus, Ohio, March 20.—With Harmon men in complete control, the Democratic state central committee provided for a presidential preference primary in Ohio on May 21. A state convention for the nomination of the state ticket was called to be held at Toledo on June 4 and 5.

Congressman Whitacre of Canton opposed Governor Harmon's presidential primary plan and proposed a resolution providing that the six delegates at large be elected by state-wide primary. This was defeated by the adoption of the Harmon plan, which provides that the successful presidential candidate in the primary of May 21 shall name the delegates at large.

Indorsement For Taft.

Republican county executive committee chairmen adopted a resolution indorsing President Taft and renewing the pledge of the state convention of 1910 pledging Ohio's support to the president. The conference was attended by 62 county chairmen, either in person or by proxy. The 26 absentees, the Taft leaders claim, are evenly divided between Taft and Roosevelt.

Preceding the vote to indorse President Taft, addresses in support of the administration were made by United States Senator Rheodore E. Burton, Mr. Laylin and others, and plans were set in motion for the lining up of the entire 48 votes of Ohio in the national convention for Taft. It was decided that a campaign by county organizations should be made in every part of the state.

FALLING OFF IN STEEL EARNINGS

New York, March 20.—The complete report of the United States Steel corporation for 1911 shows a decrease of $36,749,288 in earnings and a decrease of $32,271,970 in net.

Total undivided surplus, exclusive of profits earned by subsidiaries on intercompany sales, $133,681,195, as against $164,143,157 the previous year. Surplus net income is $4,665,494, a decrease of $32,106,888. The balance of surplus for the year shows a shrinkage of $6,106,888 despite the failure of the corporation to set aside any money for account of expenditures for additional properties, discharge of capital obligations or additional outlay on the Gary plant, for all of which the sum of $25,000,000 was appropriated in 1910.

The report shows that the average number of employes in 191 was 196,888 against 218,435 in 1910, with total annual salaries and wages of $161,419,031, as compared with $174,955,139 in 1910.

Volume of business done by all the companies of the corporation as represented by their combined gross sales and earnings was $615,148,839 against $703,961,424 the previous year.

LIVE WIRE SETS FIRE TO BALLOON; TWO HURT.

Strassburg, Germany, March 20.—A runaway military balloon was destroyed and its occupants, two army lieutenants, were seriously injured near here yesterday. The balloon, which was a captive one, used for military observations, broke away from its moorings, and the steel cable by which it had been attached to the ground touched a high voltage line near Disharm. The current passed through the steel cable and set fire to the balloon, which burst, the two lieutenants falling to the ground.

EX-SENATOR FLAYS TAFT

Beveridge Makes Speech for Roosevelt in Chicago Campaign.

Talks of Trusts, Pledges and Good Faith With the People.

Chicago, March 20.—Former Senator Albert J. Beveridge fired one of the opening guns of the Roosevelt campaign in Chicago in a speech last night. The meeting was the largest the Roosevelt forces have held here thus far and is to be followed by the appearance of Col. Roosevelt himself next week. Several delegations of Roosevelt men from state points attended the meeting.

Former Senator Beveridge declared the most pressing need of the country was a strong man at its head, a man so strong that he could control the great corporations and their makers. He said the Sherman law had failed in its purpose because it was at war with natural law, and that prosecutions under the present administration had been futile.

Attended Taft Leadership.

The speaker also arraigned the leadership of President Taft, saying in part:

"What the people need at the head of their government is a strong man, the very strongest man they can find. Great business concerns have the strongest men they can find to care for their interests. Why should not the people have the strongest men they can find to care for their interests? This is a big country and its needs big business to serve it, but it ought not let big business rule it.

"It is the nature of power to want ever more power. That is why strong men in business, if unrestricted, honestly come to think that they are above the government. And that is why we need at the head of our government a man so strong that he can make the other strong men understand that they are not above, but under the government. The only man who ever has done that since modern business began to absorb the strongest minds and most daring hearts of the nation is Theodore Roosevelt.

People's Power Greatest.

"He made the strongest men in American business, and that means the strongest men in all the world, understand that greater than their mighty power is the people's power. He taught them that the laws of the republic are for the great as well as for the lowly; for the strong as well as the weak; and that over all alike, whether for punishment of the criminal or protection of the innocent, is the sword of the nation's justice. He brought them to their knees before the government, which until then, they had ignored or used as their instrument.

"The chief and just complaint of the people is the high cost of living. The chief artificial cause for this is an over-capitalization of trusts. The Sherman law was not meant to prevent over-capitalization, but to prevent trusts. But trusts are nothing but large organizations of capital, and this is the natural result of natural forces which no law could stop. So the Sherman law, after a trial of nearly a quarter of a century, has failed in its purpose because it is an artificial law at war with natural law.

Water and High Prices.

"Billions of dollars' worth of watered stock have been issued and sold by railroad and industrial corporations and other forms of active capital. To pay interests on the bonds and dividends on the stock of this ocean of fictitious paper, prices have been charged that have made the necessaries of life almost beyond the reach of the common people.

"During all this time our government has done nothing except to enforce the Sherman law; and even it was most tenderly applied until Theodore Roosevelt brought more suits against the trusts under the Sherman law than all other administrations put together. But these trusts fought these suits, and so the biggest of them came to an end during Mr. Taft's administration. And how have they been ended?

"Mr. Taft appointed a New York corporation lawyer as attorney general. How have these suits against the oil and tobacco trusts, brought by Roosevelt, been disposed of by Wickersham? Both trusts still go on doing business in the same old way. They still can raise prices as they like, and already have done so. They still can issue watered stock as they like, and already have done so. And they now can do both under a decree of our federal court which Wickersham recommended and to which these trusts eagerly agreed.

What Good Does It Do?

"What good does it do the ordinary citizen to read about a lawsuit against the oil trust in the morning and find the price of his oil raised before night? What good does it do the working man who smokes a pipe to be told that the Tobacco trust has been 'dissolved,' and yet be forced to pay the same or even higher prices for the same short-weight package of tobacco?

"So not one wrong has been righted which the trusts had practiced. The robber barons of business have been licensed instead of being regulated. And the whole oligarchy of criminal capital know that they can get the same thing done—for must not the courts follow this precedent?

"But, it is asked, what more could Mr. Taft have done about the trusts than he has done? The answer is that he could have kept the pledge of the platform on which he was elected. The Republican national platform declared that the Sherman law does not meet the situation and pledged that it would be altered. Mr. Taft took no aggressive steps to insist that congress should keep our party's pledge on this grave subject.

"On the other hand, he called an extra session of congress to force through his personal measure for reciprocity with Canada, which our party platform did not mention, for which there was no demand among our people, and which a majority of Republicans in both houses of congress were against. An extra session of congress never should be called, except only in great emergencies, or when the people have decreed in a national election that it shall be called. Mr. Taft called the extra session to carry out a policy of his own."

Third Term Idea.

The speaker ridiculed the idea that a third term was a dangerous precedent. He asserted that it grew out of our forefathers' fear of kings, and was meant only to prevent consecutive terms. He declared the Republican party owed no debt of gratitude to President Taft, who, he said, had held public office for almost thirty years.

Rheumatic Pains

are quickly relieved by an appplication of Sloan's Liniment. It's very penetrating, goes straight to the sore spot.

HERE'S PROOF

Miss ELSIE MANTHEY, 4229 Talman Ave., Chicago, Ill., writes: "About two years ago my mother broke down with rheumatism. The doctors didn't do any good. My mother was persuaded to try Sloan's Liniment, and in three weeks was entirely well—and I believe she is cured forever."

Mrs. A. WEIDMAN, of 403 E. Thompson St., Maryville, Mo., writes: "The nerve in my leg was destroyed five years ago, and left me with a jerking at night so that I could not sleep. A friend told me to try your liniment and now I could not do without it. I find after its use I can go to sleep."

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

is an excellent remedy for sprains, bruises, sore throat, asthma, neuralgia, lumbago, lame muscles and stiff joints.

SCHOOLS WILL OPEN IN APRIL

Instruction in Poultry Raising and Gardening Next Month.

The school in gardening will open at the Y. M. C. A. on April 13 and continue until April 20.

The school in poultry will begin on April 22 and continue until April 27.

These schools were to have been started some time ago with afternoon and evening classes, but Prof. N. F. Chapman, who was to have had charge of the poultry branch of the work, was ill and both were postponed.

It costs but $2 to enter either of the schools. Many are planning on taking both courses. The $2 includes everything, the entrance to the class rooms and all text books.

In addition to taking up the growing of garden vegetables, it is planned to study the growing of flowers also.

WAS WRAPPED IN SILENCE

Horace Mish of Chicago, traveling man, wondered why everything was so quiet around his room at the Spalding yesterday morning, for it appeared to be at least 8 o'clock.

"Well it might be very early," thought Mr. Mish and he went to sleep again. He finally awoke, dressed and looking at his watch found it to be 10:30 o'clock. Mr. Mish could not figure out how he happened to sleep so late, but he went forth to his daily work.

On stepping out of his room he saw five housemaids congregated in one corner of the hall talking in whispers. When they saw him one of them fled and another nearly fainted. Mr. Mish could not make it all out. Turning about to close his door he saw what was the cause of all this excitement. Hanging from the top of the door was a bouquet of violets with a number of dainty blue ribbons flowing beneath. Above the flowers was the following inscription in large capital letters, "Silence."

Mr. Mish then pondered and began to figure what salesman sells cloth flowers, who might be in the hotel at this time of the year. Going downstairs to look at the register, everyone he met seemed dazed at the sight of him. Even the clerk turned white and upon inquiring why his bell did not ring at 7 o'clock, as he had ordered, he was told that the housemaid had telephoned down telling the office not to bother room 354.

Looking through the register Mr. Mish found that John Jokobi, known as the "flower and feather king" in salesman circles, was stopping at the hotel. Later on during the day the two men met. Mr. Mish gladly paid for the dinners.

Submarine Launched.

San Francisco, Cal., March 20.—The submarine Barracouta or "F2," was launched yesterday at the Union Iron works. Miss Annette Rolph, daughter of Mayor James E. Rolph, Jr., broke a bottle of California wine on the vessel's bow.

MONTANA LAND FRAUD OF $50,000 ALLEGED.

Kansas City, Mo., March 20.—August T. Moreaux, a land dealer, was arrested here yesterday charged with defrauding Mrs. Rodella G. Dwight, a wealthy resident here of $50,000 in the sale of 825 acres of land in the Bitter Root valley in Montana.

Moreaux's bond was fixed at $20,000 which he was unable to obtain, and he was taken to jail. He denied that he was guilty of the charge and said he would establish his innocence.

Mrs. Dwight is prominent in social settlement work.

MARCHING CLUB IS AGAIN ACTIVE

Along with the revival of interest on the part of the Ancient and Amalgamated Order of Homecrofters, the B. V. D. Marching club has resumed operations.

The B. V. D. Marching club is composed of those who "walk to work." During the winter, when the snow and ice cover the sidewalks, the membership of the marching club suffers, and dwindles almost to a negligible quantity but as soon as Dame Nature does her spring cleaning and offers a firm footing, the walkers begin to make their appearance. With the first sign of spring weather the streets through the East end show a procession of pedestrians.

Few cities boast of as many walking enthusiasts as Duluth. Many business men walk from as far east as Twenty-fourth avenue, and the West end also has its quota of fresh air enthusiasts. The B. V. D. Marching club is a very cosmopolitan and democratic body. It contains men who join under the whip of an increasing avoirdunois; men who feel the expenditure of the daily nickel for car fare, and many genuine enthusiasts who walk because they like it.

Donnybrook, N. D., Fire.

Donnybrook, N. D., March 20.—Fire totally destroyed W. A. Sherman's residence at this place. The fire originated in the garret but the cause is unknown, although it is supposed to have been the result of a defective flue. Most of the furniture was saved. The loss will reach about $3,000, with $2,200 insurance.

Special Sale of Silverware Starts Saturday

Proprietors of Hotels, Boarding Houses, Cafes, Etc., will be particularly interested in this opportunity to renew their silverware and fill in missing pieces at a saving of one-half.

For some time we have been handling two special designs in silverware—"WALDORF" and "ORIENT"—and we feel that the time has come to display different designs.

These lines have sold well, but to be recognized as thoroughly up-to-date, a store must have new and different things on display from time to time.

We have already decided on our new designs and must make room for them by disposing entirely of our present stock.

Single pieces, sets or complete chests of these two dainty patterns will therefore be thrown open to your choice on Saturday, March 23rd, at exactly one-half the former prices.

The original price tags remain on every piece—make your selection and pay us just one-half the marked price!

See the samples in the showcase between our windows, and—wait for Saturday—the sale will start first thing in the morning!

THREE WAYS TO LAY DUST

City Will Use Water, Road Oil and Calcium Chloride.

List of Sprinkling Districts Is Prepared for the Council.

Two preparations and water will be used for laying the dust in Duluth the coming season, as shown by the detailed statement of the sprinkling districts prepared by the board of public works.

Road oil will be used in two districts as an experiment. The board of public works recently investigated the conditions in Superior where it was used last summer and it was reported that it had been a decided success. The oil will be used on Fifth street between Fifteen and Twenty-seventh avenue east and on London road from Forty-second to Sixtieth avenue east.

Three districts will be spread with Solvay calcium chloride, which was tried out in Duluth last summer. It will not be put down nearly as extensively this season as last. The chloride, it was discovered, would not lay the dust where it was too thick. Too much was expected of it in some places, but where the conditions were reasonably favorable it gave excellent satisfaction. Chloride will be used on Sixth street between Cascade street and Fourteenth avenue east, on Woodland avenue from Fourth street to Kent road and from Victoria street to Oxford street, and on London road from Ninth avenue east to Twenty-second avenue east.

The remainder of the city will be sprinkled with water. All the business streets will be sprinkled in the old-fashioned way and a good many of the streets in the residence sections. There will be eighteen water sprinkling districts in Duluth. City Clerk Harry W. Cheadle will forward a list of them to each of the aldermen and it is not unlikely that some alterations may be made in the list as submitted by the board of public works.

ESTIMATES ARE NOW BEING MADE

Shipments Expected to Be Much Greater Than Last Year.

The United States Steel corporation and independent concerns operating mines and furnaces are beginning to make estimates of the amount of ore that they will need during the present year, and it now looks as though the demand will be much heavier than it was last year.

As a result of the increased orders placed in the last two weeks, the amount of ore that will be needed to supply all of the furnace interests in 1912 will, it is believed, equal if not exceed 40,000,000 tons, as compared with 32,000,000 tons in 1911. Three weeks ago it looked as though there would be a decrease in shipments this year, as orders placed up to that time aggregated approximately only 20,000,000 tons.

It is now expected that about 30 per cent of all the ore shipped down the lakes during the coming season will be from the Great Northern docks at Superior. It is said that the United States Steel corporation has already announced that it will require 3,000,000 tons more ore this year than last. A considerable portion of this increased tonnage will come from the Mesaba district and it will be handled by the Hill road. It is also reported that the independent shippers will require at least 4,000,000 tons more this year than in 1911.

Owing to the continued cold weather, and the great quantity of ice in the harbors, it is believed that there will be a late opening of navigation. This is causing the officials of some of the railroads concern, as they are afraid that they will not be able properly to handle all the business if the opening of navigation is delayed until May. Most of the railroads will be ready to handle ore by the first of April, but it is not expected that there will be any moving at that time.

It is said that if navigation does not open until May 15, the Great Northern road will experience a greater rush in the Mesaba district that ever before. With such a delay in the opening of navigation it is a question whether the Great Northern will be able to handle all the ore it has contracted to move.

WHAT DOES THIS PORTEND?

"Uncle Jud" Accused of Kidnaping Clark's "Houn' Dawg" Song.

Washington, March 20.—That the "Houn' Dawg" song has been appropriated by Judson Harmon's headquarters here, and is being used as a last resort to vitalize the candidacy of the Ohio governor, is the charge issued from the Champ Clark presidential headquarters.

Clark attaches have for several days past heard the strains of "Houn' Dawg" rag coming from Harmon headquarters, housed in the same hotel. Until yesterday they have taken it as a matter of compliment—in the spirit of making it unanimous. One of the Clark forces drifted into Ohio headquarters and found this parody decorating the walls:

"Old 'Uncle Jud' of Columbus Town
Allows no dog to be kicked aroun';
He does what he can for the people's good,
And now says little and just saws wood."

The police have been notified.

Pains All Over

Houston, Tex.—"For five years," says Mrs. L. Fulenchek, of this place, "I suffered with pains all over, especially in my back and side, and was so weak I could hardly do my housework. A friend told me of Cardui. Since taking it, I feel so much better! Now I can do all my housework and pains don't bother me any more at all." Cardui is a strength-building medicine. Fifty years of success have produced, amongst its many users, confidence in Cardui and what it will do. During this time, Cardui has relieved the female ailments of over a million women. Why not yours? Try it, today. Your druggist sells it.

FLOODWOOD WANTS ROAD

Rich Agricultural District Is Entirely Cut Off From Duluth.

Section of Highway Eight Miles Long Needed to Make Connection.

If St. Louis county would build a road about eight miles long, across township 52-19, Duluth would be joined with a fast-growing agricultural district in the vicinity of Floodwood. At present, the district is entirely cut off from Duluth, although Floodwood people have made frequent pleas for relief.

Another effort is now being made to have a connection between Floodwood and the Miller Trunk road at Alborn established. About 250 families are expected to settle in the Floodwood district this year. The number would be greatly increased if the people interested in getting settlers could promise good roads between the district and the best available market.

The Miller Trunk road between Duluth and Alborn is in good condition. There is a road up to the town line of 52-19, but it stops there and across the town is impassable. A road has been surveyed but no other work has been done on it. In the opinion of Floodwood people, an expenditure of $5,000 would put the road in good condition.

"G. G. Hartley's Island farm is one of the most beautiful in the state, while there are many good smaller farms in the vicinity of of Floodwood, but they cannot be reached from Duluth except by train. Commissioner Overton has been repeatedly urged to use his influence to correct the condition, but he has not secured results yet," said a Floodwood man this morning. "The country is growing fast. About 250 families will enter on land there this year. The Great Northern has a heavy tonnage out of Floodwood. Everything points to the district being a rich tributary country for Duluth, but Duluth should have direct connection with it by good roads."

C. I. McNair of Cloquet, a member of the state highway commission, said that if the road to Floodwood were built, the Cloquet people would build to connect with it, so that Floodwood people would have two roads, one via Alborn and the other through Cloquet.

The Floodwood people intend to take the subject up with the Duluth Commercial club and endeavor to secure the co-operation of that body. They say the road is necessary to the agricultural development of the Floodwood district and should be built immediately.

INJUNCTION IS REFUSED

Judge Dibell Will Not Hold Up Cloquet Bridge Contract.

Continuing the argument begun at Cloquet Saturday, some points were laid before Judge Dibell in district court here by Attorney Walter L. Case of Cloquet in the injunction proceedings instituted by E. S. Schiebe, a former alderman, enjoining the mayor and clerk of the city from signing the contract which awarded the building of a bridge across St. Louis river from the city to Dunlap island to the Great Northern Bridge company of Minneapolis.

Judge Dibell refused to grant the injunction, but it is likely that the case will be appealed. Attorneys Case and F. T. Persinger were employed by Mr. Schiebe, and City Attorney Fesenbeck of Cloquet, Attorney Lord of Carlton and Attorney Abbott of Duluth appeared for the City of Cloquet.

Mr. Schiebe's contention was not that there was any dishonesty in awarding the contract, but that the manner of awarding it established a precedent that in years to come might get the city into difficulties. Several bids were submitted but each was for a different style of bridge and the contract was awarded to the firm submitting the plan that seemed satisfactory and no bids were called for on plans and specifications, giving the council a chance to award the contract to the lowest bidder. Mr. Schiebe said: "The council employed no competent engineer on the job, and a year's salary to an engineer might have been saved thereby; no resolution was passed by the council authorizing the advertising for bids for the construction of a bridge; had there been competition, the bid might have been lowered $1,000; the concrete piers upon which the steel work will rest are specified as a foot and a half, when they are commonly three feet." Mr. Schiebe also says that he is making his objection as a taxpayer and that he feels the city is making a bad business deal.

FORMER MAYOR HEADS WISCONSIN BREWERS

FRANK ERDLITZ.

Marinette, Wis., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a recent meeting of the Wisconsin Brewers' association in Milwaukee, Frank Erdlitz, secretary and treasurer of the Menominee River Brewing company of Menominee, was elected president. Mr. Erdlitz is one of Menominee's most prominent and progressive citizens.

Mr. Erdlitz was elected mayor in 1900, and twice re-elected.

Frank Erdlitz is a native of Austria, where he was born in 1864. He came to the United States in 1866 and to Menominee in 1886.

CARS BLOW UP AFTER COLLISION

Conductor on Lehigh Road Is Killed at Manchester, N. Y.

Canandaigua, N. Y., March 20.—Buildings were shaken and windows broken by an explosion today when a Lehigh Valley locomotive ran into a string of freight cars loaded with oil and explosive chemicals in the railroad yard at Manchester.

Albert Mack, a freight conductor living at Suspension Bridge, was killed. He was riding on the pilot of the engine and was fatally crushed.

The first explosion was followed by others which, however, did little damage. Three cars loaded with the same explosives were cut out of the train and saved. The shock was felt half a mile away.

AMERICANS' HORSES KILLED IN CANADA.

Weyburn, Sask., March 20.—Because a large number of horses brought into Canada by American settlers have been shot by government orders on suspicion of having glanders, an international question has developed. Last week scores of horses belonging to Iowa and Minnesota farmers were killed at Weyburn by government inspectors, and it is said by the owners that they were affected only with train fever and not with glanders. The owners here appealed to Washington. It is feared that the circulation of the report of the whosale slaughter of American horses may retard immigration into the western provinces. The Canadian government is investigating the matter.

How Nature Makes New Complexions

(From The Family Physician.)

It is well known that the human skin is constantly undergoing a tearing-down and building-up process. With advancing years or waning vitality this tissue-change lags; the lifeless, soiled surface skin stays on so long that its owner gets a "poor complexion."

Common sense tells us this dead skin cannot be enlivened by any cosmetic. The natural thing to do is to remove it. It has been found that ordinary mercolized wax completely absorbs the devitalized skin, in minute particles, so gently, gradually, as to cause no inconvenience. This wax, which any druggist can supply, is put on at night like cold cream and washed off in the morning. If you'd have a brilliantly beautiful complexion, just try this simple method.

TWO NEW ULM STONE CONCERNS CONSOLIDATED.

New Ulm, Minn., March 20.—The consolidation of the New Ulm Stone company and the Minnesota Flint Rock company, both operating granite quarries near this city, has been effected, and the business will go on under the name of the New Ulm Flint Rock company. The first named company has been engaged in business for ten years, and the other for half of that time. Albert Hanft of St. Paul is president of the new company and Robert Scherer of New Ulm is secretary-treasurer. The annual output of the two quarries is valued at $100,000. The new concern is incorporated with $50,000 capital.

MORGAN GIVES $100,000 TO PEABODY COLLEGE.

Nashville, Tenn., March 20.—Announcement was made here today of a gift of $100,000 by J. Pierpont Morgan to the Peabody college for teachers. The trustees of the George Peabody fund agreed to give an additional $500,000 to the Southern college, provided the college raised $1,000,000 by Sept. 1, 1913. Mr. Morgan's contribution is to be a part of the million. Southern alumni have agreed to raise $200,000.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

OFFERS BIG SUM FOR KILBANE

Tom McCarty Wants Exclusive Use of Johnny for Two Years.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 20.—Manager Tom McCarty, of the Vernon A. C., telegraphed yesterday to Jimmy Dunn, manager of Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion, a cash offer of $50,000 for the exclusive services of Kilbane and himself for a period of two years "to date from the moment you sign the contract."

In his telegram to Dunn, who is in Cleveland, Ohio, McCarty said he would require that Kilbane fight as many featherweights as McCarty could develop and besides take the leading part in moving picture enterprises.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 20.—McCarty's offer of $50,000 for Johnny Kilbane's services for two years probably will not be accepted. One of Dunn's partners in the management of Kilbane said that Kilbane through theatrical engagements and purse fighting could earn more than McCarty offered and yet not be under any ironbound contract.

LAW MUST NOT BE VIOLATED

Governor McGovern of Wisconsin Talks on Kelly-McGoorty Fight.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 20.—Governor Francis E. McGovern, who was in Milwaukee yesterday afternoon for the purpose of voting at the primary election, said he had not as yet received any petition from citizens of Kenosha with reference to preventing the boxing contest between Hugo Kelly and Eddie McGoorty.

"It is the duty of the sheriff of Kenosha county to see that the law is not violated," said Governor McGovern. "If the sheriff fails in his duty and my attention is called to the matter it will receive consideration."

"FITZ" IS SUED FOR $50,000

Chicago, March 20.—The trouble between "Bob" Fitzsimmons, former heavy-weight champion, and John Taylor, the University of Chicago student, whom he assaulted, took a new turn yesterday when Taylor filed two suits for $25,000 each against the pugilist.

One suit is brought on the ground of slander and the other assault. Fitzsimmons a few days ago attacked Taylor in the office of a theatrical bureau after making accusations against him involving Mrs. Fitzsimmons.

POLICE CHIEF THE ATTRACTION

John E. Briggs, Omaha Police Head, in Attendance at Chicago Tournament.

Chicago, March 20.—Jimmy Smith of Buffalo, all-events champion for 1911, and John E. Briggs, chief of police of South Omaha, who led the posse which killed two of the Lincoln, Neb., penitentiary murderers and captured the third Monday, were the center of attraction in the minor events of the American Bowling congress tournament today. Both were scheduled to roll in the individual and two-men team events. Smith is regarded as the best bowler in the country.

HOLD MEETING ON ATHLETICS

College Presidents of "Big Eight" Will Discuss Summer Baseball.

Chicago, March 20.—Presidents of universities composing the "Big Eight" conference were scheduled to meet here today to deliberate on the differences which have arisen among the various institutions regarding athletics, particularly summer baseball.

Whether the conference is to stand, be reorganized or dissolved was the important question to be decided. The meeting was at the invitation of President Harris of Northwestern university. All presidents were expected to be present or represented by proxy with the exception of President George E. Vincent of Minnesota, who attended the banquet of the presidents last night but was obliged to return home before today's scheduled meeting.

It is said the faculty representatives would hold no meeting today, Prof. H. W. Johnson, chairman of the conference committee of athletics, having held that the meeting according to rules could not go on before one week from today.

It was decided at the meeting of Jan. 27, that an amendment proposed at that time could not be adopted or rejected before the expiration of sixty days.

CHAMPION KILBANE IS A FIGHTER OF GOOD HABITS AND CHARACTER

(By Walter C. Kelly.)

Cleveland, O., March 20.—Johnny Kilbane cannot help having luck, for he is a thoroughly religious boy and devoted to his wife and baby beyond measure, not to mention the manner in which he takes care of and supports his blind father. A young man who is so righteous is bound to be successful in any line of business, especially one of Kilbane's good habits otherwise.

Dr. A. P. Scully of this city, who has been family physician for the Kilbanes for several years past, voiced the foregoing voluntary statement with reference to the new featherweight champion of the world in a talk with the writer yesterday.

There never lived an athlete in Cleveland so universally well liked as Johnny Kilbane. He is a boy of magnetic personality. Full-blooded Irish, but of American birth, the little champion has the typical Milesian laughing hazel eyes. He wears a perpetual smile when among his friends, and his expression, even in battle, changes little. He is the personification of good nature and generosity, and is noted in his home neighborhood for his love for the company of children. He has been known to play marbles for hours on the sidewalks with the little ones over in the vicinity of his home. And as a result every kid in the neighborhood swears by Johnny.

Lost Mother When Young.

Young Kilbane's mother was one of the prettiest girls on the west side of the Cuyahoga river, persons who knew her well have told me. And they say she was an unusually bright little woman and of exceptionally sunny disposition. As a result of these characteristics she was very popular in the part of the city where she lived. But Johnny lost his mother when he was scarcely 6 years old, and he was reared to manhood by his grandmother, the late Mrs. Bridget Kilbane, one of the biggest-hearted Irish women who ever drew the breath of life, her neighbors declare. Grandmother Kilbane fairly doted on her "little Johnny," as she called him. She was at first opposed to his embarking in the pugilistic game, but Johnny liked the excitement to begin with, and he had his first few bouts unknown to his grandmother.

Grandmother Proud of Him.

Later on, however, some of the neighbors told her of Johnny's success in his early bouts, and she became not only interested in his career, but was very proud of the prowess he had been displaying up to the time she died a few months ago.

Johnny was in Los Angeles when the news of the death of his grandmother was received by his manager, Jimmy Dunn. In fact, the telegram came on the very day of his battle with Joe Rivers, whom he knocked out in the sixteenth round, but it was not known to Johnny until after the fight, Dunn knowing full well that the effect of the sad news would have been disastrous.

A few hours after Johnny had laid the Mexican champion low the news of his bereavement was gently broken to him by his wife. Johnny broke down and wept like a baby. He told those about him that if he had heard the contents of the telegram before getting into the ring he would never have been able to win. He loved his aged relative tenderly, and on learning of her demise he hurried his preparations to make a hasty start for home.

Johnny's Modest Start.

The Kilbanes were a poor family, and when Johnny's father became blind about nine years ago it devolved upon the boy, the only child, to assume the family burden, which he did like little man. He left St. Malachi's school with only another year to go before he would have been graudated, in order to support himself and his father. He obtained a position as timekeeper on the Cleveland & Pittsburg ore docks, and for a few years managed to keep himself and his stricken parent comfortably. And to this day the Kilbane neighbors tell of how "little Johnny" used to lead his father about when through with his work and on Sundays and holidays. The pair were inseparable. His devotion to his father won hundreds of friends for the future champion. And that same affection and dutiful consideration is still kept up. Johnny and his dad are frequently seen together now arm in arm on the streets when the boy is at home.

Kilbane's Happy Family.

Johnny married a beautiful and accomplished little Irish girl about two years ago. She was a Miss McDonnell, daughter of a West side business man. They have a pretty little baby girl 9 months old, and if ever a husband and father was proud of wife and baby, Champion Johnny Kilbane is proud of his interesting little family.

Kilbane is a young man of domestic tastes and a great lover of music. He plays the violin nicely, and entertains his friends at his home in this way. In fact, he is a good entertainer all around. He sometimes invites a few friends to what he calls a "good old Irish corned beef and cabbage dinner," and it is no exaggeration to say that the feast he places before his guests is fit for a king. And Johnny is a witty lad, too, and appreciates a good story so keenly that he is ever ready to walk a distance out of his way to hear one. For this reason he and Andy Kelly (Casey the Lion), are warm friends.

All Like Johnny.

It is safe to say that there never lived a champion pugilist who possessed such a remarkably likeable personality as this little Clevelander. Every man who knows him is his friend, and even fighters whom he has met in the ring have a good word for him. Abe Attell when here a few months after his first bout with Johnny told the writer that he had never met a finer little gentleman in or out of the ring than Johnny Kilbane. It is for these reasons that the people are just wild with enthusiasm over their little champion. He is Cleveland's first fistic champion, and to state that his fellow townspeople are proud of him puts its mildly. Nothing else is talked of here since the result of the battle was announced. Even the women folk are interested.

When Kilbane stepped into the ring at the La Salle club's smoker one night in the winter of 1907, he was a frail looking, smiling youth. He was on for a three-round bout with a rugged west side boy named Paddy Kilbane, a brother of Tommy's. Johnny looked anything but a fighter on that occasion. But he displayed natural speed with hands and feet. He landed blows and got away in a surprising manner for a green youth. The boys all knew him and liked him, and their applause on that night encouraged him. He determined to learn something of the finer points of the game.

Shortly after that time Jimmy Dunn, who had quite a reputation as a featherweight boxer, arrived in Cleveland and went into training near Vermilion for a match, with Phil Brock. Johnny heard of this, and without saying a word to any one he boarded a suburban trolley car and went down to Dunn's training quarters, and told Jimmy that he would like to help him train. He explained that he did not want any pay, but would be very well pleased if Dunn would permit him to work about the training quarters, doing chores and helping about the gymnasium. Dunn liked the boy's appearance and told him to get off his coat and go to work. Jimmy had no one to box with that day, so he told Johnny to put on the gloves and work out with him. Jimmy set a rapid pace and landed on and he took him under his managerial wing. He developed the boy gradually, and a few months later, when he sent him against a sturdy boy named Tom Manban, he surprised the natives by knocking his man out in the third round.

Johnny's Rapid Rise.

Dunn became more enthusiastic than ever, he matched Johnny with three different boys during the month, and he won each bout decisively.

Then he sent him against his namesake and present sparring partner. Tommy Kilbane, for a six-round bout at Lorain, Ohio, and Tommy was awarded the decision. He was sent against Jack White of Chicago, at Windsor, Ont., in the following month, and secured a draw, making a great showing. His speed startled the Canadians. A victory over Tommy Kilbane in a twenty-five round bout followed, and after that the boy climbed rapidly, adding to his ring tricks with every bout.

He won decisions over several good boys, including Paul Kohler, Young Saylor, Clyde Le Master, Jack White, Johnny Whittaker, Elz Mackay, Jeff Gaffney, Marty Heffron, Al Delmont, Bobby Tickle, Patsy Brannigan, Jimmy Walsh, Gussie Wilson, Charley White and several others. He was then matched with Champion Abe Attell for a ten-round bout at Kansas City, and he put up a rattling good fight, but the referee gave Abe the decision.

Since then Kilbane again defeated Brannigan, Jack White, Johnny Albanese, Young Ghetto, Joe Rivers, Patsy Kline and Frankie Conley.

It can be seen by the caliber of the boys whom the Cleveland gladiator has beaten that he is no accident. He is without doubt the fastest boxer who ever won the title in the featherweight ranks and as skillful as any of them.

THE FAMOUS OLD CUBS BEGINNING TO SLIDE

New York, March 20.—Six years ago a young, brainy team, led by a comparatively new but aggressive manager, was being considered as a dangerous factor in the National league pennant struggle, writes Shortstop in the Press. Before the 1906 campaign was well advanced this team had the pennant clinched and completely outclassed its league rivals in all departments. Not only did this aggregation win the 1906 National league gonfalon, but it won the championship of its circuit in 1907 and 1908. In the two years 1909 and 1911, when they failed to come in first, they finished second, and were only beaten out after stubborn tussles.

The identity of this team and its aggressive manager are well known to every fan. The team was the famous Chicago Cubs, and its chieftain, Frank Chance, the peerless leader. It was one of the greatest aggregations that was ever gathered together in the history of baseball and some critics, particularly with Windy City sympathies, believe the Cubs stood ahead of any team that ever was organized.

It now begins to look as though this famous aggregation has reached its limit. For the first time in many years the Cubs do not loom up strong for the National league pennant. Almost every baseball expert predicts that the 1912 National league race will be fought between the Giants and the Phillies, with the Pirates the third bet. The Cubs do not look better than a fourth place proposition and some critics are unkind enough to consign them to a berth in the second division.

Beginning of the End.

Chance's great machine began to creak badly toward the end of the 1910 season, and the real end of the Cubs came in the 1910 world's series, when the former proud monarchs of the universe were beaten to a pulp by the Athletics. Chance put up a noble fight last season, and for a time it looked as though he would land another championship for his team. However, the Cubs of last season were merely a shadow of the Cubs in their prime, and one of the remarkable things of last season is how this team managed to stay in the fight. Many people believe that the death knell of the Cubs was sounded last fall when the White Sox trimmed them four games in a row for the championship of Chicago. Perhaps no man ever paid Chance a greater tribute than Connie Mack last October, when he said:

"I believe the greatest achievement in Frank Chance's career was in finishing second in 1911 and keeping his team in the fight until a few days before the end of the season. Chance has won world's pennants, but his managerial skill and the winning spirit he instills into his players were never more manifest than in the season just ended."

The Cubs may put up another strong fight this season, but everything is against them. The team's hurling corps has fallen to pieces, and what was once the greatest staff of pitchers in the world has dwindled into mediocre collection of performers. With the exception of the Boston Braves, every team in the National league appears to be stronger in the twirling department than the former champions. Last season the Cubs managed to stick in the fight largely through the efforts of Mordecai Brown and Lew Richie. Mordecai may have gone back a little last season, but he can go back a whole lot more and still remain a star of the first magnitude. He participated in fifty-three games and is charged with eleven defeats. However, he saved more than a dozen games for Chance by taking the mound in late innings after one of his brother flingers had hoisted distress signals. Richie did not compare with Brown, as he won fifteen games and lost eleven. However, six of Lurid Lou's wins were wrested from the Giants, and helped to keep the Cubs and Polo grounders close together.

Pitching Roster.

Brown has just hooked up with the Cubs for three years more, although the three-fingered wonder has maintained all winter that he would never wear Murphy's regalia again. Mordecai said he desired to be traded to some other club, the Phillies alone excepted, and that if Murphy would not agree to the transfer he would go into the saloon business. With Mordecai again in line, the Cubs' twirling mainstays will be Brown, Richie, Reulbach, McIntire and Cole, with Cheney, Smith, Harrington and Northrop, all recruits, to fill in.

Richie, although he undoubtedly had the Giants' number last season, was never regarded as a star pitcher before the 1911 campaign. He has been in the National league since 1906, and while with the Phillies or Bostons he was never considered more than a mediocre performer. The strange thing about Lurid Lou is that when he was with the Phillies he never could last nine innings when he opposed the Giants. Invariably, when he was pitted against McGraw's men, he would hear the recall long before the cessation of hostilities.

"Big Ed" Reulbach has been moving backward in the last few years. He won sixteen games and lost nine last season, although several of his games were saved by Brown. Chance asked waivers on both Reulbach and McIntire this winter, but it was only due to scare them. Reulbach, who always was rather wild, had poorer control last season than ever before, and he can hardly be depended on to cash in many victories for Chance next season. McIntire has been a disappointment ever since going to Chicago, and unless he shows improvement this year he probably will be sent to the bushes.

Cole, who was a sensation in 1910, fell off badly in his work last year. He stood high in the pitching records, with eighteen victories and seven defeats, but the records also show that he participated in only fourteen complete games. He pitched a few star games last season, but on other occasions the king's work was not impressive.

Trusting to Recruits.

Chance has great hopes for his pitching recruits, and here lies the only chance for the Cubs to retain their old-time prestige. After "Husk" attached the order of tinware to Jack Pfiester last season his team was without a southpaw. The Cubs have procured a young giant left-hander named Harrington, who will be one of the hopes of next season's staff. He won 21 games and lost 8 with the Lynn team of the New England league last season. This record is remarkable, when it is considered that Lynn finished in fifth place.

The peerless leader is also banking heavily on Charlie Smith, the former flinger of the Washington and Boston American league clubs. Smith, toiled with Newark last season until he was purchased by the Cubs. Charlie never impressed any one as a world beater while in Ban Johnson's league. As a member of the capital city team he won distinction by being able to take a fall out of the Athletics almost every time he was sent in against them.

The Cubs have another promising recruit in Cheney, a graduate of the Louisville American association club. He did good work with the Cubs late last season, until his fin was split by a batted ball. Jack Northrop, the fourth Cub hope, is a product of the Tri-State league, where he made an enviable record. He won 27 games and lost only 4 for the Reading champions.

Both Fields Wobbly.

The pitching is not the only department of the Cubs that is breaking down. Chance and Evers may be back at their old positions at first and second, but "Husk" will never again be the Chance of old. Evers should still have a few good years in him, which will help wonderfully. Joe Tinker can be depended on to fill short as well as any other shortstop in the league, but there will be a big opening at third. Heinie Zimmerman is the logical candidate for the place. Another candidate for third on the Cubs is Eddie Lennox, the former third sacker of the Superbas, who has been earning his livelihood in the American association in the last few years. Many fans do not think Lennox possesses big league caliber.

The Cub outskirts may also need an overhauling. Frank Schulte could hardly be improved on in right field and old Jimmy Sheckard can still hold his own in left. However, Jimmy is far from a youngster and he is beginning to slow up. Sooner or later the great little fielder will have to submit to the inevitable. Artie Hofman, who in 1910 was the strongest member of Chance's outer works, had a poor season in 1911. He dropped in batting from .326 in 1910 to .252 last season. Chance was compelled to switch him from third to eighth place on the team's batting order. It is said that Circus Solly's eyes are going back on him and that he was unable to judge a high curve. It did not take the pitchers long to get on to this weakness and Artie's batting average suffered as a consequence.

Behind the plate the Cubs still have Jimmy Archer, one of the greatest catchers the game has developed in years. But if anything should happen to Jimmy, Chance has only Tom Needham and Dick Carter, the Harlem youth who was recently traded to the Cubs by the Phillies. Needham was a dead one when McGraw let him go in 1908 and Carter, though he seems to be a comer, lacks experience.

STUDENTS WILL MEET ASHLAND

Central Has Game Scheduled With Northland College Team.

Tomorrow evening at the gymnasium of the Central high school, the basket ball team representing that institution will meet the strong Northland college team of Ashland, Wis.

Manager Carl Johnson of the Wisconsin institution and Coach Schilling of the local team, closed the arrangements for the game yesterday.

The local school has a fast aggregation this year and the students are turning out in large numbers to all the games.

Efforts are being made to cinch a game with the St. Paul Mechanic Arts team and it seems likely that a game will soon be arranged. The Mechanic Arts team won the championship of St. Paul this year and a game between this five and Duluth would surely prove interesting.

BURNS WANTS TO COME BACK

TOMMY BURNS.

The latest comeback in the pugilistic world is Tommy Burns, onetime holder of the heavyweight championship of the world. He has come to the front with the announcement that he wants to fight Al Palzer. Burns met with an accident some time ago, which was thought would put him out of the game for good, but Tommy says he is all right again and expects to be good for at least three years more.

GOODMAN WINS FROM KID BURNS

JACK GOODMAN.

New York, March 20.—For the second time within a month, Jack Goodman last night outfought Kid Burns, his rival for lightweight honors, in a fast 10-round bout. Goodman had the better of every round after the third. A fast 10-round draw was also seen here last night between the middleweights, Billy McKinnon of Boston and Barney Williams of Philadelphia.

Financier's Daily Bracer—Three Minute Morning Shave

Never Misses Using Gillette, Because It "Keys Him Up" for the Day's Business

This interesting incident is told concerning a man high up in the financial world. He was talking about shaving. "I'm under a constant nervous strain," is the way he spoke. "When I used to have a man shave me, I fretted every minute he fussed with my face. It exhausted me and left me irritable for a long time after.

"Contrast that with the quick, delightful, invigorating shave that I get with my Gillette and you'll see why I'm in the habit of telling my friends the Gillette shave is my morning bracer."

It is the same with men of action everywhere. They like the Gillette for its wonderfully refreshing effect—its ease, cleanliness and convenience. They find it a big saving of time and irritation. No bother with stropping or honing—no risks of the open blade.

What the Gillette Will Do for You

Whatever your shaving habits may be, no matter how tender your skin or tough and wiry your beard, the Gillette will give you a clean velvet shave.

It will give you a light shave or close shave (closer than a barber dare give you), with no roughness, no irritation.

It is not necessary that you know how to shave yourself. You do not need to be "tool-wise" or handy. There is no stropping, no honing.

You quickly get the knack of the Gillette and you will learn little individual shave-simplifying tricks every day you use it.

The wonder of the Gillette is its adaptability—the way it meets individual needs.

Every man's face is different. Your beard is individual in the way it grows and its shaving requirements.

The adjustment of the Gillette will suit your beard and your skin. The Gillette will save you time and money and it is safe.

Think of the comfort of it; the ability to shave in two or three minutes in the morning as regularly as you wash your face. The convenience and simplicity—no litter of strops and hones. No danger of bad cuts and scratches.

Don't Put It Off—Buy a Gillette To-day

Considering all the Gillette means in comfort and economy, it should be in the hands of every man in this city with a beard to shave.

Don't be without it another day.

Ask your dealer.

If you can't go now, go soon.

The very next time you see a Gillette in a store window go in and talk to the man about it.

Examine the razor—buy it—take it home.

Standard set, $5.00 everywhere.

Pocket editions, $5.00 to $7.50.

Travellers' and Tourists' sets, $6.00 to $50.00.

Gillette Blades, packets of six (12 shaving edges), 50 cents; nickel-plated box of twelve (24 shaving edges), $1.00.

For sale in 40,000 retail stores in every part of the habitable globe.

MAY SETTLE DIFFICULTY

Expected at Hibbing That Stevenson Mine Trouble Will Be Adjusted.

Mine Temporarily Closed and No Disturbances Have So Far Occurred.

Hibbing, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Stevenson mine of the Corrigan-McKinney company is closed today and will not be reopened until a sufficient force is available to operate the day and night shifts. Following the refusal of the night shift to go to work Monday night and the day shift to work yesterday, the mine is closed today. None of the night shift was on hand to go to work last night and the company ordered the mine closed until an adjustment or some arrangement for resuming work can be effected.

Meeting To Be Held.

Representatives of the men will meet local officials of the company this afternoon and it is expected an adjustment of the difficulty which resulted in the walkout can be made. The men object to working only five hours during the regular eight-hour Saturday night shift unless they are paid for eight hours, according to the current reports, but as the men are all foreigners it is hard to learn just what their grievance is. Meanwhile all saloons at Stevenson are closed, the deputy sheriffs are on the watch and there have been no disturbances whatever. So far as known there is no trouble at any other mines in this locality.

WILL CLEAN UP ALL VILLAGES

Itasca County Authorities Propose Campaign Against Scarlet Women.

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The arrest of James Rhody and some women inmates of a resort here is only the beginning of a campaign to clean up the villages of the Western Mesaba, according to Sheriff Riley and County Attorney McOuat, who declare that the scarlet woman will have to go from every place in the county where they are found.

Rhody's troubles did not cease when he gave $2,500 bonds yesterday pending a hearing tomorrow, as he was re-arrested charged with selling liquor on Sunday and required to furnish another big bond. James Harcourt and Harry Stone are also being held charged with running disorderly houses, and the cases against the eleven inmates of the houses will also be heard Thursday.

OLD OFFICIALS ALL NAMED AGAIN

President Weirick of Hibbing Council Reappoints All Old Officials.

Hibbing, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—President H. R. Weirick of the village council, and the trustees-elect and elected held their first meeting since the late election last night and all assumed office, Dr. Weirick beginning his sixth term as mayor.

After a short executive session it was announced the council had confirmed all of Dr. Weirick's appointments for the offices in his gift, the mayor having reappointed all of them, Peter Wring, chief of police; Charles Mcillhargey, fire chief, and so on down the list, the mayor making no changes.

Some Salary Changes.

Some changes were made in salaries. City Recorder Kieffman received a raise of $25 a month, Assistant Health Commissioner Harris a $10 boost, Assistant Bookkeeper Morris was raised $10, and Assistant Street Commissioner Bonaventure was raised from $2.75 a day to $3 a day.

CURRENT ELY EVENTS.

Epworth League of M. E. Church Will Give Easter Cantata.

Ely, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian church is holding a series of weekly meetings. The meeting this week was held at the home of Mrs. G. Straghn on Monday.

This afternoon Mrs. T. W. Toal is entertaining the members of the Ely Snow Shoe club. Their regular "hikes" have been abandoned.

The Epworth League of the Methodist Episcopal church are practicing a cantata, to be given about Easter. The title is "The Triumph of the Cross." This will be the closing number of a series of entertainments given during the winter, which included the lectures of Rev. Dr. Rice and Frederick Attwood, the blind optimist.

The practical work done in the local mines must be in favor among the mining fraternity as men seem to be coming here to learn the practical workings of the mines. This week J. H. McLain and Lester Ries, who have been studying here left for Ironwood, Mich., where they will continue their work.

The streets and many of the sidewalks are a sheet of ice. Thawed by the warm sun of Monday and frozen by the cold north wind of Tuesday, the snow has given place to a perfect glare of ice. Many who are crippled or infirm find it almost impossible to travel safely. At no time during the winter have the streets or walks been in as bad condition.

EVELETH PIONEER SUDDENLY CALLED

Paul Kuehn, Long Resident of Range City, Dies of Heart Failure.

Eveleth, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Paul Kuehn, one of the pioneer citizens of Eveleth, died Tuesday of heart failure. Death came while Mr. Kuehn was alone in his home about 5 p. m.

Mrs. Kuehn is in Chicago, where she went two weeks ago to visit the couple's only daughter, Mrs. Thomas P. Raney. Other occupants of the house, coming home at 6 o'clock found the body warm, but life extinct. He left a note stating that he knew death was at hand and gave some directions regarding business affairs.

Dr. Raney, who was notified at once of the death, stated that the family would start at once from Chicago for Eveleth. Mr. Kuehn was 63 years of age and until a few days ago appeared to be in robust health. He came to Eveleth eighteen years ago as agent for the Val Blatz Brewing company and held the same position until his death. He was a German scholar of considerable distinction.

ELY'S ELECTION INTEREST GROWS

Both Mayor Knutson and Ex-Mayor Weinzierl After Chief Office.

Ely, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—With a city election less than two weeks away, the political situation is beginning to warm up. At the present time there are two candidates for mayor, Mayor Olaf Knutson, and ex-Mayor M. Weinzierl. Mr. Weinzierl has held the office for several terms, and seeks the honor once again. There is a prospect that the next few days will find several more candidates in the field. For city treasurer, three have already announced themselves as candidates: George L. Brozich, Ed. Harri and J. Seraphine. For municipal judge, there is to date, but one candidate, Thomas Jury. Mr. Jury has served for several terms as municipal judge. The office of special municipal judge is still seeking for some one to claim it. Arthur Sheridan, James Tonkin and David Bergland are seeking to serve the city in the capacity of assessor. No one is seeking the office of constable.

Contests for Aldermen.

Among the contests the biggest fight promises to take place in the Third ward, where Steve Banovetz, Arthur Toms, G. L. Fitzwilliams and P. Popovich are seeking to become aldermen. In the First ward, John A. Harri, Richard Hodge and E. E. Lindblad are candidates. The Second has so far produced but two, D. L. Childers and Andrew Luhtanen, who seek to represent it in the city council. The city council has designated the following voting places:

First ward, city hall, Andrew Wattila, Henry Chinn and Carl Sletten, judges.

Second ward, opera house, Eugene St. Marie, Herman Pete and Benjamin Collins, judges.

Third ward, Kotchevar building, John Dinsmore, Joseph Skala and Richard Chinn, judges.

Although there is a city election on April 2, there is by far more discussion of the national situation. The interest in that election is becoming very strong. Among the Republicans there seems to be more Roosevelt than Taft sentiment.

RUNAWAYS CAUGHT.

Indian Boys That Broke From School Found at Embarrass.

Tower, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Three Indian boys who ran away from the Vermilion Lake Indian school a few days ago, were found at Embarrass by Supt. Benson and brought back to school.

A delightful surprise party was tendered Mrs. Richard Johnson at her home by a number of lady friends. Games were played, the favors being won by Mrs. Peterson and Mrs. Lackie and Mrs. McWaters and Mrs. Pfeiffer. The guests presented Mrs. Johnson with a set of silver knives and forks. A dainty lunch was served.

STUNTZ TOWNSHIP TO DO MUCH ROAD WORK.

Hibbing, Minn., March 20.—The township board of the town of Stuntz has fixed the tax levy for the next year at $100,000 for road purposes and $20.000 for the general fund. This is about $20,000 higher than the levy for the past year. A very large amount of road building will be undertaken by the board the coming year, while the extensive network of roads throughout the township requires heavy expenditures for maintenance.

Grading Near Buhl.

Buhl, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—A large crew of men is at work at Kinross, a short distance from here, grading for the Mesaba Traction company. Another camp is being built between Buhl and Chisholm, about midway between the two villages, or about two miles from each. It is expected to have the camp in readiness for occupation by the construction gangs about the end of the week.

ONLY CASH BONDS WILL BE ACCEPTED

Virginia Council Will Take No Chances on Long-winded Lawsuits.

Virginia, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council last night went on record as declining to allow public work contractors to give surety bonds for the proper execution of work, in place of cash bonds which have heretofore been required.

The question came up with the application of P. McDonnell of Duluth and Bartlett & Co., of Virginia to be allowed to give surety company bonds. The council asked Otto Poirier, city attorney for his opinion. He said surety companies might take advantage of technicalities in case the city sought to recover and thus the city would be required to take legal action and get tied up in the courts. By a vote the council sustained his holding and declined to consider anything but cash bonds from public work contractors.

The council also instructed the ordinance committee and city attorney to draft an ordinance which would regulate the kind of signs merchants and others may use in front of their places of business. The ordinance is intended to stop the practice of sensational sale advertising by means of flaring and hideously painted signs in front of buildings. It will provide for a censorship on signs, the use of which, it may be decided by the censors, are bad enough to be offensive to home people and such as would give visitors a bad impression of the city.

CHARGE NEGRO WITH STEALING TICKETS

Jake Butler Alleged to Have Stolen 250 From Deer River Station.

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—In order to get one ticket to ride from Deer River to Bemidji, Jake Butler, colored, aged 19, is alleged to have stolen 250 tickets from the Great Northern depot at Deer River. He is said to have burned all the others in a furnace in the Emerson hotel at Deer River, where he was employed as fireman.

Thomas Boyd, also employed as a fireman in the hotel, is said to have seen the negro burning the tickets or learned of the theft from him and the matter became public, resulting in Butler's arrest. The colored boy is having a hearing here today before Judge Kearney.

It develops that when he pried open the ticket rack in the depot and removed one ticket to Bemidji, 249 more fell out and he had to take them all, which he did, burning those he did not need, in the furnace.

JUDGE M. HUGHES SPEAKS AT EVELETH

Pays Tribute to St. Patrick and Lauds Ireland's Achievements.

Eveleth, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—A capacity audience enjoyed the excellent program given in the high school auditorium last night by the Irish citizenship of Eveleth in commemoration of St. Patrick's day. The first part of the program comprised several excellent instrumental and vocal selections. Then followed an address by Judge Martin Hughes of Hibbing of "St. Patrick and Ireland."

He told of the great qualities and beautiful life of the patron saint of Erin and gave a brief review of the trials and struggles through which the Irish people have passed. He reviewed their achievements in war and peace, and in art, science and literature. He told of the important influence of Irish people in shaping the destinies of America, praising their active citizenship and urging them to continue active and be inspired by the best and finest ideals of citizenship. The closing feature was a very laughable character sketch entitled "The Irish Doctor." The entertainment was given under the direction of Father Culligan of St. Patrick's church and Municipal Judge Moylan.

HOMECROFT PRIZES

H. W. RICHARDSON, Local Forecaster.

Another cold wave has struck Duluth and the temperature dropped from 30 deg. yesterday to 4 deg. this morning. Many Duluthians had thought spring was here, but to those who know the Duluth spring, the quick change is no surprise. Cloudy and cold weather is predicted for tonight and tomorrow.

Beautiful spring weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 6:20 and it will set at 6:11 this evening, giving twelve hours and nine minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The high barometer centered over Western Ontario has caused decidedly colder weather over Central and Eastern Canada, the Lake region, the Upper Mississippi and Missouri valleys and Colorado, the lowest temperature reported being 26 deg. below at Minnedosa. Freezing weather embraces nearly all the Northern and Rocky mountain districts. During the last twenty-four hours rain or snow fell over the Ohio valley, North Atlantic states, the Middle West and Rocky mountains. At the Head of the Lakes continued cold is indicated for the ensuing thirty-six hours."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, March 20.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Thursday:

Upper Michigan—Cloudy with snow tonight or Thursday; slightly warmer Thursday.

Wisconsin—Unsettled weather with probably snow tonight or Thursday; continued cold; brisk to high northeast winds.

Minnesota—Unsettled with probably snow tonight or Thursday in south portion; continued cold.

Iowa—Snow tonight and Thursday, probably heavy; colder tonight; high northeast winds.

North Dakota—Generally fair tonight and Thursday; warmer in northwest portion tonight.

South Dakota—Snow tonight or Thursday; continued cold.

Montana—Generally fair tonight and Thursday; warmer in northeast portion tonight.

Shippers' forecast—Protect thirty-six-hour shipments of perishables against minimum temperatures zero to about 15 deg. above in the Dakotas, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

MAY REVIVE LEAGUE.

Hibbing Discussing Starting Law and Order League Again.

Hibbing, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The announcement that a movement is on foot over the city to reorganize the law and order league is causing considerable comment in Hibbing, and should the league be organized and become active, there is promise of interesting times ahead. The city formerly had a law and order league. One of the results of its activities was the wiping out of the social evil within the city limits. That accomplished the organization was allowed to go by the board.

BIWABIK FUNERAL.

Last Rites for Late Henry Neimi Held in Village.

Biwabik, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Henry Niemi of this city, who died Sunday, will be held this afternoon from the Finnish Temperance hall. Mr. Niemi was of the firm of Niemi & Ladvala Bottling works, and had made Biwabik his home for the past ten years. Mrs. Niemi and three children survive.

Frank Faber, Sr., will build a two-story brick building on lots 9 and 10, block 37, Biwabik. The buildings situated on these lots were destroyed by fire Feb. 29. Frank Young, an architect of Duluth, is drawing the plans for the new structure. Mr. Faber plans on having the ground floor occupied by three stores and the upstairs to be made into up-to-date club rooms.

A son was born Monday evening to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Faber, Jr.

TEACHERS APPOINTED.

Grand Rapids School Board Selects Next Year's Staff.

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 20.—The school board of this district, No. 1, has selected the teachers for next school year as follows:

Grand Rapids high school—Mary Lothrop, principal; E. C. Hoisington, manual training; Abbie Carpenter, domestic science; Annie M. Becker, music and drawing; Florence, Burlingame, English; S. Barish, science; Ada A. Kremer, language; Harriet Kummerrer, mathematics; Katherine L. Fisk, eighth grade; Katherine Roney, seventh grade.

Central school—Agnes S. Bryan, normal department; Mrs. Mary Bergh, fifth grade; Anna Reuswig, fourth grade; Alida R. Holmes, third grade; Clara R. Grove, first grade; Dorothea Ely, kindergarten; Mae S. Benton, kindergarten assistant.

Forest Lake school—Emma Vogel, sixth grade; Erna Rheinberger, fifth grade; Sophie Thomas, fourth grade; Margaret Aiton, third grade and principal; Helen L. Cole, second grade; Carrie E. Trogan, first grade.

Cohasset school—Phoebe L. Smith, Esther Scribner.

There will be a number of changes in the teaching staff of the schools this year, as several of the teachers who have been re-elected contemplate positions elsewhere, so that a number of new teachers will be employed.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Isabelle Murphy of Virginia, Minn., is the guest for this week of Miss Luddy Race of 1015 Sixth street southeast. Miss Murphy is on her way to Tacoma, Wash. Miss Race has been spending the winter at Virginia. Monday Miss Race entertained at a theater party for her guest and following the theater she gave a luncheon at her home.

HELP OUT NEIGHBOR.

Angora Residents Aiding Homesteader Who Was Burned Out.

Virginia, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The neighbors of Solomon Koskela, a homesteader living near Angora, whose home and buildings were recently burned, are raising funds to aid him. Angora merchants and farmers have gone to his relief and in less than two weeks' time he will be enabled to make a start over again. Ludi & Burkhart of Angora have contributed $25 in trade to the family. Nick Offstad, lumberman of Angora, furnished 1,000 feet of lumber for rebuilding free of charge. Virginia merchants are also contributing. The Virginia Finnish Hardware company, Matt Lofbacka, proprietor, John Ketola and S. Oberg also made substantial contributions.

CITY OFFICERS TO MEET WITH CLUB

Mayor Weirick and Officials Will Discuss Advancement of Hibbing.

Hibbing, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mayor Weirick and the members of the city council will be guests of the Hibbing Commercial club at its regular monthly meeting this evening when a number of matters will be taken up in the line of civic improvements for the coming year. Two things of importance to the city at large to be considered at the meeting tonight are paving and the installation of an ornamental lighting system or so-called "White Way," both of which were strongly contended for by that faction known as the Progressive citizens in the recent village election campaign.

The present council has signified its intention of working in full accord with the wishes of the citizens in both these matters and others affecting the civic welfare.

City Parks, Too.

It is probable, also, that the matter of city parks will be taken up this evening and that the park board will have something to report in the way of progress. More interest is being taken in the activities of the Commercial club this year than ever before. Since the recent election a number of the city's most substantial business men identified with the recent Progressive Citizens movement have declared their intention of taking renewed interest in the club and through it conducting a campaign for the upbuilding of the city along all legitimate lines.

WIRE THEIR SYMPATHY.

St. Cloud People Send Message to the Carvers.

St. Cloud, Minn., March 20.—The attitude of St. Cloud citizens regarding Miss Viola Carver, a former resident of this city, who is charged with murder in Los Angeles, and their regard for her parents was shown yesterday in a letter sent by wire to the Los Angeles papers signed by a number of the prominent men of the city.

APPLETON BOY LOSES BOTH HANDS IN MILL.

Appleton, Wis., March 20.—William Lenz, aged 18, lost both hands yesterday when they were drawn between the rolls of a machine in the Kimberly-Clark company's paper mill at Kimberly.

COTTON POSTMASTER MEETS VIOLENT DEATH.

Cotton, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Abraham Wickstrom, local postmaster, is dead as the result of injuries sustained Monday night when he was thrown from a sleigh near here. He was picked up unconscious, dying without regaining consciousness.

Eveleth Council Meeting.

Eveleth, Minn., March 20.—The city council will hold an adjourned meeting Friday evening, having adjourned Tuesday night to give the members the opportunity to attend the St. Patrick's entertainment. President Joseph Wilson, who was shot Friday by a discharged employe of the Spruce mine, of which Mr. Wilson was captain, is reported in fine condition with complete recovery within a few weeks probable.

Farm Machine Companies Merge.

Elgin, Ill., March 20.—The consolidation of the Illinois Iron & Bolt company and the Star Manufacturing company of Carpentersville, Ill., with a capitalization of $1,850,000, was announced here today. The concern will be operated under the name of the Illinois Iron & Bolt company and is to manufacture farm implements.

Superior Voters Choose Candidates Under the Commission Plan.

Johnson, O'Hare, Tomlinson and Jensen Nominated for Aldermen.

Superior yesterday held her first primary election under the commission form of city government plan, nominating Frederick Van Buren and Joseph Konkel for mayor and Henry A. Johnson, Charles N. O'Hare, Fred Tomlinson and J. P. Jensen for councilmen.

The Clean Government club, which waged a campaign against the present city administration of Superior, was unmistakably indorsed by the voters as every Clean Government candidate swept the city by a substantial majority.

There were seven candidates for the mayoralty nomination. Van Buren and Konkel were in first and second places and will be opposed to each other at the regular election. Mayor Crumpton was given fifth place by the voters.

Henry A. Johnson, Charles N. O'Hare, Fred Tomlinson and J. P. Jensen are the choice for the council nominees. Jensen, a Socialist, was given a close run by M. J. McGuire. At the regular election two will be chosen from the four nominated yesterday.

The Socialists showed considerable strength in yesterday's election. The total vote ran about 4,800.

Stopped Those Pains

Copper Hill, Va.—Mrs. Ida Conner, of this place, says, "For years, I had a pain in my right side, and I was very sick with womanly troubles. I tried different doctors but could get no relief. I had given up all hope of ever getting well. I took Cardui, and it relieved the pain in my side, and now I feel like a new person. It is a wonderful medicine." Many women are completely worn-out and discouraged on account of some womanly trouble. Are you? Take Cardui, the woman's tonic. Its record shows that it will help you. Why wait? Try it today. Ask your druggist about it.

UP TO THE SHERIFF.

Governor Will Not Interfere With Kelly-McGoorty Fight.

Kenosha, Wis., March 20.—Governor E. E. McGovern called Sheriff Andrew Stahl by telephone and advised him that he had received the protest against the Kelly-McGoorty fight, but would not act.

The governor declared that the matter was one for the local officials to handle and that he would hold the sheriff personally responsible if the state law was violated.

Sheriff Stahl at once issued a formal notice that he would not interfere with the match and it will go on as scheduled.

McCOLL WINS IN ST. PAUL PRIMARY

St. Paul, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Return to the political field of three former assemblymen who were defeated at the polls two years ago, and the overthrow in the Third ward of Alderman James F. Maloney by former state senator Henry McColl, on the Democratic ticket, featured the city primary election here yesterday.

The three former assemblymen to be again honored with nominations are Charles Kartak, T. J. Conroy and J. J. Daly.

Interest throughout the city centered in the outcome of the Third ward Democratic primary. Maloney was defeated by McColl by a majority of 116 votes out of 1,018 cast.

Mayor Herbert P. Keller, Republican, was renominated without a contest, and Otto Bremer, Democratic candidate for mayor, also was uncontested.

PRAISED BY GREAT TENOR

Bonci Says Duluth Singer Has Voice of Great Possibilities.

Expresses Pleasure at Appreciation Shown By Duluth Audience.

Sigurd Erdtman of this city sang this morning for Sig. Alessandro Bonci, the noted tenor who delighted one of the largest musical audiences of the season last evening at the Lyceum theater.

Sig. Bonci tried out his voice carefully and praised it very highly. Mr. Erdtman has had no vocal training, but in the opinion of the great singer he has a voice which has great possibilities. Mr. Erdtman also sang before Charles W. Clark a short time ago, and Mr. Clark said at that time that he possessed a voice of great possibilities, and that in time, with diligent study and work, his voice might even excel Caruso's. Mr. Erdtman is assistant editor of the Duluth Posten and sings in a local cafe. He has also written a number of poems in Swedish, which have been highly praised.

Sig. Bonci was also very complimentary to the Duluth audience which heard him last evening. He said it was one of the finest audiences to sing to that he had ever appeared before, and he said it as if he meant it.

"Really it was a pleasure to sing to the Duluth people last night," he said. "There was a warmth of understanding which was most responsive, and I could feel that they were in harmony. They were very generous in their applause, too, and that helps a singer."

Sig. Bonci said that every week he receives manuscripts from composers asking for his opinion of their work, and he says that he likes the American composers' work very much. "Especially the work of Cadman and Chadwick," he said. "It is always a pleasure for me to read this new music, and I feel that the Americans are doing a great deal for music. I like especially the Indian motif in Cadman's music, as it expresses a new national characteristic in the music, original and pleasing."

Sig. Bonci, Sig. Francini, his accompanist and his secretary, left this afternoon for a trip to Texas.

IMPROVEMENT IN BUSINESS

Improved business conditions from coast to coast are reported by H. D. La Coste of New York city, who is in Duluth today.

Mr. La Coste is a member of the firm of La Coste & Maxwell, newspaper representatives, and one of the largest firms of its kind in America. Mr. La Coste's firm represents daily newspapers in all the large cities of the country, the Duluth Herald being one of the list, and his work keeps him traveling from city to city and in constant touch with newspaper publishers.

"There is no doubt about it," said Mr. La Coste, "there is a decidedly better tone to business generally. I have just come back from San Francisco, and they are making great preparations for the Panama exposition there. It promises to eclipse any exhibition ever held. They are not stinting in anything.

"This is my fourth visit to Duluth, and I am most favorably impressed with the appearance of your city. Superior street has a business like atmosphere, and is really more like Broadway than almost any small city street I can think of.

Gives Quickest and Surest Cure For All Sore Feet

The following is absolutely the surest and quickest cure known to science for all foot ailments: "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in a basin of warm water. Soak the feet in this for full fifteen minutes, gently rubbing the sore parts." The effect is really wonderful. All soreness goes instantly; the feet feel so good you could sing for joy. Corns and callouses can be peeled right off. It gives immediate relief for sore bunions, sweaty, smelly and aching feet. A twenty-five cent box of Calocide is said to be sufficient to cure the worst feet. It works through the pores and removes the cause of the trouble. Don't waste time on uncertain remedies. Any druggist has Calocide compound in stock or he can get it in a few hours from his wholesale house. It is not a patent medicine but is an ethical preparation.

STATE G. O. P. MEETING ON APRIL 2

Central Committee Called for That Date By Chairman Smith.

Tawney Has Power to Dictate Date of First District Meeting.

Chief Fight at St. Paul Will Be Over the Primary Plan.

St. Paul, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—E. E. Smith, chairman of the Republican state central committee, today issued a call for a meeting of the committee at the Saint Paul hotel at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, April 2.

It also was announced here today that Col. Roosevelt will speak in this city April 29.

According to the call for the national Republican convention, state conventions must be held at least thirty days before the national convention, which is scheduled for June 18 at Chicago. This means that the Minnesota convention to name delegates to the national convention cannot be held later than May 18.

As soo as the call was issued, James A. Tawney and J. A. O. Preus, secretary of the state central committee, held a long conference. They discussed the procedure to be followed in calling the district congressional conventions, which will have an important bearing on both the selection of delegates and the fate of the presidential primary for which the Roosevelt organization is making such a vigorous fight.

Tawney Opposes Primary.

Mr. Tawney is opposing the primary idea, and he called specific attention to the fact that the personal congressional committees of the congressmen have no authority to name the place or date of the district conventions.

Under the statutes, the congressional committees authorized to call conventions must have been selected by the chairman of the 1908 district convention. It has been disclosed that hardly a congressional district in the state took precaution to name such a congressional committee. Hennepin county is one of them. This means, according to the call issued today, that where there is no duly authorized congressional committee, the Republican state central committee shall be substituted for and represent the congressional committee in issuing said call.

Can Dictate the Date.

Under the primary system of naming congressmen, the custom of naming a congressional committee at district conventions has been neglected. The congressman-elect had always named his committee.

It has been a personal committee, and where there are no bitter contests on for delegates, it has issued the call for the conventions. This means that James A. Tawney can ignore the congressional committee in his district, and through the state central committee dictate the date of the first district convention.

As practically all the Minnesota congressmen outside of the Fourth and Fifth districts favor a Progressive, it means that the personal organization of these congressmen will not have any word in fixing the date or arranging for the district convention.

I. A. Caswell and James A. Larson, a member of the state central committeee and a strong Roosevelt man, immediately conferred with Mr. Preus on the matter. It had been the intention to appeal to these congressional committees to get a preferential primary, but under the call they will be ignored unless they were selected at the last district convention.

Twenty Days Previous.

District conventions must be held twenty days before the state convention, which means that the Taft-Roosevelt fight in Ramsey county will be fought out before the city election, May 7. Local politicians had hoped to ward off this contingency.

If May 18 is selected this will place the district conventions the last week in April.

The chief fight at the meeting of the state central committee will be for a preferential primary. She indications are that it will be voted down or at best compromised.

SEARCHING FOR CANCER CURE

Dr. Ehrlich and Wassermann of Germany and Celebrated Scientists in the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research Eagerly Looking for Cure.

Electrical Treatments So Far Prove to Be Most Efficient. Duluth Patient With Cancer of Rectum Steadily Improving.

Here is news of tremendous importance. It announces that the medical world is on the verge of a great discovery—the cause of Cancer—a disease now reported to cause nearly five per cent of all deaths. The cause is already discovered, and a cure is sure to follow. The discovery of the cause is the big news Dr. Hirschberg, a celebrated scientist, is giving us. Dr. Ehrlich and Dr. Wassermann of Germany have worked on the problem of the cancer cure for years and the news of Dr. Hirschberg's discovery is half the victory for the cure.

Here are the new facts about cancer: It is not hereditary. It is caused probably, by Y-shaped bacteria, so small that only when old and bloated is one visible under the most powerful microscope. It gets into the body through scratches, picks, bruises or wounds.

At the Head of the Lakes very few cancer cases have been reported. Of late, Mrs. Mary Smith of Lakewood has been treated for cancer by several local doctors without getting any relief. There is no specific for cancer in the market, so Mrs. Smith turned to the Electro Medical Doctors, though she did not know if they could promise her any relief. It is now several weeks since she started to treat with this new system of Electro Medicine and she has improved wonderfully. All pains are gone and she is fully relieved of that awful nervousness which is characteristic of cancer patients. Mrs. Smith is living in great hopes of getting cured completely.

The case of Mrs. Smith, an old resident of our city of 65 years of age, was mistaken by the reporter for a case of an ulcerated stomach and a tumor of the liver of which Mrs. G. F. Turner of 105 Palm street, was suffering. Mrs. Turner never had any cancer of the rectum and Mrs. Smith is the only cancer patient reported.

Medical science is slowly approaching the time where we will have a specific for cancer as we have it for smallpox, diphtheria, and the newly found remedy for the specific blood-poison of Dr. Ehrlich of Frankfort-on-the-Main, Germany. The Electro Medical Doctors do not claim to have a specific, but they do claim that their method will cure the disease even when it is beyond the operative stage. Of course those who have been operated upon and metastasis of the poison in the whole body has taken place, they are beyond hope and nothing can be done for them. Otherwise this new system will cure cancers as readily as heart disease or kidney trouble. All the many names which are given to different diseases have in fact only few causes; conquer these and you will have healed the disease. That is what the Electro Medical Doctors are doing. If others have failed to cure you, don't give up in despair, they may be able to help even the hopeless. All sick are invited to a free consultation at their office at No. 26 West Superior street. MRS. KEYES HEADS BOARD

Directors of West Duluth Club Chosen By W. C. T. U.

Six Committees Will Be Chosen By Boys This Week.

At the meeting of the special committee of the West Duluth branch of the Women's Christian Temperance union, which has been in charge of the new West Duluth club, 208 Central avenue, the following executive board was yesterday elected to take charge of the affairs of the club: Mrs. C. R. Keyes, president; Mrs. H. H. Phelps, vice president; Harold G. House, treasurer; E. G. Kreidler, secretary, and Rev. E. B. Collier, Mrs. H. Bevier, Mrs. W. F. Bailey and Mrs. G. W. Smith, directors.

The various clubs are now organized and meetings are being held each week. There are 136 boys and 175 girls in the club at the present time, with a large number entering at each meeting. The members are divided into separate clubs. The high school girls meet every Tuesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons at 2 o'clock. The grade school girls meet at 4:30 o'clock and the working girls meet at 7 o'clock in the evening on the same days. The boys meet on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday afternoons and evenings. On Sunday afternoon the boys will hold religious and Bible study meetings.

A sewing class has been organized by Miss May Anders of the Y. W. C. A., who will meet the girls every Saturday morning. The club is still in need of a sewing machine and several smaller articles of equipment, which the executive board is anxious to have by the end of this week. A piano has been rented. One of the local telephone companies has installed a telephone free of charge.

At one of the meetings to be held this week the members of the boys' clubs will vote on the following committees for the year: Sunday club committee to have charge of the Sunday afternoon meetings, speakers and programs; athletic committee to organize teams and represent the club in city contests; camp and outing committee to conduct the Saturday outings, week-end trips, observation trips and summer camps; clubs committee to study nature of clubs desired for the cabinet and organize them with the co-operation of the other members; Bible study committee to organize Bible study groups, social committee to arrange the Saturday evening program; and the membership committee to conduct the campaign for new members for the club. Each committee will have ten members.

SUBSTANTIAL DAMAGES GIVEN

Judge Dancer Decides Removal of Wagon Bridge Damaged Property.

Judge Dancer of the district court, in findings filed today, decided that the property-owners along the Polk street ravine are entitled to some award of damages as a result of the removal of the Fifty-eighth avenue west wagon bridge by the city, which replaced it by a low foot bridge.

The board of public works in awarding the damages allowed but 6 cents each to Alex Johnson, I. P. Swangie and Peter Nelson. Appeals were taken and the cases went to Judge Dancer at special term on Saturday last.

Swangie's award was raised to $250 and confirmed at that figure. Johnson's damages were placed at $25 and Nelson is allowed $20.

D. M. & N. PUTS ITS MOGUES IN COMMISSION.

Preparations are now being made by the D. M. & N. railroad for the annual spring rush. Yesterday the first of the large Mallet engines was taken out of the shops and fired up for the first time in several months. The officials plan to use these eight large engines exclusively on the hill between Proctor and the ore docks. These engines can haul about twice the number of cars up the hill that the ordinary engine is capable of hauling.

NEW PASTOR TO ARRIVE APRIL 15.

In a letter received this morning by Mrs. T. B. Jones of 616 North Fifty-sixth avenue west, Rev. H. Stoughton of Windom, Minn., writes that he will arrive in Duluth April 15 and will preach his first sermon at the West Duluth Baptist church, Fifty-ninth avenue west and Grand, Sunday morning, April 21.

Rev. Mr. Stoughton has been in charge of the Windom church for the past three years and accepted the call of the West Duluth church several weeks ago, following his visit here early this winter. It was at first planned to have Rev. Mr. Stoughton preach his first sermon on Easter Sunday morning, but he is compelled to conduct the services at the Windom church until April 14. The West Duluth church has been without a paster since Sept. 1, when Rev. H. P. Selinger left for Seattle, Wash., where he accepted a position with the Washington State university.

OPPOSED TO SEWER PLANS

Maple Grove Residents Will Fight the Proposed Improvement.

On the ground that they are being assessed for a sewer from which they will not derive any benefit whatever, residents of the Maple Grove addition to Proctor intend putting up a strenuous opposition to the proposed sewer system for the village.

Even in Proctor itself there are some residents who are opposed to the new sewer system, and those behind the campaign in behalf of the Maple Grove residents claim that if they are assessed for the sewer they will take the matter into the courts.

The plan of the new sewer, which was recently adopted by the Proctor council, calls for an outlay of about $45,000. It will serve the central portion of the village and a large part of the residence district. The sewer will empty into a large septic tank that is to be built near the site of the ball park, south of the village.

BOARD TO INSPECT PARK EXTENSION TRACT.

Because the final hearing in the condemnation of the land lying between Sixty-third and Sixty-ninth avenues west for the proposed Fairmont park addition, disclosed a wide divergence of opinion, the members decided yesterday to make a personal inspection of the property.

The members and the various witnesses of the property owners and the city will meet Tuesday afternoon and examine the section desired by the park board. After the examination the members will give their final decision on the matter, following which another date for hearing complaints will be made. If the owners still remain dissatisfied after the hearing, the matter will be taken to the district court for a final decision.

Gillis Funeral.

The funeral of James Gillis, 17 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gillis, 4510 Rene street, who died early Monday morning after a short illness, was held at 9 o'clock this morning from St. James' Catholic church, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Kinnear place. Rev. D. W. Lynch, rector of the church, officiated and interment was in the Calvary cemetery.

Entertains Club.

Mrs. Charles Kauppi of 3 North Sixty-third avenue west, entertained the members of the Kalevala club at her home yesterday afternoon. A short program of music and recitations was rendered by the Mesdames Arminen and Albert Cullam and Miss Selma Kauppi. A luncheon was served the latter part of the afternoon.

EIGHTY-FIVE MEN CAUGHT IN COAL MINE

Explosion of Gas in Oklahoma Workings May Have Killed All.

One Body Badly Burned Is Recovered—Fire Balks Rescuers.

Fort Smith, Ark., March 20.—Mine No. 2 of the San Bois Coal company at McCurtain, Okla., was wrecked today by an explosion of gas in the ninth level, and fire and smoke thus far have prevented any effective work of rescuers.

One body has been brought out, and it was so badly burned that experienced miners believe there is little hope for any of the eighty-five men composing the day shift at the mine at the time, will escape alive.

A special train left here at 11 a. m. carrying all available doctors and nurses for service at the McCurtain mine disaster.

Inspector Is Called.

McAlester, Okla., March 20.—Mine Inspector Burgess, with rescue apparatus, left here this afternoon for McCurtain. Beyond an urgent message to come quickly, no intimation was given him as to the seriousness of the catastrophe.

Naval Station Scorched.

Newport, March 20.—The administration building of the naval training station was damaged by fire today to the extent of $5,000, and Commander John H. Dayton was temporarily deprived of his quarters. The building formerly was Newport's almshouse and was presented by the city to the training station.

Allis-Chalmers Plan Ready.

New York, March 20.—The reorganizing committee of the Allis-Chalmers company today gave out the plan of reorganization of the company. The preferred stock will be assessed 20 per cent, or $3,210,000, and the common stock 10 per cent, or $1,982,000, providing $5,192,000 working capital.

OBITUARY

Henry Bordewich, United States consul general at Christiania, Norway, formerly of Granite Falls, Minn., died at Christiania Tuesday, March 19.

Henry Bordewich was born at Vaagan, Norway, Jan. 13, 1844. He was educated at the high school and at a commercial college in Bergen, coming to the United States in 1864. He served in the Mississippi squadron, U. S. N., during the latter part of the Civil war, after which he came to Minnesota. He was county auditor of Yellow Medicine county from 1874 to 1878, after which he became postmaster at Granite Falls, Minn., serving until 1893. He was a candidate for state treasurer on the Republican ticket in 1884. In 1897 Mr. Bordewich was named American consul at Christiania and in 1900 he was made consul general.

Judge F. F. Oldham of Marietta, Ohio, late adviser to the comptroller of the currency and known to bankers the country over as an authority on the national bank act, died in Washington March 19, of pneumonia.

BAD ICE GORGE IN MISSISSIPPI

River Threatens Damage in Illinois—Blizzard Strikes North Counties.

Warsaw, Ill., March 20.—The ice in the Mississippi river is gorged about half a mile below here. Great masses and cakes are piling up and the river has risen three feet and six inches since 9 o'clock. High water mark here is 21 feet and the water already has reached the 17-foot level.

Reports that the dam had burst were found to be erroneous. The damage has been confined to the flooding of lowlands, but if the gorge is not broken and the flood continues much valuable property may be destroyed.

Blizzard in Illinois.

Chicago, March 20.—Several inches of snow fell throughout Northern Illinois today and in some sections, impelled by a high northwest wind, the storm assumed the proportions of a blizzard.

CHARGED WITH BREAKING INTO SOO LINE CAR.

Eli Young was put on trial in district court this morning on a grand jury indictment charging third degree burglary. The state claims that Young, his brother, William Young, and Elmer Eno on Feb. 17 last, broke into a Soo box car loaded with bonded wheat and which was standing in the Rice Point yards. The three boys attempted to steal some wheat, it is claimed, when interrupted by the company's watchman. Eno pleaded guilty before the grand jury met and was sentenced to the state reformatory. He appeared against Young at today's trial.

The case is the first of the criminal actions to be tried on the March calendar. It was placed on trial before a jury and Judge Dancer. Warren E. Greene, assistant county attorney, is prosecuting.

WANTS $3,575 FOR INJURED FOOT.

A personal injury suit brought by Bernard Sundquist, who wants $3,575 from the Bowe-Burke company, contractors, for a sprained and injured right foot, was put on trial before Judge Cant and a jury in district court this morning.

Sundquist claims that he fell from a scaffold while working for the defendants at the construction of the county courthouse at Grand Marais on Dec. 27 last. In answer, the Bowe-Burke company claims that Sundquist was employed by a man named Brown, whom they had hired. They claim that they should not be held liable for the accident.

John Jenswold is attorney for the plaintiff and Clapp & Randall are defending.

made her big and bright

"Our little girl, who will be three years old the last day of July, owes her life to Mellin's Food and your many kind letters of advice. We tried other foods, but they failed to agree with her, as she had stomach trouble very badly. We had a doctor every few days, and when we were advised to try your food, we were almost in despair as to her living at all. She was six weeks old and so thin it made our hearts ache to look at her. Then we put her on Mellin's Food and she began to gain in a few days, and from that time until now we have never had a doctor for her. She has been big and bright for her age and is the pet of all who see her. Her health is perfect and she is as happy as she looks. She still loves her food and clings to the bottle. It has served her so well that we feel there is time enough to take it from her. We wish to thank you for all you have done for her and your many letters of advice to us."

After having narrowly escaped drowning by falling through an air hole in the bay, John B. Lessard, a switchman, 23 years of age, was arrested this morning by Sergeant Roberg and Patrolman Dickman on suspicion of being the man who entered E. M. McEwen's grocery store at Proctor Monday night and stole a quantity of goods.

Drenched, his teeth chattering and his face almost blue, the alleged burglar was found shivering behind a stove in a West Michigan street saloon.

Lessard had evidently had a trying time since morning. He started out at daylight to make his way to Superior across the ice, apparently seeking that mode of travel to escape observation. Part way across he fell through an air hole. He went over his head in the freezing water, but by desperate efforts he succeeded in getting out unaided. With the cutting north wind freezing his clothes, he turned back at top speed. He was transformed into a veritable human icicle as he ran. When he made his way into the saloon he was practically one mass of ice and he was almost completely exhausted from the strenuous exertions to save himself from freezing to death on the ice.

Lessard was scarcely able to talk when he was brought into police headquarters. He had wrung the water out of his outer garments, but his under clothes were still wet.

The prowler who broke into the Proctor store carried away two valuable black hand bags filled with miscellaneous articles, an automatic Savage revolver, a dozen pocket knives, a dozen razors and some stamps. The police assert that Lessard was seen with one of the grips along the Bowery last night but that efforts to apprehend him were fruitless. Lessard admitted that he had the bag, but claimed that he stole it from a stranger at West Duluth. Asked where the bag was this morning he declared that he did not know, asserting that still another man had stolen it from him.

When he was searched the police found a number of pocket knives in his pockets and some assorted articles, part of them answering the description of the stolen goods. He says that he took them from the grip but denies strenuously that he had anything to do with the burglary in the railroad town. The marshal at Proctor was notified of his arrest and is expected at headquarters this afternoon.

An habitue of the Bowery, Ed Peterson, was arrested with Lessard. In his pocket was found a loaded .32 caliber revolver, which he claims was given to him by Lessard. The police do not think that he had any connection with the burglary, but hooked him on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

With "several seas aboard" and navigating like a ship without a rudder in stormy weather, Fred Vales was tacking down the Bowery this morning looking for a safe harbor.

When he began to fly the signal of distress he was taken in tow by one Richard Maller. Sergeant Roberg and Patrolman Englert saw Maller heave his line and make fast. They watched him piloting Fred through the stream of traffic. Knowing Richard, they did not deem him the proper life-saver for the mariner who was stranded in the midst of the big city.

So the roving policemen clamped their irons onto both of them and sent them into headquarters. The stranded one was booked on a charge of drunkenness while his erstwhile rescuer was billed for vagrancy. When searched $40 in cash was found in Vales' trousers, while Richard was absolutely devoid of currency. The police say that Richard is a lumber scaler but that he seldom, if ever, works.

William Pearson felt like a much-abused mortal when he was brought into police court yesterday afternoon to answer to a charge of vagrancy. He said that he was done a terrible injustice when he was accused of being without a place to sleep and not in possession of the wherewithal to purchase grub.

The police said that William and a pal have a shack down along the bay front somewhere and that it is fitted out with a stove. There, it is claimed, they spend their nights, foraging fuel if the night is cold enough to warrant the expenditure of enough energy to build a fire. During the day they are said to spend their time hanging about the bowery, the saloons with the free lunches being given the preference. Between times they say that it is impossible for them to refuse any stray invitation to "spear one," and that when their thirsts become almost unbearable it is not beyond them to solicit "the price of a bed," selecting kindly-looking strangers who may happen to pass their way.

Nevertheless William pleaded guilty to the allegation when he was brought up. He asked the court to be easy on him. The court handed him $15 and costs or fifteen days in the county bastile. William confessed that he did not have the fifteen bucks and was sent over the hill.

Axel Thorson, a bartender, was arraigned in police court yesterday afternoon on a warrant sworn out by his wife, charging him with having assaulted her. He entered a plea of not guilty and will be tried tomorrow afternoon. Bail was fixed at $50.

Last September Peter Peterson boarded two weeks with Mrs. Bertha Olson at 1107 West Michigan street. At the end of that time he owed her $10 of the good and lawful currency of the United States.

But he failed to settle. Awaiting a favorable opportunity he packed his belongings and silently stole away. Most of the time since Peter has been working, but he has neglected to square up with his former landlady. He made promises in plenty, but the promises did not bring Mrs. Olson her $10. So when she saw him in town yesterday she had him arrested on a charge of defrauding an inn-keeper.

Peter admitted the accusation when he was arraigned today. "I intended to pay every time I came to town," he said, "I was working on a steamer and had some money. But every time I got ashore I got drunk and spent all my money. So I didn't pay the board bill."

For getting drunk every time he came to town instead of paying the board bill the court handed Peter $40 and costs or thirty days in the county jail. From lack of choice Peter went over the hill, where he will be able to meditate for a month on the merits of getting drunk as compared with paying board bills.

The police reported that Henry Thompson has been loafing about town doing nothing but "killing" time and "sponging" drinks for two months, when he was arraigned for vagrancy. He pleaded guilty and got $40 and costs or thirty days, but a stay of execution until tonight was granted to give him a chace to get to work or get out of town.

Eugene Papillon, Walter Scanlon and Chester Delarla, three Minneapolis boys, were picked up by the police yesterday afternoon and booked for trespass. They were found sleeping on a railroad dock. The boys said that they were on their way to Moose Jaw, Sask., traveling by the box car and blind baggage route. None of them had any money. The boys' folks appeared to be willing they should be allowed to go if they so desired, and they were turned out this morning.

The phonograph which was recently stolen from the residence of David Cargill on Park Point has been recovered. It was found in a vacant house. It is believed to have been taken by boys. After breaking into the house the rowdies turned it upside down, ransacking it from top to bottom and leaving it in the greatest disorder.

No clew to their identity has been discovered.

RECOVERS AT RATE OF $5 PER MONTH.

A jury in district court last evening allowed Mrs. Dora La Favre, who sued M. J. Craig for services as janitress and caretaker of the Craig flats at 922-924 West First street, the amount of $5 per month.

Mrs. La Favre sued for $866.56 or $50 a month for seventeen months. The jury gave her a verdict of $85 and costs. The case was tried before Judge Dibell.

After the Age of Fifty

From this age the human system gradually declines and the accumulated poisons in the blood cause rheumatism in joints, muscles and back. These warnings should be promptly relieved and serious illness avoided by using the following prescription which comes from a noted doctor and is said to have no equal for curing rheumatism and restoring physical vigor. Good results come after the first dose. "From your druggist get one ounce of Toris compound (in original sealed package) and one ounce of syrup of Sarsaparilla compound. Take these two ingredients home and put them into a half pint of good whiskey. Shake the bottle and take a tablespoonful before each meal and at bed-time." If your druggist does not have Toris compound in stock he will get it for you in a few hours from his wholesale house. Don't be influenced to take a patent medicine instead of this. Insist on having the genuine Toris compound in the original one ounce, sealed yellow package.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.

Default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made by O. K. Weinman and Ella L. Weinman, his wife, mortgagors, to Howard Investment Company, a corporation, mortgagee, dated August 2nd, 1909, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for St. Louis County, Minnesota, on August 17th, 1909, at ten o'clock A. M., in Book 223 of Mortgages, on page 16.

Said default consists in the non-payment of Forty-five and no-100 Dollars ($45.00), the semi-annual installment of interest due February 1st, 1912, by reason whereof, the mortgagee has elected to exercise the option given by the terms of said mortgage to declare and does hereby declare the whole principal sum secured by said mortgage with all accrued interest thereon, to be now due and payable. There is claimed to be due and is actually due on said mortgage debt at the date of this notice the sum of Fifteen Hundred Fifty and no-100 ($1550.00) Dollars, principal and interest, and no action at law or otherwise, has been instituted to recover said debt or any part thereof.

NOW THEREFORE, Notice is hereby given that under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the property therein described, situated in St. Louis County, Minnesota, viz:

Lot numbered fourteen (14), in Block numbered eighty-three (83), Endion Division of Duluth, according to the accepted plat thereof on file and of record in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said County of St. Louis, which said premises with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold by the Sheriff of St. Louis County, at the office of the Sheriff in the Court House in the City of Duluth, in said county and state, on Saturday, the 6th day of April, 1912, at ten o'clock A. M., at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest and Fifty Dollars ($50.00) attorney's fees, stipulated for by and in said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption within one year from date of sale as provided by law.

Dated at Duluth, Minnesota, February 20th, 1912.

The scope of the

WHEAT BULGE IS ERRATIC

Goes Higher at Duluth and Minneapolis in Spite of Bearish News.

Report of Settlement of Coal Strike Pulls Down Flaxseed Prices.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 20.—Something put flaxseed up a little today at Duluth and Minneapolis, in spite of generally bearish news, and lower quotations from Chicago. Wheat trading on the two Northwestern markets has not been heavy of late, and no great amount of manipulation is needed to affect the price, when the volume of business is narrow. Duluth May wheat today closed ¼c higher and Minneapolis May ⅛@¼c higher. Chicago May on the contiary closed ¼c down, and Winnipeg May unchanged. Duluth cash wheat closed ½c over the May price. Oats closed at an advance of ¼c. Durum, rye and barley closed unchanged. All three of the Duluth flaxseed futures closed 2c lower, by reason of the report of the settlement of the British coal strike, which threatened to put American importers to the necessity of doing heavy buying in the United States on account of inability to get their flaxseed shipped from Buenos Ayres.

The wheat market of Duluth held up surprisingly well today, in the face of the correction of Bradstreet's report on the visible supply of wheat, as announced yesterday. Yesterday the report showed a decrease of 2,709,000 bu in the world's visible supply. Today's correction showed an increase of 351,000 bu. One might naturally expect that such a correction would cause quite a slump on the markets of North America, but it did not, and the only explanation seems to be that many brokers viewed the report with distrust yesterday and yesterday's rise was due more to other factors, notably the decrease in the primary receipts. If the report was viewed with much distrust yesterday, the correction could not have had much of a bearish effect today. The wheat market of Chicago was down a little at noon today, but those at Duluth, Minneapolis and Winnipeg all showed increases in the price. Duluth May wheat, which closed yesterday at $1.06⅞, opened today at $1.06¾ asked, and at noon today was selling for $1.06⅝@1.06¾. The American primary receipts today were rather bearish. They showed quite a falling off in comparison with those of a week ago, but were somewhat larger than those of a year ago. This morning's bullish trend is hard to account for.

Wheat on the Buenos Ayres market closed last night ⅝@⅝c higher and opened this morning ⅝c lower to 1½c higher. News from London was bearish, wheat closing ⅛@1½d lower. This was due mainly to the expectation of large Argentine shipments and the report of the settlement of the British coal strike, which has been causing grave apprehension as to its probable effects on the ocean carrying trade.

Flaxseed Goes Lower.

There were bullish flax cables from Buenos Ayres today and these caused quite an advance both at Duluth and Winnipeg early in the morning, but when the news of the settlement of the British coal strike was received, flaxseed took a sudden drop on both of these markets. Many shippers, who have sold Argentine flaxseed for delivery in the United States have been fearing that they would not be able to ship and make good and have therefore been buying at Duluth and Winnipeg, sending these markets up. But the announcement of the settlement of the strike put the situation in an entirely new light. The buying demand fell off rapidly and there was quite a slump. Duluth May flax was a cent and a half down. Winnipeg flaxseed at noon was half a cent up at $1.89. Buenos Ayres March flaxseed closed last night at $1.81⅜, being 3⅝c higher than at the close of the day before.

Cold weather in Canada, so welcome to those who are directly interested in getting Canadian wheat and other grain to the elevators of Duluth and Superior before it has had a chance to spoil, still continues. Temperatures over the Canadian Northwest today ranged from zero to 20 below, while those over the American Northwest ranged from 12 above to 18 below.

The Chicago Paint, Oil and Drug Review says: "The linseed oil market is in a stagnant position both for spot and future deliveries. The quotation for strictly pure, raw linseed oil in carload lots in cooperage in Chicago is 66c, which is less than the oil can be made for. This price seems to be firm although with the dullness which is ruling, it is possible it might be shaded, if an offer was made, but it is apparent that nobody is interested in oil, as no inquiries are being made. Deliveries on old contracts are being carried out day after day, but the quantities are not in proportion to what they usually are during the middle of March.

"It is a well-known fact that the weather has held back everything in connection with the building business all over the country, and this has had a greater effect upon the consumption of oil than ordinarily when only one section is having cold weather, leaving other parts open for the consumption of paints.

"Crushers are beginning to wake up to the fact a great mistake has been made in allowing sales to be made at less than cost. Buyers have not generally known it, and have all along simply contended prices were too high, when as a matter of fact, oil has been sold at a sacrifice. On crushing concern said Tuesday, it looked as if the same demoralizing conditions of fifteen years, or so, ago, were sure to be repeated unless oil was sold on a basis of profit, which had not been the case for some time.

"The carload price in Minneapolis is 64c, and according to a letter in another column is less than cost. No one in this section that oil was recently sold considerably below this price for a limited period.

"The Linseed cake market is firmer and prices f. o. b. Chicago are $36 per ton."

The vast amount of new land that has just been broken in Western Canada for farming will probably be seeded with flax this year, as is customary on virgin soil, according to D. D. Lewis of the Atlas Elevator company of Winnipeg, who has been at the Spalding hotel. His company owns fifty grain elevators along the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific in Western Canada. The company has during the latter part of this winter shipptd about 500,000 bu of grain by way of Duluth. The company has an equal amount ready for shipment, but prefers to hold it until the opening of navigation, when it can be sent by way of Fort William and Port Arthur.

It may seem strange to many people that the price of flaxseed at Duluth is holding up so well, in spite of the fact that the Canadian seed is relatively much cheaper. No. 1 Canadian northwestern has been selling at Winnipeg for about $1.88 a bu. When a duty of 25c is added to this and the rebate for the export of coke is taken off, making a net duty of about 18c a bu, the price is seen to be equivalent to $2.06 in the United States, railroad transportation being the same. The flaxseed that is sold at Winnipeg is largely at Port Arthur and Fort William. Railroad rates are now such that it costs no more to send flaxseed from Western Canada to Duluth than to Fort William and Port Arthur. Hence a price of $1.88 at Winnipeg is equivalent to a price of $2.06 at Duluth. The Canadian No. 1 northwestern is admittedly very superior to the No. 1 American. Yet the former yesterday was selling at winnipeg for $1.88 a bu, equivalent to $2.06 at Duluth, while the latter was bringing $2.09 at Duluth.

Moreover, No. 1 Manitoba, which is admitted to be as good, or perhaps a little better than No. 1 American, has been selling at Winnipeg about 6c lower than No. 1 northwestern. This means the equivalent of $2 a bu at Duluth, while No. 1 American seed was bringing $2.06.

To be sure, a great deal of poor flaxseed has been coming from Canada into Duluth elevators, but at the same time it is by no means all poor. A great deal of this bonded seed is of most excellent quality. At first glance the situation seems very strange, and it is a little hard to see why so very little Canadian seed has yet been sold on the Duluth market, and why nearly all the sales of Canadian seed are made at Winnipeg. But there is a reason for it.

The crusher is now the buyer. He is not buying very fast. He can do just as well buying No. 1 northwestern flaxseed at Winnipeg for $1.88 as he can by buying the same grade of flaxseed at Duluth for $2.06. He prefers to do his buying at Winnipeg and ship the seed in bond to the Duluth elevators. He can get all of this seed that he needs, and he does not have to fight for what there is on the Duluth market, although the receipts for sale on that market have been very small of late, and have been steadily diminishing for some time.

By buying the Canadian flaxseed at Winnipeg for a very low price, and paying a high price on the Duluth market, the crusher manages to keep up the price at Duluth. It does not cost him much to keep up the Duluth price, because the offers from the country are so small. If vast quantities of flaxseed were pouring in upon the Duluth market from the flaxseed farms that are tributary to Duluth, he would find it much harder to do this. Country holders of the American seed would rush it to the Duluth market on account of the high price. The fact that it does not come is good evidence that they have not much of it. So the crusher can thus keep up the Duluth price.

Now comes the question, why does the crusher wish to have the Duluth price stay up? It is because the Duluth price has a great deal to do with the price that buyers of linseed oil are willing to pay for it. A high price for flaxseed in America makes it easier to get good prices for oil in America.

One may wonder why the Canadian holders of flaxseed do not rush it upon the Duluth market, instead of selling it at Winnipeg. The answer is that, no being American crushers, they cannot look forward to getting the rebate of about 7c a bu for the cake that is exported from America. They must pay the full duty of 25c on shipping flaxseed into the United States for sale in that country. The American crushers are the buyers on the Duluth market. They prefer to buy their Canadian seed in Winnipeg.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Is Bearish on Prospect of End of British Strike.

Chicago, March 20.—Prospects for a settlement of the coal strike in England had a bearish influence today on wheat. Larger shipments from Argentina which were looked for at Liverpool counted also against the bull side. Moreover, receipts here continued to exceed the figures of a year ago. Accordingly support was poor. Opening prices were ⅛@⅜c down. May started at $1.01⅝@1.01⅞, the same change from last night as the market taken altogether. A drop to $1.01⅜@1.01½ followed.

Subsequent reports of excellent flour business at Minneapolis turned the market upward. Smallness of arrivals northwest furnished aid. Prices dipped again, though, on account of world's available supplies showing an increase instead of a loss. The close was steady with May ¼c off at $1.01¾.

Cold weather gave firmness to corn. The tendency was upward, however, by the weakness of wheat. May opened ⅛@¼c to ¼@⅜c higher at 71¼@71¾c, and yielded to 71@71⅛c. Heavy snow in Iowa and Nebraska brought a rally. The close was strong, ½@⅝c net higher at 71⅝c.

Oats showed but scanty power of absorption. Prices faded under liberal offerings. May started unchanged to a shade lower at 53@53⅛c to 53⅜c and declined to 52⅞c about the closing figures of last night during the early trading, but soon rallied with prices ruling some 4 to 5 points net higher toward 11 o'clock.

Futures closed steady: bids: March, 10.40; April, 10.37; May, 10.46; June, 10.52; July, 10.58; August, 10.57; September, 10.57; October, 10.62; November, 10.64; December, 10.68; January, 10.64. February, 10.63.

Spot closed quiet, 5 points higher; middling uplands, 10.65; middling gulf, 10.90. Sales, 200 bales.

Cotton Market.

New York, March 20.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 7@9 points in response to higher Liverpool cables and prospects for renewed unsettled or wet and colder weather in the South.

The census report showing 16,050,000 bales ginned for the season was in line with recent predictions, but evidently proved a little larger than expected by some of yesterday's buyers. The market closed easy to about the closing figures of last night during the early trading, but soon rallied with prices ruling some 4 to 5 points net higher toward 11 o'clock.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Best Prices in the Final Hour and Close Is Buoyant.

Railroads Share More Than Usual in the Upward Movement.

New York, March 20.—Copper stocks were the feature at the opening of the stock market today, Amalgamated Copper, Utah Copper and Anaconda all scoring substantial fractional gains. The demand was broad, however, and embraced most railway and industrial shares. Canadian Pacific was up a point with a similar gain for United States realty. United States Steel common and preferred both made initial gains, as did also the Hill and Harriman railroad stocks. The volume of business was moderately large.

The strength of the coppers resulted from the probability of another advance in the price of the metal, and the rise in the Western transcontinental railroads was ascribed to advices from various parts of the West, which pointed to prospects of trade revival. Another factor which made the increased cheerfulness was the remarkable showing of the country's exports for February.

Further impetus was given to the buying movement in the second hour on receipt of cables indicating a speedy termination of the English coal strike.

Definite announcement of an advance in copper metal to 15c was another bull argument and opened the way to considerable conjecture as to the dividend action on Amalgamated Copper and Anaconda.

Recent activity in the specialties was resumed particularly in American Can, the preferred selling within a fraction of par. Before the middle almost a score of issues had gained from 1 to 2 points. Of the usual market leaders United States Steel was the most backward, presumably because of some adverse features contained in the annual report but later it moved forward with the rest of the list. Bonds were steady.

Railroad stocks participated to a greater extent than usual in the upward movement. Bull operators were encouraged by this development and there also was significant broadening out of speculation into other quarters. Various pools took advantage of the widespread demand for stocks to bring certain issues into prominence and wide and rapid fluctuations were frequent among the specialties. United States Steel rose to 67⅞c and Amalgamated Copper to 76¼. In the railroad section some of the Coalers and Western issues ruled about a point higher.

The market closed buoyant. Union Pacific, United States Steel, Lehigh Valley and Reading ascended to best prices in the final hour and American Sugar rose 3. The rest of the list was within minor fractions of the top, profit-taking producing little result.

ANTHRACITE OPERATORS MAY GIVE IN

Withdraw Decision to Make Refusal of Men's Demands Final.

Bituminous Miners Make Demand Equal to 20 Per Cent Raise.

White Says It Is Ultimatum and Rejection Will Mean Strike.

New York, March 21.—It became known today that the anthracite operators who recently met here and refused the miners' demands for increased pay have reconsidered their decision to make the answer final, and will convene again in the near future to go over the situation.

Whether this means that a compromise offer will be drafted could not be learned. Some independent operators already have signified their intention of granting a partial increase, however, and the assumption is that some similar action may develop from the future meeting.

Ultimatum, Says White.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 21.—Ten per cent increase in pay, with a shortening of hours equal to another 10 per cent increase, was demanded by the miners today as the only basis upon which they will continue to work in the bituminous coal fields after April 1.

"Call it a strike or a suspension, the 200,000 miners in the bituminous fields of Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois will not dig another lump after the first of the month on the present wage scale," said John P. White, president of the United Mine Workers of America.

Mr. White said the demand was in the nature of an ultimatum, and if the mines were to be worked it would be

NO BAIL ALLOWED FOR TOM MANN

English Labor Leader Held on Charge of Inciting Sedition.

Manchester, Eng., March 21.—Tom Mann, the well-known labor leader, was today remanded by the Salford magistrate when he was brought on the charge of "feloniously, maliciously and advisedly publishing certain printed matter called the 'Syndicatist,' endeavoring to persuade the persons serving in the forces of his majesty, the king, on land or sea, from their duty and allegiance to his majesty and inducing the said persons to commit traitorous and mutinous practices." Bail was refused.

MAJ. BUTT GIVES POPE LETTER FROM TAFT.

Rome, March 21.—The pope received today in private audience Maj. Archibald W. Butt, personal aide to President Taft. Maj. Butt presented to the pontiff an autograph letter from President Taft, with which the pope was greatly pleased, recalling the friendly intercourse between the holy see and Mr. Taft in 1902 when the latter, then civil governor of the Philippines, came to Rome to negotiate the question of the friars' land in the Philippines.

MAY REJECT WAGE BILL

Parliament Develops Opposition to Measure Aimed at Coal Strike.

Balfour Again Leading Unionists—Governmental Crisis Is Foreseen.

London, March 21.—The crisis which has arisen over the minimum wages bill introduced by Premier Asquith in the house of commons to bring to an end the deadlock in British trade caused by the national coal strike, continues. The idea appears to be gaining ground that there will be considerable delay in passing the measure, even if it is not thrown out entirely, and that thus the strike will be prolonged.

The spread of this opinion has caused further consternation in the industrial districts of the United Kingdom, where the suffering already is extreme. The total of the men out of employment is increasing daily, and it is now estimated that besides the million miners on strike, nearly 2,000,000 other persons have been rendered idle.

Predict "Hunger Marches."

The people in many centers daily beslege the offices of the mayors, where relief is freely distributed. It is thought that unless something is done quickly to bring the crisis to an end, "hunger marches" such as that which took place last night in the fishing town of Grimsby, when 300 starv-

COAL TRUST IN DULUTH?

Congress Asked to Investigate Conditions at Head of the Lakes.

Complaints About Two Harbors Basis of the Resolution.

Washington, March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—A resolution providing for an investigation of an alleged combination of coal operatives at the Head of the Lakes was introduced in the house today by Representative Steenerson.

It was presented at the instance of the city council of Thief River Falls, which in a communication to Mr. Steenerson alleged that the situation at Two Harbors was such that because of a combination between operatives, the municipality of Thief River Falls was unable to purchase coal for sale to the citizens at cost.

Mr. Steenerson decided that it would be better to have the investigation, if ordered, cover all the cities at the Head of the Lakes, and he framed this resolution accordingly.

LUMBER RATE FOR PULPWOOD

Commerce Commission Orders Readjustment By Great Northern.

Washington, March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the case of the Wisconsin Pulpwood company against the Great Northern Railway company, the interstate commerce commission decided that the rates on pulpwood from Minnesota producing points to Superior are excessive.

The road is directed to charge the same rates on pulpwood from these points as is now charged for lumber.

CAMPAIGN FOR "PURITY" PLANNED

La Crosse, Wis., March 21. — The World's Purity federation, that has waged war on the white slave traffic for ten years, announced today through its president, B. S. Steadwell of this city, that the next campaign which the federation will launch against white slavery will be a tour of a large force of expert workers through leading cities in Eastern Canada, the Atlantic coast states and the South. The start will be made at Toronto on April 9.

Among the workers who will take part in the various conferences are: Rev. T. Albert Moore, Toronto; J. Frank Chase, Boston; Ernest A. Bell, Chicago; Mrs. Kate Barrett, Washington; Anthony Comstock, New York; Mrs. Carroll, wife of the governor, Des Moines, Iowa; Dr. Emma F. A. Drake, Denver, Colo.; Rev. J. W. Aikins, Toronto; James Patten, Washington, W. L. Clark, Leamington, Ont., and B. S. Steadwell, La Crosse.

Cities to be visited include Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal, Quebec, St. John, Halifax and Sydney, in Canada; Portsmouth, Boston, Providence, Hartford, New York, Scranton, Philadelphia, Atlantic City, Baltimore, Washington, Charlotte, Spartansburg and Asheville, N. POTASH IN THE MOJAVE DESERT

Washington, March 21.—A valuable discovery of soluble potash salts has been made in the Mojave desert, Southern California, by field representatives of the bureau of solls and geological survey. The potash was found in a partially dried-up lake. The government experts who found it declare there are indications of millions of tons of potash.

COAL STOCKS ARE VERY LOW

Companies Refusing to Sell More Than One Ton to Customer.

Nearly All Bituminous Coal on Docks Is Under Contract.

If no more cold weather records are broken this year and if the labor troubles in the coal fields are settled within a reasonable time after April 1, there will be no coal famine in Duluth and the surrounding country.

There is very little anthracite coal on hand and still less free bituminous coal, but there is enough of both to carry consumers through until the new coal arrives, if normal weather and labor conditions prevail.

The anthracite situation may pinch a little. Some companies are now holding consumers down to one-ton orders to prevent anybody stocking up to the detriment of others, but that applies only to cargo pea coal, the grade most used for residence heating. If that grade runs out entirely, the consumer may use other grades to tide him over until the weather breaks sufficiently to allow the furnace to go down. It is said the stocks of stove size are practically exhausted.

The bituminous coal situation here is more serious from an industrial standpoint. There are great quantities of bituminous coal on the docks, but it is nearly all under contract. Under ordinary conditions on the approach of navigation, the companies might draw on contract coal to supply other patrons, under the assurance

HOME RULE BILL NOT YET DRAWN

Irish Leaders Confer With Asquith Over Financial Plan.

London, March 21.—That the home rule bill has not yet been finally drafted is evident from the fact that the Irish leaders yesterday were called into secret consultation with the cabinet committee concerning the details of the measure.

It leaked out only this afternoon that John Redmond and T. P. O'Connor had spent two and a half hours in Premier Asquith's official residence debating with the premier, Augustus Birrell, the Irish secretary, and other members of the cabinet over the financial provisions of the proposed bill.

The difficulties in this respect are understood still to be unsolved.

DIVIDEND OF 2,900 PER CENT DECLARED.

New York, March 21.—The Standard Oil Company of Indiana today declared a stock dividend of 2,900 per cent. payable to stock of record of April 1. This action follows a recent increase in the company's capital stock from $1,000,000 to $30,000,000, the additional $29,000,000 being given to shareholders as a stock dividend.

REVIVE OLD WOOL BILL

Democrats Defy Taft Veto and Tariff Board's Report.

No Caucus to Be Held on It—Free Raw Wool Passed By.

Washington, March 21.—The Democratic members of the ways and means committee determined today to reintroduce in the house the same wool tariff revision bill which was vetoed by President Taft last summer.

The committee first considered a bill that would correspond to the conference report, but finally decided unanimously to introduce their own bill, which puts a duty of 20 per cent on raw material. Chairman Underwood dropped the bill in the basket as he entered the house this morning.

The decision of the Democratic members of the committee came after a few hours' discussion and examination of the tariff board's statistics as analyzed by Chairman Underwood and compared with the data in possession of the committee.

Free Wool Idea Dropped.

Free wool champions were convinced by the chairman that a free wool bill could not be proposed sincerely because there was no means to raise the $21,000,000 revenue that would be lost in placing raw wool on the free list.

The action of the committee was unexpected, and it was even decided there should be no Democratic caucuses relating to the bill. This will obviate altogether the fight that would be made by the free wool adherents. It is probable, however, that when the bill comes up on the floor the radical free wool Democrats may make a stand.

The action of the Democratic leaders is in the face of the report of the tariff board which came to the house last December. President Taft, in his veto of the bill as passed by the house and senate last summer, urged as the principal reason for his veto that there had then been no report from the tariff board on the subject.

MOTHERS PLAN FIGHT FOR CHILD WELFARE.

St. Louis, Mo., March 21.—A campaign for child welfare was considered today by the National Congress of Mothers, which is holding its sixteenth annual convention here. Mrs. David O. Mears of New York was the principal speaker. A session to be devoted to legislation is scheduled for Garrett of Philadelphia as the leader in the discussion.

Austria Launches Dreadnought.

Triest, Austria, March 21.—The Tegetthoff, Austria's second dreadnought which was laid down in April, 1910, was launched here today in the presence of Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir to the throne, and other members of the imperial family.

BREAKS LAW BY USE OF TOO BIG MEASURE.

Wausau, Wis., March 21.—City Sealer of Weights and Measures J. H. Pomeroy reports having discovered a dealer in this city who has been defrauding himself for several years in the sale of expensive oils because of a liquid measure larger than is allowed by the new law of weights and measures.

ALLENS DEFY AUTHORITIES

Nail Notice of Warning Beside Public Offer of Reward.

Virginia Mountaineers No Nearer Capture Than Before.

Hillsville, Va., March 21.—The town is excited over a report that a party of the Allens or other sympathizers rode to a point within three miles of Hillsville last night and placed a notice of their own beside the government's posted proclamation offering rewards for the wanted clansmen, dead or alive. This is the notice said to have been posted:

"TO THOSE WHO HAVE MADE IT THEIR CONCERN:

"We have plenty of arms and bullets. We know how to use them. These hills are an unhealthy place for strangers to visit. Remember this, you can get us in the end, maybe, but we will get you first."

It is said there were a dozen or more in the party which posted this.

Sidna Allen and his gang today apparently are no nearer capture than they were a week ago, when they rode back to the mountains after the tragedy that blotted out the circuit court of Carroll county. Posses have surrounded three different mountain strongholds in which the Allens were believed to have been run to cover, only to find that the outlaws either had escaped or had not been there at all.

Nothing had been heard early today from the detectives who were in the field yesterday and last night.

ACCUSED OF BIG DIAMOND THEFTS

Daniel Callahan Arrested By Postoffice Inspectors in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., March 21.—Daniel Callahan was arrested today by postoffice inspectors, who say he is wanted for complicity in three diamond robberies aggregating $120,000, in the robbery of a postoffice substation in St. Louis, and at other points.

Postoffice Inspector Bunsen, who made the arrest, says Callahan is being held as the leader of the gang which stole $100,000 worth of diamonds from Mrs. Maldwin Drummond's stateroom on the steamship America in February, 1911, and which bound and gagged two men and stole $10,000 worth of jewels from Edward Alberti's store in Chicago in April, 1911, and killed a man in getting away.

Bunsen, who has been looking for Callahan for eighteen months for the postoffice robbery, was eating in a restaurant when he noticed that an index finger of a man opposite him was missing at the first joint. He then saw the resemblance between a photograph of Callahan and the man opposite him.

With the aid of a city detective, Bunsen arrested Callahan and his companion, who gave the name of Charles F. Miller. Callahan denied his identity, and according to the city detective, tried to bribe Bunsen.

Governor Makes Speech Outlining His Idea of Democracy's Fight.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 21.—Instruction of Indiana's delegation to the Democratic national convention to vote for Governor Marshall for the nomination for president is one of the principal planks of the platform adoped by the state convention today.

Nomination of Samuel M. Ralston of Lebanon for governor on the first ballot was also accomplished.

Anti-Privilege Platform.

Governor Marshall was temporary chairman of the convention, and in his address urged Democrats to go this year to the people upon a platform the cardinal principle of which is opposition to special privilege. Governor Marshall said in part:

"Ethics deny the dragging of a personal opponent into a public speech unless thereby a sharp distinction between views can be drawn. With Republican quarrels and controversies we have nothing to do. We must appeal to the people of Indiana on the strength of our principles and the integrity of our candidates. We dare

MINNEAPOLIS MAN ROBBED OF $200

E. S. Pattee Tells of Drink in Chicago and Subsequent Loss.

Chicago, March 21.—E. S. Pattee of Minneapolis, controller of the Twin City Rapid Transit company of St. Paul and Minneapolis, has reported to the police that he has been robbed of $200. He is here attending the meeting of the American Railway Engineering association.

Mr. Pattee said he had a couple of drinks with a man he met in a hotel lobby and who he thought was one of the attending engineers. That was yesterday. Today he awakened in a room not his own, and his money was gone. He did not recall how he got to the room in which he awakened, he said.

MRS. GRACE ARRIVES AT MOTHER'S HOUSE.

Philadelphia, March 21.—Mrs. Daisy Grace, accused of shooting her husband in Atlanta, arrived here today from the South to look after private business affairs and to visit her mother who is ill. Mrs. Grace was accompanied from Atlanta by one of her attorneys.

"I did not shoot my husband and I am anxious and ready to face trial," said Mrs. Grace. "It is false that I have left Atlanta not to return."

Meningitis in St. Louis.

CANADA IS STRIPPED OF FREIGHT CARS

Embargo Will Be Placed on Shipments of Western Grain.

Hard Blow for Farmers Fighting to Save Damp Wheat.

Still Ample Room in Elevators at Head of the Lakes.

Western Canadian railroads have been stripped of freight cars by the grain rush to the Head of the Lakes and an embargo will be placed on future shipments.

According to a special telegram received at Duluth today from Winnipeg, bonded grain receipts from Western Canada at the Duluth and Superior elevators will cease in the near future. The message states that Canadian railroads have found themselves obliged to discontinue the shipments of grain into this country by reason of a scarcity of cars. It is stated that there are at present about 4,000 cars laden with grain of Western Canada and headed for the American Head of the Lakes. This decision by the railroads, the wire says, is causing consternation among holders of damp grain in Western Canada. According to the present outlook there is little hope of avoiding the ruin of millions of bushels of wheat and other grain in Western Canada. This grain, though damp, will keep in such weather as there is in Western Canada at present, but a few warm days would ruin it.

Cold a Blessing.

It has been fortunate indeed for the holders of damp grain in Western Canada that the spring has been so

ITALIANS DROP BOMBS ON TURKS

Two Dirigible Airships Reconnoiter Over the City of Tripoli.

London, March 21.—Details of an attack by Italian dirigible balloons yesterday on the Turkish camp at Suani-Ben-Aden are given in a special dispatch received today from a correspondent with the Turkish forces. He says the two Italian dirigibles carried out two reconnaissances over the Turkish lines, dropping bombs as they proceeded.

The air ships were under perfect control. They stopped almost still over the coast town of Zanzeur, about fourteen miles west of the city of Tripoli, and dropped a bomb into the street. Four persons were killed by the explosion and ten others wounded, all of them noncombatants.

The balloons made a complete tour of the Turkish camps, but a sustained rifle fire from the Turkish infantry compelled them finally to swerve off and disappear. In the course of their second visit the air ships succeeded in dropping thirty bombs, according to the correspondent, who does not give any particulars as to the casualties.

PREPARE FOR KAISER BY ARRESTING SUSPECTS.

Venice, Italy, March 21.—All suspected persons residing here and in the surrounding towns have been arrested by the police, as the authorities desire to prevent the occurrence of any untoward incident on the occasion of the coming visit of the German emperor. MEN AND RELIGION FORWARD CAMPAIGN

PROBLEMS FOR CHURCH

Social Service Worker Discusses Conditions in American Cities.

Housing, Loan Sharks, Wages, Saloons and the Social Evil.

Dr. I. J. Lansing addressed the social service institute of the Men and Religion Forward Movement last evening at the First M. E. church on the subject, "The Church and Municipal Problems."

He compared the present conditions of urban growth at the expense of rural population, with the same conditions in Italy about the time of the decline of Rome in the third and fourth centuries A. D. "Great masses of the weaker people congregate in our cities, where some are wicked and some indifferent," he said. "The wicked prey upon the weak in ways that are scandalous." He considered the facts last night, and tonight will consider the solution of these problems. Every man who is a member of any church is invited to the meeting this evening, unless he is already attending one of the other movement institutes.

Dr. Lansing discussed only three forms of these problems—the physical mental and moral.

First he considered the health of infants. "Urban conditions are very hard for the babies," he said. "The milk and other food are often bad. Many mothers are overworked just before and after child-birth. Many girls are not able to take care of babies when they become mothers, on account of lack of experience in housekeeping, having worked away their youth in stores and factories and perhaps broken their health. Some people lie about the age of their children in order to get the children to work and get money out of them, by which the children suffer.

"Pure food is an important problem for young and old. The people ought to demand the retention of Dr. Wiley in his position, whence he has been compelled to resign by the conniving of Secretary Wilson and others with the manufacturers of adulterated and poisonous foods.

False Weights.

"False weights and measures are a problem. A peach basket is often used for a bushel when it really holds about half a bushel. When I picked berries, and sold them, I sold full quarts, but when I buy them from the stores, I get boxes that grow smaller and smaller.

"Housing is a problem. The owners of the property and the builders and contractors are to blame.

"Wages and employment are problems. The state should supervise. It is estimated that $7 to $9 per week is needed to keep a girl in comfort, but many get only $3 or $4 per week.

"A man in a large Eastern city was paid $9 per week as a gas-meter reader. His family consisted of himself, his wife and two children. He applied to his pastor for assistance finnancially. The pastor asked, 'Are you sick?' 'No,' was the answer. 'Do you drink?' 'No.' 'Well, I will fix that,' said the pastor. 'The president of the gas company is a member of this church.' The gas company had just declared a dividend of $2,400,000, and sawed off the support of its employes upon the church, so as to be able to declare another dividend later. Girls working for starvation wages are often compelled to sell their bodies for support.

"Parks are needed, also playgrounds, but they must be supervised.

Loan Sharks.

"Loan sharks are a problem. Every city should have a loan association which would provide funds at fair rates in worthy cases. A valued clerk borrowed $100. In a year he had paid $110 interest but nothing was credited on the principal. His employer rebuked him, charged him to ask him when he needed financial help, took the papers, and demanded and obtained a receipt in full from the shark, as he had received his principal and fair interest.

"The schools are a problem. Much of the teaching is a failure. Vocational teaching is needed.

"Pictures are a problem, in the newspapers, on postcards, and in picture shows. Too much nasty detail is given in papers, crimes are illustrated in shows, many postcards are bad. A censor is needed.

"The saloon is a center of all kinds of crime. Its product is always bad.

"Prostitution is a problem. It is not so much brought about by the lusts of men, but it is commercialized—it is a means of making money. It must not be tolerated. The diseases co-incident are terrible. Seventy-five per cent of the operations upon women are caused by diseased men. Venereal and syphilitic diseases must be treated like the Bubonic plague, the Asiatic cholera, and the smallpox. A young man suffering from venereal disease took a drink from a cup of water. His mother used the same cup, was stricken with the disease and lost her sight. Men and women are literally rotting physically, and children are inheriting the diseases.

"Desecration of the Sabbath is a problem. Gambling is a problem. The church cannot connive at these problems, but must present a united front against them."

An interesting discussion followed, and Dr. Lansing stated that a committee of six men from each church would be appointed to form an inter-church committee, whose executive committee would consult with the mayor and the public welfare committee.

RUSSIANS GET BERGER'S HELP

Say Deportation Order Is Based Upon Unfounded Charges.

Washington, March 21.—Appealing to the United States to save them from the horrors of Siberia, Vassily Lichachoff and Feital Kahn, Russian Socialists ordered deported from Tacoma, Wash., today enlisted the aid of Representative Berger of Wisconsin, Socialist. Mr. Berger took up the matter with the commissioner of immigration.

The men escaped from the Siberian quicksilver mines, to which they say they were sentenced for alleged political crimes. They were arrested here as dangerous anarchists. They protest they hold no anarchistic views, but are members of the Social Democratic party of Russia.

BOYS' CONFERENCE WILL OPEN FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Tomorrow afternoon the older boys' conference, a conference by boys with the members of the team of experts as speakers, will begin with the registration of delegates at the First Presbyterian church, Third avenue east and Second street.

This conference is one of the features of the week's campaign. It is expected that there will be 200 boys in attendance as delegates from the different churches of the city.

The headquarters of the conference will be at the First Presbyterian church. After the registration, officers will be elected and committees appointed.

Directly after the first business of the conference, the boys will go to the Central Y. M. C. A. building, where they will attend the conference dinner. Rev. M. S. Rice will be toastmaster.

Charles Little of the First Baptist church will respond to the words of welcome by the president of the conference on the part of the church boys; Caldwell Harris will respond for the high school; Rex St. Clair for the boys' department, Y. M. C. A.; Earl Brooks for the West Duluth Boys' club.

The Boys' Department Mandolin club will furnish music for the diners, after which Norman McLeod, secretary of the boys' department, will speak on "Why This Conference?" J. A. Whitmore will also address the boys.

The conference by the boys of the city will continue all day Saturday and Sunday. Besides the program of meetings and speeches to be delivered at them by both the boys and the experts, there will be diversion in the form of swimming at the pool at the Central Y. M. C. A.

The complete program for the boys' conference follows:

Friday.

5 o'clock—Registration of delegates, introduction of delegates, election of officers, appointment of committees for consideration and addresses.

6:30—Conference dinner to be held at boys' department Y. M. C. A. Toastmaster, M. S. Rice. Words of welcome, president of conference. Responses:

CONVENTION IS ENDED

But Men and Religion Campaign Will Continue Until Sunday.

Church Has Pursued a Policy of Retreat, Says Speaker.

With the sessions of yesterday afternoon the convention of the Men and Religion Forward Movement came to an end.

This does not mean that the campaign is over in Duluth for this feature will be continued up to and including Sunday.

Two convention sessions were held, one on Tuesday and one on Wednesday. Each session lasted nearly an entire day and many nearby towns were represented.

The convention feature of the week's campaign in Duluth was most successful. The experts here state that the meetings were more enthusiastic than in many of the towns visited.

The most important talk made at the final session yesterday afternoon was given by David G. Latshaw on "Community Extension."

Following are some brief extracts from Mr. Latshaw's address:

"What the church of tomorrow is going to be, is being settled now."

"Many a so-called Christian is morally exhausted by the time he gets himself in his pew once on Sunday."

"The church is more than a citidel for defense with numerous awkward squads in training. It is an army of strong men swinging out in double quick time to help men in mortal peril."

"The most precious brotherhood in the world is that of Christian men. But to a great crowd of unchurched men, it is a fact that waits for demonstration."

"Community extension would take every phase of the men and religion message and put it in action where it is most needed."

"Community extension means human interest. Few men doubt God's love today. A demonstration of human love for morally beaten men would win a multitude to the victorious Christ."

"I pity the preacher who is content to preach his gospel to a company of retired Christians, all ready for heaven."

"The policy of the church in the city has been a policy of retreat. We have had no program to meet the new conditions in a downtown city section and so sell out and build a stately building in the suburbs."

"In one downtown section in a city visited by this team there were 60,000 people. Twelve churches had moved out and the trash was left to the Salvation Army and one dingy mission in a side street."

"If the crowd of unchurched men and boys in Duluth is ever to be won to Jesus Christ the laymen of this city must do it."

"Community extension is an inter-church proposition. It knows no creed save that which all Christian men must hold."

"From spurts and spasms, good Lord deliver us!"

Maybray Is Released.

Kansas City, Mo., March 21.—John C. Maybray, former head of a syndicate of race track swindlers, who was taken into custody here last night for investigation, was released today. "There is no charge pending against Maybray," said Chief of Police Griffin.

Cunard Dividend Increased.

London, March 21.—The Cunard Steamship company today declared a dividend of 7½ per cent for the year 1911 as compared with only 5 per cent in 1910.

IN SCHOOLS AND SHOPS

Men and Religion Workers Talk to Students and Workingmen.

Five Institutes and Platform Meetings Planned for Evening.

With the convention sessions out of the way, the workers of the Men and Religion Forward Movement, were busy today in the different parts of the city with meetings in the schools and in the shops.

Charles R. Drum addressed a large and enthusiastic meeting of students of the West Duluth high school this morning at 9 a. m., on "Independence."

After the talk given the students by the New York man, Principal Scott Foster told the visitors that the message given the students was by far the best ever delivered at the school.

Because of the numerous meetings planned for this morning and the fact that the experts were busy in the different parts of the city, the meeting of the ministers which was scheduled for this morning, was postponed until 2 p. m. this afternoon. It was held at that time at the Y M. C. A.

During the noon hour several shop meetings were held. J. J. Daniels, G. A. Glenn, C. R. Dunn, J. A. McGaughey, W. H. Mixsell and Warren Pugh addressed meetings at the Scott-Graff sawmill and planing mill.

Yesterday most successful noon meetings were held at the street car barns and at the Marshall-Wells Hardware company. The experts spoke before the men and they expressed themselves today as highly pleased with their reception in each place.

Luncheon Postponed.

The business and professional men's luncheon which was to have been held this noon was postponed. It will take place tomorrow noon at the Commercial club. The committee is very anxious to get a large number of men out for this event and all who are interested are cordially invited.

This afternoon Dr. Lansing addressed the social workers of the city. Courtenay Dinwiddie of the Associated Charities had sent out about 200 notices of the meeting and with the many unorganized people who are interested in the work, there was a large attendance.

J. A. Whitmore spoke before a women's meeting at the Y. W. C. A. this afternoon on "The Boy." A large number of mothers were in attendance. Mr. Whitmore's talk was both interesting and instructive.

W. C. Pearce, another member of the team of experts addressed a meeting of mothers at Lakeside this afternoon. Mr. Pearce spoke on "Bible Study."

Five Institutes.

This evening at 6:45 the regular five institutes will be held. They will be at the Pilgrim Congregational church, the First Presbyterian, the Swedish Mission, St. Paul's and the First Methodist church.

There will be five platform meetings tonight. At the First Methodist church W. C. Pearce will speak on "Bible Study;" Raymond P. Gorbold will speak on "Missions" at the Pilgrim Congregational church; I. J. Lansing will speak on "Social Service" at St. Paul's; Charles R. Drum and David G. Latshaw will be the speakers at the First Presbyterian church, and "Boys' Work" will be the subject of J. A. Whitmore's talk at the Swedish Mission church.

The men in Duluth as members of the team of experts are becoming very tired, having been on the road with but a break of one week since early in September. They have but one more week of the work after leaving Duluth. They will then return to their homes in New York and not one of them but will be glad the long campaign is ended for the time being.

BRUEGGER IS CHOSEN NATIONAL COMMITTEEMAN.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 21.—John Bruegger was elected national committeeman by the North Dakota Democrats Tuesday, five opponents practically conceding victory to him. Widely scattered reports covering the entire state place Bruegger well in the lead. The Democratic primary was lost sight of under the hot fight in the Republican party.

Thomas Marshall, Republican committeeman, has won by a plurality of approximately 10,000 with a total vote of 45,000 cast.

WILEY ANGERS DRUG SELLERS

Nearly Starts Fight By Referring to Them as "Dopers."

Washington, March 21.—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, appearing as a private citizen before the pure food board in advocacy of a regulation guarding very strictly the use and sale of opium, morphine, cocaine and other habit-forming drugs, aroused the anger of drug representatives by referring to them as "dopers." A heated argument ensued and for a moment it looked as if blows might be exchanged.

WOMAN DYING OF HATCHET WOUNDS

Milwaukee, Wis., March 21.—Miss Anna Miller, 1718 Wright street, is dying at the emergency hospital with several deep gashes on her body from injuries received by a hatchet during her struggle with a man today.

The police are searching for Albert Koehler, the woman's cousin, who they assert committed the attack.

ROOSEVELT TO SPEAK IN MAINE

Accepts Invitation to Talk to Voters at Portland.

New York, March 21.—Col. Roosevelt decided today to make an appeal direct to the voters of Maine, and accepted an invitation to speak in Portland Saturday night. The speech will be delivered at a mass meeting arranged by the Roosevelt state committee.

La Follette in Washington.

Washington, March 21.—Senator La Follette, upon his return to Washington today, took up plans for the extension of the campaign work he is to do in the next few weeks in states where direct presidential primaries are to be held.

Senator La Follette is in excellent physical condition and expects to take the stump again within a short time.

MEN'S MISTAKES

The Northwest's Most Reliable Specialist in Diseases of Men. In Duluth for 20 Years.

Many a bright and promising career has been blighted by injurious habits of folly before the age of knowledge and understanding, and many have been cut short by the unfortunate contracting of some poisonous special disease, which through neglect or improper treatment has completely undermined and shattered the physical strength and mental faculties. No greater mistake can be made than to consider lightly the first evidence of the introduction of any disease into your system or to neglect the first symptoms of weakened mind and approach of nervous debility, caused by habits, dissipation, etc.

Such indifference and neglect of the first symptoms are responsible for thousands of human wrecks, failures in life and business, insanity, suicide, etc. Why take such desperate chances. The manifestations of the first symptoms of any disease or weakness should be a warning for you to take prompt steps to safeguard your future life and happiness. You should carefully avoid all experimental, dangerous or half way treatment, for upon the success of the first treatment depends whether you will be promptly restored to health again, with all the taint of the poisonous disease removed from your system, or whether it be allowed to become chronic and subject you to future recurrences of the disease, with the various resulting complications, etc. We cure KIDNEY AND URINARY DISEASES, STRICTURE, DISCHARGES, VARICOCELE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, CONTAGIOUS BLOOD POISON, STOMACH DISEASES, RHEUMATISM, NERVOUSNESS, SKIN DISEASES, CANCER, HEART DISEASE, DIABETES, BRIGHT'S DISEASE, BLADDER TROUBLE, PROSTATIS, ACUTE DISCHARGES, VARICOSE VEINS, ULCERS, STRICTURE, BRAIN FAG, ERRORS OF YOUTH, WASTING, SPECIFIC BLOOD POISON, PARALYSIS, CONSTIPATION, INDIGESTION, CATARRH OF NOSE, THROAT, LUNGS AND BOWELS, LUNG TROUBLE, BRONCHITIS, TUMORS, ECZEMA, NEURALGIA, LUMBAGO, IMPOVERISHED BLOOD and other Chronic Diseases.

PETITION IS COMPLETE

Charter Board Will Consider Initiative, Referendum and Recall.

Amendments Will Be Submitted to the Council Monday.

Over 600 signatures have been attached to the petitions which have been in circulation asking that the initiative, referendum and recall be incorporated in the city charter. This is about fifty more than the necessary 5 per cent required to cause the proposals to be submitted to the voters.

T. T. Hudson, chairman of the charter commission, last evening called a meeting of the charter commission for Saturday evening, March 23, to pass upon the amendments. It is claimed that a majority of the members of the commission favor the initiative, referendum and recall and that the amendments will be approved without delay. After the charter commission has acted, the amendments will be sent to the city council Monday evening. Under the law that body will be required to call a special election to secure their ratification or rejection by the voters. The petition contains a complete draft of the amendments, which are based upon similar provisions in the charters of several of the cities in the United States, including Des Moines, Iowa, and Berkeley, Cal.

FUNERAL OF W. C. WINTON

Body of Well Known Duluthian Placed in Forest Hill Vault.

The funeral of W. C. Winton, who died last Thursday at Los Angeles, Cal., was held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the family residence at 1509 East First street.

The body was brought to Duluth yesterday, Mrs. Winton accompanying it.

Rev. Robert Yost of the First Presbyterian church was in charge of the services, and the body was placed in the vault of Forest Hill cemetery. The pall bearers were Chester A. Congdon, W. G. Hegardt, J. H. Harding, H. A. Starkey, Albert Baldwin and H. W. Coffin.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Winton and Mr. and Mrs. David Winton of Minneapolis came to Duluth to attend the funeral. Charles and David Winton are brothers of the deceased. Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Kreutzer of Wausau, brother-in-law and sister of Mrs. Winton, are also here, together with Frank J. Hegar of Ironwood, Mich., a cousin of Mrs. Winton.

COAL STOCKS ARE VERY LOW

that new coal would arrive within thirty or sixty days. Contract coal cannot be drawn on this year, however, for the companies to which it is contracted will hold the companies to their contracts.

Local dealers believe that the miners will go out April 1 and the question of the length of time necessary to adjust differences is causing the greatest concern. If differences are adjusted May 1, there will be little effect felt here, but if it goes over that time, some of the small manufacturing plants will be placed in a serious position.

The situation here is not as serious as at some other points. On the Atlantic seaboard, bituminous coal is being sold in carload lots for $1 a ton more than it is being sold here. One local dealer had an inquiry this week from Sioux City, Iowa, a city altogether outside of Duluth territory. Minneapolis and St. Paul people have been in the local market endeavoring to buy screenings and other grades of bituminous coal. Local dealers are confining themselves to their own territory. The demands from outside indicate that their own patrons may need the slender supply they have on hand.

The householder has little to fear from the anthracite shortage unless weather conditions should be abnormal. Patrons may fail to get their usual grades, but they will get coal that will burn and will give heat and under the circumstances that is something for which to be thankful.

ing men marched to the town hall and begged for relief, will become a common sight all over the country.

In towns all over the kingdom people are waiting the action of the house of commons tonight. There is no doubt that the minimum wages bill will receive a second reading for the coalition composed of the Liberals, the Irish party and the Labor party will unite in voting for it. Trouble will begin, however, when the bill reaches the committee stage at which period the members of the Labor party will propose the amendments on whose adoption they insist.

Balfour in the Lead.

Arthur J. Balfour, the former leader of the opposition, who for the moment has again resumed his former position as chief of the Unionists, is expected to ask the government to give more than one day for the committee stage bill which would delay the passage of the measure until next week.

There is another danger. The Unionists, under the leadership of Mr. Balfour, have condemned the principle of the minimum wage bill, the house of lords possibly will take the same stand and refuse to consent to its passage.

The Liberal party is swept by storms of doubt. Some of its members wish the bill to be abandoned, others desire to accept the miners' wages schedule, and an even larger fraction of the party is willing to engraft on the bill a clause establishing a minimum of $1.25 daily for all men employed underground and 50 cents for boys.

The government, however, it is understood, is bound by its pledges to various parties not to state the figures of the minimum wage in the bill. If the government accepts the amendment establishing a fixed rate of wages and inserts the figure in the bill the owners, it is believed, will refuse to open the pits.

Election Is Impossible.

Liberal members of parliament are warning the labor members that should the bill be defeated it will be necessary for the government, which is friendly to them, to resign and hand over the management of the country's affairs to the Unionist party, which is not so friendly.

A general election would, it is pointed out, be impossible until the dispute is settled and the government would be carried on without a parliament.

While a ballot of the men would doubtless show their willingness to accept the bill as it is and return to work, the union leaders apparently are determined to adhere to their decision as to the inclusion of the figure of the fixed minimum wage.

At a meeting this morning the executive committee of the miners' federation conferred with the labor members of parliament and framed the amendments which they intend to move when the minimum wage bill reaches the committee stage in the house.

The members of the cabinet, under the presidency of Premier Asquith, assembled early this morning.

The railroads continued to curtail their services and on some of the northern lines all the freight trains have been cancelled.

Mine Owners Pleased.

The mine owners appear to be pleased with the turn of events which threaten to wreck the minimum wage bill, which they characterize as a "blackmailing makeshift."

Many of them contend that the passage of the bill will condemn numbers of the less productive collieries to permanent abandonment.

They demand radical amendments to the bill providing specific safeguards and giving the powers of an arbitrator to the chairman of the district boards, who, they claim, should be appointed by the lord chief justice of England and the lord justice-general of Scotland within their respective jurisdictions, "because of political considerations entered so freely into the government's proposals."

For this reason the owners fear appointments of chairmen of district boards by the board of trade as proposed, possibly would be biased.

Battle in Scotland.

Glasgow, Scotland, March 21.—A pitched battle occurred today at Kirk Connell, in Dumfriesshire, between striking miners and the police. Many heads were broken among the combatants. The police ultimately routed the miners, of whom ten were arrested.

The miners, incensed at non-unionists resuming work, had attacked the non-unionists and were beating them severely when the police appeared on the scene. A series of police charges ensued in which the policemen's clubs were freely usd.

because the operators made concessions.

The demand was presented at another conference of representatives of the miners and operators in the four states directly concerned, who are endeavoring to arrange a new two-year wage scale to take the place of the present one, which is just expiring.

Only Basis Considered.

As showing the gravity of the situation, the union delegates announced they had been authorized to treat only on the basis of their present demands, amounting to about 20 per cent increase, and if any compromise was agreed upon, it merely could be submitted by the convention to a vote of the union, either through referendum or convention. That, President White insisted, would entail a suspension on April 1, whether or not a strike was called.

Answering the miners' demands, the operators declared that under the present earning power of the mines they could not afford to grant the increase.

They insisted on a decrease of 10 per cent in the present pay, maintaining that the railroad rates and the competition of Southern coal mines operated by non-union men at lower pay made it impossible for the operators to grant increases and mine coal at a profit.

FATAL STORM IN OKLAHOMA

Crosse river, twelve miles east of here, probably have gone out. Repairs are being rushed before the next thaw.

Fear Ohio Floods.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 21.—Continued rains and thawing weather over the watersheds of the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers for several days have caused the rivers at this point to rise rapidly, and a twenty-two-foot stage is expected by this afternoon, while the local weather bureau predicts thirty feet by tomorrow in the Ohio river.

Flood warnings have been sent out by Forecaster Henry Pennywit. The police are warning all dwellers in the lowlands to move.

Storm Wrecks Wires.

Somerset, Pa., March 21.—Burdened by a heavy coating of sleet, scores of telephone, telegraph and electric light wires were down here today. A horse driven by Deputy Sheriff Andrew Coleman was instantly killed when it stepped on a live wire, which set fire to the Economy Telephone exchange. The operator, Lottie Barron, aged 17 was saved after much difficulty by Supt. Otis Dietz of the Somerset Telephone company, whose office was in the same building.

late, that vast quantities could be shipped to the United States in time to save it. This morning temperatures through Western Canada ranged from 16 below to 20 above. That is warmer than it has been for some time. Through the American Northwest the temperatures were from 6 below to 12 above. While the temperature remains below the freezing mark, the grain in Western Canada can be kept without being damaged by its dampness.

Thus far the elevators at Duluth and Superior have received bonded grain from Western Canada, since the reduced railroad rates went into effect, amounting to about 8,000,000 bu, principally wheat. Of this there have been shipped out about 1,500,000 bu, leaving approximately 6,500,000 bu of bonded grain in the Duluth and Superior elevators. This grain, together with the domestic grain stored here, makes up an aggregate of approximately 17,000,000 bu.

Plenty of Room Here.

The elevator capacity of Duluth and Superior is about 32,000,000 bu. All of this, however, could not properly be filled with grain at once, on account of the necessary grading, and the separation of damp grain from dry. But elevator men say they could easily store 10,000,000 bu more of Canadian grain, together with the domestic grain that is likely to arrive before the opening of navigation, even if not another bushel should be shipped by rail out of the Duluth-Superior elevators.

The 4,000 cars that are headed this way from Western Canada probably contain about 4,000,000 bushels, estimating 1,000 bushels to the car. If the Canadian railroads place an embargo on grain shipments from Western Canada into the United States, it will not be because there is not room for the grain in the elevators of the American Head of the Lakes. On the contrary there is an abundance of room here.

The Duluth-Superior elevators have lately been receiving about 200 cars or 200,000 bushels of Canadian grain a day. Navigation will surely be open on Lake Superior before the last of May. If there is no opening of navigation for ten weeks, and if Canadian grain should arrive here at the rate of 1,500,000 bushels a week, and if none should be shipped out, there would be a total of 15,000,000 bushels of bonded Canadian grain received here. This, of course, would greatly crowd the Duluth-Superior elevators, if no bonded grain should be shipped out. But it is being shipped out, and the greatest efforts are being made to increase these shipments. The Winnipeg and other Canadian owners of this grain are eager to ge it out of the Duluth-Superior elevators to the Atlantic seacoast for export to Europe as fast as possible. There was little danger of the Duluth-Superior elevators being crowded with Canadian grain before the railroad embargo was announced. As it is, they will probably not be much more than half full at any time between the present time and the opening of navigation.

The Associated Press dispatch announcing the embargo follows:

Winnipeg, Man., March 21.—As the result of a five-weeks arrangement by which the Canadian railways can take Canadian grain into Duluth at reduced rates, 7,000 cars of grain have been shipped from Western Canada to Duluth. Four thousand more cars are ready for shipment.

"Over 6,000 cars are across the border at present, and at the rate the Canadian farmers are shipping their wheat now, it is not expected to be long before all the cars in Western Canada will be in the States. The difficulty will lie in getting the cars back to Canada.

"At a conference of Canadian Northern and Canadian Pacific railway officials held at Sackatoon, Sask., last night, an embargo on all shipments to Duluth practically was decided on. Traffic Manager Shaw of the Canadian Northern railway, which has 'lost' about 5,000 cars, said the order would not go into effect until the officials reached Winnipeg.

"This means that the last chance for the farmers to ship damp grain to the States has gone, as the Canadian drying elevators have sufficient on hand to keep them going until May."

BEMIDJI SENTINEL IS MADE OFFICIAL ORGAN.

Bemidji, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—After having been the official paper for the city of Bemidji for half a decade, the Bemidji Pioneer failed to be designated the official paper again, the city council, choosing the Bemidji Sentinel for the ensuing year.

The council decided to contribute to the Bemidji Grand Army post for a $1,500 monument to be dedicated in Greenwood cemetery here on July 4 next.

Dr. L. A. Ward was appointed to succeed himself as health officer.

MARSHALL IS THEIR CHOICE

not rely upon the weakness of our opposition, and it would be cowardly to do so did we dare.

Lincoln and Roosevelt.

"Sixty years is but a point in the circle of civilization, yet the last sixty have produced two men whose views will leave an impress upon all time. No liberty lover will ever care to forget the name of Lincoln, and none will be able to forget the name of Roosevelt.

"Lincoln held it to be the inalienable right of an unsuccessful litigant to go down to the tavern and cuss the court. It is the theory of Roosevelt that it is the right of an unsuccessful litigant to go down to the tavern and overrule the court. Bitterness of spirit and indignation at what I deem to be judicial injustices seize me. Even now, I am chafing under what I conceive to be the unwarranted interference of the courts with my prerogatives. But my sober judgment, looking to the permanent good of the people, impels me to insist that the courts must remain free and untrammeled, that we must first seek relief through the remedy we now have, and patiently abide the lawful reversal of judicial injustice.

Initiative, Referendum and Recall.

"Until the provisions of our present Constitution with reference to officials are tried, and until graver evils arise than have thus far arisen, there is but slight demand for the initiative, referendum and recall. I am myself not in favor of these changes now, as I see no emergency for them, but I believe that wisdom demands readiness to meet any emergency.

"Honest representative government is the best that the world has ever known. The representative has far more time than the individual citizen to consider soberly that which is best for the people. He should possess more knowledge and skill in statecraft than the average man or he should not be elected. He should indeed be honest and representative; if he is, ours is an ideal government.

"Let us get in power before we make too many demands of allegiance to sundry policies. A man may sit in Democratic councils, he may even help formulate Democratic platforms, he may vote for Democratic candidates, but he cannot be a Democrat if he believes in special privilege of any kind. It cannot be otherwise than that every special privilege in this country is either the legitimate offspring or the godchild, of the protective principle.

Arguments For Tariff.

"Let us recall some of the arguments: We must have the protective tariff to pay the war debt; we must have it to supply the deficit in the revenue caused by the repeal of the professional and stamp tax; we must have it to foster our infant industries and to make us a world power; we must have it for the protection of the American workingman, the kind of protection enjoyed, perhaps by the workingmen of Lawrence, Mass.; and now we must have it because we have always had it.

"Are we not the richest people on earth? Are not these captains of industry all trustees under God? Will they not see to it that if the people ask for bread, they shall be given a book, and if they ask for fish, they shall be given a university?

Yardstick of Life.

"How easy it is for one man to imagine that he can better manage the affairs of another. How unconsciously can one drop into the belief that it is legitimate to have the taxing power of the government so adjusted as to work for his private benefit. How readily does self-interest induce him to think that the yardstick of life is not the Golden Rule but the Payne-Aldrich bill. He would resent the doctrine of the divine right of kings, but he readily yields to the divine right of schedules. For the maintenance of such divine rights, it is perfectly legitimate to support lobbies and corrupt legislators.

"Every special interest in this country runs home to Mother Protective Tariff when the people seek to prevent its depredations. Let us raze the home of protection, execute the mother of special privileges and see how speedily the infants will die for lack of her fostering care.

"The Democratic party believes in genuine tariff reform. It wants no more taxes of that kind levied upon the people than are necessary to pay the expenses of the government. Honestly and economically administered, it holds that reform of the tariff does not mean driving away the fat hogs that the runts may get at the swill. It means kicking the tariff trough over and letting all men do what you and I do—root hog, or die.

As to Corporations.

"The Democratic party is not opposed to corporations, however; large they may be. It does insist, however, that corporations shall confine themselves to the purposes for which they are created by the law, or that they shall yield up their lives to the author of their being. There is no objection to men investing as much money as they please in one corporation formed for the purpose of doing one lawful thing. There is vast objection, however, to men being officers and directors in a half-dozen different corporations organized for the doing of the same thing, and by written contract or by gentlemen's agreement forestalling the market and preventing competition.

Outline of Issues.

"A tariff for revenue, opposition to every special privilege and a determination to strike it down, economy in public expenditures, enforcement and strengthening of the law, and the preservation of the reserved rights of the people and of the states, constitute issues which appeal to a large majority of the people of Indiana. Until we get an opportunity to put these views into practical force and effect, disputes and divisions over other reforms are valueless. From the ranks hundreds can be drawn to make the fight and lead the charge for the success of these principles. But whenever we attempt to follow a man regardless of his life's history and regardless of his devotion to those principles, we shall not be enabled to assemble an army. We will be only guerrillas."

PLAN BUSY SEASON.

Ashland, Wis., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Lumber mills in the northern country from Lake Superior to Lake Michigan will be kept busy during the balance of the year, as the result of a most successful logging season which has just closed.

Thousands of woodsmen are now coming down from the woods and company camps as well as those of the jobbers are suspending. Hauling is over and the only work remaining is loading the logs at the various landings.

Art Needlework News

Spring has arrived and after housecleaning you will need many new things to make the house attractive again. We have several very handsome table scarfs, as well as the pillows to match, which are very easily made. The Rambler Rose is particularly new, very attractive and simple to do. It is prettiest embroidered on tan linen and the designs are simple. The pillows and scarfs of antique cloth will always be good and are serviceable.

May we suggest that you embroider your own new Easter waist? We have several designs to select from and they are stamped on a very fine quality of voile. Some other designs are of lawn and linen.

Other new things are dear little baby dresses, ready made, except for a little embroidering to be done. Baby pillows, nightingales boudoir caps, baby caps, white linen card cases and some handsome sets for tailored suits to be embroidered and scalloped on heavy linen and pique.

The New Corsets

All the new models in La Helene, Redfern, Modart and our popular priced styles are in and we want the opportunity of showing them to you.

We make a special showing of $5.00 models in these makes, which must be seen to be appreciated. Also some exceptional values in $8, $10, $12, $15 and $25 spring models.

Our assortment of popular makes includes the S. & B. Special, Warner, "American" Lady, Rengo Belt and others from $1.00 up to $5.00.

The S. & B. Special in all sizes in the new models. $1.50 values at $1.00 and $2.50 and $2.00 values for $1.49 will be displayed on tables in the department.

An Extraordinary Bargain in Hatchets

We were fortunate enough to pick up a line of the famous LIPPINCOTT BRAND of Hatchets—the STANDARD hatchet among tool makers and tool users since 1843, at such a price that we are enabled to offer them to you at LESS THAN MANUFACTURER'S COST!

One of the largest jobbers in the Northwest was changing his line, and we snapped up every hatchet of this brand in his stock!

The lot includes claw, shingle, lath, half and broad hatchets—all priced at half and less than half of the regular prices asked for these guaranteed and provenly-good hatchets.

See the display of them in our big show window, and make it a point to drop in and order one for the home toolchest some time tomorrow; they won't last long!

FEEL SHAKY, HEADACHY, BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED? TAKE CASCARETS

Sick headaches! Always trace them to lazy liver, delayed, fermenting food in the bowels or a sick stomach. Poisonous matter, instead of being thrown out, is reabsorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, awful throbbing, sickening headache.

Cascarets remove the cause by stimulating the liver, and making the waste move on and out of the bowels. One taken tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box means a clear head for months. Don't forget the children.

10 Cents. Never gripe or sicken.

"CASCARETS WORK WHILE YOU SLEEP."

So Tired of Tired Feet! Use TIZ

Gets the "Tired" Out in a Few Minutes. Makes Your Feet Sore-Proof.

"O fudge! It's awful how tired feet make you feel tired all over—so dead tired. Then, when you've got a corn besides, and a bunion, and a few blisters, and your feet are terribly swollen, you don't care if you've got a million dollars—you're tired, that's all. A million dollars can't help you, any more than 25 cents will."

"Pull, Johnny, Pull!"

A quarter buys a box of TIZ,—a wonder for tired, sore, tender, chafed, blistered, swollen, sweaty, smelly feet, corns, callouses and bunions, chilblains and frostbite. The moment you use it, you give a sigh of relief, and then you smile. There's nothing as good as TIZ, so don't accept any attempted imitation. TIZ draws out all the poisonous exudations that make foot troubles.

IF YOU NEED A MEDICINE, YOU SHOULD HAVE THE BEST

Although there are hundreds of preparations advertised, there is only one that really stands out pre-eminent as a remedy for diseases of the kidneys, liver and bladder.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root stands the highest, for the reason that it has proved to be just the remedy needed in thousands upon thousands of even the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root makes friends quickly because its mild and immediate effect is soon realized. It is a gentle, healing vegetable compound.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is a physician's prescription for special diseases, which is not recommended for everything.

A Sworn Certificate of Purity is with every bottle.

For sale at all drug stores, in bottles of two sizes—fifty-cents and one-dollar.

SAMPLE BOTTLE FREE BY MAIL

In order to prove what Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy will do for you, every reader of the Duluth Daily Herald who has not already tried it, may receive a sample bottle by mail absolutely free. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Write to-day.

TALKS ABOUT HOMESTEADS

House Discusses Bill to Reduce Time Necessary to Live on Land.

Free Sugar Hearings Open Wednesday—Other Washington Items.

Washington, March 21.—The house devoted a whole day to a bill liberalizing the homestead laws by reducing from five to three years the period of residence required on public land to prove title. Settlers would be permitted to absent themselves from their homesteads five months in each year. The legislation making less drastic the existing laws governing settlement has been sought for years.

For the first time this session Speaker Clark took the floor, and urged the passage of the bill. He said it embraced legislation of the greatest importance to the whole country. He pointed out that the existing law was so rigid that it was driving desirable Americans to Canada, and that thousands had been forced to seek more liberal conditions in Alberta.

The bill, which virtually was completed when the house adjourned, is not favored by Secretary Fisher of the interior department. It has passed the senate. The views of the secretary were reviewed by Representative Taylor of Colorado, chairman of the committee. The bill provides for a seven months' "presence of the entryman or his or her family in each calendar year. Secretary Fisher says that if the word "presence" is to be construed so as to require the entryman or his family to be physically present on the land during every minute of the seven months, the law would be so drastic as to be practically prohibitive, and that if it is not subject to such construction it remains wholly doubtful how much "presence" is to be required. He says he sees "no justification for making 'presence' on the land equivalent to 'residence.'"

For Consular Reform.

Urging the passage of the Sulzer bill for diplomatic and consular reform, Wilbur B. Carr of the consular bureau, Elliott Goodwin of New York, secretary of the National Civic Reform league; Ansley Wilcox of Buffalo, chairman of the Diplomatic and Consular Reform league, and Representative Foss of Illinois appeared before the house committee on foreign affairs. The bill would provide against political affiliations in the service for efficiency as the only basis for promotion and for legalization of examining boards.

Free Sugar Hearings.

Hearings on the house free sugar bill will begin before the senate finance committee next Wednesday, with representatives of the Louisiana sugar interests as the first witnesses. The hearings on the house chemical tariff revision bill will close this week and the committee is expected to report adversely on it next Tuesday.

To Sell Soldiers' Effects.

Money, watches, bank books, notes, checks, trinkets and other keepsakes of officers and enlisted men of the army and navy which have been lying in the treasury vaults as long as thirty years might be converted into cash and held as a trust fund, under a bill transmitted to congress by Secretary MacVeagh. It is proposed that unclaimed effects of soldiers and sailors who die in marine hospitals all be sent to the auditor of the treasury. The treasury department would be authorized to hold the effects of the dead men for two years and then to sell them and put the proceeds into a trust fund in the treasury. Heirs and claimants for the property, after two years, would get the money on proper proof of title.

Support for Excise Bill.

The Democratic excise tax bill, passed by the house, was reported to the senate and referred to the finance committee. Republicans concede that considerable support to the measure in the senate may be foreshadowed by the unexpected strength shown in the house, where exactly half of the Republican members voted for it.

Hoke Smith Fights Pensions.

Senator Hoke Smith again balked speedy disposition of private pension bills. When his request that each of 188 names on the first of seven bills on the calendar be stricken out was ruled out of order, he began to offer amendments to strike out individual names. The first to fall under the Georgia senator's onslaught was Thomas Jefferson, negro, of the One Hundred and Twenty-third volunteer infantry, who was promptly voted back into the bill, 31 to 8. Senator Smith told the senate amid some laughter that he had not noticed the name of the beneficiary before making his motion. Others whom he sought to strike out stayed in. Senator Smith thinks the private bills should not be passed until action has been taken on the general service pension bills.

Support Industrial Commission.

Advocates of the Hughes-Borah bill to establish a federal commission on industrial relations will be heard Friday before the house committee on labor. It is understood that the bill has the support of a large number of mine owners, operatives and members of the house.

DENTISTS GO TO MINNEAPOLIS

Duluthians Will Attend Second Annual Clinic in Flour City.

Many Duluth dentists will attend the Second annual Clinic of the Minneapolis Dental society, which will be held in Minneapolis tomorrow and Saturday.

Dr. C. W. Benson and L. J. Sykora will give special clinics at this meeting and one feature of the convention will be a big banquet to be served tomorrow evening at the Gold room of the Radisson hotel.

Among the Duluth dentists who will be at these meetings are the following: Doctors S. R. Holden, F. E. Catherall, J. A. Maker, C. A. McFadden, J. D. Park, C. W. Benson, J. B. Kohagen, L. J. Sykora, S. H. Barnard, E. G. Peterson, H. C. Spengler, F. A. Amundson, H. E. Goessler. From Superior Doctors A. G. Fee, E. B. Giffin, L. R. Moodie and H. P. Booth will go down.

Plant Early Ohios.

Brainerd, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Farmers' club of Crow Wing county has ordered a carload of Early Ohio potatoes, which will be planted by twenty farmers of the county this spring. The club will endeavor to standardize shipments and grades and do all it can to bring to the world the good quality of Crow wing county potatoes. The Northern Pacific railway has met the farmers half way and given reduced freight rates.

News and Views of Minnesota Politics

Roosevelt Organization.

The Roosevelt organization formed last evening will be the parent working organization for St. Louis county. Roosevelt clubs are expected to be formed in every town on the range and all will be outgrowths of the gathering last evening. Leaders will be appointed in every city and town and the intention of the Roosevelt men is to have a strong working organization in operation as soon as possible.

The time is short. The Republican delegate convention will probably be held between May 15 and May 18. That gives about seven weeks for work and a complete organization will be necessary to effect anything. The Roosevelt men intend to arouse the voters to get out at the primaries, and if they can get a good attendance on the part of the rank and file of the party they believe they can carry St. Louis county for the ex-president. If St. Louis county should go for Roosevelt, the Eighth district delegation would be assured for the ex-president.

The Roosevelt men are going against a hard game. Taft supporters are well organized. The county organizations are all for the president. They are backed up by the office-holders and the combination is a formidable one under the caucus system.

Oscar J. Larson, who was chosen chairman of the county organization, is not new to the political game. He was more active in Michigan than in Minnesota, but he has had good training and will doubtless apply his talents to good effect. Harvey S. Clapp has known and been known in politics for a good many years. W. E. Culkin is an old war-horse at the game. The range members of the executive committee are all well known politically.

Col. Roosevelt will be unable to come to Duluth on his forthcoming trip to Minnesota, but the Roosevelt men are hopeful of getting some other good speakers to assist them in the campaign. Irving A. Caswell, who is directing the campaign in this state, has said that he will endeavor to have Gifford Pinchot, Governor Hadley of Missouri or Governor Stubbs of Kansas visit Duluth before the primaries.

Republican Meeting.

The presidential primary will be the bone of contention at the meeting of the Republican state central committee April 2. The Roosevelt men in their petition for a primary will not go as far as the primary advocates at the Democratic meeting. They will merely ask that the names of presidential candidates be printed on the ballots to be used at the precinct caucuses and the result of the straw vote—for that is all it would be—be reported to the county conventions.

The primary will probably be turned down. The plan proposed has been pronounced legal, but the powers that be in the central committee say that any primary without warrant of law cannot receive their approbation. The Taft men on the central committee are far in the majority so that the plea of the Roosevelt supporters will receive scant consideration.

The Republican national committee requires that delegates to the national convention shall be selected thirty days before the convention, so that the Republican state delegate convention must be held on or before May 18. A date between May 15 and May 18 will probably be selected. May 18 is on Saturday and a day early enough in the week to allow the delegates to return to their homes by Saturday will probably be favored by the committee members.

Macdonald For Delegate.

There was much talk of prospective delegates among the members of the Democratic state central committee in session at St. Paul Tuesday. Among the names mentioned for delegate-at-large was that of C. F. Macdonald, the veteran editor of the St. Cloud Times. Many members of the committee believe that the honor is one due Mr. Macdonald for his consistent and whole-hearted allegiance to Democratic principles. In addition to that, Mr. Macdonald was one of the original Wilson men in Minnesota and is thus a leader in the movement that has enlisted the great majority of the Democrats of the state. Unless signs fail, Mr. Macdonald will be considered for one of the places on the delegation to be selected at the Duluth convention. If he is not selected as a delegate-at-large the Sixth district may honor him with one of the places on the district delegation.

Who Is Second Choice?

The Roosevelt supporters are endeavoring to find some crumbs of comfort in the belief that the North Dakota delegation, which was instructed for La Follette by the presidential primary, will go to Roosevelt if La Follette's nomination appears impossible. One of the defects of the North Dakota primary law is that it makes no provision for second choice. The law may be construed so as to allow the delegation to throw its allegiance elsewhere, but there may be some doubt on that point.

Editors to Meet.

The editors of the Second congressional district will hold a meeting in Mankato tomorrow. The editors have announced through their papers that there will be no politics in the meeting, which is intended only for discussion of matters of interest to the craft. Unless the editors can do what the leopard cannot, there will be much politics "around the edges."

Handicap for Taft.

The basis of representation in the Republican delegate convention, which gives five delegates-at-large to each county, is not very favorable to the candidacy of President Taft. The country districts of the state are against Taft. If the voters get out to the caucuses—and they are in a mood to do so—the country districts will hold the balance of power in the state convention. The Taft supporters, even with the state and county machines to help them, are starting under a handicap.

Progressive League Absorbed.

The Progressive League of Duluth, which was organized last year when La Follette had the field to himself, has been absorbed by the Roosevelt organization. Hans Haroldson, who was president of the Progressive league, is a member of the executive committee of the new Roosevelt organization, and Harvey S. Clapp, secretary of the league, has been drafted as secretary of the new body. The Progressive league was counted for La Follette before Roosevelt appeared on the horizon, but it died a natural death as soon as the colonel cast his chapeau into the circle.

"The growth of an organization of this kind was one of the objects of the Progressive league," said Mr. Clapp after the meeting last evening.

GEORGE D. McCARTHY.

RED RIVER VALLEY BETTER THAN IOWA

Pennington County Farmer Puts Gopher Way Ahead of Hawkeye State.

Thief River Falls, Minn, March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—George Eastman, a farmer living east of the city in Pennington county, who has returned from a visit to his old home in Iowa, speaks with enthusiasm of the possibilities of the Red river valley and comments with a great deal of vigor on the advantages of this section compared with that of the corn state.

"I farmed for years in Iowa and the best crop of corn I ever raised from my $100-an-acre land was eighty bushels per acre," he said. "Last year on my farm near here I raised twenty bushels of flax per acre, twenty-four of wheat and 100 of corn, figuring thirty-seven pounds to bushel. I would not trade my farm here, acre for acre, with my old farm near Waterloo, Iowa, which I sold for $100 per acre, and no man can raise so much on it, acre for acre.

Finds Climate Better.

Not only that, but when it comes to climate, we have Iowa backed clear off the map. I always feel good here and am never bothered with a cold. This is the fifth winter I have made a trip to Waterloo and every time I have returned with the same beastly cold, or one similar. There is snow and slush down there now, with the worst kind of weather and I am heartily glad to get back. As a matter of fact, I would not return to Iowa to farm if they made me a gift of the old place. As long as I farm I will do so right here in the rich Red river valley."

MILL GETTING READY.

Thief River Falls Plant Preparing to Begin Sawing.

Thief River Falls, Minn., March. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Thief River Falls Lumber company has started a crew of men driving piling on the Red Lake river preparatory to the opening of navigation and work in the sawmill in this city. The mill was idle last season on account of a lack of water to float the logs down stream, but everything is now being put in readiness under the belief that there will be ample water to supply the mill with all the logs necessary. The farmers who have opposed the improvement of this river from its outlet to this city look with disfavor on any movement which might tend to resume logging operations here, claiming that this work interferes with their farming.

SUNDAY SCHOOL MEETING AT FORT RIPLEY, MINN.

Fort Ripley, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Fort Ripley district Sunday school convention will be held here on March 28. Among those taking part will be Bert Adams, Rev. Henry Dingham, Miss Mamie Clark, Mrs. J. B. Nichols, Miss Maud Page of Deerwood, Dr. Joseph Nichols and H. F. Michael of Brainerd. The officers of the Fort Ripley district are: H. Adams, president; Amos Clark, vice president; Mrs. Frank Cook, secretary; Mrs. J. J. Tucker, treasurer.

Another Ohioan on Trial.

Columbus, Ohio, March 21.—The story of alleged legislative bribery as related in the Andrews and Diegle trials, is being told again in the trial of State Senator Isaac E. Huffman, charged with accepting a bribe of $200 from Detective Frank Harrison Smiley in connection with an insurance bill.

FAMILY DESERTERS ADMIT THEIR GUILT.

Marinette, Wis., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thomas Lee of Wausaukee and Joseph Neidl, who were brought back from Milwaukee charged with abandoning their families, have filed a petition to enter a plea of guilty before Judge Quinlan. Both men were bound over to the May term of the circuit court. Neidl was released on $500 bonds, but Lee, who was unable to furnish bonds, is in the county jail.

ARE SETTLED OUT OF COURT

Four Personal Injury Claims, Aggregating $42,500, Are Withdrawn.

Andrew Nelson, attorney for plaintiffs in four personal injury suits brought against subsidiary companies of the Steel corporation, yesterday settled the cases out of court. All were noticed for trial on the March calendar and have been stricken.

John Wanhanen, one of the plaintiffs, sued the Oliver Mining company for $20,000 for a broken jaw. He claims that while working in a Michigan mine operated by the company he became nearly asphyxiated and fell from a ladder. Since that time, he has been able to take no nourishment but liquids.

Hilda Jackson and Selma Lampi, as administratrices for the estates of Emil Jackson and John Lampi, each brought suit through Attorney Nelson against the Duluth, Missabe & Northern Railway company for $7,500. Jackson and Lampi, miners, were run down by a train last fall and killed, it is claimed.

Leander Johnson, as administrator of the estate of Matt Forsman, has agreed to terms of settlement in the case brought against the Oliver Mining company for the death of Forsman. Johnson sued for $7,500. Forsman, it was claimed, was killed when a bucket dropped on his head while testpitting in a mine near Hibbing last year.

HAPPY WIVES RESTORED THANKS TO PE-RU-NA.

KENTUCKY MINNESOTA OREGON OHIO

Gained in Weight.

Mrs. Hattie Hamilton, 918 Glen Ave., Latonia, Ky., writes:

"Since I began taking Peruna I weigh 120, for the first time in my life. Your medicine has surely done me a great deal of good.

"My mother, who is seventy-six years old, had grown so weak she could scarcely walk. She took two bottles of Peruna and is fleshier and looking well."

Peruna Their Family Medicine.

Mrs. Anna C. Hyde, 712 E. Yamhill street, Portland, Oregon, writes:

"I am pleased to endorse Peruna as an all-round good family medicine, and one that is safe to give children. I give it to mine at the least suggestion of a cold, and take it myself to build up my strength and nerves."

Constipation, Torpid Liver.

Mrs. Anthony Rauch, Cor. Lawn and N. Sandusky Ave., Bucyrus, O., writes:

"I was suffering from obstinate constipation and torpid liver, when I took Peruna and Manalin.

"I think Manalin is one of the finest remedies for constipation that I ever tried. I will never be without it."

Had Catarrh of Kidneys.

Mrs. Gus H. Carlson, Box 201, Ortonville, Minn., writes:

"I had catarrh of the kidneys and bladder. I have taken Peruna until now, and I do not think I need to take it any longer.

"I feel well and my tongue is clear, and I have no bitter taste in my mouth. I am very thankful for Peruna."

WILL NOT ENJOIN VOTE ON PRESIDENT

Circuit Judge Denies Petition on Chicago Primary.

Chicago, March 21.—Circuit Judge Wyndes has denied the petition for a writ of prohibition to prevent a presidential preference primary in Chicago in connection with the regular state primary on April 9. County Judge Owens, on March 2, directed the city election commissioners to prepare for a preferential presidential ballot, the expense to be borne by the persons who applied for it, representatives of the Illinois Roosevelt league. The decision of Judge Wyndes came after extended argument in favor of issuing the writ. The court declined to hear argument against the issuance of the writ, although counsel representing County Judge Owens and the election commissioners were prepared to state their position.

In his ruling the court said:

"The interest here in this particular case is that of political interests, as I regard it, and it is a general matter, well settled in this state at least that courts should not interfere in political matters, except in exreme cases. The petition is denied."

COLLEGE GOSSIP AIRED.

Esther Mercy's Case Is Being Tried in Chicago Court.

Chicago, March 21.—Conversations in which it was declared Miss Esther Mercy was described as "unfit to be a student" in the University of Chicago, were related from the witness stand before Circuit Judge Pomeroy in the hearing of the suit of Miss Mercy for $10,000 Miss Marion Talbot, dean of women at the University of Chicago, for slander.

Part of the testimony hinged on an expensive hat worn by Miss Mercy, and which it was alleged had caused criticism of her. Warren E. Reynolds said he was the fiance of Miss Mercy and that he had given her the hat.

"It was said the hat was worth $250, but I did not pay that for it," said Reynolds.

Henry B. Mercy, a brother of the plaintiff, told of an interview which he had with Dean Talbot in the presence of his sister and Mr. Reynolds. He said Dean Talbot declared his sister was "unfit to be a student."

Reynolds corroborated the main feature of the conversation testified to by Henry B. Mercy.

The courtroom was crowded with those interested in the university.

UNCLE SAM'S COAL HELD BACK BY CAR SHORTAGE.

Washington, March 21.—Paymaster John S. Higgins, U. S. N., who has charge of the naval coal contracts, has been ordered by Secretary Meyer to Norfolk to investigate the coal car shortage. The operators have told the secretary that although there was coal at the mines, there were delays in moving it to tidewater by the lack of cars tied up in Western cities.

ORGANIZE FOR TEDDY

Fifty Supporters of the Colonel Meet and Choose Leaders.

Speakers Predict He Would Sweep Minnesota By 150,000 Plurality.

A St. Louis county Roosevelt organization was effected at a meeting held in the municipal courtroom last evening.

The following officers were elected: Chairman, O. J. Larson, Duluth; secretary, Harvey S. Clapp, Duluth; treasurer, A. B. Siewert, Duluth; vice presidents, Dr. S. H. Boyer, Duluth, Charles Kauppi, Duluth; Neil McInnis, Eveleth; Joseph Austin, Chisholm. Executive committee—W. A. Eaton, W. E. Culkin, Hans Haroldson, John Saari and Dave Cohen, Duluth, and George F. Shea, Virginia; Senator James P. Boyle, Eveleth; John Stokke, Floodwood; R. Stratton, Hibbing; and George L. Brosovich, Ely.

About fifty Republicans attended the meeting and enthusiasm ran high. The ex-president was lauded as the champion of the people's rights and the leader of the movement which is to restore to the people of the country the government that has been taken from them by the money powers. Bosses, in Minnesota and elsewhere, were denounced as usurpers and the movement for the nomination of the ex-president was declared to be a movement to eliminate the boss from politics and to make the plain citizen the boss of his own government.

The meeting was called to order by John Saari, who announced that the call had been signed by about 500 Republicans from all parts of the county. Oscar J. Larson was chosen temporary chairman and Harvey S. Clapp temporary secretary.

A committee on organization, consisting of Hans Harodson, Harvey S. Clapp, W. A. Eaton and A. B. Siewert of Duluth and John Stokke of Floodwood was named and went into session immediately.

Culkin Speaks.

While the committee was conferring, W. E. Cukin made a short address. He said that the contention that the third term precedent should operate against giving the nomination to Roosevelt is a fallacy. Col. Roosevelt was only elected president once, he said, but assuming that the time he served constituted two terms, the fact that he is now out of office and the federal machine is working for President Taft is one that should be taken into consideration. The third term precedent, he said, was intended to prevent the perpetuation of a president in office by the use of the federal patronage.

With a leader like Roosevelt, the Republican party will sweep Minnesota with a majority of 150,000, Mr. Culkin declared. He said that a great majority of the people of the state are for Roosevelt and the people must overthrow the bosses who are endeavoring to deliver the state delegation to Taft.

A letter from C. T. Knapp of Chisholm, expressing his regret at being unable to attend the meeting and his belief in the Roosevelt movement, was read.

The organization committee recommended that officers be elected and that the executive committee when appointed draft a constitution and by-laws and make plans for a working organization in every voting precinct in the county. The intention of the organization committee was to make the organization formed at this time a parent body, with Roosevelt clubs in the towns on the range affiliated with it.

After the election of officers, A. B. Siewert, Dr. W. H. Konkler, S. H. Eckman and Oscar J. Larson gave short talks.

"I believe that the majority of the rank and file of the Republican party, not only in this county but in the state and nation, favor for the presidency of the United States, that matchless man, that real leader of Republican principles, that world's greatest living statesman, Theodore Roosevelt," said Mr. Larson. "There is no doubt that if the voters of this county were allowed to express themselves fully and freely on the subject, they would vote for delegates for his nomination. One of the purposes of this organization is to afford the voters such an opportunity. It will be our duty to arouse them to a full sense of their duties as citizens and Republicans.

"This is not a mere contest for political office. It is a battle of the American people for a full realization of that essential and fundamental principle so aptly expressed by Lincoln—that ours is 'a government of the people, by the people and for the people.' Before the campaign is over our reactionary friends will accuse us of attempting to overthrow the established order, and they will call us agitators. I will welcome the name of agitator. Without agitation nothing worth while is ever accomplished.

"Let us get toegther and make such a fight that whatever the outcome may be, even our enemies will be constrained to say that we fought the good fight and kept the faith."

MRS. TAFT STEPS ON HER DRESS AND FALLS.

New York, March 21.—Mrs. Taft, wife of President Taft, stumbled as she was alighting from a wheeled chair at the woman's industrial exhibition in the Grand Central palace yesterday afternoon and fell to the floor. She was not injured, and later was able to attend a matinee. The report that Mrs. Taft had been badly hurt spread rapidly, but inquirers were speedily reassured. President Taft called on the long distance telephine when he arrived in Washington, and was informed that Mrs. Taft merely had stepped on her dress and fallen, but had not been hurt.

Man and Horses Burn.

Charles, City, Iowa, March 21.—Walter Wald was burned to death with four horses in an Illinois Central wreck near here yesterday. He was on his way from Potomac, Ill., to Grand Forks, N. D.

Good Spring Tonic

"We have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla for a spring tonic and as a blood purifier. Last spring I was not well at all. When I went to bed I was tired and nervous and could not sleep well, in the morning I would feel twice as tired; my mother got a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I took. I felt like a new person when I had finished that bottle. We always have some of Hood's medicines in the house." Hilvey Rossile, Marinette, Wis.

There is no "just as good" med'cine. Insist on having Hood's.

IMPORTED CONTAINERS ARE SUBJECT TO DUTY.

Washington, March 21.—The United States court of customs appeals has reaffirmed a previous decision of far-reaching importance to commerce and involving much revenue to the government. It declares that imported containers filled with merchandise are dutiable at 30 per cent ad valorem, in addition to the assessment on their contents. The issue was raised in connection with an importation of glycerine in iron drums.

The importers, who lost in a previous similar decision by the customs court, reinforced by other importers brought up the question for review because of its importance, and their confidence in the correctness of their view. They contended that the containers should enter free, as had been the practice for thirty years. The court held that the situation had been changed by the tariff act of 1909.

SEATTLE MAN KILLS "SPECIALIST" AND SELF.

Seattle, Wash., March 21.—Dr. W. T. Akey, a "specialist," and his assistant, Samuel Suskin, were shot and killed in Akey's office by A. A. Anderson, who then shot himself. He died an hour later. Anderson said after the shooting that he killed the "specialists" because they had robbed him of his last cent. It was said the Akey office was one of a chain of such places throughout the country.

IS LOOKING FOR A WIFE

Alborn Man Willing to Marry Any "Good Girl" He Can Find.

Earns $75 a Month and Is Young, Strong and Handsome.

Ennas Hanson, aged 29, 6 feet tall, and good looking, wants a wife.

Ennas earns $75 a month as a section man at Alborn, and he is tired of single blessedness in the Northern Minnesota woods.

He went about the job of finding a wife in a serious, business-like manner that should get results. Ennas, who is a Syrian, in spite of his name, got leave of absence for a few days, came to Duluth, secured board and room at 115 West First street, and started out looking for a wife. There were plenty of women in Duluth whom he was willing to marry, but he couldn't seem to get acquainted. So Ennas thought he would advertise. He walked into The Herald office yesterday afternoon and left a trail of very badly broken English and puzzled employes in his wake, until he finally found a reporter.

"I get married," said Ennas to the reporter.

"All right, old scout," said the reporter, reaching for a pencil. "Who's the lucky girl?".

"No know," said Ennas.

"Come again," said the reporter.

"No know," said Ennas.

"How do you figure you can commit matrimony without a girl?" asked the puzzled scribe.

"Eh?" said Ennas.

"Where will you get a wife?" shouted the reporter, raising his voice, in the usual method adopted of trying to make English understandable. Other reporters gathered around, interested, but Ennas was not disconcerted in the least.

"I look for one," said Ennas.

"Well, this is no matrimonial bureau, but that's too good a chance for some deserving girl to let slip," said the reporter.

"What kind of a girl do you want?"

"Any kind," said Ennas, smiling.

"What nationality?"

"No care."

"Blonde or brunette?"

"Eh?"

"What color hair?"

"No care. No want Syrian."

"Don't want one of your own race?"

"No. Rather not."

"Can you support the young lady in the style to which she has been accustomed?"

"Eh?" (Facetiousness was lost on Ennas).

"How much do you earn?"

"Seventy-five dollars a month, and she could get $20 from woman I board with."

"Will you promise to love, honor, cherish and obey?"

"Eh?"

"How long will you be in Duluth?"

"Till Saturday."

"Where will she find you?"

"At this place," and Ennas gave his boarding house number as 115 West First street.

"When will you be there?"

"All the time until Saturday."

"No other business in Duluth?"

"No. Just loking for wife."

So that's the way it stands. Ennas is willing and is anxious to meet any "good girl," for this was one of the conditions, who wants to act as banker for his $75 a month at Alborn on the Missabe road. Ennas' picture would aid him in his search, but he had none with him, and wouldn't wait to be photographed. He is a husky, clean cut, dark haired chap, with a firm chin and an air of confidence in himself and his ability to get what he went after. Judging from his appearance, there might be worse life partners than Ennas.

WICKERSHAM SCORNED BY TENNESSEE JUDGE.

Nashville, Tenn., March 21.—Chancellor John Allison of Nashville has made public correspondence between himself and Attorney General Wickersham over the admission of W. H. Lewis, a negro assistant attorney general, to the American Bar association. In a letter Mr. Wickersham says:

"I regret very much to learn that the incumbent of an office established for the administration of justice should lend his support to an entirely illegal and unjustified act."

To which the judge fired back:

"I would feel somewhat rebuked had such a letter come from any other source than yourself."

Judge Allison says he sent Mr. Wickersham copies of letters formerly written to Secretary Whitlock of the association on the subject, having learned that Mr. Wickersham was assisting Lewis' efforts. In one letter he favored revoking Lewis' admission because he understood Lewis' color had not been revealed to the association committee.

ARSON CHARGE AGAINST MILL CITY CIGARMAKER.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 21.—Michael McQuirk, recently arrested by the federal authorities charged with falsifying reports concerning cigars in his cigar factory here, is under indictment on the charge of arson in the third degree, growing out of his alleged complicity in an incendiary fire in the building where his factory is located. McQuirk pleaded not guilty, reserving the right to withdraw the plea at any time and offer a motion to quash, claiming that an investigation made by the state fire marshal he was forced to testify against himself. He was released on $1,000 bond.

Aeroplane Gun Tested.

Fishers Island, N. Y., March 21.—What is claimed to be the largest aeroplane gun made has been successfully tested on a barge off Fort Wright in the presence of a number of United States naval and army officers. There was absolutely no recoil. The inventor of the gun is Com. Cleland Davis, U. S. N. It is a four-inch gun, 12 feet long and fires a projectile weighing 33 pounds at a velocity of more than 1,000 feet per second.

Kills "Wild" House Cat.

Wausau, Wis., March 21. Irving Tutrup of the town of Frankfort, killed what he supposed was a wildcat and brought the hide to the county clerk in this city for a bounty. Upon close examination it was found to be the hide of a common house cat which evidently had run wild and grown to monster size.

SUFFRAGISTS HOLD FLOOR

Women's Rights Triumphant Even Over Those of Theodore, the First.

Roosevelt Followers Grope Through Dark Passage to Find Hall.

The Roosevelt movement in St. Louis county started under hardships last evening. The octopus of Big Business did not stretch forth its tentacles to block the way of progress. The third-term bugaboo did not arise from the grave and say nay to the belligerent colonel. Party solidarity was not the millstone that encircled his neck. No great power stepped in to crush his hopes and those of his followers.

One janitor, name unknown, political affiliations unknown, and place of residence unknown, was responsible.

The meeting for the organization of the Roosevelt supporters of St. Louis county was called for the municipal court room at 8 o'clock. At about 7:30, some of the faithful began to gather. They found the door to the municipal court building locked. Inquiry at the police station revealed no key. "Perhaps," they mused, "Perhaps the meeting is to be held in the council chamber." They went to the council chamber, but there they found woman's rights in the ascendancy and in no mood to be trumpled upon by the foot of the man with the suffrage. The Woman's Suffrage club of Duluth was holding a meeting.

"Must we," asked the followers of the sage of Sagamore Hill, "hold our meeting out in the street with the wintry winds of March penetrating into our hearts and chilling the ardent enthusiasm with which we contemplate the Columbus speech? No, never! Far be it from us, though we be of the common people, to drag the cause of our beloved champion in the ice of Superior street."

Police to Rescue.

The police came to the rescue. Remember how popular the colonel was as the commissioner of police of New York? The police came to the rescue.

"Hist! Follow me!" said Sergeant John Kenna. They followed. Through the police station, up the winding stairs, through a dark passageway and into the municipal court room went the faithful band led by the sergeant. There were a few hoarse and none-too-mirthful laughs turned loose by those who reflected that each morning a line of unkempt, shaking outcasts of society treads the same passageway.

There was no light in the corridor, but they kept close to the sergeant, to whom the dark passage was a familiar course. He turned on a light in the court room and there was a sigh of relief. They had arrived.

Like the pioneer Christians in the Catacombs of Rome, like the Ku Klux Klan in their mountain caves, with the simile damaged by the police guidance, the little band of followers of the colonel held their meeting. Now and then, some straggler was directed to the meeting. He stumbled up the stairs, through the passageway and into the room, breathing hard, and muttering imprecations on whoever was responsible for thus hiding the colonel's light under a bushel, or behind the closed door of a municipal court room.

Efforts to find the janitor were in vain. He was sleeping the sleep of the faithful toiler after his day of toil, unknowing of the damage he had done a great and noble cause. Thus do the humble of the land wield their influence and determine the destinies of the great!

AMUSEMENTS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.

Amusement Notes.

The noted Norwegian writer and journalist J. Jansen Fuhr from Christiana, Norway, will be at the Lyceum theater, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, March 22, 23 and 24 and give by way of moving pictures a trip through Norway, Sweden and Denmark as it is today. He has 13,000 feet film of recent manufacture and will show these famous countries fully up to date.

A trip to Norway, Sweden and Denmark visited by ex-president Roosevelt will also be seen. The program follows, Mriday, March, 22, Norway lecture in Scandinavian language; Sunday, March 24 at 3 o'clock, Norway lecture in English language; Saturday, March 23, Sweden and Denmark lecture in Scandinavian language; Sunday, March 24, 8 p. m., Sweden and Denmark lecture in English language.

J. Jansen Fuhr comes here well recommended and his famous moving pictures which are absolutely new are highly praised wherever he goes. Rev. Albert Okesrtrom of Sycamore, Ill., has written Mr. Fuhr regarding the entertainment. His letter is as follows:

"Your entertainment given in our church Feb. 1 was simply fine. Only words of praise were heard at the conclusion of the program. There is not one picture of inferior quality. No church need fear that any improper pictures will be turned upon the screen. It is a pleasure to meet Mr. Fuhr. I assure you that we shall be more than pleased to have you come to Sycamore again."

The Five Sullys appearing at the Duluth Orpheum this week are all members of one family, and it is one of the best known families in vaudeville at the present time.

The father and mother have been in vaudeville for twenty-three years, having made their debut shortly after their marriage. On the stage they still appear youthful, and the father does a dance that would test the ability of a far younger man. One of the boys joined his parents about eight years ago, making a trio, and a year or two later the other brother also joined the act, a place being made for him. The daughter left her school five years ago, and the act was made a quintet. There is still another boy, but it will be several years yet before he will appear before the footlights. He is but 4 years of age, but a very busy and very active youngster. He travels with his parents and brothers and sisters, not yet being old enough to attend school, and he has learned a number of dance steps that have made him a great pet with the members of the Orpheum stage crew this week. The youngster very officiously directs the "working of the props" behind the scenes, and bosses the "property man" about as if he were a headliner.

The Sullys have a summer home in New Jersey not far from New York and spend two months of the year there, rehearsing new acts together. The parents and the four children make a very happy family group. "We get all the home life we can on the road," said Mr. Sully last evening. "It is true we have to keep knocking about from city to city, but we are together, and in that respect are much better off than most vaudeville performers."

Can you imagine a man possessing such an antipathy to whiskers that every time he sees any one wearing that particular form of birsutal adornment he experiences an insuperable desire to go up and yank them?

That's exactly the case with Floyd Mack, the acrobatic dancer at the Empress theater this week, and the proclivity has got him into all sorts of trouble in various parts of the country.

Recently he encountered considerable newspaper and not a little legal prominence in Chicago through having rushed up to a man in a downtown hotel, pulling his whiskers vigorously until bystanders interfered an dstopped the wholly unusual and distinctly uncomfortable proceedings.

Mack states that he absolutely cannot control his feelings in this regard, and that the only way he can save himself when he spots a be-whiskered individual approaching him is to turn his head to one side so he won't see him.

It is further claimed by him that if he sees a man with whiskers in front of him in the theater while he is working on the stage, he becomes almost hysterical and on more than one occasion has had to leave in the middle of an act through laughing.

CERTAIN RESULTS

Many a Duluth Citizen Knows How Sure They Are.

Nothing uncertain about the work of Doan's Kidney Pills in Duluth. There is plenty of positive proof of this in the testimony of citizens. Such evidence should convince the most skeptical doubter. Read the following statement:

Thomas G. Thompson, 624 W. Second St., Duluth, Minn., says: "I do not wish to withdraw anything from the statement I gave some years ago in which I told how effectively Doan's Kidney Pills had rid me of kidney complaint. For some months I was bothered by pain and soreness in my back. I had other troubles and they all showed that there was much uric acid in my system. When I was feeling poorly, I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills. I immediately got a box and they were just what I required. In a short time they cured me and about a year ago they quickly drove away a spell of backache that had come on me. My high opinion of this remedy has been formed by the way in which it has helped me."

CLARK ASKED TO WITHDRAW

Nebraska Progressives Want Wilson as First Choice for Nominee.

Senator Gore Says He Could Beat Any Republican in Iowa.

Des Moines, Iowa, March 21.—Senator Thomas P. Gore of Oklahoma authorizes the statement that the Nebraska Progressive league, prior to the Bryan birthday banquet, adopted a resolution requesting Champ Clark to withdraw from participation in the Nebraska presidential primaries, in favor of Woodrow Wilson. If Wilon's nomination is impossible, reads the resolution, the league recommends that the Nebraska delegation vote for Clark as its second choice.

Senator Gore declared that the Progressive league believed the candidacy of Clark may result in Governor Harmon's success at the Nebraska primary, and "thus endanger the cause of true Democracy."

Addressing an enthusiastic audience here last night Senator Gore predicted that if Governor Woodrow Wilson is the Democratic nominee for president he will win in Iowa over any Republican candidate, and insure the election of a Democratic governor and United States senator.

Saturday, March 30, arrive in Chicago at noon

The itinerary east of Chicago on the return trip has not been arranged and may include a stop at Detroit.

Elected to Phi Beta Kappa.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 21.—Twenty-one students of the senior class of the University of Minnesota were chosen yesterday members of the Phi Beta Kappa, the national honorary fraternity. Among those elected were: Augusta Bjeldanes, Madison, Wis.; Marie B. Deneen, New Richmond, Wis.; G. H. Bamble, Rochester, Minn.; G. C. Menefee, Albert Lea, Minn.; Theodore Utne, Dalton, Minn.; and Effie M. Wicklund, Bingham Lake, Minn.

WATERS-PIERCE DEFENSE IS UPHELD BY THE COURT.

St. Louis, Mo., March 21.—Circuit Judge Kinsey has decided in the mandamus suit of the Standard Oil company against the Waters-Pierce Oil company, that it is competent as defense for the Waters-Pierce company to submit proof that the Standard Oil owners are seeking to perpetuate the Standard Oil monopoly through individual control of corporations formerly owned by the Standard before its dissolution by the United States supreme court.

NO INDIGESTION OR SICK STOMACH

Gas, Heartburn, Dyspepsia and All Misery In Stomach Vanishes.

Take your sour, out-of-order stomach—or maybe you call it Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gastritis or Catarrh of Stomach; it doesn't matter—take your stomach trouble right with you to your Pharmacist and ask him to open a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and let you eat one 22-grain Triangule and see if within five minutes there is left any trace of your former misery.

The correct name for your trouble is Food Fermentation—food souring; there is lack of gastric juice; your food is only half digested, and you become affected with loss of appetite, pressure and fullness after eating, vomiting, nausea, heartburn, griping in bowels, tenderness in the pit of stomach, bad taste in mouth, constipation, pain in limbs, sleeplessness, belching of gas, biliousness, sick headache, nervousness, dizziness or many other simular symptoms.

If your appetite is fickle and nothing tempts you, or you belch gas, or if you feel bloated after eating, or your food lies like a lump of lead on your stomach, you can make up your mind that at the bottom of all this there is but one cause—fermentation of undigested food.

Prove to yourself in five minutes that your stomach is as good as any; that there is nothing really wrong. Stop this fermentation and begin eating what you want without fear of discomfort or misery.

Almost instant relief is waiting for you. It is merely a matter of how soon you take a little Diapepsin.

CREDIT TAX WELL PAID

Few Fail to Pay Amount Assessed Under New Law.

Only $911.84 of City Levy Is Declared Delinquent.

St. Louis county's first levy of taxes on "money and credits," a new item, heretofore taxed as personal property, has practically been collected in full. The delinquent "money and credits" taxes in the county to date are but $2,710.98. The county levy was $33,588.19.

The city taxpayers who had "money and credits" to pay taxes on were especially prompt. The levy for the city was $27,209, of which all but $911.84 has been collected. The tax became delinquent on March 1. A 10 per cent penalty has now been added.

As yet the Duluth Street Railway company has not paid its personal property tax for 1911 nor its tax on "money and credits." The latter tax amounts to $794.31. Outside of the street railway company's tax on "money and credits" there is outstanding in the city but $117.53 yet uncollected.

The "money and credits" item for the county is based on a valuation of $11,196,055, taxed at the uniform rate of 3 mills. The tax is imposed on money and open accounts held by firms and individuals throughout the county.

Prior to the enactment of a law by the last legislature such assets as "money and credits" were taxable as personal property. Under the new law a special classification is made and a rate of 3 mills, uniform throughout the state, has been established.

GINGHAM MILL WORKERS STRIKE

Dissatisfaction With Conditions Causes an Unorganized Walkout.

Clinton, Mass., March 21.—Dissatisfied with the present conditions, 1,000 of the 2,300 employes of the Lancaster gingham mills here struck today. The strikers declared they would not accept 5 per cent wage advance offered by the mill officials. The strikers are unorganized.

Although 1,300 operatives remained in the mills during the forenoon, it was thought they would go out in a short time.

JOHN BULL HAS NEW WARSHIP

Twenty-Sixth Dreadnought Is Launched at Greenock, Scotland.

Greenock, Scotland, March 21.—The British battleship Ajax was launched here today in the presence of huge crowds. She is a sister ship of the King George V, and is the twenty-sixth dreadnought in the British navy. The Ajax has a displacement of 23,000 tons. Her length is 555 feet, beam 89 feet, draft 27½ feet. Her armament will consist of ten 13-5-inch guns and twenty-four 4-inch quick firing guns. Her engines are to be of about 31,000-horse power and she is expected to attain a speed of twenty-one knots.

SETTLERS ARE COMING

W. R. Mackenzie Predicts Great Year for Northern Minnesota.

Development Association Exhibit at Minneapolis Popular With Visitors.

"It will be a great year for Northern Minnesota," said W. R. Mackenzie, secretary of the Northern Minnesota Development association, who is in Duluth today. "One evening this week 2,000 settlers passed through St. Paul and 700 of them had tickets to Northern Minnesota points. The proportion is often greater. We have inquiries from all over the United States and I predict that the immigration into Northern Minnesota will be greater this year than the combined immigration for several years past."

Mr. Mackenzie is also immigration commissioner of the association and has charge of the exhibit at 39 South Third street, Minneapolis. He says that the exhibit is a great show point for visitors to Minneapolis and is visited by hundreds of people every day. Twenty-nine counties of the thirty-three in the association are represented in the agricultural exhibit. Files of ninety-one papers published in Northern Minnesota are kept.

"I find that the counties that do some advertising on their own account are at an advantage," said Mr. Mackenzie. "Some of the counties have failed to send in any literature and those that have literature there for distribution get attention more readily. I would recommend that all counties send in literature advertising their lands."

Mr. Mackenzie is looking forward to the meeting of the Northern Minnesota Development association at International Falls in June. He says that the dates will be selected soon and advertising begun. In order not to conflict with the Democratic state convention, which will be held here June 6, Mr. Mackenzie says that the meeting at International Falls will probably be set for the following week. He is anxious to avoid conflicting dates with any big meeting so that the largest attendance possible may be obtained.

A contract was let this week for the clearing of a tract of land at Blackberry, Itasca county, for the reclamation board of which Mr. Mackenzie is also secretary. Six tracts are now being cleared and the contracts for the other four will be let within three weeks. The reclamation board will be ready with a report at the next session of the legislature.

PROGRAM FOR FREE CONCERT

Gilbert and Sullivan Selections Will Be Heard Sunday.

At the free concert at the auditorium of the Masonic temple, next Sunday, at 3:30 p. m., a Gilbert and Sullivan program will be presented as follows:

Organ—"Pirates of Penzance," overture ..... Sullivan
Vocal: (a) Chorus—"When the Foeman Bares His Steel," "Pirates of Penzance" .....
(b) Solo—"Little Buttercup," "Pinafore" .....
(c) Solo and chorus—"The Ruler of the Sea," "Pinafore" .....
(d) Duet—"Prithee, Pretty Maiden," "Patience" .....
(e) Chorus of peers, "Iolanthe" .....
Organ—"Iolanthe," selections. Sullivan
Vocal: (a) Quartet, "The Old, Old Love," "Patience" .....
(b) Solo—"Tink a Tank," "Trial by Jury" .....
(c) Chorus—"Most Politely," "Princess Ida" .....
(d) Solo and chorus—"The Magnet and the Churn," "Patience" .....
(e) Duet and Chorus — "Here is Beauty," "Mikado" .....
Organ—"Mikado," finale, act I ..... Sullivan

From the above it will be seen that each piece of music is by the celebrated composer, who with the assistance of the Gilbertian humor of his associate, brought in a new era in popular music which has done very much to win the general public over to the better class of compositions. It was music the many could understand and appreciate, consequently it is worthy of a special place in those popular programs. It is musical music, whistleable music, it is good music, and Mr. Custance and his High School Musical society, in helping to present this program, are doing a very creditable work along musical lines in taking up this kind of study.

The music for the organ consists of portions of three of the Gilbert and Sullivan series, so as to conform with the general plan of all Sullivan music. The High School Musical society will sing the choruses and the soloists will be Misses Frances Burris, Mary Whitcomb, Loretto O'Gorman, Alta Hallock and Messrs. A. R. Bjorkquist and C. O. Applehagen, all under the direction of A. F. M. Custance.

Governor of State Challenged.

Devils Lake, N. D., March 21.—John Burke, governor of North Dakota, had to swear in his vote Tuesday. When he went to vote in the Third ward it was found that he was not registered and the election officials required him to file an affidavit that he was qualified to vote.

Tightens Her Skin—Loses Her Wrinkles

(From Social Mirror)

"I want to tell you how easily I got rid of my wrinkles," writes Luella Marsh. "While in London a friend, much envied because of her youthful looks, gave me a formula for a home-made preparation which has the effect of instantly tightening the skin, thus smoothing out wrinkles and furrows.

"The principal ingredient is powdered saxolite, which can be had at drug stores here. An ounce of saxolite is dissolved in a half pint witch hazel. After bathing my face in this but once the transformation was so marvelous I looked years younger. Even the deep crow's feet were affected, and the annoying creases about my neck. It seems difficult to believe anything could produce such results. Several to whom I recommended the recipe have been similarly helped, one an elderly lady whose cheeks had become quite baggy."

BIG CUT IN ORE PRICES

Reduction of 75 Cents Per Ton Reported From Cleveland.

Not Confirmed Here—Hard Blow to Independent Shippers.

W. J. Olcott, president of the Oliver Iron Mining company, has received no information of a contemplated cut in lake ore prices.

Mr. Olcott was shown an Associated Press dispatch from Cleveland stating that a reduction has been made in the price of ore, and replied that he had heard nothing of the cut, had received no information of any nature bearing on it and was therefore in no position to express an opinion.

C. H. Munger, local manager of Pickands-Mather company, and F. J. Webb of the Republic Iron & Steel company are both out of the city and could not be reached.

Several men interested in independent shipping were not slow to express the opinon that the cut, if carried into effect, would mean the closing down of many of the independent mines.

"It costs approximately $2.95 to put ore on the docks at Cleveland," said an independent mining man today, "and the cut suggested in the price of ore would mean that some of the independent mines would be forced to operate at a loss. Rather than do this, naturally, some of the mines will close."

Some of the independents are also of the opinion that the cut in the price of ore will result in the stopping much development work on the independent properties. Some of the property owners interested in development work are very much concerned about the reported cutting in the price of lake ore and have been free to express an opinion regarding the result it will bring.

Following is the Associated Press dispatch, of which no confirmation has been received by the Duluth officials of the Steel company:

"Cleveland, Ohio, March 21.—An announcement was made yesterday of deep cuts in lake ore prices. Sales have been made at figures that will govern for the year.

"The reduction is 75 cents on old range and Mesaba Bessemer and 65 cents on old range and Mesaba non-Bessemer. The new prices, therefore, will be $3.75 a gross ton for old range Bessemer and $3.50 for Mesaba Bessemer; $3.05 for old range non-Bessemer and $2.85 for Mesaba non-Bessemer.

"These are the lowest prices in years."

KAISER RECEIVES LAW MAKERS

Kaempf, Dove and Paasche Allowed to Call on the Emperor.

Berlin, March 21.—The German emperor today received Johannes Kaemf, the speaker, and Heinrich Dove and Dr. Hermann Sigismund Paasche, the deputy speakers of the reichstag, in audience, after having refused to meet them because the Socialist, Philip P. Scheidemann, who was first selected as one of the deputy speakers, had declined to participate in a court function. Herr Scheidemann's selection as deputy speaker was not confirmed.

Johannes Kaemf was elected to succeed Dr. Spahm, who refused to serve because a Socialist had been elected vice president.

MRS. VERMILYA PLACED ON TRIAL

Legs Are Paralyzed By Drugs Said to Have Been Taken to Kill Herself.

Chicago, March 21.—Mrs. Louis Vermilya, accused of poisoning one after another several men who had boarded with her and had insured their lives in her interest, was placed on trial today for the murder of Richard T. Smith, a collector for the Illinois Central railroad. Analysis of his body disclosed a large quantity of poison in the viscera.

The accused woman had to be wheeled on a reclining chair into the courtroom. She was unable to walk, her ankles having been paralyzed owing to drugs which she is alleged to have swallowed in an attempt to commit suicide after her arrest.

TO GET $180 PER YEAR.

William Winter of Blackduck Profits By New Wisconsin Law.

Ashland, Wis., March 21.—The first instance under the new state workmen's compensation law by which the party benefited will be paid by an employer for a series of years was recorded here when State Senator A. W. Sanborn as examiner for the Wisconsin State Industrial commission decreed that the Mellen Lumber company should pay William H. Winter of Blackduck, Minn., $180 per year for fifteen years, making a total of $2,700.

Winter lost an index finger and thumb while working as a shingle sawyer at Shane Golden.

The company took care of him while he was sick, paying the bills, etc., as this law compels, but upon his recovery claimed that they could not be held responsible for anything more.

W. Stanley Smith took up the case in behalf of Winter, claiming that by reason of the loss of his thumb and finger he was unable to work at his former trade as a shingle sawyer, and that the company therefore should be compelled to pay him for total disability, as he is disabled from ever again working at the particular trade he had learned.

CROW WING COUNTY'S SETTLEMENT OF TAXES.

Brainerd, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—County Auditor Smart has completed his abstract of the February, 1912, tax settlement, showing all taxes received by Crow Wing county from Nov. 1, 1911, to March 1, 1912. The total collections amounted to $46,549.16, being $3,484.72 more than for the same period last year. The total collection of state taxes amounted to $4,180.73.

A LITTLE DANDERINE WILL MAKE YOUR HAIR LUSTROUS, SOFT, FLUFFY, ABUNDANT

Get a 25 Cent Bottle Now and Forever Stop Falling Hair, Itching Scalp and Dandruff

If you Wish to Double the Beauty of your Hair in Ten Minutes surely Try a Danderine Hair Cleanse

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a Danderine hair cleanse. Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

A delightful surprise awaits particularly those who have been careless, whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

Try as you will, after one application of Danderine you cannot find any dandruff or a loose or falling hair, and your scalp will never itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair sprouting all over the scalp. Danderine makes the hair grow long, heavy and luxuriant and we can prove it. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it surely get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any druggist or toilet counter, and just try it.

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

WRITTEN FOR THE HERALD BY REV. J. S. KIRTLEY, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: MARCH 24.

Mark II, 13-22: Feasting and Fasting.

CONNECTION.

This lesson follows close on the last one. He knew what the opposition at the healing of the paralytic meant. It meant sleepless hatred. It meant that He would have to get His work done quickly and well, that He would have to attach some special men to Him from whom He can soon select twelve to be His dependence for the defense and propagation of His gospel. He already has four. He will gather others. He knows where He can find one named Levi.

I.

Sympathizing With the Needy, 13-17.

"And He went forth again by the sea side; and all the multitude resorted unto Him, and He taught them. And as He passed by, He saw Levi the son of Alphaeus sitting at the place of toll, and He saith unto him, Follow me. And he arose and followed Him. And, it came to pass, that He was sitting at meat in His house, and publicans and sinners sat down with Jesus and His disciples; for there were many, and they followed Him. And the scribes of the Pharisees, when they saw that He was eating with the sinners and publicans, said unto His disciples, How is it that He eateth and drinketh with publicans and sinners? And when Jesus heard it, He saith unto them, They that are whole have no need of a physician, but they that are sick; I came not to call the righteous, but sinners.

1. SEEKING.—To escape the feverish excitement of the city; to test the loyalty of the crowds by seeing who would follow Him out a distance to hear His words; to get the sweet morning air and a fresh contact with nature and be able to use objects actually visible to the eye in illustrating truth—these are probably some of His reasons for going out to the country. But was not His chief reason to enroll a certain man as a disciple? He sought men who needed Him; He sought those whom He needed.

In spite of his handicap Jesus wanted him. That handicap was multiform—a bad business, tax commissioner for the Roman government, for he sat at the customs place where the people on the international highway must pay for what they brought, a tax to Rome; a bad reputation, for it was a dishonor for a Jew to collect money from his fellow Jews to support the nation that put the hated yoke on the neck of the Lord's people; a bad character perhaps, for a Jew would hold this office only for the money he could make out of it, by grinding the faces of the poor and rich alike. He is the writer of the gospel of Matthew and calls himself Matthew the publican. Mark and Luke call him Levi. He might have had two names. If so, he preferred to use the one he was not known by as a tax collector. Or, he may have given himself a new name, Matthew, the "Gift of God" after his conversion, as other men have done. Abram was changed to Abraham the Friend of God; Jacob, the supplanter to Israel the man of God; Saul to Paul; Simon to Peter; Mendelssohn to Neander which means "New Man."

2. RESPONSE.—The response of Matthew was instant and intelligent and deliberate. He knew Jesus and had heard His teachings. He saw the spirit of the Master and yielded to its authority. He felt the wrongness of his course and knew it was right to follow Him.

It was a thorough response. He proved it by abandoning his calling, changing his name, ministering to his new Master and Deliverer and Friend, and seeking in the most effective way to bring his fellow-sinners to the Savior. The ministry to Jesus was in the feast, which was very appropriate, as all great transactions in the East are usually celebrated by a feast. He celebrated his own emancipation from an evil life; he sought to return to Jesus the kindness He had shown; he showed the Christian spirit by trying to save his old friends. He was already becoming a "fisher of men." It was a motley crowd he brought in—his fellow-publicans and those who lived in violation of any of the moral or ritual laws of the nation and were outcasts, called "sinners." Being outcasts, they would naturally get with the publicans, and together they would all constitute one hated class in the eyes of the Pharisees.

3. RISK.—In eating with them, Jesus put Himself on a social footing with them. He was classified with them, not as a sinner, but as a human being, with love to men as such. The Pharisees were glad to put Him in that class, if He would only menacing their meanness with His white life and white teachings. They were there not as guests but as visitors, pushing themselves in, according to the custom of the people. Any one could go anywhere into any home just to see and hear. Jesus heard their efforts to turn His disciples against Him by the question which implied that He was as low down as those sinners, and He answered them, saying just one thing, that if the Pharisees are righteous they don't need Him; but those sinners didn't claim any goodness, and therefore needed Him. It was a rebuke to them which they were too vicious to understand.

II.

Defending His Disciples, 18-22.

"And John's disciples and the Pharisees were fasting: and they come and say unto Him, why do John's disciples and the disciples of the Pharisees fast, but Thy disciples fast not? And Jesus said unto them, Can the sons of the bridechamber fast while the bridegroom is with them? as long as they have the bridegroom with them, they cannot fast. But the days will come, when the bridegroom shall be taken away from them, and then will they fast in that day. No man seweth a piece of undressed cloth on an old garment: else that which should fill it up taketh from it, the new from the old, and a worse rent is made. And no man putteth new wine into old wine-skins: else the wine will burst the skins, and the wine perisheth, and the skins: but they put new wine into fresh wine-skins."

1. PRINCIPLES.—They were governed by petty rules; He by great principles. They observed five regular annual fast days and Monday and Thursday of each week, besides. Jesus didn't fast except as it was suitable to His state of mind and His needs. Fasting as suitable in times of sorrow over personal losses, national calamities, prevailing wickedness and spiritual dearth; then it is natural and useful. His disciples do not fast for the same reason. He is with them and they have nothing to sorrow over. When He leaves them they will not be able to keep from fasting. Fasting is worse than useless when it is not appropriate.

2. VITALITY.—He has brought a new power into the world, the power of life from above. To attempt to restrain that life in the old rabbinic regulation is like putting fresh wine, that hadn't yet fermented, into old bottles that have already stretched and will break when the wine ferments. Or it is like putting the unstretched cloth on the stretched, to tear it.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

The creed of Christ has reformed Europe, it is awakening Asia, it has transformed morality and imposed new virtues on the conscience. It is the one religion for the masses, the lapsed, and, indeed, for the sick in body as truly as in soul; for while science discourses with enthusiasm upon progress by the rejection of the less fit, our faith cherishes these in hospitals, asylums and retreats, and prospers by lavishing care upon the outcast and rejected of the world. Now this transcends experience; we never saw it on this fashion; it is supernatural. Or else let scientific atheism produce its reformed Magdalens and its homes for the hopelessly diseased and imbecile, and all "the weakest," who go, as she tenderly assures us, "to the wall."—Chadwick.

Christ came to do away with the spirit of class and caste. For nearly two months there were closely associated in the same mission hospital at Travancore, India, a young Brahmin and his mother; a Sudra, his wife and brother; and a Shanar boy and his mother. These different castes would not, under ordinary circumstances, associate, but "broken bones leveled caste distinction, and created a bond of sympathy between them."—Wilson.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

1.—Do you know any power, save Christ's, that could change the man from Levi, the publican, to Matthew, the apostle?

2.—Why are the abandoned often readier to accept Christ than the well behaved?

3.—To what extent is Christ the physician for men today?

TAFT SHOWS DISTRUST OF PEOPLE, SAYS ROOSEVELT

Colonel Defends Initiative, Referendum and Recall Principles.

Talks in New York on Right of People to Rule.

New York, March 21.—"The great fundamental issue now before the Republican party and before our people can be stated briefly. It is: Are the American people fit to govern themselves, to rule themselves, to control themselves? I believe they are. My opponents do not."

With these words Theodore Roosevelt last night opened the first speech he has delivered since the public announcement of his willingness to accept the Republican nomination for president. His subject was "The Right of the People to Rule."

The speech, delivered at Carnegie hall under the auspices of the Civic Forum, elaborated much that Col. Roosevelt said in his Columbus, Ohio, address, and answered in detail certain arguments of President Taft in reply.

"I stand on the Columbus speech," said Col. Roosevelt. "The principles there asserted are not new, but I believe that they are necessary to the maintenance of free democratic government."

After his opening declaration, Col. Roosevelt continued:

"I believe in the right of the people to rule. I believe that the majority of the plain people of the United States will, day in and day out, make fewer mistakes themselves than any smaller class or body of men, no matter what their training, will make in trying to govern them.

Learn By Mistakes.

"I believe, again, that the American people are, as a whole, capable of self-control and of learning by their mistakes. Our opponents pay lip-loyalty to this doctrine; but they show their real beliefs by the way in which they champion every device to make the nominal rule of the people a sham.

"I have scant patience with this talk of the tyranny of the majority. Whenever there is tyranny of the majority, I shall protest against it with all my heart and soul. But we are today suffering from the tyranny of minorities. It is a small minority that is grabbing our coal deposits, our water powers and our harbor fronts. A small minority is fattening on the sale of adulterated foods and drugs.

"It is a small minority that lies behind monopolies and trusts. It is a small minority that stands behind the present law of master and servant, the sweat-shops, and the whole calendar of social and industrial injustice. It is a small minority that is today using our convention system to defeat the will of a majority of the people in the choice of delegates to the Chicago convention. The only tyrannies from which men, women and children are suffering in real life are the tyrannies of minorities.

The Last Twenty Years.

"No sane man who is familiar with the government of this country for the last twenty years will complain that we have had too much of the rule of the majority. The trouble has been a far different one—that, at many times and in many localities, there have held public office in the states and in the nation men who have, in fact, served not the whole people, but some special class or special interest. I am not thinking only of those special interests which by grosser methods, by bribery and crime, have stolen from the people. I am thinking as much of their respectable allies and figureheads, who have ruled and legislated and decided as if in some way the vested rights of privilege had a first mortgage on the whole United States, while the rights of all the people were merely an unsecured debt.

"To further the rule of the majority," continued the speaker, "the progressives of the Republican party in certain staets have formulated certain proposals for change in the form of the state government — certain 'checks and balances' which may check and balance the special interests and their allies.

Initiative and Referendum.

"First, there are the 'initiative and referendum,' which are so framed that if the legislatures obey the command of some special interests, and obstinately refuse the will of the majority, the majority may step in and legislate directly.

"Then there is the direct primary—the real one, not the New York one—and that, too, the progressives offer as a check on the special interests. Most clearly of all does it seem to me that this change is wholly good—for every state. • • • The direct primary, if accompanied by a stringent corrupt practices act, will help break up partnership of corporations and politicians.

"So that no man may misunderstand me, let me recapitulate:

"(1) I am not proposing anything in connection with the supreme court of the United States, or with the federal Constitution.

"(2) I am not proposing anything having any connection with ordinary suits, civil or criminal, as between individuals.

"(3) I am not speaking of the recall of judges.

"(4) I am proposing merely that in a certain class of cases involving the police power, when a state court has set aside as unconstitutional a law passed by the legislature for the general welfare, the question of the validity of the law—which should depend, as Justice Holmes so well phrases it, upon the prevailing morality or preponderant opinion—be submitted for final determination to a vote of the people, taken after due time for consideration.

Answer to Taft.

"The president of the United States, Mr. Taft, devoted most of a recent speech to criticism of this proposition. He says that it 'is utterly without merit or utility, and, instead of being in the interest of all the people, and of the stability of popular government, is sowing the seeds of confusion and tyranny.' (By this he, of course, means the tyranny of the majority, that is, the tyranny of the American people as a whole). He also says that my proposal (which, as he rightly sees, is merely a proposal to give the people a real instead of only a nominal chance to construe and amend a state Constitution with reasonable rapidity) would make such amendment and interpretation 'depend on the feverish, uncertain and unstable determination of successive votes on different laws by temporary and changing majorities;' and that 'it lays the ax at the foot of the tree of well-ordered freedom, and subjects the guarantees of life, liberty and property, without remedy, to the fitful impulse of a temporary majority of an electorate.'

Criticism of Popular Government.

"This criticism is really less a criticism of my proposal than a criticism of all popular government. It is wholly unfounded, unless it is founded on the belief that the people are fundamentally untrustworthy. If the supreme court's definition of due process in relation to the police power is sound, then an act of the legislature to promote the collective interests of the community must be valid, if it embodies a policy held by the prevailing morality or a preponderant opinion to be necessary to the public welfare.

"This is the question that I propose to submit to the people. How can the prevailing morality or a preponderant opinion be better and more exactly ascertained than by a vote of the people?

"Mr. Taft fairly defines the issue when he says that our government is and should be a government of all the people by a representative part of the people. This is an excellent and moderate description of an oligarchy. It defines our government as a government of all of the people by a few of the people."

Representative Judiciary.

Mr. Taft, said Col. Roosevelt, declared that the judiciary ought not to be "representative" of the people in the sense that the legislature and the executive are.

"This," Col. Roosevelt asserted, "is perfectly true of the judge when he is performing merely the ordinary functions of a judge in suits between man and man. It is not true of the judge engaged in interpreting, for instance, the due process clause—where the judge is ascertaining the preponderant opinion of the people (as Judge Holmes states it). When he exercises that function he has no right to let his political philosophy reverse and thwart the will of the majority."

"Mr. Taft again and again, in quotations I have given and elsewhere through his speech, expresses his disbelief in the people when they vote at the polls. In one sentence he says that the proposition gives 'powerful effect to the momentary impulse of a majority of an electorate and prepares the way for the possible exercise of the grossest tyranny.' Elsewhere he speaks of the 'feverish uncertainty' and 'unstable determination' of laws by 'temporary and changing majorities'; and again he says that the system I propose 'would result in suspension or application of constitutional guarantee according to popular whim' which would destroy 'all possible consistency' in constitutional interpretation.

"I should much like to know the exact distinction that is to be made between what Mr. Taft calls the 'ful impulse of a temprory majority' when applied to a question such as that I raise and any other question.

"A Wiser Class."

"Mr. Taft's position is perfectly clear. It is that we have in this country a special class of persons wiser than the people, who are above the people, who cannot be reached by the people, but who govern them and ought to govern them; and who protect various classes of the people from the whole people."

Col. Roosevelt quoted the remarks of William Draper Lewis, dean of the law school of the University of Pennsylvania, who approved Mr. Roosevelt's plan of a popular recall of judicial decisions regarding constitutional amendments, but declared it unfortunate that the plan should have been proposed by a man of such "marked characteristics" as Col. Roosevelt, whose personality he said, might cloud the issue. To this Col. Roosevelt replied:

"I can only say that I wish somebody else whose suggestions would arouse less antagonism had proposed it; but nobody else did it, and so I had to. I am not leading this fight as a matter of aesthetic pleasure. I am leading because smebody must lead, or else the fight would not be made at all.

"I prefer to work with moderate, with rational, conservatives, provided only that they do in good faith strive forward towards the light. But when they halt and turn their backs to the light, and sit with the scorners on the seats of reaction, then I must part company with them. We, the people, cannot turn back. Our aim must be steady, wise progress."

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

TWO SCHOOLS ARE NOT SAFE

Minnesota Fire Prevention Association Criticizes Two Crookston Buildings.

High and Lincoln Buildings of Polk County Capital Are Scored.

Crookston, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—A successful meeting of the Minnesota Fire Prevention association was held here yesterday, ending with a mass meeting in the evening.

President Stinson and Vice President Schimmel and Chief Fire Marshal Wallace were present, together with thirty members of the association. During the day every business block was closely inspected and a very flattering report was given of general conditions last evening, followed by some very excellent addresses as to improvements necessary.

Among the suggestions made was for more authority to the fire chief, some building ordinances which are entirely lacking now, and some minor improvements in the surroundings of property.

Two Crookston Schools Condemned.

The only caustic denunciation was in connection with the Crookston high school building and the Lincoln school adjacent to it. These buildings were declared a menace to life and vigorously condemned, both from danger from fire, being veritable fire traps, and from a sanitary standpoint. The criticism was so strong that it is believed steps will be taken to provide a suitable high school building at the earliest possible date. The moving picture shows were criticized also, and steps will be taken to make them more safe, though a new one needs only a few changes.

The mass meeting was attended by 300 business men, and a spirit of hearty co-operation was exhibited, which will mean a determined effort to improve conditions to make the waste in Crookston in future as low as possible.

DROP PROSECUTION OF POLICE CHIEF

Movement Against Ashland Official Will Be Carried Into Courts.

Ashland, Wis., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Filing the formal objection that all five of the members of the police and fire commission are Republicans and that the commission is an illegal body, the prosecution in the case to remove Chief of Police Blair refused to present any evidence last night and by a vote of 3 to 1 the charges were dismissed and Blair was sustained.

To Test Its Legality.

An attempt will now be made to test the legality of the commission. Charges were preferred against Blair in February and the commission was supposed to stand 2 to 1 against the chief.

It is discovered that one of the anti-Blair commissioners had failed to take the oath of office and Mayor Dodd appointed a Blair man in his place which is the real reason for the collapse of the prosecution.

MOTHERHOOD SUGGESTIONS

Advice to Expectant Mothers

The experience of Motherhood is a trying one to most women and marks distinctly an epoch in their lives. Not one woman in a hundred is prepared or understands how to properly care for herself. Of course nearly every woman nowadays has medical treatment at such times, but many approach the experience with an organism unfitted for the trial of strength, and when it is over her system has received a shock from which it is hard to recover. Following right upon this comes the nervous strain of caring for the child, and a distinct change in the mother results.

There is nothing more charming than a happy and healthy mother of children, and indeed child-birth under the right conditions need be no hazard to health or beauty. The unexplainable thing is that, with all the evidence of shattered nerves and broken health resulting from an unprepared condition, and with ample time in which to prepare, women will persist in going blindly to the trial.

Every woman at this time should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

SEEKS NORTH DAKOTA JUDICIAL NOMINATION

J. W. OGREN.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. W. Ogren of Grand Forks has announced he is a candidate for judge of the First judicial district, to oppose the present incumbent, C. F. Templeton.

Mr. Ogren is a well known resident of Grand Forks and has been quite prominent in the political affairs of the state during the past few years. He is a Republican, but under the judicial election law of the state, the election is non-partisan.

WANTS DISTRICT SCHOOL FARMS

Lindholm Suggests Practical Courses in Country Schools.

Madison, Wis., March 21. — "The cheapest and most profitable investment that a school district could make would be to provide a school farm in connection with a centralized or graded school, where a competent teacher in agriculture could, under proper supervision, conduct a model farm."

This conclusion was reached by S. G. Lindholm, director of the New York school of municipal research, in reporting to the staff of the Wisconsin board of public affairs upon the progress made in the study of the rural schools undertaken under the auspices of the board.

He advised that, not only as an aid to arithmetic but as a valuable help to the parents, simple but adequate systems of farm accounting should be taught, market reports explained to the children, and the method by which the farm produce reaches the world markets used as lessons in geography, and wherever possible, methods of testing and weighing milk should be explained.

EDUCATORS ARE TO HAVE DISCUSSIONS

Various Educational Phases to Be Considered By State School Officers.

Bemidji, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—There will be a meeting of about 300 city superintendents of schools, presidents of normal schools and principals of high schools for three days in Minneapolis beginning March 28, 29 and 30.

W. P. Dyer, city superintendent of schools here and president of the department of superintendents of the Minnesota Educational association announces the following official program:

Evening of March 28, banquet of superintendents, agricultural instructors and all persons interested in agriculture in the Dayton tea rooms at 6:30. Supt. F. E. Lurton will preside.

Friday at 2 p. m. General theme: "Efficiency in Grade Work." The following are the topics:

"Is the Same Standard for Measuring Grades Possible," C. E. Maxwell, president Winona normal school; "Should the Number of Pupils per Teacher be Limited by Law or Should Regulation be made by the High School Board," W. A. Shoemaker, president St. Cloud normal school; "The Necessity for Closer Supervision of the Intermediate Grades," by Inspector S. A. Challman, Minneapolis; also Supt. C. E. Woodfield, Rochester.

Supt. Denfeld's Theme.

"Should Tears be Shed If Some Topics and Exercises of the Regular Subjects in the Grammar Grades are Knocked in the Head by Common Consent," R. E. Denfeld, superintendent of schools of Duluth; also Supt. J. A. Coberstrom, Sleepy Eye.

"Would It Be Wise for the High School Board to Fix the Minimum Requirement in the Common School Subjects on the Basis of Which all Examinations, Both for Teachers and Pupils, Would be Given," Supt. R. B. McLean, Fergus Falls, also Supt. H. E. White, Little Falls.

"How the Normal Department Can be Used to Increase Efficiency of Grade Work," Inspector G. B. Aikon, St. Paul.

On Friday at 6:30 p. m., a dinner will be given in Shevlin hall with State Superintendent of Public Instruction C. G. Schulz, presiding. This will be followed by a symposium upon "What My Plans Have Been for the Year and What Obstacles I Have Met in Carrying Them Out," responded to by men representing school interests throughout the state.

Training and Supplying Teachers.

Saturday the general theme will be "The Training and Supply of Teachers."

First topic: "Should the Minimum Requirements for Teachers' Certificates be Raised," Supt. Herbert Blair of Hibbing; also Supt. P. J. Kuntz, Owatonna.

Second topic: "What Should be the Minimum Professional Requirement of High School Teachers?" Supt. R. A. Kemp, Winona.

Third topic: "In What Respect do we Lack Proper Facilities for the Training of Special Teachers," Supt. John Munroe, Cokato; also Supt. S. E. Hargis, Litchfield.

Fourth topic: "Should a State Bureau be Established to Supply Reliable Information Concerning Candidates for School Positions?" Supt. H. E. Wolf, Browns Valley; also Supt. H. C. Hess, New Ulm.

Fifth topic: "High School Teachers' Statistical Report," Prof. A. W. Rankin, college of education.

The officers of the department of superintendents are: W. P. Dyer, Bemidji, president; R. L. M. Lord, Chatfield, vice president; J. J. Bohlander Montevideo, secretary and treasurer.

PAVING LEVY IS RULED ILLEGAL

Judge Grindeland Holds That Crookston Levy Was Not Properly Made.

Crookston, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.) — Judge Grindeland of Warren has handed down a decision in the appeal from the paving assessments levied last fall by the city council of Crookston for all the paving which had been planned for this year in Crookston, in which he sustained the appellants in their contention that the entire levy was illegal owing to the fact that the council had omitted what is contended was a vital portion of the proceedings in failing to have taken a vote whether or not the paving should be laid following the public hearing and the city engineer's estimate of the cost.

The council by a three-fourths vote originally ordered the paving, but the charter provides that following the report of the city engineer and the public hearing, a two-thirds vote ordering the paving in must be recorded. This last vote was never taken, but instead the council ordered the tax levy for the paving. The city attorney contended that the unanimous vote ordering the tax levy was sufficient, and in effect was the same as a direct vote ordering the improvement and contemplated or included the ordering of the improvement. The case will be appealed to the supreme court. If the decision is sustained, then the council will have to begin again with the report of the city engineer, again order the paving done, and order the tax levy afterwards.

DEVELOPMENT MEETING.

South Dakota Organization to Advance State Is Formed.

Aberdeen, S. D., March 21.—As a result of the meeting here yesterday of 2,000 representative bankers, real estate dealers, merchants, manufacturers and educators at the State Builders' association convention, a permanent organization to be known as the South Dakota Development association will be organized today.

The principal addresses yesterday were by Lewis Panwell of Helena, Mont., Will A. Campbell of St. Paul, president and secretary of the Northwestern Development league; D. M. Neill of Red Wing, president of the Minnesota Federation of Commercial clubs, and W. G. Bierd, vice president of the Minneapolis & St. Louis railway. All the speakers urged the necessity of the federal domestic immigration policy, revision of the laws and rules regulating public lands, to make them more helpful to homesteaders, and all urged co-operation between the seven states and the citizens of the American Northwest to overcome the immigration to the Canadian Northwest. Col. John Deets, state immigration commissioner, presided.

FAVORS EIGHT-HOUR LAW.

Calumet Representative Will Urge Governor to Indorse Idea.

Hancock, Mich., March 21.—Representative Anthony Lucas of Calumet before leaving to attend the second special session of the Michigan legislature said he would request Governor Osborn to indorse a bill for a standard eight-hour day for all laborers throughout the state.

His action is the result of the recent adoption of the eight-hour day by iron mines in the Upper Peninsula. In the Copper country such a law would mean adding a third shift and the employment of 6,000 more miners. Representative Lucas said he also would ask for a bill creating a welfare commission similar to Wisconsin's commission.

FOUR WEEKS' SCHOOL.

Training School for Crow Wing County in July.

Brainerd, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—A four weeks' training school will be held in Crow Wing county to begin July 1. The faculty will be Supt. E. T. Carroll of Wadena, Miss Beatrice E. Lindberg of Faribault, Supt. R. H. Brown of Sauk Rapids and Miss Margia D. Mansur of Duluth. Miss Mansur is a specialist along domestic science lines, also in English and language. The work in the training school this year will be limited to the second grade or common school branches, primary and methods work, music and such special work along industrial lines as can be offered, either by regular faculty or special instructors that will be assigned. It is also planned to provide a special instructor in agriculture.

YOUNG MOTHERS

No young woman, in the joy of coming motherhood, should neglect to prepare her system for the physical ordeal she is to undergo. The health of both herself and the coming child depends largely upon the care she bestows upon herself during the waiting months. Mother's Friend prepares the expectant mother's system for the coming event, and its use makes her comfortable during all the term. It works with and for nature, and by gradually expanding all tissues, muscles and tendons, involved, and keeping the breasts in good condition, brings the woman to the crisis in splendid physical condition. The baby, too, is more apt to be perfect and strong where the mother has thus prepared herself for nature's supreme function. No better advice could be given a young expectant mother than that she use Mother's Friend; it is a medicine that has proven its value in thousands of cases. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for free book for expectant mothers which contains much valuable information, and many suggestions of a helpful nature.

TO INSPECT DAIRY HERDS.

State Health Board Asked to Examine Bemidji Milk Places.

Bemidji, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—As a result of agitation for sanitary conditions in the dairy herds in this district, the city council has ordered City Attorney Russell to communicate with the state board of health to have all herds inspected, particularly for tuberculosis. This action followed public assertions in the Commercial club that all of the herds here are not kept in the best of condition, and A. F. Ritchie was delegated to put the matter before the council.

Admits Killing Child.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 21.—Mrs. Anna Laabs, on trial in the municipal court, charged with administering poison to her two little children, Walter and Herbert, aged respectively 7 and 5 years, on Sept. 26 last, the younger child dying, pleaded guilty late yesterday afternoon to manslaughter in the fourth degree. The penalty is from one to two years' imprisonment. Sentence will be pronounced later.

The case will be heard at Minnewaukan on or before March 25. Secretary Hall, Commissioner Mann and perhaps other members of the railroad commission will go to Minnewaukan for the hearing.

Fargo, N. D.—Barney Willetts, a representative of the Luse Land & Development Company, Limited, head offices in St. Paul, is in the city today arranging with the W. M. Rohan Land company to take charge of North Dakota and a portion of Minnesota in the interests of the said company.

Minto, N. D.—When his horse became frightened at a dog and tipped the buggy over, William March of Minto was thrown from the rig and rendered unconscious. His sister was with him and she escaped without injury. Marsh's injuries consisted of body bruises. The accident occurred near Voss.

Minot, N. D.—The city police made a raid in the basement of the Temple Court building and arrested J. H. Richardson, charged with running a gambling joint. Various gambling paraphernalia, including two tables, 1,952 chips and the like, were seized. The warrant was issued by Judge Davis, who placed the bonds at $500. Mr. Richardson furnished the bonds and was released.

Grand Forks, N. D.—James Mather, son-in-law of Judge Phil McLoughlin of Grand Forks, and employed on the Great Northern railroad as a brakeman, fell from a caboose near Kittson, Minn., the second station south of Crookston, Tuesday and sustained a number of slight body bruises by striking the hard ground. No bones were broken, however. The man was taken to his home in Crookston.

Mandan, N. D.—The city election at Mandan resulted as follows: John Forin, president; William McDonald and M. F. Lange, commissioners; John Brochard, justice; L. S. Royer, police magistrate.

Rugby, N. D.—The Socialists carried a three-cornered fight for mayor in this city and elected S. E. S. Dale mayor by a plurality of 13, also two of the six aldermen.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

International Falls—Mort Fry, a former resident of this city, but for the past two years residing in Michigan, was in town this week and announced that he had returned to take up his permanent residence, having purchased the Kibbey homestead near Littlefork.

Crookston—Judge Watts heard arguments Tuesday on a motion for a new trial in the case of Tom Young against the Great Northern. The motion of a new trial was made by Attorney Charles Loring, who represented Mr. Young. The case was tried at the last term of court, and a verdict returned for Mr. Young for $3,500, which the plaintiff believes entirely inadequate for a man permanently crippled.

St. Cloud—In a personal letter signed by H. C. Waite and Governor C. A. Gilman, Attorney H. L. Gordon, a noted criminal lawyer in Los Angeles, will be asked to assist in any way possible in the defense of Miss Carver, formerly of St. Cloud. Both Mr. Waite and Governor Gilman are close friends of Mr. Gordon and feel assured that he will aid in every way possible.

Bagley—Five families with their household goods and stock reached here Tuesday from Northern Iowa, and will locate on farms in the town of Nora, just south of Bagley. They expect two more of their old neighbors to come in the near future.

Aitkin—Messrs. Hense, Douglas and Fogarty, viewers on judicial ditch No. 3, completed the actual reviewing of the proposed ditch last Monday, having gone over the entire system. A lot of office work remains to be done, however, in the making of their report to the court.

Little Falls—Rev. A. Osmund Worthing and Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Martin went to Royalton Tuesday, where Bishop Morrison of Duluth confirmed a class in the evening. Archbishop Parshall of Cass Lake was in the city Tuesday on his way to Royalton.

St. Cloud—Peter L. Zinn, wanted here on the charge of deserting a child under 10 years of age, was brought back Monday night from Shell Lake, Wis., by Deputy Sheriff Elch. Zinn was formerly traveling for the National Biscuit company, but of late has been selling picture postals.

Moorhead—Remley & Olson have been awarded the contract for the iron and tin work upon the $44,000 high school building which is being erected at Warren by North Star college, a Swedish college.

Brainerd — The Brainerd House Wrecking company is the name of a new company formed in Brainerd by A. E. Lively and W. E. Lively. A. F. Lively is to be the head of the concern and his son, W. E. Lively, is to be the manager.

Rochester—What will undoubtedly be the largest medical offices of one firm in the world, will be erected by the Mayo, Graham Plummer & Judd company in Rochester this year, negotiations having been completed for the acquisition of a quarter of a block.

Stillwater—Peter Belland of the town of Centerville died Monday at the family home, aged 90 years. The funeral was held Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock from the Catholic church at Centerville. Rev. Mall officiated.

Minneapolis—Mrs. J. P. Quirk has sued the Hotel Radisson for $650 which she says represents the value of a diamond studded bracelet lost by her while a guest in the hotel May 2, 1911.

"Breakfast is Ready!"

You don't believe it—but it must be true, for the house is filled with the pleasant aroma of something good to eat. You don't believe any one could prepare breakfast in so short a time. Of course it's a

Shredded Wheat Breakfast

the kind that's so easily and quickly prepared and so appetizing and nourishing. Shredded Wheat is ready-cooked, ready-to-serve. For breakfast heat the biscuit in oven to restore its crispness, then pour hot milk over it, adding a little cream. Salt or sweeten to suit the taste. Nothing so warming and satisfying and nothing so easy to prepare.

"I WAS COVERED WITH PIMPLES"

Blotches Got Bigger Every Day. Face Caused Everybody to Look. Had Them Nearly a Year. Got Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Now Cured.

222 W. 12th Ave., Cincinnati, Ohio. — "I was covered with pimples. First little red blotches came, and then they got bigger every day, and they would keep me awake night after night. They appeared on my face, chest and back. My face caused everybody to look at me. I used everything I thought might cure them, and used to spend over a dollar a week for stuff which would not cure. I had them for nearly a year, when one day I saw the Cuticura advertisement and wrote for samples. I used them and bought more. I took a bath with Cuticura Soap every day, and after taking a bath I would use Cuticura Ointment. The Ointment dried the sores up, and I am cured now and glad of it. I am fine and dandy once more." (Signed) Borse McCann, Nov. 24, 1911.

BABY'S RASH ITCHED AWFULLY

She Scratched and Got No Sleep.

365 W. Greenwich St., Reading, Pa. — "The trouble with my daughter started just like a rash. Then they filled with water and itched something awful. She had it on her neck, head, body and her face. She scratched them until they became sore and filled with corruption, and she got no sleep. We first noticed it when she was about two months old, and she had it until she was six months old. Nothing seemed to help but only made it worse. We used Cuticura Soap to bathe her all over, and then put the Cuticura Ointment on and in one month she was entirely rid of it. She has no mark from it at all." (Signed) Mrs. William Fichthorn, Nov. 20, 1911.

Pimples? No They've All Gone!

No More Humiliation; the Wonderful Stuart's Calcium Wafers "Get Right After" Those Pimples, Boils and Skin Eruptions.

Trial Package Sent Free to Prove It.

No need for anyone to go about any longer with a face covered with pimples, blotches, eruptions, blackheads, and liver-spots. These are all due to impurities in the blood. Cleanse the blood thoroughly and the blemishes will disappear.

That's what Stuart's Calcium Wafers are intended to accomplish and do accomplish. Their principal ingredient is Calcium Sulphide, the quickest and most thorough blood cleanser known.

These wonderful little wafers get right into the blood, and destroy eruptive substances present in it. In some cases a few days is sufficient to make a marked improvement. And when the blood is pure the whole system is a hundred per cent better.

Don't fret any longer about those blackheads, pimples, boils, tetter, eczema, spots or skin eruptions; they all go and "go quick" if you use Stuart's Calcium Wafers.

You can have a trial package of Stuart's Calcium Wafers, simply by sending your name and address to F. A. Stuart Co., 175 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich. Then, when you have proved their value, you can get the regular-size package for 50 cents at any drug store.

THE BLACKLIST.

There is a law which prohibits employers from discharging their men because they belong to unions—for no greater offense than that they have worked to better the conditions of themselves and their fellow-workers.

Since it is to the interests of society that labor should work in decent surroundings and be paid a living wage—more to society's interests, in fact, than it is that dividends should be fat—this always looked to us like a good law.

In a case brought by men who had been discharged by the Great Northern railroad, apparently because they belonged to a union and were active in its affairs, a Minnesota judge has held this law unconstitutional.

The workmen interested in this case say that they will carry it up to the supreme court. They ought to. The blacklist is an evil thing—quite as evil as the boycott, to say the least—and a law against it ought to be a good law and proof against judicial veto.

The point is important, and it ought to be settled definitely.

The hat in the ring soon will give way to the Easter bonnet.

BLOCK IMPROVEMENT CLUBS.

Another thing it would be good to see started here is the block improvement club idea. The people living in a given block organize for the beautification of their property. They see that the boulevards are clean and trim and that the trees are kept up; they see that their sidewalks are made clean and sightly; they see that their lawns are kept up; they plant shrubs and flowers in the front and on the sides and vines around the house, and they clear out all the tin cans and ash heaps in the back and put kitchen gardens in their stead. One season's work by a block improvement club will make that particular block stand out like a diamond in a heap of pebbles. There is scarcely a block in any community that can't be bettered in this way.

Just one such organization is often enough to revolutionize a community. When the organized block is all decked out, people living in surrounding blocks, weary of the shameful contrast, get to work on their own blocks. The first block improvement club is a center which radiates a good example throughout the community.

A Yonkers, N. Y., man kicked at a dog, slipped, fell, and was paralyzed by the shock. He's just gotta quit being so careless.

GRANTED.

No president, says the News Tribune, "from Washington to Roosevelt, has shown less subserviency to immediate popular opinion than President Taft."

That may be granted, we think, quite freely. There is so much evidence of its truth that it is hardly worth while trying to combat it.

The "immediate popular opinion" of the country has been and is that the tariff ought to be revised downward immediately. Certainly Judge Taft has been anything but subservient to that.

The "immediate popular opinion" of the country was and is that Ballinger should have gone long before he did and that Pinchot, Glavis, Webb and Shaw should have stayed. President Taft was anything but subservient to that.

The "immediate popular opinion" of the country has been and is that Secretary Wilson and his lieutenants, Dunlap and McCabe, ought to go and that Wiley should stay. Certainly the president has not been subservient to that.

Yes, the morning Taft-Eberhart-Smith spokesman certainly is right about that.

But that's why not many people want him to be president any more.

It wouldn't be so very far off to classify President Taft's campaign kisses as "fishing smacks."

TAFT AND THE NOMINATION.

To be entirely frank about it, The Herald is experiencing a touch of that common complaint, "cold feet," in regard to the prediction it made some time ago to the effect that when the Republicans gather in national convention in Chicago June 18 they would be obsessed above all other things by the desire to win, and that therefore they would nominate Theodore Roosevelt.

Perhaps the result in North Dakota had something to do with the stealthy approach of this feeling, but it is not alone to blame. The fact that Roosevelt's good faith has been impugned by his belated qualification of his refusal of a third term "under any circumstances", the fact that even though the party rank and file might be for Roosevelt the result will be determined in many states by conventions with which the party rank and file have little to do, and the fact that the president is using the nearly absolute control he possesses, through the bribery of political patronage, over the Republican machines in the Southern states—these combined have made very doubtful indeed the nomination of Col. Roosevelt.

And, besides all these significant things, there is something deeper than them all which counts very materially. This is the fact that in spite of Ballingerism, in spite of the stealthy conspiracy in the department of agriculture to defeat Dr. Wiley's work for the people, in spite of the promises of tariff revision downward that have been flatly broken, in spite of the futility of the Taft anti-trust campaign which has resulted in greater profits for the trusts and higher prices for the people, in spite of the complete harmony between the Taft administration and the political agencies of Special Privilege—in spite of all these things, and in fact because of them, Taft is the man the Republicans should nominate.

The Republican party should nominate Taft not only because it is customary to give a president a second nomination, but because throughout his administration he has been consistently the representative of his party and all that his party has stood for in the last generation. He is consistently and logically the representative of a party which stands for government of the people by a trusteeship of political agents and for Special Privilege.

President Taft's party has resisted all efforts to change its color. It has rejected insurgency, and it has rejected Progressivism. The little band of Progressives that remains within the party occupies the anomalous position of being a foreign party within the ranks of a party. The difference is too wide to make it possible to call the Progressives a faction.

President Taft is the legitimate successor of the Hanna regime. Roosevelt was an accidental interlude which is not, judging from present indications, to be repeated. La Follette, as a presidential candidate with a Republican nomination, is an utter impossibility, now or hereafter. If his forces ever dominate the Republican party, it will be the Republican party no longer.

There must be a conservative or reactionary party, and there should be one. There must be a political home for the Tories and Bourbons who are needed to dig their heels in and hold back while the country goes ahead, so that it won't go ahead too fast for safety. The Republican party is and must remain the home for that element; and because of that fact and because of the traditions of the party, Taft should be its nominee. That will make the Republican party the minority party, but there is use in a minority party—often more use than there is in a party that is in control.

The comparison of a presidential primary to a soapbox isn't so inept after all. Imagine William Howard Taft trying to make a soapbox support him.

A CHANCE IN MINNESOTA, TOO.

Col. Roosevelt, expressing pleasure that President Taft is for the presidential primary even with large reservations, says that if Taft's supporters are sincere there are a number of states where legal presidential primaries can be arranged for.

He didn't mention Minnesota, but Minnesota is one of these states. There is plenty of time for an extra session of the legislature. Governor Eberhart, who alone can call an extra session, has expressed himself in favor of a legally guarded presidential primary. If he is sincere he will call an extra session of the Minnesota legislature to provide one, and also to pay the expenses of the session two hundred times over by increasing the railroad gross earnings tax.

If there is good faith in the professions of the Taft supporters that they favor proper primaries, here is a chance for one of them to make good.

The Taft men and Roosevelt men are taking their satisfaction out of the way the other fellow got beaten. Teddy wins—on satisfaction.

RIGHT AND THE CONSTITUTION.

"It is not true," said President Taft the other day, "that whatever is right is constitutional."

If there are right things that are unconstitutional, then the Constitution must be protecting things that are wrong.

So President Taft's remark is a serious reflection upon the Constitution.

We shall hope that Senator Lodge will be equal to the occasion, and will properly rebuke the president for this attack upon the immortal document which he has made it his mission to defend.

Perhaps the smashing up of Aviator Coffyn by an automobile was only an exhibition of professional jealousy on the part of the machine.

HIS DOUBTS JUSTIFIED.

Even if it is a little doubtful just who is hurt most and who is benefited most by the result of the North Dakota presidential primary, it made one thing dazzlingly clear.

It makes it very easy to understand why President Taft and his supporters have been utterly unable to feel any enthusiasm about the presidential primary. They will feel less hereafter.

The returns aren't complete yet, but as nearly as it can be estimated La Follette got about 31,000 votes, Roosevelt about 20,000, and Taft what is left out of a total of 52,000—which figures out something less than 2,000 altogether.

In other words, about four out of a hundred of the Republican voters of North Dakota who participated in the primary were for Taft, and ninety-six out of a hundred were against him.

Objection to the presidential primary from a man who was treated thus in one is hard neither to understand nor to forgive.

There now appears at least to be reasonable basis for the theory that it was neither La Follette nor Roosevelt that spoke at Winona.

MODESTY.

There is just one man in public life, and just one chain of newspapers in this country, that could possibly do what William Randolph Hearst and his newspapers are doing.

For instance, we find the Chicago Examiner, a Hearst newspaper, modestly referring to its owner in the following terms: "And what a gracious compliment to William Randolph Hearst, who for years has battled alone and unaided for the rights of the people!"

"Alone and unaided!" Just William Randolph alone, in his grand and solemn might, has towered between the people and their oppressors. But for him, the people would have been despoiled and oppressed and cheated and robbed without let or hindrance. Without Hearst, the people are impotent. The ballot stands for nothing, the primary election is a delusion and a snare, the initiative, the referendum and the recall are glittering baubles. Not the people themselves, but Hearst alone, shall solve the problems of democracy and make this nation free.

The people were helpless, hopeless and in despair but for Hearst. "Alone and unaided," he and he alone has battled for their rights. His own paper says it. William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska, Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey, Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana, Thomas M. Gore of Oklahoma, Theodore Roosevelt of New York, W. R. Stubbs of Kansas, Robert P. Bass of New Hampshire, Hiram W. Johnson of California, John Burke of North Dakota—these and their like are mere feeble manikins, dancing in the breeze of Hearst's breath, shining feebly in the reflection of Hearst's glory.

If—Oh, dreadful thought!—if Hearst's pioneer father hadn't stumbled upon some rich mines and left his splendiferous son a fortune to start newspapers with, what WOULD have become of the Republic?

WILSON AND INGRATITUDE

By SAVOYARD.

Though, as yet, it is not so virulent, faction is just as busy in the Democratic camp as it is in the Republican, and daily and hourly the breach between those who are called "progressives" and those who are called "reactionaries" widens. As has been the case ever since the convocation of the national committee, Jan. 8, it is Wilson against the field, that is made up of Harmon, Clark, Underwood and several dark horses. At this writing there is just one man who can defeat the nomination of Woodrow Wilson at Baltimore. William J. Bryan is that man, and even he would have to draft a dark horse to accomplish it.

The friends of Harmon have no controversy—they scarce have rivalry with the friends of Clark and Underwood, whose friends, in turn, dwell together in beauteous concord, and "gie a hand" to Harmon. Wherever Clark is strongest, on him is united all the opposition to Wilson, as in Oklahoma; wherever Underwood is strongest on him is united all the opposition to Wilson, as in the Cotton states; wherever Harmon is strongest on him is united all the opposition to Wilson, as in the "Middle West." Consequently if Wilson shall secure two-thirds of the convention at Baltimore he will become the most thoroughly and completely nominated man the Democratic party ever had, when there was a contest in the convention.

The chief, if not the sole charge the coalition brings against Wilson is to his credit, and if true might be stated this way—he refused to subordinate civic virtue to personal gratitude. As Theodore Roosevelt, and Champ Clark, too, would put it, the charge that Wilson is ungrateful is a lie. What are the facts? The Democrats of New Jersey were hunting for a man who could redeem the state and bring it back to its ancient and traditional place in the Democratic roster. They selected Woodrow Wilson. Boss Jim Smith was hunting for a candidate for governor whose character was exalted enough, and whose popularity was fruitful enough, to secure a Democratic legislature, and so the boss, too, fixed on Wilson. Smith cared not a rap for Wilson; he cared naught for the Democratic party. His scheme was to be elected senator from New Jersey as the successor of John Kean, and his intention was to do precisely what he did twenty years earlier, when as senator in congress from New Jersey he lent aid to Gorman, Murphy, and others to fill the Democratic tariff bill chock full of "party perfidy and party dishonor." Woodrow Wilson as governor blocked that treason. Real Democrats everywhere applauded him at the time, but faction is now in possession of some of these and they are going up and down the earth whining about "ingratitude." Bosh!

If there was any ingratitude in it, it was Wilson's duty to be ungrateful. He would have been false to his party and false to his country not to have been ungrateful. Here is what he did, and all did—he refused to be used as an instrument to put Jim Smith in the United States senate, there to do the dirty work Jim Smith had done twenty years before. Had he winked his eye, had he nodded for one second, had he for a twinkling been false to civic virtue, he could have had all Jim Smith's millions for a campaign fund in his race for the nomination. He knew that. You know it. But he turned Jim Smith down, as subsequently he turned down Tom Ryan.

No wonder Governor Wilson is the man the "interests" have marked for slaughter. He cannot be corrupted; he cannot be bullied; he cannot be cajoled. Nobody disputes that in mental equipment he is superior to any of his rivals. He has studied the sciences of government profoundly and he is a Democrat to the marrow in doctrine.

They object that he is visionary. That was a charge they brought against Thomas Jefferson. But Woodrow Wilson fought a battle of the giants in his efforts to banish snobbery from, and engraft democracy upon, the great institution of learning of which he was so long the head. As governor of New Jersey he was the enemy of privilege in the state, and monopoly hated him with the animosity of fear. The people rose to him when he sought to reform the corporation laws, which were saved to monopoly by an alliance between the Republican party of New Jersey and the Jim Smith "Democratic" machine of Essex county. Do the Harmon-Clark-Underwood folk who accuse Wilson of ingratitude realize that they have Jim Smith and his unspeakable machine for allies? Perhaps. Maybe they agree with Machiavelli that "many a full sack comes from a crooked row, and he that will be captain of none but honest men will have small hire to pay." Can you point anywhere to any set like Jim Smith's machine that is supporting Woodrow Wilson? Jim Smith's machine and all kindred machines are for anybody to beat Wilson.

Where will you find a minion of monopoly espousing Wilson's cause? Where will you find a hinchman of monopoly who is not actively and ceaselessly at work to prevent the nomination of Wilson? I don't mean to say that Harmon, Clark and Underwood personally are in coalition with monopoly, but I do say that monopoly is for them, or any one of them, to defeat the nomination of Woodrow Wilson, and here is what there is danger of—another Parker campaign. If Wall Street can dictate the nomination, it will be pretty indifferent as to the result. In 1904 Wall Street nominated Parker and then turned round and beat him with Roosevelt, because Wall Street knew that Parker might bite and that Roosevelt would only bark.

And Wall Street knows that Wilson will bite. Elect him and give him a Democratic congress and there will be a reform of the tariff, and that is the beginning of wise and good government. That cause has been betrayed in the household of Democracy repeatedly the last thirty years. They are fixing to betray it again. That was why Jim Smith wanted the senatorship. And there are other Jim Smiths, some of them on the Democratic side of the United States senate.

Woodrow Wilson is the very man to deal with these gentry.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

ALBERT LEA ALSO HAS SCHOOL GREEN HOUSE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I wish to correct a statement in The Herald of March 15, in which you state that Cloquet had the only green house in the state in connection with the schools.

Albert Lea has had a green house since last fall and has been using the same for school purposes.

Our house is 30 by 20 feet, with a concrete wall; the frame is steel construction throughout. This house was built entirely by the agricultural engineering department. The concrete work, glazing and steam fitting were all nicely done. This house is one of the most valuable and interesting parts of our school system.

Thanking you very kindly, I remain, very truly, THEO. SEXAUER.

Albert Lea, March 19.

AND THERE ARE MANY TOWNS LIKE ROOSEVELT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Reading so many alluring advertisements of the opportunities of Canada, I thought it a good idea to tell what is being done in Roseau county, Minn. This is a "timber town" of about 250 population. The business done here would surprise you. One company shipped 4,000,000 feet of logs last year and has on the siding which is continually lined up on both sides with old express wagons, cabs, busses, tallyhos, "taxis" and hacks, the livery company apparently has some inherent or vested right in the street. Perhaps they got it from the Indians before Duluth happened. Who knows?

First street is used quite extensively by the fire department in making runs. I would again rise to suggest that the council appropriate some money to build an overhead viaduct between Fourth and Fifth avenues for the convenience of the fire teams. The livery company would then be enabled to use the entire street unmolested.

In all seriousness, Mr. Editor, this tendency of the First street liverymen should be checked. West First street, as I understand, is a public highway in which everyone has a common interest and as such I cannot figure how the city authorities can conscientiously allow the livery concern to convert it into an alley or make it a storing place for vehicles not in use.

Another thing, I have noticed too many accidents resulting from collisions with fire teams and to my mind it will only be a question of time before a serious accident will take place because of the blocking of the passageway with vehicles.

What are we going to do about it?

Yours truly, PLAIN CITIZEN.

A Remarkable Happening.

Judge's Library: An elderly gentleman of rural appearance had hardly seated himself in the crosstown street car when a young lady who had followed him in approached him.

"Sir, did you lose a $5 bill?" she asked.

For a moment the farmer observed her with a surprised, curious look, then said convincingly, "Yes, ma'am, I did."

"Then here it is," said she, handing the bill to him. "I picked it up behind you from the car floor."

"Thank ye very much, young lady, for your honesty. This is a most remarkable happening!"

"Oh, I don't think so, sir! I believe every one should return the money in such a case as this. What is there so remarkable about it?"

WHY NOT VACATE FIRST STREET ENTIRELY?

To the Editor of The Herald:

I am a man of but ordinary patience and perhaps I am a trifle premature in my suggestion that First street between Fourth and Fifth avenues be vacated by the city council and the property deeded over outright to the Board of Trade Livery company.

Judging from the appearance of the street, which is continually lined up on both sides with old express wagons, cabs, busses, tallyhos, "taxis" and hacks, the livery company apparently has some inherent or vested right in the street. Perhaps they got it from the Indians before Duluth happened. Who knows?

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1892.

J. Proctor Knott, ex-governor of Kentucky, P. W. Hardin, for twelve years attorney general of Kentucky, and F. A. Stratton and T. F. Sinfiser of Tennessee arrived in Duluth today and are at the Spalding. They have recently formed a company with Gen. Hardin as president, which controls over 50,000 acres of coal lands in Pike county, Ky., in the northwestern part of the state. The coal found there is said by experts to be the finest in the world for coking purposes, and it is believed the coke can be laid down in Duluth as cheap or cheaper than that from Connellsville or other points. The object of the visitors is to interest Duluth iron men and other capitalists to take stock in their company and help Kentucky to help Duluth.

The articles of the Columbus Mining company, capital $1,000,000, are now being drawn at Columbus, Ohio. The president will be Allan W. Thurman, and the other officers will be: Treasurer, W. W. Braden; secretary, Frank Barrett.

Robert Grant of West Duluth has gone to the Mesaba range where he will hold down a claim.

The school board last night opened bids for supplying stone for the Third street entrance to the new high school. The lowest was from the Flag River Brownstone company, which was awarded the contract. Miss May Bates and Miss M. E. Thompson were engaged as teachers at the Endion school and Miss Lizzie Craig of Fergus Falls was selected for a vacancy at the Lincoln school.

A. F. Rockwell is fitting up a handsome meat market in the Palmer block on Grand avenue, West Duluth.

Manager Seeley of the Lyceum announces that he has secured an opera company, of which Juliette Cordon is the soprano, which will have a six weeks' summer season here.

Gus Bergquist of Valleen & Bergquist has sold out his interest in the East End store and will continue the business at 1805 West Superior street.

Miss Katherine King has gone to Anoka for a week.

A sensational suit has been instituted in the district court by J. H. Baker, Fannie Griffen and Nellie Griffen against R. C. Jamison, John Mather, R. C. Elliott and H. A. Nelson. It involves the title to twelve forties on the Mesaba range. The complaint contains some very serious allegations and charges that in 1891 a conspiracy existed in St. Paul to defraud applicants for iron land leases, and as members of this company are named R. C. Jamieson, a prominent Minneapolis attorney; John Mather of the West Superior Light & Power company; R. C. Elliott, at that time private secretary to Governor Merriam, and State Auditor Bierman.

MORE ECHOES OF HARMONY.

Looks for Harmony.

Northfield News: At the Republican convention in Tennessee last week the chairman was hit upon the head with his gavel and the chair jerked from under him. We don't know as this is the exact procedure planned for the Minnesota convention, but it is extremely likely that E. E. Smith will feel as though something had hit him and that his underpinning had disappeared.

Why, Indeed.

Luverne Journal: Anti-Taft and anti-Eberhart sentiment is growing so strong that the political hangers-on are having an awful season of it trying to figure out just which way the procession is heading. "Curses on this mob rule," say the "boys;" "why can't they leave well enough alone?"

Ed's in the Saddle.

Albert Lea Tribune: A Twin City paper has an editorial on "Home Rule for Minnesota." But what does Ed Smith say about it? We hadn't any idea that he was thinking of abdicating unless forced to.

Why Not?

Aitkin Age: Governor Eberhart comes out in favor of the primary plan for electing delegates to the national convention. If this is a good plan to follow in the nomination of a president—and it is—why wouldn't it be a good thing to try it on the governor himself? Let's do that.

Political Trachoma.

Cambridge North Star: The governor has asked the government to send an expert here to investigate the peculiar form of blindness which afflicts the Indians at White Earth. Better have him stop off in St. Paul. Political trachoma seems to be quite prevalent at the capitol.

New Politics.

Luverne Journal: Here is cheering reading for the anti-Eberhart forces in this state who feared that the candidacies of Gordon and Lee, in their enthusiasm to get votes, would lose sight of the main issue and, by stirring up factionalism, defeat the real object they are trying to accomplish, namely, the ousting of the present machine rule. But the following statement from William E. Lee is indeed encouraging. He says: "You mustn't think I'm out begging votes. It doesn't matter so much to me whether a delegate goes to the state convention pledged to me or whether he goes for Sam Gordon, for we both champion progressive issues and we place principle above personal ambition. If I cannot be nominated, I'd like to see Gordon get it; and if he cannot land, I know he won't be sorry if I am the one chosen to head the ticket." That is the speech of a man whom the people can trust. It is the speech of a patriot. Minnesota is to be congratulated that a man of such sterling worth offers her his services. Because the Journal is heart and soul in this anti-Eberhart fight, it will not express a preference for either Lee or Gordon. But this new revelation in politics, this new way of looking at one's candidacy as a duty and not as a campaign for preferment, must give us all new hope and renewed enthusiasm and spur us on to give our best efforts for a cause we know to be just and right.

Enemies at Home.

Willmar Journal: Governor Eberhart seems to have made a few enemies down around Mankato in his own territory, or that which was at least supposed to be his own. Really wonder if these mutterings of discontent all over the state will crystallize into a definite revolt against the present governor or not!

Honest Convictions.

Mesaba Ore: Gordon, Eberhart or Lee? Gordon every time. Roosevelt, Taft or La Follette? La Follette, preferably. Wilson, Clark or Underwood? Wilson, early and late. But out of them all, Gordon and Wilson—just ordinary men with honest convictions, and a determination to do right.

Ultima Veritas.

In the bitter waves of woe
Beaten and tossed about
By the sullen winds that blow
From the desolate shores of doubt—

When the anchors that faith had cast
Are dragging in the gale,
I am quietly holding fast
To things that cannot fail:

I know that right is right;
That it is not good to lie;
That love is better than spite,
And a neighbor than a spy;

I know that passion needs
The leash of a sober mind;
I know that generous deeds
Some sure reward will find;

That the rulers must obey;
That the givers shall increase;
That duty lights the way
For the beautiful feet of peace;—

In the darkest night of the year,
When the stars have all gone out,
That courage is better than fear,
That faith is truer than doubt;

And fierce though the fiends may fight,
And long though the angels hide,
I know that truth and right
Have the universe on their side;

And that somewhere beyond the stars,
In a love that is better than fate;
When the night unlocks her bars
I shall see Him, and I will wait.

La Follette's Tribute to His Wife.

Senator La Follette pays the following tribute to his wife in the course of his autobiography, in the April American Magazine:

"Mrs. La Follette and I were classmates at the University of Wisconsin, and naturally we had common interests. The first year of our married life, in order to strengthen myself in the law, I was re-reading Kent and Blackstone at home evenings, and she joined me. This led later to her taking the law course as an intellectual pursuit. She never intended to practice. She was the first woman graduated from the Wisconsin University law school.

"On one occasion when my firm was overwhelmed with work at the circuit, and the time was about to expire within which our brief should be served in a supreme court case, it having been stipulated that the case should be submitted without argument, I proposed to Mrs La Follette that she prepare the brief. It was a case which broke new ground, and her brief won with the supreme court.

"About a year afterwards, Chief Justice Lyon in the presence of a group of lawyers, complimented me on the brief which my firm had filed in that case, saying, 'It is one of the best briefs submitted to the court in years, and in writing the opinion, I quoted liberally from it because it was so admirably reasoned and so clearly stated.' I said, 'Mr. Chief Justice, you make me very proud. That brief was written by an unknown but very able member of our bar,—altogether the brainiest member of my family. Mrs. La Follette wrote that brief, from start to finish.'

"Although Mrs. La Follette never made any further pratical use of her law, this training brought her into closer sympathy and companionship with me in my professional work, and in my political career she has been my wisest and best counsellor. That this is no partial judgment, the progressive leaders of Wisconsin who welcomed her to our conferences would bear witness. Her grasp of the great problems, sociological and economic, is unsurpassed by any of the strong men who have been associated with me in my work."

The Evening Newspaper.

The Editor and Publisher: The principal reason for the supremacy of the evening newspaper is that the evening newspaper is the home paper. It is published each evening and taken home or else delivered at the home by carrier boys. The evening newspaper is read by the busy business men at his fireside at the close of each day. It is in the home that the housewife, after the day's duties are performed, picks up the evening paper to scan the advertising next day.

Did you ever notice, when riding on the street cars in the evening, that many of the occupants of the car have an evening newspaper in their hands? Then, again, when you come down town in the morning on the street car you will also notice that the men have the morning paper in their hands, taking it away from the home, and ultimately leaving it behind them on the car or throwing it into the waste basket when they reach the office?

The "Mob for Wiley.

Kansas City Star: Of course Dr. Wiley had the support only of the mob, who could not be expected to be informed on the issues involved. The people who had him ousted were real experts—manufacturers of adulterated foods—who had exact information and knew precisely what they wanted.

Woman's Realm

Margaret's fall, her repentance and salvation, composed the main theme of Rev. George R. Gebauer's fifth lecture last evening on Faust at the Unitarian church.

Miss Isabel Pearson opened the program with two organ numbers given in her masterly style, and they were a source of great pleasure to the audience. Louis Dworshak's fine bass voice was heard with delight in a vocal number and Miss Eleanor Kraft played a violin number accompanied by Miss Ethel Molitor, which was enjoyed. After the lecture Miss Pearson again played an organ number which was a fitting close to an interesting evening.

"The scene in the prison between Margaret, who is condemned to die on the following morning for the killing of her child, and Faust and Mephisto, who come to offer her an escape," said Mr. Gebauer, "is one of the most harrowing and pathetic scenes ever presented in poetry. But though the doors of freedom are opened to her, though her former lover would bring her to a place of safety, she determines to meet her fate. Margaret is not, as so often supposed, a maniac, crazy, but rather crazed by her terrible experiences which came to her. Through it all her life has become a terrible nightmare, she moves about in a fearful dream. Our of this dream Faust endeavors to awaken her, but full realization of her situation comes only to her in short intervals; dream and actuality are largely mixed in her poor distracted brain. Only when Mephisto appears on the scene, then her true self awakes in grandeur. She realizes that damnation of soul threatens her if she goes forth out of prison with him, who she feels is the cause of all her woe. And thus the tempter, whom she hates and despises becomes her savior, for now no persuasion will induce her to flee from the fate which will atone for her wrong. In willingly giving her life for her sin, she found her higher life; the block of the executioner became for her a stepping stone into life eternal. The tragedy of her earthly life opens into the divine drama of joy everlasting; she is saved.

"What a wonderful transformation her experience brought about in her soul; she is the same and yet not the same. At one time, but a little while ago, she seemed so inferior to Faust, to whom she looked up in love and adoration. But now she is far above him morally, spiritually and mentally, for she sees the truth he can not see.

"Faust instead of staying by her, instead of meeting human justice as did Margaret, instead of sharing her fate, flees with Mephisto. He is not damned but unsaved; he must go through more experience to find himself and his God."

MATINEE MUSICALE.

Cantata to Be Sung at Club.

"The Bride of Avonton" will be the feature of the program of the Matinee Musicale meeting on Monday afternoon at the Y. W. C. A. Miss Maude Matteson will be the soloist and a chorus of fourteen will sing with Mrs. J. N. McKindley, director. The members of the chorus are: Miss Frances Burris, Mrs. M. O. Morton, Mrs. Homer Anderson, Mrs. T. G. Bartholomew, Mrs. Nelli B. Morrison, Miss Whitcomb, Miss Florence Williams, Miss Louise Prosser, Mrs. G. S. Richards, Mrs. W. D. McGill, Miss Nellie Le Duc, Mrs. L. W. Paull, Mrs. C. W. Peters and Mrs. John Currie.

The program will commence promptly at 3 o'clock as following the program nominations for officers, made by the nominating committee will be presented to the club members.

ADVOCATE SUFFRAGE.

Interesting Meeting is Held in Council Chamber.

"When working men and women are given a living wage most of the troublesome social problems that are now hardly touched by charitable effort will be solved, and not until then," said William E. McEwen last evening in a talk on woman's suffrage at the meeting of the Duluth Woman's Suffrage association at the council chamber.

"A living wage," he continued, "will never be given until women, who think in life and happiness rather than dollars and cents, have a right to their share in government. Seven dollars a week has been determined on as the smallest possible living wage, and 76 per cent of the working women of Minnesota receive less than that.

"The woman's suffrage bill failed to pass at the last session of the legislature because the interests that control Minnesota politics know full well that its passing will sound the knell of their power."

Rabbi Letkovits gave a logical and somewhat philosophic view of the question. He believed in woman suffrage, he said, because it "is right, just and in accord with common sense.

"It is a relic of barbarism to make sex and not efficiency the test, and to deny to women, who have the same taxes, the same responsibility, the same duties in every way, their simple human rights.

"There is no reason for waiting until all women want the suffrage," he said in conclusion. "If the world had waited for its reforms until all the people wanted them, it would have waited forever. Woman suffrage will come, and sooner than we think, and when it somes it will be a blessing, not only to women, but to mankind as well. It will be the most far-reaching emancipation the world has witnessed."

There were also other talks on the subject.

WILL REPEAT SHOW.

Women of Merritt Church to Appear Again as Minstrels.

The women of Merritt Memorial church who put on "The Blackbell Minstrels" last Friday evening so successfully at the church parlors will repeat the evening's entertainment tomorrow evening at Forrester's hall, Fourth avenue west and First street and next Tuesday evening they will give it at the Great Eastern hall in West Duluth. The Rakowsky trio will add several numbers to the program as given last week.

DRAMA LECTURE.

Modern Plays and Playwrights Subject of Talk.

The fifth lecture in the course on Modern Drama which is being given before the members of the Twentieth Century club this season will be given tomorrow evening by Miss Mary D. McFadden at the library club room at 3 o'clock.

"Modern Plays and Playwrights" will be her subject. The lecture is free and all interested are cordially invited to attend.

FOR CHILDREN.

Musicale to Be Given at Neighborhood House.

Mrs. Fred G. Bradbury, Miss Mary Bradbury, two of the finest pianists of the city, and Miss Glenn Bartholomew who is a pleasing singer will give a short musical program tomorrow afternoon at the Neighborhood House for the children who attend the classes and club meetings there. Miss Ruth Rogers has arranged the program which will commence at 4:30 o'clock and the young people have a treat in store for them.

Informal Afternoon.

Mrs. C. C. Huebsch entertained a few of her friends informally Tuesday afternoon at her home at 516 East First street.

Violets and daffodils gave a touch of spring to the rooms and at the daintily appointed refreshment table those flowers were used with charming effect.

Bridge and music were enjoyed by the guests, Mrs. J. L. Dorsey and Mrs. J. Myre winning the card prizes. Those present were:

DULUTH LADIES SAY IT'S GREAT

Duluth ladies are delighted with "Minnesota" macaroni and spaghetti. Even people who never liked these foods before, are charmed with the delicious, nut-like flavor of the "Minnesota" brand.

Good macaroni and spaghetti are the most nourishing foods known, and they can be prepared in so many delightful ways that no one ever tires of them. They agree with any stomach, and a family will feel much better if they eat less meat and more macaroni and spaghetti.

But if you want that rich, nut-like flavor be sure and get the delicious "Minnesota" brand macaroni or spaghetti—made from the finest Northern Durum wheat, with all the nourishing Gluten left in. It is easily digested and never gets soggy. All good Duluth grocers sell it.

CALLS IT ANOTHER "BOSTON TEA PARTY"

MISS E. FREEMAN.

Elizabeth Freeman, a militant suffragette, who is now in this country delivering lectures, likens the recent glass-breaking and disorder by the English suffragettes to our famous "Boston Tea Party." She says that the sympathizers with the movement have suggested that Asquith and other members of the cabinet be blown up in a strictly literal sense, but that she thinks the sisterhood will not go so far.

MENTAL HEALING LESSONS

Practical Psychology

Applied curatively, Friday, 8 p. m., at Knights of Pythias hall, 118 West Superior street, C. A. Billig, M. For fuller data, telephone Melrose, 1034.

SEEN IN THE SHOPS

An attractive line of the tailored waists which have always been held in good style but which have found especial favor this season, is displayed in one of the Superior street shops. Strictly tailored shirts with a soft turn back collar and cuffs are very good especially in silk and in this particular shop the waists made of "tub silk" are selling rapidly. Made of this silk which is a little heavier than a china silk and which washes beautifully, they are shown in plain white or striped materials, piped with contrasting colors. One of white silk with red pipins is especially attractive.

These severe models are also shown in heavy piques and linens, all of them, of course, having long sleeves.

Another waist, which has proved popular, is made of the washable soisette with a rolling collar rather low at the neck and three-quarter sleeves with turn back cuffs. Both collar and cuffs are piped with contrasting colors and ties matching the pipings give a sailor effect to the waists.

THE EVENING STORY

MARY BELL

By Kilbourne Cowles.

Rosamond May ran down the steps of her father's house, and crossed the street to the mail box, into which she hurriedly thrust a letter. "There it's gone," she murmured, with a long breath, and she herself could hardly have told whether it was a sigh of relief or regret. Now, her haste departed, she lingered by the box lost in thought.

"No," she said to herself, in answer to the question that assailed her the instant the letter had dropped into the box. "No, I'm not sorry. Norris is a dear fellow. I don't know anyone I like better, but I don't care enough for him to give up so much." She glanced across the street at the stately stone mansion in which so many of her girlish years had been spent. "I ask something more of life than the humdrum existence of a young doctor's wife. I'm glad I was frank with Norris. It's better for him to know just how selfish and worldly ambitious I am; then, perhaps, he won't care quite so much."

If Norris had not "cared," Rosamond knew, deep in her heart, that she would have been greatly surprised, and hurt, but she liked to think that she wished him to be reconciled quickly to her refusal.

"Good afternoon, miss," said the postman, coming to unlock the box and carry away its burden of mail. "Did you drop this?" He picked up a letter fluttering at Rosamond's feet. She smiled and shook her head at the soiled envelope.

"No, I guess it isn't yours. I don't hardly know whose it is. Look at that address, Miss May."

Rosamond, who had known the postman since childhood, took the letter. "Mr. Jesus Christ, heaven,'" she read. "Some child has written it. It's like a Santa Claus letter. I wonder what's in it."

"Well, it isn't stamped and it wasn't in the box, so I guess if you want to read it Uncle Sam won't care. He was busy loading the letters from the box into his bag, and he did not see the tears that started in Rosamond's eyes as she read the crumpled ill-spelled, badly written little note.

"Nothing very important, I suppose?" he laughed, as he went on his way.

But to Rosamond the missive was of thrilling interest. It began:

"Deer Jesus: I'm the littel lame girl that lives at 239 A strete rear. I was pretty happy just to roll myself in the wheel chair my father got me before he was dead, but I saw Jonny Benson who used to be lame ilk me. He can walk now. He says his father got a rais and sent him to the hospital where his legs was made strait. I hav no father but I no your my big brother the mishun Sunday school teacher sed so. I never have saw you but I rite anyway to you to tak me to the hospitel for the teacher sed you sed ask and you shall receive. I ask to have my legs made strait lik Jonnys. My mother washes and she can't wash enuff to pay for the hospitel. I'll be redy to go any tim you com for me. Yours truly,

"Mary Bell Brown."

A swift resolution formed itself in Rosamond's mind when she had read the letter the second time, and in a moment she stood at the telephone calling Dr. Alton's number. "Is this Dr. Alton? I'm so glad your in. I wished to see you particularly this afternoon. No, about something else entirely different. I want to see you professionally. No, of course, not, Norris. You know I'm never ill. Come as soon as you can."

It was not more than twenty minutes before Dr. Alton's runabout motor car stopped in front of the house. "What is it, Rosamond?" he asked anxiously, as he joined her on the porch, where dressed for the street, she was waiting for him. "You were very mysterious over the telephone. I couldn't help hoping that you wanted to tell me—"

"Read that," she interrupted, handing him the little letter. "Oh, Norris, isn't it pathetic?" she asked, as he gave it back to her.

"It certainly is. You want me to go to see her, don't you?"

"Yes, and I want to go with you." He looked at her in surprise, but made no comment. "Very well. Get into the runabout and we'll be there in no time. It's only round the corner."

"Only round the corner?" repeated Rosamond. "So near?"

Again the doctor looked at her with surprise. "Yes, Rosamond, this sort of thing is always near. As I told you last night, we may close our eyes to the world's suffering, but we can never really get away from it. Dear, did you write me the letter you promised when I left you last evening?" he asked eagerly, and Rosamond turned her face away from his questioning gaze as she answered "Yes."

"Aren't you going to tell what was in it?"

"No, not now, please, Norris. Look. I believe that is Mary Bell in her wheel chair."

The runabout was brought to a sudden stop, and the doctor and Rosamond both jumped out. The child looked at them seriously as they approached her. There was a light of expectancy in her wistful brown eyes.

"Are you the little girl who wishes to go to the hospital?" asked Rosamond gently; and Norris Alton, who only the night before had heard her declared that she had no taste for slumming and no talent for work among the poor, listened with a tenderly quizzical smile. "Yes'm, I want to go to the hospital."

"Well, we have come to see about it," continued Rosamond. "We wish to help you if we can," she looked up at Dr. Alton.

"I am almost sure we can," he said.

"How did you know about me? Did Jesus send you?"

"Perhaps so," answered Rosamond, leaning down and kissing the child's pale forehead.

"I couldn't reach the hole in the mail box and I was kind of afraid He'd never get the letter."

"I think He must get all the letters little girls like you send Him, whether they are put in the mail box or not," Rosamond smiled through her tears.

A half hour later, after Dr. Alton had examined Mary Bell and arranged with her mother to take the child to the hospital the next day, and when Rosamond was again in the runabout by his side, she said, "Norris, I want to ask a favor of you. I want you to promise me that you will burn the letter I mailed you today without reading it. I have changed my mind."

"Changed your mind?"

"Yes," she said, "I have a better mind now than I had this morning."

He looked at her wonderingly for an instant, but when he felt her small gloved hand slipping into his large, strong one, he was content, and all he said was, "God bless little Mary Bell."

"Northwestern Knitting Mill" Too Much Like "Northwestern Knitting Co."

Judge Ensign Grants Injunction Ending Litigation of Three Years.

Israel Garon, proprietor of a knitting mill at 130 West Michigan street, has been enjoined by the district court from using in his business the name "Northwestern Knitting Mill" or any other term which might be considered an infringement on the corporate name of the "Northwestern Knitting company" of Minneapolis.

Judge Ensign, who, today, granted the injunction, ended a case which has been dragging in the courts for the past three years. In 1909 the Northwestern Knitting company of Minneapolis brought suit in district court to obtain an injunction against Garon of this city, who was engaged in a similar line of business under the name of "Northwestern Knitting Mills."

Judge Ensign decided the case in favor of Garon when it came to trial in 1909. He also denied a motion for a new trial, from which an appeal to the supreme court was taken. In the supreme court the order of the trial court was reversed and a new trial granted.

Before the case was brought to trial a second time, a stipulation of dismissal was agreed upon on the grounds that the court enter a judgment for the Minneapolis concern, in so far as the granting of the injunction or restraining order was concerned. Judge Ensign today filed an order for the judgment and the granting of the injunction.

The Northwestern Knitting company of Minneapolis has been engaged for several years in the manufacture of the better grade of knitted underwear of about twenty different varieties. When the suit was instituted against Garon, they claimed that their business in Northern Minnesota amounted to about $5,000 annually.

Garon started his knitting mill in 1903 under the name of the "Northwestern Knitting Mill." At one time he had a partner in the business, and during that time the business was conducted under the firm name of "Northwestern Knitting Mills company." Garon's contention throughout all of the litigation has been that he has not been in direct competition with the Minneapolis concern.

At Garon's mill only sweaters and lumbermen's underwear are manufactured and he claimed that these were not manufactured by the Minneapolis people. It appeared during the trial of the case that neither of the two companies had heard of each other prior to 1908 and a few months before the suit against Garon was instituted.

JURY FINDS FOR OLOF G. OLSON

Decides He Did Not Misrepresent Lot Sold to Martin Brown.

Olof G. Olson was exonerated of the charge of having fraudulently misrepresented property sold to Martin Brown at West Duluth nineteen years ago, by a jury which tried the civil case brought against him by Brown in district court yesterday.

Brown claimed that Olson pointed out a certain lot and sold him another, representing it to be the lot shown him. Brown says that he never discovered the mistake until he had built a house on the property two years ago. He sued to recover about $1,400 damages, but the jury found for Olson. Mr. Olson claimed he not only showed Brown the right lot, but made a reduction in price because it was in a ravine.

NEW POWER COMPANY IS ORGANIZED.

St. Paul, March 21.—The Zenith Power company of Duluth filed articles of incorporation with the secretary of state this morning with capital stock of $50,000. The incorporators are: Oscar Mitchell, W. D. Bailey and F. M. Emauelson.

Mr. Mitchell today declined to disclose the purpose for which the company was formed, but it is believed to have some connection with the plans of the Mesaba Traction company.

MINERS WANT $30,150 APIECE

Claim to Have Been Injured When Cage Dropped.

The Bangor Mining company is defending two personal injury suits involving $60,300 in district court today.

The cases, which involve the same circumstances and are being tried before the same jury in Judge Dibell's room, were brought by John Pullman and Mike Schmidt.

Pullman and Schmidt each want $30,150 for injuries sustained while working Nov. 22 last in one of the company's mines on the range.

The complaints are identical and alleged that both men were seriously injured when an elevator or cage used in the shaft of the mine dropped seventy-five feet. They were in the cage, the complaints state.

Theodore Hollister is attorney for Pullman and Schmidt and Washburn, Bailey & Mitchell are defending.

WAITED EIGHT YEARS FOR HUBBY; NOW ASKS DIVORCE.

Eight years is long enough to wait for one's husband to return home, according to Mrs. Millie Hayes, aged 34, of this city who this morning filed a divorce action in the district court.

She asks for the decree of divorce from Edward Hayes, 48, she claims deserted her on Sept. 1, 1904. They were married at Chicago on Feb. 4, 1901, and have no children.

BRINGS COUNTER SUIT TO RECOVER $32,000.

D. D. McEachin of Hibbing has filed in district court counter charges against the Itasca Mercantile company, which started suit against him some time ago to recover certain sums of money, which the company claims McEachin took from the business while working in the capacity of manager of the company's store at Hibbing.

In his cross complaint and answer, McEachin claims that he had a 10-year contract with the company calling for $52,000 for his services. He claims that only $20,000 was paid to him and that he has a balance of $32,000 coming. He asks judgment for that amount.

BOY IS FROZEN TO DEATH IN MONTANA.

Helena, Mont., March 21. — Temperatures below zero were registered yesterday at many points in Montana east of the main range of the Rockies. William Hypyek, a 13-year-old boy, was frozen to death near Dodson. The lowest temperature reached was 20 deg. below zero at Chessman reservoir, tweny miles east of Helena.

CHICAGO GRAND OPERA SEASON IS CLOSED.

Philadelphia, March 21.—The opera season of the Chicago Grand Opera company, under the management of Andreas Dippel, closed last night with a performance of "Louise," Mary Garden taking the name part. The management made the statement that the season was far ahead of last year's when there was a deficit of $100,000 that had to be made up by the guarantors. This year the deficit, if any, will amount to only a few thousand dollars.

Labor Law Broken?

Boston, Mass., March 21.—Alleging a violation of the contract labor law, United States District Attorney French has brought suit against the Dwight manufacturing company with mills in Chicago, this state, and Alabama City, Ala., for $97,000. The suit charges that the company imported ninety-seven Greeks from Turkey and placed them in its cotton mills.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 21. — Efforts are being made here by Mrs. J. P. Hill, a sister, to trace the Rev. John E. Dallam, chaplain of the Twenty-third United States infantry, who has disappeared from Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana. The Rev. Mr. Dallam formerly was pastor of local churches.

DRINKING FOR NERVOUSNESS

Nervous Drinkers: The man or woman who has to drink to keep from becoming nervous is in a physical condition where their system not only demands drink, but must have it. To keep liquor away from such a person would be cruel and heartless, for the nervous system is shattered and nothing will keep it together but drink. While more and more drink is only adding fuel to the flame and still further wrecking their nervous system, they must have it, or they would border on the delirium tremens. That the whole system of such a drinker can be fully restored in three days, by the Neal treatment, without Hypodermic Injections, is a fact that is daily proven at the Institute.

Especially appointed and elegantly furnished private rooms for men and women patients, and no extra charge for attendance by physician and nurse. Free booklet, sent sealed, on application. Both Phones, Broad 37, Ogden 117.

BIBLE STUDY IS HIS THEME

Men and Religion Forward Worker Speaks in West End.

W. C. Pearce of Chicago, one of the experts in the present Men and Religion Forward Movement campaign, gave the second talk in the series for the West end at the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street, last evening. A large audience was present at the meeting, the subject of which was "Bible Study." Mr. Pearce painted a word picture for his hearers of what could be accomplished by a city-wide Bible study movement. He declared that it was his plan to interest the young men of Duluth in just such a movement, and as an example of what may bt accomplished by the young men, Mr. Pearce cited Ashland, Ohio. He said:

"Since the campaign started in Ashland, Ohio, the number of saloons has been reduced; 65 per cent of all the men in the city are regular church attendants, and there are only 600 men in the city who are not members of some of the denominational Bible classes.

"When you are once organized and any civic question comes up that has a moral side to it, you will be in a position so that you can demand clean government and a clean city.

"We want men with red blood in their veins to go out and spread this work. Go to it. Don't hide your talents, but when you are called back to your Master, show that you have well served your stewardship."

This evening J. A. Whitmore of New York will speak on "Boys' Work."

NORWEGIANS WILL CELEBRATE

Picnic and Entertainment Will Be Held on May 17.

Norway's Independence day, May 17, will be celebrated on its anniversary this year by a grand entertainment followed by a picnic to be given by the Normanna Singing society, the Sons of Norway and the Varde club. The preliminary plans for the celebration were made last evening by representatives of each organization at a meeting held in Attorney Hanson's office, Torrey building.

There were five men representing each organization and it is now planned to form a permanent committee of nine members, three from each society. The place for holding the celebration has not been decided upon as yet, but the members are considering Lincoln park, the auditorium of the Central high school and the Armory. Another meeting will be held within a week when the new committee will be formed and the final choice made regarding the place of holding the entertainment. It is probable that Lincoln park will be chosen because of the large Scandinavian population in the vicinity.

The program has not been completed, but according to the preliminary steps taken last evening Rev. Hans K. Madsen, former pastor of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church and now superintendent of the Chicago district for Norwegian-Danish M. E. churches, will be asked to be the principal speaker of the day. The invitation has already been sent to Rev. Mr. Madsen and an answer is expected within a few days. The program will include a number of solos and selections by the Normanna chorus, a Norwegian playlet by several prominent Norwegian players in the city, and a special program of addresses by residents of Duluth and the vicinity.

WANT CENTRAL PARK IMPROVED

Hillside Residents Circulate Petition to Have City Property Beautified.

Hillside district residents of the West end are circulating petitions this week asking the park board to make a number of needed improvements to Central park. Those behind the present campaign claim that 200 signatures have already been secured and that these petitions will be presented to the park commission at their next meeting.

The residents want a better means of access to the park and also several improvements to the park itself. They claim that, although the park has been in existence for a number of years, the city has never made any attempt to improve it. The park contains about 160 acres and has not been improved since its purchase by the city. The park is located between Fourteenth and Seventeen avenues and extends from Third street to Seventh street.

The park is one of the most picturesque in the city, as it affords a splendid view of the harbor, lake and the city itself. The West end residents believe that with some substantial improvements, the park could be made one of the most beautiful in the city. The boulevard runs through the upper end of the park and in its western corner are the Twin lakes, which were totally destryed two years ago by the washing away of the embankment during a severe rain storm. Petitions have also been circulated in the past for the replacing of the embankment, but nothing has ever been done by the park board. It is the belief of the residents that with the many signatures to the petitions and the request of the residents sent in through the aldermen of the ward, the board will be inclined to take some action.

If the embankment is replaced, the park improved, the surrounding territory placed in proper condition for picnics and a highway built between First and Third streets with a proper approach placed from Piedmont avenue to the Third street road, this section of the city will be greatly improved.

Lodge Entertains.

Lysglimt lodge, No. 7, I. O. G. T., entertained for its members last evening at the Maccabee hall. About 200 couples were present at the entertainment, which included special motion pictures of Norway, showing scenes in the various large cities. The Normanna Male chorus and the West End Tramp orchestra also gave several selections. A luncheon was served the latter part of the evening which was followed by a short dancing program.

YOUNG MEN GIVE VAUDEVILLE PROGRAM.

The Young Men's society of the St. Jean Baptiste church, Twenty-fifth aevnue west and Third street, presented an excellent vaudeville entertainment in the church hall last evening for the benefit of the French Athletic club. A large audience was present and the following members of the club took part in the program: Emile Beaurivage, Edward Grignon, Joseph Robitaille, John Belanger, Thomas Robillard, Albert Boldue, Albert Pacquet, Arthur Ray, Edward Belanger, Emile Morin, Henri Latour and Axel Levine.

The program for the evening included the following numbers:

Selection .....
Club Orchestra.
Comedy Sketch—"Box and Cox" ....
Violin Solo .....
Weight Lifting Exhibition .....
Members of the Club.
Song .....
Club Quartet.
Slack Wire Exhibition .....
Fancy Roller Skating .....
Comedy Sketch—"April Fools" .....

Easter Music.

The choir of St. Peter's Episcopal church, Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street, is practicing a special Easter program to be rendered Easter Sunday, April 7. The various solo selections and a cantata will be practiced at the meeting of the choir Friday evening. Prof. H. W. Reymer, instructor of the choir, is directing the work for the Easter program.

Quarterly Conference.

The second quarterly conference of the Grace M. E. church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street, will be held Saturday evening, March 30, in the church. Rev. E. K. Copper, superintendent of the Duluth district of Methodist churches, will preside at the meeting and arrange the plans for the coming quarter.

Basket Social.

The S. H. & E. F. society, No. 18, entertained at a basket social last evening for its members and friends in Sloan's hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street. A program of music, recitations and addresses was rendered during the evening by the members of the society, following which the women of the order served luncheon.

Rev. Didace Guillet, rector of the St. Jean Baptiste French Catholic church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street, left last evening for Montreal on account of ill health. He will be gone three weeks.

Missions for the women of St. Jean Baptiste Cathollo church will open Sunday evening at the church. Father Croizir will conduct the meetings during the week.

North Star lodge, No. 11, I. O. G. T., will entertain at a basket social this evening at Sloan's hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street.

The St. Luke's guild of St. Peter's Episcopal church, Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street, was entertained in the guild rooms of the church this afternoon by the Mesdames Gus Johnson and Thomas Bark. Following the meeting Lenten services were conducted by Rev. W. E. Harmann.

Do You Pooh-Pooh at Your Aching Back?

That Pain Means a Death-Clutch in Your Kidneys. How to Save Yourself.

"Died—Mrs. John Burton Smith—Bright's disease—Age 45." She spurned the pain in her back. She could have saved herself at the start in 24 hours, and very likely lived to a vigorous old age. Kidneys can be managed, but it takes a scientific treatment to manage them when they ache—when they ache they are diseased.

For 18 years the well-known specialist, Dr. Clarke, achieved remarkable success in treating kidney and bladder troubles. The treatment he used, you get, in Dr. Clarke's Kidney Wafers. You begin taking them today and you feel a difference tomorrow.

Thousands, like Mrs. John Burton Smith, spurn and neglect their aching backs and aching kidneys—to death!

If you have back pains, bladder pains, bladder trouble, diabetes, rheumatism, profuse or scanty, cloudy or foul urine, save doctors' bills and specialists' bills by trying Dr. Clarke's Kidney Wafers. They are sold by all druggists at 25c a box, or sent direct by Regent Drug Co., 43 Regent Bldg., Detroit, Mich.

If you want to prove first that all these statements are true, tell your druggist to give you a free sample package. If you want advice in regard to your condition, it will be given free and cheerfully, if you write to the above company.

Dr. Clarke's Laxatone Wafers, the palatable, prompt and positive Bowel and Liver Regulator, 25 cents, at druggists. Once tried, always recommended.

Regular liver, regular bowels, puts sunshine into your heart, enriches the blood, clears the complexion, brightens the eyes, gives you that healthy look, firm step and air of a millionaire; it's all done by Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea, the best health and beauty doctor. THE BUSY, PROSPEROUS, WEST END

THERRIEN, MORIAN & OVESEN.
Friendship, Love and Truth have joined this trio in the bonds of partnership and combined with it square dealing, liberal treatment and quality have have built up for them one of the largest and most successful Meat businesses in the city. Their shop, at 2501 West Superior street, is one of the most sanitary in the city and their motto—to do unto others as they would have others do unto them. To have the confidence of the people is better than to have riches is their belief. They are always doing something towards a Greater West End and just now are spending hundreds of dollars in remodeling their building to take care of their increasing trade. The happy view they take of things is the motor power of their success. Messrs. Therrien, Morian & Ovesen all reside in the West End, and are three of the leaders in everything for the advancement of the West End.

THE CENTER of Duluth's population lies between 16th and 40th avenues West; in that part of the city known as the WEST END.

¶Here, in their thousands, are found the homes of the well-to-do workers; and the greatest of Duluth's fine factories and mighty mills.

¶Herefrom, the manufactured product of forest, harvest field, and mine is shipped to the uttermost corners of the earth.

¶Here also, are found many of Duluth's ablest and most prosperous business men; from whose untiring efforts in the past, the WEST END has drawn much of her present prosperity; and to whom she looks even more for the future prosperity that is to be hers.

FRED W. ERICKSON.
Very few men have built a stronger foundation in the commercial world than Fred W. Erickson, the grocer, and his store, 2029-30 West Third street, would be a credit to any community of twice the population of the West End.
Mr. Erickson handles the choicest the market affords, besides buying direct from the farmers, when quality and prices are considered. Mr. Erickson has lived in the West End for 26 years and for 20 years has been engaged in the grocery business, and during all these years his honest and square business dealings have made him hundreds of friends and customers. Mr. Erickson has a very pleasing personality and his leadership is a great force in all things that add to the growth of the West End. Any one who trades with Mr. Erickson is assured of the highest of quality in groceries, the best of service and the most courteous treatment.

BRUCE'S COLUMN

COMMENT AND DIVERS DISCUSSION OF THE MERRY WORLD OF SPORT.

SPEAKING of fighters, a subject that kindles the eye and draws on old reminiscence for a couple of paragraphs, it does seem that in their own thoroughly modern and somewhat feeble way, the lads of the squared circle are solving the question of the middleweight championship. Since the dramatic death of the only all-round middleweight fighter since the days of Bob Fitzsimmons there has been a serious dispute as to the title holder in the just-between class. To be sure the dispute has not had all of its kinks straightened out, but the busy little eliminators are eliminating. Last night young Eddie McGoorty, whom Dulutlhians take considerable more than passing interest in, showed that he is the master of the passe Kelly, one of the best of the middles in his day, but a fighter who has rounded the turn in the path where an athlete ceases to improve. Kelly is going and McGoorty is coming, therefore in the natural law of progress they were bound to pass, which they did, Pal, last night.

There is Jack Dillion, who is to fight Frank Klaus, the sturdy man from Pittsburg, and this battle will be another stitch in the pattern they are laying out for a world's middleweight champion. Then the most natural thing to happen, and one that will be watched with considerable interest by the fans of the fighting world, will be the matching of McGoorty with the winner of the San Francisco mill.

They are going to have a mighty hard time in finding a man to take the place of the late lamented Ketchel, but then if we wanted to go down the line and be critical, there might be a comparing of all the present day champions with some of the great boys of the past, for, George, this is not exactly an age where great fighters grow on every limb of the pugilistic tree.

⊙ ⊙ ⊙ ⊙

CONTINUING along the line of bandaged hands and resined pedals, it might be appropriate in passing to call attention to Pal Brown. He is now doing what some of us wondered that he didn't do some of these weary and furnace-heated months back, i. e. to fight some of the real ones in his class and draw himself by his sturdy arms out of the bramble bushes of mediocrity.

Some of the careful ones hereabouts keep saying that he is too young and there is plenty of time. That statement is quite wrong. One careful look at the roster of little ring champions will show that most of these boys started fighting and attained ring prominence when they were mere striplings in the point of years they had nestled to the bosom of Mother Earth.

It might be only necessary to cite the cases of Eddie Hanlon, who fought Young Corbett that memorable battle at the tender age of 18, and Terry McGovern and Johnny Coulon and hosts of other great little battlers. They all started in the game young and were great when they were as old as Brown is at the present time.

Yet it looks as if Brown is arriving. From the reports of his two recent fracases one would draw the conclusion through the straw of mental conjuring, that the Hibbing boxer was at last becoming more proficient in the use of his hands and putting on the finishing touches as a boxer. He needed ring science sorely. Let the iron range mauler continue in the path of progress and he may arrive at the stage in the journey where he will at least get a glimpse of the beaming beacon that booms in the championship house, up there on the heights. It is a long and weary climb over a road filled with rocks.

IT IS funny how they hold Walter Miller in St. Paul. Button-holing a citizen for a few minutes of cheery chat and pouncing with figurative feet upon the subject of Miller's contest with Yokel, the tough out of the Mormon city, you are assured that though Walter may not be able to beat the delegate from the country where they hold the matrimonial notion regarding repetition being strength and there also being encouragement and much cheer in unions, this Mique Yokel will not pin the tapering shoulders of Walter to the mat.

For tonight's contest at St. Paul they have made provision to decide the match on points in case it is drawn out to the three-hour period. In the humble opine of the writer any match that goes beyond the two-hour period becomes exceedingly monotonous. But in the case of a prolonged mat battle in St. Paul this night, two judges will be asked to say which of the two men had the better of the bout on points, in case there is no fall.

JOHNNY KILBANE has shown that the old stuff about the prophet being unable to make his neighbors pay respects and whistle admiration even though the instrument be a flute of envy, is all wrong. The little Clevelander returned to the ancestral lair and the crowds that turned out threatened to make an ordinary presidential gathering look like the audience that attends one of the higher thought dissertations on virtue standing alone in the reward class.

The boy who grabbed the crown of laurel from the slanting brow of Abraham Attell is one of the most popular little fighters in the history of the ring. A true gentleman, quiet and a boy of the very best habits, he has the respect of his fellow townsman, as has been demonstrated by the huge crowds that blocked the street and braved the picturesque vocabulary of the traffic squad, merely to welcome the new champion back to the good Cleveland home cheer.

SOMEONE might arise and suggest that Carl Morris has had about enough of a trial. Touted as the man who was destined to beat Johnson, this huge hulk of a Westerner has failed to demonstrate to the public where he is anywhere near the caliber that champions are supposed to measure up to. In no trial that the long suffering public has conceded to the man from Oklahoma has he shown that he possessed class or the ability to beat an ordinary opponent. Morris is game and that lets him out.

ALREADY the early spring phenoms are beginning to drop and the ides of March are with us. By the approach of middle April and the taking up of the serious burden of battling for a pennant, there will be an exodus of ambitious youths from the ranks of the big leagues that will remind the careful student of history and current events of the crusades to the holy land. There is the saying about the appearance of the swallow not making the summer, and right in this line there is also the remark that a spring recruit does not always make the team.

TOMMY BURNS RE-ENTERS RING

New York, March 21.—If Carl Morris or any other beaming "white hope" wants first whack at Al Palzer they will have to hasten. None other than Thomas Burns, one-time holder of the heavyweight championship, has pushed himself into the limelight and has announced that he wants first crack at Palzer. And if Burns comes to satisfactory terms it is more than probable that he will have the privilege of shooting a few slams at Alfred. That seems to be a bear of a fight.

Burns was offered the privilege of meeting Langford or McVea in Australia, but he is shying at the proffer. He prefers to do his fighting right under the Stars and Stripes. He may not get as much coin as he would in Australia, but look at all the fun he will have.

Burns met with an accident a few months ago that many thought would keep him out of the ring. Tommy says "nay," that he will be able to fight for three more years at least. It is possible that the Canuck may wend his way hither the next month or two to look over the situation and see if he can pick up some dough.

Demetral Wins.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 21.—William Demetral, the Greek light-heavyweight, defeated Paul Schmidt, the German wrestler here last night, two falls in three. Demetral took the first fall in twenty-seven minutes with a leg-lock and half-nelson, Schmidt the second fall in seven minutes with a leg-lock, and Demetral the third fall in three minutes with a waist hold.

Chesbro Reinstated.

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 21.—The national baseball commission acted favorably on the application for reinstatement of John D. Chesbro, the former National and American league pitcher. He returns to the game as a free agent, his unconditional release having been given him by the New York American League club.

BROWN OUTPOINTS OLD JACK REDMOND

Windsor, Ont., March 21.—Pal Brown of Hibbing, Minn., outfought Jack Redmond of Milwaukee in their eight-round bout here last night. Brown had the better of every round.

While Redmond proved a tough customer and came back for punishment after every rally, he was severely punished and the Hibbing boy had the lead throughout. Brown used a slashing uppercut to the jaw and body and had Redmond tired and wobbling at the end of the third round. The Milwaukee boy did not do much damage to Brown.

At the end of the third Redmond was in trouble but he came back fresh at the beginning of the fourth and fought a hard battle from then on.

The battle was one of the best seen here during the present season. Redmond, the veteran, used all the tricks at his command, but in the youngster found a tough and willing boy, who carried the battle to him after the opening round. The Milwaukee man used a straight left, but failed to find lodgment for his right cross. Much of the fighting was done in close, both boys battling head to head. This style of milling was to the liking of Brown, who slammed in vicious uppercuts and landed some hard kidney blows.

Brown was strong at the finish, while Redmond looked rather tired.

HUGO KELLY OUTPOINTED

Eddie McGoorty Is Winner of a Slow Bout at Kenosha.

Chicago Fighter Was on Verge of Collapse at the End.

Kenosha, Wis., March 21.—In ten rounds of uninteresting fighting last night Eddie McGoorty of Oshkosh, Wis., clearly outpointed Hugo Kelly of Chicago. Under the state law no decision was permitted, but newspaper critics unanimously agreed that McGoorty had the better of the contest.

When the contest ended Kelly was on the verge of collapse from exhaustion and terrific body punches. McGoorty was fighting strong. Kelly made no attempt to fight until the battle was half over, but his ring generalship made McGoorty miss repeatedly with swings to the head. In the first round McGoorty dropped the Chicagoan with a left punch to the chin for the count of nine. Thereafter McGoorty led in the milling, using a wicked left-hand punch for his most effective blow, while Kelly backed away and fought cautiously.

After the fight McGoorty announced that his right hand was injured, but that he would proceed to San Francisco to prepare for his contest with Frank Klaus of Pittsburg.

Both men were under the required weight of 158 pounds. McGoorty tipped the beam at 157, while Kelly was one pound lighter. The Oshkosh middleweight was a 10 to 7 favorite in the betting.

In the semi-windup Johnny King and Johnny Connors, rival Chicago lightweights, fought eight vicious rounds to a draw.

It was announced that Packy McFarland of Chicago and Eddie Murphy of Boston had been matched to box ten rounds here on April 2. The two lightweights fought a recent ten-round contest in which McFarland was declared the winner.

MORRIS BEATEN BY JIM STEWART

Brooklyn Heavyweight Outpoints Oklahoma Fighter in a Ten-Round Fight.

New York, March 21.—Jim Stewart, the Brooklyn heavyweight, outpointed Carl Morris of Oklahoma in a 10-round bout at the Empire A. C., last night. Stewart's work was cleaner cut than that of Morris the Brooklynite landing straight lefts to the face and occasionally a right to the body and right uppercuts, while Morris depended a great deal on in-fighting.

In the sixth round Stewart, with a straight left, started Morris' right eye bleeding. Then he sent over a right hook which caught Morris on the jaw as he was backing away. Morris went down sprawling to his hands and knees. He was up again immediately. In the following rounds Stewart sent his left to the face and uppercut with his right. Morris kept working his right at close quarters. Stewart then sent a straight left to the face. Morris used his weight to crowd Stewart around.

In the eighth Stewart sent three straight lefts, one to the body and two to the face. Morris was still working an inside right. Stewart got to Morris' bad eye with two straight lefts and he bled profusely.

Morris opened the ninth with a right to the body and left to the face, Stewart landed four hard lefts to the face in the tenth. Morris came back with short-arm work, and they were fighting hard at the bell.

The weights were announced as Morris 225 pounds and Stewart 209¾.

Decision Unpopular.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 21.—Joe Phillips of Providence, got the decision over Sammy Trott of Columbus last night after twelve rounds of fast fighting. The decision was unpopular as Trott was the aggressor all the way. Billy Wagner of Chicago boxed twelve rounds to a draw with Joe Theel of Philadelphia, and Tommy Bresnahan of Omaha received the decision over Otto Vackhow of Cleveland in the ninth round of their scheduled twelve-round bout.

LURID LEW BEHIND TWIN CITY LEAGUE

LEW DRILL.

NEW LEAGUE FOR DULUTH

Plans Being Laid to Invade Milwaukee and the Twin Cities.

Charles Moll Expected Here for Conference With Baseball Men.

Charles Moll, former president of the Wisconsin-Illinois league and the man said to be organizing a league that is to include Duluth, Superior, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Milwaukee and Oshkosh, is, according to rumor, expected at the Head of the Lakes within the present week or early next week.

Rumors, like germs, fill the air. One story has it that there is a movement on foot to organize a league to compose the cities of Duluth, Superior, Edmonton, Virginia, Grand Forks, Fargo, Winnipeg and one other city not yet platted on the prospective baseball map.

This rumor is denied by a well known follower of the game who generally knows whereof he speaks. According to his version the Moll league composed of the larger cities is the most likely to be put into material being.

The Rip Van Winkle policy of the Minny league directors may have something to do with the backward policy of the men interested in baseball at the Head of the Lakes. Father Elliott has, it is rumored, placed his case before Secretary Farrell and some action may be looked for.

We have sounded another curve in the march of the year's flight and can see the dim tall lights of April in the distance. It is getting rather late to organize a baseball league, though we have been assured that the players will be forthcoming, once the league is organized.

It is known that Moll is working on the lineup of the larger cities and it is said that arrangements have been made for playing parks. As Moll is very close to Havenor, the Milwaukee club owner, the move is at least interesting to speculate upon.

Today came the assurance that Duluth was to have baseball the coming season, even if it was semi-professional variety. With the arrival of Moll—if he comes—there may be some news on the rather infinite situation that has kept the fans here guessing since the statement was published in The Herald that the two Head of the Lakes towns intended to drop out of the Minny.

It is known that a determined effort is being made to break in with the Twin Cities and Milwaukee, but to date nothing tangible is in sight to hang the wreath of hope upon.

Fargo Will Have Team.

Winnipeg, March 21.—F. F. Cater of Fargo, N. D., has agreed to place a team in the new baseball league which the promoters hope will include Winnipeg, Edmonton, Duluth, Superior, Redding, Virginia, Grand Forks and Fargo.

SUMMER BALL IN DISFAVOR

Resolutions Adopted By Presidents Are Not Binding to Any Policy.

All Agree That Athletics Have Advantages Which Should Be Retained.

Chicago, March 21. — Resolutions adopted yesterday by Big Eight conference university representatives here do not bind the schools to any policy, but provide for maintaining the conference as it is. They introduce a new system of conference government and take a disapproving attitude toward summer baseball.

A statement issued by the conferees said the resolutions, adopted unanimously, were:

"Intercollegiate athletics have educational advantages which should be retained.

"To this end the conference is essential and should be retained.

"The amateur basis and spirit for intercollegiate athletics should be maintained.

"The presidents recommend to their respective universities that the conference rules be amended so that each institution be represented by two members of the faculty, at least one of whom shall have no connection with the department of physical training."

Fight against the rules suggested is expected from at least half of the schools—particularly those who have indicated a preference for summer baseball.

The resolutions were signed by the following:

President E. J. James of Illinois, President Harry Pratt Judson of Chicago, President G. E. Vincent of Minnesota, President A. W. Harris of Northwestern, President J. G. Bowman of Iowa, President W. E. Stone of Purdue, President C. R. Van Hise of Wisconsin and Dean H. A. Hoffman of Indiana, representing President W. L. Bryan.

Cutler and Jarvenen.

Efforts are being made to match Charles Cutler and Alex Jarvinen for a match to be held in this on March 28. Officials of the Greater Duluth Athletic club have submitted terms to the two wrestlers and it is expected that a definite answer will be received some time today.

OUTFIELDERS LACK HEAD, SAYS VETERAN

Monroe, La., March 21.—According to Joe Sugden, many of the outfielders of the present day rely on speed to accomplish for them what the old-timers accomplished through their splendid judgment of the flight of a batted ball. Although Joseph is himself a veteran he isn't much given to the "good old days" line of talk, but is willing to concede that the game of baseball had advanced since he was in his prime. In this one respect, judgment of fly balls, however he believes that the stars of ten or fifteen years ago had something on the present stellar crop.

"There is more speed on the outfield now than there was in my day," says the veteran. "Take men like Cobb, Speaker, Milan and Birmingham, and they can cover a tremendous lot of ground. The whole crop of big league outfielders of the present day, taking it by and large, is much speedier than it was in the '90s.

"Men like McAleer and McCarthy however, could judge a ball so perfectly that they didn't have to hurry for a lot of drives that some of the speed merchants have to sprint like te mischief to reach. McAleer was a magnificent fielder. He would turn his back to the plate, run directly to the pluce where the ball was going and catch it in such a graceful, finished manner that the whole performance looked easy.

"Walter Brodie was another who could go and get them. The former Oriole star had such a fine eye that I have seen him catch balls behind his back that good outfielders who were not gifted with such rare judgment would be lucky to touch at all. It was a favorite tricke of his to catch these skyscrapers behind his back in practice and sometimes he did it in a game when the score wasn't close.

"The modern outfielders devote more time to batting practice and less to fielding than did the old-timers. In fact, all ball players get more work with the stick now than they used to. Jess Burkett is the only one of the old stars a who was always out there with a bat in his hand. Any time you went into the Cleveland park to play a game of ball you would find Burkett either up at the plate or hitting off in a corner with somebody pitching balls up for him to tap.

"His devotion to hitting practice showed in his averages, too, for he used to bust them as well as anybody in the world. He didn't take much of a swing, as I remember it, but met the ball very squarely and drove it with tremendous force.

"Nowadays it is an accepted maxim in baseball that an outfielder has to hit to hold his job. This wasn't always so in the old days, for Jimmy McAleer couldn't hit a lick and he knew it. He tried right hand and left hand positions, but never was able to do much. He was so valuable on the defense, however, that he was retained to cut off runs instead of driving them in. If Jim had batted like he fielded, he would have gone down into history as the greatest all-around star who ever played the game, but as it is few present-day fans realize that he ever was considered a shining light, it is the great batting work and not the sensational fielding that lives in baseball history."

BRUNSWICK FIVE ARE IN THE LEAD

Unlikely That They Will Be Headed at Chicago Tournament.

Chicago, March 21.—Final play in the five-men team competition at the American Bowling congress tournament was scheduled today. It appeared unlikely that the Brunswick five of New York who forced into the lead late last night with a score of 2,904, would be headed. Their mark is thirty-four points above that of Terry's Mountains of Milwaukee, who held the leadership for more than a week without being dangerously pressed. None of the quintets scheduled to roll today is believed to be stronger than the the Milwaukee squad.

Leaders of several fives, however, have expressed themselves as confident that they can displace some of the other teams inside the money and will make a determined effort to do so today. The Lipmans of Chicago hold third place with a score of 2,848 and the Brunswick-Balke team of Chicago is fourth with 2,847.

Five-men teams from Chicago, Youngstown, Ohio, and Aurora, Ill., were entered for today's play. In the minor events players from Chicago, Toledo, Los Angeles, Massilon, Ohio, Columbus, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Kenosha and Racine, Wis., Joliet, Ill., Des Moines, Iowa; Milwaukee and Newark, N. J., were entered.

JARVINEN WINS FROM ROMANOFF

At Ishpeming last night Alex Jarvinen, world's amateur wrestling champion, defeated Ivan Romanoff, the Russian Cossack, in straight falls winning the first in 20:30 and the second in 12:20. According to the dispatch received from Ishpeming the young Finn outclassed his burly antagonist, showing greater speed and science.

Jarvinen is the young Finnish wrestler who came to this country in January and has been winning all of his matches since his arrival. He is said to be the greatest wrestler that has ever been developed in Finland, and according to the record he is making in the United States is fast and is possessed of wonderful strength.

BADGERS LAUD GOPHER SPIRIT

Madison, Wis., March 21.—From an official source, namely, the Wisconsin Athletic Bulletin, comes a frank acknowledgment by University of Wisconsin men that Minnesota has set the pace for courtesy and fairness in intercollegiate atletic contests. Its leading editorial Saturday was called "A Lesson From Minnesota." It follows:

"Have we been taugt a lesson by the University of Minnesota? Have we held a wrong impression of the sportsmanship of our sister university in the North?

"These are questions that the students of the university have been asking themselves since the return of the members of the basket ball team from Minnesota, were they won their hardest game of the year last Saturday night.

"According to the reports of the men who played in the game, of those who witnessed it, of Coach Meanwell, the Cardinal team was accorded the most sportsmanlike treatment that it has ever received—that could be received anywhere in the country.

"The game itself was fiercely contested from the time that the first whistle blew until the end. It was hard fought. The Badgers, anxious to maintain their clean record, played as they never played before. The Gophers, desirous of being known as the team which defeated the strong Badger five, put forth their utmost effort. And yet it was not a 'gruelling' contest.

"There were many opportunities in the course of the game when intentional roughness might have been passed unnoticed on the grounds of mere anxiety. Yet there was none. The men played hard, but witout malicious intentions.

"And the reamen accorded ahe team by the spectators was at all times gentlemanly. When the Badgers ran out onto the playing floor the University of Minnesota band started 'On Wisconsin.' When Van Gent shot some of his spectacular goals, when Johnson did some exceptionally clever bit of blocking, when Stangle and Scoville did extraordinary work, the rooters cheered them. And, finally, but more important than all, they did not 'hoot' the officials.

"In this last they showed better spirit than we have shown at times this year. Let us continue to win from Minnesota and let us not allow the mto surpass us in good soprtsmanship."

CENTRAL WILL MEET NORTHLAND COLLEGE QUINT.

The fast Central basket ball team will meet the Northland quint this evening in the final game of the season. The contest will be played in the high school gymnasium and it is expected that one of the biggest crowds of the season will witness the contest.

Central's strong second team will meet the Bankers' team and a fast and close game is expected.

Accused Hibbing Man Admits Smuggling Contraband Food Into Town.

Two Breakers of Game Laws Are Punished By Judge at Hibbing.

Hibbing, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Smuggling venison into town in a load of hay is the latest wrinkle here. Andrew Fry confessed in municipal court yesterday afternoon that he managed by that method to elude the watchfulness of Game Warden Wood and other officers and thereby furnish the contraband to local purchasers. Judge Brady gave him six months in the county jail, but later suspended the sentence on the representation of Game Warden Wood because of Fry's family. As Fry told of selling the venison to local eating houses and some citizens, Game Warden Wood may carry the case further.

Fry lives on the Pool location and formerly camped and hunted on Prairie river. He confessed to Judge Brady htat he killed three deer in one day in September and several during November, all contrary to law, and that he brought the carcasses to town concealed in loads of hay and sold them.

Another Poacher Sentenced.

James Currie, a "jack," who lives in abandoned lumber camps, and has been holding forth near Dry lake, was another who fell afoul of Game Warden Wood. Currie was brought before Judge Brady yesterday afternoon charged with killing and selling venison here illegally. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to pay a fine of $50 and costs. In default he was taken to Duluth today to serve thirty days in the county jail. Currie admitted he "headlighted" deer as well as killed them out of season.

BRAINS ENTERED IN TOURNAMENT

Intellectual Contests in Virginia Schools, Along Athletic Lines.

Virginia, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Virginia public schools have inaugurated something which teachers believe will become popular and general, becoming known as "The Virginia Idea." Nothing of the kind has been tried in any school in the country, so far as the Virginia teachers know. Briefly stated, it is the athletic tournament idea applied to affairs intellectual and mental.

An arithmetical tournament, the first of the series, was held yesterday afternoon at the auditorium of the Roosevelt high school. Supt. Bliss got the idea from the many athletic tournaments which are held, particularly from the ski tournaments. Hearing so much about athletic torunaments, he conceived an intellectual tournament.

The plan was worked out in full, and probably the first ever held was the arithmetical event yesterday afternoon. Fourteen classes, comprising as many teachers and 600 pupils in the first and second grades, were the contestants. In the contests each class is a team, and the teacher is the captain. The class, together with the teacher, takes the platform or the stage and goes through a series of mental gymnastics, to demonstrate the efficiency, thoroughness and the alacrity pupils have attained. Judges observe the work of the class and score by the point system, 100 per cent indicating perfection. When one class is giving its exhibition or demonstration, the other contestants constitute the audience. Parents may also be invited and teachers and pupils from classrooms which are not in the contests. One feature of the idea is that the teachers and pupils are not advised when a tournament is likely to be called.

To Tackle All Subjects.

It is intended to have many tournaments, including every subject taught. With the various classes and the many subjects, it will be possible to have two tournaments a month. As the first was something of an experiment, there were few visitors. It is intended that parents and all friends of the city school children shall have an opportunity to attend. There is a time limit in which the teacher and her class may demonstrate their proficiency. The limit yesterday was eight minutes. Supt. Bliss may take charge of any of the competing classes and may select individuals from any class in order to make the tests thorough.

Future tournaments will include literature, geography, history—in fact, all subjects where the answers can be verbally given.

THREE LODGES WILL OFFICIATE AT RITES

PAUL KUEHN.

Eveleth, Minn., March 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Paul Kuehn, who died suddenly Tuesday, will be held from the residence on Adams avenue, Friday at 2 p. m. The Elks will have charge of the services assisted by the F. O. E., and Red Men societies, the deceased having been a member of all three societies. Mrs. Kuehn, her daughter, Mrs. Raney, arrived Wednesday evening. Dr. Thomas P. Raney will arrive in time for the funeral.

Many Eveleth Deaths.

Eveleth, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Grim Reaper has had an unusual harvest in Eveleth this week. The deaths so far have been Karl Kovonstrom, aged 17, on March 18, of heart trouble; Mary Christine Evenson, aged 36, wife of Charles Evenson, March 20, of cerebral hemorrhage; Margaret Kostelz, wife of Matt Kostelz, March 17; Paul Kuehn, aged 63, on March 20.

FAVORS STEREOPTICON IN MARBLE HIGH SCHOOL

PROF. R. G. KREUGER.

Marble, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Prof. R. G. Krueger, principal of the Marble schools, is strongly advocating the installing of a stereopticon in the high school, for educational purposes. He sees much merit in its use as an adjunct to the regular school paraphernalia.

NEED OF CEMETERY DISCUSSED BY CLUB

Gilbert Commercial Club Appoints Committee to Confer With Eveleth.

Gilbert, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Commercial club met Tuesday night in the village hall. About sixty members were present and the meeting discussed several topics of interest. The question of securing a cemetery for Gilbert was the most discussed and a committee was appointed to look over available sites and consult with Eveleth with a view if possible to have a cemetery which would serve both places. The committee appointed was H. P. Chinn, T. A. Flannigan, D. M. Mauser, C. M. Campbell and Rev. S. B. Shorts.

Give Patriotic Program.

Monday night a patriotic program was rendered at the Gilbert high school. Selections were rendered by the high school orchestra and band under direction of K. K. Tibbetts. Miss Margaret Ferguson sang the Stars and Stripes, assisted by a choir; Misses Johnson, Schumacher and Tracy, and Messrs. Newberry, Hursh, Tibbetts and Bowman. Miss Schumacher sang the "Star Spangled Banner." Homer Hursh gave a trombone solo and Miss Magdalene Ferguson gave two readings, one "The Gray Haired Vet," and Kipling's "Recessional." The speaker of the evening was W. J. Johnston, who gave a talk on the inner life of Lincoln. W. J. Wallou, Gilbert's Civil war veteran occupied a seat of honor on the stage. The entire program was very well received and about 400 people were present.

MANY WILL VISIT DULUTH SPECIAL

Farmers to Gather at Chisholm When Train From Zenith City Arrives.

Chisholm, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Chisholm Farmers' club is making preparations to have every settler in this vicinity come to Chisholm, April 6, when the Duluth Commercial club agricultural special will be here. The farmers will hold their regular monthly meeting in the forenoon and devote the afternoon and evening visiting the special.

At this meeting the club will decide upon which potato will be selected for seed purposes by the club. When Prof. Willson of the state university spoke here the first of the month he advocated that the members should select one certain kind of potato for seed purposes, thereby making a better market for their product. The prices paid for carload lots of mixed potaoes is from 20 to 35 cents less than a carload of one kind of potato of uniform size and it is this that the club desires to have done.

To Plant Same Potatoes.

All members will plant all or a certain part of their land with one kind of potato for the public market to be shipped away, while the mixed lots will be disposed off locally. The club will also make preparations for a July 4th celebration at Sturgeon lake twelve miles north of this city to which the clubs at Sturgeon and Bear River will join in. This gathering on our national holiday will serve to get every settler in this community together and a Western St. Louis county club will be attempted to be organized with several of the branch clubs.

TALKING BOYCOTT OF PHONE COMPANY

Chisholm Patrons May Use Drastic Measures to Bring About Change.

Chisholm, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The difficulty between the people and the telephone company appears to be farther from settlement than ever. The subscribers have petitioned for a central energy system instead of the bell ringing system. The company refuses to install that system unless the local line has 500 subscribers and otherwise shows an increase in business. A short time ago the telephone company made arrangements with the city council for the installation of an electric police alarm system and the contract practically was closed when the Commercial club stepped in and asked the council to defer action until the people could secure some definite answer as to their demands for a central energy system from the company. The contract has been held up and will not be granted unless some more definite answer comes from the telephone company to the effect that they will make the improvements.

G. A. French, district business manager of Duluth, and the range manager, F. E. Austin, of Virginia, were here yesterday attempting to have the difficulty adjusted satisfactorily to all concerned, but they accomplished but little, because the members of the Commercial club will not yield the point of substituting any other improvement in place of the "dropper" or central energy system.

May Remove Phones.

A list has been prepared but not as yet circulated with the idea of having all those subscribers who are in favor of the improvements demanded, agree to have their telephones removed until such a time as the company makes the improvements. Some of the members have advised against this move until the company officials have had time to present their case to the board of directors, which will be done in a short time. If no action is then taken to guarantee the request the petition will be circulated and no doubt a great many telephones will be ordered out. By having them removed from every business house and residence in the city, it is contended, the company will have to come to terms. Those in charge of such a movement contend that this action is and will become necessary as the company has never granted any of the petitions for improvements, and drastic measures must be taken to bring about results.

MINE SETTLEMENT IS NOW EXPECTED

Conference Between Superintendent Harrison and Stevenson Men Going On.

Hibbing, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—While there is no apparent change in the labor situation at the Stevenson mine where over 100 men are out because of a disagreement with the company over the workings of the new eight-hour regulation for labor in underground mines, it is reported today that an adjustment of the difficulty is probable at an early date. The men through their representatives conferred yesterday with Supt. Harrison of the Stevenson but no statement of what resulted is obtainable beyond the report a settlement is in sight. So far as known none of the underground miners in this district are dissatisfied and will make no trouble.

No Chisholm Trouble Expected.

Chisholm, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Agitators have been busy in the mines in this district attempting to incite the miners to strike against some provisions of the eight-hour rule recently put into effect in all under ground mines. The work is all contract labor and the miners claim that they cannot make the wages under the eight-hour rule they formerly got under the ten hour schedule. Since the strike the first of the week at Hibbing there has been more or less talk of a similar strike in this district, but cooler heads have succeeded in having the miners continue work and take the matter up with the companies for adjustment. There appears to be no danger of a strike here and the agitators are not allowed about the city or at the mines. Local officials refuse to comment upon conditions farther than to state that there is no occasion for alarm as there will be no strike and that the men are satisfied as far as they knew and no complaint has been made. The local union will present the matter to the head officers without going out on a strike is the opinion of those who manage things for the miners.

H. W. RICHARDSON, Local Forecaster.

Today is the day of the vernal equinox, the first day of spring. This morning the temperature was 2 deg. Moral: Spring is not always spring. Some times it is winter. The depressed mercury didn't get above 2 deg. yesterday and the wintry March winds blew briskly, carrying the imprecations of discomforted pedestrians on their wings. Fair and continue cold weather is the prediction for tonight, while the weather man holds out the kind hope that higher temperatures will be recorded tomorrow.

Ideal spring weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 6:09 and it will set at 6:22 this evening, giving twelve hours and thirteen minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Barometric depressions centered over the Upper Ohio valley and Arizona caused light to heavy falls of snow or rain over New England, the Lake region, Ohio, Upper Mississippi and Lower Missouri valleys and Southwestern states during the last twenty-four hours. Much colder weather prevails in South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas as a result of the high pressure centered over Nebraska. A "norther" prevailed last night and this morning in Oklahoma and Texas, and freezing weather extends southward to including Central Texas and most of New Mexico. At the Head of the Lakes the conditions favor milder temperature during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, March 21.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Friday:

Upper Michigan—Generally fair tonight and Friday.

Wisconsin—Fair tonight and Friday; colder in extreme southeast portion tonight; rising temperature Friday.

Minnesota—Fair tonight and Friday; rising temperature Friday.

Iowa—Fair tonight and Friday; rising temperature Friday and in northwest portion tonight.

North Dakota, South Dakota—Fair tonight and Friday; rising temperature.

Montana—Fair tonight and Friday; warmer tonight.

Shippers' forecast—Protect thirty-six-hour shipments of perishables against minimum temperatures 5 deg. to 15 deg. above zero in the Dakotas, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

PROVINSKI "WATCHED."

Popular Retiring Mayor of Bovey Given Token By Friends.

Bovey, Minn., March 21.—The passing of the old council Tuesday night was the occasion for an exchange of pleasantries during which ex-Mayor Frank Provinski was presented with a handsome gold watch, Attorney E. H. Bither making the speech. The man who has presided over the destinines of Bovey for five years was surprised and greatly pleased by the testimonial of his fellow citizens. The new council organized and is constituted as follows: Nels Lexen, president; B. M. Concklin, George Andrews and O. Thorpe, trustees; C. J. Franti, clerk; J. K. Jasper, treasurer; Gus Anders, constable. No committees for the new year were considered at this meeing, but the new president will do this at a special meeting. Judge Hanks of Duluth was present at the initial meeting and made a few remarks.

CONCUSSION OF BRAIN

Killed Postmaster Wickstrom of Cotton, Hurt in Runaway.

Eveleth, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The coroner's jury, empaneled by Deputy Coroner S. E. Helps of Eveleth, to look into the death of Abraham Wickstrom of Cotton, Monday, returned a verdict that he died of concussion of the brain resulting from a fall.

Wickstrom was found under his bob sled dead. The jury confirmed the belief that his team had run away and overturned the sled upon him. Wickstrom was postmaster and storekeeper at Cotton.

CRUELTY IS ALLEGED

By Wife of Wolf Farmer Who Seeks Divorce.

Virginia, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—After being the wife of Alex Zygovski for twenty-four years and being the mother of eight children, the oldest a daughter, aged 20, Mrs. Maryana Zygovski has filed suit for divorce from her husband in the district court here.

She asks possession of all the children and for alimony for her and their support. The Zygovski family lives in the farming district at Wolf Junction. Zygovski has been known as one of the best farmers of the community, but his wife alleges that as a husband he has been quarrelsome and violent and has threatened her and the children with death in various forms, and that they fear to live with him longer. Pending a hearing of the case in court, Zygovski is forbidden to dispose of or molest any of the property on the farm and is enjoined from disturbing the wife and children in their possession of the home. The Zygovskis were married in Germany in 1889.

FARMERS AROUND ELY MORE COMMON

Tillers of the Soil Beginning in Small Way Are Successful.

Ely, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The agricultural special train will be in Ely from 9 a. m. until 12 m. on Tuesday, April 2.

This section has always been looked upon as a mining section only, but during the past few years many settlers have gone out from this town and have made homes for themselves in the adjacent country. They have cleared a few acres, kept a few cows and a little poultry, and today many of them are making a good living on their farms. Many of the town people depend entirely upon these farmers for both butter and eggs during the whole year. During the winter months the neighboring farmers supply the town with wood, which in turn helps to clear the land for a larger production of farm products. The special will surely meet with a warm welcome from the residents of Ely and surrounding section.

Woodsmen Are Returning.

One of the first signs, if not the most accurate sign of spring, was seen Wednesday morning when about 100 men from the Covel and St. Croix lumber camps at Mountain Iron, passed through town. This is but the beginning of the annual break-up of camps. A good cut of logs is reported. At Winton the St. Croix Lumber company has made some improvements to its equipment in anticipation of a large year's work. The Swallow-Hopkins Lumber company is also expecting a big year's work.

Tomorrow the girls' basket ball team of the Ely high school will leave for Eveleth to play a return game with the girls' team of the Eveleth high school. The teams are evenly matched and a lively game may be expected. This game will close the season for the Ely girls.

A little more spice was injected into the political fight yesterday when Anton Kotchevar announced his intention of becoming a candidate for municipal court judge in opposition to the present judge, Thomas Jury.

TO PROVIDE CONCERTS.

Hibbing Commercial Club to Donate $50 Per Month for Music.

Hibbing, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Public concerts during the summer received substantial aid last night when the Commercial club decided to appropriate $50 per month along with the village council to defray the expense of furnishing music for the public during the warm weather.

The club also discussed street paving and agreed the village should get in touch with other range towns that are progressing along that line. The members of the village council who were expected last night for a joint meeting to discuss various subjects doing with the betterment of Hibbing did not put in an appearance. Nevertheless there was a fair attendance of club members and more interest shown in the proceedings.

TO BE REPRESENTED.

Two Eveleth Delegates Are to Be Sent to Duluth.

Eveleth, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two Eveleth churches will be represented at the convention of the Men and Religion Forward Movement in Duluth, Friday. The Presbyterian Sunday school has chosen Samuel M. Owens, Milton Johnson and William Uren, and the Methodists, John Hooper, Wilfred Johnston and Harry Roberts. The delegates will leave Friday on the noon train and return Sunday evening.

LUMBERJACKS ARE COMING TO EVELETH.

Eveleth, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Saari Bros. are breaking up their seven logging camps in the woods about Eveleth and the men are coming into town. They have employed from 300 to 500 men during the winter getting out logs, ties and pulp wood and have had a successful season. W. P. Veitch, who has been operating two camps and employing about 100 men, has also come in after a prosperous season.

TWO HARBORS CREAMERY WILL CEASE OPERATING.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 21.—The Two Harbors creamery association, which for the past two years has operated a plant here, has decided to discontinue. Scarcity of cows in this vicinity and lack of interest on the part of farmers is said to be responsible for the company's decision.

PACKERS' TRIAL IS NEARING END

Case May Be Given to the Jury on Friday Afternoon.

Chicago, March 21.—The defense in the trial of the ten packers charged with criminal violation of the Sherman law was scheduled to close its case today before United States District Judge George A. Carpenter. Attorney M. W. Borders addressed the jury at the opening of court in behalf of the Morris group of defendants, and was to be followed by Attorney John Barton Payne, representing Edward Tilden, president of the National Packing company. The final argument of counsel for the defense was expected to occupy the entire day.

Belief was general that the case, which has been on trial since Dec. 6, would be given to the jury tomorrow afternoon after Special Government Counsel Pierce Butler delivers the final argument for the government. The instructions of the court to the jury have been prepared ready to be given to the jury at the close of Attorney Butler's argument.

MOUNTED POLICE QUARTERS BURN

Lives of 150 Men Endangered in Fire at Regina, Sask.

Regina, Sask., March 21.—Scores of lives were endangered and there were many thrilling rescues in a fire which early today entirely destroyed the barracks of the Northwest Mounted police here and the drill halls, stables and other buildings.

One hundred and fifty men were asleep in the barracks when the fire broke out, and while it rapidly ate away the old building they made a wild scramble in night attire for safety, leaving all their valuables behind.

Many of the men were overcome by smoke and only heroic action on the part of their comrades saved their lives. An effort to rescue 200 horses from the burning stable was successful.

Regina is the headquarters of the mounted police for Western Canada.

EXPRESS COMPANY TO PAY.

Great Northern Will Settle Taxes on Its Minnesota Business.

St. Paul, Minn., March 20.—Following the recent decision of the United States supreme court that such portion of interstate traffic as is carried on in this state, is taxable by the state, the Great Northern Express company has notified Andrew Fritz that during the past five years, $129,671.58 might be duly assigned as earned in Minnesota, and it accordingly will pay a tax thereon of $7,780.20. The express companies, prior to the United States supreme court decision, refused to pay taxes on interstate gross earnings.

Best Way to Wash the Hair

(From Beauty Notes).

"Every woman either does or should dread to shampoo with soap. It is really bad for the hair, as the alkali destroys the luster and causes brittle, coarse, splitting, streaky hair. Washing the hair with soap only half cleanses it and produces but a temporary fluffiness.

"If one will wash their hair with a teaspoonful of canthrox dissolved in a cup of hot water they will no longer have any use for other shampoos. The scalp will be immaculately clean and the hair will dry quickly, taking on a brilliance and fluffiness that will last. Canthrox removes all dandruff, dirt and excess oil, and stops the itching at once. Nothing better can be used to make the hair beautiful and healthy.

GLEANED ALONG THE POLICE RUN

The police did not make a bad pick-up at all when they put Harry L. Thorpe, who tried to beg on the "deaf-mute gag" in West Duluth, and Dave Harris, his pal, behind the bars several days ago. Both pleaded guilty to vagrancy and they are serving sixty days each.

Thorpe is wanted in Minneapolis for the theft of a solitaire diamond ring, valued at $1,000, and other jewelry estimated at $500, which he is alleged to have stolen from his mother.

Harris was arrested in Superior in November, 1910, for trying to work the deaf-mute stunt. He looked and acted like a wooden Indian when awake, but during the night he was caught talking in his sleep.

Detective Mike Neary reached Duluth from the Mill City this morning, and if it can be arranged, he will take Thorpe back with him this afternoon or tonight to answer to the grand larceny charge. Detective Neary states that the jewelry was presented to Thorpe's mother by his step-father, Paul Buhler, a diamond broker and real estate dealer at Minneapolis. Thorpe is said to have taken the valuables from a jewel case which she kept in her room.

The police got a line on Thorpe through the arrest of Harris, who was not taken into custody until Thorpe had been in the toils for two days. Harris was wearing a small diamond stickpin which he said had been given to him by Thorpe. He also told them of a pawn ticket which Thorpe had in his pockets. Torpe strenuously denied all knowledge of the jewel robbery, but when the authorities found the pawn ticket in his coat he saw no avenue of escape and confessed, it is claimed.

Asked what he had done with the $1,000 ring Thorpe said that he had sold it for $55 to a stranger whom he had met in a pool room. He could not remember the purchaser's name. The stone is said not to be unusually large but of an exceptionally rare quality. Thorpe claimed to have disposed of most of the other jewelry in a similar manner. This included a set of diamond earrings, one ring with a pearl setting in a cluster of chipped diamonds, four diamond rings and the stick pin.

Harris denied that he had ever been arrested for any crime before. In police court yesterday afternoon he vigorously denied that he had anything to do with the begging cards which were being used by Thorpe. But through the Bertillon department it was ascertained that he was arrested a year ago last fall under the name of Fred Warner. It was then that he was "caught with the goods," giving himself away by carrying on an audible conversation while resting in the arms of Morpheus.

Harris is no novice and he can make a good sympathy plea. He cried for his liberty, shedding real tears as he sobbed for mercy. He declared that he could not bear to have his reputation ruined and that his folks would be heart-broken when they learned of his awful disgrace. But he did not make it "stick." The court set his case over two days to give the police an opportunity to investigate his claims. They found that he had given a fictitious home address in Minneapolis and that he is not unknown to the police of other cities.

Thorpe and Harris came to Duluth together from St. Paul, and had been rooming together in Duluth for some time before they were arrested.

The sympathy of the entire police department and of scores of friends is being extended to Patrolman John Link, who was taken to St. Mary's hospital yesterday afternoon for an operation upon his foot, necessitated by blood-poisoning in the member.

Some weeks ago he froze his foot while walking his beat on Lake avenue. It did not give him any trouble for some time, but a couple of weeks ago it began to pain him. Complications set in and he was obliged to stay at home. The foot grew worse in spite of treatment and yesterday it was determined to take him to the hospital.

Patrolman Link is one of the veterans of the local force, having been appointed sixteen years ago. He is known as "The Father of Lake Avenue," where he has been stationed almost steadily for a decade. He is recognized as one of the biggest-hearted as well as one of the most efficient officers in the department.

The police are looking for John McKenna, until a couple of days ago a well-known young man about town, and employed as a bookkeeper by a large horse dealer.

McKenna is wanted for passing two worthless checks. One calling for $58 was passed in John Lannigan's saloon at 415 West Superior street, and the other, for $37, was cashed by George Larsen, saloonkeeper at 408 West Superior street.

McKenna was well known in both places and the checks tendered by him were accepted without question.

Another of the endless chain of "easy marks" made his appearance at the police station yesterday. He had been swindled out of $65 by a plausible stranger who was looking for a chump who had more money than sense.

The victim was Adam Birner, a farmer boy from Wisconsin, who had saved about $70 after several months' work in the woods. He met the man who fleeced him, several days ago. The swindler chummed with him two days and had him hired to go to work for him in a nearby town at wages which made Adam feel that he would be a millionaire in less than a year.

After he had won his confidence the stranger, who said that his name was Amos Williams, induced Adam to cash a "check" for $65 for him. The "check" was a bogus note with $65 printed in large letters across the face of it. Adam can read and had he read the "check" he would have known in a second's glance that the paper was no good.

After "Williams" had secured the $65 he promptly disappeared. Adam waited a whole day for him to keep an appointment, and when he failed to show up it began to filter through his intelligence that he might have been ouncoed. Whereupon he went to the police station to find out. He found out in about two seconds when he had told his story.

Efforts to locate Williams have been futile. He has disappeared completely. Perhaps wiser, Adam has secured another job and has also left the city for parts unknown. But it can be said for him, that although he was "easy," he was also an easy loser, for he did not shed any unnecessary tears or bemoan his fate. He took his medicine without a whimper after he learned that he had been "stung."

The case of Adam, above noted, afforded a decided contrast to another which came to the attention of the police yesterday afternoon.

With tears in his eyes James Brelsford went to headquarters crying that he had been robbed of $35 by a woman stopping at the boarding house at 222 West Second street. Brelsford stated that he had gone to the place in search of a room. At the solicitation of a woman who met him at the door he said that he had accompanied her to a room and had remained there with her for some time. He claimed to have fallen asleep and that when he awoke he discovered that his roll had disappeared.

The woman was brought to the police station. She strenuously denied having stolen the money or having had any improper relations with Brelsford. There was no evidence against her and she was released.

Christ Gunnarson, proprietor of a pool hall at 401-3 Central avenue, West Duluth, was convicted in police court this morning of having allowed a minor in his pool hall. Judge Cutting told him that he would be lenient in this instance but warned him that in case of future convictions he will be dealt with severely. Gunnarson got off with the payment of a fine of $10 and costs. The complaint was sworn out by J. Mallory, deputy United States marshal, who stated that he had been obliged to take his 16-year-old son from the place several times.

A typical, old-time bunch greeted Judge Cutting when he ascended the bench this morning to dispose of the morning grist. It consisted of about thirty drunks and vags, the largest crew which has been up since the day after Christmas. Erick Lindberg, with one leg missing, was there with his crutches to answer a charge of having become voluntarily intoxicated. Frank Howard was minus his coat and stood up in his shirt sleeves. Jim Smith was without his boots, which he claimed had been stolen from him while he slept off his jag in the bull pen. Jack Bushey, with one good eye, admitted that he was without visible means of support. Bill Knox, with most of his teeth gone, begged to be allowed to go back to the poor farm. Gust Anderson, quite deaf in both ears, was given a chance to get out of town. Jim Babcock, shaking from the effects of a prolonged spree, got five days straight in which to get some of the booze out of him. Charles Sand, a chronic alcoholic and an old-timer, was up for the 'steenth time, and half a dozen others who are not strangers were among those present. All the new-comers were given suspended sentences on their promises to go to work, while the balance got varying sentences in the county bastile.

Harry Gray, a lumberjack, is in the toils, on suspicion of having relieved William Sullivan, a blacksmith, just out of the woods, of $130. Sullivan is too drunk to tell anything but a disjointed, incoherent story and he is also being held until he sobers up. It appears that Gray, Sullivan and two others retired in the same room in a Bowery hotel last night and as far as the police have been able to ascertain it will be hard to tell what became of Sullivan's wad.

John B. Lessard, arrested yesterday on a charge of having burglarized E. M. McEwen's grocery store at Proctor, asked for an examination when arraigned in police court yesterday afternoon. His hearing was set for 2 o'clock today. He will have his hearing at the same time.

When John Jacobson pleaded not guilty to drunkenness in police court this morning, Erick Lindberg, the one-legged cripple, leaned over and whispered loudly and earnestly to him. He evidently advised John to change his plea and stand a good chance of getting off easy, for in another minute John was on his feet declaring that he had made a mistake. He said that he had been quite drunk. John got the minimum, $3 or three days. Erick has been in before and was probably giving John the benefit of his experience.

The chemical from the headquarters fire hall narrowly escaped colliding with a delivery wagon of a downtown department store in — ing a run to a fire this morning. The horse, which was standing in front of the postoffice on the wrong side of the street, became frightened at the siren of the salvage wagon and ran into the middle of the street, dragging the weight. The chemical followed close behind the salvage auto and barely shaved the side of the delivery rig. The alarm came from 420 East Fourth street, where the family of J. Laden were moving in. Some papers which had been piled in the kitchen caught fire from contact wtih the kitchen stove. The loss was about $30. The house is owned by L. Simon.

TWENTY TEACHERS TO ATTEND GARDEN SCHOOL

Schools and Commercial Club to Co-operate in Agricultural Instruction.

George H. Maxwell May Visit Duluth Again in May.

Twenty teachers from as many schools will attend the garden school to be conducted by instructors from the state agricultural school at the Y. M. C. A. April 15 to 20, inclusive.

Supt. Denfeld attended a meeting of the agricultural committee of the Duluth Commercial club today and fell heartily in with the plan to have the teachers instructed so that they may be able to teach the children the rudiments of agriculture. He stated that arrangements will be made for the attendance of the teachers at the garden school and everything will be done to arouse an interest in agriculture in the children of the city schools.

Two or three schools did good work in encouraging agriculture last year but heretofore the movement has not been general. The teachers who attend the garden school will carry the lessons to the children and all schools will make a point of encouraging the children to take an interest in home gardens.

"This is a great step forward," said A. B. Hostetter, superintendent of agriculture of the Commercial club, today. "We can do effective work with the co-operation of the schools. Cities in other parts of the country are working along similar lines and good results have been accomplished."

George H. Maxwell, the apostle of homecrofting, will be invited to visit Duluth again. The agricultural committee today decided to ask Mr. Maxwell to come to Duluth in May and conduct another campaign for Duluth development.

Preliminary plans for making Duluth Day at the Minnesota state fair one of the big days of the week were made by the agricultural committee. The matter was referred to the publicity committee of the Commercial club with a recommendation that the day be extensively advertised and that Duluth take advantage of the opportunity for publicity work on behalf of the city.

Mr. Hostetter reported that about 1,200 children will take part in the agricultural work of the rural schools this year. Each child will be given two kinds of seed. The selections made were: Onions, 798; cabbage, 692; beets, 669; canning peas, 475.

The agricultural committee recommended that the club take a membership in the St. Louis County Fair association.

INTERESTS JOIN HANDS

Efforts Made to Block Diversion of Water at Chicago.

United States Army Engineers and Canadian Government Interested.

Commercial interests of the Great Lakes, United States army engineers and the Canadian government have joined hands to block the plan for obtaining a greater flow of water for the Chicago drainage canal and thus greater water power for the generation of electricity.

Even the lake marine men of Chicago are up in arms. They brand the application for greater water power for a drainage canal as an entire disregard of the marine interests of the lakes for the selfish purposes of water power promoters.

Gen. William H. Bixby, chief of engineers of the United States army, has sent to members of the committee on rivers and harbors of congress a chart showing the great reduction in lake levels in the last few years under normal conditions and pointing out the danger of a greater diversion of water into the drainage canal. He says:

"Under the circumstances, further diversion from Lake Michigan by the Chicago drainage district becomes more serious and its effect more to be feared than heretofore. Lake Superior can no longer be looked to by the sanitary district as a source of storage, as it will be at least two years before it can be brought back to its level of 1895, and any holding back of water of Lake Superior to restore its level by artificial means must necessarily mean a more rapid drop in the levels of Lakes Michigan, Huron, Erie and Ontario. The end of 1912 will probably see the level of these four lakes lower than in 1895-1896 (the lowest yet known since 1860) and more than 1.5 lower than their averages for the past fifteen years."

Diversion at Chicago.

Chicago is now authorized to divert 4,400 feet of water per second. As a matter of fact, it is said, the actual diversion amounts to 7,000 feet. Authorization for the diversion of 10,000 feet in all is asked, which would mean that actually from 15,000 to 20,000 feet would be diverted. The diversion would equal more than one-quarter of the total flow from the individual Three-I cities have waived in the matter.

The Mississippi Valley league is composed of Rock Island and Moline, Ill., and Cedar Rapids, Waterloo, Clinton and Iowa City, Iowa.

Wants Rock Island.

Chicago, March 21.—President Tearney said today that the Three-I league would retain its jurisdiction over Rock Island.

"The Three-I league acquired the right to play ball in Rock Island by purchase," said Mr. Tearney. "It is a valuable asset of the league and we do not feel inclined to give it up. The action of individual cities is an entirely different propostion.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

HAVE ORGANIZED BASEBALL LEAGUE

Staples, St. Cloud and Other Towns in Central Minnesota League.

Staples, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—St. Cloud, Little Falls, Royalton, Brainerd, Staples and Benton county have organized the Central Minnesota Baseball league. At a recent meeting held at Little Falls the following officers were elected: President, Joseph Doty, Royalton; treasurer, C. Sylvester, Little Falls; secretary, W. L. Cary, Little Falls. Directors—St. Cloud, H. J. Thielman; Little Falls, C. Sylvester; Brainerd, M. E. Ryan; Royalton, Joseph Doty; Staples, H. A. Anderson; Benton county, F. J. Wisniewski. The by-laws which govern the association are the same as those which govern most leagues. Each team has to deposit $50 as a guarantee of good faith, to be forfeited under certain conditions. The umpire is to be appointed by the board of directors, whose duty it will be to see that no umpire is appointed to duty in any game in which his home team contests. All disputes are to be referred to the directors.

Are Busy Filling Teams.

All cities are now busy securing support for their teams and preparing the grounds for the spring tryout. Staples has much available material to draw from. Of the former team for which Staples was noted there are a number of players left. These, together with the new players who now reside here, will make the trial for the team of considerable interest. Of all the teams in the league this city has the prospect of being able to turn out the best home team. Each team has the choice of having two men on the team who can be hired from out of town places. The remainder of the team must be home talent. This point will make the contest still more interesting, and is expected to help materially to the support of the team by the home fans.

TEARNEY OPPOSES NEW BALL LEAGUE

Rock Island, Ill., March 21.—Word was received here today from President Al Tearney of the Three-I baseball league that he would oppose the launching of the Mississippi Valley league, organized yesterday under the national agreement five-mile territorial clause although the individual Three-I cities have waived in the matter.

The Mississippi Valley league is composed of Rock Island and Moline, Ill., and Cedar Rapids, Waterloo, Clinton and Iowa City, Iowa.

Wants Rock Island.

Chicago, March 21.—President Tearney said today that the Three-I league would retain its jurisdiction over Rock Island.

"The Three-I league acquired the right to play ball in Rock Island by purchase," said Mr. Tearney. "It is a valuable asset of the league and we do not feel inclined to give it up. The action of individual cities is an entirely different propostion.

SCRAMBLE FOR SEATS FOR OLYMPIC GAMES.

Stockholm, Sweden, March 21.—Such a run has been made for tickets for the Olympic games from June 29 to July 22 that the 29,000 seats already have been disposed of and the committee has decided to add another grandstand with an additional 10,000 seats. Even with this it is believed there will be a lack of seating accommodations.

KLAUS AND DILLON READY FOR FIGHT.

San Francisco, Cal., March 21.—Jack Dillon of Indianapolis and Frank Klaus of Pittsburg finished hard training today for their twenty-round bout next Saturday afternoon, which will mean the elimination of one or the other from the list of middleweight championship claimants.

Both have trained hard. Klaus is down to 159, and expects to rest at his headquarters tomorrow. Dillon will confine himself to light road and gymnasium exercises.

Will Train in Chicago.

Wausau, Wis., March 21.—Manager Malloy of the Wausau team of the Wisconsin-Illinois league has decided that Chicago will be the training ground for the team, instead of Sterling, Ill. Pitcher John Pleh of Ederlein, N. D., has written President Bellis for a contract with the Wausau club. Clarence Panke of Flint, Mich., has signed a contract and will probably hold down an infield position.

OBITUARY

Robert Lyons, the national bank examiner who served as receiver for the Citizens' National bank of Oberlin, Ohio, wrecked by the late Cassie C. Chadwick several years ago, died in Washington, March 20. He was born in Cambridge, Ohio, and was 48 years old.

Rev. James A. Paige, aged 88, minister for sixty years and prominent in ministerial work in many cities of the United States, is dead at his home in Minneapolis, Minn., of pneumonia. He formerly was managing editor of the St. Louis Presbyterian and was commissioned hospital chaplain at St. Louis by Abraham Lincoln during the Civil war. He is survived by a daughter and two sons, one of whom is Prof. James Paige of the University of Minnesota.

FOR SAFETY OF MINERS

Government Car, With Corps of Instructors, Will Tour Ranges.

Men Will Learn How to Use New Life Saving Apparatus.

Petitions are being circulated among the miners of the United States Steel corporation's mines on the Mesaba and other ranges, which when signed by the miners, will result in the bringing to the Lake Superior ranges the special instruction car constructed by the Pullman company under the direction of the bureau of mines of the United States government, and operated at the expense of the government.

The object of the sending out of this car is that the men of the mines may be instructed in the use of the Draeger apparatus, the safety device that is patterned on the order of a diver's outfit. The car is really a traveling school of instruction. There are several of these cars, operated and maintained at the expense of the government, in the Eastern mining section, in the Pennsylvania and Illinois coal mining regions, for instance, where accidents have been much more frequent and much more deadly than has been the case on the iron ranges.

President W. J. Olcott pointed out today that it was the desire of the steel company officials to be prepared for any possible accident, and that thorough instruction given in the use of the Draeger apparatus by the men employed by the government, reduced the chances of fatalities to the minimum.

At the present time drills are being held at the steel company's mines, but under the instruction of the government men more proficiency can be acquired. In addition to the Draeger apparatus there is also the mulmotor, an invention that supplies oxygen to men overcome with fire and smoke, and many apparent victims have been resuscitated through the use of the instrument.

President Olcott expects that one of the government cars will be here some time in the present season. The car will make the tour of the various mines.

The Draeger apparatus is like a diver's outfit. It fits on the head and shoulders of the miner and will allow him to remain in smoke for hours. It has a storage battery and supplies the rescuer with light. Oxygen is supplied through the patent process.

Draeger stations have already been established by the Oliver Mining company at Hibbing, Ely, Eveleth, Ishpeming, Ironwood, Iron Mountain and Iron River. An expert has been selected to visit all of these stations with the view of educating and drilling all Draeger crews in the use of the new apparatus.

FARIBAULT SCHOOL IS ROUNDLY SCORED

State Board of Visitors Finds Much to Criticize in Deaf Institution.

St. Paul, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state school for the deaf at Faribault, was severely criticized in a report filed with Governor Eberhart today, by the state board of visitors.

A recent inspection disclosed, the report said, that the rooms are dirty, that beds are half made, the spreads being pulled up over the beds with the sheets and blankets beneath not made up, and the sheets on beds were found soiled from not having been changed frequently enough. The shower and tub baths, the report continued, were not clean and dirty soapsuds and soil were in evidence.

The school for the blind, the board found, needed fireproofing for the north and south wings, repairs in the kitchen, etc. A bill providing an appropriation for this work was introduced at the last session of the legislature, but was pruned.

Sick Patients Not Isolated.

The board found patients afflicted with contagious diseases at the school for feeble minded, placed in separate rooms where sheets dampened with antiseptics were hung before the doors to prevent the disease spreading. Recommendation is made that the cases be more isolated.

Much praise is bestowed on the state home for crippled children at Phalen, the report saying:

"We have only words of commendation for the institution as a whole, and but one suggestion. The approach to the building from the car tracks is very poor. In wet weather the mud is almost over the shoetop. A cement walk should be constructed from the car tracks to the institution. It is especially hard for little crippled children to be obliged to make their way through deep mud and wet, going to and from the institution."

SUN CROSSES THE EQUATOR

Today is the day on which the sun is supposed to cross the equator on its way north.

Old Sol started on his way north on Dec. 21, and was due to reach the equator today, making night and day of equal length. As a matter of fact Duluth is now enjoying more than twelve hours of sunlight. According to the weather bureau tables the sun rose this morning at 6:09 and will set at 6:32, making twelve hours and thirteen minutes of sunlight.

Security Trust Changes Name.

St. Paul, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hereafter the Security Trust Company of St. Paul will be known as the Capital Trust company. An amendment to its articles of incorporation was filed with the secretary of state this morning, making the change.

"WRECKS" WILL BE THE THEME

Railroad Men Will Discuss Plans to Make Travel Less Hazardous.

"Wrecks" will be the subject of an informal discussion by the members of the Northern Railway club at the next meeting to be held on the evening of March 22 at the Duluth Commercial club.

Dr. F. J. Patton will read a paper on "Drinking Water on Railroad Trains and Stations."

"Jimmie" Myron has a new collection of songs which he will try out on the members of the club.

The Normanna Male chorus and the Svea Glee club will render some musical numbers. It was at first planned to have the Shopmen's quartet from Proctor for the occasion, but the preliminary arrangements did not materialize.

There will be special trains from Two Harbors and Proctor.

"Wrecks" is a live subject among railroad men at the present time. All roads are trying to make their lines as safe as possible, and the discussion will be of great interest to all railroad men.

STATE GETS DEATH DUTY OF $34,974

St. Paul, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Inheritance tax of $34,974.10 was paid today on the estate of Johnston Livingston of New York, who died May 7, 1911. He owned 600 shares of Great Northern railway stock, 300 shares of Minnesota Mining stock and six shares of stock in a land company.

Draft for the amount was sent to C. L. Weeks, assistant attorney general, who handles the inheritance tax cases for the state. The payment is one of the largest the state has received.

WILL HAND OUT PLUMS

Board of Public Works Has Large Contracts to Let.

Will Open Bids for the Woodland Trunk Sewer.

Tomorrow morning the board of public works will open bids for the construction of the Woodland sanitary trunk sewer.

The competition will undoubtedly be keen, from present indications. Not only will figures be submitted by most of the leading contractors, but bids will be put in by a number of contractors from outside cities, namely St. Paul and Minneapolis.

The job will be one of the largest sewer contracts ever let in Duluth. The sewer will extend approximately from the end of the Woodland car line to the shore of Lake Superior, the outlet being at the foot of Thirty-third avenue east. The estimated cost of the work is $45,000.

The board will also open bids for supplies for the coming year. These include lumber, hardware, tools and other miscellaneous articles. The price of the lumber runs from $5,000 to $10,000 and the cost of the other supplies runs into several thousands of dollars.

It is expected that a large number of people will attend the meeting and it is not probable that the figures will be available until the afternoon.

FIFTEEN COUNTIES CARRIED BY TEDDY

Former President Still 11,078 Votes Behind Senator La Follette.

Fargo, N. D., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Col. Roosevelt Tuesday carried fifteen of the forty-nine instead of thirteen counties as reported yesterday, and the returns show that he is still 11,078 behind La Follette. The counties carried by Roosevelt are Burleigh, Dunn, Emmons, Foster, Hettinger, Kidder, Logan, McIntosh, Marcer, Norton, Pembina, Ransom, Richland, Sheridan and Stark.

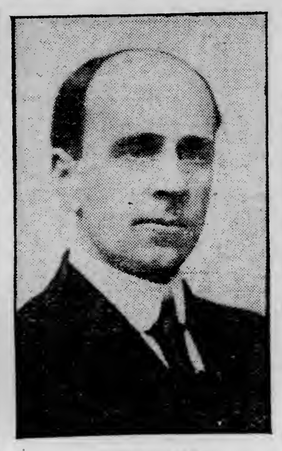
SUCCESSFUL CURLING SEASON COMES TO AN END

W. M. EVERED, President.



D. C. WAKEMAN, Secretary.

The Western Curling rink will close this evening for the year with the two final games of the Henricksen Jewelry event and the Burns Lumber company event. F. H. Wade's rink will meet Melvin Olson's rink in the Burns event and L. R. Clark will play W. M. Evered in the Henricksen event.

The present season has been a most successful one and the officers of the club are well pleased with the financial condition of the rink and the large growth in membership over the past year. During the membership campaign of last fall nearly 150 new members were added to the rolls of the club. The following are the trophy winning rinks for the year:

Bagley cup—Anderson, lead; Ehr, second; Getchell, third, and T. F. Wieland, skip.

West Duluth Commercial club cup—Kent, lead; Burns, second; Macauley, third, and Frank Ashley, skip.

Esterly cup—Brown, Jr., lead; Quinn, second; Dr. Keyes, third, and H. C. Brown, skip.

Union Match company's cup—Rood, lead; Raymond, second; Morgan, third, and Dr. W. E. Judson, skip.

Walter M. Evered, president, and D. C. Wakeman, secretary of the club, said this morning that the rink has enjoyed the best year since it was opened five years ago. The members scored successfully in the several bonspiels of the state, city and the Northwest.

Last evening Olson won from Clark in the Burns event, 14 to 6. The line-up of the rinks for the final games this evening is as follows:

Collier, Gilpin, Wakeman, Evered, skip, vs. Pond, Mallory, Scott, Clark, skip.

McDonald, Kilton, Wade, Jr., Wade, Sr., skip, vs. Wilkins, Lund, Gillinson, Olson, skip.

WAREHOUSE IS ASSURED

Organization to Be Completed at Meeting Monday Evening.

Business men of Proctor will hold a meeting Monday evening for the purpose of completing the organization of the Proctor Co-operative Warehouse association, to which nearly every business man of the village has subscribed. Preliminary steps for the organization were taken at a meeting held two weeks ago at the Commercial club of Proctor. Nearly $500 was raised at the meeting.

The proposed warehouse, for which the D., M. & N. railroad has already donated a site, has met with great favor among the farmers. It is the belief of the farmers, most of whom have an average of seventy-five acres under cultivation, that Proctor will become an important distributing point for potatoes.

At the meeting Monday the business men will appoint a representative to visit Rush City, Minn., for the purpose of securing information in regard to a warehouse there.

The business men are anxious to provide a place where farmers may store their potatoes, and wait for a good market, instead of being obliged to sell them for any price obtainable at the time they are dug. The farmers have no means whatever of storing their potatoes at the present time. The business men have pledged about $1,500 to the fund for the erection of the building, which brings the total up to about $2,000.

The following temporary officers were chosen at the meeting two weeks ago: President, Charles Miller, Munger; secretary, James Grady, Hermantown; committee on organization, Henry Norman of Midway, Otto Witte of Hermantown, and H. H. Peyton of Proctor; committee on plans, P. McCabe, F. G. Sugg and Henry Riley. A membership committee was also appointed, consisting of farmers of Midway, Hermantown, Munger, Adolph and Anne.

DULUTH INDUSTRIAL HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Nearly $50 was deposited this morning by the pupils of the Irving school with Mrs. Jensen of the First National bank. This brings the grand total up to $700. Mrs. Jensen received the deposits of the Ely school pupils this afternoon.

The members of the senior class are campaigning this week for a new curtain to be used on the stage of the school assembly hall. About $50 is required for the curtain and a candy sale is to be held tomorrow by the girls of the class to help increase the present fund.

* * *

"At the End of the Rainbow," the comedy chosen by the seniors as their class play, has been laid aside as having too complicated a plot and scenario for so small a stage as that in the Irving school. The members will probably choose "What Happened to Jones," which has already met with great favor among the students. The commencement music is being practiced three evenings a week under the direction of Miss Irene Foster.

One of the features of the cooking department this semester is the luncheons served to all the guests of the school. The lunches are prepared and served by the girls during class time and the visitors are well pleased with the innovation.

* * *

The freshman and the Eighth Grade Literary society will meet in debate Friday afternoon in the assembly hall of the school. The subject to be debated is: "Resolved, That Capital Punishment Is Just." The eighth grade students will uphold the affirmative of the question, while the freshman will support the negative.

IS FACING A BURGLARY CHARGE

Charles Lowe Accused of Entering West Duluth Tailor Shop.

Charles Lowe, accused of stealing several suit patterns from the John H. Erickson tailor shop, 307 Central avenue, on the evening of Feb. 17, is on trial before Judge Dancer and a jury in district court this afternoon. Lowe was indicted by the last grand jury on a charge of burglary, third degree.

The state claims Lowe, after having stolen the suit patterns sold one of them to F. Fischer, a bartender at Social Smith's saloon on North Third street, Superior, a few hours later. Fischer paid him $5 for it. On the stand today, Fischer and Erickson, the tailor, identified both the suit patterns and Lowe.

Warren E. Greene, first assistant county attorney, is prosecuting the case and Attorney Deitrich of Superior and Isaac Grettum of Duluth are defending.

W. C. T. U. DISCUSSES REFORMATORY WORK.

Mrs. C. R. Keyes of 705 North Fifty-seventh avenue west entertained the West Duluth branch of the Women's Christian Temperance union at her home this afternoon. "Penal and Reformatory Work" was discussed. Mrs. D. I. Gray was the leader for the afternoon. Mesdames A G. Macauley and William Towner assisted Mrs. Keyes.

The report of the West Duluth club committee was heard and the election of the officers to the new executive board of the club was also announced. Plans for the future were announced by Mrs. Keyes, who was elected president of the executive board at a meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Cars Are Delayed.

Traffic on the West Duluth and Aerial Bridge street car line was delayed for about forty-five minutes yesterday afternoon when an axle on one of the street cars broke when the car was near the corner of Central and Ramsey avenues. On close examination is was learned that there was a broken rail near the Central avenue turn, which is given as the cause of the accident. The car company sent a crew of men, who took the car back to the barns. Supt. D. C. Moore said this morning that the sudden cold snap the past few days was probably responsible for the breaking of the rail.

Church Societies Meet.

The Ladies' Aid Society and the Altar Society of St. James' Catholic church, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Kinnear place, held a joint meeting this afternoon in Gilley's hall. Following the business session a luncheon was served by the Mesdames J. D. Lowe, William Blaney, Jr., and A. McKeever.

West Duluth Briefs.

Floyd Jindy of St. Paul is visiting in West Duluth for several days as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Fancett, 306 North Fifty-eighth avenue west.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Westminster church will be entertained tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. M. C. Murray, 419 North Fifty-fourth avenue west.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the New Duluth Congregational church was entertained this afternoon at the home of Mrs. L. S. McKay.

Mrs. Betty Johnson of 434 North Fifty-seventh avenue west entertained the Ladies' Aid Society of the West Duluth Swedish Mission church at her home this afternoon.

Mrs. Hans Jacobson of 101 North Fifty-ninth avenue west entertained the Ladies' Aid Society of Immanuel's Norwegian Lutheran church at her home this afternoon.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the West Duluth Baptist church was entertained yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Little, 624 North Fifty-sixth avenue west.

Mrs. R. L. Lamphere of 4704 West Sixth street entertained the members of the Ladies' Guild of the Holy Apostles' Episcopal church at her home yesterday afternoon.

Watch repairing. Hurst, West Duluth.

MARINE

CONDITIONS UNCHANGED

More Ice in Great Lakes Than This Time Last Year.

Ice Fields on Lake Superior Are Still Very Extensive.

The reports from the regular and display stations of the weather bureau and the meteorological service of Canada indicate that there have been no material changes in the ice condition in any of the lakes.

The ice fields over Superior are very extensive and have not been moving much during the week; some open water is reported to the east of Two Harbors. In Michigan the ice fields have been driven to the south and west shore and caused considerable trouble for boats out of Chicago. There is considerable open water reported on the east shore from Holland north to South Manitou island. The straits are still solid.

The ice fields over northern Huron have moved north and west into the eastern portion of the straits and extensive open water spaces are reported to the east of Middle and Thunder Bay islands; to the south of this the fields are heavy and solid. St. Clair river is reported open as far south as St. Clair. The Detroit river is open from the north of Lake St. Clair to Sandwich point, also some open spaces at the Limekilns and at Ballard Reef. In Erie there has been very little change noted. In Ontario the fields over the eastern and central portions continue as extensive as were reported last week. The warm weather at the close of the week has honeycombed the ice to some extent in Erie and Ontario.

In comparison with last year there is more ice in all the lakes.

The details of lake conditions follow:

Lake Superior Details.

Duluth:Harbor ice is 36 inches in thickness; the field in lake extends beyond vision and averages about 29 inches in thickness.

Two Harbors: The thickness of harbor ice 20 inches and solid; the field extends westward to Duluth; open water to the eastward with small moving ice fields.

Bayfield: Harbor ice ranges from 26 to 30 inches in thickness; no change during week: ice at Sand island averages 24 inches.

Washburn: Bay is covered with ice ranging from 30 to 33 inches in thickness.

Ashland: The ice continues about 33 inches in thickness.

Ontonagon: Thickness of harbor ice 24 inches; some open water about 10 miles out.

Port Arthur: Harbor ice 34 inches in thickness; no open water visible from Thunder cape.

Fort Frances Canal: Thickness of ice inside breakwater 24 inches; heavily windrowed ice extends beyond vision.

Eagle Harbor: Harbor ice 30 inches in thickness; solid ice extends beyond sight.

Houghton: Thickness of ice 21 inches with no snow on top.

Portage Entry: The ice in river ranges from 8 to 12 inches in thickness and from 19 to 20 inches in Keweenaw bay for three miles out.

Baraga: Thickness of ice in bay 25 to 30 inches.

Marquette: Harbor ice 27 inches in thickness; no open water in sight.

Munising: Thickness of harbor ice 22 inches; no change during week.

Grand Marais, Mich.: Harbor ice 27 inches in thickness; narrow lanes of open water in sight from one to four miles off shore.

Whitefish Point: The bay ice averages about 28 inches in thickness and is solid. No open water in sight in the lake.

Sault Ste. Marie: Thickness of ice 25 inches, and solid.

CUT IN ORE RATE IS ANNOUNCED

Firm Said to Have Contracted for Season at 55 Cents.

Corrigan, McKinney & Co. have announced they have made season contracts for the transportation of iron ore from upper lake ports to lower lake ports on the basis of 55 cents from Lake Superior to Lake Erie, with an allowance of 15 cents for unloading. Such a rate would mean 40 cents net from Duluth, 35 cents from Marquette and 25 cents from Escanaba.

Soft coal shippers followed this announcement with a statement that they would not pay more than 25 cents for the transportation of coal if the rate on ore should generally be cut to the basis of 55 cents and 15 cents unloading charge.

The statement issued by the Corrigan-McKinney company covered two points; first they had contracted for the transportation of 1,000,000 tons of ore during the 1912 season; secondly, the rate. It was announced twelve companies had taken the ore but no names were mentioned. Every independent manager in Cleveland denied last last night he had accepted any of the ore although a few admitted it had been proffered at a cut rate of 55 cents, 5 cents under 1911, which they claimed they had refused.

"If the vessel managers are so desirous of obtaining cargoes they will accept ore cargoes from Lake Michigan at 25 cents net it is time they began carrying coal to Lake Michigan at 25 cents," a large coal shipper said last night. "We have no complaint to make about the 30-cent rate on coal but we shall refuse to pay more for the transportation of coal than is paid for ore. If the reduced rate is accepted generally we shall insist on 25-cent coal along the line.

"From what I know of the boat business some ships will be in the hole so deep next fall at these rates they will have to take the usual cure for losing companies. It is not the intention of my firm to drive good firms out of business. Rates will not be on a living basis if the freight rates are deliberately reduced below certain points."

An old, experienced ship owner and manager said last night that vessels of less than 7,000 tons would have to go to the dock if the ore rate is reduced 5 cents. While there are a large number of ships of 7,000 tons or more capacity on the lakes they would not be able to handle all the business that it is expected will be offered this year.

STEAMER IS CAUGHT IN ICE.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 21.—The Crosby line steamer Conestoga is either aground or stuck in the ice off Donges bay, about ten miles north of Milwaukee.

The steamer has a cargo of freight and a crew of twelve men aboard.

Company officials say the vessel is not in danger. Tugs have been sent to her relief.

RAILROADS

CAPITALIZING ITS WORKERS

Rock Island System Considers Its Employes as an Investment.

Chicago, March 21.—Officials of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad company are sending out to all employes a bulletin in which each individual is asked figuratively, to incorporate himself at a capital in accordance with his salary from the road, and make himself as valuable as other investments represented by a like capital.

"Say you earn $1,000 a year," states the bulletin. "At 4 per cent that is the yearly interest on $25,000. In other words the company capitalizes you at $25,000 and willingly pays interest on that sum for the use of your energy and faculties. You are thus capitalized for just about what a modern locomotive costs. You may not have as much pull, but you ought to have as much push. Remember that the locomotive can't add figures, nor run a typewriter, nor select and compile statistics. You can last a lot longer and run a great deal farther than the best engine ever built. Most of all, you can make yourself constantly worth more, while the locomotive is not worth a cent more than it was the day it was built.

"It rests with you. Make your $25,000 valuation climb to $30,000, to $100,000, to $500,000. Select your food with care. Treat decently the body on which your mind depends for its strength and sanity. Also feed your mind. Read, study and observe. Like the engine, you can't do your work unless you stay on the rails, and keep where the boss can find you. Just remember that no railboy ever found an engine in a saloon, dive, or other place of that sort."

GREAT NORTHERN OFFICIALS MEET

Cass Lake, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—A big meeting of minor officials of the Great Northern railway was held here yesterday. The meeting was called for the purpose of having the various officials meet and get in line with the policies to be inaugurated by Mr. Cannon, the new division master mechanic.

RAILROAD WANTS TO SPEND MONEY.

Port Clinton, Mich., March 21.—In trying to spend $1,500,000, the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway company is confronted by one of the strangest situations in the history of the road.

The company proposes to change its tracks through the corporation, eliminating a dangerous curve. The changing of this track means the crossing of streets that are at present not in touch with the railroad tracks. The result is that the railway company is suing the city for a right-of-way to cross the streets or to spend the $1,500,000.

This is one of the most important cases that has ever been tried in the courts of Ottawa county, of which Port Clinton is the seat.

GRAND TRUNK EXPLAINS REDUCTION IN WAGES.

Detroit, Mich., March 21.—The Grand Trunk railroad has issued a statement explaining the decrease in the wages of its conductors, brakemen and baggage men employed on branch lines. This decrease is to take effect on April 1, and amounts in some cases to $50 per month from the present scale. The statement shows that only 151 trainmen will be affected by the revision of the payrolls.

Indiscriminate general application of new rules and rates of pay granted by the road in 1910 and also in January of this year, the statement says, brought about inequitable and inconsistent results, some individuals on the light traffic branch runs receiving advances as high as 88 per cent, while the men on the main line heavy-traffic runs received much smaller increases. This condition, the road believes, works an injustice to the main-line employes and renders a readjustment necessary

ARTICLE IV.

The government of this corporation and the management of its affairs shall be vested in a board of three directors, and the following officers, to be elected by the board of directors from their number, to-wit: A president, vice president, secretary and treasurer. Any two offices in the company may be held by the same person except the offices of president and vice president.

The board of directors shall be elected at the annual meeting of the corporation and shall have full power to transact the business and manage the affairs of the company, and to define the duties of the other officers and agents of the corporation.

The annual meeting shall be held at the company's office in Duluth, Minnesota, on the third Tuesday in January of each year, at ten o'clock in the forenoon.

The names and addresses of the persons composing the board of directors and officers of the corporation until the first election shall be as follows:

Oscar Mitchell, W. D. Bailey and F. M. Emanuelson, all residing at Duluth, Minnesota, shall constitute the first board of directors, and until their successors are elected and qualified, the following persons shall constitute the officers of the corporation:

Oscar Mitchell, President.
W. D. Bailey, Vice President.
F. M. Emanuelson, Secretary and Treasurer.

ARTICLE V.

The amount of the capital stock of this corporation shall be Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000.00), divided into five hundred (500) shares of the par value of One Hundred Dollars ($100) each, and the same shall be paid in at such times and in such manner as the board of directors may determine.

ARTICLE VI.

The highest amount of indebtedness to which this corporation shall at any time be subject shall be Two Hundred Thousand Dollars ($200,000.00).

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, We have hereunto set our hands and seals this 16th day of March, A. D. 1912.

NOTICE OF SCHOOL BOND SALE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the School Board of School District No. 24, of St. Louis County, Minnesota, will meet on the 9th day of April, 1912, at 8 o'clock P. M., at the Blwabik High School in the Village of Blwabik, Minnesota, for the purpose of opening and considering bids for the purchase of One Hundred Twenty-five Thousand Dollars ($125,000) of the bonds of said District, to bear date April 1st, 1912: $14,500 to mature August 1st, 1917; $14,500 August 1st, 1918; $12,000 August 1st, 1919, and a like amount on each August 1st thereafter and including August 1st, 1926, with interest at a rate not exceeding Six Per Cent (6 per cent) per annum, payable semi-annually, on the First day of February and August of each year, except that the first installment of interest shall be from the date of said bonds to August 1st, 1912.

Bids must specify the rate of interest, be in the hands of the Clerk by 8 o'clock P. M. on said day, and must be accompanied by certified check payable absolutely to O. E. Everett, Treasurer, in the sum of Two Thousand Dollars.

All bidders must satisfy themselves as to the legality of the issue prior to the date of meeting.

The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

BY ORDER OF THE BOARD,
FRANK S. DANE,
Clerk.

CITY NOTICES.

PROPOSAL FOR PURCHASE OF CERTIFICATES OF INDEBTEDNESS—Notice is hereby given that the Common Council of the City of Duluth will receive sealed proposals at the council chamber in the city hall in said city at 7:30 o'clock in the evening on April 8, 1912, for the purchase of gold bearing coupon certificates of indebtedness against the Permanent Improvement Revolving Fund of the City of Duluth in denomination of $1,000.00, $500.00, $100.00 and $50.00 (excepting that where not inconsistent with the bids made they shall be in denominations of $1,000.00.)

Bids must be made for the taking of all such certificates of indebtedness which may be issued by the city of Duluth during the current year and the amount of which has been established by the Common Council as not less than $125,000.00 and not more than $200,000.00. Such certificates of indebtedness are issued pursuant to the amendment of the city charter adopted February 6, 1912, providing for the extending of assessments for local improvement in certain cases over a period not to exceed five years and providing for the issuance of such certificates of indebtedness for the Permanent Improvement Revolving Fund to enable the city to pay for such improvements in advance of the collection of the assessments. Such certificates will be dated at such times as may be decided upon by the Common Council between April 1st and December 31, 1912, it having estimated that most of them will be dated between April 1st and September 1st, 1912. Such certificates will become due approximately one-third on October 1, 1913, approximately one-third on Oct. 1, 1914, approximately one-third on October 1, 1915. Such certificates, unless otherwise bid for will bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum, payable semi-annually on the first days of April and October in each year according to interest coupons attached to each of said certificates, both principal and interest to be made payable in gold coin of the United States at the office of the City Clerk of the City of Duluth. If the bidder prefers, he may bid on the net interest basis on which he will pay par for the certificates instead of bidding on 5 per cent certificates. Said certificates to be paid for within ten days after notice that same are ready for delivery. The sale of said certificates will be awarded to the highest responsible bidder at a sum not less than par value thereof and interest accrued to date of delivery. All bids for said certificates shall be without condition or qualification.

Each bidder is required to file with the city clerk prior to 2 o'clock p. m. of said day, a certified check on or a certificate of deposit of a national bank, payable to the order of the city of Duluth, without condition for $1,000.00, or a good and sufficient bond in the said sum to be approved by the Common Council of said city and conditioned that the party making said bid will, if awarded the sale, take the certificates and pay for them according to the terms of said bid and the ordinance; and that in the case of failure so to do, the city of Duluth shall have the right to sue upon said bond and to recover the full face thereof, which shall be and in said bond shall be stated as being the sum agreed upon as liquidated damages in case of a breach thereof.

Said certificates and checks shall at 2 o'clock P. M. of said day be submitted by the city clerk to the city attorney for his opinion as to whether they conform to the conditions of the ordinance, and the bid of any person whose check or bond the city attorney shall deem to not be in legal form, according to the terms of the ordinance shall not be received unless such bidder shall have such check or bond corrected to meet the requirements of the city attorney or deposit a new bond or check duly approved by said attorney before 7:30 o'clock P. M. of said day.

In all cases of bids received and not accepted, the check or certificate received therewith shall thereupon be returned. In case said certificates are awarded to any bidder and the said bidder refuses to accept and pay for said certificates, or any part thereof, within (10) days after notice, oral or written, that same are ready for delivery, the said amount of the certificate of deposit or check so furnished to the city shall be retained by the city of Duluth, as its own, as and for liquidated damages for breach of the contract on the part of said bidder. In case any bidder furnishing such certificate of deposit or check shall take the said bonds, said sum shall be credited to him on account of the payment thereof. Each bidder must give his address, street and number.

The right to reject any and all bids is reserved to the city of Duluth.

Dated Duluth, Minn., March 19, 1912.

H. W. CHEADLE,
City Clerk.

D. H., March 21 and 28, 1912. D 1365.

Approved March 20, 1912.

By Alderman Phillips:

Whereas, the Island Creek Coal Dock company is about to erect an office building adjacent to the dumping ground at West Duluth and the owners of the property have given notice for the city to discontinue using said ground for dumping purposes,

Therefore, Resolved, That the health commissioner is hereby directed to select another location for such purpose.

Alderman Phillips moved the adoption of the resolution and it was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present on roll call.

Passed March 18, 1912.
Approved March 20, 1912.

By Alderman Jordan:

Whereas, the time has arrived when it is necessary for the city and the Street Railway company to consider carefully the question of extensions of the street railway lines beyond their present limits and

Whereas, there is a large territory immediately adjacent to the central part of the city lying between Hunter's Park and Duluth Heights inaccessible by reason of the lack of street car facilities and

Whereas, the natural lay of the country suggests the course which an extension or extensions of the street railway system must follow and

Whereas, it is the belief of this council that the city should cooperate with the Street Railway Company in laying out a system which will be of advantage to the city as well as to the advantage of the Street Railway Company.

Therefore, Resolved, That the city engineer is hereby directed to make the necessary survey and report to this council the most available road and the grades obtainable for the street railway line from Seventh avenue east and Eleventh street through Kenwood Park and to a connection with the Woodland line at or southerly from Victoria street and also beginning at the same starting point and running through or adjacent to Kenwood Park, through or adjacent to the poor farm, and to a connection with the street railway line at Duluth Heights.

Alderman Hector moved the adoption of the resolution.

Alderman Hicken moved to amend the resolution by adding to the end thereof the following:

Resolved further, That the Duluth Street Railway Company is hereby requested to furnish this council information as to its policy regarding extensions.

The amendment was accepted by the mover of the resolution and the resolution as so amended was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.

Passed March 18, 1912.
Approved March 20, 1912.

By Alderman Jordan:

Resolved, That the city treasurer is hereby directed to receive the amount of the original assessment as full payment of all assessments for the construction of Woodland sewer up to and including March 26, 1912.

Alderman Hector moved the adoption of the resolution and it was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.

Passed March 18, 1912.
Approved March 20, 1912.

By Alderman MacDonell:

Resolved, That the Democratic State Central Committee is hereby invited to hold their convention to be held for the purpose of selecting delegates to the national convention at Baltimore, Md., in the city of Duluth and the city does hereby tender to said committee the use of the Armory for such purpose.

Alderman MacDonell moved the adoption of the resolution and it was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.

Passed March 18, 1912.
Approved March 20, 1912.

By Alderman Gibson:

Resolved, That E. D. Nickerson is hereby granted permission to construct a sanitary sewer from his premises, lots 15, 16, 17 and 18, West Duluth, Sixth Division, across Fifty-fourth avenue west and along Central place to a connection with the sewer in Fifty-fifth alley west provided such work shall be done under plans and specifications prepared by the city engineer and under his supervision and inspection and further provided that said E. D. Nickerson shall first file with the Board of Public Works the customary agreement.

Alderman Gibson moved the adoption of the resolution and it was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.

Passed March 18, 1912.
Approved March 20, 1912.

REPORTS OF STANDING COMMITTEES.

To the Common Council:

Your Committee on Auditing and County Conference, to which was referred message by the mayor for distribution to proper committees, having considered said message, recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

OTTO KRUEGER,
H. P. CURREN,
Committee.

Resolved, That that portion of the mayor's message suggesting the acquirement of a strip of land along the lake shore from the canal to Ninth avenue east, and that portion referring to the providing of attendants at playgrounds, and that portion relative to band concerts, be referred to the Board of Park Commissioners.

That that portion recommending the establishment of milk depots and proper instruction relative to the preparation of milk for the feeding of infants be referred to the Committee on Drains, Sewers and Sanitation.

That that portion relative to the enactment of an ordinance providing for the construction of houses in a sanitary manner be referred to the Committee on Ordinances and Resolutions.

That that portion relative to the construction of fire halls and a roadway connecting the proposed hillside fire hall with the territory tributary thereto be referred to the Committee on Fire Department.

That that portion relative to light bonds, the securing of additional information from electrical engineers and the purchase of the present electric plant be referred to the Committee on Light and Water.

That that portion recommending that different standards of paving be adopted, and recommending the improvement of one substantial street for the full length of the city, be referred to the Committee on Streets, Alleys and Sidewalks.

That that portion recommending that a committee be appointed to interview the officials of the Minnesota Steel company to secure the completion of the steel plant, and to require the Duluth Street Railway company to extend its line to the steel plant, be referred to a special committee consisting of the mayor, the president of this council and the city attorney.

That that portion recommending that the city advertise its advantages, and that appropriation be made immediately for such purpose, be referred to the Committee on Finance.

Alderman Krueger moved the adoption of the resolution, and it was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.

Passed March 18, 1912.

To the Common Council:

Your Committee on City Property, Buildings and Ferries, to which was referred communication from the Board of Public Works submitting bill of Vernon J. Price & Co., architects, for plans and specifications for the repair and enlargement of the police station, finds that the work of making such alterations will necessarily be delayed on account of insufficiency of money in the permanent improvement fund. The bill is for 3½ per cent of the estimated cost. We are advised that this is a fair percentage to be paid under the existing circumstances. The committee recommends the adoption of the following resolution:

P. G. PHILLIPS,
J. A. MacDONELL,
CHAS. J. HECTOR,
Committee.

Resolved, That the bill of the Vernon J. Price company in the sum of $315.00 for preparation of plans for the repair and enlargement of the police station is hereby allowed, and it is hereby directed that an order be drawn on the permanent improvement fund to pay the same.

Alderman Phillips moved the adoption of the resolution, and it was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.

Passed March 18, 1912.
Approved March 20, 1912.

SITUATION IS MIXED

North American Markets Do Not Pull Together—Duluth Unchanged.

Flax Is Boosted By Bullish Foreign Cables—Trade Is in Futures.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 21.—The wheat situation was mixed on the North American markets today. It seldom happens that the markets act so independently of each other, when all are apparently affected by the same factors. Duluth brokers were conservative. Being in doubt what to do, they did very little of anything There was not a great deal of trading and both the Duluth May and July options were closed without being changed from yesterday. Minneapolis showed a little loss and Chicago a considerable gain. Winnipeg was pulled up by the strength of Liverpool, her customer. Duluth cash wheat closed ½c above the May price. Durum was unchanged. Flaxseed for all the options was 1¾c higher.

The wheat markets of North America today presented a peculiar situation. They did not pull together, although apparently they were affected by about the same factors. At noon today the wheat market at Duluth was unchanged from the closing figures of yesterday. Minneapolis was a little lower. Winnipeg was up a little and Chicago was very noticeably up.

The primary wheat receipts of today on the American markets were away ahead of those of a year ago. European cables, however, were for the most part higher. Liverpool closed ⅝d to ¾d higher. This was due largely to strong quotations from Buenos Ayres, where wheat this morning opened 1⅛c to ⅜c up; also to a worse aspect of the coal strike situation, and the fear that wheat shipments from Argentine to Great Britain would be seriously handicapped by the crippling of the ocean-carrying trade from want of coal. The firmness of Manitoba was also a factor in putting up Liverpool quotations.

Flaxseed Is Higher.

Flaxseed on the Duluth market was higher today, largely on account of higher foreign quotations. Winnipeg May at noon today was 1c higher at $1.89. Buenos Ayres last night closed at $1.81⅝ being ¼c up. There was little cash flaxseed trading on the Duluth market, but there was some activity of the May, on account of the use of the Duluth futures for hedging by flaxseed dealers of Minneapolis. At noon today Duluth May seed was up 1¾c and July was up 1¼c.

Duluth	2	3
Minneapolis	25	5
Winnipeg	12	6

Foreign closing cables: Liverpool, wheat ⅝@⅞d higher; corn, ½d higher; Paris, wheat ¾@1¾c higher; flour, ¾c higher; Berlin, wheat ½@⅝c lower; Antwerp, wheat ⅝c higher; Budapest, wheat ⅜c higher.

Cars of Canadian bonded grain received today: Wheat, 137; oats, 21; barley, 1; flax, 3; total, 162. These are not included in the receipts of the tables above.

Owing to the slowness in the demand for linseed oil, the linseed cake market has been quite firm, though rather dull. If oil were selling in large quantities, a great deal more would be manufactured, and there would consequently be a much larger output of the cake. It is not the demand for the cake, but the shortness of the supply that keeps the price firm. The same condition has strengthened the linseed oil meal market. Minneapolis has been quoting $32.50 for March shipment of linseed cake and $25 per ton for linseed meal.

Argentine weekly wheat estimates: This week 4,000,000 bu, last week 3,712,000 bu, last year 4,622,000 bu. Corn, this week 225,000 bu, last week 9,000 bu, last year 161,000 bu. Harvesting of corn is impeded, owing to the scarcity of labor.

A report from a leading brokerage house of Chicago gives low figures for the condition of wheat in Tennessee, Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. The figures indicate excessive winter killing. Except in the extreme northern part of the district, the ground is still frozen, and snow and ice cover a large part of the fields, and there has been no growing weather anywhere. Advices show emphatically that the general impression among farmers is that wheat east of the Missouri river is badly hurt, but the impression grows out of the character of the winter. Ordinarily at this date there has been sufficient growing weather to give a line on the strength of the plant and root, but this year there has been no chance yet for definite knowledge. The firm opinion is that the situation is bad, but it must be taken for what it is, simply an opinion based on weather experience.

Duluth car inspection: Wheat—No. 1 northern, 4; No. 2 northern, 13; durum, 1; No. 3, 1; no grade, 1; winter, 1; total wheat, 21, last year 3; flax, 7, last year 3; oats, 5, last year 3; barley, 2, last year 8; total of all grains, 35; on track, 32.

Minneapolis reported a very good demand for cash wheat, with the mills good buyers of the top grades. Four sales were reported moderate.

Clearances: Wheat, none; flour, 5,000 bbl; wheat and flour equal to 33,000 bu; corn, 25,000 bu; oats, 25 bu.

Primaries: Wheat—Receipts, today 412,000 bu, week ago 493,000 bu, year ago 296,000 bu; shipments, today 273,000 bu, year ago 211,000 bu. Corn—Receipts, today 379,000 bu, year ago 772,000 bu; shipments, today 469,000 bu, year ago 324,000 bu.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Is Stronger on News From England and Argentina.

Chicago, March 21. — Belief that Argentine shipments would turn out to be much lighter this week than had been looked for tended to put strength today into wheat. The less favorable outlook for early settlement of the coal miners' strike in Great Britain acted in a similar direction. There was an unexpected increase, however, in receipts at Minneapolis. Furthermore, apprehension regarding possible crop damage to fall sown wheat disappeared owing to a forecast of warmer, fair weather instead of the severe cold snap which it was feared might follow last night's blizzard. Opening prices were ½c to ½c higher. May started at $1.02 to $1.02¼, an advance of ¼c to ½c but reacted to $1.01⅝.

The price went yet lower. Export sales which led to a rally proved too small to cause a rise much above last night's level. The close was steady with May ⅛@¼c net higher at $1.01⅞@1.02.

Corn weakened under free selling due to notions that necessity for unusual feeding of farm animals ought soon to end. Buying was only scattered. May opened the same as last night to ½c higher at 71⅝c to 71¾c and then sagged to 71¼c.

Statements that Eastern distributors had enough corn en route to keep them busy two months caused a further decline. The close was steady, but ⅜c off for May at 71¼c.

Plenty of oats were on sale from the outset. May started unchanged to a shade up at 53⅜c to 53⅝@53½c and declined to 53@53¼c.

A big advance at the yards lifted provisions, but the market later eased off as a result of determined selling on the part of pit traders. Initial transactions were 2½c to 5c higher with July delivery $18.90 for pork, $9.82½ to $9.85 for lard, and $9.45 to $9.47½ for ribs.

New York Money.

New York, March 21.—Money on call steady, 2¾@5 per cent; ruling rate, 2¾; closing bid, 2¾; offered at 2½. Time loans firmer: 60 days, 3¼@3½ per cent; 90 days, 3½; six months, 3¾. Close: Prime mercantile paper, 4@4½ per cent; sterling exchange, steady with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.84.10 for sixty-day bills and at $4.87.35 for demand; commercial bills, $4.83½; Mexican dollars, 47c; government bonds steady; railroad bonds steady.

Cotton Market.

New York, March 21. — Cotton opened steady at unchanged prices to an advance of 1 point, but eased off under realizing and local selling with prices during the middle of the morning some 5 to 7 points lower.

The weather showed rather less precipitation in the South and the last twenty-four hours than expected, but the official forecast was very unsettled with rain and lower temperatures in the eastern belt.

This seemed to be attracting some demand, but the offerings were heavy and the market was very nervous and unsettled owing to rumors that some of the biggest longs were reducing their lines.

Spot closed quiet, 10 points lower; middling uplands, 10.55; middling gulf, 10.80; sales, 400 bales.

Futures closed steady; bids: March, 10.32; April, 10.29; May, 10.38; June, 10.43; July, 10.49; August, 10.48; September, 10.46; October, 10.53; November, 10.55; December, 10.59; January, 10.54; February, 10.53.

Chicago Livestock.

Chicago, March 21.—Cattle—Receipts, 4,000; market steady to strong; beeves, $5.15@8.65; Texas steers, $4.50@5.85; western steers, $5.00@6.85; stockers and feeders, $4.25@6.50; cows and heifers, $2.40@6.75; calves, $5.50@8.00. Hogs—Receipts, 14,000; market 25c to 30c higher than yesterday's average; packers holding off; light, $7.25@7.60; mixed, $7.30@7.65; heavy, $7.30@7.75; rough, $7.30@7.40; pigs, $5.10@7.00; bulk of sales, $7.50@7.65. Sheep—Receipts, 14,000; market steady, 10c up; native, $4.00@6.00; western, $4.50@6.25; yearlings, $5.50@8.85; lambs, native, $5.50@7.50; western, $6.25@8.10.

London Stocks.

London, March 21.—American securities opened steady and about unchanged from yesterday's New York closing. Prices advanced on light covering during the first hour of trading, and at noon the market was steady with values ranging from unchanged to ½ above parity.

STOCKS LOSE ADVANCES

Average of Prices in Morning Highest Since Last November.

Traders Who Figured Reaction Was Long Overdue, Sold Freely.

New York, March 21.—Opening changes in the stock market were chiefly in the specialties, National Biscuit advancing ¾ with a similar gain for General Electric while Denver & Rio Grande preferred advanced a full point. Amalgamated Copper, Utah Copper and American Smelting all opened at fractional gains. The market leaders, such as United States Steel and Reading, were unchanged while Union Pacific made an initial decline of ⅜.

The market wavered a trifle in the first hour under profit-taking and short selling. Trading was in large volume, dealings in United States Steel being especially extensive. That stock added to its gain of yesterday and more material advances were scored by Lehigh Valley, Atchison, American Smelting and the Tobacco issues. In the special class, American Can preferred advanced to a new high record. There were general recessions from the top before the end of the hour.

Reading, Union Pacific, Lehigh Valley, Amalgamated Copper, American Smelting and a few specialties made further improvements in the second hour.

Smelting's rise was in response to the company's favorable report for 1911 and the strength of the coppers probably resulted from the tone of the European copper market. American Can and American Sugar were the features of the special class, American Can preferred selling beyond par for the first time in its history.

The average of prices in the active group this morning constituted the highest level since last November. Activity somewhat reduced by midday at which time Reading was selling at 159½,the highest figure of the year.

Bonds were steady.

Traders who figured that a reaction was long overdue sold freely and prices reacted one-half to one point. The Hill and Harriman stocks showed distinct heaviness, and manipulation was not effective in sustaining some of the industrials. Trading became dull on the decline. American Smelting was purchased heavily and touched 80¾ on the announcement of another advance in the price of metal. London dealt on a large scale in this market, with purchases amounting to about 25,000 shares.

Special stocks were pushed up energetically including Lehigh Valley, which crossed 166. The rest of the list was inclined to go off but there was very little pressure at any point and the action of the market was deemed natural in view of the recent pronounced rise.

The market closed steady. Stocks poured steadily under cover of the bulge in Lehigh Valley to 167. Eventually Lehigh Valley itself also broke ground, resting over a point. Elsewhere most of the day's improvement was cancelled. Great Northern preferred, Northern Pacific and Union Pacific sold a point below yesterday's closing and United States Steel ½. Before the close short covering pulled up the list a trifle and there was a renewed demand for some of the metals.

COPPER STOCKS STILL CLIMB

Active Shares Still Show an Upward Trend—Metal Goes Higher.

Although the general stock list of New York made rather a weak close today, coppers for the most part either held their own or made advances. Amalgamated, Calumet & Arizona, Giroux and North Butte all showed gains at the close, compared with the close of yesterday, though they did not close quite as high as they were at noon. The copper metal market of London was still bullish. Today both spot and futures closed higher, spot copper being 3s 9d up and futures 5s up.

Gay & Sturgis today received from Hall at Boston the following closing copper letter: "The market is acting very well, indeed. It opened with renewed strength and very active. There was considerable profit-taking in the recent active issues, which is in perfect keeping with a healthy bull market. We have had a very strong market for the past week and a reaction is due. Believing we are in for a good broad trading market, we would buy the better class stocks on all reactions, especially Amalgamated. The local market is broadening every day."

Paine, Webber & Co. received the following closing letter from Foster at Boston: "The market continued active and strong again today and the trading seems to be more genuine. Amalgamated reached a new high level of 77¾, which was quickly followed by more strength and activity in Copper Range, North Butte, Calumet & Hecla, Osceola and other producing companies. After the noon hour there was considerable profit-taking on the fear of tightening in call money along the line, but the closing was fairly strong with the feeling confident of ultimately higher prices. New York reports the metal on a firm 15c basis with small sales for export in June at 15¼c. The British coal strike still hangs in the balance, with prospects good for settlement next week. We believe it still safe to buy the coppers on any reaction."

MILK RATES WILL BE CUT

Duluth Firm Wins Its Case Against Great Northern Express Company.

Rates on milk from points in Minnesota to Duluth will be materially reduced by the Great Northern Express company, as a result of a decision made today by the Interstate commerce commission.

In the case of the Bridgeman-Russell company of this city against the Great Northern Express company, the commission has directed the express company to restore the old rates on milk which were effective prior to May 1, 1911.

In May, 1911, the Great Northern Express company raised its rates on milk about 33 1-3 per cent over the rates which had been in force for many years. The company put into force the same rates which had been ordered for cream.

The cream rate was considerably in advance of the old rate, making the new rate about one-third larger. The Bridgeman-Russell company contended that the milk was less valuable than cream, the risk less, and that the rate should be about 75 per cent of the cream rate.

The local firm also cited to the interstate commerce commission cases in which the Minnesota and Wisconsin state railroad and warehouse commissions had held that the rate on milk should not be more than 75 per cent of that charged for cream.

Under an amendment of the federal law of 1910 it is the duty of the common carrier to bear the burden of proof on any advance made after that date. The commission, in ruling on the present case, held that the express company had failed to justify any advance. F. W. Sullivan appeared for Bridgeman & Russell.

NEWSPAPER CONFERENCE

Planned at Wisconsin With Several Noted Speakers.

Madison, Wis., March 21. — The project of holding a national newspaper conference here July 29 to Aug. 1, under the auspices of the extension division of the University of Wisconsin has taken definite form.

William T. Stead, editor of the London Review of Reviews; Melville E. Stone, general manager of the Associated Press; William Jennings Bryan; William Allen White, editor of the Emporia Gazette; Fremont Older, editor of the San Francisco Bulletin; and Norman Hapgood, editor of Colliers Weekly, are among those who have promised to attend and to participate in discussions of the live issues of American journalism.

Mr. Stone will take a negative point of view in speaking on the topic, "Can the Impartiality of the News-Gathering and News-Supplying Agencies Be Fairly Challenged?"

The purpose of the conference is to face the question, "Are newspaper and magazine writers free to tell the truth; if not, why not, and what is to be done about it?" The question will be analyzed at the conference from various viewpoints.
